2. Instruments of sasine to be entered and recorded.
3. May be recorded at any time, but the date of the presentment to be the date of the infefment.
4. In case of error or defect, another instrument may be recorded.

6. Forms of the precept and instrument of sasine.
8. Precept from Chancery to be issued to notaries upon payment of retour duties and casualties.—Fees to be paid to sheriffs and sheriff clerks for a limited period.
7. Forms of burgage sasines to continue as at present.
8. Instruments of resignation ad remanentiam regulated.
9. Instruments of resignation in favorem abolished.
10. Interpretation of Act.
11. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient to simplify the form and diminish the expense of obtaining infestment in heritable property in Scotland:—

It is Enacted,

- I. That from and after the 1st of October 1845, it shall not be necessary to proceed to the lands in which sasine is to be given, or to perform any act of infestment thereon, but sasine shall be effectually given therein and infestment obtained by producing to a notary public the warrants of sasine and relative writs, as now in use to be produced at taking infestment, and by expediting and recording in the general register of sasines, or the particular register of the sasines applicable to the lands contained in the warrant of infestment, in manner hereinafter directed, an instrument of sasine, setting forth that sasine had been given in the said lands, and subscribed by the said notary public and witnesses, according to the form and as nearly as may be in the terms of Schedule (B.) hereto annexed; and such form of infestment shall be effectual, whether the lands lie contiguous or discontinuous, or are held by the same or by different titles, or of one or more superiors, or whether the deed entitling the party to obtain infestment be dated prior or subsequent to the present Act, or whether the precept of sasine therein be in the form heretofore in use, or in the form authorized by the present Act.
  - II. That from and after the said 1st of October every such instrument of sasine shall be recorded in manner heretofore in use with regard to instruments of sasine, and the keepers of the registers of sasines are hereby required to receive and register the same accordingly; and such instrument of sasine, being so recorded, shall in all respects have the same effect as if sasine had been taken and an instrument of sasine duly recorded according to the law and practice heretofore in use.
  - III. That from and after the said 1st of October every such instrument of sasine may be competently and effectually recorded at any time during the life of the party in whose favour such instrument has been expedited, but the date of presentment and entry set forth on any such instrument by the keeper of the record shall be taken to be the date of the instrument of sasine and infestment.
  - IV. That in case of any error or defect in any such instrument of sasine, or in the recording thereof, it shall be competent of new to make and record an instrument of sasine, which shall have effect from the date of the recording thereof, as if no previous instrument or instruments had been made or recorded.
  - V. That in all deeds containing a precept of sasine such precept may be in the form and as nearly as may be in the terms of the Schedule (A.) hereto annexed, and the instrument of sasine on any such deed shall be in the form and as nearly as may be in the terms of the said Schedule (B.) hereto annexed, which precepts and instruments of sasine respectively shall be as valid and effectual as the precepts and instruments of sasine heretofore in use.
  - VI. That where infestment is to be completed under a precept issuing from the office of Chancery, which precept has hitherto been directed to the sheriff of the county in which the lands or some part thereof lie, such precept shall, after the said 1st of October, be addressed to any notary public: Provided always, that such precept shall be null and void unless the instrument of sasine thereon be recorded in the general register of sasines, or the register of sasines applicable to the lands therein contained, before the first term of Whitsunday or Martinmas posterior to the date of such precept, without prejudice to a new precept being issued as heretofore, and that before such precept is issued from Chancery the retour duties and casualties due to the Crown shall be paid to the proper officer there, who shall account to the Exchequer for the same in like manner as the sheriffs were wont to do; and the same officer shall also receive at the same time certain fees on behalf of the sheriffs' sheriffs substitute, and sheriff clerks of the counties in which the lands lie, and on which sasine would have been taken according to the form heretofore in use, and to whom such officer shall account for the same, in place of the fees which they have heretofore been in use to receive, but such fees shall be paid only during the existence of the respective interests of the present sheriffs, sheriffs substitute, and sheriff clerks, in their respective offices; and the Lords of Council and Session are hereby authorized and required, by an act or acts of sederunt, to regulate and determine the amount of the fees to be so received on behalf of each sheriff, sheriff substitute, and sheriff clerk, having due regard to the existing interest of each.
- And after reciting that it is not hereby intended to make any alterations in the law with regard to instruments of sasine and instruments of cognition, and sasine of subjects held burgage, or by any similar mode of tenure known and effectual in law, excepting as after specified:—
- It is Enacted,
- VII. That the forms and modes of registration of these instruments shall continue the same as at present, excepting only that the same shall be valid and effectual, if attested by the town clerk as a notary, without the addition of his docquet, and by the witnesses, and that the delivery of symbols may lawfully be given, either on the ground of the subjects as heretofore, or within the council chamber of the burgh by delivery of a pen.

VIII. That instruments of resignation ad remanentiam shall be written in the same form as at present, but it shall be unnecessary for the notary public to adhibit his long docket to such instruments; and further, that all resignations ad remanentiam may be accepted by the superior himself, or on his behalf, by his known agent for the time, or by any person having a formal commission for that purpose.

And after reciting that instruments of resignation in favorem, as separate instruments intended merely to connect the procuratory with the charter of resignation, are now rarely used in practice, and are wholly unnecessary:—

It is Enacted,

IX. That from and after the said 1st of October the same shall be and are hereby abolished: Provided always, that the deduction of titles required by the Act of the Parliament of Scotland made in the year 1693, intituled, 'Act anent Procuratories of Resignation and Precepts of Seisin,' to be made in such instruments, shall from and after the date of this Act be made in the charter of resignation.

X. That in the construction of this Act the words "notary public" shall be held to mean a notary public in Scotland duly admitted and practising there; the word "deed" shall be held to include any warrant or document upon which sasine may follow; and the word "lands," or the words "heritable property," shall be held to include houses, fishings, mills, minerals, patronages, teinds, and in general all heritable subjects or rights in which infestment may be taken; and all words in the singular number shall be held to include a plurality of persons or things; and in general this Act shall be construed in the most liberal manner, so as to accomplish the objects thereby intended.

XI. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

CAP. XXXVI.

AN ACT to continue for Five Years and to amend the Acts for authorizing a Composition for Assessed Taxes.

(21st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Assessments for the year ending 5th April 1846 on persons compounding under this Act to remain to the same amount for the term of five years; and compositions under former Acts may be renewed for the like term.—Form of contract of composition.
2. Articles kept for trade or by persons in partnership, or to be let for hire, not to be compounded for.—Enumeration of articles to be compounded for.
3. Persons assessed for the year ending the 5th of April 1846 may compound on the amount assessed in that year, paying an additional duty of 5l. per cent.
4. Persons who have compounded under former Acts may renew their compositions under this Act.—Duties to be paid on renewed compositions.
5. The additional duty of 10l. per cent. granted by 3 & 4 Vict. c. 17. to be charged on the composition under this Act.
6. Persons who, since compounding, have increased their establishments more than double, or who have compounded on a less amount of duty than they ought to have done, not to renew their compositions, but may compound de novo.
7. Persons who have compounded under former Acts giving notice of reduction in their establishment not to renew their compositions, but may compound de novo.
8. Persons having diminished their establishment during their residence abroad and those persons residing abroad not to compound.
9. Persons having compounded and reduced their establishments may compound de novo on the assessment of 1846.
10. Persons who keep taxable articles not included in a renewed contract of composition may compound for the same by a separate contract.
11. Compounders entitled to the like privileges of increasing establishments, &c. as under former Acts.—Exceptions as to certain descriptions of dogs.
12. Persons compounding for servants, carriages, and horses at the higher rates of duty entitled to keep free of duty servants, carriages, and horses chargeable at lower rates.
13. Persons assessed or having compounded for a carriage at a lower rate of duty entitled to substitute for it in their composition contract a carriage at a higher rate.—Persons having compounded for a carriage at a lower rate of duty entitled to set up under their composition a carriage chargeable at a higher rate, on payment of the difference of duty.
14. Compositions with persons afterwards succeeding to estates on the death of any person, or on marriage, and increasing their establishments beyond a certain extent, to cease, with power to compound de novo.
15. Composition of contracts of married women to cease.
16. Commissioners and officers acting in the execution of the Acts relating to assessed taxes to execute this Act.—Powers and provisions of former Acts to remain and to be applied to the compositions under this Act.
17. Persons intending to compound or to renew any composition to give notice thereof, together with a statement of the articles of composition.
18. Persons assessed in places other than where they reside to deliver certificates of assessments to the surveyor.
19. Surveyor to examine notices of intention to compound or renew compositions, and to deliver the same with his certificate to the commissioners.
20. Errors or mistakes in compositions may be amended.
21. Composition contracts not liable to stamp duty.
22. Act may be amended this session.

By this ACT,

After reciting that by virtue of several Acts of Parliament, divers persons have compounded for their assessed taxes in Great Britain for a certain time limited by the said Acts respectively, and their contracts of composition have been from time to time renewed or continued for a further term under and by virtue of several other Acts passed for that purpose, and such contracts will expire on the 5th of April 1846: And that it is expedient to relieve such persons who have so compounded as aforesaid, as well as others who may be willing to compound under the provisions of this Act, from an annual assessment for a further term herein limited;—

It is Enacted,

1. That the assessments made or to be made for the year to end on the 5th of April 1846, under and by virtue of the several Acts now in force, in relation to such of the duties of assessed taxes as may be comprised in any composition to be entered into under this Act, shall severally be and remain to the same annual amount in respect of every person who shall compound for the same under this Act for the term of five years, to be computed from the said 5th of April 1846; and the several compositions entered into under any former Act or Acts, and now in force, may, in respect of such of the said duties as are herein enumerated and allowed to be compounded for, be renewed under this Act for the like term of five years, to be computed as aforesaid, in the manner and subject to the terms, conditions, and exceptions herein prescribed; and every contract of composition to be entered into or renewed under this Act may be made according to the form set forth in the Schedule to this Act annexed, mutatis mutandis, or according to such other form as the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes shall provide in that behalf, and shall specify the number of servants, carriages, horses, and other articles of the establishment upon which such composition shall be made or renewed as aforesaid.

STAT.—VOL. XXIII.

II. Provided and enacted, That no composition shall be entered into or renewed under this Act in respect of any carriage, horse, or other article kept for the purpose of trade, or let or used for hire, or assessed or charged upon two or more persons jointly or in partnership, nor for any duties of assessed taxes other than the duties on the following articles forming the establishment of the person so compounding and retained, employed, kept, and used for his own use, and not for or to the use, benefit, or profit of any other person; (videlicet,) the duties on servants mentioned in the Schedule marked (C.) No. 1. and No. 3. of two several Acts, respectively 48 Geo. 3. and 52 Geo. 3. and the reduced duty granted by an Act, 59 Geo. 3. on under-gamekeepers; the duties on carriages mentioned in the Schedule marked (D.) No. 1. and No. 2. of the said Acts respectively, and the several reduced duties granted by an Act, 1 Will. 4. upon carriages with four wheels of less diameter than thirty inches, and drawn by ponies not exceeding thirteen hands in height, and upon carriages with four wheels and drawn by one horse only; and also the duties on horses mentioned in the Schedules respectively marked (E.) No. 1. and (F.) No. 1. of the said respective Acts, 48 Geo. 3. and 52 Geo. 3. whether such horses are subject to the rates mentioned in the said Acts, or to any reduced duty by any subsequent Act; and the reduced duty granted by two several Acts, respectively 59 Geo. 3. and 4 Geo. 4. upon horses not exceeding the height of thirteen hands, used for the purpose of riding or drawing carriages; and also the duties on race horses granted by an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4.; and the duties on dogs mentioned in the Schedule marked (G.) of the said respective Acts, 48 Geo. 3. and 52 Geo. 3.; and the duties in respect of using or wearing hair powder mentioned in the Schedule marked (I.) of the said Act, 48 Geo. 3.; and also the duties in respect of using or wearing armorial bearings or ensigus mentioned in the Schedule marked (K.) of the said last-mentioned Act; and every such composition which shall comprise any other duty or duties than the duties hereinbefore enumerated, and allowed by this Act to be compounded for, shall be void and of no effect in respect of such other duties; and all such other duties shall be assessed and charged according to the laws in force relating to assessments, notwithstanding any such composition.

III. That every person, not having compounded under the said former Acts, who is or shall be duly assessed for the year ending on the 5th of April 1846 to the duties chargeable under the Acts relating to assessed taxes, may compound for the said duties in respect of the articles comprised in such assessment and herein enumerated for the said term of five years hereby limited, on payment of the same amount annually as is or shall be assessed on him for the said year ending as aforesaid in respect of the said articles herein enumerated, together with an additional annual duty of 1s. for every 20s., and after that rate for any greater or less sum than 20s. of the said amount so assessed, but no fractional part of 1d. of the said additional duty shall be payable.

IV. That every person, except as hereinafter is excepted, who hath compounded under the said former Acts for the duties of assessed taxes by any contract now in force may renew such composition as to the duties on the articles herein enumerated and allowed by this Act to be compounded for; and the commissioners of the division in which such person shall reside shall renew such composition under the provisions of this Act, whether the same was entered into with the commissioners of the same division or of any other division; and the amount of duty charged and now payable on the same articles respectively comprised in the said former composition, together with the additional per-centage rate or several additional per-centage rates of duty also charged therein under the said former Acts in respect of the said articles, shall form the aggregate amount on which the following additional rates of duty shall respectively be computed and charged for the renewal of such composition under this Act; (that is to say,) where the person who hath compounded as aforesaid hath increased his establishment of servants, horses, carriages, or other articles upon which such composition hath been made, but to such an extent only that the duties chargeable thereon under an assessment would not exceed by more than one-fourth the total amount of the sum now payable on such contract of composition, there shall be payable annually a further additional duty of 1s. for every 20s., and after that rate for any greater or less sum than 20s. of said aggregate amount; and where such person hath increased such his establishment beyond the extent aforesaid, but so that the duties chargeable thereon under an assessment would not exceed double the sum now payable on such contract of composition, there shall be payable annually a further additional duty of 2s. for every 20s., and after that rate for any greater or less sum than 20s. of the said aggregate amount; but no fractional part of 1d. of the said respective additional duties shall be payable under this Act: Provided always, that where the person who hath compounded as aforesaid hath not increased such his establishment so that the duties chargeable thereon under an assessment would exceed the total amount of the sum now payable on his contract of composition, no additional rate of duty shall be payable under this Act for the renewal of such composition.

V. Provided and enacted, That the additional duty of 10l. per centum granted and now payable under an Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 17, intituled, 'An Act for granting to Her Majesty Duties of Customs, Excise, and Assessed Taxes,' shall be computed and charged upon and shall be payable over and above the gross aggregate amount of all the duties charged by this or any former Act or Acts upon or in respect of any contract of composition made or renewed under this Act.

VI. That no contract of composition shall be renewed under this Act with any person who, since entering into such contract hath increased his establishment of servants, carriages, horses, or other articles upon which such composition hath been made, so that the duties chargeable on such establishment, under an assessment for the year to commence from the 5th of April 1846, would amount to more than double the sum now payable under such contract, nor with any person who hath compounded on a less amount of duty than ought to have been included in such composition; but nevertheless it shall be lawful for any such person, in either of the cases aforesaid, after he shall have made a bond fide return of the greatest number of servants, carriages, horses, and other articles of his establishment, according to the laws in force relating to the assessed taxes, in order to an assessment thereon for the year to commence from the 5th of April 1846, and shall be duly assessed for that year, to compound de novo on the amount so assessed in respect of the articles herein enumerated, together with the additional duty chargeable on contracts of composition entered into under this Act.

VII. Provided and enacted, That no person who hath compounded under the said former Acts, and who hath given or shall give notice in this present year in pursuance of the said Acts of his intention to discontinue any part of his increased establishment of servants, carriages, horses, or other articles in the manner provided by the said Acts, shall be allowed to renew his former contract of composition, or to enter into any new contract of composition under this Act, except upon the amount of an assessment to be made on a bond fide return of the greatest number of servants, carriages, horses, and other such articles as aforesaid kept or used or employed by him in the year commencing from the 5th of April 1845, together with the additional duty chargeable thereon under this Act, in the same manner as if such person had not compounded under the said former Acts, notwithstanding the said notice, or anything contained in the said former Acts or in this Act.

VIII. Provided and enacted, That no composition shall be entered into under this Act with any person who shall have resided out of Great Britain before the passing of this Act for a temporary purpose only, and who shall be assessable to the said duties, for the year ending the 5th of April 1846, to a less amount than he was assessed before his departure from Great Britain, nor shall any composition be entered into or renewed with any person who shall be residing out of the United Kingdom.

IX. That if any person having compounded under the said former Acts shall have reduced his establishment so that he may be chargeable with a less amount of assessed taxes for the year commencing from the 5th of April 1846 than the amount of duty compounded for, and shall by reason thereof be desirous of waiving the said composition, and of compounding de novo, it shall be lawful for him so to do, upon giving notice in writing of such his intention to the surveyor of taxes for the district in which such person shall reside, on or before the said 5th of April 1846, and annexing to such notice a full, true, and complete return or list of the greatest number of articles chargeable with duty kept and retained or employed by such person under the 5th of April 1845, so that an assessment may be duly made for the year to commence from the 5th of April 1846 on all the articles chargeable for that year; and it shall be lawful for the commissioners to enter into composition de novo with the person giving the notice aforesaid, upon the amount of such assessment as aforesaid, with the additional duty chargeable thereon under this Act, as if such person had not compounded under the said former Acts.

X. That where any person who hath compounded under the said former Acts, and shall renew such composition under this Act, shall have kept or employed or used any taxable articles of a description allowed to be compounded for under this Act, but of a different description from those included in such his former composition, and for which articles he is or will be liable to be assessed for the year ending the 5th of April 1846, it shall be lawful for such person, upon being duly assessed for such articles not included in the renewed composition, to compound for the same by a separate and distinct contract, on the same terms and in the like manner as any person who hath not compounded under the said former Acts may enter into an original contract of composition under this Act.

XI. That every person entering into or renewing any composition under this Act shall be entitled to the like privileges of setting up or retaining, and keeping, using, or employing any additional articles of the same description, and chargeable under the same schedule and number of the schedule, or with the same or a lower rate of duty as the articles compounded for composing his establishment, and to and for his own use but not otherwise, as the persons compounding under the said former Acts are now by law entitled to, and shall be exempt from all assessments on such additional articles of his establishment during the term mentioned in such composition, save and except that no person who shall compound or renew any composition under this Act for any dog chargeable with a less rate of duty than 14s. shall be entitled to keep free of duty any hound, pointer, setting dog, spaniel, terrier, or lurcher; nor shall any person who shall have compounded for any dog or dogs other than hounds, and not for any hound, keep free of duty any hound; nor shall any person who shall have compounded for any less number of hounds than ten keep free of duty any additional number of hounds; neither shall any person keep free of duty any greyhound, unless he shall have compounded for a greyhound; in all which excepted cases, as well as in all cases where articles of any description excluded from composition by this Act shall be kept, retained, employed, or used, assessments and further or increased charges shall be made; and the penalties which may be incurred under any of the Acts relating to assessed taxes shall and may be sued for, prosecuted, and recovered according to the provisions of the said several Acts as fully and effectually as if no composition had been made or renewed under this Act.

XII. That it shall be lawful for every person who shall enter into or renew any composition under this Act in respect of any male person employed in any of the capacities described in and chargeable with duty under the said schedule marked (C.) No. 1. of the said respective Acts 48 Geo. 3. and 52 Geo. 3. to retain, keep, and employ free of duty any other male person or number of male persons employed in the same capacity, or in any other capacity chargeable with the same or any lower rate of duty, and allowed by this Act to be compounded for; and it shall be lawful for every person who shall enter into or renew any composition as aforesaid in respect of any carriage of whatever description chargeable with duty, and allowed by this Act to be compounded for, to set up, keep, and use free of duty any other carriage or number of carriages of the same description, or of any other description chargeable with the same or a lower rate of duty, and allowed to be compounded for as aforesaid; and it shall also be lawful for every person who shall enter into or renew any composition as aforesaid in respect of any horse chargeable with duty under the Schedule marked (E.) No. 1. of the said respective Acts to keep and use free of duty any additional number of horses chargeable with duty under the same schedule, or any horse or horses chargeable with any lower rate of duty, and allowed to be compounded for as aforesaid.

XIII. That where any person intending to compound under this Act is or shall be assessed for the year ending on the 5th of April 1846 in respect of any carriage with four wheels, and drawn by one horse only, or any carriage of whatever description chargeable with the same rate of duty as the last-mentioned carriage or a lower rate, and also where any person intending to renew any contract of composition now in force hath by such contract compounded for any such carriage as aforesaid, and where any such person in either of the cases aforesaid, after the 5th of April 1845, shall have set up, kept, or used, or shall intend to set up, keep, or use, any carriage chargeable with a higher rate of duty than that for which he shall have been so assessed or hath compounded as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for him, if he shall think fit, to compound or to renew his composition under this Act for a carriage at such higher rate, upon giving notice thereof in writing to the surveyor of the division in which he shall reside within the time herein limited for giving notice of intention to compound, and thereupon such carriage at the higher rate of duty shall be substituted in the contract to be entered into under this Act for the making or renewal of such composition for and in lieu of one such carriage at the lower rate; and where any person who shall have entered into any contract for the making or renewal of any composition under this Act in respect of any carriage with four wheels, and drawn by one horse only, or any carriage of whatever description chargeable with the same rate of duty as such last-mentioned carriage or a lower rate, and such person at any time after the entering into such contract shall be desirous of setting up and keeping under such composition any carriage chargeable with a higher rate of duty, such person shall give notice thereof to the surveyor of the division in which he shall reside one calendar month at least before setting up or keeping or using such carriage chargeable with the higher rate of duty; and the said surveyor shall transmit such notice to the clerk of the commissioners acting for the said division, and such clerk shall cause to be indorsed upon each part of the contract of composition, and to be signed by two of the said commissioners, a certificate of such notice, and of the additional duty to be paid on such contract in that behalf; (that is to say,) there shall be payable thereon annually, during the remainder of the term of composition, the difference between the rate of duty chargeable on one such carriage which shall have been compounded for as aforesaid and the rate of duty chargeable on the carriage intended to be set up, kept, and used as aforesaid, together with the several additional per-centage rates of duty payable under the said contract, to be computed upon such difference; and such additional duties shall be payable for the whole year, commencing from the 5th of April next preceding the date of such indorsed certificate, and shall be paid during all the remainder of the term of composition by half-yearly instalments, and be collected, levied, and recovered in like manner as if the same had been comprised in the body of the said contract; and after such notice, and the indorsement of such certificate as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the person compounding as aforesaid to set up, keep, and use any such carriage as aforesaid, with the like privileges and immunities during the remainder of the said term as he would have been entitled to if he had originally compounded in respect of such carriage chargeable at the higher rate of duty.

xiv. That every composition entered into or renewed under this Act with any person hereinafter described shall cease and determine at the respective times hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,) if any person who shall compound or renew any composition under this Act shall afterwards come into possession of any estate, real or personal, or become entitled to the rents or profits of any estate, real or personal, upon the death of any person, whether by descent, devise, bequest, gift, or settlement, or under the statute for the distribution of estates of intestates, and shall thereupon or afterwards begin to keep any greater number of servants, carriages, horses, or other taxable articles of the description comprised in such composition, whereby the establishment of the person compounding, shall be increased, so that the duties which would be chargeable thereon under an assessment, if no such composition had been made, would exceed by one-fourth or more the amount of the duties payable under such composition, then and in every such case the composition entered into or renewed under this Act by any such person hereinbefore described shall cease and determine on the 5th of April next after any such increase of establishment shall take place; and if any person shall intermarry after entering into or renewing any composition under this Act, and shall by such marriage come into the possession or to the use or enjoyment of the rents or profits of any estate, real or personal, belonging to his wife before marriage, whether upon such marriage the husband shall acquire any interest in law or equity in such estate or not, or whether the said estate shall remain in or be vested to the sole use of the wife or not, in case the husband shall, upon or after such marriage, retain or keep any servants, carriages, horses, or other articles of the description aforesaid kept by or belonging to his wife before marriage, or in case the wife shall, after such marriage, retain her former establishment or any part thereof, or in case the husband or wife shall, upon or after such marriage, begin to keep any other servants, carriages, horses, or other articles of the description aforesaid, in lieu of the like articles of the establishment of the wife before marriage, so that the husband, if no composition had been entered into, would have been assessable to an amount of duty exceeding by one-fourth the amount of the duties payable under such composition, then and in such case the composition entered into or renewed under this Act by any such person so intermarrying as aforesaid shall cease and determine on the 5th of April next after such marriage shall take place, or such increased establishment shall begin to be kept: Provided always, that in all the several cases in which the composition is determined and made to cease by this Act for any of the respective causes aforesaid it shall be lawful for every such person as aforesaid, after he shall have made a bona fide return of the greatest number of servants, carriages, horses, and other articles for which he shall be chargeable with any duty of assessed taxes, in order to an assessment thereon for the year commencing on the 6th of April next after the determination of such composition, and upon being duly assessed for that year, to compound de novo for the remainder of the term limited by this Act then to come and unexpired on the amount so assessed on him in respect of such of the said articles as are allowed to be compounded for under this Act, together with the additional duty chargeable thereon under this Act, and as if such person had not before compounded.

xv. That no contract of composition shall be entered into or renewed under this Act with any married woman, and that every such contract which shall be entered into or renewed with any unmarried woman who shall afterwards marry shall cease and determine on the 5th of April next after her marriage.

xvi. That the several persons who for the time being shall be commissioners for putting in execution the Acts relating to assessed taxes shall be commissioners for putting in execution this Act, and the powers herein contained or referred to, in all and every the respective counties, ridings, divisions, shires, and stewardries, cities, boroughs, cinque ports, towns, and places in Great Britain; and the several assessors, collectors, surveyors, inspectors, and other officers for the time being appointed or to be appointed to put into execution the said Acts shall respectively be assessors, collectors, surveyors, inspectors, and officers to put in execution this Act within the limits of their respective divisions, districts, and places to which they are or shall be appointed; and the respective commissioners and other persons authorized by the said former Acts to contract and agree for compositions for assessed taxes, or to do or perform any other matter or thing for carrying the said Acts into execution, shall respectively contract and agree for the compositions to be entered into or renewed under this Act, and shall do and perform all such other matters and things as are required to be done and performed in the execution of this Act within the limits of their respective jurisdictions; and all powers, authorities, rules, regulations, directions, clauses, penalties, matters, and things contained in any former Act or Acts relating to assessed taxes or to compositions for assessed taxes, and now in force, shall severally and respectively be construed and deemed to apply to the compositions to be made and renewed respectively under this Act, and shall, so far as the same shall be consistent with and shall not be superseded by the express provisions of this Act, be observed, applied, enforced, and put in execution with relation to the compositions to be made and renewed respectively under this Act, and for the raising, levying, paying, and accounting for the monies to arise under this Act, and for the prevention and punishment of fraud, imposition, and evasion in relation thereto, as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as if such powers, authorities, rules, regulations, directions, clauses, penalties, matters and things had been herein repeated and specially enacted with reference to the compositions respectively to be made and renewed under this Act.

XVII. That every person intending to compound under this Act shall, on or before the 5th of April 1846, in England, and on or before the term of Whitsunday in the same year in Scotland, deliver or cause to be delivered, free of charge, to the surveyor of taxes for the division in which such person shall reside, a notice in writing in such form as shall be provided by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes in that behalf, declaring the intention of such person to compound, which notice shall be signed by such person (or by some authorized agent on his behalf residing in such division, and whose place of residence shall be specified in such notice) in the presence of one of the assessors or collectors of the said duties for the same parish or place where the person intending to compound shall reside, or in the presence of such surveyor, who respectively shall subscribe his name thereto as attesting such signature; and every such notice shall bear date on the day of signing the same, and shall contain a full, true, and complete return or list of the greatest number of servants, carriages, horses, and all other articles of his establishment chargeable with duty upon which he shall be entitled to compound under this Act, and which have been kept, retained, or employed by him at any time during the year commencing from the 5th of April 1844; and every person intending to renew his former composition under this Act shall, on or before the respective days or times hereinbefore limited for the delivery of such notices as aforesaid, deliver or cause to be delivered, in like manner, to such surveyor as aforesaid, the contract of his former composition, or a true copy or certificate thereof, under the hands of any two of the commissioners acting for the division in which such contract was entered into, together with a notice in such form as shall be provided by the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes in that behalf, and signed and attested in the manner hereinbefore directed with regard to notices of intention to compound, declaring the intention of such person to renew such former composition, and contain a full, true, and complete return or list of the greatest number of servants, carriages, horses, and other articles of his establishment chargeable with duty which shall have been kept and retained or employed by such person at any time during the year commencing from the 5th of April 1845.

XVIII. That every person who shall be assessed for any servants, carriages, horses, or other taxable articles, for the year ending the 5th of April 1846, in two or more divisions in Great Britain, or who shall be assessed for that year in a different division from that in which he resides, and who shall be desirous of compounding under this Act, shall deliver or cause to be delivered, in manner aforesaid, to the surveyor of taxes to whom he is by this Act required to give notice of his intention to compound, a certificate under the hand of the surveyor of the division, or of each division in which he shall be so assessed as aforesaid, containing the particulars of such assessment in every such division, according to such form as shall be provided by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes in that behalf.

XIX. That all such notices and contracts, or copies or certificates of contracts, and certificates of assessment, by this Act directed to be delivered to the surveyors of taxes by persons intending to compound or to renew any composition, may respectively be retained in the hands of the said surveyors respectively until the expiration of two calendar months after the delivery thereof; and every such surveyor shall carefully and diligently inspect and examine every assessment relating to the persons so applying to compound or to renew any composition as aforesaid, and every contract of composition entered into under the said former Acts by any such persons respectively, and also any notices which may have been delivered by such persons under the said Acts to discontinue any increased establishment set up under any such former contract; and after such examination thereof every such surveyor shall deliver all such notices and contracts, or copies or certificates of contracts, and certificates of assessment, to the clerks of the respective commissioners authorized by this Act to contract for such compositions, and for the renewal of such former compositions; and such surveyor shall also certify to the said commissioners either his satisfaction with the notices delivered in such cases, or his objection thereto, and the grounds of such objection, and the amount of duty on which every such composition ought to be made or renewed; and no composition shall be entered into or renewed in any of the cases so objected to until a full and complete return shall be made of every article chargeable with duty on which the composition ought to be made under the provisions of this Act; and every composition entered into or renewed contrary to the provisions of this Act shall be void and of no effect, and the person entering into or renewing the same shall be liable to assessment and to the charge of the respective surveyors, according to the provisions of the Acts in force relating to assessed taxes, as if no composition had been entered into or renewed.

XX. Provided and enacted, That where by any error or mistake the just amount of duty shall not be duly computed or inserted in the contract of composition, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, by certificate under the hands of any two or more of them directed to the commissioners of the division by whom such contract shall have been made or allowed, to certify such error or mistake, and to direct the same to be amended or a new contract made and executed in such manner as may seem to the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes to be expedient to obviate such error or mistake, and conformable to the true intent and meaning of this Act; and the commissioners to whom such certificate shall be directed shall cause such contract to be amended or a new contract to be entered into accordingly.

XXI. That no contract for the making or renewing of any composition under this or any former Act shall be liable to any stamp duty.

XXII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

33. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 21 & 22 Geo. 3. (I.) it was amongst other things enacted, that from and after the passing of that Act it should not be lawful for any body politic or corporate erected or to be erected, other than the corporation thereby intended to be created and erected into a national bank, or for any other persons whatsoever united or to be united in covenant or partnership exceeding the number of six persons, to borrow, owe, or take up any sum or sums of money on their bills or notes payable at demand, or at any less time than six months from the borrowing thereof, under a penalty or forfeiture by such persons, bodies politic or corporate, of treble the sum or sums so to be borrowed or taken upon such bill or bills, note or notes, one moiety thereof to be paid to the informer, and the other to the use of his Majesty, his heirs and successors, to be recovered by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any of his Majesty's courts of record at Dublin: And that, in pursuance of the powers in the said Act of Parliament contained, a charter of incorporation was granted to certain persons, by the name of the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland: And that by 1 & 2 Geo. 4. c. 72. it was enacted, that it might be lawful for any number of persons in Ireland united or to be united in society or partnership, and residing and having their establishments in houses of business at any place not less than fifty miles distant from Dublin, to borrow, owe, or take up any sum or sums of money on their bills or notes payable on demand, and to make and issue such notes or bills accordingly, payable on demand at any place in Ireland exceeding the distance of fifty miles from Dublin, all the individuals composing such societies or partnerships being liable and responsible for the due payment of such bills or notes; but nothing therein contained was to extend or be construed to extend to authorize any persons exceeding six in number, or any bodies politic or corporate, residing or having their establishment or house of business within the distance of fifty miles from Dublin, to make or issue any bill or bills of exchange, or any promissory note or notes, contrary to the provisions of the said in part recited Act, 21 & 22 Geo. 3. (1.) : And that by 6 Geo. 4. c. 42, and by 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 32, such copartnerships of bankers established at places beyond the distance of fifty miles from Dublin were authorized to transact certain matters of business by agents in Dublin or within the distance of fifty miles thereof: And that the said governor and company at different times advanced, for the public service, to his Majesty King George the Third, the several sums of 600,000*l.*, 500,000*l.*, and 1,250,000*l.*, late Irish currency, and in respect thereof the said governor and company were entitled to certain annuities payable at the receipt of the Exchequer in Dublin: And that by 48 Geo. 3. c. 103. s. 10, it was amongst other things enacted, that at any time after the 1st of January 1837, upon twelve months' notice to be published in the Dublin Gazette by order of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, the said corporation of the Bank was to be dissolved; and upon repayment by Parliament to the said Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, or their successors, of the said several sums of 600,000*l.*, 500,000*l.*, and 1,250,000*l.*, and also of all arrears of the several annuities payable in respect of the said three several capital sums, if any such arrear should then be due, or at any time previous to the said 1st of January 1837, upon like repayment by and with the desire and consent of the said governor and company, to be signified by them by their petition in writing sealed with their common seal, and addressed to the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, then and in such case the said several annuities should from and after the expiration of twelve months after such notice published, cease and determine, and the said corporation should be dissolved and that in pursuance of 1 & 2 Geo. 4. c. 72. the said Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland advanced for the public service to His Majesty King George the Fourth the sum of 500,000*l.* late Irish currency, at interest, making, with the said three several sums of 600,000*l.*, 500,000*l.*, and 1,250,000*l.*, late Irish currency, previously advanced, the sum of 2,500,000*l.* equal to 2,630,769*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.* sterling money of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: and that by 8 & 4 Vict. c. 75. it was amongst other things enacted, that from and after the passing of the said Act there should be paid and payable, but subject to the condition of redemption hereinafter contained, at the receipt of Her Majesty's Exchequer in Dublin, to the Governor and Company of the said Bank of Ireland, out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, an interest or annuity of 115,384*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.* money of the United Kingdom, being a sum equal to the several annuities and interest theretofore payable in respect of the principal money due to the said governor and company as aforesaid, by two equal half-yearly payments, without any defalcation or abatement, on the 5th of January and the 5th of July in each year, the first payment of the said interest or annuity to be made on the 5th of January 1841; and it was by the last-mentioned Act further provided, that the said last-mentioned annuity should be redeemable at any time after the 1st of January 1841, on six months' notice to the said governor and company, and on repayment to them of the said several sums of 600,000*l.*, 500,000*l.*, 1,250,000*l.*, and 500,000*l.* late Irish currency, together with all arrears of the said annuity of 115,384*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.*; and that the last-mentioned annuity has, by consent of the said governor and company, been reduced to an annuity of 92,076*l.* 18*s.* 5*d.* of British currency; and that it is expedient that the exclusive privilege of banking granted to the said governor and company by the said recited Act, 21 & 22 Geo. 3. (1.) or by any other Act or Acts of Parliament now in force, should cease, but that the said governor and company should continue a corporation, with full power and authority to carry on the business of bankers, subject to the regulations hereinafter contained; and the said Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland have agreed to continue the management in Ireland of so much of the public debt of the United Kingdom as shall for the time being require to be transacted in Ireland, and of all loans and other creations of stock which shall at any time be made in Ireland, and of any public annuities for lives or for years which may be payable in Ireland, free of all charge and expense whatever for such management, or for their trouble in the payment of the interest of the said public debt or annuities from time to time during the continuance of the said corporation under the provisions of this Act; and it hath been further agreed that the said governor and company shall continue to receive the said annuity of 92,076*l.* 18*s.* 5*d.*, being an annual interest at and after the rate of three and a half per centum per annum, for and in respect of the said capital sum of 2,630,769*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*, and that the repayment of the last-mentioned sum shall be postponed till the expiration of six months after notice to be given by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland to the said governor and company of their intention to pay off the same, or by the said governor and company to the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury requiring payment thereof, such notice not to be given by either party before the 1st of January 1855: and that by 7 & 8 Vict. c. 32. s. 10. it was enacted, that from and after the passing of that Act no person, other than a banker who, on the 6th of May 1844, was lawfully issuing his own bank notes, should make or issue bank notes in any part of the United Kingdom: and that it is expedient to regulate the issue of bank notes by the said Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, and by such other bankers as are now by law authorized to issue bank notes in Ireland:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the 6th of December 1845, so much of the said recited Act, 21 & 22 Geo. 3. (1.) as prohibits any body politic or corporate erected or to be erected, other than the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, or for any other persons whatsoever united or to be united in covenants or partnership exceeding the number of six persons, to borrow, owe, or take up any sum or sums of money on their bills or notes payable at demand, or at any less time than six months from the borrowing thereof, shall be and the same is hereby repealed; and that from and after the said 6th of December 1845, it shall and may be lawful for any persons exceeding six in number united or to be united in societies or partnerships, or for any bodies politic or corporate, to transact or carry on the business of bankers in Ireland at Dublin, and at every place within fifty miles thereof, as freely as persons exceeding six in number united as aforesaid may lawfully carry on the same business at any place in Ireland beyond the distance of fifty miles from Dublin: Provided always, that every member of any such society, partnership, bodies politic or corporate, shall be liable and responsible for the due payment of all the debts and liabilities of the corporation or copartnership of which such person shall be a member, any agreement, covenant, or contract to the contrary notwithstanding.

II. That from and after the passing of this Act the repayment of the said sum of 2,630,769*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.* shall be and the same is hereby made chargeable upon the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland until Parliament shall otherwise provide, and there shall be paid and payable, but subject to the condition of redemption hereinafter contained, at the receipt of Her Majesty's Exchequer in Dublin, to the Governor and Company of the said Bank of Ireland, out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in respect of the said capital sum of 2,630,769*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.* so now due by the public to the said governor and company, the aforesaid annuity of 92,076*l.* 18*s.* 5*d.* being an interest or annuity at and after the rate of 3*l.* 10*s.* per centum per annum, in the now lawful currency of the United Kingdom, by two equal half-yearly payments, without any defalcation or abatement, on the 5th of January and the 5th of July in each year.

III. That from and after the passing of this Act the said Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland shall from time to time and at all times during the continuance of their charter, and until the said corporation shall be dissolved pursuant to the provisions of this Act, continue to manage and to pay all interest, annuities and dividends payable at the said Bank in respect of such part of the public debt as shall for the time being require to be transacted in Ireland, or in respect of any fund or stock created or to be created in consequence of any public loan, or funding of Exchequer bills, or conversion of stock in Ireland, or of any public annuities, whether for lives or for years, without making any charge to Her Majesty, her heirs, or successors, or to the Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, for their trouble or expense in so doing, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

IV. That at any time after the 1st of January 1855, upon twelve months' notice, to be published in the Dublin Gazette by order of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, that the said corporation of the Bank is to be dissolved, and upon repayment by Parliament to the said Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, or their successors, of the said sum of 2,630,769*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*, together with all arrears of interest or annuity due in respect thereof, then and in such case the said interest or annuity shall from and after the expiration of twelve months after such notice published, cease and determine, and the said corporation shall be dissolved.

And after reciting that by 33 Geo. 2. c. 14. (1.) it was among other things enacted, that no person who by reason of any office, employment, deputation, or clerkship was then or should at any time thereafter be intrusted with the receipt, custody, or payment of public money, or any part of the public revenue of that kingdom, should, either singly or in partnership, so long as such person should continue in such office, employment, deputation, or clerkship, follow the trade or business of a banker, or by himself, or by any person authorized by him, issue or give any note or accountable receipt as a banker or in partnership with any banker, or for profit or reward discount any promissory note, or foreign or inland bill of exchange: and that it is expedient to repeal the said enactment;—

It is Enacted,

v. That from and after the passing of this Act so much of the last-mentioned Act as is herein recited shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

And after reciting that by an Act 3 & 4 Geo. 4. intituled, 'An Act for giving to the Corporation of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England certain Privileges for a limited Period, under certain Conditions,' it was enacted, that from and after the 1st of August 1834, unless and until Parliament should otherwise direct, a tender of a note or notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England expressed to be payable to bearer on demand should be a legal tender to the amount expressed in such note or notes, and should be taken to be valid as a tender to such amount for all sums above 5*l.*, on all occasions on which any tender of money may be legally made, so long as the Bank of England should continue to pay on demand their said notes in legal coin; provided always, that no such note or notes should be deemed a legal tender of payment by the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, or any branch bank of the said governor and company: And that doubts have arisen as to the extent of the said enactment; for removal whereof,—

It is Enacted and Declared,

VI. That nothing in the said last-recited Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to make the tender of a note or notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England a legal tender in Ireland: Provided also, that nothing in this Act shall be construed to prohibit the circulation in Ireland of the notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England as heretofore.

VII. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall not be necessary for any governor, deputy governor, or director of the said Bank, before acting in the said several offices or trusts, to make and subscribe the declaration pursuant to the Act of Parliament passed in the kingdom of Ireland, intituled, 'An Act to prevent the further Growth of Popery,' nor to take any other oaths than the oath of allegiance, the oath of qualification by possession of stock, and the oath of fidelity to the corporation prescribed in and by the charter of incorporation of the governor and company of the said Bank, and that it shall not be necessary for any member of the said corporation, before voting in any general court, to make and subscribe the aforesaid declaration, nor to take any other oaths than the oaths of allegiance, the oath of qualification by the possession of stock, and the oath of fidelity to the said corporation provided in the said charter of incorporation: Provided always, that in case any of the persons called Quakers shall at any time be chosen governor, deputy governor, or director, or shall be or become a member of the said corporation, it shall be sufficient for such person or persons to make his or their solemn affirmation, to the purport and effect of the oaths prescribed by the said charter and by this Act to be taken by governors, deputy governors, directors, or members respectively of the said corporation.

VIII. That every banker claiming to be entitled to issue bank notes in Ireland shall, within one month next after the passing of this Act, give notice in writing to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, at their head office in London, of such claim, and of the place and name and firm at and under which such banker has issued such notes in Ireland during the year next preceding the 1st of May 1845, and thereupon the said Commissioners shall ascertain if such banker was on the 6th of May 1844, and from thence up to the 1st of May 1845, carrying on the business of a banker, and lawfully issuing his own bank notes in Ireland, and if it shall so appear, then the said Commissioners shall proceed to ascertain the average amount of the bank notes of such banker which were in circulation during the said period of one year preceding the 1st of May 1845, according to the returns made by such banker in pursuance of the Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. 50, intituled, 'An Act to make further Provisions relative to the Returns to be made by Banks of the Amount of their Notes in Circulation,' and the said Commissioners, or any two of them, shall certify under their hands to such banker the average amount, when so ascertained as aforesaid, omitting the fractions of a pound, if any; and it shall be lawful for every such banker to continue to issue his own bank notes after the 6th of December 1845, to the extent of the amount so certified, and of the amount of the gold and silver coin held by such banker, in the proportion and manner hereinafter mentioned, but not to any further extent; and from and after the 6th of December 1845 it shall not be lawful for any banker to make or issue bank notes in Ireland, save and except only such bankers as shall have obtained such certificate from the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes.

IX. Provided and enacted, That if it shall be made to appear to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes that any two or more banks have, by written contract or agreement (which contract or agreement shall be produced to the said Commissioners), become united within the year next preceding such 1st of May 1845, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to ascertain the average amount of the notes of each such bank in the manner hereinbefore directed, and to certify a sum equal to the average amount of the notes of the two or more banks so united as the amount which the united bank shall thereafter be authorized to issue, subject to the regulations of this Act.

X. That the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes shall, at the time of certifying to any banker such particulars as they are hereinbefore required to certify, also publish a duplicate of their certificate thereof in the next succeeding Dublin Gazette in which the same may be conveniently inserted; and the Gazette in which such publication shall be made shall be conclusive evidence in all courts whatsoever of the amount of bank notes which the banker named in such certificate or duplicate is by law authorized to issue and to have in circulation as aforesaid, exclusive of an amount equal to the monthly average amount of the gold and silver coin held by such banker as herein provided.

XI. That in case it shall be made to appear to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes at any time hereafter that any two or more banks have, by written contract or agreement (which contract or agreement shall be produced to the said Commissioners), become united subsequently to the passing of this Act, it shall be lawful to the said Commissioners, upon the application of such united bank, to certify, in manner hereinbefore mentioned, the aggregate of the amount of bank notes which such separate banks were previously authorized to issue under the separate certificates previously delivered to them, and so from time to time; and every such certificate shall be published in manner hereinbefore directed; and from and after such publication the amount therein stated shall be and be deemed to be the limit of the amount of bank notes which such united bank may have in circulation, exclusive of an amount equal to the monthly average amount of the gold and silver coin held by such banker as herein provided.

XII. That it shall be lawful for any banker in Ireland who under the provisions of this Act is entitled to issue bank notes to contract and agree with the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, by an agreement in writing, for the relinquishment of the privilege of issuing such notes in favour of the said governor and company, and in each such case a copy of such agreement shall be transmitted to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes; and the said Commissioners shall thereupon certify, in manner hereinbefore mentioned, the aggregate of the amount of bank notes which the Bank of Ireland and the banker with whom such agreement shall have been made were previously authorized to issue under the separate certificates previously delivered to them; and every such certificate shall be published in manner hereinbefore directed; and from and after such publication the amount therein stated shall be the limit of the amount of bank notes which the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland may have in circulation, exclusive of an amount equal to the amount of the gold and silver coin held by the Bank of Ireland as herein provided.

XIII. That it shall not be lawful for any banker who shall have so agreed to relinquish the privilege of issuing bank notes at any time thereafter to issue any such notes.

XIV. That from and after the 6th of December 1845 it shall not be lawful for any banker in Ireland to have in circulation, upon the average of a period of four weeks, to be ascertained as hereinafter mentioned, a greater amount of notes than an amount composed of the sums certified by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes as aforesaid, and the monthly average amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker during the same period of four weeks, to be ascertained in manner hereinafter mentioned.

XV. That all bank notes to be issued or re-issued in Ireland after the 6th of December 1845 shall be expressed to be for payment of a sum in pounds sterling, without any fractional parts of a pound; and if any banker in Ireland shall from and after that day make, sign, issue, or re-issue any bank note for the fractional part of a pound sterling, or for any sum together with the fractional part of a pound sterling, every such banker so making, signing, issuing, or re-issuing any such note as aforesaid shall for each note so made, signed, issued, or re-issued forfeit or pay the sum of 20*l*.

XVI. That every banker who after the 6th of December 1845 shall issue bank notes in Ireland shall, on some one day in every week after the 13th of December 1845 (such day to be fixed by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes), transmit to the said commissioners a just and true account of the amount of bank notes of such banker in circulation at the close of the business on the next preceding Saturday, distinguishing the notes of 5*l*. and upwards, and the notes below 5*l*. and also an account of the total amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker at each of the head offices or principal places of issue in Ireland of such banker at the close of business on each day of the week ending on that Saturday, and also an account of the total amount of gold and silver coin in Ireland held by such banker at the close of business on that day; and on completing the first period of four weeks, and so on completing each successive period of four weeks, every such banker shall annex to such account the average amount of bank notes of such banker in circulation during the said four weeks, distinguishing the bank notes of 5*l*. and upwards, and the notes below 5*l*, and the average amount of gold and silver coin respectively held by such banker at each of the head offices or principal places of issue in Ireland of such banker during the said four weeks, and also the amount of bank notes which such banker is, by the certificate published as aforesaid, authorized to issue under the provisions of this Act; and every such account shall be verified by the signature of such banker or his chief cashier, or in the case of a company or partnership by the signature of the chief cashier or other officer duly authorized by the directors of such company or partnership, and shall be made in the form to this Act annexed marked (A.); and if any such banker shall neglect or refuse to render any such account in the form and at the time required by this Act, or shall at any time render a false account, such banker shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.* for every such offence.

xvii. That all bank notes shall be deemed to be in circulation from the time the same shall have been issued by any banker, or any servant or agent of such banker, until the same shall have been actually returned to such banker, or some servant or agent of such banker.

xviii. That from the returns so made by each banker to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes the said commissioners shall, at the end of the first period of four weeks after the said 6th of December 1845, and so at the end of each successive period of four weeks, make out a general return in the form to this Act annexed marked (B.) of the monthly average amount of bank notes in circulation of each banker in Ireland during the last preceding four weeks, and of the average amount of all the gold and silver coin held by such banker during the same period, and certifying, under the hand of any officer of the said commissioners duly authorized for that purpose in the case of each such banker, whether such banker has held the amount of coin required by law during the period to which the said return shall apply, and shall publish the same in the next succeeding Dublin Gazette in which the same can be conveniently inserted.

xix. That for the purpose of ascertaining the monthly average amount of bank notes of each banker in circulation, the aggregate of the amount of bank notes of each such banker in circulation at the close of the business on the Saturday in each week during the first complete period of four weeks next after the 6th of December 1845 shall be divided by the number of weeks, and the average so ascertained shall be deemed to be the average of bank notes of each such banker in circulation during such period of four weeks, and so in each successive period of four weeks; and the monthly average amount of gold and silver coin respectively held as aforesaid by such banker shall be ascertained in like manner from the amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker at the head offices or principal places of issue of such banker in Ireland, as after mentioned, at the close of business on such day in each week; and the monthly average amount of bank notes of each such banker in circulation during any such period of four weeks is not to exceed a sum made up by adding the amount certified by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes as aforesaid, and the monthly average amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker as aforesaid during the same period.

xx. That in taking account of the coin held by any banker in Ireland with respect to which bank notes to a further extent than the sum certified as aforesaid by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes may, under the provisions of this Act, be made and issued, there shall be included only the gold and silver coin held by such banker at the several head offices or principal places of issue in Ireland of such banker, such head offices or principal places of issue not exceeding four in number, of which not more than two shall be situated in the same province; and every banker shall give notice in writing to the said commissioners, on or before the 6th of December next, of such head offices or principal places of issue at which the account of gold and silver coin held by him is to be taken as aforesaid, and no amount of silver coin exceeding one-fourth part of the gold coin held by such banker as aforesaid shall be taken into account, nor shall any banker be authorized to make and issue bank notes in Ireland on any amount of silver coin held by such banker exceeding the proportion of one-fourth part of the gold coin held by such banker as aforesaid.

And after reciting that in order to insure the rendering of true and faithful accounts of the amount of bank notes in circulation, and the amount of gold and silver coin held by each banker, as directed by this Act, it is necessary that the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes should be empowered to cause the books of bankers issuing such notes, and the amount of gold and silver coin held by such bankers as aforesaid, to be inspected as hereinafter mentioned:—

xxi. That all and every the book and books of any banker who shall issue bank notes under the provisions of this Act, in which shall be kept, contained, or entered any account, minute, or memorandum of or relating to the bank notes issued or to be issued by such bank, or of relating to the amount of such notes in circulation from time to time, or of or relating to the gold or silver coin held by such banker from time to time, or any account, minute, or memorandum the sight or inspection whereof may tend to secure the rendering of true accounts of the average amount of such notes in circulation and gold or silver coin held as directed by this Act, or to test the truth of any such account, shall be open for the inspection and examination at all reasonable times of any officer of stamp duties authorized in that behalf by writing signed by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or any two of them; and every such officer shall be at liberty to take copies of or extracts from any such book or account as aforesaid, and to inspect and ascertain the amount of any gold or silver coin held by such banker; and if any banker or other person keeping any such book, or having the custody or possession thereof or power to produce the same, shall, upon demand made by any such officer shewing (if required) his authority in that behalf, refuse to produce any such book to such officer for his inspection and examination, or to permit him to inspect and examine the same, or take copies thereof or extracts therefrom, or of or from any such account, minute, or memorandum as aforesaid, kept, contained, or entered therein, or if any banker or other person having the custody or possession of any coin belonging to such banker shall refuse to permit or prevent the inspection of such gold and silver coin as aforesaid, every such banker or other person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 100*l.*: Provided always, that the said commissioners shall not exercise the powers aforesaid without the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

xxii. That every banker in Ireland, other than the Bank of Ireland, who is now carrying on or shall hereafter carry on business as such, shall on the 1st of January in each year, or within fifteen days thereafter, make a return to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, at their office in Dublin, of his name, residence, and occupation, or in case of a company or partnership, of the name, residence, and occupation of every person composing or being a member of such company or partnership, and also the name of the firm under which such banker, company, or partnership carry on the business of banking, and of every place where such business is carried on; and if any such banker shall omit or refuse to make such return within fifteen days after the said 1st of January, or shall wilfully make other than a true return of the persons as herein required, every banker so offending shall forfeit or pay the sum of 50*l.*; and the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes shall on or before the 1st of March in every year publish in the Dublin Gazette a copy of the return so made by every banker.

XXIII. That if the monthly average circulation of bank notes of any banker, taken in the manner herein directed, shall at any time exceed the amount which such banker is authorized to issue and to have in circulation under the provisions of this Act, such banker shall in every such case forfeit a sum equal to the amount by which the average monthly circulation, taken as aforesaid, shall have exceeded the amount which such banker was authorized to issue and to have in circulation as aforesaid.

XXIV. That all promissory or other notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the payment of any sum or sums of money, or any orders, notes, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the delivery of any goods, specifying their value in money less than the sum of 20*s.* in the whole, heretofore made or issued, or which shall hereafter be made or issued in Ireland, shall, from and after the 1st of January 1846, be and the same are hereby declared to be absolutely void and of no effect, any law, statute, usage, or custom to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding; and that if any person or persons shall, after the 1st of January 1846, by any art, device, or means whatsoever, publish or utter in Ireland any such notes, bills, drafts, or engagements, as aforesaid, for a less sum than 20*s.*, or on which less than the sum of 20*s.* shall be due, and which shall be in anywise negotiable or transferable, or shall negotiate or transfer the same in Ireland, every such person shall forfeit and pay for every such offence any sum not exceeding 20*l.* nor less than 5*l.*, at the discretion of the Justice of the Peace who shall hear and determine such offence.

XXV. That all promissory or other notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the payment of 20*s.*, or any sum of money above that sum and less than 5*l.*, or on which 20*s.* or above that sum and less than 5*l.*, shall remain undischarged, and which shall be issued within Ireland at any time after the 1st of January 1846, shall specify the names and places of abode of the persons respectively to whom or to whose order the same shall be made payable, and shall bear date before or at the time of drawing or issuing thereof, and not on any day subsequent thereto, and shall be made payable within the space of twenty-one days next after the date thereof, and shall not be transferable or negotiable after the time hereby limited for payment thereof, and that every indorsement to be made thereon shall be made before the expiration of that time, and to bear date at or not before the time of making thereof, and shall specify the name and place of abode of the person or persons to whom or to whose order the money contained in every such note, bill, draft, or undertaking is to be paid; and that the signing of every such note, bill, draft, or undertaking, and also of every such indorsement, shall be attested by one subscribing witness at the least; and which said notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, may be made or drawn in words to the purport or effect as set out in the schedules to this Act annexed marked (D.) and (E.); and that all promissory or other notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the payment of 20*s.*, or any sum of money above that sum and less than 5*l.*, or in which 20*s.*, or above that sum and less than 5*l.*, shall remain undischarged, and which shall be issued in Ireland at any time after the said 1st of January 1846, in any other manner than as aforesaid, and also every indorsement on any such note, bill, draft, or other undertaking to be negotiated under this Act, other than as aforesaid, shall and the same are hereby declared to be absolutely void, any law, statute, usage, or custom to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding; provided that nothing in this clause contained shall be construed to extend to any such bank notes as shall be lawfully issued by any banker in Ireland authorized by this Act to continue the issue of bank notes.

XXVI. That if any body politic or corporate or any person or persons shall, from and after the said 1st of January 1846 make, sign, issue, or re-issue in Ireland any promissory note payable on demand to the bearer thereof for any sum of money less than the sum of 5*l.*, except the bank notes of such bankers as are hereby authorized to continue to issue bank notes as aforesaid, then and in either of such cases every such body politic or corporate or person or persons so making, signing, issuing, or re-issuing any such promissory note as aforesaid except as aforesaid, shall for every such note so made, signed, issued, or re-issued forfeit the sum of 20*l.*

XXVII. That if any body politic or corporate or person or persons shall, from and after the passing of this Act, publish, utter, or negotiate in Ireland any promissory or other note (not being the bank note of a banker hereby authorized to continue to issue bank notes), or any bill of exchange, draft, or undertaking in writing, being negotiable or transferable for the payment of 20*s.*, or above that sum and less than 5*l.*, or on which 20*s.*, or above that sum and less than 5*l.*, shall remain undischarged, made, drawn, or indorsed in any other manner than as is hereinbefore directed, every such body politic or corporate or person or persons so publishing, uttering, or negotiating any such promissory or other note, (not being such bank note as aforesaid), bill of exchange, draft or undertaking in writing as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay the sum of 20*l.*

XXVIII. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to prohibit any draft or order drawn by any person on his banker, or on any person acting as such banker, for the payment of money held by such banker or person to the use of the person by whom such draft or order shall be drawn.

XXIX. That all pecuniary penalties under this Act may be sued or prosecuted for and recovered for the use of Her Majesty, in the name of Her Majesty's Attorney General or Solicitor General in Ireland, or of the Solicitor of Stamps in Ireland, or of any person authorized to sue or prosecute for the same, by writing under the hands of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or in the name of any officer of stamp duties, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in the Court of Exchequer in Dublin, or by civil bill in the court of the recorder, chairman, or assistant barrister within whose local jurisdiction any offence shall have been committed, in respect of any such penalty, or in respect of any penalty not exceeding 20*l.*, by information or complaint before one or more Justice or Justices of the Peace in Ireland, in such and the same manner as any other penalties imposed by any of the laws now in force relating to the duties under the management of the Commissioners of Stamps; and it shall be lawful in all cases for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, either before or after any proceedings commenced for recovery of any such penalty, to mitigate or compound any such penalty, as the said Commissioners shall think fit, and to stay any such proceedings after the same shall have been commenced, and whether judgment may have been obtained for such penalty or not, on payment of part only of any such penalty, with or without costs, or on payment only of the costs incurred in such proceedings, or of any part thereof, or on such other terms as such Commissioners shall judge reasonable: Provided always, that in no such proceedings as aforesaid shall any essoign, protection, wager of law, nor more than one imparlance be allowed; and all pecuniary penalties imposed by or incurred under this Act, by whom or in whose name soever the same shall be sued or prosecuted for or recovered, shall go and be applied to the use of Her Majesty, and shall be deemed to be and shall be accounted for as part of Her Majesty's revenue arising from stamp duties, anything in any Act contained, or any law or usage, to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes at their discretion to give all or any part of such penalties as rewards to any person or persons who shall have detected the offenders, or given information which may have led to their prosecution and conviction.

xxx. That after the passing of this Act every company or copartnership of more than six persons established before the passing of this Act, for the purpose of carrying on the trade or business of bankers within the distance of fifty miles from Dublin, shall have the same powers and privileges of suing and being sued, and of presenting petitions to found sequestrations or flats in bankruptcy, in the name of any one of the public officers of such company or copartnership, as the nominal plaintiff, petitioner, or defendant, on behalf of such company or copartnership, as are provided with respect to companies carrying on the said trade or business at any place in Ireland exceeding the distance of fifty miles from Dublin, under the provisions of an Act, 6 Geo. 4. c. 42, intituled 'An Act for the better Regulation of Copartnerships of certain Bankers in Ireland;' and all judgments, decrees, and orders made and obtained in any action, suit, or other proceeding brought, instituted, or carried on by or against any such company or copartnership carrying on business within the distance of fifty miles from Dublin, in the name of their public officer, shall have the same effect and operation, and may be enforced in like manner in all respects, as is provided in and by the last-mentioned Act with respect to the judgments, decrees, and orders therein mentioned; provided that every such company or copartnership as last aforesaid shall make out and deliver from time to time to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes the several accounts or returns required by the last-mentioned Act; and all the provisions of the last-mentioned Act as to such accounts or returns shall be taken to apply to the accounts or returns so made out and delivered by the said last-mentioned companies, as if they had been originally included in the provisions of the last-mentioned Act.

And after reciting that a certain joint-stock banking company, called and known as "The Tipperary Joint Stock Bank," refrained from issuing its own bank notes, under a certain agreement with the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland for the issue of the bank notes of the said governor and company, which agreement is determinable by either party upon certain notice to the other party, and it is just that in case such agreement should at any time hereafter during the continuance of this Act be determined and put an end to by the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, that the said Tipperary Joint Stock Bank should receive by way of compensation such composition as hereafter mentioned:—

xxx. That if the said agreement shall be at any time hereafter during the continuance of this Act determined or put an end to by the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, then and in such case the said governor and company shall from the termination of the said agreement pay and allow to the said Tipperary Joint Stock Bank, so long as the latter shall continue to carry on the business of a bank and to issue exclusively the notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, a composition at and after the rate of 11. per centum per annum on the average annual amount of the Bank of Ireland notes issued by the said Tipperary Joint Stock Bank, and kept in circulation, such average annual amount to be ascertained by the Bank of Ireland in the manner provided for regulating the compensation to be made to certain bankers by the Bank of England in and by the Act, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 32, intituled 'An Act to regulate the Issue of Bank Notes, and for giving to the Governor and Company of the Bank of England certain Privileges for a limited Period:' Provided always, that the total sum payable to the Tipperary Joint Stock Bank by way of composition as aforesaid in any one year shall not exceed 11. per cent on an amount that hath been agreed on by and between the Bank of Ireland and the Tipperary Joint Stock Bank, and certified by both banks to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes; and such composition shall cease to be payable from and after the 1st of January 1856.

xxxii. That the term "Bank Note" used in this Act shall extend and apply to all bills or notes for the payment of money to the bearer on demand; and that the term "Banker" shall, when the Bank of Ireland be not specially excepted, extend and apply to the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland, and to all other corporations, societies, partnerships, and persons, and every individual person carrying on the business of banking, whether by the issue of bank notes or otherwise; and that the word "Coin" shall be construed to mean the coin of this realm; and that the word "Person" used in this Act shall include corporations; and that the singular number used in this Act shall include the plural number, and the plural number the singular, except where there is anything in the context repugnant to such construction; and that the masculine gender in this Act shall include the feminine, except where there is anything in the context repugnant to such construction.

xxxiii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

22. Interpretation of Act.

23. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 7 & 8 Vict. c. 32. s. 10. it was enacted, that from and after the passing of that Act no person, other than a banker who on the 6th of May 1844 was lawfully issuing his own bank notes should make or issue bank notes in any part of the United Kingdom: and that it is expedient to regulate the issue of bank notes by such bankers as are now by law authorized to issue the same in Scotland:—

It is Enacted,

I. That every banker claiming to be entitled to issue bank notes in Scotland shall, within one month next after the passing of this Act, give notice in writing to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, at their head office in London, of such claim, and of the place and name and firm at and under which such banker has issued such notes in Scotland during the year next preceding the 1st of May 1845, and thereupon the said commissioners shall ascertain if such banker was on the 6th of May 1844, and from thence up to the 1st of May 1845, carrying on the business of a banker and lawfully issuing his own bank notes in Scotland, and if it shall so appear then the said commissioners shall proceed to ascertain the average amount of the bank notes of such banker which were in circulation during the said period of one year preceding the 1st of May 1845, according to the returns made by such banker in pursuance of the Act, 4 & 5 Vict. c. 50, intituled, 'An Act to make further Provision relative to the Returns to be made by Banks of the Amount of their Notes in Circulation;' and the said commissioners, or any two of them, shall certify under their hands to such banker the average amount when so ascertained as aforesaid, omitting the fractions of a pound, if any; and it shall be lawful for every such banker to continue to issue his own bank notes after the 6th of December 1845, to the extent of the amount so certified, and of the amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker at the head office, or principal place of issue of such banker, in the proportion and manner hereinafter mentioned, but not to any further extent; and from and after the 6th of December 1845, it shall not be lawful for any banker to make or issue bank notes in Scotland, save and except only such bankers as shall have obtained such certificate from the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes.

II. Provided and enacted, That if it shall be made to appear to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes that any two or more banks have by written contract or agreement (which contract or agreement shall be produced to the said commissioners) become united within the year next preceding such 1st of May 1845, it shall be lawful for the said commissioners to ascertain the average amount of the notes of each such bank in the manner hereinbefore directed, and to certify a sum equal to the average amount of the notes of the two or more banks so united, as the amount which the united bank shall thereafter be authorized to issue, subject to the regulations of this Act.

III. That the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes shall, at the time of certifying to any banker such particulars as they are hereinbefore required to certify, also publish a duplicate of their certificate thereof in the next succeeding London Gazette in which the same may be conveniently inserted; and the Gazette in which such publication shall be made shall be conclusive evidence in all courts whatsoever of the amount of bank notes which the banker named in such certificate or duplicate is by law authorized to issue and to have in circulation as aforesaid, exclusive of an amount equal to the monthly average amount of the gold and silver coin held by such banker as herein provided.

IV. That in case it shall be made to appear to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, at any time hereafter, that any two or more banks have by written contract or agreement (which contract or agreement shall be produced to the said commissioners) become united subsequently to the passing of this Act, it shall be lawful to the said commissioners, upon the application of such united bank, to certify in manner hereinbefore mentioned the aggregate of the amount of bank notes which such separate banks were previously authorized to issue under the separate certificates previously delivered to them, and so from time to time; and every such certificate shall be published in manner hereinbefore directed, and from and after such publication the amount therein stated shall be and be deemed to be the limit of the amount of bank notes which such united bank may have in circulation, exclusive of an amount equal to the monthly average amount of the gold and silver coin held by such bank, as herein provided.

V. That all bank notes to be issued or re-issued in Scotland shall be expressed to be for payment of a sum in pounds sterling, without any fractional parts of a pound; and if any banker in Scotland shall, from and after the 6th of December 1845, make, sign, issue, or re-issue any bank note for the fractional part of a pound sterling, or for any sum together with the fractional part of a pound sterling, every such banker so making, signing, issuing, or re-issuing any such note as aforesaid shall for each note so made, signed, issued, or re-issued forfeit or pay the sum of 20*l*.

VI. That from and after the 6th of December 1845 it shall not be lawful for any banker in Scotland to have in circulation, upon the average of a period of four weeks, to be ascertained as hereinafter mentioned, a greater amount of notes than an amount composed of the sum certified by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes as aforesaid, and the monthly average amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker at the head office or principal place of issue of such banker during the same period of four weeks, to be ascertained in manner hereinafter mentioned.

VII. That every banker who after the 6th of December 1845 shall issue bank notes in Scotland shall, on some one day in every week after the 13th of December 1845 (such day to be fixed by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes) transmit to the said commissioners a just and true account of the amount of bank notes of such banker in circulation at the close of the business on the next preceding Saturday, distinguishing the notes of 5*l*. and upwards, and the notes below 5*l*., and also an account of the total amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker at the head office or principal place of issue in Scotland of such banker at the close of business on each day of the week ending on the same Saturday, and also an account of the total amount of gold and silver coin in Scotland held by such banker at the close of business on that day; and on completing the first period of four weeks, and so on completing each successive period of four weeks, every such banker shall annex to such account the average amount of bank notes of such banker in circulation during the said four weeks, distinguishing the bank notes of 5*l.* and upwards and the notes below 5*l.*, and the average amount of gold and silver coin respectively held by such banker at the head office or principal place of issue in Scotland of such banker during the said four weeks, and also the amount of bank notes which such banker is, by the certificates published as aforesaid in the London Gazette, authorized to issue under the provisions of this Act; and every such account shall specify the head office or principal places of issue in Scotland of such banker, and shall be verified by the signature of such banker or his chief cashier, or in case of a company or partnership by the signature of the chief cashier or other officer duly authorized by the directors of such company or partnership, and shall be made in the form to this Act annexed marked (A.); and if any such banker shall neglect or refuse to render any such account in the form and at the time required by this Act, or shall at any time render a false account, such banker shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.* for every such offence.

VIII. That all bank notes shall be deemed to be in circulation from the time the same shall have been issued by any banker, or any servant or agent of such banker, until the same shall have been actually returned to such banker, or some servant or agent of such banker.

IX. That from the returns so made by each banker to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes the said commissioners shall, at the end of the first period of four weeks after the said 6th of December 1845, and so at the end of each successive period of four weeks, make out a general return in the form to this Act annexed marked (B.) of the monthly average amount of bank notes in circulation of each banker in Scotland during the last preceding four weeks, and of the average amount of all the gold and silver coin held by such banker, and certifying under the hand of any officer of the said commissioners duly authorized for that purpose, in the case of each such banker, whether such banker has held the amount of coin required by law during the period to which the said return shall apply, and shall publish the same in the next succeeding London Gazette in which the same can be conveniently inserted.

X. That for the purpose of ascertaining the monthly average amount of bank notes of each banker in circulation, the aggregate of the amount of bank notes of each such banker in circulation at the close of the business on Saturday of each week during the first complete period of four weeks next after the 6th of December 1845 shall be divided by the number of weeks, and the average so ascertained shall be deemed to be the average of bank notes of each such bank in circulation during such period of four weeks, and so in each successive period of four weeks; and the monthly average amount of gold and silver coin respectively held as aforesaid by such banker shall be ascertained in like manner from the amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker at the head office or principal place of issue in Scotland of such banker at the close of business on Saturday in each week during the same period; and the monthly average amount of bank notes of each such banker in circulation during any such period of four weeks is not to exceed a sum made up by adding the amount certified by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes as aforesaid and the monthly average amount of gold and silver coin held by such banker as aforesaid during the same period.

XI. That in taking account of the coin held by any such banker as aforesaid, with respect to which bank notes to a further extent than the sum certified as aforesaid by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes may, under the provisions of this Act, be made and issued, no amount of silver coin exceeding one-fourth part of the gold coin held by such banker as aforesaid shall be taken into account, nor shall any banker be authorized to make and issue bank notes in Scotland on any amount of silver coin held by such banker exceeding the proportion of one-fourth part of the gold coin held by such banker as aforesaid.

And after reciting that in order to insure the rendering of true and faithful accounts of the amount of bank notes in circulation, and the amount of gold and silver coin held by each banker, as directed by this Act, it is necessary that the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes should be empowered to cause the books of bankers issuing such notes, and the gold and silver coin held by such bankers as aforesaid, to be inspected as hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

XII. That all and every the book and books of any banker who shall issue bank notes under the provisions of this Act, in which shall be kept, contained, or entered any account, minute, or memorandum of or relating to the bank notes issued or to be issued by such banker, or of or relating to the amount of such notes in circulation from time to time, or of or relating to the gold and silver coin held by such banker from time to time, or any account, minute, or memorandum the sight or inspection whereof may tend to secure the rendering of true accounts of the average amount of such notes in circulation and gold and silver coin held as directed by this Act, or to test the truth of any such account, shall be open for the inspection and examination at all seasonable times of any officer of stamp duties authorized in that behalf by writing signed by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or any two of them; and every such officer shall be at liberty to take copies of or extracts from any such book or account as aforesaid, and to inspect and ascertain the amount of any gold or silver coin held by such banker; and if any banker or other person keeping any such book, or having the custody or possession thereof or power to produce the same, shall upon demand made by any such officer shewing (if required) his authority in that behalf, refuse to produce any such book to such officer for his inspection and examination, or to permit him to inspect and examine the same, or to take copies thereof or extracts therefrom, or of or from any such account, minute, or memorandum as aforesaid, kept, contained, or entered therein, or if any banker or other person having the custody or possession of any coin belonging to such banker shall refuse to permit or prevent the inspection of such gold and silver coin as aforesaid, every such banker or other person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 100*l.*: Provided always, that the said Commissioners shall not exercise the powers aforesaid without the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

XIII. That every banker in Scotland who is now carrying on or shall hereafter carry on business as such, other than the Bank of Scotland, the Royal Bank of Scotland, and the British Linen Company, shall, on the 1st of January in each year, or within fifteen days thereafter, make a return to the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, at their head office in London, of his name, residence, and occupation, or, in the case of a company or partnership, of the name, residence, and occupation of every person composing or being a member of such company or partnership, and also the name of the firm under which such banker, company, or partnership carry on the business of banking, and of every place where such business is carried on; and if any such banker, company, or partnership shall omit or refuse to make such return within fifteen days after the said 1st of January, or shall wilfully make other than a true return of the persons as herein required, every banker, company, or partnership so offending shall forfeit or pay the sum of 50*l.*; and the said Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes shall on or before 1st of March in every year publish in some newspaper circulating within each town or county respectively in which the head office or principal place of issue of any such banker be situated a copy of the return so made by every banker, company, or partnership carrying on the business of bankers within such town or county respectively, as the case may be.

XIV. That if the monthly average circulation of bank notes of any banker, taken in the manner herein directed, shall at any time exceed the amount which such banker is authorized to issue and to have in circulation under the provisions of this Act, such banker shall in every such case forfeit a sum equal to the amount by which the average monthly circulation, taken as aforesaid, shall have exceeded the amount which such banker was authorized to issue and to have in circulation as aforesaid.

And after reciting that by an Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. intituled, 'An Act for giving to the Corporation of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England certain Privileges for a limited Period, under certain Conditions,' it was enacted, that from and after the 1st of August 1834, unless and until Parliament should otherwise direct, a tender of a note or notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, expressed to be payable to bearer on demand, should be a legal tender to the amount expressed in such note or notes, and should be taken to be valid as a tender to such amount for all sums above 5*l.* on all occasions on which any tender of money may be legally made, so long as the Bank of England should continue to pay on demand their said notes in legal coin; provided always, that no such note or notes should be deemed a legal tender of payment by the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, or any branch bank of the said governor and company: And that doubts have arisen as to the extent of the said enactment; for removal whereof—

It is Enacted and Declared,

XV. That nothing in the said last-recited Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to make the tender of a note or notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England a legal tender in Scotland: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to prohibit the circulation in Scotland of the notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, as heretofore.

XVI. That all promissory or other notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the payment of any sum or sums of money, or any orders, notes, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the delivery of any goods, specifying their value in money less than the sum of 20*s.* in the whole, heretofore made or issued, or which shall hereafter be made or issued in Scotland, shall, from and after the 1st of January 1846, be and the same are hereby declared to be absolutely void and of no effect, any law, statute, usage, or custom to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding; and that if any person or persons shall, after the 1st of January 1846, by any art, device, or means whatsoever, publish or utter in Scotland any such notes, bills, drafts, or engagements as aforesaid for a less sum than 20*s.*, or on which less than the sum of 20*s.* shall be due, and which shall be in anywise negotiable or transferable, or shall negotiate or transfer the same in Scotland, every such person shall forfeit and pay for every such offence any sum not exceeding 20*l.* nor less than 5*l.*, at the discretion of the Justice of the Peace who shall hear and determine such offence.

XVII. That all promissory or other notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the payment of 20*s.*, or any sum of money above that sum and less than 5*l.*, or on which 20*s.*, or above that sum and less than 5*l.*, shall remain undischarged, and which shall be issued within Scotland at any time after the 1st of January 1846, shall specify the names and places of abode of the persons respectively to whom or to whose order the same shall be made payable, and shall bear date before or at the time of drawing or issuing thereof, and not on any day subsequent thereto, and shall be made payable within the space of twenty-one days next after the day of the date thereof, and shall not be transferable or negotiable after the time hereby limited for payment thereof, and that every indorsement to be made thereon shall be made before the expiration of that time, and to bear date at or not before the time of making thereof, and shall specify the name and place of abode of the person or persons to whom or to whose order the money contained in every such note, bill, draft, or undertaking is to be paid; and that the signing of every such note, bill, draft, or undertaking, and also of every such indorsement, shall be attested by one subscribing witness at the least; and which said notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, may be made or drawn in words to the purport or effect as set out in the Schedules to this Act annexed marked (C.) and (D.); and that all promissory or other notes, bills of exchange, or drafts, or undertakings in writing, being negotiable or transferable for the payment of 20*s.*, or any sum of money above that sum and less than 5*l.*, or in which 20*s.*, or above that sum and less than 5*l.*, shall remain undischarged, and which shall be issued in Scotland at any time after the said 1st of January 1846, in any other manner than as aforesaid, and also every indorsement on any such note, bill, draft, or other undertaking to be negotiated under this Act, other than as aforesaid, shall and the same are hereby declared to be absolutely void, any law, statute, usage, or custom to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding: Provided always, that nothing in this clause contained shall be construed to extend to any such bank notes as shall be lawfully issued by any banker in Scotland authorized by this Act to continue the issue of bank notes.

XVIII. That if any body politic or corporate or any person or persons shall, from and after the said 1st of January 1846, make, sign, issue, or re-issue in Scotland any promissory note payable on demand to the bearer thereof for any sum of money less than the sum of 5*l.*, except the bank notes of such bankers as are hereby authorized to continue to issue bank notes as aforesaid, then and in either of such cases every such body politic or corporate or person or persons so making, signing, issuing, or re-issuing any such promissory note as aforesaid, except as aforesaid, shall for every such note so made, signed, issued, or re-issued forfeit the sum of 20*l.*

xix. That if any body politic or corporate or person or persons shall, from and after the passing of this Act, publish, utter, or negotiate in Scotland any promissory or other note (not being the bank note of a banker hereby authorized to continue to issue bank notes), or any bill of exchange, draft, or undertaking in writing, being negotiable or transferable, for the payment of 20s., or above that sum and less than 5l., or on which 20s., or above that sum and less than 5l., shall remain undischarged, made, drawn, or indorsed in any other manner than as is hereinbefore directed, every such body politic or corporate or person or persons so publishing, uttering, or negotiating any such promissory or other note (not being such bank note as aforesaid), bill of exchange, draft, or undertaking in writing as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay the sum of 20l.

xx. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to prohibit any draft or order drawn by any person on his banker, or on any person acting as such banker, for the payment of money held by such banker or person to the use of the person by whom such draft or order shall be drawn.

xxi. That all pecuniary penalties under this Act may be sued or prosecuted for and recovered for the use of her Majesty, in the name of her Majesty's Advocate General or Solicitor General in Scotland, or of the Solicitor of Stamps and Taxes in Scotland, or of any person authorized to sue or prosecute for the same, by writing under the hands of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or in the name of any officer of stamp duties, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, or, in respect of any penalty not exceeding 20l. by information or complaint before one or more Justice or Justices of the Peace in Scotland, in such and the same manner as any other penalties imposed by any of the laws now in force relating to the duties under the management of the Commissioners of Stamps; and it shall be lawful in all cases for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, either before or after any proceedings commenced for recovery of any such penalty, to mitigate or compound any such penalty, as the said commissioners shall think fit, and to stay any such proceedings after the same shall have been commenced, and whether judgment may have been obtained for such penalty or not, on payment of part only of any such penalty, with or without costs, or on payment only of the costs incurred in such proceedings, or of any part thereof, or on such other terms as such commissioners shall judge reasonable: Provided always, that in no such proceeding aforesaid shall any essoin, protection, wager of law, nor more than one imparlance be allowed; and all pecuniary penalties imposed by or incurred under this Act, by whom or in whose name soever the same shall be sued or prosecuted for or recovered, shall go and be applied to the use of her Majesty, and shall be deemed to be and shall be accounted for as part of her Majesty's revenue arising from stamp duties, anything in any Act contained, or any law or usage, to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, at their discretion, to give all or any part of such penalties as rewards to any person or persons who shall have detected the offenders, or given information which may have led to their prosecution and conviction.

xxii. That the term "Bank Notes" used in this Act shall extend and apply to all bills or notes for the payment of money to the bearer on demand, other than bills and notes of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, and that the term "Banker" shall extend and apply to all corporations, societies, partnerships, and persons, and every individual person carrying on the business of banking, whether by the issue of bank notes or otherwise; and that the word "Person" used in this Act shall include corporations; and that the word "Coin" shall mean the coin of this realm; and that the singular number in this Act shall include the plural, and the plural number the singular, except where there is anything in the context repugnant to such construction; and that the masculine gender in this Act shall include the feminine, except where there is anything in the context repugnant to such construction.

xxiii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

CAP. XXXIX.

AN ACT to amend the Law of Arrestment of Wages in Scotland.

(21st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Arrestment of wages not competent on dependence of action.
2. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 6 Geo. 4. c. 48. and 7 Will. 4. and 1 Vict. c. 4.; and that it is expedient that the said Acts should be amended, as regards the arrestment of wages:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall not be lawful or competent to arrest wages upon the dependence of any action raised by virtue of the said recited Acts, anything therein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.
11. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

CAP. XL.

AN ACT for amending an Act for making Provision for Parish Schoolmasters in Scotland.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 43 Geo. 3. c. 54, and that by the said Act it is provided, that if the heritors qualified as thereby required, and minister, shall fail to elect a schoolmaster within four calendar months from the time the vacancy shall have taken place, then the presbytery within the bounds of which the parish is situated shall apply to the convener of the Commissioners of Supply of the county or stewartry, who, or any five of them, at a meeting to be called by the convener upon thirty days' notice, shall have power, jure devoluto, and are hereby directed, to elect a person to supply the vacancy; and that in various cases of vacancies the presbyteries have failed to apply to the convener of the Commissioners of Supply, so as to enable him to call such meeting for the exercise by the Commissioners of Supply of the jus devolutum so conferred upon them, and great inconvenience and injury have been experienced by parishes, in consequence of schoolmasters not having been elected to supply such vacancies:—

It is Enacted,

That failing such election as aforesaid, and such application by the presbytery to the convener of the Commissioners of Supply, then, within twenty-one days after the expiration of the four months after which the presbytery is so required to apply to the convener of the Commissioners of Supply, it shall be lawful for any heritor of the parish to make intimation of the vacancy, whether now existing or that may hereafter occur, by letter to the convener of the Commissioners of Supply of the county or stewartry within which the parish is situated, requiring him to call a meeting of such commissioners upon thirty days' notice; and the Commissioners of Supply, or any five of them, assembled at such meeting or any adjourned meeting, shall have power, jure devoluto, to take the matter of such vacancy into consideration, and, unless good cause be shewn to the contrary, to proceed forthwith to the election of a schoolmaster, according to the intent and meaning of the said recited Act, and such election shall be good and valid to all intents and purposes.

CAP. XLI.

AN ACT for amending the Laws concerning Highways, Bridges, and Ferries in Scotland, and the making and maintaining thereof by Statute Service, and by the Conversion of Statute Service into Money.

By this Act,

After reciting that it has been found by experience that the laws concerning highways, bridges, and ferries in Scotland, and concerning the statute service for making and repairing them, and the conversion thereof in money, may be amended in various particulars: And that it is expedient that further regulations should be made concerning the said highways, bridges, and ferries, and that the system of managing them should be rendered more uniform:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act all the enactments, provisions, matters, and things in this Act contained shall extend to all highways, bridges, and ferries in Scotland to which statute service, or the conversion thereof in money, or any assessment in lieu of such conversion, is or shall be applied, and to all Acts of Parliament now in force or which shall hereafter be passed affecting such highways, bridges, or ferries in Scotland, saving and excepting such enactments, provisions, matters, and things as shall be expressly varied, altered or repealed by any Act that shall be hereafter passed.

11. That the word “trustees” in this Act shall be held to mean and apply to all Justices of the Peace acting under the authority of any Act of Parliament for making and repairing highways, bridges, and ferries in Scotland, by statute service, or the conversion thereof in money.

111. That all trustees acting in the execution of this or any Act of Parliament for making and repairing highways, bridges, and ferries in Scotland by statute service, or the conversion thereof in money, or assessment in lieu of such conversion, shall at all their meetings pay their own expenses, and shall, in the first place, where it is not otherwise directed by any local Act, appoint a preses at every meeting, who in case of an equal number of votes, including his own, shall have the casting vote; and no order or determination at any such meeting, once made or agreed upon, shall be revoked or altered at any subsequent meeting, unless notice of the intention to propose such revocation or alteration shall have been given at a previous meeting, and entered in the minutes of such meeting, and transmitted by post to every trustee not present at such previous meeting, who shall have been present at the meeting where such order or determination was made, and such notice shall also be published by two several advertisements in some newspaper or newspapers usually circulated in the county or district of the county where the road or roads or the principal part thereof shall be, ten days at least previous to such subsequent meeting; and it shall be lawful for any two trustees as aforesaid at any time to call or require their clerk to call a meeting: Provided always, that notice of such meeting and of the purpose thereof shall be published by two advertisements as aforesaid.

iv. That all such trustees may and are hereby authorized to appoint clerks, collectors, treasurers, superintendents, surveyors, and other officers, with reasonable allowances for their trouble, and to take such security from any of them for their intrusions, and for the faithful discharge of their duty, as may be deemed expedient; and no person acting as such trustee, clerk, collector, treasurer, superintendent, surveyor, or other officer, shall directly or indirectly have or hold any share or interest in any contract for making or repairing any of the said highways, bridges, or ferries, under a penalty of 20*l*.

v. That all such trustees may pursue and be pursued in the name of their clerk or treasurer for the time being; and no action or process shall cease by the death or removal of such clerk or treasurer, but shall be continued in the name of the clerk or treasurer for the time.

vi. That all such trustees shall cause a book or books to be kept, in which shall be entered all the minutes of their orders and proceedings, as also true and regular accounts of all service performed and of all money received and expended on account of the highways, bridges, and ferries under their charge, specifying the sums applied to ordinary repairs, and to improvements of each highway, bridge, and ferry, and to management and expenses, and the sums due and not recovered, as also the amount of debt and interest thereof; and such accounts for the year current at the passing of this Act shall be made up in each county or district of a county, and shall be audited and signed by two of the said trustees, or by their preses, if more than two be present, within a year after the passing of this Act; and the accounts so made up, audited, and signed shall include all transactions preceding the period of one month before the time at which they are so signed; and similar accounts shall be annually thereafter made up, and shall in like manner be audited and signed within one month from the time to which they are so made up; and after the first year from and after the passing of this Act it shall not be lawful for any person whatsoever to act in any way in the collection of another year's conversion until such accounts shall have been made up, audited, and signed as above directed.

vii. That any person, having performed service or paid the conversion in money or assessment for the past or current year, may see and take a copy of the said accounts or any part thereof, on paying 1*s*. to the clerk or treasurer for each time of inspection; and an abstract of such accounts shall be printed and published annually in at least one newspaper usually circulated in the county or district where the road or roads or principal part thereof shall be, within one month after the said accounts are audited and signed as aforesaid; and any clerk or treasurer neglecting to make up or refusing or not permitting inspection of such accounts as aforesaid, or failing to print and publish the abstract thereof as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l*. to any such person who shall prosecute for the same, with the expenses of process or proceedings.

viii. That it shall not be lawful to commence any legal process or proceeding for the recovery of any sum due or leviable as conversion of statute service, or assessment in lieu of such conversion, for making or maintaining any highway, bridge, or ferry, after six months from the time when the said sum shall have become leviable; and in all cases previous demand shall be made thirty days before commencing such process or proceeding.

ix. That it shall be competent to recover any sum under 100*l*. Scots due or leviable as aforesaid for making or repairing any highway, bridge, or ferry, according to the provisions of an Act, 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. 41, intituled, 'An Act for the more effectual Recovery of Small Debts in the Sheriff Courts, and for regulating the Establishment of Circuit Courts for the Trial of Small Debt Causes by the Sheriffs,' in Scotland, anything to the contrary in any local Act notwithstanding: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall in any way alter or affect any enactment or provision in any local Act relative to warrants for poinding for the purpose aforesaid, or any proceeding consequent thereon, saving and excepting that it shall not be competent after the passing of this Act to imprison any person for non-performance of statute labour, or non-payment of the conversion thereof or assessment in lieu of such conversion.

x. That from and after this present year 1845 it shall not be lawful to require any person, not being the proprietor or occupier of lands, buildings, or other heritable subjects of the yearly value of 2*l*. or more, to work or perform statute service on any highway, bridge, or ferry, or to exact or levy money from any such person as conversion of statute service, or otherwise for making or maintaining any highway, bridge, or ferry; and all warrants for poinding or imprisonment, and other legal proceedings whatsoever, against any such person as aforesaid, on account of non-performance of such work or service, or non-payment of such money or conversion, are hereby prohibited and discharged, saving and excepting such proceedings as shall have been commenced before the last day of December 1845, which, notwithstanding anything herein contained, may be continued and carried on in all respects as if this Act had not been passed.

xi. That it shall and may be lawful for all such trustees, at a general meeting assembled, on previous notice of such purpose being given as above directed, from time to time to fix and determine any amount of yearly value of lands, buildings, and other heritable subjects not under 2*l*. and not above 5*l*., to the proprietors and occupiers of which such trustees shall think fit to extend the said exemption in any county or district of a county; and it shall not thereafter be lawful to require any person, not being the proprietor or occupier of lands, buildings, or other heritable subjects of a yearly value above the amount so fixed, to work or perform statute service on any highway, bridge or ferry, or to exact or levy money from any such person as conversion of statute service or otherwise for making or maintaining any highway, bridge, or ferry.

XII. That in all cases in which, by authority of any local Act now in force, money, as conversion of statute service, or assessment in lieu thereof, is authorized to be assessed on lands, buildings, or other heritable subjects, and is payable in whole or in part by the occupiers or tenants of such lands, buildings, or other heritable subjects, it shall and may be lawful to assess upon and recover from the proprietor of any such lands, buildings, or other heritable subjects such money, or part thereof, as the trustees appointed by such local Act may think proper, so payable by any occupier or tenant thereof, who is not occupier or tenant or proprietor of lands, buildings, or heritable subjects of the yearly value in the whole of 2*l*.: Provided always, that if all the lands, buildings, or other heritable subjects belonging to such proprietor shall not be of the yearly value of 2*l*., no part of such money shall be assessed upon or recovered from such proprietor.

XIII. That in all cases in which any sum of money heretofore exigible as conversion of statute service, or assessment in lieu thereof, shall under this Act cease to be so exigible, it shall be lawful for all such trustees at a general meeting assembled to assess in any county or district of a county any sum not exceeding the amount of the conversion or other money which by reason of this Act shall cease to be exigible, and to cause the same to be levied upon all lands, buildings, and other heritable subjects not hereinbefore exempted from assessment, or to be added to the sums otherwise assessable by any local Act, and that notwithstanding the rate of assessment should be thereby raised above the maximum amount authorized by such local Act; and all such sums so assessed or added shall be levied and applied in the same manner as the money might have been levied and applied in lieu of which the said sums are assessed; and all such sums shall be payable, one-half by the owners, and the other half by the occupiers of the lands, buildings, or other heritable subjects so assessed; and it shall be competent to levy from the occupiers the half payable by the owners, and such occupiers shall be entitled to deduct such half from the rent payable to the owners or other parties having right to such rent.

And after reciting that it is expedient to abolish the personal performance of statute service, and the levying of the conversion thereof in money or any assessment in lieu of such conversion, as a poll-tax:—

It is Enacted,

XIV. That from and after this present year 1845 it shall and may be lawful for all such trustees at a general meeting assembled, if they shall think fit, to order and direct that in any county or district of a county all such performance of statute service, and all such levying of conversion or assessment in lieu thereof, shall cease and determine.

XV. That in the case of such assessment being laid upon lands, buildings, and heritable subjects as aforesaid, the annual value thereof shall be ascertained by such trustees in manner prescribed by the local Acts now in force, or in such and like manner as the annual value of lands, buildings, and heritable subjects is authorized and directed to be ascertained in counties and burghs respectively under and by virtue of an Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 42, intituled, 'An Act to improve Prisons and Prison Discipline in Scotland;' and it shall be lawful for such trustees, if they shall think fit, to assume the amount ascertained as the annual value of such lands, buildings, and heritable subjects in counties and burghs respectively, under the said recited Act, to be the amount on which the assessment hereby authorized to be levied may be levied for the purposes of this Act.

XVI. That nothing herein contained shall extend or be deemed or construed to extend to prevent the commencing any legal process or proceeding for the recovery of any debt or debts, sum or sums of money, with interest thereon, allocated and apportioned by virtue of any Act of Parliament now in force upon any proprietor or proprietors of lands, heritor or heritors, according and in proportion to the real or valued rents of such lands within any county, and now due and owing by any such proprietor or proprietors, heritor or heritors, to any trustees acting by virtue of any such Act of Parliament, but all such debts, sums of money and interest thereon, may be recovered in the same manner, to all intents and purposes, as if this Act had not been passed.

XVII. That all life-renters and wadsetters shall be deemed and held to be proprietors for all the purposes of this Act; and that where any house has been or shall be built by any tenant under a building lease, such tenant, and his heirs and assignees, shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed and taken to be proprietor of such house.

XVIII. That it shall be lawful for all such trustees, or any person authorized by them, to search for, dig, and carry away materials for making or repairing any highway, bridge, or ferry, or for building, making or repairing any work connected herewith, from any common land, open uncultivated land, or waste, or to deposit mud or rubbish thereon, without paying any surface damages or anything for such materials, except for stone to be used for building, and to carry the same through the round of any person; such trustees, or other persons authorized by them, filling up the pits or quarries, levelling the ground herefrom such materials shall be taken, or fencing off such pits or quarries, so that the same shall not be dangerous to any person or cattle, and paying for or tendering the damage done by going through and over any inclosed or arable lands for or with such materials, mud, or rubbish, such damages to be ascertained as hereinafter mentioned; and also that it shall be lawful for such trustees, and other persons authorized by them, as aforesaid, to search for, dig, and carry away any such materials in or out of the inclosed land of any person where the same may be found, and to land or carry the same through or over the ground of any person (such materials not being required for the private use of the owner or occupier of such land, or such land or ground not being an orchard, garden, lawn, policy, nursery for trees, planted walk or avenue to any house, nor inclosed ground planted as an ornament or shelter to a house, unless where materials have been previously used to be taken by the said trustees), making or tendering such satisfaction for stones to be used for building, and for the surface damage done to the lands from whence such materials shall be dug and carried away, or over or on which the same all be carried or landed, as such trustees shall judge reasonable; and in case such trustees and the proprietor or occupier of such lands shall differ as to the amount of such payments and damages as aforesaid, it shall be competent to the sheriff or Justices of the Peace for the shire wherein the place from whence such materials shall have been taken, or on which the same all have been landed or carried, shall be situate, on the application of either party, with inducible of six days, to hear and determine all questions as to the amount of such payments and damages, and the expenses attending the same: Provided always, that before taking such materials from any inclosed land from which the same shall not previously have been in use to be taken, fourteen days' previous notice in writing, signed by two trustees, shall be given to or left at the usual residence of the proprietor and occupier of the land or quarry from which it is intended to take the same, or his or her known agent, to appear before the sheriff or any two Justices of the Peace acting for the shire where the said lands are situate, to shew cause why such materials shall not be so taken: and in case such proprietor, occupier, or agent shall attend pursuant to such notice, or shall neglect or refuse to appear (proof on oath in such case being duly made of the service of such notice), such sheriff or Justices shall authorize or prohibit the trustees to take such materials, or make such order as they shall think fit.

XXIX. That it shall not be lawful for any person to take away any materials which shall have been procured or provided or used for making or repairing any highway, bridge, or ferry, or to take any materials out of any quarry, which shall have been opened by any such trustees for the purpose of getting materials, so as to interrupt or interfere with the workings carried on by such trustees, and every person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 5*l*.

XX. That it shall be lawful for all such trustees to make a road through the grounds adjoining to any ruinous or narrow part of any highway (not being an orchard, garden, lawn, policy, planted walk or avenue to any house, or nursery for trees), to be made use of as a public highway whilst the old road is repairing or widening, making recompence to the proprietor and occupier of such grounds for the damages they may thereby sustain; and in case such trustees and such proprietor or occupier shall differ as to the amount of such damages, it shall be competent to the sheriff or Justices of the Peace for the shire where such damages or any part thereof shall have been incurred, on the application of either party, with an inducement of six days, to hear and determine all questions as to the amount of such damages, and the expenses attending the same.

XXI. That it shall be lawful for all such trustees to make sufficient side drains on any highway, with power to conduct the water therefrom into any adjoining land, ditch, or watercourse (such land not being the site of any house or garden), in such manner as shall be least injurious to the proprietor or occupier of such land, the said side drains to be maintained at the expense of the trustees.

XXII. That it shall be lawful for all such trustees to make sufficient ditches along the side of any highway, provided that if the land is inclosed on the side of such highway such ditch shall be made on the field side of the fence, and also to make proper ditches and outlets from the said side ditches through any lands adjoining any such highway (not being the site of any house or garden), in such manner as shall be least injurious to the proprietor and occupier of such land; and the occupier of such land (unless such land be uninclosed and waste) shall be obliged in all time thereafter to keep clear such side ditches and other ditches or outlets, as well as all such ditches already made along the sides of any highway, when so required by the said trustees or their surveyor; and in case the proprietor or occupier shall neglect or refuse to cleanse such side ditches or other ditches or outlets, when duly required by such trustees or surveyors, such trustees or surveyors are hereby empowered to cleanse such side ditches or other ditches or outlets, and levy the expense thereof from the occupier of such grounds: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prohibit any proprietor or occupier from substituting, to the satisfaction of the trustees, any other equally effectual ditch or outlet in place of that constructed by the trustees.

XXIII. That it shall be lawful for any such trustee or surveyor of any highway, or other person authorized by the said trustees, brevi manu, to seize and carry off any timber, stone, dung, rubbish, or other matter or thing whatsoever laid or left upon any such road or footpath, or on any side drain or ditch of such road, and to sell or otherwise dispose of the same as a forfeiture in such manner as the trustees shall direct, unless such matter or thing shall be previously redeemed by the owner thereof by payment of the penalty in such case enacted: Provided always, that the proprietor or occupier of any lands or houses may lay down any materials for building or repairing any house or wall immediately adjoining any highway, such materials occupying one-fourth part of such road only, and such proprietor or occupier giving three days' previous notice in writing to the clerk or surveyor of the road, and erecting such fence round such materials, and fixing and lighting lamps thereon, in such manner as the trustees may require.

XXIV. That if any person shall fill up or obstruct any ditch at the side of any highway, or any ditch used for conveying water from the said road, or any side drain thereof, or ditch or drain under the same, or shall encroach by making any dwelling house or other building, or any hedge, ditch, or other fence, or in any other manner whatever, on any highway, or shall make any drain, gutter, sink, or watercourse across, under, or upon, or shall turn or conduct any drain or water across, under, or upon, or in any way break up the surface of any highway, without the consent in writing of the trustees of such highway, or of their surveyor, such person shall forfeit for every such offence a penalty not exceeding 5*l*; and it shall be lawful for the trustees of any such highway to cause such dwelling-house or other building, hedge, ditch, or fence, drain, sink, watercourse, gutter, or other encroachment, to be taken down or filled up at the expense of the person so offending.

XXV. That it shall be lawful for all such trustees, where the parapet of any bridge, or any fence, milestone, direction post, or any erection, building matter, or thing belonging to the said trustees, or used for the purposes of the trust under their management, shall be destroyed or injured, and the persons so offending cannot be discovered and convicted, to complain to the sheriff or Justices of the Peace of the shire in which such damage shall have been committed, having previously given notice in writing of their intention of making such complaint on the church door of the parish in which the said damage shall have been committed for two consecutive Sundays, and which complaint the said sheriff or Justices shall hear in a summary way; and if they shall sustain the same they are hereby empowered and required to assess the amount of such damage, and the expenses of process or proceedings, upon the proprietors, occupiers, and such other persons of the parish wherein such damage shall have been committed as aforesaid as would if this Act had not been passed have been liable for the payment of the conversion money leviable for statute labour in the shire in which such parish is situated, which assessment shall be levied by the said trustees upon the same persons in the same proportions, with the same relief to landlords against tenants, and in the same manner as the said conversion money may be levied; and in the event of any fractional part of such assessment being less than  $\frac{1}{4}$ d. the whole of such  $\frac{1}{4}$ d. shall be leviable from the individual in whose assessment such fraction shall occur, and any surplus that may arise therefrom shall be applied to the repair of the roads.

XXVI. That if any person shall ride upon any footpath or causeway on or by the side of any highway made or set apart for the use or accommodation of foot passengers, or shall lead or drive any horse, ass, mule, swine, or cattle, or carriage of any description, or any wheelbarrow, truck, or sledge, or any single wheel of any waggon, cart, or carriage apart therefrom, upon any such footpath or causeway; or shall wilfully obstruct, or do or cause any injury or damage to be done to the same, or to the hedges, posts, rails, or fences thereof; or shall wilfully pull down or damage any bridge, wall, or any building, fence, or erection made by the trustees of any highway, or repaired or repairable by them; or shall break, injure, remove, or displace any tools, trestles, bars, stones, materials, or other article whatsoever belonging to such trustees, or used on any such road under their authority; or shall haul, or draw, or cause to be hauled or drawn, upon any part of any highway, any timber, stone, or other thing, otherwise than upon a wheeled carriage, or shall suffer any timber, stone, or other thing which shall be carried principally or in part upon a wheeled carriage to drag or trail upon such road; or in ploughing or harrowing any adjacent uninclosed land shall turn any horse, plough, or harrow in or upon such road or the side drains or ditches thereof; or shall, in or upon such road, or by the side or sides thereof, or in any exposed situation near thereto, kill, slaughter, singe, scald, burn, dress, or cut up any beast, swine, calf, lamb, or other cattle; or if any person, driving any carriage, cart, horse, or other beast on such road, conveying any iron bar or rod, tree, wood, stone, basket, or pannier, or any other matter or thing, except hay and straw, suffer the same to project by more than thirty inches from the side of such horse or other beast, or more than one foot laterally beyond the wheels of such carriage, or so as in any manner to obstruct or impede the passage of any person, or any horse, beast, or carriage travelling along such highway; or if any person shall carry any timber or other article above twenty-five feet long on any cart or carriage not having more than two wheels; or if any hawker, higgler, gipsy, or other person shall pitch any tent or encamp upon or by the sides of any part of any highway; or if any person occupying or using a blacksmith's shop, foundry, smelting house, iron or brass work, boiler-making work, glass work, soda, soap, or chemical work, shall not, by good and close shutters, every evening after it becomes twilight, or otherwise, bar and prevent the light from such shop shining into or upon such road, and from being dangerous or detrimental to travellers; or if any person shall make or assist in making any fire or fires commonly called bonfires, or shall set fire to or let off or throw any squib, rocket, serpent, or other firework whatsoever within one hundred feet of the centre of such road, or shall discharge any gun, pistol, or other fire-arms, fly kites, or bait or run for the purpose of baiting any bull, or play at football, tennis, fives, cricket, or any other game or games upon such road, or on the side or sides thereof, or in any exposed situation near thereto, to the annoyance of any passenger or passengers; or if any person shall leave any waggon, cart, or other carriage whatever upon such road or on the side or sides thereof, without any proper person in the sole custody or care thereof, longer than may be necessary to load or unload the same, except in cases of accident, and in cases of accident for a longer time than may be necessary to remove the same, or shall not place such waggon or other carriage during the time of loading or unloading the same, or of taking refreshments as near to one side of such road as conveniently may be, either with or without any horse or beast of draught harnessed or yoked thereto, or shall lay any timber, stone, hay, straw, dung, manure, soil, ashes, rubbish, or other matter or thing whatsoever upon such road or on the side or sides thereof, or the footpaths or causeways adjoining; or shall hang or lay any linen cloths or other such article on any hedge or fence of any such road; or shall suffer any water, filth, dirt, or other offensive matter or thing whatsoever to run or flow into or upon such road or footpaths from any house, building, erection, lands, or premises adjacent thereto; or if any person driving any pigs or swine upon such road shall suffer such pigs or swine to root up or damage such road, or the fences, hedges, banks, or copse on either side thereof respectively; or if any person shall, after having blocked or stopped any cart, waggon, or other carriage in going up a hill or rising ground, cause or suffer to be or remain on such road the stone or other thing with which such cart or other carriage shall have been blocked or stopped; or if any person shall pull down, damage, injure, or destroy any lamp or lamp post put up, erected, or placed in or near the side of any highway, or shall extinguish the light of any such lamp; every person offending in any of the cases aforesaid shall for each and every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 50s., over and above the damages occasioned thereby.

XXVII. That if the driver of any cart, waggon, or other such carriage on any highway shall ride on the shafts, or in or on any other part of such carriage, without having and holding reins attached to each side of the bridle of each beast of draught drawing such cart or carriage, or shall at any time leave the same travelling on any such road without having some person to guide the beast or beasts of draught drawing the same, or shall allow to go at large any dog that may be attending him, or his waggon, cart, or other such carriage, or shall not chain or fasten the same to such waggon, cart, or carriage, or if the driver of any sort of carriage shall not keep to the left or near side of such road on meeting or on being overtaken by any other carriage or any rider, or shall wilfully prevent any other person passing him or his carriage, such driver shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l.* over and above the damages occasioned thereby.

XXVIII. That if one person act as the driver of more than two carts, waggons, or other such carriages on any highway, or if the hinder of two carts, waggons, or other such carriages, under the care of only one person, shall be drawn by more than one horse, or if the horse of such hinder cart, waggon, or carriage shall not be attached by a rein to the back of the cart which shall be foremost, and follow in the same line therewith, the horse drawing such hinder cart not being permitted to be further from the foremost than six feet, the owner or driver of every such waggon, cart, or other carriage shall for each transgression in any of the points aforesaid forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 40s.

XXIX. That no waggon or cart travelling on any highway shall be driven by any person who shall not be of the full age of fourteen years, under a penalty for each such offence not exceeding 40s., to be paid by the owner of such waggon or cart.

XXX. That if the causeways and footpaths of any highway, or any part of such highway, shall be opened up by any person or persons, with leave of the said trustees, or otherwise having authority so to do, for the laying of pipes for water, gas, aqueducts, or railroads, or for any other purpose whatever, and the same shall not be immediately thereafter repaired, renewed, or rendered completely sufficient and good by the person or persons opening up the same to the satisfaction of the said trustees or their surveyor, then the said trustees or their surveyor shall have full power and they are hereby authorized to execute the necessary repairs on the part or parts of such road or footpath so opened up, and to restore the same completely, and to charge the expense thereof against the person or persons opening up the same, which shall be ascertained by an account under the hands of the said trustees or a quorum of them, or of their clerk or surveyor; and if any damage shall happen to the public from the operations of the persons opening up the road as aforesaid, such persons shall be solely liable for the same, and be obliged to relieve the said trustees thereof, and of all expenses attending the same; and in all cases where any injury shall arise to any highway from any drain, conduit, pipe, water, matter, or thing whatsoever being conveyed across, in, under, or upon, or by anything done upon, any part of any such road by any person having leave or otherwise entitled so to do, and such injury shall not be immediately repaired to the satisfaction of the trustees, they or their surveyor are hereby authorized to repair the same, and charge the expense thereof as aforesaid against the person occasioning the said injury, or for whose uses or purposes the thing occasioning the same shall be done or kept.

xxxI. That if the surveyor of any highway, or any contractor or other person employed on such road, shall lay on any part of any such road any heap of stones or other materials for the repair thereof, and shall permit the same to remain longer than necessary for the breaking and spreading of such materials, or shall lay on any such road any matter or thing, or shall knowingly permit to remain on any part of any such road any matter or thing, which may endanger the safety of any passenger, or shall dig any pit or make any cut on any highway without sufficiently fencing the same, such person shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l.* over and above the damages occasioned thereby, and expenses; and it shall be lawful for any person travelling along any highway to prosecute for such sum, damages, and expenses in manner hereinafter provided: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for any such surveyor, contractor, or other person to have on any such road, during daylight, any trestles or bars in any such manner as the trustees of such road may judge necessary to prevent interruption of the work during the repairing of the road, or to prevent carts or carriages from running in tracks injurious to the road: Provided also, that such trestles or bars shall at all times be placed in such manner as not to be more inconvenient to passengers than may be necessary to prevent interruption to the work, or to prevent carts or carriages from running in tracks injurious to the road.

xxxII. That if the proprietor or occupier of any lands adjacent to any highway shall dig any pit or make any cut upon or within twelve feet of the side of any such road, and shall leave the same unfenced so as to be dangerous to travellers, and shall not fence the same when required so to do by any two of the trustees of such road, or any procurator fiscal of the shire within which the said pit or cut is situated, such proprietor or occupier shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*l.* for every day such pit or cut shall continue to be unfenced beyond three days after notice shall have been given as aforesaid, and it shall be lawful, after such notice, for the said trustees or procurator fiscal to cause the same to be fenced at the expense of such proprietor or occupier.

xxxIII. That if any horse, cattle, ass, sheep, swine, or other beast of any kind shall be pastured, or left or permitted to remain, or found straying on any highway, or the sides thereof (except on such parts of any road as pass through or over any common or waste ground, or land not inclosed, unless it be arable on one side), the person so pasturing or leaving such beast, or permitting the same to remain, or the person having the charge of such beast, or the owner thereof if such person cannot be found, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 5*s.* for every such beast; and it shall be lawful for any trustee of such highway, or the surveyor of such trustees, or any other person authorized by them, brevi manu, to seize and detain the same until such penalty and the expenses of process and proceeding shall be paid; and in case the said penalty and expenses shall not be paid within three days after notice of such detention shall be given at the parish church nearest to the place where such animal shall be found, the said surveyor or other person shall sell the same, with the authority of the sheriff or any Justice of the Peace for the shire, who are hereby empowered to grant such authority; and, after deducting the amount of the said penalty and expenses, such surveyor or other person shall pay the surplus, if any, to the owner of such animal so detained.

xxxIV. That every person in ploughing any uninclosed land adjoining any highway shall make side ridges along the sides of such road of the breadth of twelve feet at the least, under a penalty not exceeding 5*l.*

xxxv. That no gate of any park, field, or inclosure whatsoever shall be made to open into or towards any part of any highway, or be suffered so to open, except the hanging post thereof shall be fixed or placed so far from the centre of any part of such road as that no part of such gate shall, when open, project over any part of such road, or of any footpath belonging thereto; and the occupier of any park, field, or inclosure having any gate opening outwards, contrary to the meaning of this Act, shall, within six days after notice to him or her given, either personally or in writing, from the trustees of such road or their surveyor, cause such gate to be hung so that no part of the gate, when open, shall project over any part of such road, or of any footpath belonging thereto; and if such occupier fail so to do, the surveyor of any such road shall cause the gate to be hung as hereinbefore directed, and charge the expense of making such alteration and hanging such gate against the said occupier, who shall over and above such expense, forfeit and pay a further sum, not exceeding 5*l.*, for such neglect.

xxxvi. That the trustees of every highway shall cut or cause to be cut all weeds growing on the same or the sides thereof, when inclosed, at a proper season of the year, in order to prevent such weeds coming into seed; and if they fail so to do for eight days after being required by the proprietor or occupier of the adjoining land, by notice in writing given to their clerk or surveyor, such proprietor or occupier may cut the same, and charge the expense thereof against the said trustees.

xxxvII. That the owner of every waggon or cart, and also of every coach, post chaise, or other carriage, let either in the whole or in part to hire, shall paint in a straight line horizontally upon some conspicuous part on the off or right side of his waggon or cart, and upon the panels of the doors of all such coaches, post chaises, or other carriages, before the same shall be used upon any highway, the christian and surname and place of abode of such person, or the christian and surname and place of abode of the principal partner or owner thereof, in large legible Roman letters, either of a dark colour upon a light ground or of a light colour on a dark ground, not less than one inch in height, with numbers, beginning with number one, where more of such carriages respectively than one shall belong to the same owner, and proceeding in regular progression, and shall continue the same thereupon as aforesaid so long as such waggon, cart, or other carriage shall be used upon any highway; and every owner of any such waggon, cart, or other carriage using or allowing the same to be used upon any highway without the names and descriptions painted thereon respectively as aforesaid; and every person driving the same, shall forfeit for every such offence a sum not exceeding 40*s.*; and every person driving any such waggon, cart, or other carriage, who shall refuse to stop, and permit the name to be read or uncovered by any person requiring him so to do, shall over and above forfeit for every such offence any sum not exceeding 40*s.*

xxxviii. That it shall be lawful for the procurator fiscal and for all such trustees, or any person authorized by them, or for any one of their number, to prosecute for any expenses, penalty, forfeiture, or fine imposed by this or any Act made for making or maintaining any highway, bridge, or ferry, and to recover the same before the sheriff or the Justices of the Peace of the shire in which the same shall have become due or been incurred, or where the offender shall reside, subject to appeal in manner hereinafter mentioned; and it shall be lawful for the said trustees to allow the expenses of such prosecutions to be defrayed out of the funds of the trust.

xxxix. That all expenses, penalties, forfeitures and fines imposed by this or any such Act as aforesaid (excepting such penalties as are herein otherwise directed to be recovered and applied) shall, after hearing the party complained of, or on the non-appearance of such party after summons, on an inducæ of six days, personally, or at the dwelling place of such party, (of which the oath of one witness, or an execution of citation without witnesses, shall be sufficient evidence,) upon proof of the fact before the sheriff or Justices of the Peace for the shire in which the same shall have become due or been incurred, or where the offender shall reside, either by the confession of the party offending or by the oath of any one credible witness, or other competent evidence, be levied, together with the expenses of the prosecution and conviction, by pouncing and sale of the goods and effects of the party offending, by warrant under the hand of such sheriff or Justices (which warrant such sheriff or Justices are hereby empowered to grant); and the surplus (if any), after deducting such expenses, penalties, forfeitures, and fines, and the expenses of the proceedings and charges of such pouncing and sale, shall be returned to the owner of such goods and effects; and in case the same shall not be forthwith paid upon conviction, then it shall be lawful for such sheriff or Justices to order the offender so convicted to be detained and kept in safe custody until return can be conveniently made to such warrant of pouncing, unless the offender shall give sufficient security, to the satisfaction of and to the amount fixed by such sheriff or Justices, for his or her appearance before such sheriff or Justices on such day as shall be appointed for the return of such warrant of pouncing, which security the said sheriff or Justices are hereby empowered to take by bond of caution or otherwise; but if upon the return of such warrant it shall appear that no sufficient goods and effects can be found, then it shall be lawful for the said sheriff or Justices, in all cases where the penalties sought to be recovered shall exceed the sum of 40s. and they are hereby authorized and required, by warrant under their hand, to cause such offender to be committed to the common gaol or house of correction of the shire where the offender shall be or reside, there to remain for any time not exceeding four months, unless such expenses, penalties, forfeitures, and fines, and the expenses of the proceedings, shall be sooner paid; and in all cases where the penalties awarded shall be less than the sum of 40s. the said sheriff or Justices may, when no effects can be found as above, commit the offender to prison for any time not exceeding two months, unless the said penalties, fines, and expenses shall be sooner paid; and the monies arising by such penalties, forfeitures, and fines respectively, if not otherwise directed to be applied by this Act, or the Act under which the same shall have been incurred, or in so far as not directed by the sheriff or Justices to be paid towards the expenses of the proceedings, shall be paid to the trustees for making and maintaining the roads, or to their treasurer, and applied and disposed of for the purposes of such roads.

xl. That it shall be lawful for the sheriff or any one Justice before whom any complaint for the recovery of any such expenses, penalties, forfeitures, or fines may be brought, to proceed, if such sheriff or Justice, duly considering the nature of the case, shall think fit, and not otherwise, in a summary way, and to grant warrant for bringing the parties complained upon before him for examination, and after hearing parties, on confession or probation by the oath of any credible witness, or other competent evidence, to proceed to determine thereon, without any written pleadings or record of evidence, and to grant warrant for levying the said penalties by pouncing and sale, and in the case of a return of no effects, or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such sheriff or Justice that no sufficient effects can be found, for the commitment of the offender as above enacted; but in all such cases a record shall be preserved of the charge and of the judgment pronounced.

xli. That if any person shall be summoned as a witness to give evidence before any sheriff or before any Justice of the Peace touching any matter contained in any Act relating to highways, bridges, or ferries, or in this Act, either on the part of the prosecutor or the person accused, and shall refuse or neglect to appear at the time and place for that purpose appointed, without a reasonable excuse for such refusal or neglect, then such person shall forfeit for every such offence any sum not exceeding 5*l.*; and it shall be no objection to any witness that such witness shall have appeared without citation, or without having been regularly cited.

And after reciting that offences may be committed against this Act, or other Acts for making and maintaining highways, bridges, or ferries, by persons unknown to the surveyors or other officers;—

It is Enacted,

xlii. That it shall be lawful for any of the trustees of any highway, or any of their clerks or their surveyors or other officers respectively, and such other person as any of them shall call to their assistance, or for any person seeing any offence committed against this or any such Act, without any warrant or other authority than this Act, brevi manu, to seize and detain any unknown person who shall commit any such offence, and take such person without delay before the sheriff or any neighbouring Justice of the Peace for the shire where the offence shall have been committed or where such offender shall be seized and apprehended, who shall forthwith examine and discharge or commit such person till caution de judicio sisti be found, or all proceed in the summary way above directed, as the case may seem to require.

xliii. That any person who shall think himself or herself aggrieved by any judgment or proceedings of any Justice or Justices of the Peace in the execution of this Act, for which no particular relief has been hereby provided, may, within three months after such judgment or proceedings, but not afterwards, appeal to the Justices of the Peace at the Quarter Sessions, the appellant giving fifteen days' previous notice of such appeal to the opposite party, and to the clerk of the said trustees and the clerk of the Justices of the Peace, and finding caution to pay the expenses of such appeal; and where by this Act the determining of any penalty, forfeiture, or fine, or the determining the amount of any payment, damages, or expenses, or any other matter is committed to any Justice or Justices of the Peace, or to the sheriff, or to the Justices of the Peace assembled at their Quarter Sessions, originally or by appeal, all judgments, determinations, and proceedings of such Justice or Justices not appealed from as aforesaid, and of such sheriff or quarter sessions, shall be final and conclusive, and shall not be subject to review by advocacy or suspension, or by reduction, or by any process of law or court whatsoever, any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

XLIV. That all warrants, interlocutors, judgments, and sentences of sheriffs and Justices, issued or pronounced under the authority of this Act, may be enforced against the person or effects of any party or witness in any other county, as well as in the county where the same are issued or pronounced: Provided always, that such warrants, interlocutors, judgments, and sentences shall be indorsed by the sheriff or a Justice of the Peace of such other county; and such indorsement shall be sufficient authority to the constables or sheriff's officers of the original county or of such other county to put the same to execution within such other county.

XLV. That all civil causes and prosecutions for penalties, forfeitures, and fines commenced before the passing of this Act, on account of any matter concerning any highway, bridge, or ferry, shall be carried on and concluded in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed; and nothing contained herein or in any local Act shall render it incompetent for any sheriff to hear and determine any civil causes or prosecutions for penalties, forfeitures, and fines on account of any of the matters hereinbefore or in any local Act enacted, according to the provisions of an Act, 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. 41, intituled 'An Act for the more effectual Recovery of Small Debts in the Sheriff Courts, and for regulating the Establishment of Circuit Courts for the Trial of Small Debt Causes by the Sheriffs, in Scotland.'

XLVI. That all civil causes, petitions, complaints, and processes whatsoever, and prosecutions or proceedings, for expenses, penalties, forfeitures, and fines imposed by this Act or any local Act, or for any damages incurred or any wrongs done or injuries suffered in any matter thereto relating, or for anything done in pursuance of any of the powers by this or any such Act given and granted, shall be commenced within six calendar months after the penalty, forfeiture, fine, or damage shall have been incurred, or wrong done or injury suffered, or fact committed, and not afterwards: Provided always, that nothing in this clause contained shall apply to or affect in any way what is above enacted concerning processes and proceedings for the recovery of any sum due or leviable as the conversion of statute service, and the expenses thereof.

XLVII. That nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to extend to apply to the middle district in the county of Edinburgh.

CAP. XLII.

AN ACT to enable Canal Companies to become Carriers of Goods upon their Canals.

(21st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

2. Company to be subject to the bye-laws of any other company upon whose canal they may act as carriers.
3. Canal companies may provide bolls and power for hauling and tracking vessels of other persons.
4. Tolls, &c. to be charged equally to all persons.
5. Company may sue and be sued as carriers, and may prefer indictments.
6. Provisions in force relating to common carriers, to apply to such companies.
7. Companies empowered to contract with other canal companies.
8. Canal companies empowered to lease their tolls.
9. Lessees to be deemed collectors.
10. Lessee making default to be removed.
11. Power to re-let tolls.
12. Act not to apply to canals vested in shareholders, until approved of at a meeting, or in other cases by proprietors, and notice inserted in Gazettes, &c.
13. Act not to exempt canal companies from any general Act.
14. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by divers Acts of Parliament railway companies have been empowered to convey upon their railways all such goods, wares, merchandise, articles, matters, and things as may be offered to them for that purpose, and to make such reasonable charges for such conveyance as they may from time to time determine upon: And that greater competition for the public advantage would be obtained if similar powers were granted to canal and navigation companies which have from time to time been incorporated or established under the authority of Parliament; but such beneficial purpose cannot be effected without the authority of Parliament:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall be lawful for the company of proprietors, trustees, or the undertakers of any canal, river, or navigation, or their respective committees, directors, or managers, or their superintendents or other agents by them duly authorized, to carry as common carriers for their own profit upon their respective canals, rivers, or navigations, or upon any railways or tramways belonging thereto, and constructed under the powers of their respective Acts of Parliament, or upon any other canals, rivers, or navigations communicating therewith, either directly or by means of any intermediate canal, river, or navigation, all such goods, wares, merchandise, articles, matters, and things as may be intrusted to them for that purpose, and for the better enabling them so to do to purchase, hire, and construct, and to use and employ, any number of boats, barges, vessels, rafts, carts, waggons, carriages, and other conveniences, and also to establish and furnish such haulage, trackage, or other means of drawing or propelling the same, either by steam, animal, or other power, or for the purpose of collecting, carrying, conveying, warehousing, and delivering such goods, wares, merchandise, articles, matters, and things, as to any such company or undertakers shall seem fit, and to make such reasonable charges for such conveyance, warehousing, collection, and delivery as they may respectively from time to time determine upon, in addition to the several tolls or dues which any such company or undertakers are now authorized to take for the use of their said canals, navigations or railways.

II. Provided and enacted, That any such company, commissioners, trustees, or undertakers using or employing any steam power for propelling by means of paddle wheels, boats, barges, vessels, or rafts, upon any canal, river, or navigation, (other than their respective canals, rivers, and navigations,) shall use and employ the same, subject to such bye-laws, rules, and regulations touching the construction, dimensions, power, rate of speed, and otherwise, of such boats, barges, vessels, or rafts so propelled by steam as aforesaid as the directors, commissioners, or undertakers of the canals, rivers, and navigations respectively on which such last-mentioned boats, barges, vessels, or rafts shall be used and employed shall see fit to make and publish in that behalf, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to make and publish such bye-laws, rules, and regulations, and from time to time to add to or amend the same, as need may require; but it is hereby expressly provided and enacted that any bye-laws, rules, and regulations so to be made and published shall be made equally applicable to and binding on all companies and persons so using such last-mentioned boats, barges, or other vessels.

III. That it shall also be lawful for any such company, trustees, or undertakers to purchase and provide and use boats and other vessels, and also horses, steam or other power, and machinery for hauling, tracking, and towing, upon their own canals, rivers, or navigations, or upon any other canals, rivers, or navigations communicating therewith, either directly or by means of any intermediate canal, river, or navigation, and to employ a sufficient number of competent persons for those purposes, and to demand and receive for the use of such boats, and for such hauling, tracking, or towing, such reasonable hire or remuneration as shall be fixed by the respective committees, directors, or managers of such canals or navigations, or as shall be agreed upon between them and any person desiring the use of any such boats or vessels, or requiring such hauling, tracking, or towing.

IV. Provided and enacted, That all charges to be made by any such company for the carriage of any such goods, wares, merchandise, articles, or things, or for the use of their boats and other vessels, or for the supply of haulage, trackage, or other power, shall be at all times charged equally to all persons, and after the same rate, whether per mile, or per ton per mile or otherwise, in respect of all goods, wares, merchandise, articles, and things of a like description, and conveyed or propelled in a like boat or vessel at the same rate of speed, and passing along the same portion of any such canal or navigation under the like circumstances, and no reduction or advance in any of such charges shall be made, either directly or indirectly, in favour of or against any particular company or person passing along or using, or sending goods, wares, merchandise, articles, or things along the same portion of any such canal or navigation under the like circumstances.

V. That any canal or navigation company exercising the powers by this Act granted shall have all the same powers and remedies for recovering any sum or sums of money which shall or may become due and owing to such company as carriers, or for the use of any boats or vessels, or for the supply of any haulage, trackage, or other power, by virtue of this Act, as are given to them respectively by their said several Acts of Parliament in reference to the tolls and duties thereby made payable or they may, at their option, sue for and recover such charges, or any part thereof, in any of the superior courts; and such company may in like manner be sued for any loss sustained by any person or persons employing the said company as carriers, or for any neglect or misconduct of such company or their servants in respect of their conduct as carriers by virtue of this Act; and such company may prosecute any indictment or other proceeding at law in respect of any offence arising or being committed in the course of such carrying or other proceeding under this Act; and it shall be sufficient if any goods or other things which are set out in any indictment shall be described and laid to be the property of the said company.

VI. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall in any case extend to charge or make liable any such company further or in any other case than where, according to the laws of this realm for the time being, common carriers would be liable; nor shall anything herein contained extend to deprive such company of any protection or privilege which either now or at any time hereafter common carriers have or may be entitled to, but such company shall from time to time and at all times have and be entitled to the benefit of every such protection and privilege.

And after reciting that in order to facilitate the conveyance of goods and merchandise and other matters and things in manner aforesaid, it is expedient that canal and navigation companies should be empowered to enter into arrangements with each other in the way that railway companies are authorized, so as to avoid the necessity for a change of boats and other delays arising from a diversity of interest:—

It is Enacted,

VII. That, notwithstanding anything in this Act or in any of the said Acts for establishing or incorporating the said companies contained, it shall be lawful for any such canal or navigation company as aforesaid and they are hereby empowered from time to time to make and enter into any contract or agreement with any other canal or navigation company, or the commissioners or undertakers thereof respectively, (and which contract or agreement such other company is hereby authorized to enter into,) either for the division or apportionment of tolls, dues, and charges, or for the passage over or along their respective canals or navigations, or any branches thereof, or any railways or tramways connected therewith and belonging thereto as aforesaid, of any boats, barges, or other vessels, or of any carriages or trucks drawn or propelled by steam, animal, or other power, of or belonging to any other company, or which shall pass along any other line of canal, navigation or railway, or for the passage over or along any other line of canal, navigation, or railway of any such boats, barges, or other vessels, carriages, or trucks drawn or propelled as aforesaid, which shall belong to any such company, or which shall pass along their line of canal, navigation, or railway, upon the payment of such tolls and duties, and under such conditions and restrictions, as may be deemed advisable and may be mutually agreed upon, and also to enter into any other contract with any other canal or navigation company that may be deemed advisable; and any such contract may contain such covenants, clauses, conditions, and agreements as the contracting parties may think advisable and mutually agree upon.

VIII. That it shall be lawful for any such canal or navigation company, from time to time, by lease, to take effect in possession within six months from the letting thereof, to let the tolls and duties or any part thereof, upon the whole or any part of any such canal or navigation, or of any such railways or tramways, to any other canal or navigation company, (and which lease such other canal or navigation company is hereby authorized to accept and enter into,) for any period not exceeding twenty-one years from the commencement of any such lease: Provided always, that no such letting shall take place unless public notice of the intention to let such tolls, or the part thereof intended to be let, shall have been given by the company proposing to let the same, by advertisement, at least fourteen days prior to the meeting of the directors or managers at which it shall be intended to let such tolls.

IX. That during the continuance of any such lease the respective lessees named therein, and also all persons appointed by them to collect the tolls so let, shall be deemed collectors of the tolls so let, and they shall have the same powers to collect and recover such tolls, and be subject to the same rules, duties, and penalties in reference thereto, as if they had been appointed for that purpose by the company demising the same.

X. That if any such lease shall become void or voidable, according to any stipulations therein contained for that purpose, by reason of the failure on the part of the lessee to comply with any of the terms of such lease, or if all or any part of the rent thereby reserved shall be in arrear or unpaid for twenty-one days after the same shall become payable, then, upon application made by the company who shall have demised the same, to a Justice, it shall be lawful for such Justice to order any constable, with proper assistance, to enter upon any toll house, dwelling house, office, weighing machine, or other building, with the appurtenances, belonging to the lessors, and remove from the same the lessee or collector or other person found therein, together with his goods, and take possession thereof and of all property found therein belonging to the lessors, and deliver the same to them or any person appointed by them for that purpose.

XI. That upon such possession being obtained it shall be lawful for the company having made such demise to determine the lease (if any) previously subsisting, and the same shall accordingly be utterly void, except as to the remedies of the lessors for payment of the rent due, or in respect of any unperformed or broken obligations or conditions on the lessee's part, all which remedies shall remain in full force; and in every such case, either during such proceedings or on the termination thereof, the company may again let the tolls to the same or any other person, or cause them to be collected in the same manner as if no such former lease had been made relative thereto.

XII. Provided and enacted, That this Act shall not apply to any canal or navigation the property wherein is vested in shareholders, nor shall the powers of leasing hereinbefore contained be exercised by any such canal or navigation company, until a meeting of the shareholders thereof shall have been duly convened in such manner as meetings are by their respective Acts of incorporation or settlement required to be called or are usually called, and it shall have been determined by a majority of two-thirds of the votes of the shareholders in such meeting assembled, either in person or by proxy, when by such Acts of incorporation or settlement voting by proxy is allowed, to adopt the powers and provisions hereby granted, or such and so many of them as it shall at such meeting be determined shall be adopted, or to grant or accept any such lease, nor to any canal or navigation the property wherein is vested in one or more owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors, unless the owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors thereof shall determine to adopt the powers and provisions hereby granted, nor in either case until public notice of any such determination and intention shall have been inserted in the London Gazette in respect of canals or navigations in England or Wales, in the Edinburgh Gazette in respect of canals or navigations in Scotland, and in the Dublin Gazette in respect of canals or navigations in Ireland, and in some newspaper circulating in the county or counties wherein such canal or navigation, or some part thereof, shall pass one month at the least previously to the exercise of any such powers, whereupon, or immediately after the expiration of such notice, every such company, or their respective committees, directors, or managers, or their agents by them duly authorized in manner aforesaid, may from time to time put in force and exercise the said powers or any of them, in the manner by this Act authorized.

XIII. That nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt any canal or navigation company who shall adopt the powers of this Act from the operation of any general Act regulating the manner of charging tolls and other charge upon canals or navigations in respect of passengers, goods, animals, articles, and things of a like description, which may be passed in the course of any future session of Parliament.

XIV. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. XLIII.

AN ACT for encouraging the Establishment of Museums in large Towns.

(21st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Town councils of certain municipal boroughs may purchase lands and erect thereon museums of art and science.
2. Town councils may borrow money for purchase of lands, &c.
3. Such lands, &c., to vest in town council.
4. Rates of admission to public.—Regulations for preserving contents, &c.
5. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient to promote the establishment and extension of museums of art and science in large towns for the instruction and amusement of the inhabitants thereof:—

It is Enacted,

I. That it shall be lawful for the council of any municipal borough, the population of which, according to the last account from time to time taken thereof by authority of Parliament, exceeds ten thousand persons, if such council shall think fit so to do, to purchase lands, and to erect thereon buildings suitable for museums of art and science, and to maintain and keep the same in good repair, and to accept any gifts, grants, or devises of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, for the purpose of establishing, improving, or maintaining such museums, or to contribute toward the establishment and maintenance of such museums in any neighbouring borough; and that the costs and charges of such lands and buildings, and the keeping of the same in good repair, and the payment of any principal money or interest borrowed under the authority of this Act, or of such contribution, shall be chargeable upon and paid for out of the borough fund of such municipal borough, and for that purpose the council may levy with and as part of the borough rate, or by a separate rate to be levied in like manner as the borough rate, such sums of money as shall be from time to time needed, so that the whole amount of the borough rate be not increased in any one year for the purposes of this Act by more than one halfpenny in the pound, or if a separate rate be levied so that such rate do not in any one year amount to more than one halfpenny in the pound of the annual value of the property in the borough rateable to the borough rate.

II. That for the purchase of such lands, and for defraying the costs of such buildings as may be erected thereon, or for contributing to the cost of such purchase or building, it shall be lawful for the council of any such municipal borough as aforesaid, from time to time, with the approval of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to borrow at interest the amount of money which may be required for the same, on the security of the borough rates as aforesaid, or the separate rate authorized by this Act.

III. That the lands and buildings so purchased or erected as aforesaid, and also all specimens of art or science, and articles of every description, which may be purchased for or presented to any such museum, and accepted by the council thereof, shall be vested in and held upon trust for ever by the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses of the borough in which such museum shall be situated, and shall be managed by the council of the borough, and kept in fit and proper order, for the benefit of the inhabitants of the borough, and others resorting thereto.

IV. That the council of any such municipal borough may from time to time fix such rates of payment for admission to any such museum as the council may think expedient, not exceeding the sum of 1*d.* for each person admitted, and the amount so raised shall be employed in defraying the salaries of the curators and other persons employed in charge of such museum, and in lighting, warming, cleaning, and otherwise supporting and improving the same; and that the council may make such regulations for the preservation of the contents of such museum, and for the maintenance of order within as may to them seem expedient.

V. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

After reciting that it is expedient to provide for the better protection of works of art, and of scientific and literary collections, and also of public statues and monuments, from wanton injury :—

It is Enacted,

i. That from and after the passing of this Act every person who shall unlawfully and maliciously destroy or damage any thing kept for the purposes of art, science, or literature, or as an object of curiosity, in any museum, gallery, cabinet, library, or other repository, which museum, gallery, cabinet, library, or other repository is either at all times or from time to time open for the admission of the public, or of any considerable number of persons, to view the same, either by permission of the proprietor thereof, or by the payment of money before entering the same, or any picture, statue, monument, or painted glass in any church or chapel or other place of religious worship, or any statue or monument exposed to public view, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and, being duly convicted thereof, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any period not exceeding six months, and, if a male, may during the period of such imprisonment be put to hard labour, or be once, twice, or thrice privately whipped, in such manner as the Court before which such person shall be tried shall direct.

ii. That every punishment imposed on any person for an offence against this Act shall apply and be enforced, whether the offence shall be committed from malice conceived against the owner of the thing damaged or destroyed or not.

iii. That any person found committing any offence against this Act may be immediately apprehended, without a warrant, by any other person, and forthwith taken before some neighbouring Justice of the Peace, to be dealt with according to law.

iv. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the right of any person to recover by action at law damages for the injury so committed.

v. That every person who shall abet, counsel, or procure the commission of any offence against this Act shall be punished as a principal offender.

vi. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland.

vii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. XLV.

AN ACT to make perpetual and amend an Act of the Fifth and Sixth Years of Her present Majesty, for preventing Ships clearing out from any Port in British North America or in the Settlement of Honduras from loading any Part of their Cargo of Timber upon Deck.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Recited Act, except so much as is hereby repealed, to be made perpetual.
2. Repealing so much of the Act as prohibits the lading of cargo upon deck or the sailing without certificate, and as imposes a penalty therefor.
3. Clearing officers to ascertain and certify that the cargo of certain ships is below deck.—Captains of such ships not to sail without certificate.
4. No part of the cargo of such ships to be placed on deck.—Proviso for removal of cargo in cases of leakage or damage.—Stores not to be taken to be cargo.
5. Penalty for offences against this Act.
6. Provisions of recited Act respecting indictments and proceedings applied to indictments and proceedings under this Act.
7. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 17, and that it is expedient that the said Act should be further continued and made perpetual, but it is necessary that certain amendments should be made therein :—

It is Enacted,

i. That the said Act, except so much thereof as is hereinafter repealed, shall from and after the passing of this Act be continued in force and be perpetual.

ii. That so much of the said Act as enacts that it shall not be lawful for any part of the cargo of any ship or vessel laden with timber or wood goods, and clearing from any British port in North America or the settlement of Honduras between the 1st of September and the 1st of May in each year, to be placed during any part of the voyage on the deck of such ship or vessel, and that no captain or master of any ship or vessel so clearing shall be permitted to sail without first procuring a certificate from the clearing officer that all the cargo is below deck, and so much of the said Act as imposes a penalty upon a captain or other person offending against the provisions thereof, shall be repealed.

III. That before any clearing officer permits any vessel wholly or in part laden with timber or wood goods to clear out from any British port in North America or in the settlement of Honduras, for any port in the United Kingdom, at any time after the 1st of September or before the 1st of May in any year, he shall ascertain that the whole of the cargo of such vessel is below deck, and shall give the captain or other person having command of such vessel a certificate to that effect; and no captain or other person having command of any vessel so laden as aforesaid shall sail from any of the ports aforesaid for any port of the United Kingdom at any such time as aforesaid until he has obtained such certificate as aforesaid from the clearing officer.

IV. That no captain, owner, supercargo, or other person having command of any vessel in respect of which such certificate as aforesaid has been obtained shall place, or permit or cause to be placed, or to remain or be, upon or above the deck of such vessel, any part of the cargo thereof, until such vessel has arrived at the port of her destination: Provided always, that if the captain or other person having command of any such vessel consider that it is necessary, in consequence of the springing a leak or of other damage received or apprehended during the voyage, to remove any portion of the cargo upon deck, he may remove or cause to be removed upon the deck of such vessel so much of the cargo and may permit the same to remain there for such time as he considers expedient: Provided also, that the store, spars, or other articles necessary for the vessel's use, shall not be taken to be cargo for the purposes of this Act.

V. That if any captain or other person having the command of any vessel for which such certificate as aforesaid is hereby required sails or attempts to sail without having obtained such certificate, or places, or permits or causes to be placed, or to remain or be, upon or above the deck of such vessel, any part of the cargo thereof, except in the cases in which the same is not forbidden by this Act, he shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 100*l*.

VI. That all the enactments of the said Act respecting indictments, informations, and proceedings in respect of offences alleged to have been committed against the provisions thereof, and respecting proceedings for the recovery of the penalties inflicted thereby, shall be held and taken to apply to all indictments, informations, and proceedings against any person or persons in respect of offences committed or alleged to have been committed against the provisions of this Act, and to all proceedings for the recovery of any penalty incurred or alleged to have been incurred by any person or persons under this Act.

VII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

CAP. XLVI.—IRELAND.

AN ACT for the Appointment of additional Constables for keeping the Peace near Public Works in Ireland.

(21st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

Additional head and other constables may be appointed by the Lord Lieutenant to keep the peace near the works of railways, &c. in Ireland.

Expense of additional head and other constables to be paid by the company or parties carrying on such works.

If the company or parties neglect to pay the expense, it may be recovered at the suit of Her Majesty's Attorney General for Ireland, or by distress and sale of the goods of the company.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient to provide for the appointment and payment of additional head and other constables for keeping the peace, and for the protection of the inhabitants and the security of property in the neighbourhood of railway works and other public works in Ireland:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act, in any case in which the works of any railway, canal, or other public work of a similar nature shall be in progress of construction in Ireland, upon the application of the company or other parties carrying on any such public work, or upon the application of two or more Justices of the Peace of the county acting in the by sessions of the district in or through which any such public work may be in the course of construction, to whom it shall be made appear, on the oath of two or more credible witnesses, that the appointment of additional constables, for the keeping of the peace, and for the protection of the inhabitants, and the security of property, in the neighbourhood of such works, is necessary in consequence of the behaviour or reasonable apprehension of the behaviour of the persons employed in the said works, it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, if he or they shall so think fit, from time to time to order and direct that, in addition to the number of head and other constables whom the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland is or are authorized to appoint by virtue of an Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 12, intitled 'An Act to consolidate the Laws relating to the Constabulary Force in Ireland,' and the other Acts relating the same, such number of head and other constables as he or they shall think fit, not exceeding in any case the number specified in any such application as aforesaid, shall be appointed and employed during the construction of such public works, in aid of and in conjunction with the said constabulary force in such county, county of a city, county of a town, or town-land, near to the said public works so in progress of construction, as shall be mentioned in the said order, and shall remain there for such length of time, or remove to or remain at such other place or places near to such public works for such time or times, as shall be mentioned or directed by such order, or any other order or orders which may from time to time be made by such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors or by the inspector general of the said constabulary force, under the controul and directions of the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors; and such constables may in like manner, by any such order, be reduced in number, or wholly removed from the neighbourhood of such works; and the head and other constables so appointed shall, during the period of such employment, have the same amount of pay and allowances, and the same rights, powers and authorities, privileges and advantages, and be subject to the same provision and enactments, rules, regulations, and orders, and be in all respects in the same situation in the county, county of a city, or county of a town in which they shall be stationed, as far as the circumstances of the case will admit, as if they had been appointed to and formed part of the constabulary force established in and for such county, county of a city, or county of a town.

II. That the inspector general of the said constabulary force, with the assistance of the receiver of the said force, shall from time to time, or as often as he shall think convenient, prepare and certify under his hand a detailed account of the expense incurred for the pay, salary, clothing and equipment, lodging, and other allowances of such men so appointed and employed as aforesaid, which expense, when approved and certified by the chief or under secretary of such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors, the said company or parties, or their agent, shall, upon demand, pay to the said receiver to be placed to the credit of the county, county of a city, or county of a town in which such constables as aforesaid shall have been so employed.

III. That in all cases where the company or other parties carrying on such public work shall refuse or neglect, during fourteen days next after demand thereof, to pay any such expense, or any part thereof, as shall have been so certified and approved as aforesaid, the same shall and may be sued for in any of the superior courts, at the suit of Her Majesty's Attorney General for Ireland, as a debt due to Her Majesty, or, upon production of such account, so certified and approved, before any two Justices of the county, county of a city, or county of a town in which such constables shall have been so employed as aforesaid; and upon proof on oath of such demand made as aforesaid of such company or parties, or any officer superintending such public works, and upon the application of the said receiver of the constabulary force, or any person by him authorized in writing, it shall be lawful for such Justices, by their warrant under their hands and seals (which they are hereby authorized and required to grant), to cause the amount of such account to be levied, together with the expenses levying the same, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the company or other parties carrying on such public works as aforesaid; and the surplus, if any, arising from such distress and sale, after deducting the amount of such account together with the reasonable expenses attendant on such distress and sale, shall be rendered to the said company or parties.

IV. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. XLVII.

AN ACT for the further Prevention of the Offence of Dog Stealing.

---

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Certain provisions of recited Act repealed.
2. Punishment for stealing dogs:—First offence.—Second offence.
3. Penalty for having possession of stolen dogs, or of their skins:—First offence.—Second offence.
4. Penalty for compounding for offences against this Act.
5. Apprehension of offenders.
6. Penalty for receiving money to restore stolen dogs.
7. Offenders may be remanded, or admitted to bail.
8. If penalties not paid Justices to commit offenders.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 7 & 8 Geo. 4. c. 29. certain provisions were made for the prevention of dog stealing: And that it is expedient, for the further prevention of the said offence, that the provisions of the said recited Act, so far as relates to the stealing, and to dealing with the offenders in respect to the said offence, shall be repealed:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act the said provisions, so far as aforesaid, shall be repealed.

II. That if any person shall steal any dog, every such offender shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and being convicted thereof before any two or more Justices of the Peace shall for the first offence, at the discretion of the said Justices either be committed to the common gaol or house of correction, there to be imprisoned only or be imprisoned and kept at hard labour for any term not exceeding six calendar months, or shall forfeit and pay, over and above the value of the dog, such sum of money, not exceeding 20*l.*, as to the said Justices shall seem meet; and if any person so convicted shall afterwards be guilty of the said offence, every such offender shall be guilty of an indictable misdemeanour, and being convicted thereof shall be liable to suffer such punishment, by fine or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, or by both, as the Court in its discretion shall award, provided such imprisonment do not exceed eighteen months.

III. That if any dog, or the skin thereof, shall be found in the possession or on the premises of any person by virtue of any search warrant, to be granted as is hereafter in that behalf provided, the Justice by whom such search warrant was granted may restore the same to the owner thereof, and the person in whose possession or on whose premises the same shall be so found such person (knowing that the dog has been stolen, or that the skin is the skin of a stolen dog,) shall, on conviction before any two or more Justices of the Peace, be liable for the first offence to pay such sum of money, not exceeding 20*l.* as to the Justices shall seem meet; and if any person so convicted shall be afterwards guilty of the said offence, every such offender shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and punishable accordingly.

IV. That if any person shall publicly advertise or offer a reward for the return or recovery of any dog which shall have been stolen or lost, and shall in such advertisement use any words purporting that no questions will be asked, or shall make use of any words in any public advertisement purporting that a reward will be given or paid for any dog which shall have been stolen or lost without seizing or making any inquiry after the person producing such dog, every such person shall forfeit the sum of 25*l.* for every such offence to any person who will sue for the same, by action of debt, to be recovered with full costs of suit.

V. That any person found committing any offence punishable either upon summary conviction or upon indictment by virtue of this Act may be immediately apprehended without a warrant by any police officer, or by the owner of the dog, with respect to which the offence shall be committed, or by his servant or any person authorized by him, and forthwith taken before some neighbouring Justice of the Peace to be dealt with according to law; and if any credible witness shall prove upon oath before a Justice of the Peace a reasonable cause to suspect that any person has in his possession or on his premises any stolen dog, such Justice may grant a warrant to search for such dog; and any person to whom any dog shall be offered to be sold or delivered, if he shall have reasonable cause to suspect that such dog has been stolen, is hereby authorized, and, if in his power, is required to apprehend and forthwith to convey before a Justice of the Peace the party offering the same, together with such dog, to be dealt with according to law.

VI. That any person who shall corruptly take any money or reward directly or indirectly under pretence or upon account of aiding any person to recover any dog which shall have been stolen, or which shall be in the possession of any person not being the owner thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and punishable accordingly.

VII. That any Justice may, if he shall think fit, remand for further examination, or may suffer to go at large, with or without sureties, upon his personal recognizance, any person who shall be charged before him with any offence or misdemeanour punishable by this Act, whether the same be punishable by summary conviction or as an indictable misdemeanour.

VIII. That in every case of summary conviction under this Act where the sum which shall be forfeited for the value of any dog as is hereinbefore provided, or which shall be imposed as a penalty by the Justices, shall not be paid either immediately after the conviction or within such period as the Justices shall at the time of the conviction appoint, it shall be lawful for the convicting Justices to commit the offender to the common gaol or house of correction, there to be imprisoned only or imprisoned and kept to hard labour for any term not exceeding two calendar months where the amount of the sum forfeited, or of the penalty imposed, or of both (as the case may be), together with the costs, shall not exceed 5*l.*, and for any term not exceeding four calendar months where the amount, with costs, shall not exceed 10*l.*, and for any term not exceeding six calendar months in any other case, the commitment to be determinable in each of the cases aforesaid upon payment of the amount and costs.

CAP. XLVIII.

AN ACT to substitute a Declaration for an Oath in Cases of Bankruptcy.

(21st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Bankrupts may be examined after making and signing declaration.
2. Penalty for making false declaration.
3. Not to affect right of Commissioners to commit for unsatisfactory answers, &c.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is highly desirable that oaths shall not be administered unnecessarily by public authority, and there is reason to believe that the examination of a bankrupt or of the wife of a bankrupt before Commissioners in Bankruptcy will be equally effectual for obtaining a disclosure of the truth, and a full discovery of all that can be useful for the benefit of creditors, when such examination is conducted without oath:—

It is Enacted,

I. That all persons who are now or shall be hereafter declared bankrupts under any fiat, or the wives of such persons respectively, shall and may be hereafter examined before such Commissioners without being sworn, but after making and signing the declaration contained in the Schedule hereunto annexed.

II. That if any such person so to be examined shall, in the course of the examination, wilfully make any false statement, such person may be thereupon convicted of a misdemeanour, and shall be, at the discretion of the Court before which the conviction shall take place, liable to undergo the pains and penalties now by law imposed upon persons guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury.

III. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein shall in anywise affect the right of the Commissioners of Bankrupt to judge how far the answers to be made are satisfactory, or to commit to prison in case they shall hold such answers to be unsatisfactory, nor the right of any Commissioner or creditor to withhold his signature from the certificate of conformity.

SCHEDULE.

Form of Declaration to made by the Bankrupt or the Bankrupt's Wife.

I A.B., the Person declared a Bankrupt under a Fiat in Bankruptcy, [or I C.D., the Wife of, et cetera,] do solemnly promise and declare, That I will make true Answer to all such Questions as may be proposed to me respecting all the Property of the said A. B., and all Dealings and Transactions relating thereto, and will make a full and true Disclosure of all that has been done with the said Property, to the best of my Knowledge, Information, and Belief.

(Signed)

[or C.D., the Wife of the said A.B.]

CAP. XLIX.

AN ACT to settle an Annuity on Sir Henry Pottinger Baronet, in consideration of his eminent Services.

By this ACT, it is Enacted,

1. That an annuity of 1,500*l.* be paid to the Right Honourable Sir Henry Pottinger, Bart.
- II. Treasury to direct payment of the annuity.

CAP. L.

AN ACT to facilitate the Recovery of Loans made by the West India Relief Commissioners.
(21st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. If default be made in payment of loans or interest, the mortgaged premises may be sold on certain conditions.
2. Commissioners may transfer portions of securities.
3. Commissioners may compound debts with consent of Treasury.
4. Three Commissioners may act.
5. Provisions of recited Acts to extend to this Act.
6. Alteration of Act.

By this ACT,

After reciting that by 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 125, it was (amongst other things) enacted, that it should be lawful for the Commissioners thereby appointed, and their successors, or any three of them, to advance or lend Exchequer bills to the amount therein specified to the owners of estates which had suffered injury from the causes therein specified in the islands of Jamaica, Barbadoes, Saint Vincent, and Saint Lucie, and that the said Commissioners should take such security or securities as therein mentioned for the repayment of any such advances or loans at or before the expiration of ten years from the time of such advances respectively, with interest in the meantime after the rate of 4*l.* per centum per annum, to be paid in manner therein mentioned; and it was further enacted, that if default should be made in repayment of all or any part of such loan or advance or of the interest thereof or any part thereof, any person duly authorized by the said Commissioners might enter upon and take possession of the property upon which such loan should have been charged, and receive the rents, issues, and profits thereof until the repayment of such loan and the interest thereof, and all costs incidental to such taking possession as therein mentioned; and it was also enacted, that if any default should be made in repayment of all or any part of such loan or advance for which any mortgage should be taken by the said Commissioners as a security, the said Commissioners, or their attorney or attorneys to be appointed for that purpose, upon judgment to be entered up, should take possession of all or any part of the said mortgaged premises, and by sale or mortgage of the same or a competent part thereof raise such a sum as should be sufficient to repay all monies due on such loan or advance, and the interest thereof, and all costs attending such proceedings: And that by 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 51, the provisions of the last-mentioned Act were extended to the Island of Dominica, so far as the same were applicable: And that by 3 & 4 Vict. c. 40, it was (amongst other things) enacted, that it should be lawful for the said Commissioners for the time being acting in the execution of the said recited Acts, with such consent as therein mentioned, to grant any extension of the time limited for the repayment of any such loan or advance as aforesaid for any period not exceeding ten years from the day originally fixed for payment thereof, with interest after the rate aforesaid, so that every such extension of time be made on certain conditions therein mentioned as to the mode of repayment of such loan, and also subject to an absolute power of sale of hereditaments charged with any such loan to be vested in Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in manner therein mentioned: And that by 7 & 8 Vict. c. 17, after repealing and altering certain of the provisions contained in the last-recited Act respecting the granting of extension of time, it was by the Act now in recital enacted, that it should be lawful for the Commissioners acting in the execution of the said recited Acts, or any three of them, to make any transfer of any sum of money secured to Her Majesty by virtue of any security made in pursuance of the said recited Acts respectively, and any interest thereon, and to convey the securities for the same unto or in trust for any person or persons who should pay all principal monies secured by such mortgage security as aforesaid, and the interest thereon, in manner therein mentioned: And that it is expedient to make some further provisions for facilitating the recovery of the principal and interest of any loans made or to be made in pursuance of the said recited Acts or any of them, and for making transfers of the securities for the same or any part thereof, and also to enable the said Commissioners for the time being to compound any debts due to them or to Her Majesty in respect of any such loans as aforesaid:—

It is Enacted,

1. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being acting in the execution of the said recited Acts, or any of the said Acts, or any person or persons for the time being acting under their direction, or any Commissioners in aid appointed as by the said first-recited Act is mentioned, from time to time to make sale of all or any part of any hereditaments which have been or shall be taken possession of by them or him for nonpayment of any principal or interest, in pursuance of the provisions in that behalf in the said Act, 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 125. contained, and (as regards any principal monies due) whether judgment shall have been entered up or not, as by the said last-mentioned Act is provided; provided always that no such sale shall be made unless for at least three calendar months previously to such sale there shall have been inserted in the London Gazette, and in such public newspaper or newspapers in the colony where the property shall be situated as the said Commissioners shall direct, a notice of the intention of the Commissioners to exercise their power of sale; and any such sale may be made at any time after such three months' notice shall have been given; and any such sale may be made subject to such special conditions as to the title, or the deeds, copies, or other evidences to be produced, the evidence relating to the identity of the property sold, and the mode and times of payment of the money, as the said Commissioners, or the persons acting under their direction, or the said Commissioners in aid, shall think fit; and any contract for sale may be altered or rescinded by the said Commissioners, or such persons respectively as aforesaid, in such manner in all respects as they shall think fit; and any part of the purchase-money may be left on the security of all or any part of the hereditaments sold, or may be secured on any other security; and such securities shall either be made to Her said Majesty as by the said first-recited Act is provided, and with such powers and priorities as by the said first-recited Act is provided, or otherwise as the said Commissioners shall think fit; and no purchaser or other person shall be bound to inquire whether such possession was taken, or any monies were due, or the security of the said hereditaments sold; and any such monies (when any such sale shall be made out of England) may be paid to such person or persons as the said Commissioners shall, either before or after such sale, authorize to receive the same, whose receipts in writing shall be sufficient discharges to the persons paying the same; but any monies due on any security to be made as last aforesaid shall be paid into the Bank of England in manner directed by the said first-recited Act, and any securities which may be taken for any part of such purchase-money may be released or otherwise transferred by the said Commissioners in all respects as if the same were an original security taken under the said recited Acts.

11. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being acting in the execution of the said recited Acts from time to time to make any transfer of any part of any sum or sums of money secured to or owing to Her Majesty, under or by virtue of any security made in pursuance of the said recited Acts or any of them, and either before or after such sum or sums shall be actually due and any interest thereon, and to convey and assure or declare trusts of such proportionate part, either divided or in severally, as they the said Commissioners shall think fit, of the securities for the same sum or sums, unto or in trust for any person or persons who shall pay and discharge any part of the principal monies due or secured by such mortgage security as aforesaid, and the interest thereon; and any such sum or sums of money to be paid in consideration of such transfer as aforesaid shall be paid into the Bank of England, and in all respects as by the said first-recited Act is provided with respect to the repayment of the monies to be secured by virtue of the provisions of that Act; and the person or persons to whom any such transfer or disposition as aforesaid shall be made, his or her heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, shall, under or by virtue thereof, to the extent to which the same shall be thereby conceded or granted by the said Commissioners, be entitled to all such and the same priorities, privileges, powers, and securities in respect of such monies and hereditaments transferred and assured as by the said recited Acts or any of them are given to Her Majesty, or the said Commissioners or any of them, or which Her said Majesty, her heirs and successors, or the said Commissioners acting in the execution of the said recited Acts, would have had in case no such transfer had been made, and that either subject and without prejudice to, concurrently with, or with priority over the priorities, privileges, powers, and rights of Her said Majesty, her heirs and successors, and of the said Commissioners, or any other persons to whom any other part of the monies or securities may be transferred and assured, in respect of the residue of any such principal monies, and the interest thereof, and the securities for the same, which shall remain due and vested in Her said Majesty, her heirs and successors, or the said Commissioners, or be so transferred and assured as aforesaid.

III. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being acting in the execution of the said recited Acts, with the consent in writing of the Lord High Treasurer for the time being, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or any three of them, by warrant under his or their hand or hands, to compound any debt or debts on account of any loan or advance made or hereafter to be made under or in pursuance of the said recited Acts or any of them, and to stay any proceedings for the recovery of the same, upon payment of such sum or sums of money, and upon such terms and conditions, as they may think fit, such sum or sums of money to be paid into the Bank of England in all respects as by the said first-recited Act is provided with respect to the repayment of the monies to be secured by virtue of the provisions of that Act; and that upon any such payment being duly made as aforesaid it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners acting in execution of the said recited Acts to make and execute such releases and reconveyances of the debt which shall have been so compounded as aforesaid, and the interest thereof, and the securities for the same, as if the full amount of the debt so compounded, and all interest for the same, had been duly paid and discharged.

IV. That any act, matter, or thing hereby authorized to be done may be done by any three of the said Commissioners for the time being, and that the execution of any deed or instrument, either in pursuance of this Act or of any of the said recited Acts, and whether already executed or hereafter to be executed, referring to or reciting any warrant, authority or assent of the Lord High Treasurer, or of three of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, either made in pursuance of this Act or of any of the said recited Acts, shall be evidence of such authority or assent; and the execution of any deed or other instrument, already executed or hereafter to be executed, purporting to be executed by the said Commissioners or any three of them, shall be taken as evidence that such Commissioners so executing were duly appointed.

V. That all and every the several clauses, powers, provisions, enactments, penalties, and restrictions in the said Acts contained, so far as the same can be made applicable and are not varied by this Act, shall be taken to extend to this Act, and to everything to be done in pursuance of this Act, and as if all such clauses, powers, provisions, and enactments were herein repeated and set forth.

VI. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. LI.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to enable Archbishops and Bishops in Ireland to charge their Sees with the Costs incurred by them in defence of their Rights of Patronage, in certain Cases; and also to enable Tenants for Life and other Persons having limited Interests in Estates in Ireland to charge said Estates with the Costs incurred by them in asserting their Rights to Ecclesiastical Patronage in certain Cases.

13. To what suits provisions of this Act shall extend.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 27, it was amongst other things enacted, that after the 31st of December 1833, no person should bring any quare impedit or other action or any suit to enforce a right to present to or bestow any ecclesiastical benefice, as the patron thereof, after the expiration of 100 years from the time at which a clerk should have obtained possession of such benefice adversely to the right of presentation or gift of such person, or of some person through whom he claims, or of some person entitled to some preceding estate or interest, or undivided share, or alternate right of presentation or gift, be or derived under the same title, unless a clerk should subsequently have obtained possession of such benefice on the presentation or gift of the person so claiming, or of some person through whom he claimed, or of some other person entitled in respect of an estate, abate, or right held or derived under the same title; and that by 6 & 7 Vict. c. 54. it was amongst other things thereby enacted, that after the 1st of January 1844, the several clauses and enactments in the said first-mentioned Act and therein-before recited, relating to any right to present to or bestow any church, vicarage, or any other ecclesiastical benefice, (the clause thereof providing that the said Act, so far as it related to any such right, should not extend to Ireland, always excepted), should extend and apply to Ireland, and that as fully and effectually as if the said clauses and enactments were thereby repeated, substituting for the said date of the 31st of December 1833 the date of the 1st of January 1844; and it was by the said last-mentioned Act further declared and enacted, that the said last-mentioned Act should not be prejudicial or available to or for any plaintiff or defendant in any action or suit already commenced, or on or before the said 1st of January 1845 to be commenced, relating to any right to present to or bestow any church, vicarage, or other ecclesiastical benefice in Ireland; and that in consequence of the provisions of the said Acts numerous actions of quare impedit and proceedings have been brought and instituted, and are now depending, for the purpose of determining the right of presentation to divers ecclesiastical benefices and preferments in Ireland, by persons whose claims to exercise such right would but for the instituting of such proceedings have been barred by the provisions of the aforesaid Acts: and that numerous actions and proceedings have been brought and instituted and are now pending against archbishops and bishops in Ireland, for the recovery of advowsons and rights of presentation to ecclesiastical benefices and preferments in their dioceses the patronage whereof has been for long and uninterrupted periods exercised by them and their predecessors in right of their sees, and the said archbishops and bishops have been and will be put to heavy expenses in preparing to defend and in defending in the said actions and proceedings their rights of patronage for themselves and their successors; and it is just and expedient that they should be enabled to charge such expenses on the estates of their respective sees, subject to the regulations hereinafter provided:—

It is Enacted,

I. That every archbishop and bishop in Ireland, defendant in any action of quare impedit or other action or suit already brought or instituted against him, and which was pending on the 16th of June 1845, or on which any writ of error or appeal was then pending, for the recovery of the right of presentation to or patronage of any ecclesiastical benefice or preferment the patronage whereof has heretofore been enjoyed by him or his predecessors in right of his see or of any see united thereto, shall be entitled to charge the amount of all costs reasonably incurred by him in or about the preparation and conduct of and consequent upon his defence to such action or suit, including, if occasion shall be, his costs incidental to any appeal or writ of error from any judgment therein, (and which costs respectively he shall not be enabled to recover from the plaintiff or plaintiffs, in such action, suit, or appeal, or writ of error, with the costs also of creating any securities hereby authorized to be made,) upon the estates or other revenues of his see, in manner hereinafter directed; provided that a Judge before whom such action or suit shall have been first tried, or by whom the same shall have been first determined, shall certify by writing under his hand, to be deposited and preserved in the registry of the diocese, that such archbishop or bishop had probable cause for defending such action or suit, and that he ought to be allowed to charge his costs under the provisions of this Act; and that the presiding Judge of any court of error, or the Speaker of the House of Lords in cases of appeal or writ of error there prosecuted, shall in like manner certify that there was good ground of prosecuting or defending such appeal or writ of error; and if any such action or suit, appeal or writ of error, shall be dismissed, abated, or discontinued before any trial or determination thereof, or the plaintiff shall be nonsuited therein, then a certificate, signed by a Judge of the court in which such action or suit has been brought or instituted, shall be effectual for the purposes aforesaid; and that no Judge shall be precluded from considering an archbishop or bishop, grounding his defence to any such action or suit upon previous presentations or collations only, to have had probable cause for such defence; provided also, that the amount of costs to be charged under the authority of this Act shall be determined and certified by some officer to whom the taxation of costs between the plaintiff and defendant in such action or suit shall or would be referable, and that his certificate shall be also deposited in the registry of the diocese.

II. That after such certificates as aforesaid shall have been obtained by any archbishop or bishop, and deposited in the registry of his diocese, (which certificate shall, for the purposes of the securities hereby authorized to be made, be conclusive evidence of his authority to raise the amount certified by such taxing officer to be due to him,) it shall be lawful for him to raise, by way of loans, for his benefit and reimbursement, the same amount, or any part or parts thereof, and all costs incident to the execution of these present authorities, from any persons or corporations willing to advance the same, and, as a security for the money to be so raised, by any deed or deeds, duly sealed and delivered by him, and also registered in the registry of his diocese, to demise any messuages, lands, towns, tenements, tithes, rents-charge, or other rents and hereditaments of or belonging to his see, to the persons or corporations advancing the same money, or to such person or persons as they respectively may appoint, by way of mortgage, for any term or terms of years, subject to proper provisions for the ceasing of every such term on payment of the principal money to be so borrowed, with interest thereon, to the persons or corporations who shall advance the same, their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, at the times and in the manner hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,) the interest thereof, or of so much thereof as shall from time to time remain unpaid, at such rate as shall be agreed upon, to be paid on the half-yearly days to be therein appointed, and one-thirtieth part of the principal money at the end of the third year from the determination of the action or suit, or the ceasing of the proceedings with respect to which the said costs shall have been incurred, and a like thirtieth part of the principal money at the end of each of the succeeding twenty-nine years, which mortgage or mortgages shall bind every succeeding archbishop or bishop of the same see, until the principal money and interest thereby secured shall be paid off and discharged, as fully and effectually as if such mortgage had made or executed the same.

III. That every such mortgage shall contain a covenant from the archbishop or bishop making the same, for himself, his heirs, executors, and administrators, to pay and keep down so much of the said principal money and interest as shall become payable upon such mortgage or mortgages during his continuance in his said see.

iv. That it shall not be lawful for any mortgagee under the foregoing authorities to enter into the possession of the mortgaged hereditaments or any part thereof until some principal money or interest secured by any such mortgage or mortgages shall be in arrear and unpaid for more than forty days after the same respectively shall have become due, but that when and so often as there shall be any such arrear it shall be lawful for the mortgagee or mortgagees, his, her, or their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, to recover the monies so in arrear, together with the costs and charges attending the recovery thereof, upon or out of the mortgaged hereditaments, by distress and sale, in such manner as rent service may by law be recovered, or by entering on and receiving the rents and profits of the same hereditaments, until full payment of the same arrears and costs and charges respectively.

v. Provided and enacted, That no mortgagee or mortgagees of the lands or possessions of any see under the foregoing provisions shall after any avoidance thereof be entitled to recover from the hereditaments therein comprised more than one year's interest accrued before such avoidance upon any principal sum due thereon, or more than one instalment of principal money which shall have previously fallen due.

vi. That every archbishop and bishop making any such mortgage as aforesaid, and his successors, shall pay the principal and interest monies thereby secured at the times and in manner thereby appointed for the said purposes, or so much of the same monies respectively as shall from time to time be due; and that upon every avoidance which shall happen of the see during the subsistence of any such security the archbishop or bishop avoiding the same, his heirs, executors, or administrators, shall pay so much of the accruing half-yearly payment of interest, if any, not actually due at the time of such avoidance, as shall be in proportion to the time which at such avoidance shall have elapsed of the current half year, and, in case such avoidance shall happen in any year at the end of which any instalment of the said principal sum shall be due, shall also pay so much of the annual instalment then accruing of the said principal sum as shall be in proportion to the part which at such avoidance shall have elapsed of the current year of the security: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the archbishop or bishop who shall be entitled to charge any such principal monies as aforesaid on the security of the possessions of his see, in lieu of borrowing the same, to grant to any trustee or trustees for himself any such security for the same monies, and interest thereon at any rate not exceeding 4l. per centum per annum, as he might have granted to any person or corporation advancing the same monies; and that if any archbishop or bishop entitled to charge any principal and interest monies upon the possessions of his see under the provisions of this Act shall die without having fully exercised or relinquished his power, and before the expiration of one year from the time at which the same power shall have arisen, it shall be lawful for his executors or administrators to exercise the same power to the like extent as he might himself have done if still living, for the benefit and increase of his personal estate; and that if any such archbishop or bishop shall die within three calendar months next after the determination of any action or suit, or the cesser of the proceedings in or with reference to which he shall have incurred any costs, which, if living, and having obtained such certificates as aforesaid, he might have charged on the possessions of his see, then and in such case his executors or administrators shall be at liberty to apply for such certificates, and after obtaining the same to create any such security for the benefit of his personal estate as he might himself have created for the amount of such costs and interest thereon.

vii. Provided and enacted, That notwithstanding any such mortgage or mortgages as aforesaid it shall be lawful for the archbishop or bishop who shall have made the same, and his successors, from time to time to make such contracts and agreements for leases, and to grant such leases, as he or they might have entered into or executed in case the said mortgage or mortgages had not been made.

And after reciting that many such writs of quare impedit have been sued out and proceedings instituted by persons who under family settlement or otherwise, would only be entitled to a life estate or other limited interest in the advowsons or right of presentation to the ecclesiastical benefices to recover which the said writs have been sued out and proceedings instituted and it is just and expedient that the said plaintiffs in such actions should be enabled, under certain restrictions, to charge the reasonable costs and expenses incurred by them in prosecuting such claims upon the estates of those who would be entitled in remainder to such advowsons or right of presentation:—

viii. That it shall and may be lawful for every person who has now sued out any writ of quare impedit or instituted or brought any other action or suit to recover the right of presentation to or patronage of any ecclesiastical benefice or preferment in Ireland, and who shall in such action or suit finally establish his right to such advowson, presentation, or patronage, and who shall be by any family settlement or otherwise entitled only to a life estate or other limited interest in or to the advowson or right of presentation or patronage in respect of which he shall so establish his right, shall be entitled to charge all such costs as he shall have incurred in the bringing and prosecuting of such actions, and all costs incidental thereto, including the cost incident to any appeal or writ of error therein, and over and above all such costs as he shall be entitled to recover from the defendant or defendants in such action, upon the fee and inheritance of the said advowson, right of presentation, or patronage and also upon the remainder, fee, or inheritance of all lands, tenements, and hereditaments of which he shall be seised of the same estate as in the said advowson, right of presentation, or patronage, and which are or shall be settled to the same use as the said advowson, right of presentation, or patronage: Provided always, that the amount of costs to be charged under the authority of this Act shall be determined and certified by the Master of the Court of Common Pleas in Ireland, whose certificate shall be final and conclusive, for the purpose of the securities hereby authorized to be made, that the amount specified in such certificate was properly and necessarily incurred.

ix. That it shall be lawful for any plaintiff having obtained any certificate as aforesaid, and which certificate shall be deposited in the office for registering deeds in Ireland, by deed under his hand and seal to charge the said lands, tenement and hereditaments which by this Act he is authorized to charge with the amount specified in such certificate; and such charge, subject to all prior incumbrances affecting the said lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall, on being registered in the office for registering deeds in Ireland, pursuant to the statutes for that purpose, be as valid and effectual to all intents and purposes as if made by a person having the absolute interest in the said lands, tenements, and hereditaments; and that shall and may be lawful for the said plaintiff to exercise such power of charging such lands in favour of any person that he may think fit, either as a security for the loan of money or otherwise; and that such charge so created shall bear interest from the day of the registration of the deed creating same, at a rate not exceeding 5*l.* per centum per annum, and shall be capable of being assigned and transferred.

X. Provided and enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any person entitled to the said charge to proceed to raise the amount of the same by sale of any of the lands, tenements, and hereditaments upon which same shall be so charged, during the continuance of the life estate of the person so creating said charge, nor shall it be lawful for such person, at the determination of the said life estate, to charge more than one year's arrear of interest accruing during the said life estate, upon the inheritance or remainder in the said lands; and that it shall be lawful for the person entitled to such charge, whenever one year's interest shall be in arrear, to apply by petition, verified by affidavit, to a court of equity in Ireland, stating the facts, and it shall and may be lawful for such court of equity, on being satisfied that such charge has been rightly created under this Act, and that one year's interest is due thereon, to appoint a receiver over all or a competent part of the lands, tenements, and hereditaments included in such charge, for the purpose of paying such interest, or if a receiver be already appointed over such lands, then to extend the said receiver to the matter of such petition.

XL That in case a verdict shall be had against any plaintiff, tenant for life as aforesaid, in any such suit or action, or the plaintiff be nonsuited, or judgment shall be given against such plaintiff, or such action shall be discontinued, dismissed, or abated before any trial thereof, it shall and may be lawful for such plaintiff to charge all such reasonable costs and expenses which he shall incur in such actions, including the costs of any appeal or writ of error from any judgment therein, together with all costs to which the plaintiff may become liable, upon such lands, tenements, and hereditaments, (except the said advowson,) as he would have been entitled under the provisions hereinbefore contained to charge his costs if he had been successful in said suit; provided that the Judge before whom such action shall be tried, in case of a verdict or nonsuit in a trial at Nisi Prius before a single Judge, and in all other cases the chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in Ireland, shall certify by writing under his hand that the said plaintiff had probable cause for instituting such proceedings, and that such costs ought properly to be charged upon the lands, tenements, and hereditaments by this Act made chargeable therewith; and upon the obtaining of such certificate the like reference shall be made to the Master of the Court of Common Pleas to ascertain the amount of such costs, and the like proceedings in all respects had, as hereinbefore provided in the case in which the plaintiff shall succeed, and with the same force and effect in all respects as is hereinbefore provided with regard to the same: Provided always, that the certificate of the Judge or Lord Chief Justice, as the case may be, shall be deposited, in such case, together with the Master's certificate of the amount of such costs, in the office for registering deeds in Ireland.

XII. That the word "plaintiff" in this Act shall be deemed and construed to include the case in which more than one person is plaintiff; and that, except where the provisions or context of this Act exclude such construction, every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to mean several persons and things as well as one person and thing; and that every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to a female as well as a male.

XIII. That all the provisions of this Act shall extend and be applied to all such cases in which proceedings have been taken or suits commenced for the recovery of the advowsons or of right of presentation to any ecclesiastical benefice in Ireland in the names of any person or persons as trustees, where the immediate cestui que trust would be only tenant for life of such advowson; and that for the purposes of this Act all such proceedings shall be deemed to have been taken and such actions instituted in the name of the said tenant for life, who shall have the same power of charging the costs and expenses incurred by him or by such trustees, upon any lands, tenements, and hereditaments of which he is tenant for life, as if the said proceedings had been brought in the name of such tenant for life, and not in the name of said trustees.

CAP. LII.

AN ACT for the Relief of Persons of the Jewish Religion elected to Municipal Offices.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Persons professing the Jewish religion, on accepting the office of mayor, &c., to make a declaration.—Declaration.
2. Declaration to be as valid as that of 9 Geo. 4. c. 17.

By this Act,

After reciting that the declaration prescribed by 9 Geo. 4. c. 17, upon admission into office in municipal corporations, cannot conscientiously be made and subscribed by persons of the Jewish religion:—

It is Enacted,

1. That instead of the declaration required to be made and subscribed by the said recited Act, every person of the Jewish religion be permitted to make and subscribe the following declaration within one calendar month next before or upon his admission into the office of mayor, alderman, recorder, bailiff, common councilman, councillor, chamberlain, treasurer, town clerk, or any other municipal office in any city, town corporate, borough, or cinque port, within England and Wales or the town of Berwick-upon-Tweed:

'I, A.B., being a Person professing the Jewish Religion, having conscientious Scruples against subscribing the Declaration contained in an Act passed in the Ninth Year of the Reign of King George the Fourth, intituled, An Act for repealing so much of several Acts as imposes the Necessity of receiving the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper as a Qualification for certain Offices and Employments, do solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare, That I will not exercise any Power or Authority or Influence which I may possess by virtue of the Office of _____ to injure or weaken the Protestant Church as it is by Law established in England, nor to disturb the said Church, or the Bishops and Clergy of the said Church, in the Possession of any Right or Privileges to which such Church or the said Bishops and Clergy may be by Law entitled.'

11. That such declaration shall, with respect to any such office, be of the same force and effect as if the person making it had made and subscribed the declaration aforesaid contained in the said Act, 9 Geo. 4. c. 17.

CAP. LIII.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to continue to the First Day of October One thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and to the End of the then next Session of Parliament, certain Turnpike Acts.

By this Act,

Every Act now in force for regulating, making, amending, or repairing any turnpike road in Great Britain, which will expire on or before the end of the next session of Parliament, is continued until the 1st of October 1846, and to the end of the then next session of Parliament; except such Acts for making, repairing, or regulating any turnpike road or roads as shall be sooner repealed under the provisions of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 91. s. 34.

CAP. LIV.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to amend the Laws in force in Ireland for Unions and Divisions of Parishes; for the Settlement of the Patronage thereof, and the Celebration of Marriages in the same.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. The Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council in Ireland, with the consent of the archbishop, bishop, and patrons, may unite parts of one or more parishes to any other parish or parishes.
2. When new unions are created, the Lord Lieutenant and Council, with the assent of the archbishop, bishop, and patrons, may make a settlement of the patronage.—The consent of the Crown as patron may be given by the Lord Lieutenant.
3. In cases of divisions of parishes, &c. power to apportion charges for improvements on glebes, &c.
4. The division of the union of Burnchurch shall, if so ordered by the Lord Lieutenant and Council, take effect forthwith.
5. Providing for celebration of marriages, until a parish church is erected in any disunited or newly erected parish.
6. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 7 & 8 Geo. 4. c. 48, it is amongst other things enacted, "That it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, with the assent of the major part of His Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland in Council assembled, six at least assenting, and with the advice and approbation of the archbishop of the province and the bishop of the diocese, certified under their hands and archiepiscopal and episcopal seals, with the consent of the respective patrons, certified under their hands and seals, attested by two or more credible witnesses subscribing thereunto, to divide old parishes, or to separate any parish or part of a parish heretofore united, in whatever manner such union may have been effected, and to unite parishes one to another, or any part of a parish to another parish or part of a parish, in perpetuity, and to erect such divided or united parishes or parts of parishes into new parishes, with all parochial rights:" And that it is expedient that the said provision should be extended:—

It is Enacted,

1. That it shall be lawful for such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors, with assent of the major part of the Privy Council as aforesaid, in like manner, and with such advice, approbation, and consent respectively as aforesaid, certified or attested as aforesaid, to unite parts of one or more parishes to any other parish or parishes or part or parts of a parish or parishes, and to erect such united parishes or part or parts of a parish or parishes, or such unions, into new parishes, with all parochial rights; and all such unions made under this Act shall be subject to the several provisions of the said recited Act in respect to unions made under that Act, save and except so far as the same would be repugnant to this Act: Provided always, that nothing in this provision contained shall be construed to prejudice the powers in the said recited Act contained as to unions or divisions of parishes.

And after reciting that by the said recited Act it is amongst other things also enacted, "That when two or more churches or parishes shall be united into one, in pursuance of the said Act, the same having formerly had distinct patrons, in such cases the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, and Privy Council, with the advice and approbation of the respective archbishop and bishop in whose province and diocese the said churches were situate, shall divide the patronage by turns among the patrons, giving to each of them a right to present oftener and seldomer, according to the true yearly value of the respective parish or parishes whereof they are patrons, the consent of each patron being first had, and entered in the instrument for erecting the said union; and such settlement or settlements as aforesaid shall be final and binding to all patrons, whether ecclesiastical or lay patrons, and to all parties for ever; reserving always unto every archbishop and bishop, registrars and schoolmasters, their respective dues payable out of every such parish so united: Provided always, that where the Queen's Majesty, her heirs and successors, is or shall be entitled to the presentation of any of the said parish churches so to be united, he and they shall, from and immediately after such union, upon the then first vacancy, have the first presentation of an incumbent unto such united church, and afterwards, upon the then next vacancy, the other respective patrons severally, as the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Council aforesaid, with the advice and approbation aforesaid, shall direct and appoint, regard being had to the respective values of the several parishes so to be united as aforesaid, and so in course respectively in manner aforesaid:" And that it is expedient that further provision should be made for the settlement of the patronage of ecclesiastical unions;—

It is Enacted,

II. That where, in pursuance of the said recited Act or this Act, two or more churches or parishes shall be united into one, where any parish or part of a parish or parts of parishes shall be united to any other parish or parishes or part of a parish or parts of parishes, in every such case it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, with the assent of Her Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland as aforesaid, if he and they shall so think fit, and with the advice and approbation of the archbishop and the bishop in whose province and diocese the said churches, parishes, part or parts of a parish or parishes, are situate, certified under their hands and archiepiscopal and bishop's seals, and with the consent of each patron or person, or body politic, corporate, or collegiate, whose ecclesiastical strongholds shall be in anywise affected by the creation of such union, (every such consent to be first had, and entered in the instrument for erecting the said union,) to make and establish such a settlement or distribution of the patronage of such union, and of the patronage of all unions and parishes from which any parish or parishes or any part of a parish or any parts of parishes have been severed in order to create such union, as in the opinion of such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Privy Council as aforesaid the justice of the case shall require; and every such settlement or distribution shall be final and binding to and upon all patrons, whether ecclesiastical or lay patrons, and to and upon all parties for ever; reserving always unto every archbishop and bishop, registrar and schoolmaster, their respective dues payable out of every such parish or part of a parish so united: Provided always, that in every case where the consent of the Queen's Majesty, her heirs or successors, is to be given to any such settlement or distribution of patronage, or to making any union, under this Act, the consent in that behalf of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, under his or their hand and seal or hands and seals, shall to all intents and purposes be as good and valid in law as if the consent of Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, had been thereunto signified by letters patent under the Great Seal of Ireland.

III. That in case the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland and Privy Council shall by virtue of the powers in that behalf in them vested under any Act now in force or under this Act divide old parishes, or separate any parish or part or parts of a parish or parishes heretofore united, and in case the incumbent of any union or parish or part of a parish divided or separated shall by virtue of any law or statute be entitled to receive from the next successor of such incumbent in such union, parish or parishes, or part thereof, any sum or sums of money on account of any purchase of or addition to glebes, or of any buildings or improvements, or of money paid by such person to his immediate predecessor on such accounts respectively, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Privy Council to order and direct that such sum or sums of money shall be charged and chargeable, such shares and proportions as they shall think just and reasonable, upon the several parishes or part or parts of parishes respectively theretofore united; and such shares and proportions shall be paid and payable by the several incumbents of such parishes respectively, or part or parts of parishes respectively, to such person and at such times and in such manner as the whole of such sum or sums of money would have been payable by virtue of any law or statute in force in Ireland in case such union or separation had not taken place: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for every such incumbent or his person, or his representatives, having paid any such share or proportion in manner aforesaid, to receive and recover from his next and immediate successor such part of such share and proportion, at such time, and by such ways and means, as if such share or proportion had been paid by him to his next and immediate predecessor by virtue of any law or statute in force in Ireland, unless there shall be any provision to the contrary thereof contained in such order of such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Privy Council as aforesaid, in which last-mentioned case such part of such share or proportion shall not be recoverable from such successor.

And after reciting that it is expedient, and hath been agreed between and by the Archbishop of Dublin and the Bishop of Eghlin, Ferns, and Ossory, and the present incumbent of the Ecclesiastical Union of Burchurch, hereinafter mentioned, situate in the diocese of Ossory and county of Kilkenny (in case the consent and approbation of the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Privy Council should be given thereto), that the said union should be divided, and that such division should be made to take effect forthwith;—

It is Enacted,

iv. That every order or instrument to be made or executed in pursuance or by virtue of the said Act, 7 & 8 Geo. 4. c. 43, and of this Act, or of any of them, for or in respect of the division of the said Ecclesiastical Union of Burnchurch, or in relation to making any new union, to be composed wholly or in part of any part or parts of such present union of Burnchurch, or in relation to the Ecclesiastical patronage affected or to be affected by such division or any such new Union as last aforesaid, shall come into operation and take effect from and immediately after the making or execution of such order or instrument, or at such time or times as may be appointed in such order or instrument, as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as the same would under the said recited Act or this Act come into operation or take effect upon the decease of the then incumbent or incumbents of all and every or any parish, parishes, or part or parts of a parish or parishes affected thereby.

And after reciting that under the provisions of the said recited Act, and other Acts for the dissolution of unions of parishes in Ireland, certain parishes have been disunited, and constitute distinct benefices, in each of which benefices so disunited a parish church has not as yet been built: And that under the provisions of this present Act, parishes may be disunited, and new parishes may be erected in which churches have not as yet been built;—

It is Enacted,

v. That, until a parish church be built in any such disunited or newly erected parish, marriages of parties dwelling therein may be celebrated, according to the rites of the United Church of England and Ireland, in the parish church of any adjoining parish.

vi. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LV.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to continue for Two Years, and to the End of the then next Session of Parliament, and to amend, an Act of the Second and Third Years of Her present Majesty, intituled An Act to extend and render more effectual for Five Years an Act passed in the Fourth Year of His late Majesty George the Fourth, to amend an Act passed in the Fiftieth Year of His Majesty George the Third, for preventing the administering and taking unlawful Oaths in Ireland.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Last-recited Act continued for one year, as hereby amended.
2. So much of last-recited Act as enacts that persons having in possession copies of passwords, &c., shall be deemed guilty of unlawful combination, &c., repealed.
3. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 50 Geo. 3. c. 102: And that the said Act was amended by 4 Geo. 4. c. 87: And that the provisions of the said last-recited Act were extended and rendered more effectual by 2 & 3 Vict. c. 74: And that by 7 & 8 Vict. c. 78. the said last-recited Act was continued for the further period of one year from the 1st of September 1844, and will expire on the 1st of September in this present year; and it is expedient that the same should be further continued and amended as hereinafter provided;—

It is Enacted,

I. That the said last-recited Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 74, subject to the amendment hereinafter contained, shall be and continue in full force and effect for the further period of two years from the said 1st of September in this present year, and until the end of the then next session of Parliament.

II. That from and after the passing of this Act so much of the said last-recited Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 74, as enacts, that any person who after the day therein mentioned shall knowingly have in his possession any copy, written or printed, of any such password or passwords as therein mentioned, or other secret mode of communication, or of any oath, engagement, test or declaration made use of or purporting to be made use of by any such society as in the said last-recited Act mentioned, or by any division of any society declared to be unlawful by the said Act, 4 Geo. 4. c. 87, and shall not be able satisfactorily to account for the same, shall be deemed guilty of an unlawful combination and confederacy, and shall be liable to such and the like penalties, proceedings, and punishment as by the said Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 74. is provided, shall be and the same is hereby repealed, save and except as to any matter or thing heretofore done under the authority of the same.

III. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LVI.

AN ACT to alter and amend an Act passed in the Third and Fourth Years of the Reign of Her present Majesty Queen Victoria, intituled An Act to enable the Owners of Settled Estates to defray the Expenses of draining the same by way of Mortgage.

15. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Vict. c. 55, which recites that whereas much of the land in England and Ireland would be rendered permanently more productive by improved draining, and nevertheless, by reason of the great expense thereof, proprietors having a limited interest in such land were often unable to execute such draining, and that it was expedient, as well for the more abundant production of food as for the increased employment of farming labourers, and the extended investment of capital in the permanent improvement of the soil, that such proprietors should be relieved from such disability, due regard being had to the interests of those entitled in remainder, it was amongst other things enacted, that it should be lawful for any tenant for life, or for term of years, as therein mentioned, entitled to any lands in England or Ireland, or such guardian or guardians as therein mentioned, to apply by petition to Her Majesty's Court of Chancery or Exchequer in England or Ireland for leave to make permanent improvement in the lands to which he or she should be so entitled, by draining; and by the said Act provision is made for the charging the cost of such draining on the lands so drained, and otherwise as in the said Act is mentioned: And that the advantages contemplated by the said recited Act are diminished by reason of the costs attending the making such application and such charge as by the said Act is provided; and it is therefore, and for other reasons, expedient that the provisions of the said Act should be repealed, and should be re-enacted, with such modifications, extensions, and alterations as are after mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

- i. That, subject to any proceedings under the said recited Act which at the time of the passing of this Act shall be pending, the said recited Act shall be and is hereby repealed.
- ii. That from and after the passing of this Act any proceedings now pending may be completed under the provisions of his Act, as if the same had commenced after this Act had passed.
- iii. That any person entitled in possession to any land as tenant by the curtesy, or for his own life, or any other life or lives, or for years determinable on any life or lives, or any infant entitled as aforesaid by his guardian or next friend, or any fictitious or lunatic entitled as aforesaid by the committee of his estate, or any married woman entitled as aforesaid for her separate use by her next friend, or the husband of any married woman entitled as aforesaid in her right, or any feoffees or trustees for any charitable (or other) purposes, or any ecclesiastical or other corporation aggregate or sole, or any mortgagee or incumbrancer in fee in possession of the land mortgaged or incumbered, or any person entitled in fee to any equity of redemption, or in possession of the land mortgaged, shall be at liberty to apply to the High Court of Chancery, by petition to the Lord Chancellor or the Master of the Rolls, for leave to make any permanent improvements in the land to which such person or corporation shall be so entitled, or any part thereof, by draining the same with tiles, stones, or other durable materials, or by warring, irrigation, or embankment in a permanent manner, or by erecting thereon any buildings of a permanent kind incidental or consequential to such draining, warring, irrigation, or embanking, and immediately connected therewith, and shall be at liberty to pray that the expense of making any such permanent improvement may be made a charge on the inheritance of the land under the provisions of this Act.
- iv. That upon the presentation of any such petition as aforesaid it shall be lawful for the Court, without requiring the attendance of any counsel or solicitor, to refer it to one of the Masters of the said Court to make all necessary and proper inquiries, and consider all such estimates and valuations as shall be produced before him in relation to the matter of such petition, and thereupon to report whether in his opinion it will be beneficial to all persons interested in the land that such permanent improvements should be made under the provisions of this Act.

v. That such report shall be filed in the report office of the said court, and if no special application to review the same shall be made within fourteen days after the filing thereof, it shall be lawful for the said Court, upon the petition of the party obtaining the same, and without the attendance of any counsel or solicitor, to confirm the said report absolutely, and thereupon to authorize or permit such permanent improvements to be made; and the Master may thereupon certify that any person advancing money for the purpose of making such permanent improvements of the land under the provisions of this Act will, upon its appearing to the said Master that such sum of money has been fully expended in making such improvements, or in paying the expense of obtaining the authority of the said Court, become and be entitled to a charge on the land for the repayment of the money advanced, with interest; provided that upon application to the Court to confirm the Master's report it shall be lawful for the Court, if in its opinion the case shall appear to require the same, to refer it back to the Master to review his report, or to receive fresh evidence in support of the Master's finding, or otherwise for the purpose of ascertaining in a more satisfactory manner whether it is proper to make the improvements proposed under the provisions of this Act.

vi. That the Master, having granted such certificate as aforesaid, is to be at liberty to inquire and state what expenses have been incurred in and about the application to the Court, and making the necessary surveys, valuations and estimates, and also to inquire and state what sums of money have been actually expended in such improvements; and the Master, being satisfied as to the amount of such expenses, may indorse upon the said certificate that it hath been made to appear to him that the whole, or such part of the monies so advanced as aforesaid as upon the evidence shall appear to have been so advanced, hath been fully expended in manner aforesaid, and upon such indorsement being made the inheritance of the said lands shall thereupon become and be charged with the payment of the said sum, with interest as from the time when the same was advanced; and such charge shall have priority over other charges, except tithe commutation rent-charges, and any quit or chief rents incident to tenure; and a memorial of every such certificate, charging hereditaments in the counties of Middlesex and Yorkshire in England, or any hereditaments in Ireland, may in all respects be registered as deeds are now registered in Middlesex, Yorkshire, and Dublin respectively, and without payment of any fee.

vii. That such certificate as aforesaid shall be filed in the Report Office, and a duplicate thereof, signed by the Master, shall be delivered to the person advancing the money, and shall be legal evidence of his title to the money; and the security shall take effect as from the granting of the certificate.

viii. That the money so to be advanced, or so much thereof as shall from time to time remain unpaid, shall bear interest at such rate as shall be agreed upon not exceeding the rate of 5*l*. per centum per annum, from the time when the same shall be advanced, and such interest shall be payable half-yearly.

ix. That the principal money so to be advanced shall be repaid by equal annual instalments; and such annual instalment shall, in the case of improvements by drainage, warping, irrigation, or embankment, be not less than twelve nor more than eighteen in number, and shall, in the case of improvements by the erection of buildings, be not less than fifteen nor more than twenty-five in number.

x. That any person on whose petition such charge shall be made, and every succeeding tenant for life or other person having only a limited interest in the lands charged shall be bound to pay the interest and instalments which become from time to time due and payable during the continuance of his title to the land, and on the termination of such title by death or otherwise the inheritance shall remain chargeable with no more than six months arrears of interest then due, and one half of the last instalment then due, and the interest and instalments thereafter to become due.

xi. That every tenant for life or other person having a limited interest shall be bound to keep in repair any buildings erected or built, or embankments or works for irrigation constructed or made, under the provisions of this Act, and as if he were tenant for life subject to impeachment for waste.

xii. That for the simplifying the proceedings under this Act, and the rendering the same inexpensive, it shall be lawful for the Lord High Chancellors of Great Britain and of Ireland respectively, or the Lords Commissioners or keepers of the Great Seal respectively, with the assistance of the Master of the Rolls of England and Ireland respectively, from time to time to make such orders and provisions as they may think proper for the facilitating the mode of application to the Court, and of the proceedings before the Master or otherwise.

xiii. Provided and enacted, That where any portion of land proposed to be drained or otherwise improved or built on as aforesaid shall be in the actual occupation of any person, the consent in writing of such person shall be necessary in order to give validity to the application of the proprietor in respect of the land, anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

xiv. That it shall be lawful for the Master either to require the evidence of a surveyor to be from time to time appointed by him to make such reports as to the matters to be referred to him, or, if he shall think fit, to take the evidence of the surveyor appointed by any party applying to the Court; and that it shall be lawful for the Lord High Chancellors of Great Britain and of Ireland respectively, and the Lords Commissioners or Lords Keepers respectively, from time to time to appoint any persons respectively as the persons to report to or give evidence before the Master to whom the matter shall be referred: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for any persons hereby authorized to apply to the Court of Chancery in Ireland to apply to the Court of Exchequer in Dublin instead of the Lord Chancellor, and the Lord Chief Baron of such Court shall in all respects have the same powers as are hereby given to and vested in the Lord High Chancellor of Ireland or the Lord Commissioner or keeper of the Great Seal of Ireland, and the matters directed to be done by a Master of the Court of Chancery may in all respects be done and executed by the Chief Remembrancer of the said Court of Exchequer.

xv. That this Act may be altered, amended, or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

CAP. LVII.

---

1. Indemnity of Members of Art Unions continued.
  2. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 109; and that the indemnity secured to members of Art Unions against the suits, prosecutions, liabilities, pains, and penalties therein mentioned refers only to things done by them before the 31st of July in this year; and it is expedient to extend the same:—

It is Enacted,

I. That all persons being members of any such Art Union as is specified in the said Act, shall be discharged and freed from all suits, and prosecutions, liabilities, pains, and penalties, to which by law they might be liable, as being concerned in lotteries, little-goes, or unlawful games, for anything which may be done by them or any of them, as members of such Art Union, before the 1st of August 1846, touching the purchase of any picture or other work of art, or the sale or distribution thereof, by chance or lot.

II. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

12. County roads board for Carmarthen may carry out a certain agreement under 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 16.
13. County roads boards may dispose of their vested interest in toll houses.
14. As to interpretation of Act.
15. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 91, and that in pursuance of the said Act certain Commissioners have been appointed to execute the powers and authorities thereby conferred, and to carry the same into execution; but the power of the said commissioners will cease and determine by virtue of the said Act on the 29th of September next: and that it is necessary that provision should be made for carrying certain parts of the said Act into effect after such commission shall have expired, and also that some further enactments should be made for more fully accomplishing the objects of the said Act:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act the pieces of road in the Schedule marked (A.) to this Act annexed shall become and shall respectively be managed and maintained as part of the county roads of the counties in which they are respectively situate.

And after reciting that the several pieces of road mentioned in Schedule (B.) to this Act annexed have heretofore been repaired and maintained as parts of certain turnpike trusts which extend respectively into two or more counties; and that it is expedient that such pieces of road should continue to be repaired and maintained under one uniform management as heretofore;—

It is Enacted,

11. That the several pieces of road mentioned in the Schedule marked (B.) to this Act annexed shall be and shall respectively be managed and maintained, and for the purposes of this Act and the above-recited Act be considered as part of the county roads of the several counties therein specified respectively.

And after reciting that by an Act 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. xxviii. intituled 'An Act for more effectually repairing and improving several Roads in the Counties of Brecon, Radnor, and Glamorgan, and for making and maintaining several new Branches of Road to communicate therewith,' the trustees for carrying the said Act into execution were empowered, amongst other things, to make and construct a certain line or branch of road commencing at or near Tavern-y-Frydd on the turnpike road leading from Builth to Llandovery, and thence crossing the rivers Dulas and Irvon to Pontrhydyverre, and from thence to the turnpike road leading from the confines of the county of Caermarthen to Llandovery, and which said new line of road would extend through the several parishes of New Church, Llangammarch, and Llanwrtid, subject to the provisions and regulations of the said Act: and that the said line of road has not yet been made, but the same, if now constructed, would afford a complete communication between Builth and Llandovery, and would be otherwise beneficial to the said county of Brecknock:—

It is Enacted,

III. That subject to the provisions and restrictions contained in the said first-recited Act, all the powers conferred upon the said last-mentioned trustees by the said last-recited Act, so far as relates to the construction of the said last-mentioned line of road, shall be and the same are hereby vested in the county roads board of the said county of Brecknock, provided that such last-mentioned powers be exercised and the said line of road be constructed and made within five years from the passing of this Act; and such road, when completed, shall be managed and maintained as part of the county roads of the county of Brecon.

And after reciting that the aforementioned Commissioners have made certain apportionments by the said recited Act directed to be made, and have also made various awards and reports to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Home Department, and the monies by the said awards directed to be paid have been paid or are in the course of payment; and to avoid any doubts as to whether in all respects the forms and directions by the said Act prescribed have been complied with, or as to whether the mode or terms of making the said apportionments, awards, and reports, or the matters contained therein, or the manner of the execution thereof, are in exact conformity with the provisions of the said Act, and to give full force and validity to the charges made or to be made in pursuance of the said Act:—

It is Enacted,

17. That all charges made or to be made by the said Commissioners, or by one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, as the case may be, and purporting to be made in pursuance of the said recited Act, or of the said Act and this Act, shall after the making thereof be good and effectual in all respects whatsoever, and according to the true intent and meaning thereof, and notwithstanding that in certain cases the said commissioners may not in all respects have complied or may not hereafter comply with the precise forms and directions in the said Act contained, or may not have apportioned, or may not hereafter apportion, on different counties, parts of the debts of any turnpike trust, in any case in which the said commissioners have given or shall hereafter give in any report to such Secretary of State their reasons for not having made or for not making such apportionment, and such reports have been or shall be approved by such Secretary of State.

v. That the Public Works Loan Commissioners may pay any monies by the said awards or by any future awards directed to be paid to any parties who it shall be made to appear to their satisfaction are the persons or bodies beneficially entitled thereto, and notwithstanding any error or omission in the aforesaid awards or reports, or the awards or reports hereafter to be made, as to the parties or the names or descriptions of the parties entitled thereto; and further, that all payments already made, and which the said last-mentioned Commissioners would have been entitled to make, and which would have been effectual if this Act had passed previously to the making of such payments, shall be and the same are hereby confirmed.

vi. That all charges so made, or to be made as aforesaid, shall be valid, notwithstanding interest after the rate of 34 per centum per annum has been or may be charged by the said Public Works Loan Commissioners on the amount of monies paid or to be paid by them, from the date of payment thereof up to the time of making up the accounts, as by the said Act is directed, and from which period the several annuities charged or to be charged upon the said counties respectively are to become payable, although the rate of interest charged or to be charged upon such monies is not specified in the aforesaid Act.

And after reciting that the interest of and in divers sums of money charged or secured upon the tolls of certain turnpike trusts has been heretofore conveyed to or vested in trustees, in trust to apply the proceeds thereof to certain charitable and other purposes of a public nature: and that in some cases the trustees of turnpike roads have heretofore acted as the trustees of such sums of money so secured, and in some cases the deeds by which such trusts were constituted have been lost, or the trustees originally appointed have died, and no new appointment of trustees has since been made, or the persons in whom the legal interest in such monies is now vested have become incapacitated, or are desirous to be relieved from the burden of such trusts; and it is expedient that provision should be made for the better securing of such monies to the uses and purposes to which the same were intended and of right ought to be applied:—

It is Enacted,

vii. That, subject to the provisions of any general Act which may hereafter be passed for the regulation of charitable trusts in England and Wales, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners acting in execution of the said recited Act, in any case in which they shall find that monies have been secured upon the tolls of any turnpike trust in South Wales upon any such charitable or public trust as aforesaid, for the execution of which trust no trustees, or no persons legally qualified or competent to act as trustees, or no sufficient number of such legal and competent trustees, exist, by order under their hands and seal to appoint or substitute such fit and proper persons as they shall determine to be the trustees, either alone or jointly with any former or existing trustees, for the purpose of receiving and applying such monies as aforesaid to the several charitable or public purposes to which the same were intended to be and have heretofore been applied, such purposes in each case to be specified in each order of the said Commissioners, and also by such order to relieve and discharge any persons now being trustees of any such trusts as aforesaid, and who shall be desirous to be so relieved and discharged from the same, and to appoint other fit and proper persons in their stead; and in every such case the order of the said Commissioners so made as aforesaid shall be a good and valid appointment or discharge, as the case may be, of such trustees, without any other deed or instrument whatsoever.

viii. That such trustees so appointed as aforesaid, so soon as they shall have received such monies as shall be awarded to them by the said Commissioners, shall forthwith invest the same in the best and most advantageous manner for the uses and purposes of such trusts respectively, regard being had as well to the nature of the security by which such principal monies may be assured as to the rate of interest payable on the same.

And after reciting that by the said first-recited Act it is amongst other things enacted, that no toll shall be taken, and that no money arising from tolls on any turnpike roads shall be laid out in paving, repairing, or cleansing any street, road, or highway within the limits of any city or market or borough town for which there shall not be any local Act, and which said limits shall be fixed and determined, for the purposes of this Act, with respect to every such city or market or borough town respectively, by the said Commissioners, upon the report and recommendation of the county roads board acting in and for the county to which any such city or market or borough town shall belong; and that the limits of the several cities and market and borough towns which are subject to the powers and provisions of the said Act have been fixed and determined by the said Commissioners in the manner by the said Act prescribed; but it is expedient that power should be vested in some competent authority to vary or extend such limits in any particular case, from time to time, as circumstances may require;—

It is Enacted,

ix. That after the determination of the said commission it shall be lawful for one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, if he shall think fit, by order under his hand, upon the recommendation of the county roads board acting in and for the county to which any such city or market or borough town shall belong, from time to time to vary or extend the limits which shall have been fixed and determined for the same respectively by the said commissioners as aforesaid.

And after reciting that by the said recited Act, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 91. s. 52, it is enacted, that from and after the repeal of the said local Acts respectively, when any toll shall have been once taken in respect of any horse or other animal not drawing, or of any horse or other animal drawing any carriage or vehicle, at any toll gate or bar within any of the said counties, no toll shall be thereafter taken in respect of the same horse or other animal, or in respect of the same carriage or other vehicle, on the same day (to be computed from 12 o'clock of the night to 12 o'clock in the next succeeding night), for repassing through the same gate or bar, or for passing or repassing through any other gate or bar in the same county within the distance of seven miles from the gate or bar at which such toll shall have been taken, such distance being measured along turnpike roads only, nor for passing or repassing through any gate or bar in any other of the said counties adjoining within the distance of two miles from the gate or bar at which such toll shall have been taken, to be measured as aforesaid, along and in respect of turnpike roads within either of such counties, nor within one mile measured as aforesaid, from the boundary of such counties;—

It is Enacted,

x. That so much of the said recited Act as enacts that no such toll as last-mentioned shall be taken for passing or repassing through any gate or bar within one mile, measured as aforesaid, from the boundary of such counties, shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

And after reciting that doubts have arisen as to the description of carriages which may be liable to toll according to the provisions of the said recited Act under the denomination of caravans;—

It is Enacted,

xi. That no waggon, wain, cart, or other such like carriage shall be liable to toll as a caravan by reason of its being constructed on springs, unless the same shall be customarily employed in the conveyance of passengers for hire.

And after reciting that under and by virtue of an Act, 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 16, intituled 'An Act for inclosing Lands within the several Parishes of Kidwelly, St. Mary Kidwelly, St. Ishmael, and Pembrey, in the county of Carmarthen,' a certain agreement was entered into between the commissioner for carrying out the said inclosure and the trustees of the Kidwelly trust, for constructing a line of turnpike road along a certain embankment across the Gwendraeth Fawr river in the said county: and that such agreement has been only partially carried into effect: And that the Act constituting the said Kidwelly trust has been recently repealed under the powers conferred by the hereinbefore first-recited Act: And that it is expedient to vest in the county roads board of the said county power to complete and carry out the said agreement in like manner as it might have been had the said Kidwelly trust continued to exist;—

It is Enacted,

xii. That the said county roads board of the said county may, if they shall think it expedient so to do, complete and carry out the said agreement with the Commissioner acting under the Kidwelly Inclosure Act, in like manner as the trustees of the Kidwelly turnpike trust might have done; and that such road along the said embankment, when completed, shall become and be a part of the county roads of the said county of Carmarthen.

And after reciting that the carrying into execution the said recited Act will cause several of the toll houses now or lately vested in the trustees of the several turnpike trusts in South Wales to become useless for the purpose of toll houses: and that the pulling down and disposing of the same, according to the provisions of general turnpike Acts, would be attended with great loss to the several counties in which the same are situate, and many of the said toll houses may be disposed of and left standing without injury to any parties:—

xiii. That the several county roads boards in South Wales in whom any freehold or other interest in such toll houses may have become vested may make sale of or otherwise dispose of such interest, anything in the said general turnpike Acts or in any other Act to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always, that the said county roads boards, before they shall proceed to dispose of any such toll house, shall cause their interest in the same to be valued by some indifferent surveyor; and in case their interest in the same shall be any interest less than freehold such interest shall be first offered, at the price which the said surveyor shall have put upon the same, to the person to whom such freehold shall belong, or if their interest in the same shall be a freehold interest, then to the owner of the lands surrounding such toll house, or to the lord of the manor, in case such toll house shall have been built upon the waste; and in case any of the said parties respectively to whom such right of pre-emption may belong shall not within one month after such offer made consent to purchase the same, or in case such toll house shall adjoin the lands of two or more owners, or shall not stand upon the waste of any manor, then the county roads boards may proceed to dispose of the same by auction, or in such other manner as they shall deem most expedient.

xiv. And that the words used in this Act shall be construed according to the same rules of interpretation as are prescribed in the said recited Act.

xv. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

SCHEDULES to which the foregoing Act refers.

CAP. LXII.

AN ACT to make further Provisions as to Stock and Dividends unclaimed.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. When any dividends on stock have remained unclaimed for ten years, the same to be paid to the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt.—Payment of such dividends to claimants to be directed as in other cases.
2. Notice to be given by advertisement before re-transfer or payment of any stock or dividends to any claimant.
3. Application may be made to Court of Chancery to rescind order for transfer, &c.
4. *The sum of 3,663*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.* arisen from unclaimed dividends on East-India Annuities to be paid to Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt.*
5. Lords of the Treasury may authorize inquiries into the circumstances of unclaimed stocks and dividends.—Payment of expenses, &c.
6. Interpretation of Act.
7. Alteration of Act.

By this ACT,

After reciting that by 56 Geo. 8. c. 60, provision is made for transferring all capital stock in respect of which any annuities constituting part of the national debt are payable at the Bank of England, and upon or in respect of which the dividends shall be due and remain unclaimed for the space of ten years, and the balance of sums issued for paying the principals of stocks or annuities which shall not have been demanded for the same period, to the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt; and by the said Act provision is made for enabling parties entitled thereto to procure a re-transfer of such stock, and payment of the dividends due thereon; and it is necessary to make further provisions in relation thereto:—

It is Enacted,

I. That in every case in which any dividends or dividend accrued due on any stocks, funds, or annuities constituting any part of the national debt, and transferable at the Bank of England, shall not have been demanded for the period of ten years or upwards preceding the last day upon which any dividend shall have become due or payable upon or in respect of the same stocks, funds, or annuities, such dividends or dividend, and all other dividends since accrued in respect of the same stocks, funds, or annuities, shall immediately after the expiration of such period of ten years be paid to the account of the Commissioners for the time being for the Reduction of the National Debt, and shall be by them invested in the manner directed by the said recited Act with respect to the dividends upon stocks, funds and securities transferred to the said Commissioners in the manner therein mentioned; and it shall be lawful for the governor or deputy governor for the time being of the Bank of England, or for the High Court of Chancery, to direct the payment of such dividends to any persons or person claiming to be entitled thereto, in the same manner in all respects as is by the said Act directed with respect to the stocks, funds, and securities transferred to the said Commissioners as therein mentioned.

II. That no re-transfer of any capital stock exceeding the sum of 20*l.* or of any terminable annuities exceeding 1*l.* per annum, shall be made from the account of the said Commissioners, under the authority of the said recited Act, to any persons or person, nor shall payment be made under the authority of the said recited Act, or of this Act, of any dividends or dividend exceeding 20*l.* in the whole, until three calendar months after application shall have been made for the same, nor until such notice shall have been given thereof as the said governor and company are hereinafter authorized to require; and it shall be lawful for the said governor and company to require the person or persons making such application to give such public notice by advertisements in one or more newspapers circulating in London and elsewhere, as the said governor and company shall think fit; and every such notice shall state the name, description and addition of the person in whose name the unclaimed stock or dividends stood when transferred to the said Commissioners, and the amount thereof, and the name of the claimant, and the time at which such re-transfer or payment will be made if no other claimant shall sooner appear and make out his claim; and when and so often as any such stock shall be directed to be transferred, or such dividends to be paid, by any order of the High Court of Chancery, such notice shall also state the purport or effect of such order.

III. That it shall be lawful for any persons or person, at any time before the actual re-transfer of any such capital stock or annuities, or before payment of any such dividends to any such claimant as aforesaid, to apply to the Court of Chancery by motion or petition to rescind, alter, or vary any order made for such transfer or payment.

And after reciting that under and in pursuance of an Act 33 Geo. 3. certain annuities payable out of the public revenue, and theretofore granted to the East India Company, and then held partly by the said East India Company, and partly by various persons to whom the last-named company had assigned the same, were converted into 3*l.* per centum reduced annuities, transferable at the Bank of England, and the dividends then remaining unclaimed in respect of such East India Annuities were paid over to the said Governor and Company of the Bank of England: And that the said governor and company have now in their hands the sum of 3,663*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.* part of such last-mentioned unclaimed dividends which have continued unclaimed for upwards of forty years:—

IV. That the said governor and company shall forthwith after the passing of this Act pay the said sum of 3,663*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.* to the account of the said Commissioners for Reduction of the National Debt; and the same shall thenceforth be and remain subject to the claims and demands of the proprietors of the stock in respect whereof the said dividends accrued, in such and the same manner as if the same had been paid over under the provisions of the said recited Act, 56 Geo. 3. c. 60; and the said governor and company shall be indemnified from all claims and demands in respect thereof.

V. That it shall and may be lawful to and for the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being, from time to time, and at any time, to authorize and empower the said Governor and Company of the Bank of England to inquire into and investigate the circumstances of any stocks, funds, annuities, or dividends remaining unclaimed for the time being, with a view to ascertain the owners thereof, and to allow to the said governor and company such compensation as to the said Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall seem just, for their trouble and expenses to be incurred in and about such inquiries and investigation, and also from time to time to allow to the said governor and company a reasonable compensation for all costs and expenses to be incurred by them in and about the notices and advertisements hereby directed, and other the services required or authorized by this Act, which compensation may be deducted rateably from the stocks and dividends to be from time to time re-transferred or paid, and with reference to which such trouble, costs, and expenses shall have been incurred, and such services performed respectively, or the same may be paid by the said Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt out of the stocks and dividends to be received by them under and by virtue of the said first-recited Act or this Act, and which shall not be claimed.

VI. That the word "stocks" in this Act shall extend to any stocks, funds or annuities which now are or at any time hereafter shall be transferable at the Bank of England; and that, except where the sense or context is repugnant to such construction, the plural number in this Act shall be construed to include the singular, and the masculine gender to include the feminine.

VII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXIII.

AN ACT to facilitate the Completion of a Geological Survey of Great Britain and Ireland, under the Direction of the First Commissioner for the Time being of Her Majesty's Woods and Works.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Power to enter lands, break surface, and affix marks.—Satisfaction to be made for damage.
  2. Penalty on obstructing survey or removing marks.
  3. Damages how to be paid.
  4. Recovery of penalties.
  5. Plea of general issue.
  6. Interpretation of Act.
  7. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that sums of money have been from time to time granted and appropriated by Parliament to the making of a geological survey of Great Britain and Ireland, in connexion with a Trigonometrical Survey of Great Britain, in progress under the direction of the Master General and Board of Ordnance, and powers are vested in the said Master General and Board of Ordnance for facilitating the execution and completion of surveys under their charge: And that the union, under the Board of Ordnance, of surveys having no direct connexion with each other, has in some instances been productive of inconvenience, and it has been deemed expedient to withdraw the geological survey of the United Kingdom from the conduct of the Master General and Board of Ordnance, and to place the same under the direction and superintendence of the First Commissioner for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works and Buildings, subject nevertheless to the controul of the Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury: And that it is essential to the prosecution of such geological survey that the First Commissioner for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works and Buildings, should have as ample powers for making and completing the same as the Master General and Board of Ordnance possess for making and completing surveys in charge of the said last-mentioned Board:—

It is Enacted,

i. That, for the purpose of making and completing a geological survey of the United Kingdom, or any part thereof, it shall be lawful for any surveyor or other person appointed by or acting under the orders of the First Commissioner for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works and Buildings, and for any person assisting or employed by any surveyor or other person so appointed or acting under such orders as aforesaid, and they are hereby respectively authorized and empowered, from time to time, after notice in writing of the intention of entering shall have been given to the owner or occupier, as the case may be, to enter into and upon the land of any owner or person whomsoever, for the purpose of making and carrying on any geological survey authorized by the First Commissioner for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works and Buildings, and to break up the surface of any part of such land for the purpose of ascertaining the rocks, strata or minerals within or under the same, and to take and carry away specimens of the rocks, strata or minerals found therein, and to fix any post, stone, mark or object to be used in the survey in any such land (except as hereinafter mentioned), and to dig up any ground for the purpose of fixing any such post, stone or mark, and also to enter into or upon any land through which any such surveyor or other person so appointed or acting or employed as aforesaid shall find it necessary to pass for the purposes of such survey, at any reasonable time in the day, until the survey shall be completed: Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for any such surveyor or other person appointed or acting or employed as aforesaid to fix any object, post, stone or mark within any walled garden, orchard or pleasure-ground, without the consent of the owner or occupier thereof: Provided also, that such surveyor or other persons so appointed or employed as aforesaid shall do as little damage as may be in the execution of the several powers to them granted by this Act, and shall make satisfaction to the owner or occupier, as the case may require, of such land, or the owner of any trees which shall be in any way injured, for all damages to be sustained in the execution of any of the powers of this Act, in case the same shall be demanded; and in case of dispute between the said surveyor or other persons appointed or employed as aforesaid, on the one hand, and the owner or occupier, as the case may be, on the other hand, as to the amount of damage sustained, the same shall be ascertained and determined by any two or more Justices of the Peace, in petty sessions assembled, of the county in which the lands or trees may be situate.

ii. That if any person shall resist or wilfully obstruct or hinder any surveyor or other person employed or assisting in the execution of any survey under the provisions of this Act, or shall take away or displace, or wilfully deface or destroy any stone, post, mark or object which shall be set up and placed for the purposes of any such survey, every person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 10*l.* in the discretion of the Justices before whom such offender shall be convicted.

iii. That all damages awarded or agreed to be paid to any owner or occupier of land, or owner of trees, for any injury sustained under the provisions of this Act, shall be paid out of any aids granted by Parliament for making or completing a geological survey of the United Kingdom.

iv. That all penalties and forfeitures inflicted or imposed by this Act may be recovered in a summary way by the order and adjudication of any two Justices of the Peace for the county or place in which such penalty shall be incurred, on complaint to them for that purpose exhibited, and shall afterwards be levied, as well as the costs of proceedings for the recovery thereof in case of non-payment, by distress, poinding, or other legal process, and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender or person liable to pay the same, by warrant of such Justices; and such Justices are hereby authorized and empowered to summon before them any witness, and to examine such witness upon oath or affirmation of and concerning all offences, penalties and forfeitures under this Act, and to hear and determine the same; and the overplus (if any) of the money so levied or recovered, after discharging the fine, penalty, or forfeiture for which such warrant or other legal process shall be issued, and the costs and expenses of recovering and levying the same, shall be returned, upon demand, to the owner of the goods or chattels so seized or distrained; and in case such penalties or forfeitures shall not be forthwith paid upon conviction, then it shall be lawful for such Justices to order the offender so convicted to be detained and kept in safe custody until return can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, or poinding, or other legal process, unless the offender shall give security, to the satisfaction of such Justices, for his appearance before such Justices on such day as shall be appointed for the return of such warrant of distress, or poinding, or other legal process, such day not being more than seven days from the time of taking any such security, and which security the said Justices are hereby empowered to take, by way of recognizance, caution, or otherwise; but if upon return of such warrant it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had thereupon, then it shall be lawful for such Justices and they are hereby authorized and required, by warrant under their hands and seals, to cause such offender to be committed to the gaol of such county or place, there to remain without bail or mainprize for any time not exceeding two calendar months, unless such penalties or forfeitures respectively, and all reasonable charges, shall be sooner paid and satisfied; and such penalties and forfeitures, when so levied, shall be paid and applied to the use of an infirmary or charitable institution in the county in which such offence shall be committed, in such manner as such Justices respectively shall direct and appoint.

v. That if any person shall be sued or prosecuted for anything done or executed in pursuance of this Act, or of any clause, matter, or thing therein contained, such person may plead the general issue, and give the special matter in evidence for his defence.

vi. That in construing this Act the word "county" shall be taken to include hundred, city, borough, town, townland, parish, burghs, royal parliamentary burghs, burghs of regality and barony, extra parochial and other places, districts, and divisions, by whatsoever denomination the same respectively shall be known or called; the word "Justices" shall include persons acting in the commission of the peace for any county so interpreted as aforesaid, sheriffs or stewards of counties, stewartries in Scotland; and the sheriff and court of deemsters of the Isle of Man; the word "owner" shall include bodies politic, corporate, or collegiate, and all persons entitled to any estate or interest in possession; and the word "land" shall extend to lands, grounds, hereditaments, and heritages, of any tenure or description; and every word importing the singular number shall, when necessary to give full effect to the enactments herein contained, be deemed to extend and be applied to several persons or things as well as one person or thing; and any words importing the plural number only shall include the singular number; and every word importing the masculine gender shall, when necessary, extend and be applied to a female as well as a male.

vii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. LXIV.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to amend certain Regulations respecting the Retail of Spirits in Ireland.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. So much of the Act as is recited repealed, and all Excise licences for the retail of spirits in Ireland to be granted as if such regulation had not been enacted.
2. Justices of the Peace, constables, or overseers authorized to enter the houses of persons licensed to retail spirits to be construed elsewhere than on the premises.
3. Bond required of spirit retailers by the 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 68. not to be subject to stamp duty.
4. Commencement of Act.
5. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 38. it is enacted, that from and after the passing of this Act no person in Ireland who shall be duly licensed under any Act or Acts for granting Excise licences to deal in or sell coffee, tea, cocoa, or chocolate, or pepper, nor any person deemed a grocer within the meaning of the laws of the Excise in force in Ireland at immediately before the passing of this Act, shall be entitled to take out any licence to retail spirits in the house or on the premises of such retailer, or in any house or on any premises within one quarter of a mile of the house or premises of such retailer, other than a licence to retail spirits in quantities not less at one time than one pint, and to be consumed elsewhere than in the house or on the premises of such retailer; and any licence to retail spirits in any other manner, granted after the passing of this Act, to any such grocer or person so licensed as aforesaid, shall be wholly null and void to all intents purposes whatsoever :— And that it is expedient that so much of the said Act as is above recited should be repealed, and that all Excise licences to persons in Ireland to deal in or sell coffee, tea, cocoa nuts, chocolate, or pepper, or to retail spirits in the house or on the premises of such retailer, or to be consumed elsewhere than in the house or on the premises where sold, should be granted in the same manner and at the same rates of duty as if so much of the said Act as is above recited had not been enacted ;—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the commencement of this Act so much of the said Act as is above recited shall be repealed ; and that the Excise licence to persons in Ireland trading in or selling coffee, tea, cocoa nuts, chocolate, or pepper, and the Excise licence to persons in Ireland to be retailers of spirits, not being retailers of spirits after mentioned, to be drunk or consumed in or upon the house or premises where sold, and the Excise licence to retailers of spirits in Ireland, being duly licensed to trade in, vend, and sell coffee, tea, cocoa nuts, chocolate, or pepper, and not selling spirits in any greater quantity at one time than two quarts, or any spirits to be consumed in the house or on the premises of such retailer, shall be severally granted in like manner and at the same rates of duty respectively, and under the same regulations, as the same are respectively applicable thereto and directed by an Act, 6 Geo. 4. c. 81, intituled, 'An Act to repeal several Duties payable on Excise Licences in Great Britain and Ireland, and to impose other Duties in lieu thereof, and to amend the Laws for granting Excise Licences,' and by another Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 68, intituled, 'An Act to amend the Laws relating to the Sale of Wine, Spirits, Beer, and Cider by Retail in Ireland,' and by the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 38, save and except so much of the said last-mentioned Act as is above recited and hereby repealed, and by another Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 79, intituled, 'An Act for the better Prevention of the Sale of Spirits by unlicensed Persons in Ireland,' and by another Act, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 82, intituled, 'An Act to continue for Five Years so much of an Act of the Second and Third Years of Her present Majesty as enables Justices to grant Warrants for entering Places in which Spirits are sold without Licence in Ireland.'

And after reciting that the said Act, 6 Geo. 4. c. 81, and the licence therein mentioned to retailers of spirits in Ireland, being duly licensed to trade in, vend, and sell coffee, tea, cocoa nuts, chocolate, or pepper, and not selling spirits in any greater quantity at one time than two quarts, or any spirits to be consumed in the house or on the premises of such retailer, require that the spirits sold under such licence shall be consumed elsewhere than in the house or on the premises of such retailer ;—

It is Enacted,

11. That from after the passing of this Act it shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, or any chief or other constable, or overseer, within the limits of his jurisdiction, to enter into any house or place kept by such retailer as aforesaid for selling spirits or any other article, at any time or hour at which such house or place is kept open for any such sale as aforesaid ; and if any such retailer, on demand of entrance by any such Justice, chief or other constable, or overseer, opposes or obstructs such entrance, or delays to admit such Justice, chief or other constable, or overseer, into any such house or place, or if such retailer is found selling spirits by retail to be consumed in such house or place, or harbouring any person who appears to be to have recently been drinking or tipping spirits therein, such retailer, over and above every other penalty he incurs, shall forfeit and pay the sum of 2*l.*, to be sued for and recovered as any other penalty under the said recited Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 68, and subject to the several provisions in the said recited Act in that behalf ; and on due conviction of any such offence as aforesaid the licence of such retailer shall become forfeited.

And after reciting that by the said Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 68, persons in Ireland applying for an Excise licence to sell spirits to be consumed in the house or upon the premises where sold are required to enter into a certain bond to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, conditioned as therein mentioned ;—

It is Enacted,

111. That such bond shall not be subject or liable to the payment of any stamp duty whatever, anything in any Act or Acts to the contrary notwithstanding.

1*v.* That this Act, where it is not otherwise specified, shall be deemed to have commenced and shall take effect from the 4th July in this present year.

v. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXV.

N ACT to determine the countervailing Duties payable on Spirits of the Nature of plain British Spirits, the Manufacture of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, imported into the United Kingdom ; and to prohibit the Importation of rectified or compound Spirits from the said Islands.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

Countervailing duties imposed by this Act.

Duties to be under the management of the Commissioners of Excise.

Spirits of the nature of plain British spirits, manufactured in the islands, and imported into the United Kingdom, to be denominated plain British spirits, and imported under the same regulations of Excise as spirits removed from Scotland or Ireland, &c.—When so imported to be dealt with as spirits the manufacture of that part of the United Kingdom into which imported.

STAT.—VOL. XXIII.

2 I

4. Plain spirits the manufacture of the islands aforesaid to be made from the same materials as in the United Kingdom.—The declaration and certificate of produce to certify the same, under pain of forfeiture for any false certificate.
5. Spirits of the nature of British brandy or compounds, the manufacture of any of the said islands prohibited to be imported.
6. All Channel Islands spirits may be entered to be warehoused for exportation.
7. Act to commence from the 8th of August as to all prohibited spirits which have been imported since that date, and are now in bond.
8. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by the laws now in force, goods, the produce or manufacture of the Islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, and Sark may be imported from the said islands respectively into the United Kingdom, on payment of such proportion of such duties as fairly countervail any duties of Excise payable on the like goods the produce of the part of the United Kingdom into which they are imported: And that the duties of Excise payable on plain British spirits the produce of or distilled in England is 7s. 10d. upon every gallon of such spirits of the strength of hydrometer proof, and 3s. 8d. upon every gallon of the like spirits at the same strength distilled in Scotland, and 2s. 8d. upon every gallon of the like spirits at the same strength distilled in Ireland; but by reason of the duty of Excise on malt, being materials from which such spirits are made, and of the duty of Excise on licences to distillers and makers of malt and spirits, the duties before mentioned cannot be taken as fair countervailing duties on the like spirits the produce or manufacture of the said islands imported into any of the parts of the United Kingdom aforesaid, and it is necessary therefore to determine the same: And that plain British spirits, when imported from one of the said parts of the United Kingdom into another, must be removed under the provisions of the laws of Excise, and subject, when so removed, to be dealt with in all respects as if the same had been distilled in the country into which the same have been so removed; And that spirits denominated British brandy and British compounds, distilled or made in any part of the United Kingdom, cannot be so removed, and there are no duties of Excise payable thereon on which any countervailing duty can be fairly estimated:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act the countervailing duties to be charged on all spirits of the nature or quality of plain British spirits, manufactured or distilled in the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, and imported from any of the said islands into the United Kingdom, shall be as follows; (that is to say),

For and upon every gallon of such spirits of the strength of hydrometer proof, as ascertained by Sikes' hydrometer, imported into England, the sum of 9s., and so in proportion for any greater degree of strength, or any greater or less quantity:

For and upon every gallon of such spirits of the like strength imported into Scotland, the sum of 4s. 10d., and so in proportion for any greater degree of strength or any greater or less quantity:

For and upon every gallon of such spirits imported into Ireland, the sum of 3s. 10d., and so in proportion for any greater degree of strength or any greater or less quantity.

II. That the said several countervailing duties shall be under the management of the Commissioners of Excise, and shall be collected, paid, and accounted for as duties of Excise, and in the same manner as any duties of Excise now imposed on plain British spirits manufactured in England, Scotland or Ireland respectively, and removed from any one of the said parts of the United Kingdom into any other, are directed to be collected, paid, and accounted for when made payable in that part of the United Kingdom, into which such spirits are so removed, under any law or laws of Excise; and the general and special provisions, clauses, enactments, regulations, pains, penalties, and forfeitures contained in any Act or Acts relating to the collection and management of the revenue of Excise shall, so far as the same are applicable thereto, be applied to the collection and management of the said countervailing duties and to this Act.

III. That all spirits of the nature or quality of plain British spirits, manufactured in any of the islands aforesaid, and imported into any part of the United Kingdom, shall be denominated plain British spirits, and shall be imported only under such denomination, and at the like strength, and in casks of the same size, and vessels of the same tonnage, as the like spirits manufactured in England, Scotland, or Ireland may be removed from one of the said parts of the United Kingdom into another; and the said spirits, when so imported from any of the said islands, shall, upon such importation, and before landing be entered under the like denomination with the proper officer of Excise at the port at which such spirits are imported, subject to the provisions aforesaid, and under the like regulations, pains, penalties and forfeitures as are imposed in such respect on plain British spirits under any law or laws of Excise, and subject to the several provisions, clauses, and enactments (except so far as altered by this Act) of any law or laws of the Customs respecting the declaration and certificate of produce, and other regulations required by the said last-mentioned laws to be observed respecting goods the produce or manufacture of any of the said islands, and imported into any part of the United Kingdom, and respecting such goods when subject to any countervailing duties or regulations of Excise; and all such spirits so imported shall, on arriving in England, Scotland, or Ireland respectively, be dealt with in all respects as if the same had been distilled and made in the country into which the same have been so imported, and shall be removed by permit as spirits of the like kind or denomination are directed to be removed by permit under the laws of Customs and Excise; and the person or persons to whom the same are sent for sale shall have the same privileges, and be subject to the like licences, regulations, and penalties in respect of such spirits, as rectifiers, dealers in and retailers of spirits in the country into which such spirits have been imported, and as if such spirits had been distilled in the same.

IV. That no spirits of the produce or manufacture of any of the said islands, and imported into any part of the United Kingdom, shall be deemed or taken to be plain British spirits under this Act, unless the same are made and distilled from the same materials as the like spirits are directed to be made when distilled in the United Kingdom; (videlicet) malt, corn, or grain, or any mixture thereof, or sugar only, or potatoes only, or mangel-wurzel only; and the declaration and certificate of produce required by the laws of the Customs shall specify the particular materials aforesaid from which such spirits have been made.

factured; and in case any dispute arises thereupon, the proof that such spirits have been made and distilled from such materials as aforesaid shall lie upon the importer, owner, or claimer thereof; and if any such declaration or certificate as aforesaid is found to be false in any of the particulars aforesaid, or in any particular therein mentioned, and required to be inserted therein by the laws of the Customs, all the spirits imported thereon, or to which such declaration or certificate relates, shall be forfeited, and may be seized by any officer of Customs or Excise.

v. That no spirits of the nature or quality of British brandy or British compounds, or any spirits other than plain British spirits as the same are respectively denominated and described in the laws of Excise and by this Act, the produce or manufacture of any of the said islands, shall be imported into any part of the United Kingdom, on pain of the forfeiture thereof, and of all casks or other packages, and of the vessel or boat, used in the removal or importation thereof, which may be seized by any officer of Customs or Excise; and the importer thereof, and every person concerned therein, shall for every such offence incur the penalty of 100*l.*; and all such penalties and forfeitures may be sued for, recovered, and applied as any other penalties or forfeitures under any of the laws of the Customs or Excise.

vi. That any spirits of the produce or manufacture of any of the islands aforesaid may, if imported for exportation only, be imported into the United Kingdom, to be entered and warehoused for exportation only, under the provisions of any law or laws of the Customs in force for the time being made for the warehousing of goods without payment of duty upon the first entry thereof.

vii. That this Act shall be deemed to have commenced and shall take effect from and after the 8th of August 1844, for and in respect of all spirits of the nature or quality of British brandy or British compounds, or other spirits than plain British spirits as denominated and described in the laws of Excise and by this Act, the produce or manufacture of any of the said islands, which have been imported at any time subsequent to the above date, and are now in bond or Customs warehouse, in so far that no such spirits shall be removed or admitted into consumption in any part of the United Kingdom on payment of any countervailing duty or otherwise, but the same may be exported from the United Kingdom or otherwise, as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may in that respect direct.

viii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act or Acts to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

By this ACT, or the better advancement of learning among all classes of Her Majesty's subjects in Ireland,—

It is Enacted,

That in case Her Majesty shall be pleased by letters patent under the great seal of Ireland to found one or more new colleges for the advancement of learning in Ireland, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland for the time being shall be empowered, by warrant under the hands of any three or more of them, to charge the Consolidated Fund of the said United Kingdom (after providing for all preceding charges, and in preference to all future charges), and to direct to be issued or paid thereout, such sum of money as shall be needed by the trustees hereinafter mentioned for purchasing or providing lands, tenements, and hereditaments for the use of such colleges or colleges, and for the necessary buildings, with the appurtenances thereof, and for establishing and furnishing the same, not exceeding the sum of 100,000*l.* in the whole.

II. That the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland for the time being shall be trustees for the purpose of purchasing or providing, as hereinafter mentioned, any buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments that may be necessary for the said colleges and the sites thereof, and the premises to be occupied therewith respectively, and for erecting thereon suitable buildings, and for repairing, enlarging, and improving the same from time to time, and for upholding and furnishing the same from time to time, for the use of the said colleges respectively.

III. That for the purposes of this Act the said Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland for the time being, and their successors, shall be a corporation by the name or style of "The Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland," and by that name, for the purposes of this Act, shall have perpetual succession and a common seal, to be by them made, and from time to time altered as they shall think fit, and shall and may sue and be sued, plead or be impleaded, in all courts and before all Justices and others, and in that capacity shall be deemed promoters of the undertaking authorized to be executed by this Act.

IV. That in order to enable the said Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland to purchase and provide the buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments which may be required for the said colleges and the sites thereof, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, with the approval of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to contract and agree with any person or persons, or body or bodies corporate, for the purchase or renting of any buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments required for such colleges or the sites thereof, and also for the purchase of any subsisting leases, terms, estates or interest therein or charges thereon; and the buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments so contracted and agreed for shall be conveyed, assigned, or demised to or in trust for Her Majesty, her heirs, and successors, in such manner and form as the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct.

v. That the "Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845," shall be incorporated with this Act, except the clauses with respect to the purchase and taking of lands otherwise than by agreement: Provided always, that all things by the said Act required or authorized to be done by the promoters of the undertaking may be done by any two of the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury in the cases provided by this Act.

VI. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Public Works, if they shall be so directed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to employ the county surveyor, or any other competent surveyor or architect, to make a survey and estimate of any of the said proposed works, and to prepare such plan, section, or specification thereof as may be necessary, and send the same to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for their approval; and if the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall think fit to authorize the work in any such plan, section, or specification, or any modification thereof which they may think proper, to be undertaken, they shall, by warrant under their hands, direct the said Commissioners of Public Works to execute such work at and for an amount not exceeding a sum to be specified in such warrant; and the said Commissioners of Public Works shall, upon receipt of such warrant, forthwith cause the construction of the work mentioned therein to be proceeded with.

VII. That the said Commissioners of Public Works shall cause detailed accounts in writing of their proceedings under this Act, of the several sums received by them as such commissioners for the purposes of this Act, and of the sums expended by them for such purposes, and the mode of such expenditure, and the several works made or in progress under this Act, to be made up to the 31st of December in each year; and such accounts shall be laid before both houses of Parliament within six weeks thereafter, if Parliament be then sitting, or if not, then within six weeks after the first meeting of Parliament subsequent to the 31st of December; and the said Commissioners shall, as often as they shall be required so to do by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, transmit to the said Commissioners of the Treasury like accounts made up to such period as the said Commissioners of the Treasury shall direct; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to give such directions as they shall think proper, defining the duties of the said Commissioners of Public Works in the execution of this Act; and the said Commissioners of Public Works shall observe all such directions as aforesaid which shall from time to time be signified to them by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

VIII. That the several enactments contained in an Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 33, intituled 'An Act for the Extension and Promotion of Public Works in Ireland,' which affect or relate to any action or suit to be commenced against the Commissioners for the execution of the last-recited Act, or their secretary, or any person or persons, for anything done by virtue of or in pursuance of the last-recited Act, or any proceedings in any such action or suit, or any limitation of time for the commencing thereof, or any costs thereof, or any evidence to be given therein, or any notice of action or suit or satisfaction tender thereof, or any action or suit to be commenced by the said Commissioners, or any proceedings therein, or the said Commissioners suing or being sued in the name of their secretary, or any abatement or discontinuance of any such action or suit, or to the Court in which, or to the terms or conditions on which, any such action or suit shall be brought against the said Commissioners, collectively or individually, or their secretary, shall be held to apply to and extend to any action or suit to be commenced against the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland, or their secretary, or any person or persons for anything done by virtue of or in pursuance of this Act, or to any proceedings in any such action or suit, or to any limitation of time for the commencing thereof, or to any costs thereof, or to any notice of any such action or suit, or to any evidence to be given therein, or to any action or suit to be commenced by the said Commissioners of Public Works in the execution of this Act, or on account of or in pursuance of this Act, or to any proceedings in any such action or suit, or the said Commissioners suing or being sued in the name of their secretary for the time being, or to any abatement or discontinuance of any such action or suit, or to the Court in which or to the terms or conditions on which any such action or suit shall be brought against the said Commissioners of Public Works, collectively or individually, or against their secretary.

x. That it shall not be lawful for any college within the provisions of this Act to alien, mortgage, charge, or demise any lands, tenements, or hereditaments to which it may become entitled, unless with the approval of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, except by way of lease for any term not exceeding thirty-one years from the time when such lease shall be made, in and by which there shall be received and made payable, during the whole of the term thereby granted, the best yearly rent that can reasonably be gotten for the same, without any fine or foregift.

x. Provided and enacted, That no college shall be entitled to the benefit of this Act, or deemed to be within the provisions thereof, unless it be declared and provided, in and by the letters patent constituting such college, that the visitor or visitors of the said college shall be such person or persons as it shall please Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, from time to time to appoint, by any warrant or warrants under the sign manual, to execute the office of visitor; and that all the statutes, rules, and ordinances concerning the government and discipline of such colleges shall be made or approved by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors; and that the president, vice-president, and professors shall hold their several offices during the pleasure of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors; and that the sole power of appointing the president and vice-president shall be vested in Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, and that the power of appointing the professors shall be vested in Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, until the end of the year 1848, and afterwards as shall be otherwise provided by Parliament, or in default of any provision to the contrary, in Her Majesty, her heirs and successors.

xi. That all the statutes, rules, and ordinances which shall be made or approved from time to time by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, concerning the government and discipline of the said colleges respectively, which shall be in force at the beginning of every session of Parliament, and which shall not have been before that time laid before Parliament, shall from time to time, within six weeks after the beginning of every such session, be laid before both Houses of Parliament by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

xii. That the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall be empowered, by warrant under the hands of any three or more of them, to charge the said Consolidated Fund of the said United Kingdom (after providing for all preceding charges, but having preference for all future charges), and to direct to be issued or paid thereout by four equal quarterly payments, on the 5th of January, the 5th of April, the 5th of July, and the 10th of October in every year, such sums of money as shall be needed for defraying the several stipends which shall be by Her Majesty appointed to be paid to the president and vice-president and to such professors in the several faculties of Arts, Law, and Physic as shall be from time to time established by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, and to the bursar, registrar, librarian, and other office bearers and servants in each of the said colleges, and for defraying the expense of such prizes and exhibitions as shall be by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, awarded for the encouragement and reward of students in each of the said colleges, not exceeding in any one year the sum of 7,000*l.* for every such college, or the sum of 21,000*l.* in the whole, the first instalment for each college to become due and payable on such of the said quarterly days of payment as shall first happen next after the grant of the letters patent for the establishment of such college.

xiii. And it is declared and enacted, That it shall be lawful for the professors in each of the said colleges in addition to the stipends with which they shall be so respectively endowed, to demand and receive from the students in the said colleges such reasonable fees for attendance on their lectures, and for the bursar of the college to collect from the said students, on behalf of the said college, such reasonable fees for matriculation and other collegiate proceedings, as shall be from time to time provided by the statutes, rules, and ordinances so to be made or approved by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, as foresaid.

And for the better enabling every student in the said colleges to receive religious instruction according to the creed which he professes to hold,— xiv. That it shall be lawful for the president and professors or other governing body of each of the said colleges which shall be constituted in and by the said letters patent to assign lecture rooms within the precincts of such college, wholly or in part, for the use of such religious teachers as shall be recognized by such governing body, subject in each case to the approval of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, and also subject to the like approval, to make rules concerning the days and times when such religious instruction shall be given therein, and for securing that the same shall not interfere with the general discipline of the college: Provided always, that no student shall be compelled by any rule of the college to attend any theological lecture or religious instruction other than is approved by his parents or guardians, and that no religious test shall be administered to any person in order to entitle him to be admitted a student of any such college, or to hold any office therein to partake of any advantage or privilege thereof; but this proviso shall not be deemed to prevent the making of regulations securing the due attendance of the students for divine worship at such church or chapel as shall be approved by their parents or guardians respectively.

It is Enacted,

And for the better government of the students in the said colleges,— rv. That no student shall be allowed to continue in any of the said colleges unless he shall dwell with his parent or guardian, or with some near relation or friend selected by his parent or guardian and approved by the president of the college, with a tutor or master of a boarding house licensed by the president of the college as hereinafter provided, or in a hall founded and endowed for the reception of students and recognized by the college as hereinafter provided.

It is Enacted,

vi. That every person who is desirous of being licensed as a tutor or master of a boarding-house in any of the said colleges shall apply in writing under his hand to the president of the college for his licence; and it shall be lawful for the president, if he shall think fit, to require of any such applicant such testimonials of character and fitness for the office as shall be satisfactory to him; and the application shall specify the house or houses belonging to or occupied by the applicant, and intended by him for the reception of students, and the number of students who may be conveniently lodged and boarded therein, and also the provision or regulation proposed to be made for securing to the said students the means of due attendance upon such religious instruction and divine worship as may be approved by his parents and guardians and recognized by the governing body of the college, and thereupon it shall be lawful for the president, in his discretion, to grant or withhold the licence for the academical year then current or then next ensuing; and every such licence shall be registered in the archives of the college, and shall enure until the end of the academical year in which it shall be registered, and shall then be of no force unless renewed in like manner, but shall be revocable at any time, and may be forthwith revoked by the president of the college in case of any misbehaviour of such tutor or master of a boarding-house, or of the students under his care, which in the opinion of the president and a majority of the professors of the college ought to be punished by immediate revocation of such licence.

xvii. That it shall be lawful for any person whomsoever having power to make an absolute disposition thereof to give, grant, devise, bequeath, or assure, by any deed, will, or other instrument sufficient in law to create or convey an estate therein, any messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, or any estate therein, or any interest arising thereout, or any money, chattels, and effects, to any trustee or trustees willing to accept the trust, or to the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests in Ireland and their successors, in trust for founding and endowing halls for the reception of students in any of the said colleges, and by such deed, will, or instrument to establish rules, or to specify the authority for establishing rules to be observed by the students admitted to the benefits of such foundation, and to specify the authority by which the observance of such rules is to be enforced: Provided always, that no such hall shall be recognized by any of the said colleges unless the instrument of foundation shall provide that such rules, and also the appointment from time to time of the principal or other person holding chief authority in such hall, shall be of no force until allowed by the person or persons appointed or to be appointed as aforesaid by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, to execute the office of visitor of the said college.

And for the encouragement of persons willing to found and endow halls for the reception of students in the said colleges as aforesaid;—

xviii. That if Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, shall be pleased, by letters patent under the great seal of Ireland, to incorporate any number of persons willing to found and endow any such hall or halls as aforesaid, such incorporated hall shall be deemed a public work for the promotion of which the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland may make loans within the meaning of an Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 33, intituled 'An Act for the Extension and Promotion of Public Works in Ireland,' and of all Acts passed or to be passed for the amendment thereof; and that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland to make loans to such incorporated bodies respectively for the extension and promotion of such foundations according to the provisions of the last-recited Acts.

xix. That it shall be lawful for any person whomsoever having power to make an absolute disposition thereof to give, grant, devise, bequeath, or assure, by any deed, will, or other instrument sufficient in law to create or convey an estate therein, any messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, or any estate therein, or interest arising thereout, or any money, chattels, and effects, to any trustee or trustees willing to accept the trust, or to the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests in Ireland, and their successors, in trust for establishing and maintaining lectures or other forms of religious instruction for the use of such students of the said colleges respectively as shall be desirous of receiving the same, subject to such regulations consistent with the intentions of the donor thereof, as shall be made by the governing body of the college, and approved by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors: Provided always, that no such gift shall take effect until it shall have been accepted by the governing body of the college, and until Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, shall have signified her or their approval of the regulations according to which such gift is to be applied.

xx. That every such college which shall be established and endowed under this Act shall once at least in every year, and also whenever Her Majesty's pleasure shall be signified in that behalf, report to Her Majesty their proceedings; and a copy of every such report shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks after the same shall have been made, if Parliament be then sitting, or if not, then within six weeks next after the next meeting of Parliament.

xxi. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. LXVII.—IRELAND.

AN ACT for making further Regulations for more effectually securing the Correctness of the Jurors Books in Ireland.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Repeal of part of section 9. of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 91.
2. Jury lists, when allowed and signed by the Justices, to be numbered in their presence with the consecutive numbers 1, 2, 3, &c. and a general list to be made out, and then to be signed by the Justices.—The general list to be copied into a book to be called the jurors book.

3. The jury lists, &c. to be placed among the records in the office of the clerk of the peace, and be open for inspection.
4. Jurors book may be corrected by the Court of Queen's Bench or by a single Judge, upon complaint made thereof.
5. High constables and collectors required to cause lists to be printed.
6. Grand jury at assizes, &c. to present sum of money for expense of printing lists.
7. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 91, containing directions for making out yearly in every county, county of a city, and county of a town in Ireland, a list or lists of all persons qualified and liable to serve on juries as therein provided, and for copying the same into a book, to be called "The Jurors Book," and enacting that the sheriff shall not, in answer to any writ of venire facias, or precept for the return of jurors, return the names of any persons not contained in the jurors book for the then current year: And that it is expedient to make further regulations for the purpose of more effectually securing the correctness of the said jurors books;—

It is Enacted,

1. That the following provision of the said Act, (videlicet), "and when every such list shall be duly corrected by the Justices present at such special sessions or adjournment thereof, and allowed and signed by them or three of them, they the said Justices shall cause one general list to be made out therefrom, containing the names of all persons whose qualification shall have been so allowed, arranged according to rank and property; and the presiding Justices at such sessions shall deliver the same to the clerk of the peace, who shall thereupon cause the same to be truly and fairly copied, in the same order, in a book to be by him provided for that purpose at the expense of the county, city, and town respectively, with proper columns for making the register hereinafter directed, and shall forthwith deliver the same book to the sheriff of the county, city, or town, or his under-sheriff, or the town clerk, which book shall be called 'The Jurors Book for the year' (inserting the calendar year for which such book is to be in use), and that every sheriff on quitting his office shall deliver the same to the succeeding sheriff; and that every jurors book so prepared shall be brought into use on the 1st of January after it shall be so delivered by the clerk of the peace to the sheriff, or his under-sheriff, and shall be used for one year then next following," shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

And instead thereof,—

It is Enacted,

11. That when every such list made out and delivered by any high constable or collector shall be duly corrected by the Justices present at such special sessions or adjournment thereof, as in the said Act is mentioned, the said lists shall be marked in their presence with the successive numbers 1, 2, 3, &c., according to the number of such lists; and when the said lists, so corrected and numbered, shall be allowed and signed by them or any three of them, the said Justices shall cause one general list to be made out therefrom, containing the names of all persons whose qualification shall have been so allowed, arranged according to rank and property, which general list shall be compared by the presiding Justices at such sessions with the said lists so allowed and signed and numbered as aforesaid, and shall be corrected by such Justices (if necessary) by reference to such lists, and be made to correspond therewith; and the presiding Justices at such sessions shall sign such general list at the foot of each page thereof, and shall deliver the same, together with the lists so allowed and signed and numbered as aforesaid, to the clerk of the peace, who shall thereupon cause the same to be truly and fairly copied, in the same order in which the names shall be arranged in the said general list in a book to be by him provided for that purpose at the expense of the county, city and town respectively, with proper columns for making the register directed by the said Act, and shall forthwith deliver the same book to the sheriff of the county, city, or town, or his under-sheriff, or the town clerk, which book shall be called 'The Jurors Book for the Year' (inserting the calendar year for which such book is to be in use), and that every sheriff on quitting his office shall deliver the same to the succeeding sheriff, and that every jurors book so prepared shall be brought into use on the 1st of January after it shall be so delivered by the clerk of the peace to the sheriff or his under-sheriff, and shall be used for one year then next following.

111. That the clerk of the peace shall cause the said jury lists, so allowed and signed as aforesaid, and the said general list, to be placed among the records in his office, and shall allow the same to be inspected at all reasonable times, without fee or reward, any person who, by the provisions of the said Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 91, would be entitled to peruse the copies of any of the jury lists delivered to such clerk of the peace by the high constable and collector or collectors.

v. That if the jurors book shall be found to contain any name which shall not be contained in any one of the said jury lists, or if any name which shall be contained in any one of such jury lists shall not appear in such book, it shall be lawful for His Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench in Dublin, or any Judge of the said court, upon complaint thereof made to the said court or Judge, to order the said sheriff or under-sheriff and the clerk of the peace respectively to produce the said jurors book and the said jury lists to the said Court or Judge: and if upon inspection of the said book and jury lists any such error shall be found in the said jurors book, the said Court or Judge shall order the same to be amended, and such amendment shall be made with made and signed by the said sheriff or under-sheriff and clerk of the peace, in the presence of the said Court or Judge.

And after reciting that it is desirable that the lists to be made out by the high constables and collector or collectors under the provisions of the said Act should in every case be printed;—

It is Enacted,

That instead of the words "you are authorized to order a sufficient number of copies thereof to be printed," which are contained in the precept for returning lists of jurors in Schedule (A.) to the said Act annexed, such precept shall in every case contain the words following; (videlicet), "you are required to order a sufficient number of copies thereof to be printed;" and the said high constables and collector or collectors are hereby required to cause a sufficient number of copies of the said lists to be printed accordingly.

vi. That it shall be lawful for the grand jury of each county, county of a city, or county of a town, from time to time at the next ensuing assizes or presenting term, and they are hereby empowered, if they shall so think fit, without previous application at presentment sessions, to present such sum of money as they shall deem reasonable for defraying the expense of printing such lists.

vii. That this Act may be amended or repealed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXVIII.

AN ACT to stay Execution of Judgment for Misdemeanours upon giving Bail in Error.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Execution on judgments for misdemeanours stayed or suspended by writ of error and bail thereon.
2. Certificate of recognizance being duly filed.
3. Time of imprisonment how reckoned.
4. Payment and recovery of a fine not to prevent imprisonment till fine again paid.
5. Writ of error to be quashed in case of delay or neglect to prosecute it.
6. Act not to extend to Scotland.
7. Alteration of Act.

By this ACT,

After reciting that it is expedient to make provision for staying the execution of judgment upon prosecution for misdemeanour while a writ of error is depending to reverse such judgment;—

It is Enacted,

1. That in every case of judgment, whether given before or after the passing of this Act for a misdemeanour, where the defendant or defendants shall have obtained a writ of error to reverse such judgment, execution thereupon shall be stayed until such writ of error shall be finally determined; and in case the defendant or defendants shall be imprisoned under such execution, or any fine shall have been levied, either in whole or in part, in pursuance of such judgment, the said defendant or defendants shall be entitled to be discharged from imprisonment, and to receive back any money levied on account of such fine from the person or persons in whose possession the same shall be, until such final determination as aforesaid: Provided always, that no execution upon any such judgment shall be stayed unless and until the defendant or defendants shall become bound by recognizance, to be acknowledged before one of the Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench, or one of the Commissioners appointed to take special bail in actions depending in the superior courts, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved of by such Judge or Commissioner, in such sum as such Judge or Commissioner shall direct, to prosecute the writ of error with effect; and in case the judgment shall be affirmed, forthwith to render the said defendant or defendants to prison, according to the said judgment, where imprisonment shall have been adjudged; and every such recognizance shall, after justification of bail be filed of record in the said Court of Queen's Bench, in like manner and upon payment of the like fees as in the case of other recognizances filed in the Crown Office in that court; and the Judge of the said Court of Queen's Bench and the said Commissioner shall have the like powers in respect of the justifying such bail in error, and the examination of the sureties, as the like rules shall apply, as in respect of special bail in actions depending in such court: Provided always, that in the case of any defendant under legal disability it shall be sufficient if two persons, to be approved of by such Judge or Commissioner, shall become bound by recognizance on the behalf of such defendant, to be acknowledged and conditioned as aforesaid.

11. That the clerk of the crown in the said Court of Queen's Bench shall for the purposes hereinafter mentioned make and deliver to the defendant or defendants, or his or their lawful attorney, certificates in writing under his hand that such recognizance is duly filed of record in such court, upon payment of the like fee as for other certificates delivered at the Crown Office; and any such certificate, when duly verified by affidavit to be made before one of the Judges of the superior courts at common law, or a commissioner duly authorized, shall be a sufficient warrant to every gaoler or other person having custody of such defendant or defendants in execution of such judgment to discharge him or them out of custody, and also to every person having in his possession the whole or any part of any fine levied in execution of such judgment, to authorize and require the repayment thereof to the defendant or defendants; but no person who shall have received any such money, and have paid it over to any other person, according to the course of the Exchequer, shall be liable to repay to the defendant or defendants any part of the money so paid over.

111. That where judgment upon such writ of error shall be affirmed, and imprisonment shall have been adjudged, the period for its continuance in pursuance of such judgment, if such imprisonment shall not have commenced under such execution shall be reckoned to begin from the day when such defendant or defendants shall be in actual custody under such judgment; and if the defendant or defendants shall have been discharged from imprisonment in manner hereinbefore provided, such defendant or defendants shall be liable to be imprisoned for such further period as, with the time during which such defendant or defendants may already have been imprisoned under such execution, shall be equal to the period for which such defendant or defendants was or were so adjudged to be imprisoned as aforesaid.

IV. And it is declared and enacted, That when the judgment shall have been for payment of a fine, and imprisonment until such fine be paid, either with or without imprisonment for a certain time, and the defendant or defendants shall have paid the fine, or the same or any part thereof shall have been levied, and shall have been received back, under the provisions hereinbefore contained, and the judgment upon writ of error brought shall be affirmed, the defendant or defendants shall not be entitled, by reason of such payment as aforesaid, to be discharged from imprisonment, notwithstanding the expiration of any certain time of imprisonment for which the original judgment shall have been given, until the fine shall be again paid.

V. That if the Court in which any such writ of error shall be pending shall upon motion in that behalf decide that the defendant or defendants by whom it shall be brought has or have wilfully delayed or neglected to prosecute the same with effect, it shall be lawful for such Court to order the writ of error to be quashed, and thereupon the defendant or defendants who brought such writ of error shall be liable to execution upon the judgment.

VI. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland.

VII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

19. Security for sums heretofore advanced.
20. Value of lands.
21. Interpretation of Act.
22. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 5 & 6 Vict. c. 89. it is amongst other things enacted, that if the proprietors of two-thirds or more in extent of the lands proposed to be drained or improved by drainage under the provisions of the said Act should have assented in writing to the execution of the proposed works, the Commissioners acting in execution of said Act should make and sign a declaration describing the lands proposed to be drained or improved, and declaring the then actual value thereof, and the increase in such value by means of the proposed works, and the proportion in which such lands should be chargeable towards the expense of the proposed works, such proportion being fixed according to such actual value and such estimated increase as aforesaid, and also stating the several other matters and things in and by the said Act authorized and required; and it is by the said Act further enacted, that it should and might be lawful for the Commissioners appointed under the said Act, from time to time as occasion should require, to borrow and take up at interest any sum or sums of money required for paying the costs, charges, and expenses to be incurred by them in the execution of any works for the drainage and improvement of any land, or the navigation of any river, or the formation of any reservoir under or by virtue of the said Act, and that the repayment of such sum or sums of money, with interest at a rate not exceeding 5l. per centum per annum, should be secured to the party lending the same upon the monies accruing to the said Commissioners under or by virtue of the said Act to be made by the said Commissioners as in the said Act mentioned; and it is in and by the said Act further enacted, that as soon as conveniently might be after any works for the drainage or improvement of any land or the navigation of any river under the said Act, or any other work by the said Act authorized, should have been completed, the Commissioners should draw up an award or instrument in writing in the manner and form therein particularly mentioned and described, and that the respective sums of money which by the award of the said Commissioners should be specified as the proportions or contributions payable in respect of the several parcels or portions of the land drained or improved by drainage, or by any works under the said Act, towards the total amount of the sums expended in and about such drainage or improvements as aforesaid, with interest for such respective sums of money at a rate not exceeding 5*l.* per centum per annum from the date of such award, should be charged on such several parcels or portions of the land so drained or improved as aforesaid, and that in preference to and with priority over all incumbrances on such land: Provided nevertheless, that any quit or chief rent issuing thereout, or other incumbrance thereon, previously to the date of the said award, should have priority to such charges to the extent of the value of such land before the improvements were effected, but no further; and the same respective sums of money, with such interest for the same as aforesaid, should also be charged upon so much of any other land situate within one mile of any part of the lands so drained or improved, and settled with the lands so drained or improved to the same uses, intents, and purposes, by virtue of limitations contained in the same instrument or the same set of instruments, as the said Commissioners should by their said award, or any instrument under their hands and seals inrolled in the Rolls Office, direct, limit, and appoint, having regard to the sufficiency of the said lands to satisfy and secure the charge thereon, but subject, as to such other land, to the full amount of all incumbrances affecting the same prior to the date of the said award: And that applications have been made to the said Commissioners for the drainage of land, and the improvement of navigation and water power of several rivers and lakes, in Ireland, and undertakings and works for those purposes are now in progress under the direction of the said Commissioners: And that it is expedient and just that the monies to be charged upon lands by any such award as aforesaid shall take priority and have effect as to such lands from the date of the said declaration in and by the said Act authorized, instead of the date of the said award; and for the more effectual attainment and extension of the benefits likely to arise from the said Act it is expedient to facilitate the raising of monies for the purposes thereof, and to amend the said Act in certain other respects as hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

I. That in the case of all loans to be effected and declarations to be made by the said Commissioners after the passing of this Act, under the provisions of said recited Act or this Act, the respective sums of money which, by the award to be made by the said Commissioners, shall be specified as the proportions or contributions payable in respect of the several parcels or portions of the land drained or improved by drainage, or by any works under the said Act or this Act, towards the total amount of the sums expended in and about such drainage or improvements as aforesaid, with interest for such respective sums of money at the rate not exceeding 5*l.* per centum per annum, shall from the date of such declaration be charged on such several parcels or portions of the land so drained or improved as aforesaid, and that in preference to and with priority over all incumbrances on such land, save only that any quit or chief rent issuing thereout, or other incumbrance thereon, previously to the date of the memorandum of the registry of such declaration, as by this Act authorized and directed to be made by the said Commissioners shall have priority to such respective sums of money so charged to the extent of the value (as stated by the said Commissioners in any such declaration) of such land before the improvements were commenced, but no further; and the same respective sums of money, with such interest for the same as aforesaid, shall also be charged upon so much of any other land situate within one mile of any part of the lands so drained or improved, and settled with the lands so drained or improved, to the same uses, intents, and purposes, by virtue of limitations contained in the same instrument or the same set of instruments, as the said Commissioners shall by the said award, or any instrument under their hands and seals, and inrolled in the Rolls Office, direct, limit, and appoint, having regard to the sufficiency of the said lands to satisfy and secure the charge thereon, but subject, as to such other land as aforesaid, not being part of the lands so drained or improved, to the full amount of all incumbrances affecting the same prior to the registry of the memorandum of such declaration.

II. That the provisions in the said recited Act and this Act contained relating to the charge of any monies or interest on land situate within one mile of any part of the land drained or improved shall be deemed and construed to extend and apply to all land belonging to the same proprietor, as the land so drained or improved, situate within one mile of any part of the lands so drained and improved, for all his estate and interest existing at the time of such declaration of the said Commissioners as aforesaid.

III. That if any proprietor shall prefer to give other security in lieu of the lands so situate within one mile of the land drained or improved as aforesaid, such security shall be given within a time to be fixed by public notice by the Commissioners previous to the date of the declaration aforesaid, anything in the said Act to the contrary notwithstanding.

IV. That the extent of the whole of the land or premises which, under the provisions of said Act or this Act, may become chargeable with the monies expended in pursuance of the provisions thereof, shall be entered, stated, or described in every such declaration, as hereinbefore mentioned to be made by said Commissioners; and when such declaration shall be finally settled a copy thereof shall be printed, and deposited with the clerk of the peace, as in said Act directed.

V. That so soon as conveniently may be after the making of any such declaration as in and by the said recited Act or this Act authorized as aforesaid the said Commissioners shall draw up a memorandum or instrument in writing, setting forth therein the several lands (with the county, county of a city or town, and barony or parish in which the same may be situate) which shall be the subject of or contained in such declaration, and also setting forth the proprietors of such lands respectively, and which memorandum or instrument shall be signed and sealed by the said Commissioners, and be in the form in the Schedule marked (B.) to this Act annexed, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case will admit; and the said Commissioners shall at the same time sign and seal a memorial of such memorandum or instrument, directed to the registrar for registering deeds, conveyances, and wills in Ireland, and cause the memorial of such instrument to be registered in the office for registry of deeds in the city of Dublin; and the registrar of said registry office, his and their assistant, deputies, and other officers, are hereby authorized and required to receive and register the same in such and the same manner as any deeds or instruments are registered in said office, and enter all such memorials of such instruments in the abstract books and indexes of or relating to memorials registered and kept in the said offices, subject to the payment of such fees as may now be lawfully demanded and received upon the registry of memorials of deeds in the said office.

VI. That the said Commissioners shall, within three months from the passing of this Act, draw up memorandums or instruments in writing in the manner and form aforesaid, or as near thereto as the circumstances of each case will admit, of the several declarations heretofore by them made under the provision of the said recited Act, and memorials thereof respectively, and cause the said memorials to be entered and registered in the register's office for registering of deeds in the city of Dublin in the same manner as last aforesaid.

VII. That no appeal to any assistant barrister against any declaration to be made by the said Commissioners shall be heard, unless a notice in writing of such appeal be lodged with the secretary of the said Commissioners at their office in Dublin within twenty-one days next after the publication of such declaration.

VIII. That when the said Commissioners shall think fit to borrow or raise at interest or shall have borrowed any sum of money under the powers for that purpose given by the said recited Act or this Act, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, if they shall so think fit, to include in such loan as well the principal sum estimated to be required as all interest which may be agreed to be paid thereon during the interval between such loan and the making of the award relative to the works for which such loan may have been contracted, such interest to be payable half-yearly or otherwise as the said Commissioners shall think fit; and all sums so borrowed for payment of interest shall be secured in like manner as the principal sum of which the interest shall have been so provided for as aforesaid.

IX. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall not be necessary that any transfer of the right or interest in or to any sum secured by any certificate heretofore issued or hereafter to be issued under the said recited Act or this Act shall be in any specified form, and that every person who shall be entitled to the money secured by any such certificate may transfer his right and interest to the principal sum and interest money thereby secured to any person by indorsement thereon, and that all rights and remedies of the person so indorsing in, to, or in respect of such certificate shall, after such indorsement, be vested in the person to whom such transfer shall be made, and that it shall not be necessary that the said transfer or indorsement shall be produced or certified to the secretary of the said Commissioners, or for the said secretary to make an entry thereof, as in and by the said recited Act directed.

X. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, in any case where they shall so deem fit, to make any certificate or set of certificates granted under the said Act or this Act for the whole of the monies required to be borrowed for such case, payable at any time (to be fixed as hereinafter provided) intervening between two periods to be stated in such certificates; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to alter the form of the certificate provided by the said Act to suit the circumstances of each case, and such certificate so varied shall be equally good and effectual as if the same were according to the form by said Act prescribed.

XI. That where more than one certificate for any such case shall be so issued and made payable between two such periods as aforesaid, the Commissioners shall, as soon as may be convenient after the final settlement of their award, give notice in the Dublin Gazette, and in such other newspapers and by such other means as they shall think fit, to the holders of such certificates of their intention, on a day and hour in said notice to be fixed, not sooner than fourteen days from the publication hereof, to hold a ballot for the purpose of determining the order in which such certificates shall be paid off; and upon the day and at or after the hour named the Commissioners shall accordingly proceed to make such ballot in presence of such (if any) the holders of such certificates, or their agents or representatives, as shall attend at such ballot, and if none of such persons shall attend then in the absence of such persons; and the result of such ballot shall be recorded in the office of the said Commissioners, and noted upon all such of the said certificates as shall be then or subsequently produced to the said Commissioners; and such record and notification shall be signed by the secretary for the time being of said Commissioners, and all such certificates shall be paid off in the order so to be determined by such ballot.

XII. That in all cases of certificates issued in the mode hereinbefore prescribed, and also in all cases where, pursuant to the provisions of the said recited Act, the Commissioners are empowered or required to borrow money at a lower rate of interest than the certificates which for the time being shall be in force shall bear, and shall issue like certificates at such reduced rate of interest, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners and they are hereby required to publish a notice in the Dublin Gazette, and in such other newspapers as they shall deem fit, fixing a time not sooner than six months from the date of such notice, when the principal money secured by any or the whole of such certificates shall become payable, with regard to the order in which, in pursuance of the provisions of this Act and the said recited Act, such certificates shall have been made payable; and in such notice the certificates to become payable shall be described by the name of the tract or work for which they have been issued, and the number, letter, or other mark fixed by said Commissioners on such certificates; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, at the expiration of the time in such notice stated, to pay the monies due on account of such certificates named in such notice, and from and after the expiration of the time pointed by said notice the interest on the principal monies secured by such certificates shall cease and determine.

XIII. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners from time to time to invest in any of the public or government funds or securities, in their names as such Commissioners, or in the name of their secretary for the time being, for the benefit of the parties interested in such funds, (but without risk to the said Commissioners,) any sums of money applicable to the purposes of the said recited Act or this Act which may be in their hands remaining unapplied.

XIV. That the said Commissioners may and shall in all cases sue and be sued in the name of the secretary of the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland for the time being for and on behalf of the said Commissioners; and that in all suits or criminal or civil proceedings the name of the Commissioners of Drainage shall be a sufficient description of the said Commissioners; and that no such action or suit at law or in equity shall abate or be discontinued by the death or removal of such secretary; and the secretary for the time being shall always be deemed the plaintiff or defendant in such action or suit (as the case may be).

xv. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, in making any declaration or award, or doing any other act by this Act or the said recited Act authorized, to do so in and by reference to maps, plans and schedules, or otherwise, as they may think best.

xvi. That the assents of proprietors and owners under the said recited Act shall be in the form in the Schedule (A.) to this Act annexed, or as near thereto as the circumstances of each case will permit, and that the assent of every proprietor given under his hand in such form shall, to all intents and purposes, be conclusive against and binding upon such proprietor of, and all persons interested in the lands of such proprietor in respect of which such assent shall be given, and also upon and against the same lands respectively.

xvii. That the production of such assents by or from the office of the said Commissioners shall be deemed and taken in all courts of law and equity as good and sufficient proof thereof, and of the due execution thereof, without any further or other evidence of the execution of same.

xviii. That every clerk, collector, receiver, or other officer to be appointed or employed under the said recited Act or this Act, shall, when required so to do by the said Commissioners, give such security to the secretary for the time being of the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland in such sum as shall be determined on by the Commissioners acting in execution of the said recited Act and this Act, conditioned for the due performance and execution of such duties and works for which such person or persons shall respectively be so appointed or employed as aforesaid, or in such other condition as the Commissioners of Drainage may think proper and require; and each security shall and may be sued upon and enforced by the secretary of Commissioners of Public Works for the time being for and on behalf of the said Commissioners of Drainage.

xix. That the respective sums of money which shall become chargeable under any award to be made by the said Commissioners in respect of any district as to which the said Commissioners have heretofore made a declaration, and as to which money has been borrowed and taken up by them for the execution of any work in such district, shall, for the purpose of securing the money so borrowed and taken up by the said Commissioners, be charges on the lands to become chargeable therewith as in said Act mentioned, but with priority over all charges created on such lands after the passing of this Act.

xx. That the extent in value of the land drained or improved before the improvements were effected in said Act mentioned shall be construed, deemed, and taken to be the value thereof before the improvements were commenced.

xxi. That the said recited Act shall continue and be in full force and effect, save and except so far as the same is altered by or inconsistent with this Act, and that the said recited Act and this Act shall be construed together as one Act; and that in the construction of this Act, except where the nature of the provision or the context of this Act shall exclude such construction, the words "lands," "river," "person," or "persons," "proprietor," or "proprietors," "quit or chief rent," and "counties," shall be construed to extend and be applied as in said recited Act is directed and provided; and every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons and things as well as one person or thing; and every word importing the plural number shall extend and be applied to one person or thing as well as several persons or things; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to a female as well as a male; the words "said Commissioners" shall mean the Commissioners or any two of them acting in execution of the said recited Act and this Act; and the word "proprietor" in the said recited Act and this Act, in addition to the meanings in the said recited Act applied to it, shall also mean the reputed proprietor.

xxii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXX.

AN ACT for the further Amendment of the Church Building Acts.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

- Explanation and extension of the provisions of 3 Geo. 4. c. 72. s. 30.—Claims of persons to pews in the old church to be investigated, and if proved such persons to have pews in the new church, on the same terms as in the old one.
- Incumbent of old church and his successors to be incumbent of new church.
- Former proceedings under 3 Geo. 4. c. 72. s. 30. valid.
- Where any part of a cathedral church has been accustomed to be used as a parochial church, a transfer of the rights, endowments, &c. belonging to such parochial church may, with certain consents, be made by the Church Building Commissioners to a new church; and the parochial church shall thenceforth be under the same controul and subject to the same laws as to repairs as exist with respect to the cathedral church.
- Parish heretofore united with another shall be disunited after new church built therein.
- Appointment of churchwardens for a district chapeltry and consolidated chapeltry.
- Appointment of churchwardens for an additional church the site whereof has been accepted by the Commissioners.

8. No such churchwarden to be by virtue of his office overseer of the poor.
9. Explanation and amendment of part of 59 Geo. 3. c. 134. as to formation of consolidated chapelries.—Minister thereof to be a perpetual curate.
10. Offices of the church may be performed therein.—Apportionment of fees.
11. Few rents may be fixed for the minister and clerk of any consolidated chapelry, where the Commissioners have granted money for its erection.
12. Commissioners may in certain cases make grants in aid of the erection of a church for such consolidated chapelry.
13. How the freehold of sites for churches, &c. shall vest.
14. Land obtained for a burial ground for any parish may be declared by the Commissioners part of such parish for that purpose, although not within the bounds of such parish.
15. Church of a district parish may be resigned by the incumbent of original parish; such resignation to operate in the same manner as avoidance of church of the original parish.
16. Boundaries of new parishes or districts may be altered, although five years may not have elapsed since such new parishes or districts were formed.
17. Church of a district chapelry and church augmented by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England to be a perpetual curacy, and minister a perpetual curate.
18. Licence of minister of a new church (without a district) not void by reason of the avoidance of the parish church, unless revoked by bishop.
19. The purchase-money of lands sold under the provisions of recited Acts need not be paid into Bank of England, though it may amount to or exceed 200l., but may be paid to trustees.
20. The purchase-money of lands sold under 58 Geo. 3. c. 45. and belonging to an incumbent in right of his living, may be paid to and applied by the governors of Queen Anne's Bounty for the benefit of the incumbent.
21. Such purchase-money to be paid to the treasurer of Queen Anne's Bounty, and his receipt shall be a valid discharge.
22. Apportionment of bequests, &c. and also of charges, to be made by the Court of Chancery.
23. Agreement as to right of nomination entered into before building or consecration of any new church to be binding.
24. Assent of the Commissioners to any conveyance or other instrument shall be testified by their seal.—Unless so testified, the instrument shall not be registered.
25. Application of former Church Building Acts to this Act.

By this ACT,

After reciting the passing of 58 Geo. 3. c. 45, 59 Geo. 3. c. 134, 3 Geo. 4. c. 72, 5 Geo. 4. c. 103, 7 & 8 Geo. 4. c. 72, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 38, 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 61, 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. 75, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 107, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 49, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 60, and 7 & 8 Vict. c. 56: And that it is expedient that some of the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts should be amended:—

It is Enacted,

1. That, notwithstanding any limitation or restriction or other thing contained in the hereinbefore recited Act, 3 Geo. 4. c. 72. s. 30, where a new church has been already built or shall hereafter be built in any parish or district parish, or ancient or parochial chapelry, and where the bishop of the diocese and the patron and incumbent of such parish, district parish, or ancient or parochial chapelry shall at any time certify to Her Majesty's Commissioners for Building New Churches that it will be for the convenience of such parish, district parish, or ancient or parochial chapelry that such new church, being duly consecrated, should be substituted for the old or existing church situate therein, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, by an instrument under their common seal, with the consents of such bishop, patron, and incumbent, under their hands and seals to declare that such new church, being duly consecrated, shall be substituted for such old or existing church, and to transfer the endowments, emoluments, or rights belonging to such old or existing church, or to the incumbent or minister thereof, to such new church, and to the incumbent or minister thereof, and his successors; and it shall be lawful in every such case for the trustees (if any) of such old or existing church, or of any rights, emoluments, or endowments belonging thereto, or to the incumbent or minister thereof, and they are hereby required, and indemnified for so doing, to transfer the same according to the direction of the said Commissioners; and immediately from and after such transfer all glebe lands, tithes, and other endowments, emoluments, fees, and profits, and every matter or thing, whether real or personal, and all rights and privileges wherewith any such old or existing church is, or was at the time of such substitution, endowed, or to which the incumbent or minister thereof was or is entitled, shall be vested in and belong to the incumbent or minister for the time being of such new church, and his successors, in as ample a manner as the incumbent or minister of the old or existing church might have enjoyed the same if such transfer had not taken place, and the incumbent or minister of such old or existing church shall thereupon be, to all intents and purposes, the rector, vicar, perpetual curate, or minister, as the case may be, of such new church, instead of rector, vicar, perpetual curate, or minister of such old or existing church, without any presentation, institution, induction, collation, or other form of law being had, observed, or required; and such new church shall thereupon have the same rights and privileges as such old or existing church, and such offices of the church as were performed and celebrated in such old or existing church shall be performed and celebrated in such new church, and such new church shall be to all intents and purposes in lieu of the old or existing church; and at any time within six months after the substitution of such new church for the old or existing church, the bishop of the diocese may of his own mere motion issue, or if thereunto required by any person claiming to hold a pew or seat free of rent in such old or existing church by faculty or prescription, shall issue a commission under his hand and seal, directed to the archdeacon of the archdeaconry in which such old or existing church shall be situate, and to any two incumbents of parishes situate within such archdeaconry, and to any two laymen nominated by the churchwardens of such old or existing church, who are hereby required to nominate for such purpose two fit persons not claiming any such pew or seat as aforesaid; and such commission shall direct the Commissioners thereby appointed to inquire into the rights of persons, if any, who claim to hold any such pews or seats as aforesaid; and the said Commissioners or any three or more of them, of whom the said archdeacon shall be one, shall, as soon as conveniently may be, proceed to examine into such claims, after giving fourteen days previous notice thereof, by affixing a copy of such commission on the church door of such new church; and such notice, signed by such archdeacon, shall specify the day and time and place on which such examination is to be made; and after making an examination into such claims the Commissioners so appointed, or the majority of them shall, under their hands, transmit in writing to the said bishop the names and residences of the persons who have substantiated their claims to such pews or seats, and if the said bishop is satisfied therewith he shall assign under his hand and seal, to such parties respectively, convenient pews or seats in such new church, and such seats so assigned shall be held and enjoyed by the parties entitled to the same in as free and ample a manner as the pews or seats to which they had or would have been entitled in such old or existing church; and if any party shall find himself aggrieved by the finding of such commission the bishop of the diocese shall have power to afford redress, by allotting to such party seats in such new church, if the justice of the case shall in his judgment require it; and the old or existing church, if such bishop shall think fit, may thereupon be wholly or partly pulled down, under a faculty to be granted for that purpose; and the said bishop shall in that case take care that all tombstones, monuments, and monumental inscriptions in such church so pulled down are as far as may be preserved by the churchwardens, at the expense of the parish, or if it shall seem fit to the said bishop the same shall be transferred to the church so substituted as aforesaid, at the expense of the said parish or district parish, or ancient or parochial chapelry, as the case may be; provided that in case such new church shall have been built wholly or in part out of the funds placed at the disposal of Her Majesty's said Commissioners under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them, and such transfer shall have been made, rents for the pews or seats in such new church shall only be fixed by Her Majesty's said Commissioners under the provisions of such Acts for that number of seats therein which shall exceed the number of seats provided in such old or existing church: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall authorize the substitution of any new church in lieu of the old or existing church as aforesaid, when the advowson of or right of nomination to such new church shall belong to any other body or person than to the patron of such old or existing church, without the consents in writing of the patron and incumbent or minister of such new church.

II. That the rector, vicar, perpetual curate, or minister of such old or existing church next succeeding after such transfer, and his successors, shall be and is hereby declared to be the rector, vicar, perpetual curate, or minister, as the case may be, of such new church; and the body or person who for the time being would have had a right of presenting or appointing the incumbent or minister of such old or existing church, in case such transfer had not been made, shall in lieu thereof, when any vacancy occurs, have such and the like right of presenting or appointing the incumbent or minister of such new church as such body or person would have had with respect to the old or existing church.

And after reciting that it is expedient to remove any doubts touching the validity of any proceedings by Her Majesty's said Commissioners in cases in which, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Act, 3 Geo. 4. c. 72. s. 30, they have substituted a new church in lieu of the old or existing church in any parish, and have transferred the tithes, glebe, and other endowments belonging to such old or existing church to such new church;—

It is Enacted and Declared,

III. That every substitution of a new church in lieu of an old or existing church, and every transfer heretofore made of the tithes, glebe, and other endowments belonging to such old or existing church, to such new church, by the said Commissioners, purporting to be under the provisions of the hereinbefore last-mentioned Act, shall be and shall be held to be valid in law from the time of such substitution and transfer.

IV. That where any part of the cathedral church has been accustomed to be used as a parochial church, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's said Church Building Commissioners, with consent of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, and with the consents of the bishop of the diocese and of the dean and chapter of such cathedral church, and with the consents also of the patron and of the incumbent or minister of such church, to transfer the rights, emoluments, tithes, and other endowments (if any) as hereinbefore particularly specified belonging to the incumbent of such church, to any new church which has been or hereafter may be built, and which is situate in the parish where such part of such cathedral is, or is deemed to be, the parish church; and in case of such transfer the same provisions hereinbefore contained, touching the rights and privileges, succession and appointment of the incumbent or minister of such new church, and the performance of the offices therein, and the examination into the claims of parties claiming to hold pews, or seats by faculty or prescription in the old parish church, and the assignment of pews or seats to those who have substantiated such claims as hereinbefore mentioned, shall apply to such new church which after such transfer shall become the parish church in lieu of the former parish church so belonging to such cathedral; and such new church, and the incumbent or minister thereof shall, from and immediately after such transfer, be and remain subject in all respects to the same ordinary and other ecclesiastical jurisdiction and superintendence as the old parochial church and the incumbent or minister thereof respectively were or otherwise would have been subject to; and the part of the cathedral church so vacated shall thenceforth remain and be deemed to be part of the cathedral church itself, in the same manner and as fully as if it had never been used as a parochial church, and shall thenceforth be subject to the same controul and superintendence, and to the same laws as to repairs, as exist and are in force with respect to the cathedral church itself; and the parish shall thenceforth be exempt from all further liability (if any) to keep the same in repair: Provided always, that the party or parties liable to the repair of the said part of the said cathedral church, whilst it was so used as a parochial church, shall continue to be liable to the repairs of such new church.

V. That where at the passing of this Act there is not any consecrated church in one of two parishes which may have been for thirty years next before the passing of this Act united, or reputed to have been united, for ecclesiastical purposes, and where a new church has been or shall hereafter be built wholly or in part out of any funds at the disposal of Her Majesty's said Commissioners in the said parish in which there is not any such church as aforesaid, the whole of such parish may, after the consecration of such new church, be disunited for ecclesiastical purposes from the other parish, and may be formed into a separate and distinct parish for such purposes, with the same consents, in the same manner, and under and subject to the same provisions and consequences as are mentioned and contained in the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them, or in this Act, relative to the formation of a distinct and separate parish, where the same is formed out of one parish not united with another parish.

VI. And it is enacted, any thing in the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them to the contrary notwithstanding, that in all cases not otherwise expressly provided for, two fit persons shall be annually appointed churchwardens for the church of every district chapelry or consolidated chapelry already or hereafter to be formed under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them, or this Act, such persons residing within the district chapelry or consolidated chapelry; and the first appointment of two such persons shall, with respect to the church of any district chapelry or consolidated chapelry already formed as aforesaid, take place within two calendar months after the passing of this Act, and with respect to a chapelry district or consolidated chapelry to be hereafter formed as aforesaid, within two calendar months after the formation of the same; and the first appointment of such persons, in either of such cases, shall take place at a meeting of the minister of such church and the householders of the district, to be summoned in all respects as such minister shall direct; and every subsequent appointment shall take place at the usual period of appointing parish officers, at a meeting to be summoned in all respects as if such district were a parish and such meeting were a parish vestry meeting; and in each such case one of such persons shall be chosen by the then incumbent or minister serving such church, and the other by the householders, or the majority of such householders, residing in such district chapelry or consolidated chapelry; and the two persons, when so appointed and elected churchwardens, shall appear and be admitted according to law, and shall collect and receive the rents of the pews and seats in every such church, and pay the stipend or salary assigned by Her Majesty's said Commissioners to the minister and clerk of such church, if the said Commissioners have fixed the rents for the same, or assigned such stipend or salary, and shall also do, perform, and execute all lawful acts, matters, and things necessary for and concerning the management, good order, and decency of behaviour to be kept and observed in such church by the congregation thereof, and for the recovery of such pew rents, if in arrear; and the money given at the offertory at such church shall be disposed of by the minister and churchwardens of such church, in the same manner as the money given at the offertory at any parish church is by law directed to be disposed of by the minister and churchwardens of such parish; and the persons so to be appointed and chosen churchwardens shall continue in their said office until others shall be appointed and chosen in like manner in their stead.

VII. And it is enacted, any thing in the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them to the contrary notwithstanding, that in all cases not otherwise expressly provided for, two fit and proper persons shall be annually appointed churchwardens for any new church (without a district) already built or hereafter to be built upon a site whereof Her Majesty's said Commissioners shall have accepted the conveyance, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts; and the first appointment of such persons shall take place within two calendar months after the passing of this Act with respect to a church already built and consecrated, and within two months after the consecration of a church to be so hereafter built; and the next appointment of such persons, in either of such cases, shall take place at the next usual period of appointing parish officers; and in each such case one of such persons shall be chosen by the minister of such church, and the other by the renters of pews therein, or by the majority thereof, at any meeting to be summoned, in all respects as the minister of such church, or (if there shall be no minister) as the churchwardens going out of office, shall direct; and the two persons, when so appointed and elected churchwardens, shall appear and be admitted according to law, and shall collect and receive the rents, if any, of the pews and seats in any such church, and pay the stipend and salary, if any, assigned by the said Commissioners to the minister and clerk of such church, and shall also do, perform, and execute all lawful acts, matters, and things necessary for and concerning the management, good order, and decency of behaviour to be kept and observed in such church by the congregation thereof, and for the recovery of the pew rents in such church, if the same are in arrear; and the persons so to be appointed and chosen churchwardens shall continue in their said office until others shall be appointed and admitted in like manner in their stead: Provided always, that if there are no rented pews in such church the minister of such church shall appoint both churchwardens: Provided also, that if such new church is made the church of a distinct and separate parish, district parish, district chapelry, or consolidated chapelry, the several provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts, or this Act, touching the appointment and election of churchwardens for the same, and their powers and duties in each such case, shall thenceforth respectively apply to such church.

VIII. Provided and enacted, That no churchwardens appointed under the provisions of this Act shall be churchwardens for any other duties than for those hereinbefore mentioned; but all other legal duties appertaining to the office of churchwardens shall be discharged within such district chapelry or consolidated chapelry, and in respect of the church thereof, and also in respect of any such new church as aforesaid without a district, by the churchwardens who would have discharged the same if this Act had not been passed; and that no churchwardens appointed under the provisions of this Act shall in virtue of such office be deemed overseers of the poor.

And after reciting that it is expedient to explain and amend the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Act, 59 Geo. 1 c. 134, touching the formation of consolidated chapelries;—

It is Enacted,

IX. That where a population is collected together at the extremities of and locally situate in parishes or extra-parochial places contiguous to each other, at a distance from the respective churches of such respective parishes or extra-parochial places, and where there is or shall hereafter be a consecrated church in any of such parishes or extra-parochial places so circumstanced and situated as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, with the consent of the bishop of the diocese, or if such parishes or places are situate in different dioceses, then with the consents of the respective bishops thereof, signified under his or their hands and seals, and with the consents also in like manner signified of the patrons of such respective parishes or extra-parochial places, to represent to Her Majesty in Council the expediency of uniting any such contiguous parts of such parishes or parts, or the whole of such extra-parochial places, into one consolidated chapelry for such church with respect to all ecclesiastical purposes, and such representation shall contain a description of such boundaries as may appear advisable to Her Majesty's said Commissioners for such consolidated chapelry, and shall state to what corporate body, aggregate or sole, or person, their or his successors, heirs, and assigns, the right of presentation and appointment to the church of such consolidated chapelry is proposed, with such consents as aforesaid, and with the approval of the said Commissioners to belong; and if thereupon Her Majesty in Council shall think fit to order such consolidated chapelry to be so formed, such order shall be good and valid for the purpose of forming the same, and the right of presentation and nomination to the church of every such consolidated chapelry so formed shall belong to and (when occasion may require) may be exercised by such body or person, their or his successors, heirs, and assigns, as shall be mentioned in such representation, and the spiritual person so nominated and appointed, when occasion may require, shall be presented to the bishop of the diocese for his licence; (and save and except in those cases where at the time of such consolidation such church was either the church of a rectory or vicarage, and then the said church shall retain its original character,) the church of such consolidated chapelry shall be deemed a perpetual curacy, and shall be considered in law as a benefice presentative, so far only as that the licence thereto shall operate in the same manner as institution to any benefice, and shall render void other livings, in like manner as institution to any benefice, and the spiritual person serving the same shall be deemed the incumbent thereof, with exclusive cure of souls therein, and shall have perpetual succession, and shall be and is hereby declared to be a body politic and corporate, and he and his successors may receive, take, and hold such endowments in lands or tithes, or both, or any such augmentation, as shall be granted to him or them, in the same manner as any other incumbent is by law entitled to do; and every such incumbent shall be subject to all jurisdictions and laws, ecclesiastical or common, and to all provisions contained in any Acts of Parliament in force relating to such persons, and the church of every such consolidated chapelry shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the bishop within whose diocese and archdeaconry the communion table of such church shall be locally situated, and to all the laws in force concerning presentation and appointment to benefices and churches, and all other laws relating to the holding the same: Provided always, that where at the time of forming such consolidated chapelry the said church shall be full, the spiritual person filling such church shall be and remain incumbent of the said church and also of the whole consolidated chapelry.

X. That banns of marriage may be published, and marriages, christenings, churchings and burials performed, in the church of every such consolidated chapelry so formed, and, notwithstanding anything contained in the hereinbefore recited Act, 59 Geo. 3. c. 134. to the contrary thereof, the fees arising therefrom shall, unless voluntarily relinquished by them or either of them, belong to the incumbent and clerk respectively of the parishes out of which such consolidated chapelry shall have been formed, under the provisions of this Act, during their respective incumbencies, or during the time the clerk shall retain his situation; and the incumbent of such consolidated chapelry formed under this Act shall keep an account of the fees so received, and shall every year pay over the same to such incumbents and clerks respectively who would have been entitled to them if such consolidated chapelry had not been formed; and after the next avoidance of such respective incumbencies, and after the situations of such respective clerks shall have become vacant, such fees shall belong and be paid to the incumbent of such consolidated chapelry and the clerk of the church thereof.

XI. That where the church of such consolidated chapelry shall have been built wholly or in part by means of the funds placed by Parliament at the disposal of Her Majesty's said Commissioners, it shall be lawful for them, with the consent of the bishop of the diocese, to apply the provisions contained in the hereinbefore recited Acts, 58 Geo. 3. c. 45, and 59 Geo. 3. c. 134. touching the reservation of pew rents, and the assignment thereof of a stipend to the minister and a salary to the clerk, to the church of any such consolidated chapelry, and to the incumbent and clerk thereof.

XII. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's said Commissioners to make a grant out of the available monies in their hands for or towards the erection of new churches in aid of the erection of any new church intended to be made the church of any consolidated chapelry, although the population of the parish or extra-parochial place in which such church will be situate may not amount to four thousand persons and upwards, and although there may be church accommodation for more than one-fourth of the inhabitants of such parish or extra-parochial place, provided that the consolidated chapelry to be formed under the provisions of this Act shall contain a population of at least four thousand persons, with church accommodation herein for not more than one-fourth of the inhabitants thereof.

XIII. That in all cases the freehold of the site of every church of which Her Majesty's said Commissioners may have accepted or shall accept a conveyance under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them (as to any church or yet consecrated, when the same shall be consecrated,) shall vest in the incumbent for the time being of such church; and the freehold of every burial ground of which the said Commissioners may have accepted or shall accept a conveyance under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them shall, after the same shall have been consecrated, vest in the incumbent for the time being of the church to which such burial ground shall belong, or if there shall be no such incumbent, then in such body or person as the said Commissioners may, with consent of the bishop of the diocese, in such special case direct, until there shall be an incumbent, and from and after that time then in such incumbent, for the use of the inhabitants of the place for which such burial ground was acquired; and the freehold of any house, garden and appurtenances, and land or the residence and glebe of the spiritual person serving any church, of which the said Commissioners may have accepted or shall hereafter accept a conveyance, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them, shall vest in the incumbent or minister of such church for the time being; provided that nothing in this Act contained shall authorize the termination of any person under any church.

And after reciting that it is by the said hereinbefore recited Act, 59 Geo. 3. c. 134, enacted, that where the said Commissioners should make a grant in aid of purchasing cemeteries not within the bounds of the parish for which the same should be provided, such cemeteries should, after consecration, be deemed part of the parish for the use of which they should have been purchased or provided: And that it is expedient that the said Commissioners should have the power of declaring that such land as shall be approved of by them for the purpose of a new or additional burial ground or burial grounds should be deemed part of the parish or parishes for the use of which they shall have been provided, although not within the bounds of such parish or parishes, and whether any grant in aid of the purchase of such land shall have been made or not by the said Commissioners:—

xiv. That where any land shall have been purchased or obtained for any new or additional burial ground not within the bounds of the parish or parishes for the use of which the same shall have been so purchased or obtained, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, if they shall think fit, in accepting a conveyance of such land for the purposes aforesaid, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them, to declare in such conveyance, or by any other instrument under their common seal, that such land shall, after the consecration thereof for the purposes aforesaid, be and be deemed to be part of the parish or parishes for the use of which such land shall have been so purchased or obtained, and, after consecration, such land shall be part of such parish or parishes accordingly for the purposes aforesaid.

xv. That when any district parish has been or shall hereafter be formed, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Act, 58 Geo. 3. c. 45, it shall be lawful for the incumbent of the parish out of which such district parish shall have been formed to resign voluntarily, with the consent of the bishop of the diocese, the church of such district parish, and such resignation shall have the same effect as the avoidance or resignation of the parish church, with respect to the performance of the offices of the church in the church of such district parish; and thereupon such district parish, and the church thereof, shall be a perpetual curacy and benefice, and shall be subject to the same laws as are in force with respect to district parishes where an avoidance or resignation of the church of the original parish shall have taken place.

xvi. That, anything in the hereinbefore recited Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 60, to the contrary notwithstanding, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's said Commissioners at any time to alter the boundaries of a distinct and separate parish, district parish, district chapelry, or consolidated chapelry, although five years may not have elapsed since the description of such boundaries has been enrolled in the High Court of Chancery, or registered in the registry of the diocese; provided that such alteration of boundaries shall be subject to the same provisions, except as herein excepted, as are contained relative thereto in the hereinbefore recited Acts.

xvii. And it is enacted, anything in the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them to the contrary notwithstanding, that the church of any district chapelry formed or to be hereafter formed under the provisions thereof, although such church may not have been augmented by the Governors of the Bounty of Queen Anne, and also any church now or hereafter to be augmented by any order of Her Majesty in Council ratifying any scheme of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, and with a district chapelry assigned thereto, shall be and is hereby declared to be a perpetual curacy and benefice, and the licence thereto shall operate in the same manner as institution to any benefice, and the minister duly nominated and licensed thereto, and his successors, shall not be a stipendiary curate, but shall be and be esteemed in law to be a perpetual curate, and body politic and corporate, with perpetual succession, and he and his successors may receive, take, and hold to himself and themselves all such lands, tithes, and rent-charges as shall be granted unto or purchased for him or them by the said Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, or otherwise, in the same manner as any other incumbent is by law entitled to do; and such perpetual curate shall thenceforth have, within and over the district chapelry so assigned, sole and exclusive cure of souls, and shall not be in anywise subject to the controul or interference of the rector, vicar, or minister of the parish or place from which such district chapelry shall have been taken, any law or statute to the contrary notwithstanding, save and except as to any Easter dues and offerings which would not belong to the perpetual curate of such district chapelry if this Act had not been passed, and save and except also as to the fees, if any, reserved to the said incumbent on the assignment of such district chapelry, which shall still continue to belong to and shall be paid over to him by the perpetual curate of such district chapelry according to such reservation: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall alter or affect the right of nomination or appointment belonging or hereafter to belong to any corporate body or person in respect to the church of any such district chapelry.

xviii. That the licence of the minister appointed to serve a new church (without a district) already or to be hereafter built, wholly or in part, by means of any monies at the disposal of Her Majesty's said Commissioners, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them, shall not be rendered void by reason of the avoidance of the parish church of the parish in which such new church is situate, unless such licence shall be revoked by the archbishop or bishop who may have granted the same, or by the successor of such archbishop or bishop.

xix. That, anything in the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them to the contrary notwithstanding, it shall not be necessary to pay into the Bank of England any sums of money to be paid for any lands or hereditaments to be purchased or acquired by virtue of such Acts or any of them, although the same may amount to or exceed 200*l.* (unless Her Majesty's said Commissioners shall require such sums to be paid into such bank), but the same may be invested in the names of trustees, as in the said Act is provided in the cases when the amount thereof shall be under the sum of 200*l.*; and in any declaration of trust to be made of any such monies the said Commissioners may make such special provisions for the investment of such monies, and the appointment of new trustees thereof, or otherwise, as they shall think fit.

xx. That in every case in which land or other hereditaments belonging to an incumbent in right of his church shall be sold and conveyed by him to Her Majesty's said Commissioners, and in which the purchase money is, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Act, 58 Geo. 3. c. 45, directed to be paid into the Bank of England, or invested in the names of trustees, such purchase-money shall, instead of being paid into the Bank of England, or invested in the names of trustees, be paid to the Governors of the Bounty of Queen Anne for the augmentation of the maintenance of the poor clergy, and be appropriated by the said Governors to the benefice to which the land or other hereditaments so sold shall have belonged, and shall be applicable and disposable by the said Governors to and for the benefit and augmentation of such benefice, in such and the same manner, and with such and the same powers of investment in the purchase of land, and exchange for other land and hereditaments, and otherwise, and with other powers and authorities, in all respects, according to the rules, orders and constitutions for the time being in force for the management of the Bounty of Queen Anne, as if the money so appropriated had been originally provided or appropriated by the said Governors, out of the funds at their disposal, for the benefit and augmentation of the same benefice.

XXI. That in all cases in which money shall be payable to the Governors of the Bounty of Queen Anne under the provisions last hereinbefore contained, such money shall be paid to the treasurer for the time being of the said Governors, and the receipt or receipts of such treasurer shall be an effectual discharge or effectual discharges for so much money as in such receipt or receipts shall be expressed, to the person or persons paying the same; and after obtaining such receipt or receipts the person or persons paying such money shall be absolutely discharged from all liability touching such money, and from all trusts relating thereto.

XXII. That where Her Majesty's said Commissioners shall have already formed or shall hereafter form any distinct and separate parish, district parish, or district chapelry, under the provisions of the hereinbefore recited Acts or any of them, or this Act, out of any parish or extra-parochial place, it shall be lawful for the Court of Chancery, anything in the hereinbefore recited Acts to the contrary notwithstanding, on a petition being presented to the said Court by any two persons resident in any such parish or extra-parochial place, (such petition to be presented, heard and determined according to the provisions of an Act, 52 Geo. 3. c. 101, intituled 'An Act to provide a summary Remedy in Cases of Abuses of Trusts created for Charitable Purposes,') to apportion between the remaining part of such parish or place and the distinct and separate parish, or district parish, or district chapelry, any charitable devises, bequests, or gifts which shall have been made or given to or for the use of any such parish or extra-parochial place, or the produce thereof, and in any such case to direct that the distribution of the proportions of such devises, bequests, or gifts, or the produce thereof, as shall be so apportioned, shall be made and distributed by the incumbent or spiritual person serving the church, or by the churchwardens of any such distinct and separate parish, district parish, or district chapelry, either jointly or severally, as the said Court of Chancery may think expedient; and it shall also be lawful for the said Court of Chancery to apportion between the remaining part of such parish or place as aforesaid, and such separate divisions or districts, any debts or charges which may have been before the period of such apportionment contracted or charged upon the credit of any church rates in such parish or place; and all such apportionments shall be registered in the registry of the diocese in which such parish or place shall be locally situate, and duplicates thereof shall be deposited with the churchwardens of such parish or place, and of each such division or district as aforesaid, and in all such cases the costs shall be at the discretion of the said Court; and such apportioned debts or charges shall be raised and paid by the parish or place in which they may be apportioned in such and the like manner as the entirety was to be raised and paid, or in such manner and under such provisions and conditions as the said Court shall direct, and when any securities may have been given for the same the Court may order new securities to be given for the apportioned debts by such persons and bodies, and in all respects as the said Court may direct, and all securities shall be valid and binding; and the powers and authorities given to the said Commissioners by the hereinbefore recited Act, 3 Geo. 4. c. 72, with respect to the apportionment by them of such devises, bequests, gifts and charges, shall, after the passing of this Act, with respect to the future exercise of such powers and authorities, cease and determine.

XXIII. That if before or during the building of any new church, or previous to its consecration, the bishop of the diocese and the patron and incumbent of the parish in which such new church has been or is intended to be built shall enter into an agreement in writing that the right of nomination to such new church shall on its consecration belong to and be exercised by any body corporate, aggregate or sole, or by any person or persons, such agreement shall be binding on such respective parties, their successors, heirs and assigns, and they shall be compellable to fulfil the same.

XXIV. That no future conveyance to be made to the said Commissioners in pursuance of the hereinbefore recited Acts of any of them, or any other future instrument thereby directed to be made with their privity or assent, shall be valid and effectual unless and until the assent thereto of the said Commissioners shall be testified by any seal in use by them being affixed thereto; but after such seal shall have been affixed to such instrument, such instrument shall take effect as from the making thereof; and no future instrument to which such seal is as aforesaid so directed to be affixed, and which is directed to be registered in the registry of any diocese, shall be so registered unless and until such seal shall have been so affixed.

XXV. That the existing powers, privileges, and authorities contained in the hereinbefore first recited Acts or any of them may be used and applied for the purpose of carrying this Act or the said Acts respectively into execution, mutatis mutandis, so far as the same are applicable thereto, and are not inconsistent with or repugnant to the provisions of this Act.

CAP. LXXI.

AN ACT to extend certain Provisions in the Act for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to Highways in England.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Extending provisions of recited Act.
2. Recited Act and this Act to be as one.
3. Alterations of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 50, after reciting that under Acts of Parliament theretofore made, and which might hereafter be made, for the enclosing of waste land, parcels of land had been and might be expressly allotted to parishes, or to the surveyor of the highways, for the purpose of obtaining materials for the repair of the highways in such parish, and the materials in such parcels of land had been and might be exhausted, it was enacted, that in such cases it should and might be lawful for the surveyor of such parish for the time being, by and with the consent of the vestry, and he was thereby authorized and required, with the consent in writing of the Justices of the Peace at a special sessions for the highways, to sell and convey to some person whose lands adjoin thereto, or, if he should refuse to purchase, to any other person, the said parcels of land from which the said materials had been so exhausted as aforesaid, at and for such price as the said Justices might deem fair and reasonable, and with the money arising therefrom, and with such consent as aforesaid, to purchase other lands in lieu thereof: and that it is desirable to extend the provisions hereinbefore recited to other cases than those mentioned in the said Act:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act, the recited Act, and all the provisions therein contained, shall apply and extend not only to the lands in the said Act specified, but to all lands belonging or which hereafter may belong to parishes, or to the surveyor of the highways, for the purposes aforesaid, which have been or hereafter shall be lawfully used for the purpose of obtaining materials for the repair of the highways in such parish, the materials in which lands have been or hereafter may be exhausted.

11. That the said Act and this Act shall be construed together as one Act.

111. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXII.

AN ACT to render it unnecessary to keep up Rothwell Gaol, in the Honor of Pontefract, in the West Riding of the County of York.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. On and after the 1st of February 1846 no person to be committed to Rothwell Gaol.
2. Prisoners from courts at Westminster to be removed to York Castle, by warrant of the Lord Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench.
3. Not necessary to keep up Rothwell Gaol.
4. Sheriff of York may enter the liberty of Pontefract to execute against the person.
5. All commitments within the said honor may be made to York Castle, and keeper thereof to receive such persons into custody.
6. Provisions of 2 & 3 Vict. c. 85, to extend to commitments from Court Baron under this Act.
7. Act not to affect rights of Her Majesty in respect of the honor.
8. Act not to affect 2 & 3 Vict. c. 85, except as expressly mentioned.
9. Alteration of Act.
10. Public Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, in right of her Duchy of Lancaster, is seised of the honor of Pontefract, in the West Riding of the county of York, and there now is within the said honor a certain common gaol or prison known by the name of "Rothwell Gaol," and the recent alterations in the law relating to the imprisonment of debtors having caused the number of prisoners ordinarily confined in the said gaol to be very small, it has become expedient that after the period hereinafter mentioned no person or persons should be committed into custody to such gaol, and that persons committed into custody from the Court Baron of the said honor should be committed to and imprisoned in the county gaol or prison at York known by the name of "York Castle:" and that doubts have been entertained whether commitments from the said Court Baron may lawfully be made to York Castle; and it is expedient that such doubts should be removed:—

It is Enacted,

1. That on, from, and after the 1st of February which will be in the year 1846 no person or persons shall be committed or ordered to stand committed into custody by or from any of Her Majesty's courts at Westminster, or the said Court Baron, or any other court whatsoever, or by or under any writ, warrant, precept of execution, or process whatsoever, to Rothwell Gaol nor shall any person or persons (except as hereinafter is excepted) be imprisoned therein, but the said gaol (except so far as relates to any person or persons then in custody therein) shall cease to be and to be used as a gaol or prison.

11. That if on the said 1st of February there shall be, besides such prisoner or prisoners, if any, as shall then be in the custody of the keeper of Rothwell Gaol under any process of the said Court Baron, any prisoner or prisoners in the custody of the keeper of Rothwell Gaol by or under any writ, warrant, precept, or process whatever, the said keeper shall, within one week from the said 1st of February, certify under his hand to the Lord Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench a true list containing the name or names of such prisoner or prisoners as last mentioned, with the cause and time of his or their commitment respectively; and as soon thereafter as may be the said Lord Chief Justice shall issue his warrant or warrants under his hand, directed to the keeper of Rothwell Gaol, requiring him to convey to York Castle, and to deliver into the custody of the keeper of York Castle there, the said person or persons so as last aforesaid in his custody, or such of them as shall be named in any such warrant; and upon the receipt of any such warrant the keeper of Rothwell Gaol shall, and he is hereby authorized and empowered so to do (unless the person or persons named in such warrant shall before the receipt of the same have been lawfully discharged out of his custody), forthwith convey the said person or persons to York Castle, and there deliver him or them into the custody of the keeper of York Castle, together with the warrant or warrants of his or their commitment respectively; and the removal of any such prisoner or prisoners in obedience to the warrant of the Lord Chief Justice as aforesaid shall not be construed to be an escape; and the keeper of York Castle shall receive the said person or persons from the keeper of Rothwell Gaol, together with such warrant or warrants, and shall detain such person or persons in his custody in obedience to such warrant or warrants.

III. And it is declared and enacted, That on, from, and after the said 1st of February (if on the said day there shall be no prisoner in the custody of the keeper of Rothwell Gaol, or if there shall then be any prisoner or prisoners in the custody of the keeper of Rothwell Gaol, so soon as there shall cease to be any such prisoner or prisoners in such custody, by removal in obedience to the warrant of the Lord Chief Justice, or lawful discharge of such prisoner or prisoners, as the case may be respectively) it shall not be necessary to repair, maintain, or keep up Rothwell Gaol, or to maintain or keep up the office or offices of keeper or gaoler thereof, or any other office of or in respect of the said gaol; and the liability (if any) of the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, her heirs, successors, or assigns, to repair, maintain, or keep up the same respectively, or to repair, maintain, or keep up any gaol or prison whatever within the honor of Pontefract, or in respect of Her Majesty, her heirs, successors, or assigns, being seised of the said honor, shall absolutely cease and determine.

IV. That on, from, and after the said 1st of February the sheriff for the time being of the said county of York shall, and he is hereby authorized and empowered so to do, execute or cause to be executed within the liberty and franchise of the said honor of Pontefract all writs of capias, or capias ad satisfaciendum, and all other writs, precepts, or process whatsoever against the person, to the said sheriff directed or sent (whether such writs, precepts, or process shall or shall not contain a non omittas clause), in the same manner, and to the same extent, and by and under the same powers and liabilities, for all purposes whatsoever, as if the liberty and franchise of the said honor were not an ancient liberty or franchise having execution or return of writs; and the liability (if any) of the bailiff for the time being of the said liberty, as bailiff of the said liberty, to execute or return any such writ, precept, or process under or by virtue of any mandate or warrant to him made, sent, or directed by the said sheriff shall absolutely cease and determine.

V. And it is declared and enacted, That on, from, and after the said 1st of February, in every case in which it shall be lawful to commit any person or persons, or to order any person or persons to stand committed, into custody by or from the said Court Baron, or by or under any precept of execution, warrant, or process whatsoever of or from the same, it shall be lawful to commit any such person or persons into custody to, or to order any such person or persons to stand committed into custody to, and to imprison any such person or persons in, York Castle; and the keeper for the time being of York Castle shall be and is hereby required to receive and take into custody all persons who shall be committed or ordered to stand committed to York Castle by or from the said Court Baron under or by virtue of this Act.

VI. That every clause, matter, and thing contained in an Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 85, intituled, 'An Act for the more easy and speedy Recovery of Small Debts and Damages within the Honor of Pontefract, Parcel of Her Majesty's Duchy of Lancaster, in the West Riding of the County of York, and for altering the Practice and extending the Jurisdiction of the Court Baron of the said Honor,' shall, so far as the same may be applicable thereto, be construed to extend to any case in which any person shall be committed or ordered to stand committed into custody by or from the said Court Baron under or by virtue of this Act, in the same manner and to the same extent as if the provisions of the said Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 85, had been herein expressly contained and re-enacted.

VII. Provided and expressly declared and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to restrain, diminish, or in any way affect (except so far as herein is expressly mentioned) any franchise, liberty, right, power, privilege, or authority before or at the time of the passing of this Act held, possessed, or enjoyed by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty or her predecessors, or by any of her bailiffs or other officers, over, in, or in respect of the said honor of Pontefract.

VIII. Provided and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to repeal, alter, or in any way affect except so far as herein is expressly mentioned) the said Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 85, or any power given in the said Act of committing from the said Court Baron to any common gaol other than Rothwell Gaol, or in any way to affect the validity of the commitment, custody, or imprisonment of any person or persons committed to or in custody in Rothwell Gaol before the said 1st of February which will be in the year 1846.

IX. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

X. That this Act shall be and be deemed and taken to be a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges and others.

CAP. LXXIII.

AN ACT to enable the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods and Works to apply certain Monies now in their Hands towards discharging the Incumbrances affecting the Shrewsbury and Holyhead Road.

CAP. LXXIV.

AN ACT to amend an Act of the Seventh Year of King William the Fourth, for preventing the advertising of Foreign and other illegal Lotteries, and to discontinue certain Actions commenced under the Provisions of the said Act.

(31st July 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Persons sued before the passing of this Act for penalties incurred under the recited Act may apply to the Court or a Judge to stay proceedings on certain conditions.
2. Not to extend to actions in which judgment has been obtained, &c.
3. Penalties incurred under said Act to go wholly to Her Majesty.
4. Fines, &c. may be sued for in the name of the Attorney or Solicitor General in England or Ireland, or Her Majesty's Advocate for Scotland, &c.
5. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 66. it is enacted, that if any person shall print or publish, or cause to be printed or published, any advertisement or other notice of or relating to the drawing or intended drawing of any foreign lottery, or of any lottery or lotteries not authorized by some Act or Acts of Parliament, or if any person shall print or publish, or cause to be printed or published, any advertisement or other notice of or for the sale of any ticket or tickets, chance or chances, or of any share or shares of any ticket or tickets, chance or chances, of or in any such lottery or lotteries as aforesaid, or any advertisement or notice concerning or in any manner relating to any such lottery or lotteries, or any ticket, chance, or share, tickets, chances, or shares, thereof or therein, every person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 50*l.* to be recovered, with full costs of suit, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any of His Majesty's courts of record in Westminster or Dublin respectively, or in the Court of Session in Scotland, one moiety thereof to the use of His Majesty his heirs and successors, and the other moiety thereof to the use of the person who shall inform or sue for the same: And that the printers, publishers and proprietors of divers newspapers have inadvertently printed and published some advertisements or notices of or relating to the matters in the said Act mentioned, or some of them, and many actions, suits, informations and prosecutions have been brought and commenced against such printers, publishers, and proprietors, or some of them, by persons who sue, inform, and prosecute, as well on their own behalf as on behalf of Her Majesty, to recover various penalties incurred or alleged to have been incurred under the provisions of the said Act; and it is expedient that all further proceeding in such actions, suits, informations, and prosecutions should be prevented, and such other provision made in relation thereto and otherwise as is hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

I. That immediately from and after the passing of this Act it shall be lawful for any person or persons against whom any original writ, suit, action, bill, plaint, or information shall have been sued out, commenced, or prosecuted, on or before the day of the passing of this Act, for the recovery of any pecuniary penalty or penalties incurred under the said Act, except in the cases hereinafter provided, to apply to the Court in which such original writ, suit, action, bill, plaint, or information shall have been sued out, commenced, or prosecuted, if such Court shall be sitting, or, if such Court shall not be sitting, to any Judge of either of the superior courts at Westminster or Dublin respectively, or to any Judge of the Court of Session in Scotland, (as the case may have arisen in England, Ireland, or Scotland respectively,) for an order that such writ, suit, action, bill, plaint, or information shall be discontinued, upon payment of the costs incurred to the time of such application being made, such costs to be taxed according to the practice of such courts respectively; and every such Court aforesaid is hereby authorized and required, upon such application, and proof that sufficient notice has been given to the plaintiff or plaintiff or to his or their attorney, of the application, to make such order as aforesaid; and upon the making of such order, no payment or tender of such costs as aforesaid, such writ, suit, action, bill, plaint, or information shall be forthwith discontinued.

II. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to any action, suit, bill, plaint, or information in which any judgment or conviction shall have passed on or before the day of the passing of this Act or to any action, suit, bill, plaint, or information which shall have been or shall be commenced, prosecuted, entered, or taken by or in the name of Her Majesty's Attorney General or Solicitor General in that part of Great Britain called England, or Her Majesty's Attorney or Solicitor General for Ireland, or Her Majesty's Advocate for Scotland, for or on behalf of Her said Majesty.

III. That from and after the passing of this Act all fines, penalties, and forfeitures imposed by or incurred or which may be incurred under the said recited Act shall go and be applied to the use of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors.

IV. Provided and enacted, That from and after the passing of this Act every such fine, penalty, or forfeiture may be sued or prosecuted for, in the name of Her Majesty's Attorney General or Solicitor General in England or Ireland, or of Her Majesty's Advocate General or Solicitor General in Scotland, or of the Solicitor of Stamps and Taxes in England or Scotland, or of the Solicitor of Stamps in Ireland, or of any person to be authorized to sue or prosecute for the same by writing under the hands of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or in the name of any officer of stamp duties, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in the Court of Exchequer at Westminster in respect of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred in England, and in the Court of Exchequer in Dublin in respect of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred in Ireland, and in the Court of Exchequer in Scotland in respect of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred in Scotland; and, except as is hereinbefore provided, it shall not be lawful for any person other than as aforesaid to inform, sue, or prosecute for any such fine, penalty, or forfeiture as aforesaid: Provided always, that in no such proceeding as aforesaid shall any essoign, protection, wager at law, nor more than one imparlance, be allowed.

v. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXV.

AN ACT to amend an Act passed in the Session of Parliament held in the Sixth and Seventh Years of the Reign of Her present Majesty, intituled An Act to amend the Law respecting defamatory Words and Libel.

---

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. In cases of action for libel in Ireland, where defendant shall plead matters allowed by 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 42, and pay money into court, such payment to be of same effect as if required by said Act.
2. Defendant not to file such plea without paying money into court by way of amends.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, it is, amongst other things, enacted and provided, that the defendant in an action for a libel contained in any public newspaper or other periodical publication may plead certain matters therein mentioned, and may upon filing such plea be at liberty to pay into court a sum of money by way of amends for the injury sustained by the publication of such libel; and it is thereby further enacted, that such payment into court shall be of the same effect, and be available in the same manner and to the same extent, and be subject to the same rules and regulations as to payment of costs and the form of pleading, except so far as regards the pleading of the additional facts thereinbefore required to be pleaded by each defendant, as if actions for libel had not been excepted from the personal actions in which it is lawful to pay money into court, under 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 42: And that the said Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 42, relates only to proceedings in the superior courts in England, but by an Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 105, a like provision is made for payment of money into court in all personal actions pending in any of the superior courts in Ireland as is contained in the said Act, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 42, in regard to actions pending in the superior courts in England, with a like exception of actions for libel; and it is expedient to prevent any doubts as to the application of the said recited Act, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, to actions pending in the superior courts in Ireland, which may be created by reason of the omission of a reference in the last-mentioned Act to the said Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 105:—

It is Enacted and Declared,

- I. That when in any action pending in the superior courts in Ireland for a libel contained in any public newspaper or other periodical publication the defendant shall plead the matters allowed to be pleaded by the said first-mentioned Act, and shall upon filing such plea pay money into court as provided by such Act, such payment into court shall be of the same effect, and be available in the same manner and to the same extent, and be subject to the same rules and regulations now in force or hereafter to be made as to payment of costs and the form of pleading, except so far as regards the pleading of the additional facts so required to be pleaded by such defendant, as if actions for libel had not been excepted from the personal actions in which it is lawful to pay money into court under the said recited Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 105.
- II. And it is declared and enacted, That it shall not be competent to any defendant in such action, whether in England or Ireland, to file any such plea, without at the same time making a payment of money into court by way of amends as provided by said Act, but every such plea so filed without payment of money into court shall be deemed a nullity, and may be treated as such by the plaintiff in the action.

CAP. LXXVI.

AN ACT to increase the Stamp Duty on Licences to Appraisers: to reduce the Stamp Duties on Registry Searches in Ireland; to amend the Law relating to the Duties on Legacies; and also to amend an Act of the last Session of Parliament, for regulating the Issue of Bank Notes in England.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Stamp duty on appraisers licences repealed, and an increased duty thereon granted in lieu.
2. Stamp duties payable in Ireland on registry searches repealed, and reduced duties granted in lieu thereof.
3. Powers and provisions of former Acts to be applied to the duties granted by this Act.
4. Certain gifts by will or testamentary instrument to be deemed legacies.—Proviso.
5. Provision for recovery and application of penalties under 7 & 8 Vict. c. 32.
6. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that under and by virtue of 55 Geo. 3. c. 184, certain stamp duties specified and contained in a schedule to the said Act annexed were granted and made payable in Great Britain, and (amongst others) the duty of 10s. for and in respect of a licence to use and exercise the calling or occupation of an appraiser, to be taken out yearly by every person who shall exercise the said calling or occupation, or make any appraisement or valuation charged by the said Act with a duty, for or in expectation of any gain, fee, or reward, except licensed auctioneers: And that under and by virtue of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 82, the stamp duties granted and then payable in England under or by virtue of the said first-recited Act were extended to and made payable in Ireland for a term limited by the said last-recited Act, in lieu of certain stamp duties thereby repealed, and the same duties have been granted and continued and are now payable in Ireland for a further term, under and by virtue of 8 & 9 Vict. c. 2: And that it is expedient to increase the duty in respect of licences to be taken out by appraisers in Great Britain and Ireland respectively:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act the said duty now payable in Great Britain and Ireland respectively under or by virtue of the said several recited Acts or any of them, for or in respect of a licence to use and exercise the calling or occupation of an appraiser, shall cease and determine, and the same is hereby repealed; and that in lieu thereof there shall be granted, raised, levied, collected, and paid in Great Britain and Ireland respectively, unto and for the use of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, the duty of 2*l*.

For and in respect of a licence to use and exercise the calling or occupation of an appraiser, to be taken out yearly by every person (except a licensed auctioneer) who shall exercise the said calling or occupation of an appraiser, or who, for or in expectation of any gain, fee, or reward, shall make any appraisement or valuation chargeable by law with any stamp duty.

And after reciting that under and by virtue of the said several recited Acts certain duties have been granted and are now payable in Ireland in respect of searches in the office for the registry of deeds, and it is expedient to repeal the same, and to grant other and reduced duties in lieu thereof:—

It is Enacted,

II. That from and after the passing of this Act the several and respective stamp duties now payable in Ireland under or by virtue of the said several recited Acts or either of them, in respect of searches in the office for the registry of deeds, (that is to say,) for or in respect of "any copy or extract of any memorial, or of the registry of any memorial, registered pursuant to any Act of Parliament made for the public registering of deeds and conveyances," or for or in respect of "every piece of vellum, parchment, or paper upon which any such copy or extract shall be written after the first," shall cease and determine in Ireland, save and except such of the said duties or so much or such part or parts thereof as have become due and payable and now remain in arrear and unpaid; and that in lieu of the said duties so hereby repealed as last mentioned there shall be granted, raised, levied, collected, and paid in Ireland, unto and for the use of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, the several duties next hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,)

For and in respect of extracts or abstracts from deeds or other acts issued from the office for registry of deeds and set forth, called the Registry Office, and commonly called a common search, and whether such search shall contain the extracts from any deeds or deed or not, and whether the same be signed by or on behalf of any officer or clerk belonging to such office or not;

For each sheet or piece of paper on which such search, extract or extracts, abstract or abstracts, shall be written, the sum of 3*s*.:

And for and in respect of searches for deeds, or abstracts or extracts from deeds, or other acts, issued from the office for registering deeds, called the Register Office, commonly called a negative search;

For each copy of any deed or memorial, or for each extract or abstract from any deed or memorial, which such negative search shall give or contain, the sum of 3*s*.

And on the officer's certificate on such search, over and above all other duties, the sum of 10*s*.

III. That the said several duties by this Act granted shall be denominated and deemed to be stamp duties, and shall be under the care and management of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes for the time being; and that all the powers, provisions, clauses, regulations, and directions, fines, forfeitures, pains, and penalties, contained in or imposed by the several former Acts of Parliament relating to any prior duties of the same kind or description in Great Britain and Ireland respectively, and in force at the time of the passing of this Act, shall respectively be of full force and effect with respect to the duties by this Act granted, and to the vellum, parchment, and paper, articles, matters, and things, charged and chargeable therewith, and to the persons liable to the payment of the said duties, and shall be observed, applied, enforced, and put in execution for the raising, levying, collecting, and securing of the said duties hereby granted, and otherwise in relation thereto, as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as if the same had been herein repeated and specially enacted with reference to the said duties by this Act granted.

And after reciting that under or by virtue of the said several recited Acts certain duties have been granted and are now payable in Great Britain and Ireland respectively upon legacies, and doubts have been entertained whether certain gifts by will or testamentary instrument are legacies liable to the said duties, and it is expedient to remove such doubts:—

It is Enacted,

iv. That from and after the passing of this Act every gift by any will or testamentary instrument of any person, which by virtue of any such will or testamentary instrument is or shall be payable, or shall have effect or be satisfied out of the personal or moveable estate or effects of such person, or out of any personal or moveable estate or effects which such person hath had or shall have had power to dispose of, or which gift is or shall be payable or shall have effect or be satisfied out of or is or shall be charged or rendered a burden upon the real or heritable estate of such person, or any real or heritable estate, or the rents or profits thereof, which such person hath had or shall have had any right or power to charge, burden, or affect with the payment of money, or out of or upon any monies to arise by the sale, burden, mortgage, or other disposition of any such real or heritable estate, or any part thereof, whether such gift shall be by way of annuity or in any other form, and also every gift which shall have effect as a donation mortis causa, shall be deemed a legacy within the true intent and meaning of all the several Acts granting or relating to duties on legacies in Great Britain and Ireland respectively, and shall be subject and liable to the said duties accordingly: Provided always, that no sum of money which by any marriage settlement is or shall be subjected to any limited power of appointment to or for the benefit of any person or persons therein specially named or described as the object or objects of such power, or to or for the benefit of the issue of any such person or persons, shall be liable to the said duties on legacies under the will in which such sum is or shall be appointed or apportioned in exercise of such limited power.

And after reciting the passing of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 32, and that certain penalties are thereby imposed for offences against the provisions of the same Act, and it is expedient to provide for the recovery and application of such penalties;—

It is Enacted,

v. That from and after the passing of this Act all pecuniary penalties imposed by or incurred under the said last-recited Act may be sued or prosecuted for and recovered, for the use of Her Majesty in the name of Her Majesty's Attorney General or Solicitor General, or of any person authorized to sue or prosecute for the same, by writing under the hands of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, or in the name of any officer of stamp duties, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in the Court of Exchequer at Westminster, in such and the same manner as any penalties imposed by any of the laws now in force relating to the duties under the management of the said Commissioners; and it shall be lawful in all cases for the said Commissioners, either before or after any proceedings commenced for recovery of any such penalty, to mitigate or compound any such penalty as they shall think fit, and to stay any such proceedings after the same shall have been commenced, and whether judgment may have been obtained for such penalty or not, on payment of part only of any such penalty, with or without costs, or on payment only of the costs incurred in such proceedings, or of any part thereof, or on such other terms as such Commissioners shall judge reasonable: Provided always, that in no such proceeding as aforesaid shall any essoign, protection, wager of law, or more than one imparlance, be allowed; and all pecuniary penalties imposed by or incurred under the said last-recited Act, by whom or in whose name soever the same shall be sued or prosecuted for or recovered, shall go and be applied to the use of Her Majesty, and shall be deemed to be and shall be accounted for as part of Her Majesty's revenue arising from stamp duties, anything in any Act contained, or any law or usage, to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, at their discretion, to give all or any part of such penalties as rewards to any person or persons who shall have detected the offenders, or given information which may have led to their prosecution and conviction.

vi. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXVII.

AN ACT to make further Regulations respecting the Tickets of Work to be delivered to Persons employed in the Manufacture of Hosiery, in certain Cases.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Manufacturer to deliver with materials a ticket of work.
2. Ticket to be evidence.
3. When dispute arises as to imperfect execution of work to be produced.
4. Penalty on manufacturer for non-delivery of ticket.
5. Power of summoning witnesses.

6. Service of summons.
7. Levy and application of penalty.
8. No certiorari allowed, nor distress unlawful for want of form.
9. Interpretation of Act.
10. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 5 Geo. 4. c. 96, it was enacted, amongst other things, that "with every piece of work given out by the manufacturer to a workman to be done there shall (if both parties are agreed) be delivered a note or ticket in such form as the said parties shall mutually agree upon:" And that it is expedient that, so far as relates to persons employed in the woollen, worsted, linen, cotton, and silk hosiery manufactures, such further provision should be made for delivery to them of a note or ticket of work as hereinafter is expressed:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the 1st of January 1846, when any manufacturer of hosiery, or the agent of any such manufacturer, gives out to a workman the materials to be wrought, such manufacturer or agent shall at the same time deliver to such workman a printed or written ticket, signed by such manufacturer, containing the particulars of the agreement between such manufacturer and such workman, as in the Schedule to this Act annexed; and such manufacturer or agent delivering such ticket shall make or cause to be made, and shall preserve until the work contracted to be done shall have been completed or paid for, a duplicate of such note or ticket.

II. That in the event of any dispute between the manufacturer or his agent and the workman, such ticket, and the said duplicate thereof, shall be required to be produced, and shall, together or either of them, be evidence of all things mentioned therein or respecting the same.

III. Provided and enacted, That where the subject of dispute relates to the alleged improper or imperfect execution of any work delivered to a manufacturer or his agent, such piece of work shall be produced in order to adjudication, or if not produced shall be deemed and taken to have been sufficiently and properly executed.

IV. That if any manufacturer or agent shall neglect or refuse to deliver such ticket to such workman as aforesaid with the materials so given out, and if such workman shall complain thereof to any Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction in the place where the materials shall have been delivered out or where the workman shall reside, such Justice may summon such manufacturer or agent to attend before two Justices at a time or place appointed for hearing the complaint, and set forth in the summons; and if the person to whom such summons so directed appears according to the tenour thereof, or if he does not appear, and the due service of the summons is proved, the said Justices may proceed to hear and determine the complaint; and if such neglect or refusal as aforesaid be proved, either by the confession of the party complained against, or by the oath of the complainant or of any other credible witness or witnesses, such Justices may convict such offender, and may upon such conviction adjudge him to pay such penalty not exceeding 5*l*., together with the costs attending the conviction, as such Justices shall think fit, and the party so adjudged to pay such penalty and costs shall pay the same accordingly: Provided always, that in all convictions of adjudications under this Act one at least of the convicting or adjudicating Justices shall be a person not engaged in any manufacture, trade, occupation, or employment to which this Act extends, and shall not be the father, son, or brother of any such person.

V. That if any of the parties to the said complaint shall make oath before any Justice having cognizance of such complaint that he or she believes that the attendance of any person as a witness will be material to the hearing of such complaint, such Justice may summon such person, having been paid or tendered a reasonable sum for his expenses, to appear and give evidence on oath at a time and place set forth in the said summons; and if any person so summoned shall not appear at the time and place set forth in the said summons, and shall not make excuse for the default to the satisfaction of the Justices there present, and if the due service of the summons be proved, or if such person appearing according to the summons shall not submit to be examined as a witness, then such Justices may adjudge such person so making default in appearing or refusing to give evidence to pay such penalty not exceeding 2*l*. as such Justices shall think fit, and the party so adjudged to pay such penalty shall pay the same accordingly.

VI. That every summons required by this Act shall be served by delivering the same to the person summoned, or by leaving the same at his or her usual place of abode, twenty-four hours at least before the time appointed by the summons for such person to appear.

VII. That if any such penalty or costs so adjudged by any Justices to be paid is not paid immediately upon adjudication, such Justices may issue their warrant to distrain and sell the goods and chattels of the person so adjudged to pay the same, for the amount thereof, with costs; and the proceeds of such distress, after paying the penalty and costs, and the costs of such distress and sale, shall be paid over to the person convicted; and the said penalty shall be paid over to the sheriff or other proper officer of the county, city, borough, or place in which such conviction shall take place, for her Majesty's use, and shall be returned to the Court of Quarter Sessions, under the provisions of an Act, 3 Geo. 4. c. 46, intituled, 'An Act for the more speedy Return and levying of Fines, Penalties, and Forfeitures, and Recognizances estreated.'

VIII. That no order or conviction, or proceeding touching the same respectively, shall be quashed for want of form, or be removed by certiorari or otherwise into any of Her Majesty's superior courts of record; and that when any distress shall have been made for levying any money by virtue of this Act the distress itself shall not be deemed unlawful, nor the party making the same a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the summons, warrant, conviction, warrant of distress, or other proceedings in relation thereto, nor shall the party distraining be deemed a trespasser from the beginning on account of any irregularity afterwards committed by him, but the person aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for special damage (if any) by action on the case.

ix. That the word "manufacturer" in this Act shall be understood to mean any person furnishing the materials of work to be wrought into hosiery goods, to be sold or disposed of on his own account, and the word "agent" to include any person conveying or delivering the same to the workman, and the word "workman" any person actually employed in the manufacture of the same.

x. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXVIII.

AN ACT to provide for the Payment of Compensation Allowances to certain Persons connected with the Courts of Law in England, for Loss of Fees and Emoluments.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENT.

Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to investigate claims of certain officers, and award compensation to them out of the Consolidated Fund.

By this Act,

After reciting that the lawful fees and emoluments of the Clerks of Dispenſations and Faculties in Chancery, the Registrar of the Cinque Ports, the Clerks of the Petty Sessions at Deptford and Clapham, who respectively held or do now hold their offices for life, have been either wholly abolished or greatly diminished by the operation of certain Acts of Parliament, and advances on account of compensation have heretofore been made to some of them out of the grants of Parliament for civil contingencies: And that it is reasonable and just that compensation should be permanently allowed to the said persons for the loss which they have sustained, out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland;—

It is Enacted,

That the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being shall investigate the claims of the said officers respectively by such means and in such manner as they may think proper; and if any such claim shall be established to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners or any three of them they are hereby authorized and empowered to award to the claimant, by warrant under their hands, such compensation by way of annuity as they shall, under all the circumstances of the case, think him entitled to for the loss sustained; and such compensation shall commence in each case at such time as the said Commissioners shall think proper, and shall be issued and paid and be payable out of and be charged and chargeable upon the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: Provided always, that an account of such compensation shall be laid before the Commons House of Parliament within fourteen days after the date of the warrant, if Parliament shall be then assembled, and if not then within fourteen days after the meeting of Parliament then next following

CAP. LXXIX.

AN ACT to continue until the First Day of October One thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and to the End of the then Session of Parliament, the Exemption of Inhabitants of Parishes, Townships, and Villages from Liability to be rated as such, in respect of Stock in Trade or other Property, to the Relief of the Poor.

By this Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 89. is continued in force until the 1st of October 1846, and, if Parliament be then sitting, to the end of the then session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXX.—IRELAND.

AN ACT for regulating the Criminal Jurisdiction of Assistant Barristers as to certain Counties of Cities and Counties of Towns in Ireland.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. The criminal jurisdiction of the assistant barristers for the counties named in the schedule extended to the counties of cities and towns therein named; and general sessions of the peace to be held for such counties of cities and towns.
2. General or Quarter Sessions heretofore held in counties of cities and towns by assistant barristers to be valid.
3. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 3 & 4 Vict. c. 108, it is, among other things, enacted, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, if she shall be pleased, upon the petition of the council of any borough, except the city of Dublin, as therein mentioned, to grant that a separate Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, or a court of record, for the trial of civil actions, shall thenceforward be holden in and for such borough; and it is thereby also enacted, that after the 1st of January therein mentioned the Justices assigned or hereafter to be assigned to keep the peace in and for the county in which any borough is situated, to which her Majesty shall not have granted that a separate Court of Sessions of the Peace shall be holden in and for the same, shall exercise the jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace in and for such borough, as fully as by law they and each of them can or ought to do in and for the said county: And that Her Majesty has not hitherto granted that any such separate Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace should be holden in any of the counties of cities or counties of towns in the schedule to this Act annexed named: And that doubts have arisen as to whether the said counties of cities and counties of towns are included in the said last-recited provision of the said recited Act; and it is expedient to provide for the holding of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the said counties of cities and counties of towns:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act, and until Her Majesty shall be pleased to grant that a separate Court of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace shall be holden in and for the said counties of cities or counties of towns respectively as aforesaid, the respective assistant barristers for the time being of the respective counties named in the first column of the Schedule to this Act annexed shall be Justices of the Peace in and for the respective counties of cities and counties of towns named in the second column of the said schedule, in conjunction with such respective counties at large in the said Schedule, and whereof they respectively are or shall be assistant barristers; and that the said assistant barristers shall have in the said counties of cities and counties of towns all such and the same powers, privileges and authorities respectively as they respectively have in and for the said respective counties in the said first column mentioned, and shall and may exercise such jurisdiction, powers, and authorities, either alone or together with the Justices assigned to keep the peace within the said respective counties of cities and counties of towns; and that a General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace shall be from time to time holden in and for the said respective counties of cities and counties of towns on the day next but one before the commencement of or immediately after the termination of the General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, or any adjournment thereof, for the division of the said respective counties at large, within which or next adjacent whereto the said respective counties of cities or counties of towns are situate; and that from and after the passing of this Act such General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace so to be holden respectively in and for the said counties of cities and counties of towns, and also all adjourned sessions thereof, shall, as to all matters and things arising within such counties of cities and counties of towns respectively, or within five hundred yards of the boundaries thereof, have, use, and exercise all and every the same jurisdictions, powers and authorities as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as any General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace holden in and for any county at large can or may have, use, or exercise in respect of matters and things arising within such county at large, and also all such further and other jurisdictions, powers, or authorities as were by any Act or Acts of Parliament now in force at any time heretofore granted to or vested in the General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace of the said counties of cities or counties of towns respectively of right holden within the said counties of cities and counties of towns respectively, before the passing of the said hereinbefore in part recited Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 108; and the jurors returned to serve at each of such General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, or adjournment thereof, for such respective counties of cities and counties of towns shall be returned from the body of such county of a city or county of a town respectively; and it shall be lawful for such respective assistant barristers or the Justices of the Peace, at such respective General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, to commit such persons liable to imprisonment as shall be convicted before them, or such persons as shall be otherwise liable to imprisonment, to the respective prisons of such respective counties of cities and counties of towns.

And after reciting that, since the passing of the said recited Act, some of the said assistant barristers for the said respective counties at large have acted as Justices of the Peace in and for, and have as such Justices held or presided or attended at General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the respective counties of cities and counties of towns named in conjunction with such respective counties at large in the said Schedule, and it is expedient that the acts, matters and things so done by the said respective assistant barristers should be deemed to have been good, valid and effectual:—

It is Enacted,

11. That any and every General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace heretofore held in and for any of the said counties of cities and counties of towns, after the passing of the said recited Act, shall be deemed to have been good, valid, and effectual to all intents and purposes, and that all and every act and acts of any such assistant barrister of any such county at large as aforesaid, heretofore after the passing of the said recited Act done at or relating to any such General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace held in and for any such county of a city or county of a town named in conjunction with such county at large in the said Schedule, or done as a Justice of the Peace in and for such county of a city or county of a town, and all and every act and acts of any Justice of the Peace, and every act, matter, or thing done at any such last-mentioned General or Quarter Sessions, and the act and acts of any officer or constable in obedience thereto, shall be and be deemed to have been as valid, good, and effectual in the law to all intents and purposes as if such sessions had been held, or such act or acts, matters or things had been done, after this present Act had been passed.

111. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXXI.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to amend an Act of the last Session, for consolidating and amending the Laws for the Regulation of Grand Jury Presentments in the County of Dublin.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. So much of recited Act as empowers the Lord Lieutenant to direct sums required by the Commissioners to be advanced of the Consolidated Fund repealed, except as to things heretofore done.
2. The Commissioners of the Treasury, with the approbation of the Lord Lieutenant, empowered to direct advances to be made for such purposes;
3. And to declare the terms upon which such advances shall be made, &c.
4. Before each presenting term the Lord Lieutenant shall cause an estimate to be made of sums payable to the Exchequer by the said county during the ensuing year; and upon production of the certificate of the chief or under secretary of the amount, the grand jury shall present the same; to be levied together with and as other county charges.
5. Certificate of sums so payable shall be sent to finance committee half-yearly; and the amount shall be paid by the finance committee.
6. County officers shall be paid by finance committee out of any surplus funds of the present year.
7. The grand jury shall present the amount so paid.
8. And at each presenting term the grand jury shall present in advance for salaries of county officers.
9. Finance committee may repay sums expended in repair of sudden damage to bridges, &c.
10. Repeal of part of recited Act as to withholding salaries, &c. of county officers, for neglect, &c.
11. The grand jury, with the sanction of the Court, may suspend salaries of county officers, and make regulations as to payments, &c.
12. This Act to be read in conjunction with recited Act.
13. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 7 & 8 Vict. c. 106, after reciting that it was expedient that provision should be made for the more speedy and effectual repair of the roads in the county of Dublin upon which Her Majesty's mails are carried, it is enacted, that it should be lawful for the Commissioners acting under and in execution of an Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 33, intituled 'An Act for the Extension and Promotion of Public Works in Ireland,' or any other Act for amending the same, upon the application of Her Majesty's Postmaster General for the time being, setting forth and describing the line of any such road, or the portion of any such road, in the said county of Dublin, which might stand in need of repair, by and with the consent of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, to cause such road, or such portion thereof as should be described in such application, and any or every bridge, arch, or pipe, gullet or wall thereon, to be forthwith put into good and sufficient repair accordingly, under the superintendence of one of the county surveyors; and that upon the application of the said Commissioners, setting forth what sum would be requisite and necessary from time to time for the purposes aforesaid, it should and might be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland to direct, by his warrant, that the sum or sums of money so required by the said Commissioners should be advanced and paid to the said Commissioners out of the produce of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to be applied, under the directions of the said Commissioners, in manner aforesaid: And that it is expedient to alter and amend the said enactment, in so far as it empowers the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland to direct, by his warrant, that the sum or sums of money so required by the said Commissioners should be advanced and paid to the said Commissioners out of the produce of the Consolidated Fund of Great Britain and Ireland, and to substitute new provisions in lieu thereof;—

It is Enacted,

I. That, save and except as to matters and things heretofore done under the said recited enactment, so much thereof as empowers the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland to direct, by his warrant, that the sum or sums of money so required by the said Commissioners shall be advanced and paid to the said Commissioners out of the produce of the Consolidated Fund, shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

II. That from and after the passing of this Act, upon application of the said Commissioners, setting forth what sum will be requisite and necessary from time to time for the purposes in the said recited enactment mentioned, it shall be lawful to and for the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three of them, by and with the approbation of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, by his or their warrant in writing, to direct that the sum or sums of money so required by the said Commissioners appointed or acting under the said Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 33, shall be paid and advanced to the said last-named Commissioners, out of the produce of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to be applied, by and under the direction of the said last-mentioned Commissioners, in the manner and for the purposes in the said recited enactment mentioned.

III. Provided, declared and enacted, That it shall and may be lawful to and for the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three of them, in and by any warrant authorising or directing such advance as aforesaid, to declare on what terms the same shall be made, and to fix and appoint how, and in what manner, and at what time or times, and by what instalments, and with what rate of interest, if any, the same is to be levied and repaid to the Consolidated Fund.

And after reciting that divers sums of money have been from time to time heretofore and may hereafter be advanced from Her Majesty's Exchequer, by direction or authority of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, for the public purposes of the said county of Dublin; and it is expedient that the repayment thereof should be made with as little delay as possible, and should not be postponed by reason of any preference given to local claims over those of Her Majesty's Exchequer:—

iv. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, at any time previous to each presenting term, to cause an estimate to be made of the probable sum which in the course of the then ensuing year will become due and payable by the said county of Dublin, or any barony, or portion of a barony, parish, or other denomination of land in the said county, to the Consolidated Fund, or to Her Majesty's Exchequer, for or on account of any such advances, together with any arrears or sums then remaining due and payable for or on account of any such advances during the preceding year; and it shall and may be lawful for the grand jury of the said county, at each presenting term, and they are hereby required, on the production of the certificate of the chief secretary or under secretary of such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of the amount so estimated as aforesaid, to present, without previous application to presentment sessions to be levied off the said county, or any barony or baronies, portion of a barony, parish, or other denomination of land thereof, the amount of the sum or sums stated in such certificate; and in default of such presentment being made by the grand jury, it shall be lawful for the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland to order the clerk of the crown to add such amount to the amount presented for other purposes by such grand jury; and the amount so presented or added shall form a portion of the sum to be raised on the county, or any barony, portion of a barony, parish, or other denomination of land thereof, and shall be apportioned, apportioned, and levied together with and in the manner directed by the said recited Act in reference to other county charges.

v. That the amount of all sums payable to the Consolidated Fund, or Her Majesty's Exchequer, in respect of such advances, for or on account of the said county of Dublin, or any barony, portion of a barony, parish or other denomination of land thereof, shall be ascertained and made up half-yearly; and a certificate of the amount so payable for each half year, with a statement of the accounts, and the particulars thereof, signed by the proper officer, shall be transmitted to the finance committee of the said county; and such amount, so certified, shall, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, be a charge upon all monies, rates, or cesses levied or collected for the purposes of the said county of Dublin, in priority and preference to any other lien, claim, charge, or demand whatsoever upon the same or any part thereof; and such amount shall be set apart and appropriated by the finance committee for the time being acting in execution of the said recited Act, out of such public money, rates, or cesses, for the repayment to the Consolidated Fund, or Her Majesty's Exchequer, of the sum so certified, in priority and preference to any other lien, charge, or demand, and shall not be applied to any other purpose; and the said finance committee shall pay over the said amount in such manner and to such bank or person as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct.

And after reciting that doubts have arisen whether, under the authority of the said recited Act, the grand jury of the said county of Dublin are authorized to make presentments in advance for the payment of the salaries of the several county officers to whom salaries are payable by half-yearly instalments under the said Act, so that funds may be available for such half-yearly payments, and no presentment has consequently been made at the last presenting term for the salaries of such county officers: remedy whereof—

vi. That it shall and may be lawful for the said finance committee, out of any surplus or balance of the funds of the said county which may accrue during the present year, to pay and discharge in half-yearly payments, commencing from the 1st January 1845, so far as such surplus or balance may enable them so to do, the salaries when due of all or any of the said officers, as also the sum of 8*l.* 8*s.*, being the salary of the housekeeper of the county court house at Green Street in the city of Dublin, and to take credit for such payments in their current accounts.

vii. That it shall be lawful for the grand jury of the said county of Dublin, and they are hereby required, at the next ensuing presenting term, to present a sum sufficient to replace in the Bank of Ireland, to the credit of the said finance committee, the amount of all sums so paid by them to the said county officers for or on account of their salaries during the present year, as to meet and discharge any balance which may be then still due to any of the said officers.

viii. That at the said presenting term, and at each succeeding presenting term, it shall be lawful to and for the grand jury of the said county to present in advance, and without previous application at presentment sessions, such sum as shall be estimated to be sufficient to pay the salaries payable under the said Act to the several county officers, as well as those specified in Schedule to the said Act annexed as the district surveyors appointed for the said county, and also a sum not exceeding 2*l.* a year as salary for the housekeeper of the county court house at Green Street in the city of Dublin; and it shall be lawful for the finance committee for the time being to pay to the said county officers respectively, by half-yearly instalments as the same shall respectively become due, the amount of such salaries, according to the true intent and meaning of the said Act.

ix. That it shall be lawful to and for the finance committee of the said county of Dublin, if they shall deem it expedient of any balance or county funds at their disposal, from time to time to repay and discharge any sums expended by any person in repairing any sudden damage to bridges, roads, or other county works under the provisions of the said Act in reference to such sudden damage, on the production to them of the Magistrate's order duly authorizing such repairs, and the certificate of the district surveyor that a sum not exceeding the sum specified in such order hath been faithfully and honestly expended pursuant thereto; and the grand jury of the said county is hereby empowered to present all sums so paid by the finance committee at the next presenting term, without previous application at presentment sessions.

x. That so much of the said recited Act as empowers the grand jury, with the sanction of the Court of Queen's Bench, to present, in case of negligent or insufficient discharge of duty on the part of any county officer, any sum less than the annual salary specified therein to be paid to such officer, or to withhold or refuse to make presentment for such officer, shall be and is hereby repealed.

xi. That from and after the passing of this Act, it shall and may be lawful for the grand jury of the said county, at any presenting term, by a resolution, to be signed by the foreman, with the express sanction of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland, to direct that the payment of any salary of any county officer who may be guilty of any negligent or insufficient discharge of his duty shall be either wholly or in part withheld, or to make such regulations for the paying or suspending the payment of the whole or any part of the salaries of any of such county officers, as the said grand jury, with the express approval of the said Court of Queen's Bench, may deem expedient.

xii. That this Act shall be read and interpreted in conjunction with the said recited Act, in such and the same manner as if the same was incorporated therein and part thereof.

xiii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

87. Provision for refusal or neglect of parochial boards.
88. Assessments for the poor may be recovered summarily as land and assessed taxes.
89. Parochial board may borrow money on security of assessment remaining due.
90. Notices, how to be given.
91. Former Acts repealed which are at variance with this Act.
92. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient that the laws relating to the relief of the poor in Scotland should be amended, and that provision should be made for the better administration thereof:—

It is Enacted,

1. That the following words and expressions, when used in this Act, shall in the construction thereof be interpreted as follows, except where the nature of the provision or the context of the Act shall exclude or be repugnant to such construction; (that is to say,) the word "burgh" shall include and apply to cities, burghs, and towns which are royal burghs, or which send or contribute to send a member to Parliament; "sheriff" shall include and apply to sheriff substitutes and Stewart substitutes; the words "lands and heritages" shall extend to and include all lands, fishings, freshwaters, farms, quays, wharfs, docks, canals, railways, mines, minerals, quarries, coal works, lime works, brick works, iron works, and works, factories, and manufacturing establishments, houses, tenements, shops, warehouses, mills, cellars, stalls, stables, gardens, yards, and all buildings and pertinents thereof; the word "oath" shall include the affirmation of a Quaker, Separatist, or Moravian; "owner" shall apply to life-renters as well as fiars, and to tutors, curators, commissioners, trustees, adjudgers, wadsetters, or other persons who shall be in the actual receipt of the rents and profits of lands and heritages; "persons" shall extend to a body politic, corporate, or collegiate; and every word importing the singular only shall extend to several persons or things as well as one person or thing; and every word importing the plural shall be applied to one person or thing as well as several persons or things; and every word importing the masculine gender shall extend to a female as well as a male.

II. That a board of supervision shall be and is hereby established for the purposes of this Act, and the said board shall consist of the following persons; (videlicet,) the Lord Provost of Edinburgh, the Lord Provost of Glasgow, the Solicitor General of Scotland, the sheriff depute of the county of Perth, the sheriff depute of the county of Renfrew, the sheriff depute of the county of Ross and Cromarty, all for the time being, together with three other persons, whom it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, by warrant under the sign manual, to appoint; and it shall also be lawful for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, to supply any vacancy which may occur in the said board by removal, by death, or otherwise of any of the said three persons; and the said board shall be styled "The Board of Supervision for Relief of the Poor in Scotland;" and the said board may sit from time to time and at such places as they shall deem expedient.

III. That the members of the said board shall derive no profit or emolument for the discharge of the duties of their office, except as hereinafter mentioned, and shall not be personally responsible for anything done bonâ fide in the execution of this Act, or in the exercise of the powers therein contained: Provided always, that any necessary expenses incurred by the board or by members thereof, or committees or commissioners authorized or appointed by the board as hereinafter provided, shall be deemed as part of the incidental expenses attending the execution of this Act, and be paid accordingly; and an account of all expenses of the said board shall be annually laid before Parliament.

IV. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, to nominate one of the three members of the said board of supervision to be appointed by Her Majesty as aforesaid, who shall be paid, and also to appoint a fit person to be secretary to the said board, who shall also be paid, and to supply any vacancy which may occur in the said office of secretary; and such paid member of the board of supervision and such secretary shall each receive an adequate salary of such amount as shall from time to time be regulated and approved by the Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or any three or more of them; and such secretary shall find sufficient security for his intromissions and management to the satisfaction of the said board, and shall be liable to be removed by Her Majesty on the recommendation of the said board; and the sheriffs of the said three sheriffdoms of Perth, Renfrew, and Ross and Cromarty shall each receive the sum of 100*l.* sterling per annum, in addition to their present salaries, so long as they continue to act as members of the said board.

V. That the said board of supervision shall meet at Edinburgh in the court room of the first division of the court of session upon the 20th of August next, or upon the first convenient day within ten days thereafter, of which due notice shall be given by the secretary to each of the members, and shall thereafter hold two general meetings in each year, one upon the first Wednesday in February, and the other upon the first Wednesday in August; and at such first meeting, and at all other meetings to be held in pursuance of this Act, three shall be sufficient to act; and the said board shall have power to adjourn or such time and to such place as they shall see fit; and it shall be lawful for the said board to hold special or pro re nata meetings, which may be called by the secretary, provided that such notice shall be given in writing by the secretary as the board shall direct; and that all notices of special or pro re nata meetings shall specify the business or matter on which such meetings are called; and it shall be the duty of the paid member of the said board not only to attend at the general and special or adjourned meetings, but to give regular attendance for the purpose of conducting the business of the said board; and the board shall have chambers in Edinburgh, at which the ordinary business of the board shall be conducted, and at which the meetings of the board may be held.

VI. That the said board shall have power, as often as they may deem fit, to appoint any two or more of their number as a committee for the purposes of this Act, and if more than two to fix the number of such committee that shall be sufficient to transact business; and it shall be lawful for such committee, in transacting the business committed to them, to exercise all the powers necessary for that purpose which are by this Act given to the board of supervision; and such committee shall be bound to report to the board at such time or times as the board shall direct, and failing such direction shall report to the said board at its next general statutory meeting.

VII. That it shall be lawful for the said board from time to time, as they shall see occasion, to make general rules and regulations for conducting the business of the said board, and for exercising the powers and authorities thereof, and to alter such rules and regulations: Provided always, that such rules and regulations and alterations, or a copy thereof, shall be submitted to one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State for his sanction and approval, and for such additions or alterations as he may deem necessary; and no rules or regulations or alterations as aforesaid shall be effectual, except such shall have been approved of by the said Secretary of State, who shall be understood to have approved of all such rules and regulations and alterations aforesaid as shall have been transmitted for his sanction and approval if no intimation to the contrary be made to the board of supervision within twenty-one days from the date of such transmission; and a copy, signed and certified by the secretary of the board of supervision, of the rules and regulations and alterations approved as aforesaid, shall be evidence of such rules, regulations, and alterations in any court of law or justice.

VIII. That the said board of supervision shall make a record of their proceedings, in which shall be entered minutes of all things held by them, or any committee appointed by them, and all resolutions passed and orders made by them, and all matters which the board may judge proper; and the said board shall once in every year submit to one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State a general report of their proceedings, which report shall contain in particular a full statement as to the condition and management of the poor throughout Scotland, and the funds raised for their relief; and every such report shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks after the receipt of the same by such principal Secretary of State, if Parliament be then sitting, or if Parliament be not sitting, then within six weeks of the next meeting thereof.

ix. That it shall be lawful for the said board of supervision to inquire into the management of the poor in every parish or burgh in Scotland, and for this purpose the said board is hereby empowered to make inquiries, and require answers or returns to be made to the said board, upon any question or matter connected with or relating to the relief of the poor, and also by a summons, signed by one of their number, or by the secretary, to require the attendance of all such persons as they may think fit to call before them upon any such question or matter, and to administer oaths to and examine upon oath all such persons, and to require and enforce the production, upon oath, of all books, contracts, agreements, accounts, and writings, or copies thereof respectively, in anywise relating to any such question or matter, or in lieu of requiring such oath as aforesaid the said board may, if they think fit, require any such person to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the matters respecting which he shall have been or shall be so examined.

x. That it shall and may be lawful for the said board, whenever it may seem fitting to them, to authorize and empower for a limited time one of the members thereof to conduct any special inquiry in any part of Scotland, and to report thereon to the board; and such member, so authorized and empowered, shall be entitled to summon and examine on oath witnesses and havers, and to exercise all such other of the powers by this Act given to the board of supervision as may be necessary for conducting such inquiry, and such member shall be reimbursed by the said board for all expenses necessarily incurred by him in conducting such inquiry, and such expenses shall be deemed part of the expenses attending the execution of this Act, and be paid accordingly.

xi. That it shall and may be lawful for the said board of supervision, whenever it may seem fitting to them, with the consent of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, or of Her Majesty's advocate for Scotland, or whenever the said board may be thereunto required by one of Her Majesty's said Secretaries of State, or Her Majesty's said advocate, to appoint some person, not being a member of the board, but being a member of the faculty of advocates, or a duly qualified medical practitioner, or an architect or surveyor, or two or more of such persons, to act as a commissioner or commissioners for the purpose of conducting any special inquiry for a period not exceeding forty days, and to report thereon; and the said board shall delegate to every person so appointed for the purpose of conducting such inquiry all such of the powers of the said board as they may deem necessary or expedient for summoning or examining witnesses and havers, and otherwise conducting such inquiry; and every such appointment shall be subject to the approval of one of Her Majesty's said Secretaries of State, or of Her Majesty's said advocate; and every person so appointed as aforesaid to conduct any special inquiry shall, before he enter on the execution of his duties, take an oath de fidei administratione officii, which oath may be administered to him by any member of the board, or any one of the Judges of the Court of Session, or the sheriff of any county, and it shall not be necessary to notify the appointment of any such Commissioner otherwise than by intimating the same in a letter under the hand of the secretary, or of any member of the board, to the sheriff of the county within which the inquiry in question is to be made; and every such Commissioner shall be reimbursed by the said board for all expenses necessarily incurred by him in conducting such inquiry, and shall also receive such reasonable remuneration for his time and trouble as may have been agreed upon between him and the said board, and approved of by Her Majesty's said Secretary of State or advocate; and failing of any such agreement the amount of the remuneration shall be fixed by the Lord High Treasurer, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or by such person or persons as he or they shall name.

xii. That it shall be lawful for the said board of supervision, in any case where they see fit, to order and allow such expenses of witnesses, and such expenses of or concerning the production of any books, contracts, agreements, accounts, writings, or copies thereof, to or before the said board or committee thereof or commissioner, as such board may deem reasonable; and such expenses so ordered and allowed shall be deemed part of the incidental expenses attending the execution of this Act, and be paid accordingly.

xiii. That if any person, upon any examination on oath under the authority of this Act, shall wilfully give false evidence, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be liable to the pains and penalties thereof; and in case any person shall wilfully refuse to attend in obedience to any summons of the said board of supervision or committee thereof, or member or commissioner authorized or appointed by the board as aforesaid, or to give evidence, or shall wilfully refuse to produce any books, contracts, agreements, accounts, and writings, or copies of the same, which may be required to be produced before the said board or committee, or member or commissioner, or shall wilfully neglect or disobey any of the orders of the said board or committee, or member or commissioner, or be guilty of any contempt of the said board or committee, or member or commissioner, such person being thereof lawfully convicted shall forfeit and pay for the first offence any sum not exceeding 5*l.*, for the second and every subsequent offence any sum not exceeding 20*l.* nor less than 5*l.*

xiv. That the said board of supervision shall be and is hereby empowered from time to time to appoint all such clerks, messengers, and officers as they shall deem necessary, and from time to time, at the discretion of the said board, to remove such clerks, messengers, and officers, or any of them, and to appoint others in their stead; provided that the amount of the salaries of such clerks, messengers, and officers shall from time to time be regulated by the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them; and the name of every person so appointed or removed as aforesaid shall forthwith be intimated to one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State for his approval, and shall be understood to approve of such appointment or removal if no notice to the contrary be received by the said board within twenty-one days from the day of the date of such intimation.

xv. That it shall be lawful for any of the members or the secretary of the said board of supervision, or for any clerk or officer of the said board, provided that such clerk or officer shall be duly authorized by a writing signed by two at least of the members of the said board of supervision, to attend and be present at the meetings of any parochial board for the management of the poor, and to take part in the discussions, but not to vote at such board.

xvi. That in every case in which it may appear to the board of supervision, on application by the parochial boards of any one or more adjoining parishes, or from a regard to the relative situation of two or more such parishes, or from any other circumstances, that the administration of the affairs of the poor therein might be carried on with greater advantage to the said parishes, and to the poor therein, by the said parishes being combined for the purposes of this Act, then the parochial boards of such parishes shall meet, on requisition to that effect by the board of supervision, for the purpose of considering the proposed combination; and in every case where the parochial boards of two or more such parishes shall resolve that it is expedient and proper that such parishes shall be combined for all purposes connected with the management of the poor, and the administration of the laws relating to their relief, and for the purposes of raising the necessary funds for the relief and support of the poor, and also for the purposes of settlement, and where it shall be established to the satisfaction of the board of supervision that it is expedient and proper that such parishes shall be so combined, it shall be lawful for the said board of supervision to resolve and declare that such parishes shall thenceforward be combined for the purposes aforesaid, and shall be considered as one parish so far as regards the support and management of the poor, and all matters connected therewith; and all expenditure in respect to the poor belonging to such combination of parishes shall be deemed and held to be the common expenditure of such combination of parishes, and be charged upon and paid out of the common and general fund to be raised for the relief of the poor over the whole of such parishes: Provided always, that, upon application by the parochial board of any parish adjacent to any such combination, it shall be lawful for the said board of supervision, if they see fit, due regard being had to the circumstances of the case, to resolve and declare that such parish shall be for the purposes of this Act added to such combination from and after a date to be signified in the resolution of the said board of supervision, and such parish shall, from and after such date, be held in law to be a part of such combination in all matters relative to the relief of the poor, and subject in every respect to the provisions and regulations hereby made and provided in relation to combinations of parishes; and such resolution shall be forthwith published in such manner as the said board of supervision shall direct.

xvii. That in every burghal parish or combination of parishes there shall be a parochial board of managers of the poor; and the whole administration of the laws for the relief of the poor shall be under the direction and controul of such parochial board, on whom shall devolve all the powers and authorities hitherto exercised by or vested in the magistrates of burghs in that behalf, or any other body or persons administering or entitled to administer the laws for the relief of the poor in any burgh or burghal parish; and until it shall have been resolved, as hereinafter provided, to raise the funds requisite for the relief of the poor of such parish or combination by assessment, the board shall, in the case of a burghal parish, where there is no combination of parishes, consist of the persons who, if this Act had not been passed, would have been entitled to administer the laws for the relief of the poor in such parish, and shall, in the case of a combination of parishes, consist of the persons who, if this Act had not been passed, would have been entitled to administer the laws for the relief of the poor in the several parishes of which the combination is composed, or of such committees of their number as they may think proper to appoint; and when in any burghal parish or combination in which it shall have been resolved, as hereinafter provided, to raise the funds requisite for the relief of the poor by assessment, the parochial board of such parish or combination shall be constituted and chosen as follows; (that is to say,) the persons assessed for the support of the poor within the parish or combination shall elect, in manner after mentioned, to be members of the parochial board, such number of managers, not being more than thirty, as the said board of supervision, having due regard to the population and other circumstances of every such parish or combination, may from time to time fix, and possessing such qualification by the ownership or occupancy of lands and heritages of a certain annual value within the parish or combination as the said board of supervision, having due regard to the population and other circumstances of every such parish or combination, may from time to time fix, such qualification being in no case fixed at a higher annual value than 50*l.*, to be ascertained in manner hereinafter provided in regard to the qualification of voters; and the magistrates of the burgh shall nominate four persons to be members of the parochial board, and the kirk session of each parish shall nominate not exceeding four members of such kirk session to be members of the parochial board: Provided always, that those parishes only shall be held to be separate parishes which at the date of this Act are separate parishes for the purposes of settlement and relief of the poor; and that where there shall be in any such parish two or more kirk sessions the members of such several kirk sessions shall meet together and nominate not exceeding four of their number to be members of the parochial board.

xviii. That where in any burghal parish or combination it shall have been so resolved to raise the funds requisite for the relief of the poor by assessment, and where the persons from whom such assessment is to be levied, and the amount payable by each, shall have been ascertained or determined as hereinafter provided, the board of supervision shall fix a day for the persons so assessed to elect such number of managers, duly qualified, to be members of the parochial board as shall be regulated by the board of supervision as aforesaid, and shall also fix a day or days for the magistrates and the kirk session or kirk sessions to nominate the persons to be by them respectively nominated to be members of the parochial board; and such managers and members, being elected or nominated, shall be entitled to act for the period of one year, and may be re-elected or re-appointed.

xix. That in all cases of the election of managers of the poor of any burghal parish or combination under this Act the votes shall be given or taken, collected and returned, in such manner and under such regulations as the board of supervision shall direct; and in every such election every person assessed for the support of the poor in such parish or combination shall be entitled to vote, whether such assessment be made in respect of ownership or occupancy of lands and heritages, or in respect of means and substance; and it is hereby declared that the owners of lands and heritages the annual value of which shall be under 20*l.* shall have each one vote; the owners of lands and heritages the annual value of which shall be 20*l.* but under 40*l.*, two votes; the owners of lands and heritages the annual value of which shall be 40*l.* but under 60*l.*, three votes; the owners of lands and heritages the annual value of which shall be 60*l.* but under 100*l.*, four votes; the owners of lands and heritages the annual value of which shall be 100*l.* but under 500*l.*, five votes; the owners of lands and heritages the annual value of which shall be 500*l.* and upwards, six votes; and that all persons assessed as the occupants of lands and heritages or assessed on means and substance, shall each have the same number of votes as an owner of lands and heritages assessed to the same amount for the support of the poor would have; and when any occupant shall also be the owner of lands and heritages, and assessed in both capacities, he shall be entitled to vote as well in respect of his ownership as of his occupancy;

and when any person who is assessed on his means and substance shall also be an owner of lands and heritages, and assessed as such, he shall be entitled to vote as well in respect of his ownership as of his means and substance: Provided always, that no person shall for himself have more than six votes in all, and that no person shall be entitled to vote who shall have been exempted from payment of his rates or assessment for relief of the poor on the ground of inability to pay, or who shall not have paid all such rates and assessments assessed upon and due from him at the time of so voting.

xx. That for the purpose of conducting the election of managers of the poor it shall be lawful for the board of supervision to divide any burghal parish or combination into such and so many wards or divisions as they may deem expedient, and to determine and apportion the number of managers to be elected by every such ward or division, having due regard to the population and the value of property therein: Provided always, that no person shall be entitled to vote for the managers of the poor in any such ward or division unless he reside therein, or have a right to vote in respect of his ownership or occupancy of lands and heritages within such ward or division; nor shall any person give in any one ward or division, in respect of ownership or occupancy of lands and heritages, a greater number of votes than he is entitled to in respect of lands and heritages in such ward or division; nor shall any person give in the whole of the wards or divisions into which a parish may be divided a greater number of votes than he would be entitled to have given if the parish had not been so divided.

xxi. That for the purpose of ascertaining the number of votes to which each person is entitled the books of the collector of the assessment for the poor shall be taken as the evidence of the annual value of the lands and heritages assessed, and of the amount for which each person is assessed.

xxii. That in every parish not being a burghal parish, and not being part of any combination as aforesaid, there shall be in like manner a parochial board for the management of the poor of such parish, and the whole administration of the laws for the relief of the poor shall be under the direction and controul of such parochial board, who shall have and exercise all the powers and authorities hitherto exercised by or vested in the heritors and kirk session, or in the heritors, kirk session, and magistrates, or any other body or persons administering or entitled to administer the laws for the relief of the poor in such parish, by virtue of any law or usage; and such parochial board shall be constituted as follows; (that is to say,) in every such parish as aforesaid in which the funds requisite for the relief of the poor shall be provided without assessment the parochial board shall consist of the persons who, if this Act had not been passed, would have been entitled to administer the laws for the relief of the poor in such parish; and in every such parish as aforesaid in which it shall have been resolved, as hereinafter provided, to raise the funds requisite for the relief of the poor by assessment, the parochial board shall consist of the owners of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 20*l*. and upwards, and of the provost and bailies of any royal burgh, if any, in such parish, and of the kirk session of such parish, and of such number of elected members, to be elected in manner after mentioned, as shall be fixed by the board of supervision: Provided always, that no provost or baillie or elder of the kirk session shall, as such, be a member of such parochial board unless he is assessed for the poor; and provided also, that not more than six members of the kirk session shall, as such, be members of such parochial board; and if the kirk session shall consist of more than six members it shall be lawful for such kirk session from time to time to nominate six of its members to be members of the parochial board, for such time as to the kirk session shall seem fit; and it shall be competent for any heritor, being a member of the parochial board, to appoint, as heretofore, by a writing under his hand, any other person to be his agent or mandatory to act and vote for him at such board; and such appointment shall remain in force till recalled; and such writing of appointment is hereby declared to be valid and lawful, although the paper whereon it is written should not be stamped.

xxiii. That in every such parish as aforesaid in which it shall have been resolved to raise the funds for relief of the poor by assessment, and in which the persons from whom such assessment is to be levied, and the amount payable by each, have been ascertained or determined as hereinafter provided, it shall and may be lawful for the persons so assessed, not being owners of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 20*l*., or provost or bailies of any royal burgh in such parish, or members of the kirk session, and as such members of the parochial board, to elect so many of their own number to be members of the parochial board of such parish as shall be regulated and fixed from time to time by the board of supervision, due regard being had to the amount of the population, the number and residence of the other members of the parochial board, and the special wants and circumstances of each particular parish; and the said board of supervision shall also fix a day for the said persons to meet and choose such number of elected members of the parochial board as shall have been fixed by the board of supervision as aforesaid; and such elected members, being so appointed, shall be entitled to act for the period of one year, and may be re-elected: Provided always, that no person shall be entitled to act as an elected member unless he be assessed to the poor, and pay assessment to the parish.

xxiv. That on the day so to be fixed by the board of supervision as aforesaid, and on the same day in each succeeding year, or on a day, as soon thereafter as may be, to be fixed by the board of supervision, the persons assessed as aforesaid shall meet for the purpose of appointing elected members of the parochial board; and if they shall not agree in the choice of elected members, then it shall and may be lawful for the inspector of the poor appointed in manner after mentioned, or in case of his absence or inability for any person appointed by the parochial board to act for the occasion, to take in writing and collect the votes of the persons entitled to vote at such meeting, and to declare (according to the number prescribed by the board of supervision) those persons to be elected members who shall appear to have the majority of votes, and in the event of an equality the person paying the largest amount of assessment shall be preferred; and at every such meeting owners of lands and heritages within the parish under 20*l*. of yearly value shall each have one vote, and tenants or occupants of lands and heritages, and persons assessed upon means and substance, if assessed to an amount less than is assessed upon an owner of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 20*l*., shall each have one vote; and if assessed to an amount equal to that assessed upon an owner of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 20*l*. but under 40*l*., shall each have two votes; and if equal to that assessed on an owner of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 40*l*. but under 60*l*., shall each have three votes; and if equal to that assessed on an owner of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 60*l*. but under 100*l*., shall each have four votes; and if equal to that assessed on an owner of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 100*l*. but under 500*l*., shall each have five votes; and if equal to that assessed on an owner of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 500*l*. or more, shall each have six votes; and the books of the collector of the assessment in each parish shall be binding and conclusive for the purpose of ascertaining the number of votes to which any person shall be entitled in respect of the ownership, occupancy, or means and substance upon which he is assessed; and where any person who is assessed as owner is assessed also as occupier, or on means and substance, he shall be entitled to vote as well in respect of such occupancy, or means and substance, as of his being such owner: Provided always, that no person shall have more than six votes, and that no owner of lands and heritages of the yearly value of 20*l.* or upwards, and no provost, bailie, or member of the kirk session, being a member of the parochial board, and no person who shall have been exempted from the payment of his rates or assessments for the relief of the poor on the ground of inability to pay, or who shall not have paid all such rates and assessments assessed upon and due from him, shall be entitled to vote; and for the purpose of conducting the election it shall be lawful for the board of supervision to divide any parish into such and so many districts or divisions as they may deem expedient, and to determine and apportion the number of elected members to be elected by every such district or division, subject to the like conditions and restrictions as are hereinbefore provided in regard to the election of managers in burghal parishes or combinations.

xxv. That in cases of lands and heritages being owned or occupied by any corporation, or any joint stock or other company, or by joint owners or joint occupants, no member of such corporation or proprietor of or interested in such joint stock or other company, and no such joint owner or joint occupant, shall, as such, be entitled to vote at the election of any member of a parochial board of any parish or combination; but any member or officer of such corporation, joint stock or other company, or any one of such joint owners or joint occupants whose name shall be entered by order of such corporation or company, or the governing body thereof, or of such joint owners or joint occupants, in the books of the parish or combination, in the manner that may be directed by the board of supervision, and who shall have complied with the regulations regarding voting, shall be entitled to vote in the same manner as if he were the owner or occupant of such lands and heritages.

xxvi. That in all meetings and matters under this Act the husbands of owners of lands and heritages shall be entitled to vote and act in right of their wives.

xxvii. That any dispute which may arise as to the validity of the election of any person to be a member of the parochial board of any parish or combination shall be determined by the sheriff of the county in which such parish or combination, or the greater portion of them, may be situate, upon petition in a summary manner; and the said sheriff shall hear the parties, and investigate the matter in such way as he may think proper, and shall have power to call for such evidence, and for the production of such documents, as he may think necessary, provided that no written pleadings shall be allowed, and no record shall be made of the proceedings; and the decision by the said sheriff shall be final, and shall not be liable to appeal, or to suspension, advocacy, or reduction, or any other form of review; and it shall be lawful for the said sheriff to order the expenses of all such proceedings to be paid by such parties and in such manner as to him may seem equitable: Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for any person to question the validity of any election under this Act, unless a notice in writing of his intention so to do be served on the returning officer at the time of making the return, or within forty-eight hours from the time when such return shall have been made.

xxviii. That in the event of any disputed election of any parochial board, or of any member or members of any parochial board, the persons whose names are returned by the returning officer as having the majority of votes shall be entitled to sit and act as elected members of such board in the meantime and until the question regarding the validity of their election shall have been tried and determined; and all acts and deeds done by them in their character of members of such board or managers for the poor shall be valid and effectual; and no defect in the qualification, election, or appointment of any person acting in the character of a member of a parochial board shall vitiate or make void any proceedings of such board in which he may have taken a part.

xxix. That if any returning officer be guilty of wilfully making a false return he shall be liable to a penalty of 50*l.* to be recoverable by action in the Court of Session, and payable to the party or parties aggrieved by such false return.

xxx. That it shall be lawful for every parochial board to fix certain days and places on and at which the general meetings of the board shall be held, and to adjourn such meetings from time to time and to such places as they shall see fit: Provided always, that every parochial board shall be bound to hold at least two general meetings in every year, one on the first Tuesday of February, or as soon thereafter as may be, and the other on the first Tuesday of August, or as soon thereafter as may be, at such other stated times as may be approved of by the board of supervision, and at such meetings to revise and adjust the roll of paupers and their allowances; and it shall also be lawful for every parochial board to hold special meetings as occasion may require, upon summonses to be issued by the inspector of the poor or by the chairman of the board; and it shall be lawful for every parochial board to nominate and appoint committees to act on behalf of the whole board, and such committees in transacting the business committed to them shall exercise all the powers necessary for that purpose which belong to the parochial board.

xxxi. That every parochial board shall annually elect one of their number to be chairman for the year ensuing, and such chairman shall preside at all meetings of the board, and shall have both an original and a casting vote in case of equality; and in the event of the absence of the chairman of the board at any meeting the members present shall elect a chairman pro tempore, who shall act as chairman of the meeting, and such chairman shall have a casting as well as an original vote.

xxxii. That each parochial board shall, on the third Tuesday of September in this present year, or on such day thereafter may be fixed by the board of supervision, meet for the purpose of making up or causing to be made up a roll of the poor persons claiming and by law entitled to relief from the parish or combination, and of the amount of relief given or to be given to each of such persons, and for the purpose of appointing an inspector or inspectors of the poor in such parish or combination, and fixing the amount of remuneration to be given to every such inspector; and such meeting shall make up or cause to be made up such roll as aforesaid with the least possible delay, and shall nominate and appoint a fit and qualified person or persons to be Inspector or Inspectors of the Poor in such parish or combination, and shall fix the amount of the remuneration to be given to every such inspector, and shall forthwith report to the board of supervision the name and address of such inspector, and the amount of the remuneration to be given to him, and shall at the same or at another meeting, to be held on a day not more than fourteen days thereafter, consider and determine as to the mode of raising the funds requisite for the relief of the poor in the parish or combination.

XXXIII. That it shall be lawful for the parochial board of any parish or combination assembled at such meeting, or at any adjournment thereof, or for the parochial board of any parish or combination at any meeting of such board called for that purpose, and of which due notice shall have been given, by letter, advertisement, or otherwise, to all the persons entitled to attend, to resolve that the funds requisite for the relief of the poor persons entitled to relief from the parish or combination, including the expenses connected with the management and administration thereof, shall be raised by assessment; and if the majority of such meeting shall resolve that the funds shall be raised by assessment, such resolution shall be final, and shall be forthwith reported to the board of supervision, and it shall not be lawful to alter or depart from such resolution without the consent and authority of the board of supervision previously had and obtained.

XXXIV. That when the parochial board of any parish or combination shall have resolved to raise by assessment the funds requisite, such board shall, either at the same meeting or at an adjournment thereof, or at a meeting to be called for the purpose, resolve as to the manner in which the assessment is to be imposed; and it shall be lawful for any such board to resolve that one half of such assessment shall be imposed upon the owners, and the other half upon the tenants or occupants of all lands and heritages within the parish or combination rateably according to the annual value of such lands and heritages, or to resolve that one half of such assessment shall be imposed upon the owners of all lands and heritages within the parish or combination according to the annual value of such lands and heritages, and the other half upon the whole inhabitants, according to their means and substance, other than lands and heritages situated in Great Britain or Ireland, or to resolve that such assessment shall be imposed as an equal per-centage upon the annual value of all lands and heritages within the parish or combination, and upon the estimated annual income of the whole inhabitants from means and substance, other than lands and heritages situated in Great Britain or Ireland; and when the parochial board shall have resolved on the manner in which the assessment is to be imposed, such resolution shall be forthwith reported to the board of supervision for approval; and if the manner of assessment so resolved upon shall be approved by the board of supervision, the same shall be adopted and acted upon in such parish or combination, and shall not be altered or departed from without the sanction of the board of supervision; and if the board of supervision shall disapprove of the manner of assessment so resolved upon as aforesaid, the parochial board, shall upon such disapproval being intimated, forthwith meet and resolve upon another mode of imposing the assessment consistent with law, and shall report such resolution to the board of supervision; and the manner of imposing the assessment so resolved upon shall be adopted and acted upon in such parish or combination, and shall not be altered or departed from without the sanction of the board of supervision.

XXXV. That if at the date of this Act an assessment for the poor shall in any parish or parishes be imposed according to the provisions of any local Act, or according to any established usage, it shall be lawful for the parochial board or boards of such parish or parishes to resolve that the assessment in such parish or parishes shall be imposed according to the rule established by such local Act or usage; and such resolution, if approved of by the board of supervision, shall continue to be acted upon in such parish or parishes, and shall not be altered or departed from without the sanction of the board of supervision.

XXXVI. That where the one half of any assessment is imposed on the owners, and the other half on the tenants or occupants of lands and heritages, it shall be lawful for the parochial board, with the concurrence of the board of supervision, to determine and direct that the lands and heritages may be distinguished into two or more separate classes, according to the purposes for which such lands are used and occupied, and to fix such rate of assessment upon the tenants or occupants of each class respectively, as to such boards may seem just and equitable.

XXXVII. That in estimating the annual value of lands and heritages, the same shall be taken to be the rent at which one year with another such lands and heritages might in their actual state be reasonably expected to let from year to year, under deduction of the probable annual average cost of the repairs, insurance, and other expenses, if any, necessary to maintain such lands and heritages in their actual state, and all rates, taxes, and public charges payable in respect of the same: Provided always, that no mine or quarry shall be assessed unless it has been worked during some part of the year preceding the day on which the assessment may be ordered to be levied.

XXXVIII. That when the parochial board of any parish or combination shall have resolved as aforesaid to raise by assessment the funds requisite, and when the manner in which the assessment is to be imposed shall have been fixed, and the sum to be so raised for the year or half year then ensuing shall have been ascertained, such parochial board shall make up or cause to be forthwith made up a book containing a roll of the persons liable in payment of such assessment, and of the sums to be levied from each of such persons, distinguishing the sums assessed in respect of ownership or occupancy, or income and substance; and the book or roll so made up shall be the rule for levying the assessment for the year or half year then ensuing; and the parochial board shall appoint one or more fit and qualified persons to be collector or collectors of the assessment, and shall fix the amount of remuneration to be given to every such collector; and it shall be competent to nominate and appoint the same person who is an inspector of the poor to be collector of the assessment, and to fix the amount of remuneration to be given to such person for the performance of the additional duties of collector of the assessment.

XXXIX. That as soon as may be after such book or roll is made up as aforesaid the collector shall intimate to each person the amount of the sum to be levied from him, and the time when the same is payable.

XL. That before the expiration of one year from the date at which the first assessment under the provisions of this Act shall have been imposed as aforesaid in any parish or combination, and yearly or half yearly thereafter, the parochial board of every such parish or combination shall fix and determine the amount of assessment for the year or half year then next ensuing, and shall make up or cause to be made up a book containing a roll of the persons liable in payment of such assessment, and of the sums to be levied from each of such persons; and the roll so made up shall be the rule for levying the assessment for the year or half year then next ensuing; and the collector shall forthwith intimate to each person the amount of the sum to be levied from him, and the time when the same is payable: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the parochial board of any such parish or combination, if there shall have been found to exist any error in the sum or sums to be levied by way of assessment, or any omissions or surcharges in respect of the persons liable to pay the same, to cause such error, omission, or surcharge to be corrected at their next or any subsequent meeting after such error, omission, or surcharge shall have been discovered: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall preclude any person who considers himself aggrieved by such assessment from his remedy by law in the like form and on the same grounds as, at the date of the passing of this Act, was competent to any party who considered himself aggrieved by assessment imposed under the statutes then in force for relief of the poor, but to the extent and effect only of exempting himself from payment of any surcharge which may have been made upon him.

XLII. That if the assessment imposed for any year or half year shall, from any unforeseen or other circumstances, prove insufficient, it shall be lawful for the parochial board of such parish or combination to meet and impose such further and additional assessment as may be sufficient to raise the sum required.

XLIII. That it shall be lawful for the parochial board of any parish or combination to exempt from payment of the assessment or any part thereof, to such an extent as may seem proper and reasonable, any persons or class of persons on the ground of inability to pay.

XLIV. That where the one half of any assessment is imposed on the owners, and the other half on the tenants or occupants, of lands and heritages, it shall be competent for the collector of such assessment to levy the whole thereof from the tenants or occupants, who shall be entitled to recover one half thereof from the owners, or to retain the same out of their rents, on production of a receipt granted by the collector of such assessment.

XLV. That in all landward as well as all burghal parishes and combinations where houses have been or shall be built by the tenant of any land held under a building lease upon such land, the tenant and his heirs and assignees in such lease shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed and taken to be the owners of such houses.

XLVI. That in cases where any canal or railway shall pass through or be situate in more than one parish or combination, the proportion of the annual value thereof on which such assessment shall be made for each such parish or combination shall be according to the number of miles or distance which such canal or railway passes through or is situated in each parish or combination in proportion to the whole length.

XLVII. That the owners and occupiers of lands and heritages shall not be liable to be assessed in respect of such lands and heritages for the relief of the poor in more than one parish or combination.

XLVIII. That if in any parish or combination in which an assessment is imposed on means and substance any company or any individual shall occupy any lands and heritages, or shall carry on any trade or business in any premises within such parish or combination, such company and the partners thereof, and such individual, shall be liable to be assessed in such parish or combination on their or his means and substance derived from or relating to such occupancy, trade, or business, although none of the partners of such company, nor such individual, should be actually resident in such parish or combination; and such company and partners, and such individual, shall not be liable to be assessed on the same means and substance in any other parish or combination; and if any person shall be assessed in any parish or combination upon his means and substance, other than means and substance derived from or relating to the occupancy of lands and heritages within such parish or combination, or the carrying on of trade or business in premises within such parish or combination, such person shall not be assessed upon the same means and substance in any other parish or combination; and if any person shall reside in and be liable to be assessed as an inhabitant of more than one parish, it shall be optional to such person to determine in which of such parishes he shall be assessed on his means and substance, other than means and substance derived from and relating to the occupancy of lands and heritages, or the carrying on of trade or business in premises within any particular parish.

XLIX. That no person shall be liable to be assessed in any parish or combination on his means and substance unless the estimated annual value thereof in whole shall exceed 30*l*.

L. That clergymen shall be liable to be assessed for the poor in respect of their stipends.

L. And it is enacted and declared, That the privileges of exemption from payment of assessments in the city of Edinburgh, assessed and enjoyed by members of the College of Justice and officers of the Queen's household, shall not be applicable to assessments imposed and levied for the relief of the poor under the authority of this Act.

LII. That where any assessment shall have been imposed by the parochial board of any parish or combination, such assessment shall be payable at the time or times and in the proportions to be appointed by the parochial board; and no assessment shall be rendered void or affected by reason of any mistake or variance in the christian or surname or designation of any person liable thereunto, but all assessments shall be valid and effectual against the person intended to be charged, and bona fide made in payment of the same.

LIII. That where any property whatsoever, whether heritable or moveable, or any revenues, shall at the time of the passing of this Act belong to or be vested in the heritors and kirk session of any parish, or the magistrates, or magistrates and town council of any burgh, or commissioners, trustees, or other persons on behalf of the said heritors and kirk session, or magistrates, or magistrates and town council, under any Act of Parliament, or under any law or usage, or in virtue of gift, test, bequest, or otherwise, for the use or benefit of the poor of such parish or burgh, it shall, from and after a time to be fixed by the board of supervision, be lawful for the parochial board of each such parish, or of the combination in which such parish or burgh may be respectively, to receive and administer such property and revenues, and the right thereto shall be vested in the parochial board; and the said heritors and kirk session, magistrates, town council, commissioners, trustees, or other persons are hereby authorized and required either to continue to hold all such property and revenues for the behoof of such parochial board, or to make, grant, subscribe, and deliver such dispositions, assignments, and conveyances of all such property and revenues as may be necessary to enable such parochial board to administer the same for behoof of the poor of such parish or combination.

LIII. That all and every sums or sum of money or other funds which have been or may hereafter be given, mortified, or bequeathed for the use of the poor, and which shall become vested in the parochial board of any parish or combination, and whereof the annual proceeds are to be applied for behoof of the poor, shall, if not specially directed to be otherwise invested, be, without delay, either lodged in a chartered bank, or placed at interest on government or heritable security, or in the stock of one or more of the chartered banks in Edinburgh; and the board of supervision is hereby authorized and empowered to require returns to be made to them from time to time, as they shall deem expedient, as to all such money or funds.

LIV. That in all parishes in which it has been agreed that an assessment should be levied for the relief of the poor, all monies arising from the ordinary church collections shall, from and after the date on which such assessment shall have been imposed, belong to and be at the disposal of the kirk session of each parish: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be held to authorize the kirk session of any parish to apply the proceeds of such church collections to purposes other than those to which the same are now in whole or in part legally applicable, or to deprive the heritors of their right to examine the accounts of the kirk session, and to inquire into the manner in which the funds have been applied: Provided also, that the session clerk or other officer to be appointed by the kirk session shall be bound to report annually, or oftener, if required, to the board of supervision, as to the application of the monies arising from church collections, and if such session clerk or other officer shall refuse to make such report when required he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 5*l*.

LV. That the inspector of the poor in each parish or division of a parish for which he may be appointed shall have the custody of and be responsible for all books, writings, accounts, and other documents whatsoever relating to the management or relief of the poor in such parish or division of a parish, and it shall be the duty of the said inspector to inquire into and make himself acquainted with the particular circumstances of the case of each individual poor person receiving relief from the poor funds and to keep a register of all such persons, and of the sums paid to them, and of all persons who have applied for and been refused relief, and the grounds of refusal, and to visit and inspect personally, at least twice in the year, or oftener if required by the parochial board or board of supervision, at their places of residence, all the poor persons belonging to the parish or division of the parish in the receipt of parochial relief, provided that such poor persons be resident within five miles of any part of such parish or division of a parish, and to report to the parochial board and to the board of supervision upon all matter connected with the management of the poor, in conformity with the instructions which he may receive from the said board respectively, and to perform such other duties as the said boards may direct: Provided always, that in populous and extensive parishes or divisions of parishes the duties of inspecting and visiting the poor may be performed by assistant inspectors or other competent persons, to be appointed and paid by the parochial board for these duties, and for whose conduct and accuracy the inspector of the poor shall be responsible to the board of supervision.

LVI. That if any inspector of the poor shall fail or neglect or refuse to perform the duties of his office, or shall, in the opinion of the board of supervision, be unfit or incompetent to discharge the duties of his office, then it shall and may be lawful for the said board of supervision, by a minute or order, to suspend or dismiss such inspector; and the parochial board or the parish or combination for which such person is inspector shall forthwith proceed to appoint another person to perform the duties of inspector of the poor in the room of the inspector so suspended or dismissed.

LVII. That in case it shall be necessary to commence or institute any action by or on behalf of any parish or combination or parochial board for the relief of the poor, such action may be brought in the name of any inspector of the poor of such parish or combination as pursuer; and in any action to be brought against any parochial board it shall not be necessary to call the individual members of the parochial board as defenders, but it shall be lawful for the pursuer in such action to call any inspector of the poor of any such parish or combination, and such inspector shall be bound to appear and answer on behalf of the parochial board; and all summonses, notices, diligences, decrees, or other proceedings served or obtained or had against any inspector of the poor shall be binding on and conclusive against the parochial board of the parish or combination for which he is an inspector; and the parochial board shall have the entire direction and controul of every such action, although the same may be carried on in the name of the inspector.

LVIII. That all actions brought by or against any inspector of the poor in his official character shall be continued by or against his successors in office, notwithstanding the death, resignation, suspension, or removal of such inspector, upon notice given to such successor, without any action of transference.

LIX. That in every case in which any poor person who shall have become chargeable in any parish or combination shall be insane or fatuous, the parochial board of such parish or combination shall, within fourteen days from the time when such person is declared or known to be insane or fatuous, provide that such insane or fatuous person be conveyed to and lodged in an asylum or establishment legally authorized to receive lunatic patients; and the inspectors of the poor in every parish or combination shall and are hereby required to report without delay to the board of supervision all cases of insane or fatuous persons chargeable as paupers in their respective parishes; and the said board of supervision is hereby authorized and empowered, on any parochial board refusing or neglecting to provide for the removal of an insane or fatuous poor person to an asylum or establishment as aforesaid within the time hereinbefore specified, to take such measures as may be necessary for removing such insane or fatuous poor person to a lunatic asylum or establishment; and the whole expense of such removal and all subsequent expenses shall be recoverable from and defrayed by such parochial board: Provided always, that in special circumstances in particular cases it shall be lawful for the parochial board, with the consent of the board of supervision to dispense with the removal of insane or fatuous poor persons to a lunatic asylum or establishment, and to provide for them in such other manner and under such regulations as to inspection and otherwise as shall be sanctioned by the board of supervision.

And after reciting that for more effectually administering to the wants of the aged and other friendless impotent poor, and also for providing for those poor persons who from weakness or facility of mind, or by reason of dissipated and improvident habits, are unable or unfit to take charge of their own affairs, it is expedient that poorhouses should be erected in populous parishes;—

It is Enacted,

LX. That in every case in which a parish or combination of parishes contains more than five thousand inhabitants according to the enumeration of the population then last published by authority of Parliament, it shall be lawful for the parochial board of any such parish or combination to take into consideration the propriety of erecting a poorhouse for such parish or combination, or of altering or enlarging any existing poorhouse; and if after full time and opportunity given for deliberate consideration the said parochial board shall be satisfied of the propriety of erecting a poorhouse, or of enlarging any existing poorhouse, and shall come to a resolution to that effect, such resolution shall be forthwith reported to the board of supervision, and if approved of by the board of supervision the same shall be carried into execution by the said parochial board.

LXI. That, with the concurrence of the board of supervision had and obtained thereto, it shall be lawful for the parochial boards of any two or more contiguous parishes to agree to build a common poorhouse for such two or more parishes; and the expense of maintaining and erecting such poorhouse shall be borne by such parishes in such proportions as shall be agreed on by the parochial boards of the said parishes respectively: Provided always, that if any such agreement for the purpose of building a poorhouse has once been effected, it shall not be lawful for any one or more of the parishes to withdraw from such agreement without the consent of the board of supervision previously had and obtained.

LXII. That for the purpose of erecting new poorhouses, and for enlarging, altering, or repairing any existing poorhouse, the parochial board in any parish or combination is hereby authorized and empowered to borrow money; and for the more effectually securing the repayment of the sum borrowed, with interest, it shall be lawful for the said parochial board to burden or charge the future assessments for the poor in such parish or combination with the amount of the money so borrowed: Provided always, that the principal sum so borrowed shall in no case exceed three times the amount of the assessment raised for the relief of the poor during the year immediately preceding that in which the money is borrowed; and that any loan of money borrowed for the purposes aforesaid shall be repaid by annual instalments of not less in any one year than one-tenth of the sum borrowed, exclusive of the payment of the interest on the same: Provided also, that no further or other sum shall be borrowed or chargeable on the poor assessment for the purposes aforesaid until the whole of the money last borrowed, with interest on the same, shall have been paid off.

LXIII. That from and after the passing of this Act no new poorhouse shall be built, nor shall any existing poorhouse be enlarged or altered, nor shall it be lawful to impose an assessment or borrow money for such purposes, unless the plan of such new poorhouse, or of such proposed enlargements or alterations, shall have been submitted to and approved by the board of supervision, and signed, subscribed, or indorsed by at least three of the members of the said board in attestation of their approval.

LXIV. That in every case in which a poorhouse already exists, or shall be built or enlarged or altered under the provisions of this Act, the parochial board or boards shall frame rules and regulations for the management of such poorhouse, and for the discipline and treatment of the inmates thereof, and for the admission of any known minister of the religious persuasion of any inmate of such poorhouse, at all reasonable times, on the request of such inmate, for the purpose of affording religious assistance to such inmate, and shall submit such rules and regulations to the board of supervision for approval; and such rules or regulations shall be effectual, or shall be acted upon, except such as shall have been approved by the board of supervision.

LXV. That it shall be lawful for the parochial board of any parish or combination in which a poorhouse has been or shall hereafter be erected to receive and accommodate in such poorhouse poor persons belonging to any other parish, and to charge such rates for the maintenance of such poor persons as shall be approved by the board of supervision, and such poor persons shall be in all respects subject to the same discipline and treatment as the other inmates of the poorhouse in which they are accommodated.

LXVI. That in all cases in which poorhouses shall be erected or enlarged or altered, under the provisions of this Act, there shall be proper and sufficient arrangements made for dispensing and supplying medicines to the sick poor, under such regulations as the parochial board shall make, and the board of supervision shall approve; and there shall be provided by the parochial board proper medical attendance for the inmates of every such poorhouse, and for that purpose it shall be lawful for the parochial board to nominate and appoint a properly qualified medical man who shall give regular attendance at such poorhouse, and to fix a reasonable remuneration to be paid to him by such parochial board: Provided always, that if it shall appear to the board of supervision that such medical man is unfit or incompetent or neglects his duty, it shall be lawful for the board of supervision to suspend or remove such medical man from his appointment and attendance.

LXVII. That it shall be lawful for the parochial board in any parish or combination, for the benefit of the poor of such parish or combination, to contribute annually, or otherwise, such sums of money as to them may seem reasonable and expedient, from the funds raised for the relief of the poor, to any public infirmary, dispensary, or lying-in-hospital, or to any public asylum, or asylum for the blind or deaf and dumb.

LXVIII. That from and after the passing of this Act all assessments imposed and levied for the relief of the poor shall not be applicable to the relief of occasional as well as permanent poor: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be held to confer a right to demand relief on able-bodied persons out of employment.

LXIX. That in every parish or combination it shall and may be lawful for the parochial board and they are hereby required, of the funds raised for the relief of the poor, to provide for medicines, medical attendance, nutritious diet, cordials, and clothing for such poor, in such manner and to such extent as may seem equitable and expedient; and it shall be lawful for the parochial board to make provision for the education of poor children who are themselves or whose parents are objects of parochial relief.

LXX. That in every case in which a poor person in any parish or combination shall apply for parochial relief, the inspector of the poor, or other officer of such parish or combination whose duty it shall be to attend to such applications, shall be bound to make inquiry forthwith into the circumstances of the applicant, and shall, notwithstanding such poor person may not have a settlement in the parish or combination, if he be in other respects legally entitled to parochial relief, be bound to furnish him with sufficient means of subsistence until the next meeting of the parochial board, and such board shall continue to afford to such poor person such interim maintenance as may be adjudged necessary until the parish or combination to which such poor person belongs be ascertained, and his claim upon such parish or combination admitted or otherwise determined, or until he shall be removed; and every inspector of the poor, or other officer to whom application shall be made by or on behalf of any poor person for parochial relief, shall be bound to return an answer to such application within twenty-four hours from the time when it was made: Provided always, that if the necessary means of support are afforded to the applicant in the meantime, such inspector or other officer may delay giving a final answer to such application for any period which to him may seem necessary for prosecuting his inquiries: Provided also, that such poor person shall be bound to give to the inspector and parochial board of the parish or combination to which he has applied for relief all information and assistance which it is in his power to give for the purpose of ascertaining the parish or combination to which he belongs, and every other matter regarding his case which the inspector may desire to ascertain, and shall be bound to answer upon oath, if required, all such questions as may be put to him before any Justice of the Peace or magistrate, and in case of false swearing shall be liable to be prosecuted for perjury.

LXXI. That where in any case relief shall be afforded to a poor person found destitute in a parish or combination, it shall be lawful for the parochial board of such parish or combination to recover the monies expended in behalf of such poor person from any parish or combination within Scotland to which he may ultimately be found to belong, or from his parents or other persons who may be legally bound to maintain him: Provided always, that in all cases in which relief shall be afforded by one parish or combination to a poor person having a settlement in another parish or combination, written notice of such poor person having become chargeable shall be given to the inspector of the poor of the parish or combination to which such poor person belongs; and the parish or combination affording relief shall not be entitled to recover for any charges or expenses incurred in respect of such poor person, except from and after the date of such notice.

LXXII. That if within a reasonable time after notice the parish or combination to which such poor person shall as aforesaid have been ascertained to belong shall not remove such poor person, or shall not make provision to the satisfaction of the parish or combination which has given the notice for the constant weekly subsistence of such poor person, it shall be lawful for the parish or combination which has given the notice to cause such poor person to be removed to the parish or combination to which he belongs, at the expense of such last-mentioned parish or combination, unless such poor person shall, owing to sickness or infirmity, be incapable of being removed, in which case the parish or combination in which he is shall be bound to relieve him, and shall be entitled to recover from the parish or combination to which he belongs the amount so expended, provided that such amount does not exceed the rate expended for relief of other poor persons in the parish so relieving such poor person.

LXXIII. That if relief shall be refused to any poor person who shall have made application for relief, it shall and may be lawful for such poor person to apply to the sheriff of the county in which the parish or combination from which such poor person has claimed relief, or any portion of such parish or combination, is situate, and the said sheriff shall forthwith, if he be of opinion that such poor person is, upon the facts stated, legally entitled to relief, make an order upon the inspector of the poor, or other officer of such parish or combination, directing him to afford relief to such poor person in the meantime until such inspector or other officer shall, on or before a day to be appointed by the said sheriff, and to be intimated in the same order, give in a statement in writing shewing the reasons why the application of such poor person for relief was refused, which statement the said sheriff shall afterwards appoint to be answered, and shall, if required, nominate an agent to appear and answer on behalf of such poor person, and shall further, if necessary, direct a record to be made up, and a proof to be led by both parties; and it shall be lawful for the sheriff, if he shall see fit, to direct the interim support to such poor person to be continued until a final judgment shall have been pronounced on the merits of the case: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to enable the said sheriff to determine on the adequacy of the relief which may be afforded, or to interfere in respect of the amount of relief to be given in any individual case.

LXXIV. That in every case in which any poor person shall consider the relief granted him to be inadequate, such poor person shall lodge or cause to be lodged a complaint with the board of supervision, which board shall and is hereby required, without delay, to investigate the nature and grounds of the complaint; and if, upon inquiry, it shall appear that the grounds of such complaint are well founded, and if the same shall not be removed, then the said board shall by a minute declare that in the opinion of the board such poor person has a just cause of action against the parish or combination from which he claims relief, and a copy of such minute, certified and signified by the secretary, shall, if required, be delivered to such poor person, and upon the production or exhibition of such minute or certified copy thereof such poor person shall forthwith, and without any further proceedings, be entitled to the benefit of the poor's roll in the court of session; and it shall be lawful for the board of supervision, after any action has actually been commenced by or on behalf of such poor person, to award to him such interim alimony as to the said board shall seem just during the dependency of such action, which award the parochial board of every such parish or combination shall be bound to obey.

LXXV. Provided and enacted, That it shall not be competent for any court of law to entertain or decide any action relative to the amount of relief granted by parochial boards, unless the board of supervision shall previously have declared that there is a just cause of action as hereinbefore provided.

combination by residence therein unless such person shall have resided for five years continuously in such parish or combination, and shall have maintained himself without having recourse to common begging, either by himself or his family, and without having received or applied for parochial relief; and no person who shall have acquired a settlement by residence in any parish or combination shall be held to have retained such settlement if during any subsequent period of five years he shall not have resided in such parish or combination continuously for at least one year: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be held to affect those persons who, previous to the passing of this Act, shall have acquired a settlement by virtue of a residence of three years, and shall have become proper objects of parochial relief.

LXXVII. That if any poor person born in England, Ireland, or the Isle of Man, and not having acquired a settlement in any parish or combination in Scotland, shall be in the course of receiving parochial relief in any parish or combination in Scotland, then and in such case it shall be lawful for the sheriff or any two Justices of the Peace of the county in which such parish or any portion thereof is situate, and they are hereby authorized and required, upon complaint made by the inspector of the poor, or other officer appointed by the parochial board of such parish or combination, that such poor person has become chargeable to such parish or combination by himself or his family, to cause such person to be brought before them, and to examine such person or any witness, on oath, touching the place of the birth or last legal settlement of such person, and to take such other evidence or other measures as may by them be deemed necessary for ascertaining whether he has gained any settlement in Scotland; and if it shall be found by such sheriff or Justices that the person so brought before them was born either in England or Ireland or the Isle of Man, and has not gained any settlement in Scotland, and has actually become chargeable to the complaining parish or combination by himself or his family, then such sheriff or Justices shall and they are hereby empowered, by an order of removal under their hands, which order may be drawn up in the form of the Schedule (A.) hereunto annexed, to cause such poor person, his wife, and such of his children as may not have gained a settlement in Scotland, to be removed by sea or land, by and at the expense of the complaining parish, to England, or Ireland, or the Isle of Man respectively, according as such poor person shall belong to England, Ireland, or the Isle of Man: Provided always, that no person shall be so removed until there has been obtained a certificate on soul and conscience, by a regular medical practitioner, setting forth that the health of such person, his wife and children as aforesaid, is such as to admit of such removal: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any parochial board or their inspector from making arrangements for the due and proper removal of such poor persons either by land or water, provided the arrangement be made with the consent of such poor persons themselves.

LXXVIII. That every officer, constable, or other person to whom any such order of removal shall be delivered for the purpose of being carried into execution shall and may by virtue thereof detain and hold in safe custody every poor person mentioned in any such order until such poor person shall have arrived at the place to which he is ordered to be removed, and shall and may for that purpose, in every county and place through which he shall pass in the due execution of such order, have and exercise the powers with which a constable is by law invested, notwithstanding such person may not otherwise be empowered to act as a constable for the county or place respectively through which he may have occasion to pass in carrying such order into execution, and although such order may not have been granted or backed by any Judge or magistrate of such county or place.

LXXIX. That if any person who has been removed to England, or Ireland, or the Isle of Man from any parish or combination in Scotland, under any order of removal, shall afterwards return to Scotland and apply for relief, or again become chargeable by himself or his family to the same parish or combination without having obtained a settlement therein, such person shall be deemed to be a vagabond under the provisions of an Act of the Scottish Parliament, 1579, c. 74, intitled 'An Act for Punishment of straggling and idle Beggars, and Relief of the pure and impotent,' and may be apprehended and prosecuted criminally before the sheriff of the county in which such parish or any portion thereof is situate, at the instance of the inspector of the poor of the parish to which he shall have so applied for relief or become chargeable, and shall upon conviction be punishable by imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for such a period as the said sheriff shall think proper, not exceeding two months.

LXXX. That every husband or father who shall desert or neglect to maintain his wife or children, being able so to do, and every mother and every putative father of an illegitimate child, after the paternity has been admitted or otherwise established, who shall refuse or neglect to maintain such child, being able so to do, whereby such wife or children or child shall become chargeable to any parish or combination, shall be deemed to be a vagabond under the provisions of the aforesaid Act of the Scottish Parliament, 1579, c. 74, and may be prosecuted criminally before the sheriff of the county in which such parish or combination or any portion thereof is situate, at the instance of the inspector of the poor of such parish or combination, and shall upon conviction be punishable by fine or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, at the discretion of the said sheriff.

LXXXI. That every penalty or forfeiture imposed by this Act, the recovery of which is not otherwise provided for, may be recovered by summary proceeding upon complaint in writing made in the name of the secretary to the board of supervision, or of any agent to be appointed by a minute of the said board, to the sheriff of the county in which the offence shall have been committed, or to the sheriff of any county in which the offender may be found; and on such complaint being made such sheriff shall issue a warrant for bringing the party complained against before him, or shall issue an order requiring the party complained against to appear on a day and at a time and place to be named in such order; and every such order shall be served on the party offending either in person or by leaving with some inmate at his usual place of abode a copy of such order, and of the complaint whereupon the same has proceeded; and either upon the appearance or upon the default to appear of the party offending it shall be lawful for the sheriff to proceed to the hearing of the complaint, and upon proof of the offence, either by the confession of the party complained against or other legal evidence, and without any written pleadings or record of evidence, to convict the offender, and upon such conviction to decern and adjudge the offender to pay the penalty or forfeiture incurred, as well as such expenses as the sheriff shall think fit, and to grant warrant for imprisoning the offender until such penalty or forfeiture and expenses shall be paid: Provided always, that such warrant shall specify the amount of such penalty or forfeiture and expenses, and shall also specify a period at the expiration of which the party shall be discharged, notwithstanding such penalty or forfeiture or expenses shall not have been paid, and shall in no case exceed three calendar months.

LXXXII. That the sheriff by whom any penalty or forfeiture shall be imposed by virtue of this Act, the application whereof is not herein otherwise provided for, shall award such penalty or forfeiture to the poor of the parish or combination in which the offence shall have been committed, and shall order the same to be paid over to the inspector of the poor or other officer for that purpose; provided that no person shall be liable to the payment of any penalty or forfeiture imposed by virtue of this Act unless such penalty or forfeiture shall have been prosecuted for within six months after the commission of the offence for which it has been incurred.

LXXXIII. That no inhabitant or other person liable to be assessed for the relief of the poor in any parish shall be deemed an incompetent witness in any proceeding for the recovery of any penalty or forfeiture inflicted or imposed for any offence against this Act, notwithstanding such penalty, when recovered, shall be applicable as aforesaid.

LXXXIV. That if any person who shall be summoned as a witness to give evidence before any sheriff in any matter in which such sheriff shall have jurisdiction under the provisions of this Act shall, without reasonable excuse, refuse or neglect to appear at the time and place appointed for that purpose, or appearing shall refuse to be examined upon oath or to give evidence before such sheriff, every such person shall forfeit a sum not exceeding 5*l.* for every such offence, over and above any other punishment to which such person may by law be liable for every such refusal.

LXXXV. That no proceeding for the recovery of penalties or forfeitures in pursuance of this Act shall be set aside for want of form, or on the ground of no record having been made, nor shall the same be removed by suspension, advocacy, appeal, or otherwise into or be in any manner subject to review or reduction by any superior court.

LXXXVI. That all actions on account of anything done in the execution of this Act shall be brought before the sheriff court, and every such action shall be commenced within three calendar months after the fact committed, and notice in writing of such action, and of the cause thereof, shall be given to the defender one calendar month at least before the commencement of the action; and no pursuer shall recover in any action for irregularity or wrongful proceedings if tender of sufficient amends shall be made by or on behalf of the party who shall have committed or caused to be committed any such irregularity or wrongful proceedings before such action shall have been brought, or if during the dependence of such action a tender shall be made of sufficient amends, and of all charges and expenses which the pursuer may already at the time of such tender being made have incurred in prosecuting such action.

LXXXVII. That in case any parochial board shall refuse or neglect to do what is herein or otherwise by law required of them, or in case any obstruction shall arise in the execution of this Act, it shall be lawful for the said board of supervision to apply by summary petition to the court of session, or, during the vacation of the said court, to the Lord Ordinary on the Bills, which Court and Lord Ordinary are hereby authorized and directed in such case to do therein as to such Court or Lord Ordinary shall seem just and necessary.

LXXXVIII. That the whole powers and right of issuing summary warrants and proceedings, and all remedies and provisions enacted for collecting, levying, and recovering the land and assessed taxes, or either of them, and other public taxes, shall be held to be applicable to assessments imposed for the relief of the poor; and the sheriffs, magistrates, Justices of the Peace, and other Judges may grant the like warrants for the recovery of all such assessments in the same form and under the same penalties as is provided in regard to such land and assessed taxes and other public taxes: Provided always, that it shall nevertheless be competent to prosecute for and recover such assessments by action in the sheriff's small debt court; and all assessments for the relief of the poor shall, in case of bankruptcy or insolvency, be paid out of the first proceeds of the estate, and shall be preferable to all other debts of a private nature due by the parties assessed.

LXXXIX. That if the parochial board of any parish or combination shall find it necessary in any year or half year to make disbursements for the relief of the poor beyond the amount received of the assessment applicable to the expenditure of such year or half year, it shall be competent for such board to borrow money on the security of such part of the assessment as is still due and unreceived, but not to an amount greater than one half of such part of such assessment; and when any money has been so borrowed as aforesaid on the security of assessments, it shall not be competent to borrow on the security of any future assessment until the money borrowed as aforesaid shall have been paid off.

XC. That in all cases in which by the provision of this Act notice or intimation is required to be given without prescribing the particular form of the notice, or the manner in which the same is to be given, it shall be lawful for the board of supervision from time to time to fix the form of such notice or intimation, and the manner in which the same is to be given.

XCI. That all laws, statutes, and usages shall be and the same are hereby repealed, in so far as they are at variance or inconsistent with the provisions of this Act; provided always, that the same shall continue in force in all other respects: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall be held to affect or repeal an Act, 7 & 8 Vict. c. vi, intitled 'An Act for the Liquidation of the Debt owing by the Charity Workhouse of the City of Edinburgh,' in so far as such Act relates to that debt, and the powers thereby conferred for paying off the same.

XCII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

CAP. LXXXIV.

AN ACT to repeal the several Laws relating to the Customs.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Commencement of Act.
2. Acts repealed, except as to duties due, penalties incurred, or offences committed.
3. All Orders in Council, bonds, and licences, and all acts done under repealed Acts, to be valid, notwithstanding the repeal.

By this Act,

After reciting that several Acts were passed, 3 & 4 Will. 4, for consolidating the laws relating to the Customs and to navigation: And that since the passing of those Acts divers Acts for the amendment of them have been found necessary: And that it is expedient again to consolidate the said laws, and therefore that all the said Acts should be repealed;—

It is Enacted,

i. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and effect for all the purposes therein mentioned.

ii. That the several Acts hereinafter mentioned shall be repealed:—11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 45; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 51; & 4 Will. 4. c. 52; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 53; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 54; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 55; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 56; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 57; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 58; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 59; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 60; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 61; 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 13; 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 89; 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 56; 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 66; 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 60; 1 & 2 Vict. c. 113; 5 & 6 Vict. c. 47; 5 & 6 Vict. c. 49; 5 & 6 Vict. c. 56; 6 & 7 Vict. c. 84; 7 & 8 Vict. c. 16; 7 & 8 Vict. c. 43; 8 & 9 Vict. c. 12; 8 & 9 Vict. c. 45; and the said several Acts before mentioned are hereby accordingly repealed, except so far as the said Acts or any of them repeal any former Act or Acts or any part of such Act or Acts, and except so far as relates to any arrears of duty, or to any drawbacks which shall have become due and payable, or to any penalty or forfeiture which shall have been incurred under the said Act or Acts hereby repealed, or any of them, or to any offence which shall have been committed contrary to such Act or Acts, or any of them.

iii. It is enacted and declared, That all orders made by Her Majesty in Council, or under the authority of any of the Acts hereby repealed, or of any other Act relating to the Customs or to trade or navigation, and all bonds taken or licences granted under the authority of any such Act or Acts, and all acts whatsoever done under the authority or in pursuance of any such Act or Acts, shall be valid and effectual, notwithstanding the Act or Acts under the authority of which such orders shall have been made or such bonds shall have been taken and licences granted, and such acts shall have been done, may be repealed.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 51, whereby the laws in relation to the management of the Customs were consolidated: And that since the passing of the said Act divers parts of Acts for the further amendment of the law in the respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country that the said Acts and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act;—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force for all the purposes mentioned therein, except where any other commencement is herein particularly directed.

II. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time to appoint, under the great seal of the United Kingdom, any number of persons not exceeding thirteen to be Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for the collection and for the management of the Customs in and throughout the whole of the United Kingdom, and of any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad, and that each of such Commissioners, when so appointed, shall have and hold his office during Her Majesty's pleasure.

III. That the said Commissioners so appointed or to be appointed by Her Majesty shall, in all matters and things relating to the execution of their duties, be subject to the authority, directions, and controul of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and shall obey such orders and instructions as shall from time to time be issued to them by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury under the hands of three or more of them.

IV. That every order, document, instrument, or writing, not being for the payment of money, required by any law at any time in force to be under the hands or under the hands and seals of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, being attested by the hands or the hands and seals of two or more of such Commissioners, and every such order for the payment of money being attested by the signatures of three or more of such Commissioners, shall be deemed to be an order, document, instrument, or writing under the hands or under the hands and seals, as the case may be, of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs accordingly.

v. That any appointment of Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs in force at the time of the commencement of this Act shall continue in force as if the same had been afterwards made under and by virtue of the authority of this Act.

vi. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, under the authority of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to appoint proper persons to execute the duties of the several offices necessary to the due management and collection of the Customs, and all matters connected therewith, under the controul and direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and to grant or allow to such persons such salaries or other allowances, or to permit such emoluments, for the labour and responsibility in executing the duties of their respective offices or employments, and to require of such persons such securities for their good conduct therein, as the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall deem to be reasonable and necessary; and such persons shall hold their offices during the will and pleasure of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, in such cases and in such manner as the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct.

vii. That every person employed on any duty or service relating to the Customs by the orders or with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs (whether previously or subsequently expressed) shall be deemed to be the officer of the Customs for that duty or service; and that every act, matter, or thing required by any law at any time in force to be done or performed by, to, or with any particular officer nominated in such law for such purpose, being done or performed by, to, or with any person appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to act for or in behalf of such particular officer, the same shall be deemed to be done or performed by, to, or with such particular officer; and that every act, matter, or thing required by any law at any time in force to be done or performed at any particular place within any port, being done, or performed at any place within such port appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for such purpose, the same shall be deemed to be done or performed at the particular place so required by law.

viii. That if any officer, clerk, or other person acting in any office or employment in or belonging to the Customs under the controul and direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs in any part of Her Majesty's dominions shall take or receive any fee, perquisite, gratuity, or reward, whether pecuniary or of any other sort or description whatever, directly or indirectly, from any person (not being a person duly appointed to some office in the Customs), on account of anything done or to be done by him in or in any way relating to his said office or employment, except such as he shall receive under any order or permission of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, every such officer so offending shall, on proof thereof to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, be dismissed from his office; and if any person (not being a person duly appointed to some office in the Customs) shall give, offer, or promise to give any such fee, perquisite, gratuity, or reward, such person shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

ix. That all commissions, deputations, and appointments granted to any officers of the Customs in force at the time of the commencement of this Act shall continue in force as if the same had been afterwards granted under and by virtue of the authority of this Act; and that all bonds which shall have been given by any such officers and their respective sureties, for good conduct or otherwise, shall remain in full force and effect.

x. That every person who shall be appointed to any office or employment in the service of the Customs under the controul and direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs in any part of Her Majesty's dominions shall, at their respective admissions thereto, make the following declaration; (that is to say,)

I, A. B. do declare, That I will be true and faithful in the Execution, to the best of my Knowledge and Power, of the Trust committed to my Charge and Inspection in the Service of Her Majesty's Customs; and that I will not require, take, or receive any Fee, Perquisite, Gratuity, or Reward, whether pecuniary or of any Sort or Description whatever, either directly or indirectly, for any Service, Act, Duty, Matter, or Thing done or performed or to be done or performed in the Execution or Discharge of any of the Duties of my Office or Employment, on any Account whatever, other than my Salary, and what is or shall be allowed me by Law, or by any special Order of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for the Time being.

xi. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by their warrant from time to time to appoint the hours of general attendance of the Commissioners and respective officers of the Customs, and other persons in the service of the Customs, at their proper offices and places of employment; and that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to appoint the times during such hours at which any particular parts of the duties of such officers and other persons respectively shall be performed by them.

xii. That no Commissioner of Her Majesty's Customs, nor any officer of Customs, or person employed in the collection management or accounting for the revenue of Customs, or any part thereof, nor any clerk or other person acting under him, shall, during the time of his acting as such Commissioner or as such officer, or of his being so employed as aforesaid, of his acting as such clerk, or other person as aforesaid, as the case may be, be compelled to serve as a mayor, or sheriff, or any corporate or parochial or other public office or employment, or to serve on any jury or inquest, or in the militia, by law, usage, or custom to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

xiii. That no day shall be kept as a public holiday by the Customs except Christmas Day and Good Friday in every year, and any days appointed by Her Majesty's proclamation for the purpose of a general fast or of a general thanksgiving, and as far as regards Scotland, any days appointed for such purposes by authority of the General Assembly, and also such days as shall have been appointed for the celebration of the birthdays of Her Majesty and of her successors, and that such days shall be kept as public holidays by the officers and servants of the dock companies in the United Kingdom.

xiv. That the collector of the Customs in the port of London shall pay into the hands of the receiver general of the Customs the whole of the monies which he shall receive on account of the duties of Customs on the day on which he shall receive the same, or as near the whole as may be, save and except such sum or sums of money as shall from time to time, by virtue of the special order of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, be directed to be deducted, paid, or allowed therefrom.

xv. That every sum of money which shall be due in the port of London upon any debenture, certificate, or other instrument or document whatever for the payment of any money out of the duties of Customs shall be paid by the receiver general of the Customs out of any money in his hands arising from the duties of Customs, and every such payment shall be allowed by the Commissioners for the better examining and auditing the public accounts of this kingdom, in the settling or auditing of the accounts of the receiver general of the Customs; and when any such payment shall become due at any other port in the United Kingdom, the same may be paid by the collector at such port, the comptroller being duly apprised thereof, out of any of the money in his hands arising from the duties of Customs, and under such directions and instructions for the due execution of their offices as shall from time to time be given to them by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

xvi. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs finally to settle and close the accounts of any collectors or receivers of any part of the revenue of the Customs or other duties under their management, notwithstanding any erroneous appropriation of any duties of Customs received by such collectors or receivers; and the said Commissioners are hereby empowered to correct such appropriation, in order to prevent the accounts of any such collectors or receivers from being kept open; and all such corrections shall be allowed by the Commissioners for auditing the Public Accounts in the passing the general accounts of Customs, subsidies, or impositions.

xvii. That all salaries, allowances, or compensations granted or allowed to any officer, clerk, or other person in the service of the Customs shall be paid without any abatement or deduction on account of any duties imposed by any Act of Parliament, unless expressly charged thereon, save and except all duties imposed by any Act for granting duties on profits arising from property, professions, trades, and offices.

And after reciting that it is expedient that regulations should be established by law in the office of the receiver general of the Customs in England for depositing in the Bank of England all the monies, bills, drafts, and notes received by such receiver general on account of the revenue under the management of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, except as hereinafter mentioned, until the same shall be paid into the Exchequer;—

xviii. That all monies, bills, notes, and drafts received by or coming to the hands of the receiver general of the Customs in England on account of the revenue of Customs in Great Britain, shall be paid by him into the hands of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England; (that is to say,) such monies and notes, and such of the bills and drafts as shall be already accepted, or shall not require acceptance, having been first duly indorsed, shall be paid as aforesaid on the day on which the same shall have been received, and such of the bills and drafts as shall require acceptance, and not be already accepted when received, (the same having been first duly indorsed where necessary,) within three days after the same shall have been accepted, for which monies, bills, notes and drafts the entry in the book hereinafter mentioned shall be a sufficient discharge; and all such monies, bills, notes and drafts so to be paid to the Governor and Company of the Bank of England shall be placed to an account to be raised in the books of the said Governor and Company, and to be intitled "The Account of the Public Monies of the Receiver General of Customs," inserting the name of such receiver general for the time being.

xix. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for such receiver general to retain and keep in his own hands, for the payment of casual and ordinary and daily demands out of the monies so received by him as such receiver general, a sum not exceeding 1,000*l.* at the close of each day, and also any further sum which he shall be directed to retain by the said Commissioners, not exceeding 4,000*l.*, and also any further sum, with the permission in writing of any three or more of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

xx. That the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, or some person duly authorized in that behalf, shall daily upon receiving any money, bills, notes, or drafts from such receiver general of the Customs, make an entry of the money, bills, notes, and drafts so received, in a book to be provided by the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, which book shall be forthwith re-delivered to the persons making the payments for the Customs, and inspected daily after its return by the Comptroller General of the Customs or his clerk, (such clerk being first duly authorized by him, and whose conduct he shall be answerable,) who shall compare the same with the account of monies, bills, notes, and drafts received by the said receiver general, for the purpose of ascertaining that the receiver general constantly pays into the Bank all the money, bills, notes, and drafts which he ought to do under the provisions of this Act; and any default which such comptroller general or his clerk may discover in that behalf shall be immediately reported by him to the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, who shall report the same, unless it shall appear to them to have happened by mistake or inadvertence, to the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

xxi. That the monies placed to the account of the receiver general as aforesaid in the Bank of England shall be paid into the Exchequer from time to time as by law is directed, in manner following; that is to say, the receiver general or his clerk duly authorized by him for that purpose, and for whose conduct therein he shall be answerable, shall make an order weekly upon the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, which order shall be countersigned by the comptroller general or his clerk, to write off from his account the sum specified; and the said Governor and Company or some person duly authorized on their behalf, shall thereupon write off such sum, and deliver a note, drawn and cancelled in such manner as shall be approved by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, for the amount, to the receiver general or his clerk, who shall pay the same into the Exchequer, and the bank clerks attending there shall receive it as so much cash; and it shall not be lawful for the Governor and Company of the Bank of England to pay or transfer any part of the money so paid in and placed to the account of such receiver general from such account, otherwise than into the Exchequer in manner aforesaid, and except in the manner hereinafter directed, or to deliver any note or notes, bill or bills of exchange, save and except to the solicitor of the Customs or his clerk, upon his application for the same, together with the receiver general or his clerk, and the comptroller general or his clerk, for the sole purpose of taking out an extent for the security of the money for which such bill of exchange or draft shall have been given, or to the said receiver general or his clerk, any bills, notes or drafts which may be protested for non-payment, except as hereinafter is mentioned, in which case the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall be immediately acquainted therewith, if sitting, by such solicitor, receiver general or comptroller general, or, if not sitting, at the time of their assembling; and such delivery shall be entered by the Bank in the book to be kept as herein directed.

XXII. That in order that the several payments directed by order of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to be made by the said receiver general to merchants or any other persons on account of drawbacks or bounties, or on any other account whatever, may be made without delay, and for the payment of which the money then in the hands of the said receiver general shall be insufficient, it shall be lawful for the said receiver general, or his clerk deputed and authorized by him for that purpose, and for whose conduct therein he shall be answerable, to draw out of the Bank of England, as occasion may require, such sum or sums of money as may be sufficient to answer the purpose aforesaid; and that every draft or order on the Bank for money for any of the said purposes shall be countersigned by the comptroller general, or his clerk to be deputed and authorized by him for that purpose, and for whose conduct therein he shall be answerable; and that the said receiver general shall from time to time account for the monies so to be drawn by him or his clerk out of the Bank.

And in order that separate accounts may be kept at the Exchequer of the monies paid in on various branches of the Customs pursuant to law;—

It is Enacted,

XXIII. That the said receiver general of the Customs shall, on every Monday morning, furnish the proper officers of the Exchequer with an appropriation paper, stating the heads under which the receipts of the preceding week are to be applied.

XXIV. That upon the death, resignation, or removal of the present and of every other receiver general of the Customs hereafter to be appointed, the balance of cash for which he shall at that time have credit on his account as such receiver general with the Governor and Company of the Bank of England shall, as soon as a successor shall be appointed to the said office, actually vest in such successor, and until such successor shall be appointed in such person or persons as shall for the time being be duly authorized to execute the duties of the said office, in trust for the service of the public, and be forthwith transferred, carried over, and placed to the account of such successor or other person or persons as aforesaid, to be applied to the said service in pursuance of the like drafts and orders as aforesaid.

XXV. That the receiver general of the Customs for the time being shall keep the account with the Bank of all monies issued by and paid to the Bank on his account for the service of the public; and the said receiver general, observing the rules and regulations hereby prescribed, shall not be answerable for any money, bills, notes, and drafts which he shall have so paid or caused to be paid into the Bank of England; and the Governor and Company of the Bank of England shall be answerable for all the monies, bills, notes, and drafts which shall be actually received by them from and on account of such receiver general as aforesaid, except such bills as may have been returned in manner aforesaid.

XXVI. That if any person or persons shall knowingly and wilfully forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be forged or counterfeited, or knowingly and wilfully act or assist in forging or counterfeiting, the name or handwriting of any receiver general of the Customs, or of any comptroller general of the Customs, or of any person acting for them respectively as aforesaid, to any draft, instrument, or writing whatsoever, for or in order to the receiving or obtaining any of the money in the hands or custody of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England on account of the receiver general of the Customs, or shall forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be forged or counterfeited, or knowingly and wilfully act or assist in the forging or counterfeiting, any draft, instrument, or writing in form of a draft, made by such receiver general or person as aforesaid, or shall utter or publish any such, knowing the same to be forged or counterfeited, with an intention to defraud any person whomsoever, every such person or persons so offending, being thereof lawfully convicted, shall be and is and are hereby declared and adjudged to be guilty of felony, and shall be transported beyond the seas for life.

XXVII. That in all cases wherein proof on oath shall be required by any law, or for the satisfaction or consideration of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, in any matter relating to any business under their management, the same may be made before the collector or comptroller of the Customs at the port where such proof shall be required to be made, or before the persons acting for them respectively, and who are hereby authorized and empowered to administer the same.

XXVIII. That upon examinations and inquiries made by any Commissioners of her Majesty's Customs, or any one or more of them for the time being, or by any surveyor general of the Customs, or any inspector general of the Customs, for ascertaining the truth of facts relative to the Customs, or the conduct of officers or persons employed therein, and upon the like examinations and inquiries made by the collector and comptroller of any outport in the United Kingdom, or of any port in the Isle of Man, or made by any person or persons in any of the British possessions abroad, appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to make such examinations and inquiries, any person examined before him or them as a witness shall deliver his testimony on oath, to be administered by such of the said Commissioners, surveyors general, or such of the inspectors general, or such collector or comptroller, or such person or persons as shall examine any such witness, and who are hereby authorized to administer such oath; and if any person shall be convicted of making a false oath touching any of the facts so testified on oath, or of giving false evidence on his examination on oath before any one or more of the said Commissioners, or any of the surveyors general or inspectors general of the Customs, or such collector and comptroller, or such person or persons, in conformity to the directions of this Act, every such person so convicted as aforesaid shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be liable to the pains and penalties to which persons are liable for wilful and corrupt perjury.

xxix. That all manors, messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments which have heretofore been purchased, acquired, or taken for the use and service of Her Majesty's Customs, together with the rights, members, easements, and appurtenances to the same respectively belonging, (other than and except such messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments as may be of copyhold tenure,) shall be and become and remain and continue vested in the secretary for the time being to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and his respective successors as secretaries in such service, according to the respective nature and quality of the said manors, messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, and the several estates and interests of and in the same respectively, in trust for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, for the use and service of Her Majesty's Customs in the said United Kingdom.

xxx. That all other manors, messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments (other than and except as aforesaid) which shall at any time or times hereafter be purchased for the use and service of Her Majesty's Customs, with the rights, members, easements, and appurtenances to the same respectively belonging, shall in like manner be and become and remain and continue vested in the secretary for the time being to the said Commissioners, and his successors as secretaries in such service, according to the respective nature and quality of the said manors, messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, and the several estates and interests of and in the same respectively, in trust as aforesaid.

xxxi. That it shall and may be lawful for the said secretary for the time being, by and under the authority and direction of the said Commissioners (testified by writing under their hands and seals), to sell, exchange, or in any manner dispose of, or to let, set, or demise, as well any of the freehold and leasehold manors, messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments respectively which shall for the time being be vested in them respectively under and by virtue of this present Act, with their respective appurtenances, as also any of the copyhold messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments which shall have been surrendered to and vested in any person or persons, and his, her, or their heirs and assigns, in trust for Her said Majesty, or any of her predecessors, his, her, or their heirs or successors, for the use and service of Her Majesty's Customs in the said United Kingdom, or any of them, either by public auction or private contract; and as to the said freehold and leasehold manors, messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the said secretary for the time being, and as to the said copyhold messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the said person or persons in whom the same shall be vested as aforesaid, in due form of law, to convey, surrender, assign, make over, or to grant or demise the same respectively, or any of them, as the case may require, to any person or persons who shall be willing to purchase or take the same respectively, and also to carry into execution any contract or contracts already entered into for the sale of any such freehold, copyhold, or leasehold messuages, lands, tenements, or hereditaments as aforesaid, with such alterations or variations as the said Commissioners for the time being, or any two or more of them, shall by writing under their hands direct, and for that purpose to make and execute all such conveyances, assurances, and agreements as may be thought proper, and also to do any other act, matter, or thing in relation to any such manors, messuages, buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments which shall by the said Commissioners be deemed beneficial for the public service in relation thereto, or for the better management thereof, and which might be done by any person or persons, having a like interest in any such manors, messuages, lands, tenements, or hereditaments.

xxxii. That the monies to arise and be produced by sales or exchange of any of the said manors, messuages, lands, tenements, or hereditaments which shall be sold or exchanged, or conveyed under the provisions of this present Act, including the monies already paid by way of deposit for the purchase of any hereditaments already contracted to be sold, and the residue of the monies to be received in respect or on account of such contract, shall be paid by the respective purchaser or purchasers thereof, or the person or persons making such exchange, under the receiver general of Her Majesty's Customs for the time being, or to such person or persons as the said Commissioners for the time being, or any four or more of them, shall direct or appoint to receive the same, in trust for Her Majesty, her heirs, and successors, for the use and service of the said Customs; and that the receipt of the said receiver general, or such other person or persons as aforesaid, for such monies (such receipt to be indorsed on every such conveyance, surrender, or assignment as aforesaid), shall effectually discharge the purchaser or purchasers or person or persons by whom or on whose account the same shall be so paid.

xxxiii. That immediately from and after the payment of such purchase-money, and the execution of every such conveyance, surrender, and assignment as aforesaid, the purchaser or purchasers therein named shall be deemed and adjudged to stand seised and possessed of the manors, messuages, lands, tenements, and hereditaments which shall be so purchased by, and conveyed, surrendered, assigned, or made over to him, her or them respectively, freed and absolutely discharged of and from all and all manner of prior estates, leases, rights, titles, interests, charges, incumbrances, and demands whatsoever which can or may be had, made, or set up in, to, out of, or upon or in respect of the same manors, messuages, lands, tenements and hereditaments by any person or persons whomsoever, by, from, or under, or in trust for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, on any account whatsoever, save and except such estates, leases, rights, titles, interests, charges, incumbrances, claims, and demands, if any, as in any such conveyance, surrender, or assignment shall be excepted.

xxxiv. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being, from time to time, by any writing under their hands, to authorize any person or persons to survey and mark out any lands, not exceeding one half acre at any one station, which are or may be wanted for the purposes of erecting and maintaining watch-houses, dwelling-houses, and other buildings requisite and necessary for the security and protection of the revenues of Customs and Excise, with all necessary ways unto and from the same or any or either of them, such lands being situated within half a mile of the sea shore or of the tideway of any navigable river, and to authorize any person or persons, by warrant as aforesaid, to treat and agree with the owner or owners of or any person or persons interested in any such lands, or any messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises which may be requisite and necessary as aforesaid, for the possession thereof for such time or term of years as the public service shall require.

xxxv. That it shall be lawful for all bodies politic or corporate, ecclesiastical or civil, and all feoffees or trustees for charitable or other public purposes, and for all tenants for life and tenants in tail, and for the husbands, guardians, trustees, committees, curators, or attorneys of such of the owners or proprietors of or persons interested in any such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises required for such public service as shall be females covert, infants, lunatics, idiots, or persons beyond the seas or otherwise incapable of acting for themselves, to contract and agree with such person or persons authorized as aforesaid for the grant of any lease of such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises, either for any term of years certain therein, or for such periods as the public service shall require, and to demise or grant the same unto the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in trust for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, accordingly; and all such leases and agreements shall be valid and effectual in law to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

XXXVI. That in case any such bodies or other persons hereby authorized to contract on behalf of themselves or others as aforesaid, or any other person or persons interested in any such lands so marked out, or in any messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises required as aforesaid, shall, for the space of fourteen days next after notice in writing subscribed by such person or persons authorized as aforesaid, shall have been given to the principal officer or officers of any such body, or to such other persons hereby authorized to contract on behalf of others, or interested themselves as aforesaid, or left at his, her, or their usual place of abode, refuse or decline to treat or agree, or by reason of absence shall be prevented from treating or agreeing with such person or persons authorized as aforesaid, or shall refuse to accept such annual rent or sum as shall be offered for the hire thereof, either for a time certain or for such period as the public service may require; and in case also it shall not be practicable to procure by voluntary bargain or sale any other land situate as aforesaid, or any messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises required, as aforesaid, and suited to the purpose for which such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises are required, then and in such case it shall be lawful for two or more Justices, or three or more deputy lieutenants (one of whom shall be a Justice of the Peace), or two or more deputy governors, for the county, riding, stewardry, city, or place wherein such lands, tenements, hereditaments, messuages, or premises shall be, to put Her Majesty's officers in possession of such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises, and for that purpose to issue a warrant under their hands and seals requiring possession to be delivered to such of Her Majesty's officers as shall be named in the said warrant; and it shall also be lawful for such person or persons so authorized as aforesaid to require the said Justices, deputy lieutenants, or deputy governors of such county, riding, stewardry, city, liberty, or place to issue their warrant to the sheriff or sheriffs of the county, riding, stewardry, city, or place wherein such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises shall be situate, to summon a jury; and every such sheriff or sheriffs is and are hereby authorized and required to summon and return a jury, properly qualified, of the number of twenty-four, and in manner required by the laws of England, Ireland, and Scotland respectively, who shall meet at some convenient time and place to be mentioned in such summons, out of whom a jury of twelve shall be drawn in such manner as juries for the trial of issues joined in Her Majesty's courts at Westminster and Dublin are drawn by law in England or Ireland respectively, and in such manner as juries are drawn by law for the trial of offences in Scotland, and in case a sufficient number shall not appear the sheriff or sheriffs shall choose others of the by-standers, or that can speedily be procured, being qualified as aforesaid; and the said jurymen may be challenged by the parties on either side, but not the array; and the said Justices, deputy lieutenants, or deputy governors respectively, on the application of the said persons so authorized or of any parties concerned, may and shall summon witnesses, and adjourn any such meeting, if jurymen or witnesses do not attend; and the jury, on hearing any witnesses and evidence that may be produced, shall on their oaths (which oaths, as also the oaths of such witnesses, the said Justices, deputy lieutenants, or deputy governors respectively are hereby empowered and required to administer), find the compensation to be paid for the possession or use of such lands, as the case may be.

XXXVII. Provided and enacted, That if the owner or owners of any lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises so required, or any person or persons interested therein, shall at any time before the summoning of such jury as aforesaid give notice in writing of any other lands situate as aforesaid, and of any other messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises so required as aforesaid, and suited to the purpose for which such lands are required, and which the owner or owners thereof or persons interested therein are willing to treat and agree for, then and in such case the jury so to be summoned shall previously find the facts, whether the lands so indicated in such notice are situate within the distance aforesaid, and are suited to the purpose for which such lands, tenements, hereditaments, messuages, or premises may be required, and whether the owner or owners thereof or persons interested therein are willing to treat and agree for the same; and if they shall so find, the owner or owners of or persons interested in the lands so surveyed or marked out as aforesaid, or of the messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises so required, shall not be compellable by virtue of this Act to sell or dispose of the same: provided also, that where the owner or owners of or persons interested in any lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises required by virtue of this Act to be given up for the purposes aforesaid shall prefer to sell the same outright, and shall be able to make a good title to the fee simple thereof, it shall be lawful for them to insist on so doing; and in such case the jury so summoned as aforesaid shall find the value of the fee simple of such lands, tenements, messuages, hereditaments, or premises, and the same shall be paid to the owner or owners thereof or persons interested therein in the manner directed by this Act.

XXXVIII. Provided and enacted, That if the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any person interested therein, shall be dissatisfied with the verdict of any such jury, it shall be lawful for them or their attorneys in England and Ireland to apply to the Court of Exchequer at Westminster or Dublin respectively in the next term, and in Scotland to apply within fourteen days after the finding any such verdict to the Court of Session in Scotland in time of session, or Lord Ordinary on the hills in time of vacation, to suggest to the said Courts or Lord Ordinary respectively that they have reason to be dissatisfied with such verdict, and forthwith to give notice thereof to the said Commissioners or party (as the case may be); and thereupon in England and Ireland the proceedings that shall have been had, and the verdict of such jury, shall be returned into the said Courts of Exchequer respectively; and if it shall appear to the said Courts to be proper, a suggestion shall be entered in such proceedings as aforesaid, and a writ shall thereupon, by rule of such court, or order of any Judge of such court, be directed to the sheriff of such county where the lands shall lie, or the messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises shall lie, or, if the same shall lie or be in two counties, to the sheriff of either of such counties, to summon either a common or special jury, according to the application that shall have been made on that behalf, and as the Court or such Judge shall allow, and who shall respectively be qualified according to law, to appear before the said Justice of Assize or Nisi Prius of that county at the next assizes or sittings of Nisi Prius if the same shall not happen sooner than twenty-one days after such suggestion, otherwise at the next succeeding assizes or sittings; and the compensation to be paid for the possession or use of such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises shall at such assizes or sittings be ascertained by such jury in like manner as any damages may be inquired of upon any inquisition or inquiry of damages by any jury before any Judge of Assize or Nisi Prius; and the verdict of such jury shall be returned to the said Courts of Exchequer and shall be final and conclusive; and in Scotland, if it shall appear proper to the said Court of Session or Lord Ordinary, upon such application so to do, the said Court or Lord Ordinary shall order and direct the sheriff of the county where such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises shall lie and be, or, if the same shall lie or be in two counties, the sheriff of either of such counties, to summon another jury in the manner in which juries are summoned in Scotland, properly qualified according to law, to appear before the Lords or Lord of Justiciary at the next circuit if the same shall not happen sooner than twenty-one days after such application, otherwise the next succeeding circuit; and the compensation as aforesaid for the land, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, and premises shall at such circuit be ascertained by a jury drawn from a jury summoned as aforesaid in such manner as juries are drawn in Scotland under the direction of the said Lords or Lord of Justiciary as aforesaid; and the verdict of such last-mentioned juries shall be final and conclusive, without being subject to review or challenge of any kind, unless the Court that shall have allowed such inquiry shall think fit, on any application made within four days after the commencement of the succeeding term, or session if in Scotland, to order any new trial in relation thereto.

xxxix. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for any jury impanelled before any Justice of the Peace, magistrate, deputy lieutenant, or deputy governor, or before any Judge of Assize or Nisi Prius, to ascertain the compensation to be paid for any lands under this Act, and they are hereby required to ascertain and settle the proportion to be paid out of such compensation to any person or persons having any interest as lessees or tenants at will, or otherwise, in any such lands, and the proportion to be paid out of such compensation shall be returned on the verdict: Provided also, that where any such inquiry before any Judge of Assize or Nisi Prius, or Lords or Lord of Justiciary, shall be had on the application of any such lessee or tenant at will, or other person having any inferior interest in any such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises, who may have been dissatisfied with the proportion of compensation settled by the jury to be paid in respect of such interest, it shall not be lawful for the jury in any such case to alter the amount of the entire compensation awarded by any former verdict to be paid for such lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises, but only the proportion thereof to be paid to the person or persons having separate interests therein; and it shall not be lawful for any jury, on any inquiry had before any Judge of Assize or Nisi Prius, or Lords or Lord of Justiciary, as to any compensation, on the application of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in any case in which the whole compensation awarded by the former jury is confirmed by the jury on such inquiry, to alter the proportion that shall have been settled by any such former jury as to any separate interest in any such lands, tenements, messuages, hereditaments, or premises.

xl. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for the Court or Judge or Lord Ordinary making any such rule or order to require that the party on whose application the same shall be made shall give such security as shall to such Court, Judge, or Lord Ordinary seem proper, for payment of costs under such circumstances as shall be specified in any rule or order made for that purpose.

xli. That in all cases where any lands shall be taken under the provisions of this Act for any term of years, or for such period only as the public service shall require, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any other person or persons so authorized as aforesaid, at any time before the possession of any lands which shall have been taken for the purposes aforesaid shall be delivered up to the owner or owners thereof, or other person or persons acting on his or their behalf, to take down and remove all such buildings or other erections which shall or may have been built or erected thereon for the public service, and to carry away the materials thereof, making such compensation to the owner or owners of such lands or other person or persons acting on his, her, or their behalf, for the damage or injury which may have been done thereto, as to the soil thereof, by the erection of any such buildings, or removing and carrying away the same, or otherwise, in consequence of the same having been occupied for the public service, as the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or such other person or persons authorized as aforesaid, shall think reasonable, and as shall be agreed upon in that behalf; and if such owner or owners, or other person or persons acting on his, her, or their behalf, shall not be willing to accept the compensation so offered, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or other person or persons authorized as aforesaid, to apply to and require two Justices of the Peace of the county, riding, stewartry, city, or place to settle and ascertain the compensation which ought to be made for such damage or injury as aforesaid; and such Justice shall settle and ascertain the same accordingly, and shall grant a certificate thereof; and the amount of such compensation, so settled and ascertained and certified, shall forthwith be paid by warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, to the person or persons entitled thereto: Provided always, that nothing in this Act shall extend or be construed to extend to alter, prejudice, or affect any agreement which hath been or shall or may be entered into by any such person or persons authorized as aforesaid with any owner or owners of any such lands, or other person or persons acting on his, her, or their behalf, in relation to any such buildings or erections, but every such agreement shall remain valid and effectual in like manner as if this Act had not passed.

xlil. That in all cases where any money shall have been or shall be agreed, or shall have been or shall be found by the verdict of any jury, to be paid or given for the use or possession of any lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises taken by virtue of this Act, belonging to any person or persons under any disability or incapacity, or not having the absolute interest therein, the same shall be paid by warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three of them into the hands of the proper officer of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer at Westminster, Edinburgh, or Dublin respectively for the time being for receiving the monies belonging to the suitors of the said Court respectively, for the use and benefit of such person or persons; and such officer is hereby authorized and required to receive or accept and to give a discharge for such money, and upon the acceptance or receipt thereof to sign a certificate to the Barons or Judges of the said Courts or Exchequer respectively, under his hand, purporting and signifying that such money or other consideration was received of accepted by and paid to him in pursuance of this Act, for the use and benefit of such person or persons who shall be named and described in such certificate; and the said certificate shall be filed or deposited in the said Court of Exchequer at Westminster, Edinburgh, or Dublin respectively, and a true copy thereof, signed by such officer of such court, shall and may be read and allowed as evidence for the purposes hereinafter mentioned; and such officer of such court is hereby required, upon receipt of any such sum or sums of money as aforesaid, to pay the same into the Bank of England, or Bank of Scotland or Royal Bank of Scotland, or Bank of Ireland, as the case may require; and immediately upon the filing or depositing of such certificate, the said lands, messuages, tenements, hereditaments, or premises shall be vested in or to the use of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors.

XLIII. That the Barons or Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer at Westminster, and the Barons or Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer at Edinburgh or Dublin, for the time being respectively, or any two or more of them, shall be and they are hereby authorized and empowered in a summary way, upon motion or by petition for and on behalf of any person or persons interested in or entitled to the benefit of the money so paid to and received by the proper officer of the said courts respectively, or the interest or produce thereof, and upon reading the certificate directed to be signed by the said officer concerning the same as aforesaid, and receiving such further satisfaction as they shall think necessary, to make and pronounce such orders and directions for paying the said money, or any part of the same, or for placing out such part thereof as shall be principal in the public funds, or upon government or real securities, and for payment of the dividends or interest thereof, or any part thereof, to the respective persons entitled to receive the same, or for laying out the principal, or any part thereof, in the purchase of other lands, to be conveyed and settled to, for, and upon the same uses, trusts, intents, and purposes as the said lands so taken stood settled at the time of the payment of such money as aforesaid, as near as the same can be done, or otherwise concerning the disposing of the said money, or any part thereof, and the interest of the same or any part thereof, for the benefit of the person or persons respectively, or for appointing any person or persons to be trustee or trustees for all or any of such purposes, as the said courts respectively shall think just and reasonable.

XLIV. That upon the death, removal, or resignation of any such officer of the said Courts of Exchequer all stocks and securities vested in him by virtue of this Act shall vest in the succeeding officer of the Exchequer, for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned, without any assignment or transfer; and all monies paid in the said banks respectively in pursuance of this Act, or remaining in the hands of any such officer at his death, resignation, or removal, and not vested in the funds or placed out on securities as aforesaid, shall be paid over to the succeeding officer for the like purpose for the time being.

XLV. Provided and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to extend to any garden or pleasure ground, or to any land immediately contiguous to and used as the curtilage or homestead of any dwelling house.

XLVI. That every order, document, instrument, or writing relating to the Customs or to the law of navigation, required by any law at any time in force to be under the hands of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, being signed by three or more of such Commissioners, shall be deemed to be an order, document, instrument, or writing under the hands of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury accordingly.

XLVII. That this Act shall be registered in the Royal Court of the Island of Jersey, and that the said royal court shall have full power and authority and is hereby required to register the same.

XLVIII. That this Act may be altered, varied, or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 52, whereby the laws of Customs in relation to the general regulation of the Customs were consolidated: And that since the passing of the said Act divers parts of Acts for the amendment of the law in this respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country that the said Acts and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and operation for the purposes mentioned therein, except where any other commencement is herein particularly directed.

And after reciting that it is expedient that the officers of Customs should have full cognizance of all ships coming into any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, or approaching the coasts thereof, and of all goods on board or which may have been on board such ships, and also of all goods unladen from any ship in any port or place in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man;—

It is Enacted,

II. That no goods shall be unladen from any ship arriving from parts beyond the seas at any port or place in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, nor shall bulk be broken after the arrival of such ship within four leagues of the coasts thereof respectively, before due report of such ship and due entry of such goods shall have been made, and warrant granted in manner hereinafter directed; and that no goods shall be so unladen, except at such times and places, and in such manner and by such persons, and under the care of such officers, as is and are hereinafter directed; and that all goods not duly reported or which shall be unladen contrary hereto, shall be forfeited; and if bulk be broken contrary hereto, the master of such ship shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*; and if, after the arrival of any ship within four leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom or of the Isle of Man, any alteration be made in the stowage of the cargo of such ship, so as to facilitate the unloading of any part of such cargo, or if any part be staved, destroyed, or thrown overboard, or any package be opened, such ship shall be deemed to have broken bulk: Provided always, that the several articles hereinafter enumerated may be landed in the United Kingdom without report, entry, or warrant; (that is to say,) diamonds and bullion, fresh fish of British taking and imported in British ships, and lobsters, fresh, however taken or imported.

III. That no goods shall be imported into the United Kingdom or into the Isle of Man from parts beyond the seas in any British ship, unless the master shall have on board a manifest of such goods, made out and dated and signed by him at the place or respective places where the same, or the different parts of the same, was or were taken on board, and authenticated in the manner hereinafter provided; and every such manifest shall set forth the name and the tonnage of the ship, the name of the master and of the place to which the ship belongs, and of the place or places where the goods were taken on board respectively, and of the place or places for which they are destined respectively, and shall contain a particular account and description of all the packages on board, with the marks and numbers thereon, and of the sorts of goods and different kinds of each sort contained therein, to the best of the master's knowledge, and the general denomination of the contents of every package containing the following articles imported from any foreign place in Europe, namely, cambrics or lawns, leather gloves, manufactures of silk, tobacco, cigars, or snuff, and the particulars of such goods as are stowed loose, and the names of the respective shippers and consignees, as far as the same can be known to the master; and to such particular account shall be subjoined a general account or recapitulation of the total number of the packages of each sort, describing the same by their usual names, or by such descriptions as the same can best be known by, and the different goods therein, and also the total quantities of the different goods stowed loose; and that all such cambrics or lawns, leather gloves, manufactures of silk, tobacco, cigars, or snuff not so manifested shall be forfeited.

IV. That before any ship shall be cleared out or depart from any place in any of the British possessions abroad, with any goods for the United Kingdom or for the Isle of Man, the master of such ship shall produce the manifest to the collector or comptroller of the Customs, or other proper officer, who shall certify upon the same the date of the production thereof to him: Provided always, that in all places within the territorial possessions of the East India Company the collector of Sea Customs or other proper officer shall authenticate the manifest as aforesaid.

V. That if any goods shall be imported into the United Kingdom or into the Isle of Man in any British ship without such manifest, or if any goods contained in such manifest be not on board, the master of such ship shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

VI. That the master of every ship required to have a manifest on board shall produce such manifest to any officer of the Customs who shall come on board his ship after her arrival within four leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom or of the coast of the Isle of Man, and who shall demand the same, for his inspection; and such master shall also deliver to any such officer who shall be the first to demand it, a true copy of such manifest, signed by the master, and shall also deliver another copy to any other officer of the Customs who shall be the first to demand the same within the limits of the port to which such ship is bound; and thereupon such officers respectively shall notify on such manifest and on such copies the date of the production of such manifest and of the receipt of such copies, and shall transmit such copies to the collector and comptroller of the port to which such vessel is first bound, and shall return such manifest to the master; and if such master shall not in any case produce such manifest or deliver such copy he shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

VII. That the master of every ship arriving from parts beyond the seas at any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, whether laden or in ballast, shall within twenty-four hours after such arrival, and before bulk be broken, make due report of such ship, and shall make and subscribe a declaration to the truth of the same before the collector or comptroller of such port; and such report shall contain an account of the particular marks, numbers, and contents of all the different packages or parcels of the goods on board such ship, and the particulars of such goods as are stowed loose, to the best of his knowledge, and the general denomination of the contents of every package containing the following articles imported from any foreign place in Europe, namely, cambrics or lawns, leather gloves, manufactures of silk, tobacco, cigars, or snuff, and of the place or places where such goods were respectively taken on board, and of the burden of such ship, and of the country where such ship was built, or if British of the port of registry, and of the country of the people to whom such ship belongs, and of the name and country of the person who was master during the voyage, and of the number of the people by whom such ship was navigated, stating how many are subjects of the country to which such ship belongs, and how many are of some other country; and in such report it shall be further declared whether and in what cases such ship has broken bulk in the course of her voyage, and what part of the cargo, if any, is intended for importation at such port, and what part, if any, is intended for importation at another port in the United Kingdom or at another port in the Isle of Man respectively, and what part, if any, is prohibited to be imported except to be warehoused for exportation only, and what part, if any, is intended for exportation in such ship to parts beyond the seas, and what surplus stores or stock remain on board such ship, and if a British ship, what foreign-made sails or cordage, not being standing or running rigging, are in use on board such ship; and the master of any ship who shall fail to make such report, or who shall make a false report, shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

VIII. Provided and enacted, That the master of every vessel coming from the coast of Africa, and having taken on board at any place in Africa any person or persons being or appearing to be natives of Africa, shall, in addition to all other matters, state in the report of his vessel how many such persons have been taken on board by him in Africa; and any such master failing herein shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.: Provided also, that the master or owner or owners of such vessel, or some or one of them at the time of making such report, be required to enter into bond to Her Majesty in the sum of 100*l*, conditioned to keep harmless any parish or any extra-parochial or other place maintaining its own poor against any expense which such parish or other place may be put to in supporting any such person during their stay in the United Kingdom; and any such master, owner or owners, refusing or neglecting to enter into such bond, shall forfeit the sum of 200*l*.

IX. That if the contents of any package so intended as aforesaid for exportation in the same ship to parts beyond the seas shall be reported by the master as being unknown to him, it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs to open and examine such package on board, or to bring the same to the Queen's warehouse for that purpose; and if there be found in such package any goods which may not be entered for home use, such goods shall be forfeited, or if the goods be such as may be entered for home use, the same shall be chargeable with the duties of importation, unless in either case the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, in consideration of the sort or quality of such goods, or the small rate of duty payable thereon, shall see fit to deliver the same for exportation.

X. That the master of every ship shall at the time of making such report deliver to the collector or comptroller the manifest of the cargo of such ship, where a manifest is required, and, if required by the collector or comptroller, shall produce to him any bill or bills of lading, or a true copy thereof, for any and every part of the cargo laden on board, and shall answer all such questions relating to the ship and cargo, and crew and voyage, as shall be put to him by such collector or comptroller; and in case of failure or refusal to produce such manifest, or to answer such questions, or to answer them truly, or to produce such bill of lading or copy, or if such manifest or bill of lading or copy shall be false, or if any bill of lading be uttered or produced by any master, and the goods expressed therein shall not have been bond fide shipped on board such ship, or if any bill of lading uttered or produced by any master shall not have been signed by him, or any such copy shall not have been received or made by him previously to his leaving the place where the goods expressed in such bill of lading or copy were shipped, then and in every such case such master shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

XI. That if any part of the cargo of any ship for which a manifest is required be reported for importation at some other port in the United Kingdom or at some other port in the Isle of Man respectively, the collector and comptroller of the port at which some part of the cargo has been delivered shall notify such delivery on the manifest, and return the same to the master of such ship.

XII. That every ship shall come as quickly up to the proper place of mooring or unloading as the nature of the port will admit, and without touching at any other place, and in proceeding to such place shall bring to at stations appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for the boarding of ships by the officers of the Customs; and after arrival at such place of mooring or unloading such ship shall not remove from such place, except directly to some other proper place, and with the knowledge of the proper officer of the Customs, on penalty of 100*l*, to be paid by the master of such ship: Provide always, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to appoint places to be the proper places for the mooring or unloading of ships importing tobacco, and where such ships only shall be moored or unladen; and in case of place so appointed for the unloading of such ships shall not be within some dock surrounded with walls, if any such ship after having been discharged, shall remain at such place, or if any ship not importing tobacco shall be moored at such place, the master shall in either case forfeit and pay the sum of 20*l*.

XIII. That no goods imported into the United Kingdom from parts beyond the seas shall be unshipped or carried from the importing vessel to any quay, wharf, or other place, previously to the examination thereof, except under such rules, regulations and restrictions as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs may from time to time with the approbation of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may direct and appoint; and all goods unshipped or carried contrary to such rules, regulations, or restrictions, or any of them, shall be forfeited, together with the craft or other means used for the conveyance of any such goods; and every person knowingly concerned in the unshipping or carrying of such goods, or to whose use and possession such goods shall knowingly come, contrary to such rules, regulations and restrictions, shall forfeit and pay a sum of 100*l*, or treble the value of such goods, at the election of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

XIV. That it shall be lawful for the proper officers of the Customs to board any ship arriving at any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, and freely to stay on board until all the goods laden therein shall have been duly delivered from the same; and such officers shall have free access to every part of the ship, with power to fasten down hatchways, and to mark any goods before landing, and to lock up, seal, mark, or otherwise secure any goods on board such ship; and if at such place or any box or chest be locked, and the keys be withheld, such officers, if they be of a degree superior to tidewomen, watermen, may open any such place, box, or chest in the best manner in their power; and if they be tidewomen or watermen, or only of that degree, they shall send for their superior officer, who may open or cause to be opened any such place, box, or chest in the best manner in his power; and if any goods be found concealed on board any such ship they shall be forfeited; and if the officers shall place any lock, mark, or seal upon any goods on board, and such lock, mark, or seal be wilfully opened, altered, or broken before due delivery of such goods, or if any of such goods be secretly conveyed away, or the hatchways, after having been fastened down by the officer, be opened, the master of such ship shall forfeit the sum of 10

xv. Provided and enacted, That if any ship (having commission from Her Majesty or from any foreign prince or state) arriving as aforesaid at any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man shall have on board any goods laden in parts beyond the seas, the captain, master, purser, or other person having the charge of such ship or of such goods for that voyage shall, before any part of such goods be taken out of such ship, or when called upon so to do by any officer of the Customs, deliver an account in writing under his hand to the best of his knowledge of the quality and quantity of every package or parcel of such goods, and of the marks and numbers thereon, and of the names of the respective shippers and consignees of the same, and shall make and subscribe a declaration at the foot of such account declaring to the truth thereof, and shall also truly answer to the collector or comptroller such questions concerning such goods as shall be required of him, and on failure thereof such captain, master, purser, or other person shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*; and all such ships shall be liable to such searches as merchant ships are liable to, and the officers of the Customs may freely enter and go on board all such ships, and bring from thence on shore into the Queen's warehouse any goods found on board any such ship as aforesaid, subject nevertheless to such regulations in respect of ships of war belonging to Her Majesty as shall from time to time be directed in that respect by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

xvi. That every importer of any goods shall, within fourteen days after the arrival of the ship importing the same, make perfect entry inwards of such goods, or entry by bill of sight in manner hereinafter provided, and shall within such time land the same; and in default of such entry and landing it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs to convey such goods to the Queen's warehouse; and whenever the cargo of any ship shall have been discharged, with the exception only of a small quantity of goods, it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs to convey such remaining goods and at any time to convey any small packages or parcels of goods to the Queen's warehouse, although such fourteen days shall not have expired, there to be kept waiting the due entry thereof during the remainder of such fourteen days; and if the duties due upon any goods so conveyed to the Queen's warehouse shall not be paid within three months after such fourteen days shall have expired, together with all charges of removal and warehouse rent, the same shall be sold, and the produce thereof shall be applied, first to the payment of freight and charges, next of duties, and the overplus (if any) shall be paid to the proprietor of the goods.

xvii. That whenever any officer of the Customs shall have been kept in charge of any goods beyond the time allowed by law for the same being entered and landed, it shall be lawful for such officer to detain the vessel in which such goods shall have been imported, provided the same are remaining on board the vessel, until the expenses so incurred shall have been paid to such person as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall think fit to appoint to receive the same; and in all cases where the goods shall have been put out of the vessel the person or persons in whose names the same shall have been entered shall pay to the person so appointed as aforesaid all such expenses as may have been so incurred by such officer, and such goods shall and may be detained until such expenses shall have been paid, and if not paid within one month after demand made in writing of such person or persons by any officer of the Customs, the same shall and may be sold, and the proceeds shall be applied, first, to the payment of the freight and charges, next of the duties, next of the expenses of such officer, and of the charges attending the seizure and sale of such goods, and the overplus, if any, shall be paid to the proprietor of the goods.

xviii. That the person entering any goods inwards (whether for payment of duty, or to be warehoused upon the first perfect entry thereof, or for payment of duty upon the taking out of the warehouse, or whether such goods be free of duty,) shall deliver to the collector or comptroller a bill of the entry of such goods, fairly written, or fairly written in part and fairly printed in part, in words at length, expressing the name of the ship and of the master of the ship in which the goods were imported, and of the place from whence they were brought, and the description and situation of the warehouse, if they are to be warehoused, and the name of the person in whose name the goods are to be entered, and the quantity and description of the goods, and the number and denomination or description of the respective packages containing the goods, and in the margin of such bill shall delineate the respective marks and numbers of such packages, and shall pay down any duties which may be payable upon the goods mentioned in such entry; and such person shall also deliver at the same time two or more duplicates, as the case may require, of such bill, in which all sums and numbers may be expressed in figures; and the particulars to be contained in such bill shall be written, or partly written and partly printed, and arranged in such form and manner and the number of such duplicates shall be such as the collector and comptroller shall require; and such bill, being duly signed by the collector and comptroller, and transmitted to the landing waiter, shall be the warrant to him for the landing and delivering of such goods.

xix. That every person who shall make or cause to be made any such entry inwards of any goods, not being duly authorized thereto by the proprietor or consignee of such goods, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 100*l.*: Provided always, that no such penalty shall extend or be deemed to extend to any person acting under the directions of the several dock companies or other corporate bodies authorized by law to pass entries.

xx. That no entry, nor any warrant for the landing of any goods, or for the taking of any goods out of any warehouse, shall be deemed valid, unless the particulars of the goods and packages in such entry shall correspond with the particulars of the goods and packages purporting to be the same in the report of the ship, and in the manifest where a manifest is required, and a certificate or other document where any is required, by which the importation or entry of such goods is authorized, nor unless the goods shall have been properly described in such entry by the denominations and with the characters and circumstances, according to which such goods are charged with duty or may be imported, either to be used in the United Kingdom or to be warehoused for exportation only; and any goods taken or delivered out of any ship or out of any warehouse, or for the delivery of which, or for any order for the delivery of which, from any warehouse, demand shall have been made, not having been duly entered, shall be forfeited.

xxi. That if the goods in such entry be charged to pay duty according to the number, measure, or weight thereof, such number, measure, or weight shall be stated in the entry; and if the goods in such entry be charged to pay duty according to the value thereof, such value shall be stated in the entry, and shall be affirmed by the declaration of the importer or his known agent written upon the entry, and attested by his signature; and if the goods in such entry be chargeable, at the option of the Officers of Customs, either according to the number, measure, or weight thereof, or according to the value thereof, then as well such number, measure, or weight, as also such value, shall be in like manner stated in the entry and attested; and if any person make such declaration, not being the importer or proprietor of such goods, nor his agent duly authorized by him, such person shall forfeit 100*l.*; and such declaration shall be made in manner and form following, and shall be binding upon the person by or on behalf of whom the same shall be made; (that is to say,)

'I A. B. of [Place of Abode], do hereby declare, That I am [the Importer, or authorized by the Importer,] of the Goods contained in this Entry, and that I enter the same [stating which, if Part only,] at the Sum of
'Witness my Hand, the Day of A.B.'

XXII. That if upon the examination of any goods for duty it shall appear to the officers of the Customs that such goods are not valued according to the true value thereof, it shall be lawful for such officers to detain and secure such goods, and within seven days from the day on which such goods shall be finally examined for duty by the proper officer, if in any port in England, or within ten days from such last-mentioned day if in any port in Scotland, Ireland, or the Isle of Man, to take such goods for the use of the Crown; and if a different rate of duty shall be charged upon any goods according as the value of the same shall be described in the entry to be above or to be below any particular price or sum, and such goods shall be valued in the entry so as to be liable to the lower rate of duty, and it shall appear to the officers of the Customs that such goods, by reason of their real value, are properly liable to the higher rate of duty, it shall be lawful for such officers, in like manner, to take such goods for the use of the Crown; and the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall thereupon in any of such cases cause the amount of such valuation, together with an addition of 10*l.* per centum thereon, and also the duties paid upon such entry, to be paid to the importer or proprietor of such goods, in full satisfaction for the same, and shall dispose of such goods for the benefit of the Crown; and if the produce of such sale shall exceed the sums so paid, and all charges incurred by the Crown, one moiety of the overplus shall be given to the officer or officers who had detained and taken the goods, and the money retained for the benefit of the Crown shall be paid into the hands of the collector of the Customs, with the knowledge of the comptroller, and be carried to account as duties of Customs.

And after reciting that it is expedient that correct accounts may continue to be taken of the value of the imports of certain goods upon which duty has hitherto been charged according to the value thereof, but upon which goods the duties have been repeated;—

It is Enacted,

XXIII. That upon the entry inwards of any such goods the value thereof shall be stated in the entry, and shall be affirmed by the declaration of the importer or his known agent written upon the entry, and attested by his signature; and if such declaration be false the person signing the same shall forfeit a sum not exceeding 20*l.*; and it shall be lawful for the landing waiter or other officer appointed to examine such goods to call for the invoice, bills of parcels, and such other documents relating thereto as he may think necessary, for ascertaining the true value of the same.

XXIV. That if the importer of any goods, or his agent, after full conference with him, shall declare before the collector or comptroller that he cannot for want of full information make a full or perfect entry of such goods, and shall make and subscribe a declaration to the truth thereof, it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller to receive an entry by bill of sight for the packages or parcels of such goods, by the best description which can be given, and to grant a warrant thereupon, in order that the same may be provisionally landed, and may be seen and examined by such importer in presence of the proper officers; and within three days after any goods shall have been so landed the importer shall make a full or perfect entry thereof, and shall either pay down all duties which shall be due and payable upon such goods, or shall duly warehouse the same, according to the purport of the full or perfect entry or entries so made for such goods, or for the several parts or sorts thereof: Provided always, that if, when full or perfect entry be at any time made for any goods provisionally landed as aforesaid by bill of sight, such entry shall not be made in manner herein required for the due landing of goods, such goods shall be deemed to be goods landed without due entry thereof, and shall be subject to the like forfeiture accordingly.

XXV. That in default of perfect entry within such three days such goods shall be taken to the Queen's warehouse by the officers of the Customs; and if the importer shall not within one month after such landing make perfect entry or entries of such goods, and pay the duties thereon, or on such parts as can be entered for home use, together with the charges of removal and of warehouse rent, such goods shall be sold for the payment of such duties (or for exportation, if they be such as cannot be entered for home use, or shall not be worth the duties and charges,) and for the payment of such charges, and the overplus, if any, shall be paid to the importer or proprietor thereof.

XXVI. That in all cases where an entry for landing or examining goods for duty shall be made by bill of sight the importer or his agent shall, before the same be granted, deposit with the proper officer of the Customs a sum of money sufficient in amount to cover the duties payable on the goods intended to be landed by such bill of sight, and shall make and subscribe a declaration that he has not any reason to believe that the duties on the goods will amount to more than the sum deposited.

XXVII. That if the sum deposited on a bill of sight shall not be equal in amount to the duties payable upon all the goods contained in any single package landed or examined thereby, no part shall be delivered until a perfect entry or entries is or are made for the whole of the goods contained in such package.

XXVIII. That before any goods in respect of which a bill of sight has been granted shall be delivered out of the custody of the proper officer of the Customs, the importer or his agent shall indorse upon the bill of sight granted for landing or examining the same a particular account thereof, to which he shall affix his signature and place of abode, with the date of making such indorsement; and such indorsement upon the bill of sight shall, upon being duly signed by the collector and comptroller become the perfect entry for such goods: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall alter or affect any other of the regulations required by law in respect of bills of entry.

XXIX. That where any package or parcel shall have been landed by bill of sight, and any goods or other things shall be found in such package or parcel concealed in any way, or packed with intent to deceive the officers of Her Majesty's Customs as well all such goods and other things as the package or parcel in which they are found, and all other things contained in such package or parcel, shall be forfeited.

XXX. That if any goods which are rated to pay duty according to the number, measure, or weight thereof, (except certain goods hereinafter mentioned,) shall receive damage during the voyage, an abatement of such duties shall be allowed in proportion to the damage so received, provided proof be made to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, or of any officers of Customs acting therein under their directions, that such damage was received after the goods were shipped abroad in the ship importing the same, and before they were landed in the United Kingdom, and provided claim to such abatement of duties be made at the time of the first examination of such goods.

XXXI. That the officers of the Customs shall thereupon examine such goods with reference to such damage, and may state the proportion of damage which in their opinion such goods have so received, and may make a proportionate abatement of duties; but if the officers of Customs be incompetent to estimate such damage, or if the importer be not satisfied with the abatement made by them, the collector and comptroller shall choose two indifferent merchants experienced in the nature and value of such goods, who shall examine the same, and shall make and subscribe a declaration, stating in what proportion, according to their judgment, such goods are lessened in their value by reason of such damage, and thereupon the officers of Customs may make an abatement of the duties according to the proportion of damage so declared by such merchants.

XXXII. Provided and enacted, That no abatement of duties shall be made on account of any damage received by any of the sorts of goods hereinafter enumerated; (that is to say,)

Cantharides,	Jalap,	Rhubarb,
Cocoa,	Lemons,	Sarsaparilla,
Coculus Indicus,	Nux Vomica,	Senna,
Coffee,	Opium,	Sugar,
Currants,	Oranges,	Tea,
Figs,	Pepper,	Tobacco,
Guinea Grains,	Raisins,	Wine.
Ipecacuanha,

XXXIII. That it shall be lawful to reimport into the United Kingdom from any place, in a ship of any country, any goods (except as hereinafter excepted) which shall have been legally exported from the United Kingdom, and to enter the same by bill of store, referring to the entry outwards, and exportation thereof, provided the property in such goods continue in the person by whom or on whose account the same have been exported, and that such reimportation take place within six years from the date of the exportation; and if the goods so returned be foreign goods, which had before been legally imported into the United Kingdom, the same duties shall be payable thereon as would at the time of such reimportation be payable on the like goods under the same circumstances of importation as those under which such goods had been originally imported, or such goods may be warehoused as the like goods might be warehoused upon a first importation thereof: Provided always, that the several sorts of goods enumerated or described in the table following shall not be reimported into the United Kingdom for home use upon the ground that the same had been legally exported from thence, but that the same shall be deemed to be foreign goods, whether originally such or not, and shall also be deemed to be imported for the first time into the United Kingdom; (that is to say,)

TABLE of GOODS above referred to.

Corn, grain, meal, flour, and malt:

Hops, tea:

Goods for which any bounty or any drawback of Excise had been received on exportation, unless by special permission of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and on repayment of such bounty or such drawback:

Goods for which bill of store cannot be issued in manner hereinafter directed, except small remnants of British goods by special permission of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, upon proof to their satisfaction that the same are British, and had not been sold:

Provided also, that tobacco reimported by bill of store shall be subject to all the restrictions imposed by law upon tobacco imported into the United Kingdom, and shall be liable to forfeiture if imported contrary to such restrictions.

XXXIV. That the person in whose name any goods so re-imported were entered for exportation shall deliver to the searcher at the port of exportation an exact account, signed by him, of the particulars of such goods, referring to the entry and clearance outwards and to the return inwards of the same, with the marks and number of the packages, both inwards and outwards; and thereupon the searcher, finding that such goods had been legally exported, shall grant a bill of store for the same; and if the person in whose name such goods were entered for exportation was not the proprietor thereof, but his agent, he shall declare on such bill of store the name of the person by whom he was employed as such agent; and if the person to whom such returned goods are consigned shall not be such proprietor and exporter, he shall make and subscribe a declaration on such bill of store of the name of the person for whose use such goods have been consigned to him; and the real proprietor, if he be such, shall make and subscribe a declaration upon such bill of store, to the identity of the goods so exported and so returned, and that he was at the time of exportation and of re-importation the proprietor of such goods, and that the same had not during such time been sold or disposed of to any other person; and such declaration shall be made before the collector or comptroller at the ports of exportation and of importation respectively; and thereupon the collector or comptroller shall admit such goods to entry by bill of store, and grant their warrant accordingly: Provided always, that the real proprietor of any such goods shall be absent from the United Kingdom at the time of such re-importation, and such goods, if legally entitled to be entered by bill of store, shall be permitted to be so entered upon production of a declaration subscribed by such real proprietor, setting forth the identity of the goods so exported and so returned, and that he was at the time of exportation from the United Kingdom, and will be at the time of re-importation thereinto, the proprietor of such goods, and that the same have not during such time been sold or disposed of to any other person, such declaration to be made before a British consul, vice-consul, or other British authority residing in or near the place of residence of such real proprietor, and upon such further proof of the identity of the goods as the Commissioners of Customs shall require, and upon compliance with all the other regulations required by law on the entry of goods by bill of store.

xxxv. That the surplus stores of every ship arriving from parts beyond the seas in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man shall be subject to the same duties, and the same prohibitions, restrictions and regulations as the like sorts of goods shall be subject to when imported by way of merchandise; but if it shall appear to the collector and comptroller that the quantity or description of such stores is not excessive or unsuitable, under all the circumstances of the voyage, it shall be lawful for them to permit such surplus stores to be entered for the private use of the master, purser, or owner of such ship, or of any passenger of such ship to whom any such surplus stores may belong, on payment of the proper duties, or to be warehoused for the future use of such ship, although the same could not be legally imported by way of merchandise.

xxxvi. That no goods shall be entered as being of or from any British possessions abroad (if any benefit attach to such distinction), except the territories subject to the government of the Presidencies of Fort William, in Bengal, Fort Saint George, and Bombay respectively, unless the master of the ship importing the same shall have delivered to the collector or comptroller a certificate, under the hand of the proper officer of the place where such goods were taken on board, of the due clearance of such ship from thence, containing an account of such goods.

xxxvii. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, by any order under their hands, to declare that a certificate of production shall be required upon the exportation of any goods from any British possession abroad or other place, or upon the importation of such goods into the United Kingdom, and to frame such regulations respecting such certificates as they may think fit; and if any goods in respect of which such a certificate shall have been so required, or in respect of which a certificate of production, or any such certificate of clearance as aforesaid, shall be required by any law for the time being in force, shall be imported into the United Kingdom without such certificates respectively, the same shall be deemed and taken to be of foreign growth, produce, or manufacture; and all goods so deemed and taken to be of foreign growth, produce or manufacture, and all other goods whatsoever of the growth, produce or manufacture of foreign countries, which shall henceforth be imported into the United Kingdom from any British possession abroad, shall be deemed and taken, so far as respects liability to duties, to have been imported from a foreign country: Provided always, that all orders of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury made in pursuance hereof shall be duly published in the London and Dublin Gazettes three times at least within three months from the date of such orders respectively.

xxxviii. That before any sugar, coffee, cocoa or spirits shall be entered as being of the produce of some British possession in America, or the Island of Mauritius, the master of the ship importing the same shall deliver to the collector or comptroller a certificate, under the hand of the proper officer of the place where such goods were taken on board, testifying that proof had been made in manner required by law that such goods are of the produce of some British possession in America or of the Island of Mauritius, stating the name of the place where such goods were produced, and the quantity and quality of the goods, and the number and denomination of the packages containing the same, and the name of the ship in which they are laden, and of the master thereof; and such master shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller, that such certificate was received by him at the place where such goods were taken on board, and that the goods so imported are the same as are mentioned therein.

xxxix. That before any sugar shall be entered as being the produce of any British possession within the limits of the East India Company's charter the master of the ship importing the same shall deliver to the collector or comptroller a certificate under the hand and seal of the proper officer at the place where such sugar was taken on board, testifying that a declaration in writing, the contents of which he believed to be true, had been made and signed before him by the shipper of such sugar that the same was really and bona fide the produce of such British possession; and such master shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller, that such certificate was received by him at the place where such sugar was taken on board, and that the sugar so imported is the same as is mentioned therein.

xl. That if any sugar the produce of any British possession within the limits of the East India Company's charter shall have been imported into the Cape of Good Hope from the place of its production, accompanied by such a certificate of origin as would be sufficient for its admission in the United Kingdom at the rate of duty payable upon such sugar if imported direct from the place of its production, and shall have been warehoused at the Cape of Good Hope under the regulations there in force for the warehousing of goods, and shall have been exported from such warehouse accompanied by a certificate from the proper officer of the Customs at the Cape of Good Hope, setting forth the particulars of the importation, and of warehousing, and of the exportation of the same, and also setting forth the substance of the certificate of origin before mentioned, and if on the arrival in the United Kingdom of the ship importing such sugar the master of such ship shall deliver to the collector or comptroller at the port of importation such certificate from the officer of the Customs at the Cape of Good Hope, and shall make and subscribe a declaration before such collector or comptroller that such certificate was received by him at the Cape of Good Hope, and that the sugar so imported is the same as is mentioned therein, then such sugar shall be admitted at such port of importation in the United Kingdom at the same rate of duty as would be payable if the same had been imported direct from the place of its production.

xli. That before any wine shall be entered as being the produce of the Cape of Good Hope the master of the ship importing the same shall deliver to the collector or comptroller a certificate under the hand of the proper officer at the Cape of Good Hope, testifying that proof had been made in manner required by law that such wine is of the produce of the Cape of Good Hope or the dependencies thereof, stating the quantity and sort of such wine, and the number and denomination of the packages containing the same; and such master shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller troller, that such certificate was received by him at the Cape of Good Hope, and that the wine so imported is the same as is mentioned therein.

XLII. That any goods of the growth of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, and any goods manufactured in the said islands from materials of the growth of the said islands, or from materials not subject to duty in the United Kingdom, or from materials upon which the duty has been paid in the United Kingdom, and upon which no drawback has subsequently been granted, and any manufactures of linen or cotton made in and imported from the Isle of Man, may be imported into the United Kingdom from the said islands respectively, without payment of any duty; and that such goods shall not be deemed to be included in any charge of duties imposed by any Act hereafter to be made on the importation of goods generally from parts beyond the seas: Provided always, that such goods may nevertheless be charged with any proportion of such duties as shall fairly countervail any duties of Excise, or any coast duty, payable on the like goods the produce of the part of the United Kingdom into which they shall be imported, or payable upon any of the materials from which such goods are manufactured; provided also, that all goods manufactured in any of the said islands from any other materials than the materials aforesaid, except manufactures of linen and cotton made in and imported from the Isle of Man as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken to be foreign goods.

XLIII. That before any goods shall be entered as being the produce of the said islands (if any benefit attach to such distinction) the master of the ship or vessel importing the same shall deliver to the collector or comptroller a certificate from the governor, lieutenant-governor, or commander-in-chief of the island from whence such goods were imported, that proof had been made, in manner required by law, that such goods were of the produce of such island, stating the quantity and quality of the goods, and the number and denomination of the packages containing the same; and such master shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller, that such certificate was received by him at the place where such goods were taken on board, and that the goods so imported are the same as are mentioned therein.

XLIV. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, when and so long as they shall see fit, to permit any goods the produce of the British possessions or fisheries in North America, which shall have been legally imported into the islands of Guernsey or Jersey direct from such possessions, to be imported into the United Kingdom for home use direct from those islands, under such regulations as the said Commissioners shall direct, anything in the law of navigation to the contrary notwithstanding.

XLV. That no vessel arriving on the coast of England from Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, wholly laden with stone the production thereof, shall be liable to be conducted or piloted by pilots appointed and licensed by the corporation of the Trinity House of Deptford Strond, any law, custom, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

XLVI. That fresh fish of every kind, of British taking and imported in British ships, and fresh lobsters, however taken or in whatever ship imported, and cured fish of every kind, of British taking and curing, imported in British ships, shall be imported free of all duties, and shall not be deemed to be included in any charge of duty imposed by any Act hereafter to be made on the importation of goods generally: Provided always, that before any cured fish shall be entered free of duty, as being of such taking and curing, the master of the ship importing the same shall make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller that such fish was actually caught and taken in British ships, and cured by the crews of such ships, or by Her Majesty's subjects.

XLVII. That before any blubber, train oil, spermaceti oil, head matter, or whale fins shall be entered as being the produce of fish or creatures living in the sea, taken and caught wholly by Her Majesty's subjects usually residing in some part of Her Majesty's dominions, and imported from some British possession, the master of the ship importing the same shall deliver to the collector or comptroller a certificate under the hand of the proper officer of such British possession where such goods are taken on board, (or if no such officer be residing there, then a certificate under the hands of two principal inhabitants of the place of shipment,) notifying that a declaration had been made before him or them by the shipper of such goods, that the same were the produce of fish or creatures living in the sea taken wholly by British vessels owned and navigated according to law; and such master shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller that such certificate as received by him at the place where such goods were taken on board, and that the goods so imported are the same as mentioned therein; and the importer of such goods shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller, at the time of entry, that to the best of his knowledge and belief the same were the produce of fish or creatures living in the sea taken wholly by British vessels in manner aforesaid.

XLVIII. That before any blubber, train oil, spermaceti oil, head matter, or whale fins, imported direct from the fishery shall be entered as being the produce of fish or creatures living in the sea taken and caught wholly by the crews of British ships cleared out from the United Kingdom, or from any British possession, the master of such ship importing such goods shall make and subscribe a declaration, and the importer of such goods (to the best of his knowledge and belief) shall make and subscribe a declaration that the same are the produce of fish or creatures living in the sea taken and caught wholly by the crew of such ship, or by the crew of some other British ship (naming the ship) cleared out from the United Kingdom or from any British possession (stating which of such possessions).

XLIX. That no goods shall be deemed to be imported from any particular place unless they be imported direct from such place, and shall have been there laden on board the importing ship, either as the first shipment of such goods, or after the goods shall have been actually landed at such place.

L. That all goods, wares, and merchandise the property of the Crown shall, in case of the sale thereof after importation into the United Kingdom, be liable to and be charged with such and the same duties of Customs as may be by law payable or charged on the like goods, wares, and merchandise not being the property of the Crown.

LI. That all foreign goods, derelict, jetsam, flotsam, and wreck brought or coming into the United Kingdom or into the Isle of Man, and all droits of Admiralty sold in the United Kingdom, shall at all times be subject to the same duties as goods of the like kind imported into the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man respectively are subject to: Provided always, that, if, for ascertaining the proper amount of duty so payable any question shall arise as to the origin of any such goods, the same shall be deemed to be of the growth, produce, or manufacture of such country or place as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall, upon investigation by them, determine.

LII. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, or for the officers of Customs acting under their directions, to inquire into and receive proof of the extent to which any such goods may have been damaged, and to make such abatement of the duties payable thereon as to them shall appear to bear a just proportion to the damage so ascertained: Provided always, that no such abatement shall be made in respect of any of the goods following; (that is to say,)

Cantharides,	Jalap,	Sarsaparilla,
Cocoa,	Lemons,	Senna,
Coculus Indicus,	Nux Vomica,	Spirits,
Coffee,	Opium,	Sugar,
Currants,	Oranges,	Tea,
Figs,	Pepper,	Tobacco, and
Guinea Grains,	Raisins,	Wine.
Ipecacuanha,	Rhubarb,

LIII. That if any person shall have possession of any foreign goods, derelict, jetsam, flotsam, or wreck, either on land or within any port in the United Kingdom, and shall not give notice thereof to the proper officer of the Customs within twenty-four hours after such possession, or shall not on demand pay the duties due thereon, or deliver the same into the custody of the proper officer of the Customs, such person shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*; and if any person shall remove or alter in quantity or quality any such goods, or shall open or alter any package containing any such goods, or shall cause any such act to be done, or assist therein, before such goods shall be deposited in a warehouse in the custody of an officer of the Customs, every such person shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*; and in default of the payment of the duties on such goods within eighteen months from the time when the same were so deposited, the same may be sold in like manner and for the like purposes as goods imported may in such default be sold: Provided always, that any lord of the manor having by law just claim to such goods, or if there be no such lord of the manor, then the person having possession of the same, shall be at liberty to retain the same in his own custody, giving bond, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the proper officer of the Customs, in treble the value of such goods, for the payment of the duties thereon at the end of one year and one day, or to deliver such goods to the proper officer of the Customs in the same state and condition as the same were in at the time of taking possession thereof.

And after reciting that such goods, if not claimed by the owner within the period limited by law, belong of right to Her Majesty in her office of Admiralty, but by reason of the smallness of their value would, if prosecuted to condemnation in the High Court of Admiralty in England and Ireland respectively, be wholly unproductive;—

It is Enacted,

LIV. That whenever any such goods, whether picked up at sea or on the shore within the flow of the sea, shall be reported to the officers of the Customs, notice thereof shall be forthwith given by them, if in Great Britain or the Isle of Man, to the receiver general of droits of Admiralty, and if in Ireland to the Queen's proctor of Admiralty; and all such goods shall be placed at their disposal respectively, as the case may be, subject, however, to the payment of the duties with which they shall be respectively chargeable; and in case the rightful owner thereof shall prove his claim thereto to the satisfaction of the said receiver general or Queen's proctor as the case may be, within the period of twelve calendar months from the day on which they shall be so reported, such goods shall be restored to the owner on payment of the duties and necessary charges attending the care of the same, and a reasonable compensation to the amount of one-third of the net value (after abating the duties and charges aforesaid) to the salvors thereof; but if no such claim shall be established within the period aforesaid, then such goods shall be deemed and taken to be condemned to Her Majesty as droits of Admiralty, and may be sold by the said receiver general or Queen's proctor, without any process from the High Courts of Admiralty respectively, and the net proceeds thereof, after payment of duties, salvage, and other charges as aforesaid, shall be disposed of by them respectively, and carried to the credit of the Consolidated Fund, in like manner as droits of Admiralty are by an Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. for the support of His Majesty's household, and the honour and dignity of the Crown, directed to be applied, anything in any Act or Acts contained, or any law, statute, or usage, to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

And after reciting that it may be expedient to subject some sorts of goods imported into the United Kingdom to certain internal regulations and restraints after the full duties of Customs have been paid thereon, and to place such regulations and restraints under the management of the Commissioners of Excise:—

It is Enacted,

LV. That no goods which are subject to any regulations of Excise shall be taken or delivered out of the charge of the officers of Customs (although the same may have been duly entered with them, and the full duties due thereon may have been paid), until such goods shall also have been duly entered with the officers of Excise, and permit, where such permit is by law required, granted by them for delivery of the same, nor unless such permit shall correspond in all particulars with the warrant of the officers of the Customs: Provided always, that such entry shall not be received by the officers of the Excise, nor such permit granted by them until a certificate shall have been produced to them of the particulars of the goods, and of the warrant for the same, under the hand of the officers of the Customs who shall have the charge of the goods: Provided also, that upon any occasion it shall appear necessary it shall be lawful for the proper officers of Excise to attend the delivery of such goods by the officers of the Customs, and to require that such goods shall be delivered only in their presence; and it shall be lawful for such officers of Excise to count, measure, gauge, or weigh any such goods, and fully to examine the same, and to proceed in all respects relating to such goods in such manner as they shall be authorized or required by any Act for the time being in force relating to the Excise.

And after reciting, that by the laws now in force certain articles subject to an inland duty of Excise are required to be stamped, to denote the payment of such duty; and to prevent fraud in the evasion of such duty it is expedient that foreign articles of a similar description, when imported into the United Kingdom, should be stamped with such mark or stamp as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs may deem necessary, in order to distinguish the foreign from the British article:—

It is Enacted,

LVI. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and they are hereby authorized, after any goods have been entered at the custom house, and before the same shall be discharged by the officers, and delivered into the custody of the importer or his agent, to mark or stamp such goods in such manner and form as they may deem fit and proper for the security of the revenue, and by such officer as they shall direct and appoint for that purpose.

LVII. That every order made by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs in respect of marking or stamping any goods shall be published in the London Gazette and Dublin Gazette.

LVIII. That if any person or persons shall at any time forge or counterfeit any mark or stamp to resemble any mark or stamp which shall be provided and used for the purposes of this Act, or shall forge or counterfeit the impression of any such mark or stamp, or shall sell or expose to sale, or have in his, her, or their custody or possession, any goods with a counterfeit mark or stamp, knowing the same to be counterfeit, or shall use or affix any such mark or stamp to any other goods required to be stamped as aforesaid other than that to which the same was originally affixed, all and every such offender or offenders, and his, her, or their aiders, abettors, and assistants, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of 200*l*.

LIX. That no goods whatever (except diamonds, bullion, fresh fish of British taking and imported in British ships, and lobsters,) shall be unshipped from any ship arriving from parts beyond the seas, or landed or put on shore, but only on days not being Sundays or holidays, and in the daytime, (that is to say,) from the first day of September until the last day of March between sunrise and sunset, and from the last day of March to the first day of September between the hours of seven of the clock in the morning and four of the clock in the afternoon; nor shall any goods, except as aforesaid, be so unshipped or landed unless in the presence or with the authority of the proper officer of the Customs; and such goods, except as aforesaid, shall be landed at one of the legal quays appointed for the landing of goods, or at some wharf, quay, or place appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for the landing of goods by sufferance; and that no goods, except as aforesaid, after having been unshipped, shall be transhipped, or after having been put into any boat or craft to be landed shall be removed into any other boat or craft previously to their being duly landed, without the permission or authority of the proper officer of the Customs.

LX. That the unshipping, carrying, and landing of all goods, and the bringing of the same to the proper place after landing, or examination or for weighing, and the putting the same into the scales, and the taking of the same out of and from the scales after weighing, shall be performed by or at the expense of the importer.

LXI. That the times, places, and manner of landing foreign fish imported into the United Kingdom, and of reporting and entering the same, and of paying the duties due thereon, shall be subject to such regulations and directions as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall from time to time make respecting the same; and that all foreign fish unladen from any vessel contrary to any such regulations and directions shall be forfeited.

LXII. That the importer or person entering timber or wood to be charged with duty by measurement shall, at his expense, erect pile, frame, or otherwise place the same in such manner as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs may deem necessary to enable the officers to measure and take a true and correct account thereof; and that in all such cases, when the same is measured in bulk, the measurement shall be taken to the full extent of the pile, and that no allowance shall be made by the officers on account of the interstices arising out of such process of sorting, piling, framing, or placing: Provided always, that all battens, boards, deals, and planks exceeding twenty-one feet in length may be measured by the piece, and the account thereof taken separately.

LXIII. That the several sorts of goods enumerated or described in the table following, denominated "A Table of Prohibitions and Restrictions Inwards," shall either be absolutely prohibited to be imported into the United Kingdom, or shall be imported only under the restrictions mentioned in such table, according as the several sorts of such goods are respectively set forth therein; (that is to say,)

A TABLE OF PROHIBITIONS AND RESTRICTIONS INWARDS.

A LIST of GOODS absolutely PROHIBITED to be IMPORTED.

Tobacco and snuff; viz.

— unless in ships of one hundred and twenty tons burden or upwards.

— also unless in hogsheads, casks, chests, or cases containing three hundred pounds weight of tobacco or snuff each at least, not being separated or divided in any manner within the cask or package; except that tobacco of the dominions of the Turkish empire may be packed in inward bags or packages, or separated or divided in any manner, provided the outward package be a hogshead, cask, chest, or case containing at least three hundred pounds net weight of tobacco.

— Tobacco and snuff from the East Indies, unless in hogsheads, casks, chests, or cases each of which shall contain at least one hundred pounds net weight of tobacco or snuff.

— Cigars, unless in packages containing one hundred pounds weight of cigars at least.

— Tobacco the produce of Mexico, or the produce of South America or the islands of Saint Domingo or Cuba, imported direct from those places respectively, or from the warehouse in Jamaica, or some other British possession in America, unless in packages each containing at least eighty pounds net weight of such tobacco.

— Negrohead tobacco the produce of and imported from the United States of America in packages each containing at least one hundred and fifty pounds net weight of such tobacco.

— and unless into the ports of London, Liverpool, Bristol, Lancaster, Cowes, Falmouth, Whitehaven, Hull, Port Glasgow, Greenock, Glasgow, Aberdeen, Leith, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Plymouth, Belfast, Cork, Drogheda, Dublin, Galway, Limerick, Londonderry, Newry, Sligo, Waterford, and Wexford;

— or into some other port or ports which may hereafter be appointed for such purpose by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury; such appointments in Great Britain being published in the London Gazette, and such appointments in Ireland being published in the Dublin Gazette;

— but any ship wholly laden with tobacco may come into the ports of Cowes or Falmouth to wait for orders, and there remain fourteen days, provided due report of such ship be made by the master with the collector or comptroller of such port.

And if any goods shall be imported or brought into the United Kingdom contrary to any of the provisions or restrictions mentioned in such table in respect of such goods, the same shall be forfeited.

LXIV. Provided and enacted, That any goods, of whatsoever sort, may be imported into the United Kingdom to be warehoused under the regulations of any Act in force for the time being for the warehousing of goods, without payment of duty at the time of the first entry thereof, or notwithstanding that such goods may be prohibited to be imported into the United Kingdom.

dom to be used therein, except the several sorts of goods enumerated or described in manner following; (that is to say,) goods prohibited on account of the package in which they are contained, or the tonnage of the ship in which they are laden; arms, ammunition, or utensils of war; gunpowder, infected hides, horns, hoofs, skins, or any other part of any cattle or beast; counterfeit coin or tokens; books, wherein the copyright will be subsisting, first composed or written or printed in the United Kingdom, and printed or reprinted in any other country, as to which the proprietor of such copyright or his agent shall have given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs a notice in writing that such copyright subsists, such notice also stating when such copyright will expire; copies of prints first engraved, etched, drawn, or designed in the United Kingdom; copies of casts of sculptures or models first made in the United Kingdom; clocks or watches, being such as are prohibited to be imported for home use.

LXV. That if by reason of the sort of any goods, or of the place from whence or the country or navigation of the ship in which any goods have been imported, they be such or be so imported as that they may not be used in the United Kingdom, they shall not be entered except to be warehoused, and it shall be declared upon the entry of such goods that they are entered to be warehoused for exportation only.

And after reciting that it is expedient that the officers of Customs should have full cognizance of all ships departing from any port or place in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man for parts beyond the seas, and of all goods taken out of the United Kingdom or out of the Isle of Man; and it is therefore necessary to make regulations for the entering and clearing outwards of all such ships, and for the entering, clearing, and shipping of all such goods;—

It is Enacted,

LXVI. That no goods shall be shipped, or waterborne to be shipped, on board any ship in any port or place in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, to be carried to parts beyond the seas, before due entry outwards of such ship and due entry of such goods shall have been made, and cocket granted, nor before such goods shall have been duly cleared for shipment in manner hereinafter directed; and that no stores shall be shipped for the use of any ship bound to parts beyond the seas, nor shall any goods be deemed or admitted to be such stores, except such as shall be borne upon the victualling bill duly granted for such ship; and that no goods shall be so shipped, or waterborne to be so shipped, except at such times and places, and in such manner, and by such persons, and under the care of such officers, as is and are hereinafter directed; and all goods and stores which shall be shipped, or be waterborne to be shipped, contrary hereto, shall be forfeited.

LXVII. That no ship on board of which any goods or stores shall have been shipped in any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man for parts beyond the seas shall depart from such port until such ship shall have been duly cleared outwards for her intended voyage in manner hereinafter directed, under forfeiture of the sum of 100*l.* by the master of such ship.

LXVIII. That the master of every ship which is to depart from any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man for parts beyond the seas shall, upon due application made by him, receive from the searcher a victualling bill for the shipment of such stores as he shall require, and as shall be allowed by the collector and comptroller, for the use of such ship, according to the voyage upon which she is about to depart; and that no articles taken on board any ship shall be deemed to be stores except such as shall be borne upon the victualling bill for the same.

LXIX. That the master of every ship in which any goods are to be exported from the United Kingdom or from the Isle of Man to parts beyond the seas shall, before any goods be taken on board, deliver to the collector or comptroller a certificate from the proper officer of the clearance inwards or coastwise of such ship of her last voyage, specifying what goods, if any, have been reported inwards for exportation, and shall also deliver to the collector or comptroller an account, signed by the master or his agent, of the entry outwards of such ship for her intended voyage, setting forth the name and tonnage of the ship, the name of the place to which she belongs if a British ship, or of the country if a foreign ship, the name of the master, and the name or names of the place or places for which she is bound, if any goods are to be shipped for the same, and the name of the place in each port at which she is to take in her lading for such voyage; and if such ship shall have commenced her lading at some other port, the master shall state the name of any port at which any goods have been laden, and shall produce a certificate from the searcher that the cockets for such goods have been delivered to him; and the particulars of such account shall be written and arranged in such form and manner as the collector and comptroller shall require; and such account shall be the entry outwards of such ship, and shall be entered in a book to be kept by the collector for the information of all parties interested; and if any goods be taken on board any ship before she shall have been entered outwards, the master shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*: Provided always, that where it shall become necessary to lade any heavy goods on board any ship before the whole of the inward cargo is discharged, it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller to issue a stiffening order for that purpose, previous to the entry outwards of the ship.

LXX. That the person entering outwards any goods to be exported to parts beyond the seas from any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man shall deliver to the collector or comptroller a bill of the entry thereof fairly written, or fairly written in part and fairly printed in part, in words at length, expressing the name of the ship and of the master, and of the place to which the goods are to be exported, and of the person in whose name the goods are to be entered, and the quantities and proper denominations or descriptions of the several sorts of goods, and shall pay down any duties which may be due upon the exportation of any such goods; and such person shall also deliver at the same time one or more duplicates of such bill, in which all sums and numbers may be expressed in figures; and the particulars to be contained in such bill shall be arranged in such form and manner, and the number of such duplicates shall be such as the collector and comptroller shall require; and thereupon the collector and comptroller shall cause a cocket to be written for such goods, making it known that such goods have been so entered; and every cocket shall be signed by such collector and comptroller, and be delivered to the person who shall have made such entry, and such person shall keep and be responsible for the proper use of the same.

LXXI. That if any drawback or bounty be allowable upon the exportation of any such goods, or any duty be payable thereon, or any exemption from duty claimed, or if any such goods be exportable only according to some particular rule or regulation, or under some restriction or condition, or for some particular purpose or destination, such goods shall be entered and cleared for shipment by such denominations or descriptions as are used, mentioned, or referred to in the granting of such drawback or bounty, or in the levying of such duty, or granting such exemption, or in the directing of such rules, regulations, restrictions, conditions, purpose, or destination.

LXXII. That the person intending to enter outwards any foreign goods for drawback, at any other port than that at which the duties inwards on such goods had been paid, shall first deliver to the collector or comptroller of the port where the duties on such goods were paid two or more bills, as the case may require, of the particulars of the importation of such goods, and of the entry outwards intended to be made; and thereupon the collector and comptroller, finding such bills to agree with the entry inwards, shall write off such goods from the same, and shall issue a certificate of such entry, with such particulars thereof as shall be necessary for the computation of the drawback allowable on such goods, and setting forth in such certificate the destination of the goods, and the person in whose name they are to be entered for exportation, and also the name of such other port; and such certificate, together with two or more bills of the same, as the case may require, in which all sums and numbers may be expressed in figures, being delivered to the collector or comptroller of the port from which the goods are to be exported, shall be the entry outwards of such goods; and such collector and comptroller shall thereupon cause a cocket to be written and delivered for such goods, in manner hereinbefore directed.

LXXIII. That no drawback shall be allowed on any tobacco which shall not have been wholly manufactured from tobacco on which the full duty on importation shall have been paid, nor on any tobacco which shall be mixed with dirt or rubbish or any other ingredients; and every person who shall enter or ship, or cause to be entered or shipped, or produce or cause to be produced to any officer of Customs to be shipped, for exportation or for stores, any tobacco not entitled to drawback, with intent unduly to obtain any drawback thereon, or any greater drawback than he would otherwise be entitled to, shall, over and above all other penalties which he may thereby incur, forfeit treble the amount of the drawback sought to be obtained, or 200*l.*, at the election of the Commissioners of Customs; and all such tobacco shall be forfeited, and may be seized by any officer of Customs or Excise.

LXXIV. That no drawback shall be allowed upon the exportation of any goods entered for drawback or of stores which shall be of less value than the amount of the drawback claimed, and that all such goods so entered shall be forfeited, and that the person who caused such goods to be entered shall forfeit the sum of 200*l.*, or treble the amount of the drawback claimed in such case, at the election of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

LXXV. That upon the entry outwards of any goods, except wine, upon which a drawback of the duties paid upon the importation thereof is allowed, and before cocket is granted, the person in whose name the same are entered shall give security by bond in double the amount of such duties, with one sufficient surety, that such goods shall be duly shipped and exported to and shall be landed at the place for which they shall be entered outwards, or otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the said Commissioners with reference to the place of exportation.

LXXVI. That all bonds given to prevent the relanding of plate in respect of which any drawback shall be allowed upon the exportation thereof shall be liable only to the same duties of stamps as any bonds given for or in respect of the duties of Customs, or for preventing frauds or evasions thereof, are or shall be liable to under any Act for the time being in force for granting duties of stamps.

LXXVII. That no cocket shall be granted for the exportation of any coals to any British possession in a foreign ship until the exporter thereof shall have given security by bond in a penal sum of double the amount of the duty payable on the exportation of such coals, with condition that the same shall be landed at the place for which they shall be exported, or otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of the Customs, and also with condition to produce, within such time as the said Commissioners shall require, to be expressed in such bond, a certificate of the landing of such coals at such place, under the hand of the collector or comptroller or other proper officer at such place: Provided always, that the bond so to be given in respect of coals shall not be liable to any duty of stamps.

LXXVIII. That before any part of the goods for which any cocket shall have been granted shall be shipped, or waterborne to be shipped, the same shall be duly cleared for shipment with the searcher; the particulars of the goods for each clearance shall be indorsed on such cocket, together with the number and denomination or description of the respective packages containing the same; and in the margin of each such indorsement shall be delineated the respective marks and numbers of such packages; and to each such indorsement shall be subjoined in words at length, an account of the total quantities of each sort of goods intended in such indorsement, and the total number of each sort of package in which such goods are contained, distinguishing such goods, if any, as are to be cleared for any bounty or drawback of Excise or Customs, and also such goods, if any, as are subject to any duty on exportation, or entitled to any exemption from such duty, and also such goods, if any, as can only be exported by virtue of some particular order or authority, or under some particular restriction or condition, or for some particular purpose or destination; and all goods shipped, or waterborne to be shipped, not being duly cleared as aforesaid, shall be forfeited.

LXXIX. That the person clearing such goods for shipment shall upon each occasion produce the cocket so indorsed to the searcher, and shall also deliver a shipping bill, or copy of such indorsement, referring by names and date to the cocket upon which such indorsement is made, and shall obtain the order of the searcher for the shipment of such goods; and the particulars to be contained in such indorsement and in such shipping bill shall be written and arranged in such form and manner as the collector and comptroller shall require.

LXXX. That if any coals shall have been brought coastwise from one port of the United Kingdom to another, and the master shall be minded to proceed with such coals or any part of them to parts beyond the seas, it shall be lawful for such master to enter such ship and such coals outwards for the intended voyage without first landing the coals intended for exportation.

tion, provided the officers of the Customs shall be satisfied that the quantity of coals left on board does not exceed the quantity so entered outwards.

LXXXI. That upon the clearance for shipment of any goods the produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom an account containing an accurate specification of the quantity, quality, and value of such goods, together with a declaration to the truth of the same, signed by the exporter or his known agent, shall be delivered to the searcher by the person clearing such goods; and if such declaration be false the person signing the same shall forfeit the sum of 20*l*.; and that it shall be lawful for the searcher to call for the invoice, bills of parcels, and such other documents relating to the goods as he may think necessary for ascertaining the true value of the same: Provided always, that if such exporter or agent shall make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller, that the value of the goods cannot be ascertained in time for the shipment of the same, and such declaration shall be delivered to the searcher at the time of clearance, a further time of three months shall be allowed for the delivery of such separate shipping bill, on failure whereof such exporter or agent shall forfeit the sum of 20*l*.

LXXXII. That no drawback of Excise shall be allowed upon any goods so cleared unless the person intending to claim such drawback shall have given due notice to the officer of Excise, in form and manner required by any law in force relating to the Excise, and shall have obtained and have produced to the searcher at the time of clearing such goods a proper document under the hand of the officer of Excise, containing the necessary description of the goods for which such drawback is to be claimed; and if the goods to be cleared and shipped under the care of the searchers shall, upon examination, be found to correspond in all respects with the particulars of the goods contained in such document, and such goods shall be duly shipped and exported, the searcher shall, if required, certify such shipment upon such document, and shall transmit the same to the officer of Excise.

LXXXIII. That it shall be lawful for the officer of Excise, if he see fit, to attend and assist at such examination, and to mark or seal the packages, and to keep joint charge of the same, together with the searcher, until the same shall have been finally delivered by him into the sole charge of the searcher, to be shipped and exported under his care.

LXXXIV. That if any goods which are subject to any duty or restriction in respect of exportation, or if any goods which are to be shipped for any drawback or bounty shall be brought to any quay, wharf, or other place, to be shipped for exportation, and such goods shall not agree with the indorsement on the cocket, or with the shipping bill, the same shall be forfeited; and if any goods prohibited to be exported be found in any package brought as aforesaid, such package and every thing contained therein shall be forfeited.

LXXXV. That it shall be lawful for the searcher to open all packages, and fully to examine all goods shipped or brought for shipment at any place in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man; and if the goods so examined shall be found to correspond in all respects with the cocket and clearance purporting to be for the same, such goods shall be repacked at the charge of such searcher, who may be allowed such charge by the Commissioners of the Customs, if they shall see fit so to do.

LXXXVI. That before any ship shall be cleared outwards at any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, for parts beyond the seas, with any goods shipped on board the same in such port, the master shall deliver a content of such ship to the searcher, setting forth the name and tonnage of such ship, and the place or places of her destination, and the name of the master, and also an account of the goods shipped on board, and of the packages containing such goods, and of the marks and numbers upon such packages, and a like account of the goods on board, if any, which had been reported inwards for exportation in such ship, so far as any of such particulars can be known by him; and also, before the clearance of such ship, the cockets, with the indorsements and clearances thereon for the goods shipped, shall be finally delivered by the respective shippers of such goods to the searcher, who shall file the same together, and shall attach with a seal a label to the file, shewing the number of cockets contained in the file, and shall compare the particulars of the goods in the cockets with the particulars of the goods in such content, and shall attest the correctness thereof by his signature on the label and on the content; and the master of the ship shall make and sign a declaration before the collector or comptroller to the truth of such content, and shall so answer to the collector or comptroller such questions concerning the ship, the cargo, and the intended voyage, as shall be demanded of him; and thereupon the collector or comptroller shall clear such ship for her intended voyage, and shall notify such clearance and the date thereof upon the content, and upon the label to the file of cockets, and upon the victualling bill, and also in the book of ships entries outwards, for the information of all parties interested, and shall transmit the content, and the cockets, and the victualling bill to the searcher; and the particulars to be contained in such content shall be written and framed in such form and manner as the collector and comptroller shall require.

LXXXVII. That the file of cockets and the victualling bill shall thereupon be delivered by the searcher to the master of such ship, at such station within the port and in such manner as shall be appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for that purpose; and such file of cockets and victualling bill, so delivered, shall be kept by the master of such ship as authority for departing from the port with the several parcels and packages of goods and of stores on board, so far as they shall agree with the particulars in the indorsements on such cockets or with such victualling bill.

LXXXVIII. That if any ship is to depart in ballast from the United Kingdom or from the Isle of Man for parts beyond the seas, having no goods on board except the stores of such ship borne upon the victualling bill, or any goods reported inwards for exportation in such ship, the master of such ship shall, before her departure, answer to the collector or comptroller such questions touching her departure and destination as shall be demanded of him; and thereupon the collector or comptroller shall clear such ship in ballast, and shall notify such clearance and the date thereof on the victualling bill, and also in the book of ships entries outwards, for the information of all parties interested; and such victualling bill shall be kept by the master of such ship as the clearance of the same.

LXXXIX. That slate and slates and chalk laden on board any ship bound to foreign parts shall be deemed to be ballast; and at every such ship having on board slate and slates and chalk only, or either of them, shall be deemed to be a ship departing in ballast; and if on the return of any such ship any slate or slates or chalk shall be remaining on board, the same shall be deemed to be the ballast of such ship.

xc. That if there be on board any ship any goods of the inward cargo which were reported for exportation in the same, the master shall, before clearance outwards of such ship from any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, deliver to the searcher a copy of the report inwards of such goods, certified by the collector and comptroller; and such copy, being found to correspond with the goods so remaining on board, shall be the authority to the searcher to pass such ship with such goods on board, and being signed by the searcher, and filed with the cockets, shall be the clearance of the ship for those goods.

xcI. That if any passengers are to depart in any ship from the United Kingdom or from the Isle of Man for parts beyond the seas, it shall be lawful for the master of such ship to pass an entry and to receive a cocket in his name for the necessary personal baggage of all such passengers, and duly to clear such baggage for shipment in their behalf, stating in such clearance the particulars of the packages and the names of the respective passengers; and if such ship is to take no other goods than the necessary personal baggage of passengers actually going the voyage, it shall be lawful for such master to enter such ship outwards in ballast for passengers only; and if no other goods than such baggage duly entered and cleared be taken on board such ship, the same shall be deemed to be a ship in ballast, notwithstanding such baggage, and shall be described in the clearance, on the content and on the label to the cocket or cockets, and on the victualling bill and in the book of ships entries, as a ship cleared in ballast, except as to the necessary personal baggage of passengers going the voyage.

xcII. That if the master and crew of any foreign ship which is to depart in ballast from the United Kingdom for parts beyond the seas shall be desirous to take on board chalk rubbish by way of ballast, or to take with them for their private use any small quantities of goods of British manufacture, it shall be lawful for such master, without entering such ship outwards, to pass an entry in his name, and receive a cocket free of any export duty for all such goods, under the general denomination of British manufactures not prohibited to be exported, being for the use and privilege of the master and crew, and not being of greater value than in the proportion of 20*l.* for the master, and 10*l.* for the mate, and 5*l.* for each of the crew, and stating that the ship is in ballast; and the master shall duly clear such goods for shipment on behalf of himself and crew, stating in such clearances the particulars of the goods and packages, and the names of the crew who shall jointly or severally take any of such goods under this privilege; and such ship shall be deemed to be a ship in ballast, and be cleared as such, and without a content, notwithstanding such goods or such cocket or cockets; and such clearance shall be notified by the collector or comptroller on the label to the cocket or cockets, and on the victualling bill, and in the book of ships entries, as a clearance in ballast, except as to the privilege of the master and crew.

xcIII. That it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs to go on board any ship after clearance outwards, within the limits of any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, or within four leagues of the coast thereof, and to demand the file of cockets and the victualling bill, and if there be any goods or stores on board not contained in the indorsements on the cockets nor in the victualling bill, such goods or stores shall be forfeited; and if any goods contained in such indorsements be not on board, the master shall forfeit the sum of 20*l.* for every package or parcel of goods contained in such indorsements and not on board; and if any cocket be at any time falsified, the person who shall have falsified the same, or who shall have wilfully used the same, shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

xcIV. That every ship departing from any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man shall bring to at such stations within the port as shall be appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for the landing of officers from such ships, or for further examination previous to such departure.

xcV. That no drawback or bounty shall be allowed upon the exportation from the United Kingdom of any goods unless such goods shall have been entered in the name of the person who was the real owner thereof at the time of entry and shipping, or of the person who had actually purchased and shipped the same, in his own name and at his own liability and risk, on commission, according to the practice of merchants, and who was and shall have continued to be entitled in his own right to such drawback or bounty, except in the cases hereinafter provided for.

xcVI. That such owner or commission merchant shall make and subscribe a declaration upon the debenture that the goods mentioned therein have been actually exported, and have not been relanded, and are not intended to be relanded in any part of the United Kingdom, nor in the Isle of Man, (unless entered for the Isle of Man,) nor in the islands of Faro or Ferro, and that he was the real owner thereof at the time of entry and shipping, or that he had purchased and shipped the said goods in his own name and at his own liability and risk, on commission, as the case may be, and that he was and continued to be entitled to the drawback or bounty thereon in his own right: Provided always, that if such owner or merchant shall not have purchased the right to such drawback or bounty he shall declare under his hand upon the entry and upon the debenture that person who is entitled thereto, and the name of such person shall be stated in the cocket and in the debenture; and the receipt of such person on the debenture shall be the discharge for such drawback or bounty.

xcVII. That if such owner or merchant shall be resident in some part of the United Kingdom being more than twenty miles from the custom house of the port of shipment, he may appoint any person to be his agent to make and pass his entry, and to clear and ship his goods, and to receive for him the drawback or bounty payable on his debenture, if payable to him, provided the name of such agent and the residence of such owner or merchant be subjoined to the name of such owner or merchant in the entry and in the cocket for such goods; and such agent, being duly informed, shall make declaration upon the entry, if any be necessary, and also upon the debenture, in behalf of such owner or merchant, to the effect before required of such owner or merchant, and shall answer such questions touching his knowledge of the exportation of such goods and the property therein, and of the right to the drawback or bounty, as shall be demanded of him by the collector or comptroller; and if any such goods be exported by any corporation or company trading by a joint stock it shall be lawful for them to appoint any person to be their agent for the like purposes and with the like powers to act in their behalf.

xcVIII. That if any goods which are to be exported for drawback be the property of any person residing abroad, having been consigned by the owner thereof to some person as his agent residing in the United Kingdom, to be exported through the same to parts beyond the seas, by such agent, upon account of such owner, it shall be lawful for such person (being the consignee by whom and in whose name the duties inwards on such goods had been paid, or his legal representative), in like manner, agent for such owner, to enter, clear, and ship such goods for him, and upon like conditions to receive for him the drawback payable thereon.

XCIX. That no drawback shall be allowed upon the exportation of any goods unless such goods be shipped within three years after the payment of the duties inwards thereon, and that no debenture for any drawback or bounty allowed upon the exportation of any goods shall be paid after the expiration of two years from the date of the shipment of such goods.

c. That for the purpose of computing and paying any drawback or bounty payable upon any goods duly entered, shipped, and exported, a debenture shall in due time after such entry be prepared by the collector and comptroller, certifying in the first instance the entry outwards of such goods; and so soon as the same shall have been duly exported, and a notice containing the particulars of the goods shall have been delivered by the exporter to the searcher, the shipment and exportation thereof shall be certified to the collector and comptroller, upon such debenture, by the searcher, and the debenture shall thereupon be computed and passed with all convenient despatch, and be delivered to the person entitled to receive the same.

CI. That no drawback or bounty shall be allowed for any goods carried by sea from the United Kingdom to the Isle of Man until a certificate shall be produced from the collector and comptroller of the Customs of the Isle of Man of the due landing of such goods.

CII. That no goods cleared for drawback or bounty, or from the warehouse, shall be carried or waterborne to be put on board any ship for exportation from the United Kingdom, by any person, unless such person shall be authorized for that purpose by licence under the hands of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs; and that, before granting such licence, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to require such security by bond for the faithful and incorrupt conduct of such person as they shall deem necessary; and that after granting such licence it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to revoke the same, if the person to whom the same shall have been granted shall be convicted of any offence against the laws relating to the Customs or Excise: Provided always, that all such licences which shall be in force at the time of the commencement of this Act shall continue in force as if the same had been afterwards granted under the authority of this Act.

CIII. That if any goods which have been taken from the warehouse to be exported from the same, or any goods which have been cleared to be exported for any drawback or bounty, shall not be duly exported to parts beyond the seas, or shall be reloaded in any part of the United Kingdom, (such goods not having been duly reloaded or discharged as short-shipped under the care of the proper officers,) or shall be landed in the islands of Faro or Ferro, or shall be carried to any of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, (not having been duly entered, cleared, and shipped, to be exported or carried directly to such islands,) the same shall be forfeited, together with the ship from or by which the same had been so reloaded, landed, or carried, and any other ship, vessel, boat, or craft which may have been used in so reloading, landing, or carrying such goods; and any person by whom or by whose orders or means such goods shall have been so taken or cleared, or so reloaded, landed, or carried, shall forfeit a sum equal to treble the value of such goods.

CIV. That a drawback of the whole of the duties of Customs shall be allowed for wine intended for the consumption of officers of Her Majesty's navy, on board such of Her Majesty's ships in actual service as they shall serve in, not exceeding the quantities of wine, in any one year, for the use of such officers, hereinafter respectively mentioned; (that is to say,)

For every	Admiral	Gallons.
—	Vice-admiral	1,260
—	Rear-admiral	1,050
—	Captain of the first and second rate	840
—	Captain of the third, fourth, and fifth rate	630
—	Captain of an inferior rate	420
—	Lieutenant and other commanding officer, and for every marine officer	210
—		105

Provided always, that such wine be shipped only at one of the ports hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,) London, Liverpool, Rochester, Deal, Dover, Portsmouth, Plymouth, Yarmouth, Falmouth, Belfast, Dublin, Cork, Leith, or Glasgow.

CV. That the person entering such wine, and claiming the drawback for the same, shall state in the entry and declare on a debenture the name of the officer for whose use such wine is intended, and of the ship in which he serves; and such wine shall be delivered into the charge of the officers of the Customs at the port of shipment, to be secured in the Queen's warehouse until the same shall be shipped under their care; and such officers having certified upon the debenture the receipt of such wine into their charge, the debenture shall be computed and passed, and be delivered to the person entitled to receive the same.

CVI. That, if any such officer shall leave the service, or be removed to another ship, it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs, at any of the ports before mentioned, to permit the transfer of any such wine from one officer to another, as part of a proportion, whether on board the same ship or another, or the transshipment from one ship to another for the same officer for the reloading and warehousing for future reshipment; and it shall also be lawful for the officers of Customs at any port to receive back the duties for any of such wine, and deliver the same for home use: Provided always, that if any of such wine be landed on board the ship for which the same was intended, or be unladen from such ship without permission of the proper officer of the Customs, the same shall be forfeited.

CVII. That it shall be lawful for the purser of any of Her Majesty's ships of war in actual service to enter and ship at the ports of Rochester, Portsmouth, or Plymouth, in the proportions hereinafter mentioned, any tobacco there warehoused in his name, or transferred into his name, for the use of the ship in which he shall serve, provided such purser shall deliver, to the collector or comptroller of such port a certificate from the captain of such ship, stating the name of the purser and the number of casks belonging to the ship, and shall also give bond, with one sufficient surety, in treble the duties payable on the tobacco, that no part thereof shall be reloaded in the United Kingdom without leave of the officers of the Customs, or be landed in any of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man.

CVIII. That if any purser shall be removed from one ship to another it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller of the port where such ships shall be to permit the transhipment of the remains of any such tobacco for the use of such other ship, upon due entry of such tobacco by such purser, setting forth the time when and the port at which such tobacco was first shipped; and if any such ship shall be paid off it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller of any port where such ship shall be paid off to permit the remains of any such tobacco to be landed, and to be entered by the purser of such ship, either for payment of duties or to be warehoused for the term of six months, for the supply of some other such ship, in like manner as any tobacco may be warehoused and supplied at either of the ports before mentioned, or for payment of all duties within such six months: Provided always, that all tobacco warehoused for the purpose of so supplying Her Majesty's ships, of war shall be subject to the provisions of any Act in force relating to the warehousing of tobacco generally, as far as the same are applicable, and are not expressly altered by any of the provisions herein particularly made.

CIX. That no greater quantity of such tobacco shall be allowed to any ship of war than two pounds by the lunar month for each of the crew of such ship, nor shall any greater quantity be shipped at any one time than sufficient to serve the crew of such ship for six months after such rate of allowance; and the collector and comptroller of the port at or from which any such tobacco shall be supplied to any such ship, or landed from any such ship, or transferred from one such ship to another, shall transmit a particular account thereof to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, in order that a general account may be kept of all the quantities supplied to and consumed on board each of such ships under the allowances before granted.

CX. That no goods shall be put off from any wharf, quay, or other place, or shall be waterborne, in order to be exported but only on days not being Sundays or holidays, and in the daytime; (that is to say,) from the first day of September until the last day of March betwixt sun-rising and sun-setting, and from the last day of March until the first day of September between the hours of seven of the clock in the morning and four of the clock in the afternoon; nor shall any such goods be then put off or waterborne for exportation unless in the presence or with the authority of the proper officer of the Customs, nor except from a legal quay appointed by Her Majesty, or at some wharf, quay, or place appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for shipping of such goods by sufferance.

CXI. That if any goods liable to forfeiture for being shipped for exportation shall be shipped and exported without discovery by the officers of the Customs, the person or persons who shall cause such goods to be exported shall forfeit double the value of such goods.

CXII. That the several sorts of goods enumerated or described in the table following (denominated "A Table of Prohibitions and Restrictions Outwards") shall be either absolutely prohibited to be exported from the United Kingdom, or shall be exported only under the restrictions mentioned in such table, according as the several sorts of such goods are respectively set forth therein; (that is to say,)

A TABLE OF PROHIBITIONS AND RESTRICTIONS OUTWARDS.

Clocks and watches; viz.

— any outward or inward box, case, or dial plate, if any metal, without the movement in or with every such box, case, or dial plate, made up fit for use, with the clock or watch maker's name engraven thereon.

Lace; viz.

— any metal inferior to silver which shall be spun, mixed, wrought, or set upon silk, or which shall be gilt, or drawn into wire, or flattened into plate, and spun or woven, or wrought into or upon, or mixed with lace, fringe, cord, embroidery, tambour work, or buttons, made in the gold or silver lace manufactory, or set upon silk, or made into bullion, spangles, or pearl, or any other materials made in the gold or silver lace manufactory, or which shall imitate or be meant to imitate such lace, fringe, cord, embroidery, tambour work, or buttons; nor shall any person export any copper, brass, or other metal which shall be silvered or drawn into wire, or flattened into plate, or made into bullion, spangles, or pearl, or any other materials used in the gold or silver lace manufactory, or in imitation of such lace, fringe, cord, embroidery, tambour work, or buttons, or of any of the materials used in making the same, and which shall hold more or bear a greater proportion than three pennyweights of fine silver to the pound avoirdupoise of such copper, brass, or other metals.

— any metal inferior to silver, whether gilt, silvered, stained, or coloured, or otherwise, which shall be worked up or mixed with gold or silver in any manufactory of lace, fringe, cord, embroidery, tambour work, or buttons.

A List of Goods which may be PROHIBITED to be EXPORTED by Proclamation or Order in Council.

Arms, ammunition, and gunpowder.

Ashes, pot and pearl.

Military stores and naval stores, and any articles (except copper) which Her Majesty shall judge capable of being converted into or made useful in increasing the quantity of military or naval stores.

Provisions or any sort of victual which may be used as food by man.

And if any goods shall be exported, or be waterborne to be exported, from the United Kingdom, contrary to any of the prohibitions or restrictions mentioned in such table in respect of such goods, the same shall be forfeited.

And after reciting that it is necessary to make regulations for the coasting trade of the United Kingdom and of the Isle of Man, and that the officers of the Customs should have cognizance of all ships carrying any goods coastwise from one part of the United Kingdom to another part of it, or to the Isle of Man, or from one part of the Isle of Man to another part of it, and of all goods so carried, in order that such trade may be confined to British ships, and that all duties levied coastwise may be duly collected, and that the laws for regulating the importation and exportation of goods from and to parts beyond the seas may not be evaded:—

It is Enacted,

CXIII. That all trade by sea from any one part of the United Kingdom to any other part thereof, or to the Isle of Man, or from the Isle of Man to any part of the United Kingdom, or from one part of the Isle of Man to another part thereof, shall be deemed to be a coasting trade, and all ships while employed therein shall be deemed to be coasting ships; and that no part of the United Kingdom or of the Isle of Man, however situated with regard to any other part, shall be deemed in law, with reference to each other, to be parts beyond the seas in any matter relating to the trade or navigation or revenue of this realm: Provided always, that all goods liable to duty of Customs upon the importation or bringing of them into the Isle of Man, when brought from the United Kingdom into the said isle, and all vessels bringing the same, shall be liable to the same rules and regulations as are required by law in respect of goods imported into the said isle from foreign parts, and in respect of the vessels bringing the same; and all penalties and forfeitures inflicted by law for any breach of the said rules and regulations shall attach upon all goods so brought into the said isle contrary to the said rules and regulations or any of them, and upon all persons committing any breach of any such rule or regulation; and such penalties and forfeitures may be recovered in the same manner as any penalty or forfeiture may be recovered by any Act relating to the Customs.

And after reciting that some parts of the coast of the United Kingdom may be so situated with regard to other neighbouring parts thereof that doubts may arise in some cases whether the passage between them by water shall be deemed to be a passage by sea within the meaning of this Act; and that in other cases, although such passage be by sea, it may be unnecessary for the purposes of this Act, or of any Act relating to the Customs to subject ships passing between such places to the restraints of coast regulations:—

It is Enacted,

CLIV. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to determine and direct in what cases the trade by water from any place on the coast of the United Kingdom to another of the same shall or shall not be deemed a trade by sea within the meaning of this Act, or of any Act relating to the Customs.

CLV. That no goods shall be carried in any coasting ship except such as shall be laden to be so carried at some port or place in the United Kingdom, or at some port or place in the Isle of Man respectively; and that no goods shall be laden on board any ship to be carried coastwise until all goods brought in such ship from parts beyond the seas shall have been unladen; and that if any goods shall be taken into or put out of any coasting ship at sea or over the sea, or if any coasting ship shall touch at any place over the sea, or deviate from her voyage, unless forced by unavoidable circumstances, or if the master of any coasting ship which shall have touched at any place over the sea shall not declare the same in writing under his hand to the collector or comptroller at the port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man where such ship shall afterwards first arrive, the master of such ship shall forfeit the sum of 200*l*.

CLVI. That no goods shall be laden on board any ship in any port or place in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man to be carried coastwise, nor having been brought coastwise shall be unladen in any such port or place from any ship, until due notice in writing, signed by the master, shall have been given to the collector or comptroller, by the master, owner, wharfinger, or agent of such ship, of the intention to lade goods on board the same to be so carried, or of the arrival of such ship with goods so brought, (as the case may be,) nor until proper documents shall have been granted as hereinafter directed for the lading or for the unloading of such goods; and such goods shall not be laden or unladen except at such times and places, and in such manner, and by such persons, and under the care of such officers, as is and are hereinafter directed; and all goods laden to be so carried, or brought to be so unladen, contrary hereto, shall be forfeited.

CLVII. That in such notice shall be stated the name and tonnage of the ship, and the name of the port to which she belongs, and the name of the master, and the name of the port to which she is bound or from which she has arrived, and the name or description of the wharf or place at which her lading is to be taken in or discharged (as the case may be); and such notice shall be signed by the master, owner, wharfinger, or agent of such ship, and shall be entered in a book to be kept by the collector for the information of all parties interested; and every such notice for the unloading of any ship or vessel shall be delivered within twenty-four hours after the arrival of such ship or vessel, under a penalty of 20*l*, to be paid by the master of such ship or vessel; and in every such notice for the lading of any ship or vessel shall be stated the last voyage on which such ship or vessel shall have arrived at such port; and if such voyage shall have been from parts beyond the seas there shall be produced with such notice a certificate from the proper officer of the discharge of all goods (if any) brought in such ship, and of the due clearance of such ship or vessel inwards of such voyage.

CLVIII. That upon the arrival of any coasting ship at any port in Great Britain from Ireland, or at any port in Ireland from Great Britain, the master of such ship shall within twenty-four hours after such arrival attend and deliver such notice, signed by him, to the collector or comptroller; and if such ship shall have on board any goods subject on arrival to any duty of excise, or any goods which had been imported from parts beyond the seas, the particulars of such goods, with the marks and numbers of the packages containing the same, shall be set forth in such notice; and if there shall be no such goods on board, then it shall be declared in such notice that no such goods are on board; and the master shall also answer any questions relating to the voyage as shall be demanded of him by the collector or comptroller; and every master who shall fail in due time to deliver such notice, and truly to answer such questions, shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

CLIX. That when due notice shall have been given to the collector or comptroller at the port of lading of the intention to lade goods on board any coasting ship, such collector or comptroller shall grant a general sursuffiance for the lading of goods (without specifying the same) on board such ship, at the wharf or place which shall be expressed in such sursuffiance; and such sursuffiance shall be a sufficient authority for the lading of any sort of goods, except such (if any) as shall be expressly excepted therein: Provided always, that before any sursuffiance be granted for any goods prohibited to be exported the master or owner of any such ship, or the shipper of such goods, shall give bond, with one sufficient surety, in treble the value of the goods, that the same shall be landed at the port for which such sursuffiance is required, or shall be otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

CLX. That the master of every coasting ship shall keep or cause to be kept a cargo book of the same, stating the name of the ship and of the master, and of the port to which she belongs, and of the port to which bound on each voyage; and in such book shall be entered, at the port of lading, an account of all goods taken on board such ship, stating the descriptions of the packages, and the quantities and descriptions of the goods therein, and the quantities and descriptions of any goods stowed loose, and the names of the respective shippers and consignees, as far as any of such particulars shall be known to him; and in which book, at the port of discharge, shall be noted the respective days upon which any of such goods be delivered out of such ship, and also the respective times of departure from the port of lading, and of arrival at any port of unloading; and such master shall produce such book for the inspection of the coast-waiter or other proper officer, so often as the same shall be demanded, and who shall be at liberty to make any note or remark therein; and if such master shall fail correctly to keep such book, or to produce the same, or if at any time there be found on board such ship any goods not entered in the cargo book as laden, or any goods noted as delivered, or if at any time it be found that any goods entered as laden, or any goods not noted as delivered, be not on board, the master of such ship shall forfeit the sum of 50*l*.; and if, upon examination at the port of lading, any package entered in the cargo book as containing any foreign goods shall be found not to contain such goods, such package, with its contents, shall be forfeited; and if at the port of discharge any shall be found to contain any foreign goods which are not entered in such book, such goods shall be forfeited.

CXXI. That before any coasting ship shall depart from the port of lading, an account, together with a duplicate of the same, all fairly written, and signed by the master, shall be delivered to the collector or comptroller; and in such account shall be set forth such particulars as are required to be entered in the cargo book of all foreign goods, and of all corn, grain, meal, flour, or malt laden on board, and generally, whether any other British goods or no other British goods be laden on board, as the case may be, or whether such ship be wholly laden with British goods not being of any of the descriptions before mentioned, as the case may be; and the collector or comptroller shall select and retain one of such accounts, and shall return the other, dated and signed by him, and noting the clearance of the ship thereon; and such account shall be the clearance of the ship for the voyage, and the transire for the goods expressed therein; and if any such account be false, or shall not correspond with the cargo book, the master shall forfeit the sum of 50*l*.

CXXII. That before any goods be unladen from any coasting ship at the port of discharge, the master, owner, wharfinger, or agent of such ship shall deliver the transire to the collector or comptroller of such port, who shall thereupon grant an order for the unloading of such ship at the wharf or place specified in such order: Provided always, that if any of the goods on board such ship be subject to any duty of Customs or Excise payable on arrival coastwise at such port, the master, owner, wharfinger, or agent of such ship, or the consignee of such goods, shall also deliver to the collector or comptroller a bill of the entry of the particulars of such goods, expressed in words at length, together with a copy thereof, in which all sums and numbers may be expressed in figures, and shall pay down all duties of Customs, or produce a permit in respect of all duties of Excise, which shall be due and payable on any of such goods, as the case may be; and thereupon the collector and comptroller shall grant an order for the landing of such goods, in the presence or by the authority of the coast-waiter.

CXXIII. That it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller, in the cases hereinafter mentioned, to grant for any coasting ship a general transire, to continue in force for any time not exceeding one year from the date thereof, for the lading of any goods (except such goods, if any, as shall be expressly excepted therein), and for the clearance of the ship in which the goods shall be laden, and for the unloading of the goods at the place of discharge; (that is to say,)

For any ship regularly trading between places in the river Severn eastward of the Holmes:

For any ship regularly trading between places in the river Humber:

For any ship regularly trading between places in the Firth of Forth:

For any ship regularly trading between places to be named in the transire, and carrying only manure, lime, chalk, stone, gravel, sand, or any earth, not being fullers earth:

And that it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, whenever it shall appear to them to be necessary, to grant general transires, under such regulations and for such time as they may see fit, for the lading of any goods, and for the clearing the ship in which the goods shall be laden, and for the unloading the goods at the place of discharge: Provided always, that such transires shall be written in the cargo book hereinbefore required to be kept by the masters of coasting ships: Provided also, that if the said Commissioners or the collector and comptroller shall at any time revoke such transires, and notice thereof shall be given to the master or owner of the ship, or shall be given to any of the crew when on board the ship, or shall be entered in the cargo book by any officer of the Customs, such transires shall become void, and shall be delivered up by the master or owner to the collector or comptroller, or to any officer of Customs demanding the same.

CXXIV. That it shall be lawful in any case, and at all legal times, for the coast-waiter, and also for the landing-waiter, and for the searcher, and for any other proper officer of the Customs, to go on board any coasting ship in any port or place in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, or at any period of her voyage, and strictly to search such ship, and to examine all goods on board, and all goods being laden or unladen, and to demand all documents which ought to be on board such ship.

CXXV. That no goods shall be unshipped from any ship arriving coastwise in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, and also that no goods shall be shipped, or waterborne to be shipped, in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, to be carried coastwise, but only on days not being Sundays or holidays, and in the daytime, (that is to say,) from the first day of September until the last day of March betwixt sun-rising and sun-setting, and from the last day of March until the first day of September between the hours of seven of the clock in the morning and four of the clock in the afternoon; nor shall any goods be so unshipped, shipped, or waterborne unless in the presence or with the authority of the proper officer of the Customs, nor unless at places which shall be appointed or approved by the proper officer of the Customs.

CXXVI. That whenever any goods which may be prohibited to be exported by proclamation or by order in council, under the authority of this Act, shall be so prohibited, it shall, be lawful in such proclamation or order in council to prohibit or restrict the carrying of such goods coastwise; and if any such goods shall be carried coastwise, or shall be shipped or waterborne to be carried coastwise, contrary to any such prohibition or restriction, the same shall be forfeited.

And in order to avoid the frequent use of numerous terms and expressions in this Act, and in other Acts relating to the Customs, and to prevent any misconstruction of the terms and expressions used therein:—

It is Enacted,

CXXVII. That whenever the several terms or expressions following shall occur in this Act, or in any other Act relating to the Customs or to trade and navigation, the same shall be construed respectively in the manner hereinafter directed; (that is to say,) the term "ship" shall be construed to mean ship or vessel generally, unless such term shall be used to distinguish a ship from sloops, brigantines, and other classes of vessels; that the term "master" of any ship shall be construed to mean the person having or taking the charge or command of such ship; that the term "owners" and the term "owner" of any ship shall be construed alike to mean one owner, if there be only one, and any or all the owners, if there be more than one; that the term "mate" of any ship shall be construed to mean the person next in command of such ship to the master thereof; that the term "seaman" shall be construed to mean alike seaman, mariner, sailor, or landsman, being one of the crew of any ship; that the term "British possession" shall be construed to mean colony, plantation, island, territory, or settlement belonging to Her Majesty; that the term "Her Majesty" shall be construed to mean Her Majesty, her heirs and successors; that the term "limits of the East India Company's charter" shall be construed to mean the Cape of Good Hope, and all places and seas eastward thereof to the Straits of Magellan; that the terms "collector and comptroller" shall be construed to mean the collector and comptroller of the Customs of the port intended in the sentence; that whenever mention is made of any public officer the officer mentioned shall be deemed to be such officer for the time being; that the term "warehouse" shall be construed to mean any place, whether house, shed, yard, timber pond, or other place in which goods entered to be warehoused upon importation may be lodged, kept, and secured without payment of duty, or although prohibited to be used in the United Kingdom; that the term "Queen's warehouse" shall be construed to mean any place provided by the Crown for lodging goods therein for the security of the Customs.

CXXVIII. That the island of Malta and its dependencies shall be deemed to be in Europe.

CXXIX. That all duties, bounties, and drawbacks of Customs shall be paid and received in every part of the United Kingdom and of the Isle of Man in British currency, and according to imperial weights and measures; and that in all cases where such duties, bounties, and drawbacks are imposed and allowed according to any specific quantity or any specific value, the same shall be deemed to apply in the same proportion to any greater or less quantity or value; and all such duties, bounties, and drawbacks shall be under the management of the Commissioners of the Customs.

CXXX. That all bonds relating to the Customs required to be given in respect of goods or ships, except bonds given for securing the due exportation or payment of duty upon goods warehoused according to law, shall be taken by the collector and comptroller for the use of Her Majesty; and after the expiration of three years from the date thereof, or from the time, if any, limited therein for the performance of the condition thereof, every such bond upon which no prosecution or suit shall have been commenced shall be void, and may be cancelled and destroyed.

And after reciting that it frequently occurs that certain indulgences are granted to merchants and others, by directions of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury and the Commissioners of her Majesty's Customs, on bond being given for the security of the revenue; and, as doubts may arise whether such bonds would in law be valid:—

It is Enacted and Declared,

CXXXI. That in all cases where bonds shall be entered into, with the concurrence or by the direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, for the due performance of any order, matter, or thing relative to the Customs, such bonds shall be valid in law, and upon breach of any of the conditions thereof may be sued and proceeded upon in like manner as any other bond entered into by virtue of any Act relating to the Customs.

CXXXII. That the same instruments, and the same tables and scales of graduation, and the same rules and methods, as the officers of the Excise shall by any law in force for the time being be directed to use, adopt, and employ in trying and ascertaining the strengths and quantities of spirits made within the United Kingdom, for the purpose of computing and collecting the duties of Excise payable thereon, shall be used, adopted, and employed by the officers of the Customs in trying and ascertaining the strengths and quantities of spirits imported into the United Kingdom, for the purpose of computing and collecting the duties of Customs payable thereon.

CXXXIII. That, to prevent vinegar or acetous acid of excessive strength being brought into consumption upon payment of duty as common vinegar or acetous acid, to the great injury of Her Majesty's revenue, all such liquors as aforesaid subject and liable to any duty of Customs shall and may be tried and examined by any officer or officers of Customs with such acetometer as shall and may be from time to time directed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, in order to ascertain the strength thereof; and that whenever any such liquors shall upon any such trial be found by any officer or officers of Customs to be above proof as denoted by such acetometer (proof of being such strength of acetous acid that one hundred parts of the liquor by weight will saturate or neutralize fourteen and a half parts by weight of crystallized sub-carbonate of soda), the number of gallons of such liquors of which such trial is made shall be deemed and computed by such officer or officers to be such number as could be made from or with such liquors if diluted by water to the strength of proof noted as aforesaid, and shall be chargeable and taken account of and charged by such officer with duty accordingly.

CXXXIV. That spirits or strong waters imported into the United Kingdom mixed with any ingredient, and although thereby coming under some other denomination, shall nevertheless be deemed to be spirits or strong waters, and be subject duty as such.

CXXXV. That it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs to take such samples of any goods as shall be necessary for ascertaining the amount of any duties payable on the same; and all such samples shall be disposed of and accounted for in such manner as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall direct.

CXXXVI. That if upon the first levying or repealing of any duty, or upon the first granting or repealing of any drawback or bounty, or upon the first permitting or prohibiting of any importation or exportation, whether inwards, outwards, or coastwise, in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, it shall become necessary to determine the precise time at which an importation or exportation of any goods made and completed shall be deemed to have had effect, such time, in respect of importation or exportation of any goods made and completed, shall be deemed to be the time at which the ship importing such goods had actually come within the limits of the port at which such ship shall in due course be reported, and such goods be discharged; and that such time, in respect of exportation, shall be deemed to be the time at which the goods had been shipped on board the ship in which they had been exported; and that if such question shall arise upon the arrival or departure of any ship, in respect of any charge or allowance upon such ship, exclusive of any cargo, the time of such arrival shall be deemed to be the time at which the report of such ship shall have been or ought to have been made; and the time of such departure shall be deemed to be the time of the last clearance of such ship with the collector and comptroller for the voyage upon which she departed.

CXXXVII. That although any duty of Customs shall have been overpaid, or although after any duty of Customs shall have been charged and paid it shall appear or be judicially established that the same had been charged under an erroneous construction of the law, it shall not be lawful to return any such overcharge after the expiration of three years from the date of such payment.

CXXXVIII. That the tonnage or burden of every British ship within the meaning of this Act shall be the tonnage set forth in the certificate of registry of such ship, and that the tonnage or burden of every other ship shall, for the purposes of this Act, be ascertained in the same manner as the tonnage of British ships is ascertained.

And after reciting that by an Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 32, intituled 'An Act for reducing the Tonnage Rates payable in the Port of London,' certain rates are imposed upon ships or other vessels entering inwards and clearing outwards in the port of London, and it is expedient to amend the same in respect of ships or other vessels reporting their cargoes for exportation, and ultimately leaving the port without breaking bulk:—

It is Enacted,

CXXXIX. That no tonnage rate shall be payable under the said Act on ships or other vessels entering inwards or clearing outwards in the said port in cases where the cargoes are reported for exportation, and ultimately the ships or other vessels leave the port without breaking bulk, or taking in merchandise for the purpose of exportation.

CXL. That it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs at any port under British dominion where there shall be a collector and comptroller of the Customs to refuse to admit any person to do any act at such port as master of any British ship, unless his name shall be inserted in or have been indorsed upon the certificate of registry of such ship as being the master thereof, or until his name shall have been so indorsed by such collector and comptroller.

CXLI. That if any person shall counterfeit or falsify, or wilfully use when counterfeited or falsified, any entry, warrant, cocket, or transire, or other document for the unlading, lading, entering, reporting, or clearing of any ship or vessel, or for the landing or shipping of any goods, stores, baggage, or article whatever, or shall by any false statement procure any writing or document to be made for any of such purposes, every person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 200*l.*: Provided always, that this penalty shall not attach to any particular offence for which any other penalty shall be expressly imposed by any law in force for the time being.

CXLII. That whenever any person shall make any application to any officer of the Customs to transact any business on behalf of any other person, it shall be lawful for such officer to require of the person so applying to produce a written authority from the person on whose behalf such application shall be made, and in default of the production of such authority to refuse to transact such business.

CXLIII. That if any declaration required to be made by this Act, or by any other Act relating to the Customs or to trade or navigation (except declarations to the value of goods), or if any declaration made for the consideration of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs on any application presented to them, be untrue in any particular, or if any person required by this Act, or by any other Act relating to the Customs or to trade or navigation, to answer questions put to him by the officers touching certain matters, shall not truly answer such questions, the person making such declaration or answering such questions shall, over and above any other penalty to which he may become subject, forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

CXLIV. That the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall cause to be made, and to be publicly exposed from time to time at the several ports in the United Kingdom and in Her Majesty's possessions abroad, printed lists of all books whereof the copyright shall be subsisting, and as to which the proprietor of such copyright or his agent shall have given notice in writing to the said Commissioners that such copyright subsists, such notice also stating when such copyright expires.

And after reciting that by an Act, 9 Geo. 4. c. 93, intituled 'An Act to allow Sugar to be delivered out of the Warehouse to be refined,' provisions are made for ascertaining and taking, in manner therein mentioned, the prices of brown or muscovado sugar the produce of the British possessions in America: And that it is expedient that the said provisions should extend and be applicable to brown or muscovado sugar the produce of the British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's charter:—

It is Enacted,

CXLV. That from and after the 1st of August 1842 so much of the said last-mentioned Act as provides for the ascertaining and taking the prices of brown or muscovado sugar the produce of the British possessions in America, and so much of the said Act as requires the delivery of accounts of the sales and purchases of such sugar, and statements of the quantities and prices thereof, and other particulars therein mentioned in relation thereto, and the computation and publication of the average price thereof, and the registry of such accounts and prices, shall be held to extend, include, and apply to brown or muscovado sugar the produce of the several British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's charter; and that the average price of sugar to be thenceforth published under the said last-mentioned Act as hereby extended shall be the average price of brown or muscovado sugar the produce not only of the British possessions in America but also of the British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's charter; and the several penalties of 50*l.* and of 5*l.* imposed by the said recited Act for the offences therein mentioned in respect of sugar the produce of the British possessions in America shall extend and be applicable to the like offences in respect of sugar the produce of the British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's charter.

CLXVI. That all goods, and all ships, vessels, and boats, which by this Act or any Act at any time in force relating to the Customs shall be declared to be forfeited, shall and may be seized by any officer of the Customs; and such forfeiture of any ship, vessel, or boat shall be deemed to include the guns, tackle, apparel, and furniture of the same; and such forfeiture of any goods shall be deemed to include the proper package in which the same are contained.

CLXVII. That in case any goods, ships, vessels, or boats shall be seized as forfeited, or detained as under-valued by virtue of any Act of Parliament relating to the Customs, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to order the same to be restored in such manner and on such terms and conditions as they shall think fit to direct; and if the proprietor of the same shall accept the terms and conditions prescribed by the said Commissioners, he shall not have or maintain any action for recompence or damage on account of such seizure or detention; and the person making such seizure shall not proceed in any manner for condemnation.

CLXVIII. That if any ship shall have become liable to forfeiture on account of any goods laden therein or unladen therefrom, or if the master of any ship shall have become liable to any penalties on account of any goods laden in such ship or unladen therefrom, and such goods shall be small in quantity or of trifling value, and it shall be made appear to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs that such goods had been laden or unladen contrary to the intention of the owners of such ship, or without the privy of the master thereof, as the case may be, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to remit such forfeiture, and also to remit or mitigate such penalty, as they shall see reason to acquit such master of all blame in respect of such offence, or more or less to attribute the commission of such offence to neglect of duty on his part as master of such ship; and every forfeiture and every penalty, or part thereof so remitted, shall be null and void, and no suit or action shall be brought or maintained by any person whatever on account thereof.

CLXIX. That if any ship coming up or departing out of any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, shall not bring to at the proper stations in such port appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for the boarding or landing of officers of the Customs, the master of such ship shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

CL. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and for the collector and comptroller of any port under their directions, to station officers on board any ship while within the limits of any port in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man; and the master of every ship on board of which any officer is so stationed shall provide every such officer sufficient room under the deck, in some part of the fore-castle or steerage, for his bed or hammock, and in case of neglect or refusal so to do shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

CLI. That whenever any goods shall be taken to and secured in any of the Queen's warehouses in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, for security of the duties thereon, or to prevent the same from coming into home use, it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to charge and demand and receive warehouse rent for such goods for all such time as the same shall remain in such warehouse, at the same rate as may be payable for the like goods when warehoused in any warehouse in which such goods may be warehoused without payment of duty: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, by warrant in order under their hands respectively, from time to time to fix the amount of rent which shall be payable for any goods secured in any of the Queen's warehouses as aforesaid.

CLII. That in case such goods shall not be duly cleared from the Queen's warehouse within three calendar months (or longer if they be of a perishable nature), it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to cause such goods to be publicly sold by auction, for home use or for exportation (as the case may be); and the produce of such sale shall be applied towards the payment of the duties, if sold for home use, and of the warehouse rent and all other charges; and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person authorized to receive the same: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to cause any of such goods to be destroyed as cannot be sold for a sum sufficient to pay such duties and charges, if sold for home use, or sufficient to pay such charges, if sold for exportation: Provided also, that if such goods shall have been landed by the officers of the Customs, and the freight of the same shall not have been paid, the produce of such sale shall be first applied to the payment of such freight.

CLIII. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by her commission out of the Court of Exchequer, from time to time to appoint any port, haven, or creek in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, and to set out the limits thereof, and to appoint the proper places within the same to be legal quays for the lading and unlading of goods, and to declare that any place which had been set out as a legal quay by such authority shall be no longer a legal quay, and to appoint any new place within any port to be a legal quay for the lading and unlading of goods: Provided always, that all ports, havens, and creeks, and the respective limits thereof, and all legal quays, appointed and set out and existing as such at the commencement of this Act under any law till then in force, shall continue to be such ports, havens, creeks, limits, and legal quays respectively as the same had been appointed and set out under the authority of this Act.

CLIV. That in any information or other proceeding for any offence against any Act made or to be made relating to the Customs the averment that such offence was committed within the limits of any port shall be sufficient, without proof of such limits, unless the contrary be proved.

CLV. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs from time to time, by any order under their hands, to appoint places to be sufferance wharfs, for the lading and unlading of goods by sufferance, to be duly issued by them, by the proper officers under their directions, in such manner and in such cases as they shall see fit.

CLVI. That no ship or boat appointed and employed ordinarily for the carriage of letters shall import or export any goods without permission of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, under the penalty of the forfeiture of 100*l.*, to be paid by the master of such ship or boat.

CLVII. That no ship shall be cleared from any port of the United Kingdom, either for a coasting or a foreign voyage, laden with coals or coal, or culm or cinders, which had not been previously brought coastwise into such port, until the ship or coal owner, or his agent, vending or shipping the same, shall have delivered to the collector or comptroller two certificates under his hand, expressing the total quantities of coals, culm, and cinders respectively shipped or intended to be shipped by him in such ship; and the collector or comptroller shall retain one of such certificates, and shall deliver the other, signed by him, to the master of the ship; and every fitter, coal owner, or agent who shall refuse to give such certificates, or shall give a false certificate, shall forfeit and pay the sum of 100*l.*; and the master of such ship shall keep such certificate, and produce the same to any officer of Customs demanding such production, and shall before bulk be broken deliver such certificate to the collector or comptroller of any port in the United Kingdom to which such coals, culm, or cinders shall be carried in such ship.

CLVIII. That it shall not be lawful for any person to act as an agent for transacting business in the port of London which shall relate to the entry or clearance of any ship, or of any goods, or of any baggage, unless authorized so to do by the licence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, who are hereby empowered to require bond to be given by every person to whom such licence shall be granted, with one sufficient surety, in the sum of 1,000*l.*, for the faithful and incorrupt conduct of such person and of his clerks acting for him: Provided always, that such bond shall not be required of any person who shall be one of the sworn brokers of the city of London: Provided also, that all licences heretofore granted by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to any persons to act as agents shall be valid and effectual, and all bonds taken for the faithful and incorrupt conduct of such persons shall be and are hereby declared to be and remain in full force and effect; and if any person shall act as such agent, not being so licensed, or if any person shall be in partnership in such agency with any person not so licensed, such person shall, in either case, for every such offence forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

CLIX. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by any order under their hands, to revoke any such licence, or any licence heretofore granted by the Commissioners of Customs to any person to act as an agent for transacting such business at the Custom-house in the port of London, and that after a copy of such order shall have been delivered to such person or to his clerk, or left at his usual place of abode or business, such licence shall be void.

CLX. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent the clerk or servant of any person or of any persons in copartnership from transacting any such business, on account of such person or persons, without such licence, provided such clerk or servant shall not transact any such business as clerk, servant, or agent to any other person.

CLXI. That it shall be lawful for any such agent or agents in copartnership to appoint any person without licence, to be his or their clerk in transacting such agency: Provided always, that no person shall be admitted to be such clerk to more than one agent or copartnership of agents, nor until his name and residence and the date of his appointment shall have been indorsed on the licence of every such agent, and signed by him, and witnessed by the signature of the collector and comptroller of the Customs, unless such person shall have been appointed with consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs before the commencement of this Act.

CLXII. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by their warrant, to be published in the London or Dublin Gazette, to extend the regulations hereinbefore made relating to agents in the port of London to agents at any other port in Great Britain, or at any port in Ireland.

CLXIII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 53, whereby the laws of Customs in relation to the prevention of smuggling were consolidated: And that since the passing of the said Act divers parts of Acts for the further amendment of the law in that respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country that the said Act and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and operation for all the purposes mentioned therein, and that all the provisions thereof shall extend to any law in force or hereafter to be made relating to the Customs.

II. That if any vessel not being square-rigged, or any boat, either belonging in the whole or in part to Her Majesty's subjects, or having half the persons on board subjects of Her Majesty, shall be found or discovered to have been within one hundred leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom; or if any vessel either belonging in the whole or in part to Her Majesty's subjects, or having half the persons on board subjects of Her Majesty, or if any foreign vessel not being square-rigged, or any foreign boat, in which there shall be one or more subjects of Her Majesty, shall be found or discovered to have been within four leagues of that part of the United Kingdom which is between the North Foreland on the coast of Kent and Beachy Head on the coast of Sussex, or within eight leagues of any other part of the coast of the United Kingdom; or if any foreign vessel or boat shall be found or discovered to have been within one league of the coast of the United Kingdom; or if any vessel or boat shall be found or discovered to have been within one league of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man respectively, or within any bay, harbour, river, or creek of or belonging to any one of the said islands; any such vessel or boat so found or discovered, having on board or in any manner attached thereto, or having had on board or in any manner attached thereto, or conveying or having conveyed in any manner, any spirits not being in a cask or other vessel capable of containing liquids of the size or content of twenty gallons at the least, or any tea exceeding six pounds weight in the whole, or any tobacco or snuff not being in a cask or package containing three hundred pounds weight of tobacco or snuff at least, or being separated or divided in any manner within any cask or package, or any tobacco stalks, or any cordage or other articles adapted and prepared for slinging or sinking small casks, or any casks or other vessels whatsoever of less size or content than twenty gallons, of the description used for the smuggling of spirits, then and in every such case the said spirits, tea, tobacco, or snuff, and tobacco stalks, together with the casks or packages containing the same, and the cordage or other articles, casks, and other vessels of the description aforesaid, and also the vessel or boat, shall be forfeited.

III. That if any vessel or boat whatever shall arrive or shall be found or discovered to have been within any port, harbour, river, or creek of the United Kingdom, or of the Isle of Man, not being driven thereto by stress of weather or other unavoidable accident, having on board or in any manner attached thereto, or having had on board or in any manner attached thereto, or conveying or having conveyed in any manner within any such port, harbour, river, or creek, any spirits not being in a cask or other vessel capable of containing liquids of the size or content of twenty gallons at the least, or any tobacco or snuff not being in a cask or package containing three hundred pounds weight of such tobacco or snuff at least, or being separated or divided in any manner within any cask or package, or any tobacco stalks, every such vessel or boat, and such spirits, tobacco, snuff, or tobacco stalks, shall be forfeited: Provided always, that if it shall be made appear to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs that the said spirits, tobacco, snuff, or tobacco stalks were on board without the knowledge or privity of the owner or master of such vessel or boat, and without any wilful neglect or want of reasonable care on their or either of their behalves, then and in such case the said Commissioners shall and they are hereby authorized and required to deliver up the said vessel or boat to the owner or master of the same.

IV. That nothing herein contained shall extend to render any vessel of the burden of one hundred and twenty tons or upwards liable to forfeiture on account of any tobacco or snuff coming direct from the East Indies, and being in packages, each containing one hundred pounds weight of tobacco or snuff at least, or on account of any cigars being in packages each containing one hundred pounds weight of cigars at least, or on account of any tobacco the produce of Mexico, Columbia, the continent of South America, or of the islands of Saint Domingo or Cuba, coming direct from those places respectively, or from the warehouse in any British possession in America, in packages each containing eighty pounds weight of tobacco at least, or on account of any negrohead tobacco the produce of and coming direct from the United States of America in packages each containing of such tobacco one hundred and fifty pounds weight at least, or on account of any tobacco of the dominions of the Turkish empire which may be separated or divided in any manner within the outward package, such outward package being a hogshead, cask, chest, or case containing of such tobacco three hundred pounds weight at least, nor to render any vessel of sixty tons burden or upwards liable to forfeiture on account of any tea, or of any spirits in glass bottles or in stone bottles, not exceeding the size of quart bottles, such tobacco, snuff, cigars, tea, and spirits being really part of the cargo of such vessel, and included in the manifest or other papers of such vessel enumerating or describing the cargo thereof, nor to render any vessel liable to forfeiture on account of any spirits, tea, or tobacco really intended for the consumption of the seamen and passengers on board during their voyage, and not being more in quantity than is necessary for that purpose, nor to render any vessel liable to forfeiture if really bound from one foreign port to another foreign port, and pursuing such voyage, wind and weather permitting.

V. That when any vessel or boat belonging in the whole or in part to Her Majesty's subjects, or having one half of the persons on board subjects of Her Majesty, shall be found within one hundred leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom, and shall not bring to upon signal made by any vessel or boat in Her Majesty's service, or in the service of the revenue, hoisting the proper pendant and ensign in order to bring such vessel or boat to, and thereupon chase shall be given, if any person or persons on board such vessel or boat so chased shall, during the chase, or before such vessel or boat shall bring to throw overboard any part of the lading of such vessel or boat, or shall stave or destroy any part of such lading to prevent seizure thereof, that then and in such case the said vessel or boat shall be forfeited; and all persons escaping from such vessels or boats, or from any foreign vessel or boat, during any chase made thereof by any vessel or boat in Her Majesty's service, or in the service of the revenue, shall be deemed and taken to be subjects of Her Majesty, unless it shall be proved to the contrary.

VI. That from and after the passing of this Act every vessel not being square-rigged, and every boat, belonging in the whole or in part to Her Majesty's subjects, or having on board one or more of Her Majesty's subjects, which shall be found or discovered to have been within four leagues of that part of the United Kingdom which is between the North Foreland on the coast of Kent and Beachy Head on the coast of Sussex, or within eight leagues of any other part of the United Kingdom from which any part of the lading of such vessel or boat shall have been thrown overboard, or on board which vessel or boat any of the goods on board shall be staved or destroyed, to prevent seizure, shall be forfeited.

VII. That in case any vessel or boat liable to seizure or examination under any Act or law for the prevention of smuggling shall not bring to when required so to do, on being chased by any vessel or boat in Her Majesty's navy having the proper pendant and ensign of Her Majesty's ships hoisted, or by any vessel or boat duly employed for the prevention of smuggling having a proper pendant and ensign hoisted, it shall be lawful for the captain, master, or other person having the charge or command of such vessel or boat in Her Majesty's navy, or employed as aforesaid, (first causing a gun to be fired as a signal,) to fire at or into such vessel or boat; and such captain, master, or other person acting in his aid or assistance, or by his direction, shall be and he is hereby indemnified and discharged from any indictment, penalty, action, or other proceeding for so doing.

VIII. That if any vessel or boat whatever shall be found within the limits of any port of the United Kingdom with a cargo on board, and such vessel or boat shall afterwards be found light or in ballast, and the master is unable to give a due account of the port or place within the United Kingdom where such vessel or boat shall have legally discharged her cargo, such vessel or boat shall be forfeited.

IX. That no vessel or boat belonging wholly or in part to Her Majesty's subjects shall sail from Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man without a clearance, whether in ballast or having a cargo, and if with cargo the master shall give bond to Her Majesty in double the value of the vessel or boat and of the cargo for duly landing the same at the port for which the vessel clears; and every such vessel or boat not having such clearance, or which having a clearance for a cargo shall be found light or with any part of her cargo discharged before delivery thereof at the port specified in the clearance (unless through necessity or for preservation of the vessel or boat, to be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs), shall be forfeited.

And after reciting that His late Majesty King George the Third, by his royal proclamation, bearing date the 1st of January 1801, was pleased, with the advice of his Privy Council, to order and appoint what ensign or colours should be borne at sea by merchants ships or vessels belonging to any of His Majesty's subjects of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the dominions thereunto belonging, thereby charging and commanding all His Majesty's subjects whatsoever that they should not presume to wear in any of their ships or vessels His Majesty's jack commonly called the union jack, nor any pendants nor any such colours as are usually worn by His Majesty's ships, without particular warrant for their so doing from His Majesty, or his High Admiral of Great Britain, or the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral for the time being, and also commanding His Majesty's subjects that without such warrant as aforesaid they should not presume to wear on board their ships or vessels any flags, jacks, pendants, or colours made in imitation of or resembling those of His Majesty, or any kind of pendant whatsoever, or any other ensign than the ensign described in the margin of the said proclamation;—

It is Enacted and Declared,

X. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall not be lawful for any of Her Majesty's subjects whomsoever to hoist, carry, or wear in or on board any ship, vessel, or fishing boat, or any other vessel or boat whatever, whether merchant or otherwise, belonging to any of Her Majesty's subjects, Her Majesty's jack commonly called the union jack, or any pendant or any such colours as are usually worn by Her Majesty's ships, or any flag, jack, pendant, or colours whatever made in imitation of or resembling those of Her Majesty, or any kind of pendant whatsoever, or any ensign or colours whatever, other than those prescribed by the said proclamation; and that if any person or persons shall nevertheless presume to hoist, carry, or wear in or on board any ship or vessel, fishing boat, or other vessel or boat whatever, belonging to any of Her Majesty's subjects, whether the same be merchant or otherwise, Her Majesty's jack commonly called the union jack, or any pendant or colours such as are commonly worn by Her Majesty's ships, or any jack, flag, pendant, or colours whatever made in imitation of or resembling those of Her Majesty, or any kind of pendant whatever, without such warrant as aforesaid, or any other ensign or colours than the ensign or colours prescribed by the said proclamation to be worn, then and in every such case the master or other person having charge of such ship, vessel, or boat, or the owner or owners thereof being on board the same, and every other person so offending, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 500*l.*, to be recovered, with costs of suit, either in the High Court of Admiralty of England, or in any Vice Admiralty Court in Her Majesty's colonies, or in any of Her Majesty's Courts of Queen's Bench or Exchequer at Westminster or Dublin, at the suit of Her Majesty's Attorney General, or in the Courts of Session or Exchequer in Scotland respectively; and that it shall be lawful for any officer of Her Majesty's navy or marines belonging to any of Her Majesty's ships, or any officer of the Customs or Excise, to enter on board any ship, vessel, or boat so hoisting, wearing, or carrying any jack, flag, ensign, pendant or colours prohibited by the said proclamation and by this Act to be hoisted, worn, or carried, and to seize and take away the same, and the same shall thereupon become forfeited.

XI. That all vessels and boats made use of in the removal, carriage, or conveyance of any goods liable to forfeiture under this or any other Act relating to the revenue of Customs shall be forfeited.

XII. That the owner of every vessel belonging in the whole or in part to any of Her Majesty's subjects shall paint or cause to be painted, upon the outside of the stern of every boat belonging to such vessel, the name of such vessel, and the port or place to which she belongs, and the master's name within the transom, in white or yellow roman letters, not less than two inches in length, on a black ground, on pain of the forfeiture of such boat not so marked, wherever the same shall be found.

XIII. That the owner of every boat not belonging to any vessel shall paint or cause to be painted upon the stern of such boat, in white or yellow Roman letters of two inches in length on a black ground, the name of the owner or owners of the boat, and the port or place to which she belongs, on pain of the forfeiture of such boat not so marked wherever the same shall be found.

xiv. That the owner or owners of every vessel or boat employed on the coasts of the United Kingdom in piloting or fishing shall paint or tar every such vessel or boat, or cause the same to be painted or tarred, entirely black, except the name or other description required by law to be painted on such vessel or boat; and every such vessel or boat found not so painted or tarred, and every boat so painted as to resemble any boat usually employed for the prevention of smuggling, or in any other employment in Her Majesty's service, shall be forfeited: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent any distinguishing mark from being placed on any such vessel or boat, or to prevent any such vessel or boat from being otherwise painted, if the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall think proper to allow the same, and which shall be so expressed in the licence of the said vessel or boat.

xv. That all vessels and boats belonging in the whole or in part to Her Majesty's subjects having false bulkheads, false bows, double sides or bottoms, or any secret or disguised place whatsoever in the construction of such vessels or boats adapted for the purpose of concealing goods, or having any hole, pipe, or other device in or about such vessels or boats adapted for the purpose of running goods, shall be forfeited with all the guns, furniture, ammunition, tackle, and apparel belonging to such vessels or boats; and that all foreign vessels or boats not being square-rigged coming to or arriving at any part of the United Kingdom having on board any goods liable to the payment of duties, or prohibited to be imported into the United Kingdom, concealed in false bulkheads, false bows, double sides or bottoms, or in any secret or disguised place whatsoever in the construction of such last-mentioned vessels or boats, shall be forfeited.

xvi. That all vessels belonging in the whole or in part to Her Majesty's subjects, not being square-rigged or propelled by steam, and all vessels belonging as aforesaid, whether propelled by steam or otherwise, being of the burden of one hundred and seventy tons or less, of which the length is to the breadth in a greater proportion than three feet six inches to one foot, and all such last-mentioned vessels carrying arms for resistance, and all vessels of the burden of one hundred and seventy tons or more, belonging as aforesaid, armed with more than two carriage guns of a calibre exceeding four pounds, and with more than two muskets for every ten men, and all boats, belonging as aforesaid, which shall be found within one hundred leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom, shall be forfeited, unless the owners thereof shall have obtained a licence from the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs in the manner hereinafter described.

xvii. That every vessel or boat belonging in the whole or in part to Her Majesty's subjects, or whereof one-half of the persons on board shall be subjects of Her Majesty, (not being a lugger, and at the time fitted and rigged as such), which shall be navigated by a greater number of men (officers and boys included) than in the following proportions; (that is to say,) if of thirty tons or under, and above five tons, four men; if of sixty tons or under, and above thirty tons, five men; if of eighty tons or under, and above sixty tons, six men; if of one hundred tons or under, and above eighty tons, seven men; and above that tonnage, one man for every fifteen tons of such additional tonnage; or, if a lugger, then in the following proportions; (that is to say,) if of thirty tons or under, eight men; if of fifty tons or under, and above thirty tons, nine men; if of sixty tons or under, and above fifty tons, ten men; if of eighty tons or under, and above sixty tons, eleven men; if of one hundred tons or under, and above eighty tons, twelve men; and if above one hundred tons, one man for every ten tons of such additional tonnage; which shall be found within one hundred leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom shall be forfeited, unless such vessel, boat, or lugger shall be especially licensed for that purpose by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

xviii. That every licence granted by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for any vessel or boat requiring licence under this Act shall contain the proper description of such vessel or boat, the name or names of the owner or owners, with his or their place or places of abode, and the manner and the limits in which the same is to be employed, and, if armed, the numbers and descriptions of arms, and the quantity of ammunition, together with any other particulars which the said Commissioners may require and direct, and that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to restrict the granting of a licence for any vessel or boat in any way that they may deem expedient for the security of the revenue.

xix. That before any such licence shall be issued or delivered, or shall have effect for the use of such vessel or boat, the owner or owners of every such vessel or boat shall give security by bond in the single value of such vessel or boat, with condition as follows; (that is to say,) that the vessel or boat shall not be employed in the importation, landing, or removing of any prohibited or uncustomed goods contrary to the true intent and meaning of this Act, or any other Act relating to the Customs or Excise, nor in the exportation of any goods which are or may be prohibited to be exported, nor in the re-landing of any goods contrary to law, nor shall receive or take on board or be found at sea or in port with any goods subject to forfeiture, nor shall do any act contrary to this Act, or any Act hereafter to be made relating to the Customs or Excise, or for the protection of the trade and commerce of the United Kingdom, nor shall be employed otherwise than mentioned in the licence, and within the limits therein mentioned; and in case of loss, breaking up, or disposal of the vessel or boat, that the licence shall be delivered up within six months from the date of such loss, breaking up, or disposal of such vessel or boat to the collector or principal officer of Customs at the port at which such vessel or boat shall belong; and that no such bond given in respect of any boat shall be liable to any stamp duty.

xx. That nothing herein contained shall authorize the requiring any bond in any higher sum than 1,000*l.*, although the single value of the vessel or boat for which such licence is to be issued may be more than 1,000*l.*

xxi. That all bonds given by persons under the age of twenty-one years, in pursuance of the directions herein contained, shall be valid and effectual to all intents and purposes, anything in any Act or any law or custom to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

xxii. That when any vessel or boat shall be found or discovered to have been used or employed in any manner or in any limits other than such as shall be specified in the licence hereby required, or if such licence shall not be on board such vessel or boat, or shall not at any time be produced and delivered for examination to any officer or officers of the army, navy, or marines, duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or any officer of Customs or Excise demanding the same, then and in every such case such vessel or boat, and all the goods laden on board, shall be forfeited.

XXIII. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend, or be deemed or taken to extend, to any vessel boat, or lugger belonging to any of the Royal Family, or being in the service of the Navy, Victualling, Ordnance, Customs, Excise, or Post Office, nor to any whale boat or boat solely employed in the fisheries, nor to any boat belonging to any square-rigged vessel in the merchant service, nor to any life boat, nor to any tow boat belonging to licensed pilots used in towing vessels, nor to any boat used solely in rivers or inland navigation, nor to any boats solely used in fishing on the coast of Ireland or Scotland.

XXIV. That if any person or persons shall counterfeit, erase, alter, or falsify, or cause to be counterfeited, erased, altered, or falsified, any licence so to be granted as aforesaid, or shall knowingly make use of any licence so counterfeited, erased, altered, or falsified, such person or persons shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 500*l*.

XXV. That no bond given on account of the licence of any vessel or boat under this or any other Act for the prevention of smuggling shall be cancelled until the space of twelve months after the licence for which such bond had been entered into shall have been delivered up to the proper officer of the Customs; and such bond shall remain in full force and effect for twelve months after the delivering up of the licence as aforesaid.

XXVI. That all licences for any vessels or boats granted in pursuance of any former Act relating to the Customs, or for the prevention of smuggling, shall continue valid for all the purposes for which such licences were required; and all bonds given in pursuance of any such Act shall continue valid, and may be in force, anything herein contained notwithstanding.

XXVII. That all the provisions herein contained relating to the licensing of vessels and boats shall extend to the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, and Man.

XXVIII. That if any goods liable to the payment of duties shall be unshipped from any vessel or boat in the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man (Customs or other Duties not being first paid or secured), or if any prohibited goods whatsoever shall be imported or brought into any part of the United Kingdom, or of the Isle of Man, or if any goods whatever which shall have been warehoused or otherwise secured in the United Kingdom, or in the Isle of Man, either for home consumption or exportation, shall be clandestinely or illegally removed from or out of any warehouse or place of security, then and in every such case all such goods as aforesaid shall be forfeited, together with all horses and other animals, and all carriages and other things, made use of in the removal of such goods.

XXIX. That if any goods which are subject to any duty or restriction in respect of importation, or which are prohibited to be imported into the United Kingdom, shall be found or discovered to have been concealed in any manner on board any vessel or boat within the limits of any port of the United Kingdom or of the Isle of Man, or shall be found, either before or after landing, to have been concealed in any manner on board such vessel or boat within such limits as aforesaid, that then and in every such case all such goods, and all other goods which shall be packed with or used in concealing them, shall be forfeited.

XXX. That all spirits and all tobacco for which a permit is by law required which shall be found removing without a legal permit for the same shall be deemed to be spirits or tobacco respectively liable to and unshipped without payment of duty, unless the party in whose possession the same shall be found or seized shall prove to the contrary.

XXXI. That all goods the importation of which is in any way restricted, which are of a description admissible to duty, and which shall be found or seized in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man under any law relating to the Customs or Excise, shall, for the purpose of proceeding for the forfeiture of them, or for any penalty incurred in respect of them, be deemed to be and shall be described in any information exhibited on account of such forfeiture or penalty as goods liable to and unshipped without payment of duties.

XXXII. That if any goods which are prohibited to be exported shall be put on board any vessel or boat with intent to be taken or shipped for exportation, or shall be brought to any quay, wharf, or other place in the United Kingdom in order to be taken on board any vessel or boat for the purpose of being exported, or if any goods which are prohibited to be exported shall be found in any package produced to the officer or officers of Customs as containing goods not so prohibited, then and in every such case not only all such prohibited goods, but also all other goods packed therewith, shall be forfeited.

XXXIII. That all vessels and boats, and all goods whatsoever, liable to forfeiture under this or any other Act relating to the Customs, shall and may be seized in any place, either upon land or water, by any officer or officers of Her Majesty's army, navy, or marines, duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or by any officer or officers of Customs or Excise, or by any person having authority to seize from the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise; and all vessels, boats, and goods so seized shall, as soon as conveniently may be, be delivered into the care of the proper officer appointed to receive the same.

And after reciting that by 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 55. in Ireland, officers of Excise are authorized to search for private stills, wort, wash, pot ale, low wines, or singlings, or spirits, and corn or grain making into malt, and to arrest and detain persons discovered in the place where private distillation of spirits or making of malt is carrying on: and that it is expedient to extend the powers to officers of Customs:—

It is Enacted,

XXXIV. That all the powers, authorities, and privileges granted to officers of Excise by the said recited Act may and shall be exercised by officers of Customs as fully and effectually as if the clauses in the said Act had been repeated and re-enacted in the body of this Act, and made to apply to officers of Customs.

XXXV. That if any officer or officers of the Customs or Excise, or any officer or officers of the army, navy, or marines, duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or any other person or persons whomsoever duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, shall make any collusive seizure, or deliver up, or make any agreement to deliver up or not to seize, any vessel or boat, or any goods liable to forfeiture, or shall take any bribe, gratuity, recompense, or reward for the neglect or nonperformance of his duty, every such officer or other person shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of 500*l.*, and be rendered incapable of serving Her Majesty in any office whatever, either civil or military; and every person who shall give or offer, or promise to give or procure to be given, any bribe, recompense, or reward to, or shall make any collusive agreement with, any such officer or person as aforesaid, to induce him in any way to neglect his duty, or to do, conceal, or connive at any act whereby any of the provisions of any Act of Parliament relating to the Customs may be evaded, shall forfeit the sum of 200*l.*

XXXVI. That it shall and may be lawful to and for any officer or officers of the army, navy, or marines, duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or for any officer or officers of Customs, producing his or their warrant or deputation (if required), to go on board any vessel which shall be within the limits of any of the ports of the United Kingdom, and to rummage and to search the cabin and all other parts of such vessel for prohibited or uncustomed goods, and to remain on board such vessel during the whole time that the same shall continue within the limits of such port, and also to search any person or persons either on board or who shall have landed from any vessel, provided such officer or officers shall have good reason to suppose that such person or persons hath or have any uncustomed or prohibited goods secreted about him, her, or their person or persons; and if any person shall obstruct any such officer or officers in going or remaining on board, or in entering or searching such vessel or person, every such person shall forfeit and lose the sum of 100*l.*

XXXVII. That before any person shall be searched by any such officer or officers as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for such person to require such officer or officers to take him or her before any Justice of the Peace, or before the collector, comptroller, or other superior officer of the Customs, who shall determine whether there is reasonable ground to suppose that such person has any uncustomed or prohibited goods about his or her person; and if it shall appear to such Justice, collector, comptroller, or other superior officer of Customs that there is reasonable ground to suppose that such person has any uncustomed or prohibited goods about his or her person, then such Justice, collector, comptroller, or other superior officer of Customs shall direct such person to be searched in such manner as he shall think fit; but if it shall appear to such Justice, collector, comptroller, or other superior officer of Customs that there is not reasonable ground to suppose that such person has any uncustomed or prohibited goods about his or her person, then such Justice, collector, comptroller, or other superior officer of Customs shall forthwith discharge such person, who shall not in such case be liable to be searched; and every such officer or officers as aforesaid is and are hereby authorized and required to take such person, upon demand, before any such Justice, collector, comptroller, or other superior officer of Customs, detaining him or her in the meantime: Provided always, that no person being a female shall be searched by any other person than a female duly authorized for that purpose by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

XXXVIII. That if any such officer or officers shall not take such person with reasonable despatch before such Justice, collector, comptroller, or other superior officer of Customs, when so required, or shall require any person to be searched by him, not having reasonable ground to suppose that such person has any uncustomed or prohibited goods about his or her person, such officer shall forfeit and pay the sum of 10*l.*

XXXIX. That if any passenger or other person on board any vessel or boat shall, upon being questioned by any officer or officers of Her Majesty's Customs whether he or she has any foreign goods upon his or her person, or in his or her possession, deny the same, and any such goods shall, after such denial, be discovered upon his or her person, or in his or her possession, such goods shall be forfeited, and such person shall forfeit treble the value of such goods.

XL. That it shall and may be lawful for any officer or officers of Customs, or person acting under the direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, having a writ of assistance under the seal of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer, to take a constable, headborough, or other public officer inhabiting near the place, and in the daytime to enter into and search any house, shop, cellar, warehouse, room, or other place, and in case of resistance to break open doors, chests, trunks, and other packages, there to seize and from thence to bring any uncustomed or prohibited goods and to put and secure the same in the custom house warehouse in the port next to the place from whence such goods shall be so taken as aforesaid: Provided always that for the purposes of this Act any such constable, headborough, or other public officer, duly sworn as such, may act as well without the limits of any parish, ville, or other place for which he shall be so sworn as within such limits.

XLI. That all writs of assistance so issued from the Court of Exchequer as aforesaid shall continue and be in force during the whole of the reign in which such writs shall have been granted, and for six months from the conclusion of such reign.

XLII. That it shall be lawful for any officer of Customs or Excise or other person acting in his or their aid or assistance or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, upon reasonable suspicion, to stop and examine any cart, waggon, or other means of conveyance, for the purpose of ascertaining whether any smuggled goods are contained therein; and if no such goods shall be found, then and in such case the officer or other person so stopping and examining such cart, waggon, or other conveyance, having had probable cause to suspect that such cart, waggon, or other conveyance had smuggled goods contained therein, shall not, on account of such stoppage and search, be liable to any prosecution or action at law on account thereof, and all persons driving or conducting such cart, waggon, or other conveyance, refusing to stop when required so to do in the Queen's name, shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

XLIII. That if any goods subject or liable to forfeiture under this or any other Act relating to the Customs shall be stopped or taken by any police officer, or other person acting by virtue of any Act of Parliament, or otherwise duly authorized, such goods shall be carried to the custom house warehouse next to the place where the goods were stopped or taken, and then delivered to the proper officer appointed to receive the same, within forty-eight hours after the said goods were stopped and taken.

XLIV. That if any such goods shall be stopped or taken by such police officer on suspicion that the same had been feloniously stolen, it shall be lawful for the said officer to carry the same to the police office to which the offender is taken, there to remain until and in order to be produced at the trial of the said offender; and in such case the officer is required to give notice in writing to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs of his having so detained the said goods, with the particulars of the same; and immediately after the trial of such offender all such goods shall be conveyed to and deposited in the custom house warehouse as aforesaid, to be proceeded against according to law; and in case any police officer making detention of any such goods shall neglect to convey the same to such warehouse, or to give the notice of having stopped the same as before described, such officer shall forfeit the sum of 20*l*.

XLV. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, for the time being, or for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise, by any order made for that purpose under their hands, to direct any vessel, boat, goods, or commodities whatever seized under this or any Act relating to the Customs or Excise, or to the trade or navigation of the United Kingdom, or to any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad, to be delivered to the proprietor or proprietors thereof, whether condemnation shall have taken place or not, and also to mitigate or remit any penalty or fine, or any part of any penalty or fine, incurred under any such Act as last aforesaid, or to release from confinement any person or persons committed under this or any Act relating to the Customs, on such terms and conditions as to them respectively shall appear to be proper: Provided always, that no person shall be entitled to the benefit of any order for such delivery, mitigation, remission, or release, unless such terms and conditions are fully and effectually complied with.

XLVI. That every person who shall, either in the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man, unship or assist or be otherwise concerned in the unshipping of any goods which are prohibited to be imported into the United Kingdom or into the Isle of Man, or the duties for which have not been paid or secured, or who shall knowingly harbour, keep, or conceal, or shall knowingly permit or suffer to be harboured, kept, or concealed, any goods which shall have been illegally unshipped without payment of duties, or which shall have been illegally removed without payment of the same, from any warehouse or place of security in which they may have been deposited, or any goods prohibited to be imported, or to be used or consumed in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, and every person, either in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, to whose hands and possession any such prohibited or uncustomed goods shall knowingly come, or who shall assist or be in anywise concerned in the illegal removal of any goods from any warehouse or place of security in which they shall have been deposited as aforesaid, shall forfeit either the treble value thereof, or the penalty of 100*l*., at the election of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

XLVII. That in all cases where any penalty, the amount of which is at any time to be determined by the value of any goods, is directed to be sued for under any Act relating to the Customs or Excise, such value shall, as regards proceedings in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster, Dublin, or Edinburgh, or in the royal courts of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, be estimated and taken according to the rate and price which goods of the like sort or denomination of the best quality, and upon which the duties of importation shall have been paid, were sold for in London, Dublin, Edinburgh, or at the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man respectively at or about the time of the commission of the offence (as the penalty may have been incurred in England, Ireland, Scotland, or at any of the said islands respectively), and that as regards proceedings before magistrates such value shall be estimated and taken in the like manner according to the rate and price for which such goods were sold in some town at or near to the place where the offence shall have been committed.

XLVIII. That every person who, by way of insurance or otherwise, shall undertake or agree to deliver any goods to be imported from parts beyond the seas into any port or place in the United Kingdom without paying the duties due thereon on such importation, or any prohibited goods, or who, in pursuance of such insurance or otherwise, shall deliver or cause to be delivered any uncustomed or prohibited goods, and every aider or abettor of such person, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 500*l*., over and above any other penalty to which by law he may be liable; and every person who shall agree to pay any money for the insurance or conveying of such goods, or shall receive or take such goods into his custody or possession, or suffer the same to be so received or taken, shall also forfeit 500*l*., over and above any penalty to which by law he may be liable on account of such goods.

XLIX. That if any person or persons shall offer for sale any goods under pretence that the same are prohibited or have been unshipped and run on shore without payment of duties, that then and in such case all such goods (although not liable to any duties or prohibited) shall be forfeited, and the person or persons, and every of them, offering the same for sale shall forfeit the treble value of such goods, or the penalty of 100*l*., at the election of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

L. That every person, being a subject of Her Majesty, who shall be found or discovered to have been on board any vessel or boat liable to forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs for being found or discovered to have been within any of the distances in this Act mentioned from the United Kingdom or from the Isle of Man, having on board or in any manner attached thereto, or having had on board or in any manner attached thereto, or conveying or having conveyed in any manner any goods or things as subject such vessel or boat to forfeiture, or who shall be found or discovered to have been, within any of such distances as aforesaid, on board any vessel or boat from which any part of the cargo or lading of such vessel or boat shall have been thrown overboard, or staved or destroyed, to prevent seizure, and every person, not being a subject of Her Majesty, who shall be found or discovered to have been on board any vessel or boat liable to forfeiture for any of the causes last aforesaid, within one league of the coast of the United Kingdom or of the Isle of Man, shall, upon being duly convicted of any of the said offences before any two Justices of the Peace, be adjudged by such Justices for the first of such offences to be imprisoned in any house of correction, and there kept to hard labour for any term not less than six nor greater than nine calendar months, and for the second of such offences for any term not less than nine nor greater than twelve calendar months, and for the third or any subsequent offence for twelve calendar months; and it shall be lawful for any officer or officers of the army, navy, or customs, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or any officer or officers of Customs or Excise, or other person acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and he and they is and are hereby authorized, empowered, and required to detain every such person, and to take such person before any Justice of the Peace in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, to be dealt with as hereinafter directed: Provided always, that any such person proving to the satisfaction of any Justice or Justices before whom he may be brought that he was only a passenger in such vessel or boat, and had no interest whatever either in the vessel or boat, or in the cargo, or any goods on board the same, shall be forthwith discharged by such Justice or Justices.

LII. That every person whatsoever who shall unship, or be aiding, assisting, or concerned in the unshipping of any spirits or tobacco liable to forfeiture under this or any other Act relating to the Customs or Excise, either in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, or who shall carry, convey, or conceal, or be aiding, assisting, or concerned in the carrying, conveying, or concealing of any such spirits or tobacco, shall forfeit for such offence the sum of 100*l.*; and every such person may be detained by any officer or officers of Her Majesty's army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or by any officer or officers of Customs or Excise, or other person acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and taken before any Justice of the Peace in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, to be dealt with as hereinafter directed.

LIII. That every person whatsoever who shall unship, or be aiding, assisting, or otherwise concerned in the unshipping of any tea or foreign manufactured silk of the value of 20*l.* liable to forfeiture under any Act relating to the Customs or Excise, or who shall carry, convey, or conceal, or be aiding, assisting, or concerned in the carrying, conveying, or concealing of such tea or silk, shall forfeit for every such offence treble the value thereof; and every such person shall and may be detained by any officer or officers of Her Majesty's army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or by any officer or officers of Customs or Excise, or by any other person acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and taken before any Justice of the Peace in the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man, to be dealt with as hereinafter directed: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for such person so detained to give security in treble the amount of the goods seized by recognizance or otherwise, to the satisfaction of such Justice of the Peace, to appear at a time and place to be by him appointed.

LIIII. That every person who shall be found or discovered to have been on board any vessel or boat liable to forfeiture under this or any Act or Acts relating to the Customs for being found or discovered to have been within any port, harbour, river, or creek of the United Kingdom or of the Isle of Man, not being driven thereunto by stress of weather or other unavoidable accident, having on board or in any manner attached thereto, or having had on board or in any manner attached thereto, or conveying or having conveyed in any manner, such goods or things as subject such vessel or boat to forfeiture, or who shall be found or discovered to have been on board any of Her Majesty's ships or vessels, or on board any ship or vessel in Her Majesty's employment or service, or on board of any foreign post-office packet, being a national vessel, employed in carrying the mails between any foreign country and the United Kingdom, such last-mentioned ships, vessels, or packets being found or discovered to have been within any port, harbour, river, or creek of the United Kingdom or of the Isle of Man, not being driven therein by stress of weather or other unavoidable accident, having on board or in any manner attached thereto, or having had on board or in any manner attached thereto, or conveying or having conveyed in any manner, any spirits not being in a cask or other vessel capable of containing liquids of the size or content of twenty gallons at the least, or any tobacco or snuff not being in a cask or package containing three hundred pounds weight of such tobacco or snuff at least, or being separated or divided in any manner within any cask or package, shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*; and it shall be lawful for any officer or officers of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or any officer or officers of Customs or Excise, or other persons acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and he and they is and are hereby authorized, empowered, and required, to detain every such person, and to take such person before any Justice of the Peace in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, to be dealt with as hereinafter directed.

LIV. Provided, and enacted and declared, That no person shall be liable to any penalty for or to be detained on account of any such offence as is hereinbefore lastly mentioned, unless there shall be reasonable ground to believe that such person was the owner of such goods, or was concerned in bringing the same into such ports and other places as are hereinbefore mentioned, or in concealing the same, nor on account of any spirits, tobacco, or snuff, being stores, or being in vessels or packages of a content or size permitted by law.

LV. That where any persons or person, being part of the crew of any ship or vessel in Her Majesty's employment or service, and liable to detention by any officer or officers of the Customs, shall have been detained under any law or laws relating to the Customs, such person or persons, upon notice thereof given by such officer or officers of Customs to the captain or commanding officer of the ship or vessel, shall be placed in security by such captain or commanding officer on board such ship or vessel until the officer or officers of Customs shall have obtained a warrant from a Justice of the Peace for bringing the said offender or offenders before him or any two or more Justices of the Peace, to be dealt with according to law, which said warrant such Justice of the Peace is hereby authorized and required to grant, upon complaint made to him by such officer or officers of Customs, stating the offence for which such person or persons is or are liable to detention as aforesaid.

LVI. That all persons assembled, to the number of three or more, for the purpose of unshipping, carrying, conveying, or concealing any spirits or tobacco, or any tea or silk (such tea or silk being of the value of 20*l.* or more), liable to forfeiture under this Act, or any other Act or Acts relating to the Customs or Excise, and every person who shall by any means procure or hire, or shall depute or authorize any other to procure or hire, any person or persons to assemble for the purpose of being concerned in the landing or unshipping, or carrying, conveying, or concealing, any goods which are prohibited to be imported, or the duties for which have not been paid or secured, and that every person who shall obstruct any officer or officers of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or any officer or officers of Customs or Excise, or any person acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, in the execution of his or their duty, or in the due seizing of any goods liable to forfeiture by this Act, or any other Act or Acts relating to the Customs, or who shall rescue or cause to be rescued any goods which have been duly seized, or who shall attempt or endeavour to do, or who shall before or at or after any seizure stove, break, or otherwise destroy any goods to prevent the seizure thereof or the securing the same, shall, upon being duly convicted of any of the said offences before any two Justices of the Peace, be adjudged by such Justices for the first offence to be imprisoned in any house of correction, there kept to hard labour for any term not less than six nor greater than nine calendar months, and for the second offence for any term not less than nine nor greater than twelve calendar months, and for the third or any subsequent offence for two calendar months.

LVII. That whenever any person shall have been detained and taken before any Justice of the Peace for being found or discovered to have been on board any vessel or boat within any port, harbour, river, or creek of the United Kingdom or of the Isle of Man, such vessel or boat having on board or having had on board spirits or tobacco in such casks or packages as would, under this or any other Act relating to Customs, subject the same to forfeiture, or for unshipping, or for aiding, assisting, or being concerned in the unshipping of any spirits or tobacco liable to forfeiture under this or any other Act relating to the Customs or Excise, or for carrying, conveying, or concealing, or for aiding, assisting, or being concerned in the carrying, conveying, or concealing of any such spirits or tobacco, and it shall appear to such Justice that the quantity of spirits in respect of which such person has been so detained does not exceed one gallon, or that the quantity of tobacco in respect of which such person has been so detained does not exceed six pounds weight, it shall and may be lawful for such Justice and he is hereby authorized to proceed summarily upon the case without any information, and although no direction shall have been given by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and to convict such person of such offence, and to adjudge that such person shall, in lieu of any other penalty, forfeit any sum of money not exceeding *5*l., and in default of payment of such sum of money to commit such person to any of Her Majesty's gaols for any time not exceeding one month.

And after reciting that it is expedient that time should be allowed to obtain the order of the Commissioners of Customs or Excise as hereinafter directed, and also to prepare informations, convictions, and warrants of commitment;—

It is Enacted,

LVIII. That when any person or persons shall have been detained by any officer or officers of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or by any officer of Customs or Excise, or any person or persons acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, for any offence against his or any other Act or Acts relating to the Customs, and shall have been taken before any Justice of the Peace, if it shall appear to such Justice that there is reasonable cause to detain such person or persons, such Justice may and he is hereby authorized and required to order such person or persons to be detained a reasonable time, and at the expiration of such time to be brought before any two Justices of the Peace, who are hereby authorized and required finally to hear and determine the matter.

LIX. That if any person or persons liable to be detained under the provisions of this or any other Act relating to the Customs shall not be detained at the time of so committing the offence for which he or they is or are so liable, or, after detention shall make his or their escape, it shall and may be lawful for any officer or officers of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or for any officer of Customs or Excise, or any other person acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, to detain such person so liable to detention as aforesaid at any time afterwards, and to take him before any Justice of the Peace, to be dealt with as if detained at the time of committing the said offence.

LX. That no person shall, after sunset and before sunrise, between the 21st of September and the 1st of April, or after the hour of eight in the evening and before the hour of six in the morning at any other time in the year, make, aid or assist in making, any signal in or on board or from any vessel or boat, or on or from any part of the coast or shore of the United Kingdom, or within six miles of any part of such coast or shore, for the purpose of giving any notice to any person on board any smuggling vessel or boat, whether any person so on board of such vessel or boat be or be not within distance to notice such signal, and if any person, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this Act, make or cause to be made, or aid or assist in making any such signal, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and it shall be lawful for any person to stop, arrest, and detain the person or persons who shall so offend, and to carry and convey such person or persons so offending before any one or more of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace residing near the place where such offence shall be committed, who, if he sees cause, shall commit the offender to the next county gaol, there to remain until the next court of oyer and terminer, great session or gaol delivery, or until such person or persons shall be delivered by due course of law; and it shall not be necessary to prove on any indictment or information that any vessel or boat was actually on the coast; and the offender or offenders, being duly convicted thereof, shall, by order of the Court before whom such offender or offenders shall be convicted, either forfeit and pay the penalty or forfeiture of 100*l.*, or, at the discretion of such Court, be sentenced or committed to the common gaol or house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour, for any term not exceeding one year.

LXI. Provided and enacted, That in case any person be charged with or indicted for having made or caused to be made, or aiding or assisting in making, any such signal as aforesaid, the burden of proof that such signal so charged as having been made with intent and for the purpose of giving such notice as aforesaid was not made with such intent and for such purpose shall be upon the defendant against whom such charge is made or such indictment is found.

LXII. That it shall be lawful for any person whatsoever to prevent any signal being made as aforesaid, and to enter and go on and upon any lands for that purpose without being liable or subject to any indictment, suit, or action for the same.

LXIII. That if any persons, to the number of three or more, armed with fire-arms or other offensive weapons, shall, within the United Kingdom, or within the limits of any port, harbour, or creek thereof, be assembled in order to be aiding and assisting the illegal landing, running, or carrying away of any prohibited goods, or any goods liable to any duties which have not been paid or secured, or in rescuing or taking away any such goods as aforesaid after seizure from the officer of the Customs, or other officer authorized to seize the same, or from any person or persons employed by them or assisting them, or from the place where the same shall have been lodged by them, or in rescuing any person who shall have been apprehended for any offence made felony by this or any Act relating to the Customs, or in the preventing the apprehension of any person who shall have been guilty of such offence, or in case any persons to the number of three or more, so armed as aforesaid, shall, within the United Kingdom, or within the limits of any port, harbour, or creek thereof, be so aiding or assisting, every person offending, and every person aiding, abetting, or assisting therein, shall, being thereof convicted, be adjudged guilty of felony, and shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court before which he shall be convicted, to be transported beyond the seas for the term of the natural life of such person, or for any term not less than fifteen years, or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three years.

LXIV. That if any person shall maliciously shoot at any vessel or boat belonging to Her Majesty's navy, or in the service of the revenue, within one hundred leagues of any part of the coast of the United Kingdom, or shall maliciously shoot at, maim, or dangerously wound any officer of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or any officer of Customs or Excise, or any person acting in his aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, in the due execution of his office or duty, every person so offending, and every person aiding, abetting, or assisting therein, shall, being lawfully convicted, be adjudged guilty of felony, and shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court before which he shall be convicted, to be transported beyond the seas for the term of the natural life of such person, or for any term not less than fifteen years, or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three years.

LXV. That if any person being in company with more than four other persons be found with any goods liable to forfeiture under this or any other Act relating to the Customs or Excise, or in company with one other person, within five miles of the sea coast, or of any navigable river leading therefrom, with such goods, and carrying offensive arms or weapons, or disguised in any way, every such person shall be adjudged guilty of felony, and shall, on conviction of such offence, be transported as a felon for the term of seven years.

LXVI. That if any person shall by force or violence assault, resist, oppose, molest, hinder, or obstruct any officer of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or any officer of Customs or Excise, or other person acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, in the due execution of his or their office or duty, such person, being thereof convicted, shall be transported for seven years, or sentenced to be imprisoned in any house of correction or common gaol, and kept to hard labour, for any term not exceeding three years, at the discretion of the Court before whom the offender shall be tried and convicted as aforesaid.

LXVII. That it shall and may be lawful to and for the commanding officer for the time being of any vessel or boat employed for the prevention of smuggling to haul any such vessel or boat upon any part of the coasts of the United Kingdom, or the shores, banks, or beaches of any river, creek, or inlet of the same (not being a garden or pleasure ground, or place ordinarily used for any bathing machine or machines), which shall be deemed most convenient for that purpose, and to moor any such vessel or boat on such part of the aforesaid coasts, shores, banks, and beaches below high-water mark, and over which the tide flows on ordinary occasions, and to continue such vessel or boat so moored as aforesaid for such time as the said commanding officer shall deem necessary and proper; and such commanding officer, or person or persons acting under his direction, shall not be liable to any indictment, action, or suit for so doing, any law, statute, custom, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

LXVIII. That it shall be lawful to and for any officer of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or for any officer of Customs or Excise, or any person acting in his or their aid or assistance, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, when on duty to patrol upon and pass freely along and over any part of the coasts of the United Kingdom, or the shores or banks of any river, creek, or inlet of the same, (not being a garden or pleasure ground), and any such officer or person so patrolling shall not be liable to any indictment, action, or suit for so doing, any law, statute, custom or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

LXIX. That in all cases when any officer or seaman employed in the service of the Customs or Excise shall be killed, maimed, wounded, or in any way injured in the due execution of his office, or if any person acting in his aid, or duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, shall be so killed, maimed, wounded, or in any way injured while so aiding such officer or seaman, or so employed, it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs and Excise respectively to make such provision for the officer or person so maimed, wounded, or injured as aforesaid, or for the widows and families of such as shall be killed, as they shall be authorized and empowered to do by warrant from the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being.

LXX. That all vessels and boats and all goods whatsoever which shall have been seized and condemned for breach of any law relating to the Customs shall be disposed of, as soon as conveniently may be after the condemnation thereof, in such manner as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall direct.

LXXI. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and they are hereby authorized and empowered, to award to any officer or other person detaining any person liable to detention under this or any other Act relating to the Customs, to be paid upon the conviction of such person, any reward they may think fit to direct, not exceeding the sum of 20*l.* for each person.

LXXII. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and they are hereby authorized, to order the following reward to be paid to any officer or officers or persons as aforesaid by whose means any pecuniary penalty or composition is recovered; (that is to say,) one-third part of the penalty or sum recovered, except in seizure of silk goods, in which case the officers or other persons may receive one-half the penalty or sum recovered.

LXXIII. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and they are hereby authorized, to order to be paid in respect of any seizure made under this or any Act relating to the Customs or to trade and navigation, to the person or persons making the same, the following rewards; (that is to say,)

In the case of seizures of spirits or tobacco:—

If all the parties concerned in the Act which occasions the seizure, being above the age of sixteen years, are detained and convicted, the whole value thereof, such value to be fixed and settled by the Lords of the Treasury, or by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, as hereinafter directed:

If two or more of such parties, not being the whole, are so detained and convicted, seven eighths of such value :

If one such party, not being the whole of them, is so detained and convicted, five eighths of such value :

If one such party, not being the whole of them, is detained and convicted, and the vessel or means of conveyance is or are seized and condemned, three fourths of such value :

If the vessel or means of conveyance is seized and condemned without any person being detained, one third of such value :

If all the goods are seized, and all the parties concerned as aforesaid are subsequently convicted in consequence of such seizure, and by the exertion of the seizers, one half of such value :

If the goods only are seized, one eighth or such other part as the Commissioners of the Customs shall think proper, not exceeding one fourth of such value :

In the case of seizures of other goods, not silks :—

If the vessel or other means of conveyance is or are seized and condemned, or if any person is prosecuted to conviction on account of the same, one half the produce, exclusive of the duties :

If the goods only, one-fourth of such produce :

In the case of damaged tobacco, snuff, or other goods destroyed, such reward as the Lords of the Treasury or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs may think proper to direct, not exceeding a moiety of the duty payable on such goods in case the same had been sold for home consumption :

In the case of seizures of silk goods, the whole value of such goods, exclusive of the duty thereon :

In the case of seizures of vessels and boats :—

If sold, a moiety of the produce :

If taken into the public service or broken up, a moiety of the value :

In the case of seizures of cattle and carriages :—

In all cases, three-fourths of the produce of the sale.

LXXIV. Provided and enacted, That the value of spirits and tobacco seized as aforesaid shall in all cases be deemed and taken to be such as the Lords of the Treasury or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs may think fit to fix the same at per gallon or per pound weight, for the purpose of rewarding the said officer as aforesaid; and that all the before-mentioned rewards shall be paid subject to a deduction 10*l.* per centum on account of law charges and other expenses.

LXXV. That every such reward, or part or share of any such seizure, or of the value thereof, as shall be payable to any officer or officers, non-commissioned officers, petty officers, seamen, or privates of her Majesty's army, navy, or marines, or acting under the orders of the Lord High Admiral or Commissioners of the Admiralty, shall be divided and distributed in such proportions, and according to such rules, regulations, and orders, as Her Majesty shall by her order or orders in council, or by her royal proclamation in that behalf, be pleased to direct and appoint.

LXXVI. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise respectively, and they are hereby authorized, in case of any seizure of vessels, boats, or goods, or of the apprehension of any parties under this or any other Act relating to the Customs, to direct the distribution of the seizer's share of such vessels, boats, or goods, or of any penalties or rewards that may be recovered on account of any seizure, in such manner as to enable any officer or officers or other person or persons through whose information or means such seizure shall have been made, or penalty recovered, or party apprehended, and who may by them be deemed to be so entitled, to participate in such proportions as the said Commissioners shall respectively deem expedient.

LXXVII. That upon proof being made to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise that any officer or officers or person or persons as aforesaid shall have acted collusively or negligently in the making of any seizure, or in the apprehension of any party, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to direct that the whole or any part of the proportion of such seizure be applied to the use of Her Majesty.

LXXVIII. That no person or persons whatsoever being a subject or subjects of Her Majesty, other than an officer or officers of the Navy, Customs, or Excise, or some person or persons authorized in that behalf, shall intermeddle with or take up any spirits, being in casks of less content than twenty gallons, which may be found floating upon or sunk in the sea within one hundred leagues of the United Kingdom; and that if any spirits shall be so intermeddled with or taken up, the same shall be forfeited, together with any vessel or boat in which they are found.

LXXIX. Provided and enacted, That if any person or persons shall discover any spirits, being in casks of less content than twenty gallons, which may be found floating upon or sunk in the sea, and shall give information to any officer of the Customs, or other person or persons duly authorized to make seizure of such spirits, so that seizure shall be made of the same, the person or persons giving such information shall be entitled to and shall receive such reward as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs may deem it expedient to direct.

LXXX. That for the necessary subsistence of any poor person confined in any prison in the United Kingdom or in the Isle of Man, under or by virtue of any Exchequer or other process for the recovery of any duties or penalties, either upon bond or otherwise, under this or any other Act relating to the Customs or Excise, sued for under or by virtue of any order of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said Commissioners respectively to cause an allowance, not exceeding the sum of 7½*d.* and not less than 4½*d.* per day, to be made to any such poor person out of any money in their hands arising from the duties of Customs or Excise, as the case may require.

LXXXI. That the actual expenses incurred by any person to hard labour under this or any Act or Acts relating to the Customs, shall be paid out of the consolidated Customs by warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two or more of them, in such manner and to such amount as they shall think fit to direct.

LXXXII. That all penalties and forfeitures incurred or imposed by this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, shall and may be sued for, prosecuted, and recovered by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster, or at Dublin, or at Edinburgh, or in the Royal Courts of the Islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, in the name of Her Majesty's Attorney General or of the Lord Advocate of Scotland, or in the name or names of some officer or officers of Her Majesty's Customs, or by information before any two or more of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man, or before any governor, deputy governor, or deemster in the Isle of Man.

LXXXIII. That upon the exhibiting any information before any Justice of the Peace of any offence against this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, for which offence the party charged is not liable to be detained in manner hereinbefore mentioned, such Justice is hereby required to issue a summons for the appearance of the party against whom such information is exhibited before two Justices of the Peace; and such summons, directed to such party, being left either at his or her last known place of residence, or on board any ship or vessel to which such party may belong or may have lately belonged, shall be deemed to have been sufficiently served.

LXXXIV. That upon the appearance of any party so summoned, or in case of his or her default, then upon proof to the satisfaction of the Justices that the party was duly summoned in manner aforesaid, it shall be lawful for any two Justices of the peace or [to] proceed to the examination of the matter contained in such information, and upon due proof thereof, either upon the confession of the party, or upon the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses, to convict such party of the offence charged in such information; and in case of the non-payment of any penalty or penalties which such party may have incurred for such offence, such Justices, or one of them, or any other Justice or Justices of the Peace, are hereby authorized, by warrant under hand and seal, to commit such party to any of Her Majesty's gaols within their or his jurisdiction, there to remain until the penalty or penalties shall be paid; and such Justice or Justices are hereby also authorized and required, when such party is convicted of any offence for which the punishment of hard labour is inflicted, to commit such party by such warrant to the next house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour for such time as he or they shall be authorized to do by this or any Act or Acts relating to the Customs.

LXXXV. That such warrants shall and may be executed in any part of the United Kingdom.

LXXXVI. That where any party shall or may be convicted before any two or more of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace as aforesaid in any penalty or penalties incurred as aforesaid, except as is hereinafter provided, it shall and may be lawful for the said Justices, in cases where, upon consideration of the circumstances, they shall deem it expedient so to do, and for a first offence only, to mitigate the payment of the said penalty or penalties, so as the sum to be paid by such party be not less than one-fourth of the amount of the penalty in which such party shall have been convicted.

LXXXVII. That where any person shall have been so committed by any Justices or Justice of the Peace to any prison for non-payment of any penalty less than 100*l.* the gaoler or keeper of such prison is hereby authorized and required to discharge such person at the end of six calendar months from the commencement of such imprisonment.

LXXXVIII. That it shall and may be lawful for any two or more Justices of the Peace before whom any person liable to be detained, and who shall have been detained for any offence against this or any Act relating to the Customs, shall be brought, either on the confession of such person of such offence, or on proof thereof upon the oath or oaths of one or more credible witness or witnesses, to convict such person of any such offence; and every such person so convicted as aforesaid shall immediately upon such conviction pay into the hands of such Justices, for the use of Her Majesty, the penalty of 100*l.* without any mitigation whatever for any such offence of which he shall be so convicted as aforesaid, or in default thereof the said Justices shall and they are hereby respectively authorized, by warrant under their hands and seals, to commit such person so convicted as aforesaid, and making such default as aforesaid, to any gaol or prison, there to remain until such penalty shall be paid; and such Justices are hereby also authorized and required, when any such person is convicted of any offence for which the punishment of hard labour is inflicted, to commit such person to the next house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour for such time as they shall be authorized to do by this or any other Act or Acts relating to the Customs.

LXXXIX. That where any person shall have been convicted before any two Justices of the Peace of any offence for which any penalty shall have been inflicted by this or any other Act or Acts relating to the Customs, it shall and may be lawful for the said Justices, if they shall think fit, to order and adjudge that such person shall, in default of paying such penalty, be imprisoned for the first of such offences in any of Her Majesty's gaols within their jurisdiction for a period of not less than six nor more than nine calendar months; and if such party shall have been before convicted of any offence against this or any other Act or Acts relating to the Customs, it shall and may be lawful for the said Justices, if they shall think fit, to order and adjudge that such person be imprisoned in any house of correction and there kept to hard labour for any period not less than six nor more than twelve calendar months.

XC. That when any person shall have been duly convicted of any offence against this or any Act or Acts relating to the Customs for which such person is liable to be sentenced to hard labour, and such conviction shall take place before any two Justices of the Peace within whose jurisdiction there is no house of correction, it shall and may be lawful for such Justices and they are hereby authorized and required, by warrant under their hands and seals, to commit such offenders to any of Her Majesty's gaols within their jurisdiction wherein the sentence of hard labour is or can be executed, or to the house of correction nearest to the place where such offender is convicted, for such time as is herein set forth for a first, second, and third offence respectively; and the governor or keeper of such gaol or house of correction is hereby required to receive such offenders and to obey such warrant in all respects as if such gaol or house of correction was within the jurisdiction of such Justices.

XCI. That where any person shall have been convicted of any offence against this or any Act or Acts relating to the Customs for which such persons would be liable to be committed to hard labour, it shall and may be lawful for the Justices before whom such person is so convicted, provided such person is a female, or provided it appears to such Justices that such person is from age or sickness incapable of hard labour, to order and adjudge that such person shall, in lieu of being committed to hard labour, be imprisoned in any of Her Majesty's gaols within their jurisdiction for the length of time to which such person would have been liable to be kept to hard labour: Provided always, that in all such cases the cause of mitigation shall be stated in the warrant of commitment.

XCII. That when any person shall have been convicted before any two Justices of the Peace of any offence against this or any Act relating to the Customs for which such person is liable to be committed to hard labour, and it shall at any time during such imprisonment be made appear to the said or any other two Justices, in the presence of such person, that such person had been before convicted of any such offence; it shall be lawful for such Justices and they are hereby required to commit such offender to some house of correction, to be kept to hard labour for any period not less than nine nor greater than twelve calendar months in the whole from the date of the first commitment, and to amend the warrant of commitment accordingly: Provided always, that any gaoler in whose custody such person shall be shall, upon a written order signed by any Justice of the Peace, produce such person before such last-mentioned Justices for the purpose last aforesaid.

XCIII. That it shall not be necessary in such amended warrant of commitment to state or refer to the former conviction.

XCIV. That where any person being a married woman shall be convicted before two Justices of the Peace of any offence against this or any other Act relating to the Customs, such person shall, in default of paying any penalty which she may have incurred, be liable to be committed to prison.

XCV. That in case any offence shall be committed upon the high seas against this or any other Act relating to the Customs, or any penalty or forfeiture shall be incurred upon the high seas for any breach of such Act, such offence shall, for the purpose of prosecution, be deemed and taken to have been committed, and such penalties and forfeitures to have been incurred, at the place on land in the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man into which the person committing such offence, or incurring such penalty or forfeiture, shall be taken, brought, or carried, or in which such person shall be found, and in case such place on land is situated within any city, borough, liberty, division, franchise, or town corporate, as well any Justice or Justices of the Peace for such city, borough, liberty, division, franchise, or town corporate, as any Justice of the Peace of the county within which such city, borough, liberty, division, franchise, or town corporate is situated, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all cases of offences against such Act so committed upon the high seas, any charter or Act of Parliament to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always, that where any offence shall be committed in any place upon the water not being within any county of the United Kingdom, or where any doubt exists as to the same being within any county, such offence shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed and taken to be an offence committed upon the high seas.

XCVI. That where any offence against this or any Act relating to the Customs shall be committed in any city, borough, liberty, division, franchise, or town corporate, as well any Justice or Justices of the said city, borough, liberty, division, franchise, or town corporate, as any Justices of any county within which such city, borough, liberty, division, franchise, or town corporate is situated, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the same.

XCVII. That when the attendance of two magistrates having jurisdiction in the county where the offence is committed cannot conveniently be obtained, it shall be lawful for a magistrate of any adjoining county, with one magistrate of the county in which the offence was committed or deemed to have been committed, to hear and determine any information exhibited before him, and to have the same powers and authorities in all respects as to any proceeding had under this or any other Act relating to the Customs as if they were both magistrates for the county in which the offence was committed.

XCVIII. That when any information shall have been exhibited before any Justice of the Peace for the forfeiture of any goods whatsoever seized under this or any Act relating to this [the] Customs, it shall be lawful for the said Justice, and he is hereby authorized and required, to summon the party to whom such goods belonged, or from whom they were seized, to appear before two Justices of the Peace; and such summons, directed to such party, being left either at his or her last known place of residence, or on board any ship to which such party may belong, shall be deemed to have been sufficiently served; and upon his, her, or their appearance or default any two Justices may proceed to the examination of the matter, and upon due proof that the said goods are liable to forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs may condemn the said goods.

XCIX. That all vessels, boats, and goods which shall have been or shall be hereafter seized as forfeited under any law relating to the Customs, and which shall have been or shall hereafter be ordered to be prosecuted by the Commissioners Her Majesty's Customs, shall be deemed and taken to be condemned, and may be sold in the manner directed by law respect to vessels, boats, and goods seized and condemned for breach of any law relating to the Customs, unless the person from whom such vessels, boats, and goods shall have been seized, or the owner of them, or some person authorized by him, shall, within one calendar month from the day of seizing the same, give notice in writing, if in London, to the person seizing the same, or to the secretary or solicitor for the Customs, and if elsewhere to the person seizing the same, or to the collector and comptroller or other chief officer of the Customs at the nearest port, that he claims the vessel, boat, goods, or intends to claim them.

X. That all the powers vested in any Justices or Justice of the Peace by virtue of this Act shall be and the same are hereby vested in and may be exercised in the Isle of Man by any governor, deputy governor, or deemster of the said island, by any two Justices of the Peace in and for the said island, so far as regards offences committed against or penalties or forfeitures incurred under this or any Act or Acts relating to the Customs.

1. That no writ of certiorari shall issue to remove any proceedings before any Justice or Justices of the Peace under this Act relating to the Customs, nor shall any writ of habeas corpus issue to bring up the body of any person who shall have been convicted before any Justice or Justices of the Peace under any such Act, unless the party against whom such proceeding shall have been directed, or who shall have been so convicted, or his attorney or agent, shall state in an affidavit

In writing, to be duly sworn, the grounds of objection to such proceedings or conviction, and that upon the return to such writ of certiorari or habeas corpus no objection shall be taken or considered other than such as shall have been stated in such affidavit; and that it shall be lawful for any Justice or Justices of the Peace, and they are hereby required, to amend any information, conviction, or warrant of commitment for any offence under any such Act, at any time, whether before or after conviction.

cii. That no such writ shall issue without notice in writing of the issuing thereof to the solicitor for the Customs, and that no return to any such writ shall be considered by any of Her Majesty's Courts at Westminster, Dublin, or Edinburgh, or by any of Her Majesty's Judges of any of the said Courts, unless there shall be produced to such Court or Judge an affidavit in writing, duly sworn, stating that notice of the issuing of such writ was given to the solicitor for the Customs or left at his office four clear days before the return of such writ, and that with respect to all such writs there shall be an interval of four clear days at least between the day on which they issue and the day on which they are returnable, and any such writ issuing without such notice, and not being in conformity to the directions herein contained, shall be void to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

ciii. That every information preferred to enforce any punishment, penalty, or forfeiture for any offence committed against this or any Act or Acts relating to the Customs, and every conviction or warrant of commitment for any such offence, shall be deemed valid and sufficient, in which the offence for which such punishment or penalty shall have been inflicted, or the cause of such forfeiture, is set forth in the words of the Act or Acts by which such punishment or penalty has been inflicted, or under which such forfeiture has been incurred; and that no warrant of commitment for any such offence shall be held void by reason of any defect in such warrant, nor shall any party be entitled to be discharged out of custody on account of any such defect, provided it be alleged in such warrant that the said party has been convicted of such an offence, and provided it shall appear to the Court or Judge before whom such warrant is returned that such conviction proceeded upon good and valid grounds.

civ. That when by any Act relating to the Customs a penalty is imposed upon every person committing or concerned in the Act by which such penalty is incurred, and such offence shall have been committed by several persons jointly, or several persons shall have been concerned in the same, such several persons shall jointly and severally incur every such penalty; and it shall be lawful to proceed against such persons to recover such penalties jointly by one information or severally by separate informations, as the Attorney General or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs respectively may deem expedient.

cv. That when any verdict shall pass against any person in any of Her Majesty's courts of record for any offence for which any pecuniary penalty shall have been inflicted by this or any Act relating to the Customs, and such person shall have before been duly convicted, either by verdict in any of Her Majesty's courts of record or otherwise, of any such offence, it shall and may be lawful for the Judge or Judges of the said court in which such person shall be so convicted to order and adjudge that such person shall, in lieu of any penalty, be imprisoned in any house of correction for any period not less than six nor more than twelve calendar months; and the governor or keeper of any house of correction is hereby required to receive any person committed under any such order or judgment.

cvi. That when any writ of capias shall hereafter issue against any person for any such offence as is hereinbefore lastly mentioned, and such person shall before have been convicted of any such offence, such writ shall issue and such person shall be held to bail for the full amount of the penalty sought to be recovered against him.

cvi. That all informations exhibited before any Justice or Justices of the Peace for any offence committed against this or any other Act relating to the Customs, and all convictions for such offences, and all warrants of any Justice or Justices of the Peace founded upon such convictions, shall be drawn respectively in the form or to the effect in the schedule to this Act annexed.

cvi. That all penalties and forfeitures which may be recovered before any Justice or Justices of the Peace under this or any other Act relating to the Customs or Excise, on any prosecution by order of the Commissioners of Customs, shall be paid to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and on any prosecution by order of the Commissioners of Excise shall be paid to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Excise, or to the person appointed by them respectively to receive the same; and such penalties and forfeitures shall be applied by the said Commissioners respectively in such manner as the law directs, any thing contained in any Act now in force or hereafter to be made to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

cix. That whenever any penalty shall be sued for as aforesaid by information against any person in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster or at Dublin, or at Edinburgh, a capias may thereupon issue as the first process, specifying the amount of the penalty sued for, and such person against whom such capias shall issue shall be obliged to give sufficient bail or security, by natural-born subjects or denizens, to the person or persons to whom such capias shall be directed, to appear in the Court out of which such capias shall issue at the day of the return of such writ, to answer such suit and prosecution, and shall likewise at the time of such appearing give sufficient bail or security, by such persons as aforesaid, in the said Court, to answer and pay all the forfeitures and penalties incurred for such offence or offences, in case he, she, or they shall be convicted thereof, or to yield his, her, or their body or bodies to prison.

cx. That if any person against whom a capias shall issue out of any of Her Majesty's courts of record as aforesaid shall be arrested upon such capias, and taken to prison for want of sufficient bail, a copy of the information exhibited against such person shall be served upon him or her in gaol, or delivered to the gaoler, keeper, or turnkey of the prison in which such person shall be confined, and if such person shall neglect or refuse to appear or plead to the said information for the space of twenty days, judgment shall be entered by default; and in case judgment shall be obtained against any such person or persons, by default, verdict, or otherwise, and such persons or person shall not pay the sum recovered against him, her, or them for his, her, or their offence, execution shall be thereupon awarded and issued, not only against the body or bodies of the person or persons so in prison as aforesaid, but against all the real and personal estates of such person or persons, for such sum or sums of money so as aforesaid recovered against him, her, or them.

CXL. That in case any person arrested and imprisoned by virtue of any writ of capias as aforesaid shall make affidavit before the Judge or Judges of the Court where the information shall be brought, or before any other person commissioned to take affidavits in such court, that he or she is not worth, over and above his or her wearing apparel, the sum of 5*l.*, (which said affidavit the said Judge or Judges of such court and such person so commissioned is and are hereby authorized and required so to take), and such person shall thereupon petition such Court to defend himself or herself against such information in forma pauperis, the Judge or Judges of such court shall, according to their discretion, admit such person to defend himself or herself against such information in the same manner and with the same privileges as the Judges of such court are by law directed and authorized to admit poor subjects to commence actions for the recovery of their rights; and for that end and purpose it shall be lawful for any Judge or Judges of such Court to assign counsel learned in the law, and to appoint an attorney and clerk of such court, to advise and carry on any legal defence that such person can make against such action or information, and which said counsel, attorney, and clerk so assigned and appointed is and are hereby required to give his and their advice and assistance to such person, and to do their duties, without fee or reward.

CXII. That where any writ of capias or other process shall issue out of any court, directed to any sheriff, mayor, bailiff, or other person having the execution of process in any county, city, borough, or liberty, against any person who shall be charged with any offence against this or any Act relating to the Customs, every such sheriff, mayor, or bailiff, and other person having execution of process as aforesaid, and their and every of their under-sheriffs, deputies, and other persons acting or them in the said office and offices respectively, shall and are hereby required and enjoined, upon the request or application of the solicitor for the Customs, or any person acting in his behalf, (such request to be in writing, and indorsed upon the back of the said process, and signed by such solicitor, with his name and addition of solicitor for the Customs, or by such other person, stating his authority,) to grant a special warrant or warrants to such person or persons as shall be named to them by such solicitor or other person for the apprehending such offender or offenders, or in default thereof every such sheriff, mayor, bailiff, under-sheriff, and other person acting in the said office or offices respectively shall be subject and liable to such process of contempt, fines, amerciaments, penalties, and as they or any of them are now by any law, custom, or usage liable in case of refusing or neglecting to execute the like process where the defendant might have been taken thereupon in the common and usual method of proceeding.

CXIII. That all and every such sheriff, mayor, bailiff, under-sheriff, and other persons so granting or making out such special warrant as aforesaid shall be and they are hereby saved harmless and indemnified against Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, and against all and every other person or persons whomsoever, of and from all escapes of any person or persons who shall or may be taken by virtue of any such warrant as aforesaid which shall or may happen from the time of taking such offender or offenders till he, she, or they shall be committed to the proper gaol or prison, or be offered and tendered to the keeper or other person having charge of such gaol or prison (who is hereby enjoined and required to receive every such person or persons so apprehended as aforesaid, and give a receipt for his, her, or their body or bodies), and of and from all actions, prosecutions, process of contempt, and other proceedings for or by reason of such escape, any law, custom, or usage the contrary notwithstanding.

CXIV. That no claims shall be permitted to be entered to, and no appearance shall be permitted to be entered to, any information filed for the forfeiture of any vessel, boat, or goods seized for any cause of forfeiture, and returned into any of Her Majesty's courts of record in the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man, unless such claim or appearance is entered in the true and real name or names of the owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors of such vessel, boat, or goods, describing the place of residence and the business or profession of such person or persons; and if such person or persons shall reside at London, Edinburgh, or Dublin, or within the liberties thereof, oath shall be made by him, her, or them before one of the Judges of the Court into which the said vessel, boat, or goods are returned, or in which such information is filed, that the said vessel, boat, or goods was or were really and truly the property of him, her, or them at the time of such seizure; but if such person or persons shall not be resident in London, Edinburgh, or Dublin, or the liberties thereof, then and in such case oath shall be made in like manner by the agent, attorney, or solicitor by whom such claim or appearance shall be entered that he has full power and legal authority and directions from such owners or proprietors to enter such claim or appearance, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief such vessel, boat, or goods were at the time of the seizure thereof bona fide and truly the real property of the person or persons in whose name or names such claim or appearance is entered; and on failure thereof the vessel, boat, or goods shall be absolutely condemned, and judgment shall be entered thereon by default, according to the usual mode of proceedings of the Court, in the same manner as if no claim or appearance had been entered into; and every person who shall be convicted of making or taking a false oath to any of the facts hereinbefore directed or required to be sworn shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be liable to the pains and penalties to which persons are liable for wilful and corrupt jury.

CXV. That upon the entry of any claim to any boat or vessel or to any goods seized for any cause of forfeiture, or of any appearance to any information filed for such forfeiture, the person or persons who shall enter such claim or appearance as the owner or proprietor thereof (in case such claimant shall reside in the United Kingdom) shall be bound, with two other sufficient sureties, in the penalty of 100*l.*, to answer and pay the costs occasioned by such claim or appearance; and if such owner or proprietor shall not reside in the United Kingdom, then and in such case the attorney or solicitor by whose direction such claim or appearance shall be entered shall in like manner be bound, with two other sufficient sureties, in the like penalty, to answer and pay the costs occasioned by such claim or appearance.

CXVI. That in case any information or suit shall be commenced or brought to trial on account of the seizure of any vessel, boat, or goods, merchandises or commodities whatsoever, or any horses or other animals, or any carriage seized as forfeited by this or any Act relating to the Customs, wherein a verdict shall be found for the claimant thereof, and it shall appear to the Judge or Court before whom the same shall have been tried that there was a probable cause of seizure, such Judge or Court shall certify on the record that there was such probable cause, and in such case the person or persons who made such seizure shall not be liable to any action, indictment, or other suit or prosecution on account of such seizure; and in case any action, indictment, or other suit or prosecution shall be commenced and brought to trial against any person or persons whomsoever on account of any such seizure as aforesaid, wherein a verdict shall be given against the defendants or defendant, if the Court or Judge before whom such information or suit shall have been tried shall have certified on the said record that there was a probable cause for such seizure, then the plaintiff, besides the things seized or the value thereof, shall not be entitled to above 2*d*. damages, nor to any costs of suit, nor shall the defendant or defendants in such prosecution be fined above 1*s*.

CXVII. That no writ shall be sued out against, nor a copy of any process served upon, any officer of the Army, Navy, Marines, Customs, or Excise, or against any person acting under the direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, for anything done in the execution of or by reason of his office, until one calendar month next after notice in writing shall have been delivered to him, or left at his usual place of abode, by the attorney or agent for the party who intends to sue out such writ or process as aforesaid, in which notice shall be clearly and explicitly contained in the cause of action the name and place of abode of the person who is to bring such action, and the name and place of abode of the attorney or agent; and that a fee of 20*s*. shall be paid for the preparing and serving of every such notice, and no more.

CXVIII. Provided and enacted, That no plaintiff in any case when an action shall be grounded on any such act done by the defendant shall be permitted to produce any evidence of the cause of such action, except such as shall be contained in the notice to be given as aforesaid, or shall receive any verdict against such officer or person, unless he shall prove on the trial of such action that such notice was given; and in default of such proof the defendant in such action shall receive a verdict, with costs, as hereinafter mentioned.

CXIX. That it shall and may be lawful to and for any such officer or other person to whom such notice shall have been given as aforesaid, at any time within one calendar month after such notice shall have been given, to tender amends to the party complaining, or his, her, or their agent or attorney, and in case the same is not accepted to plead such tender in bar to any action to be brought against him grounded on such writ or process, together with the plea of not guilty, and other pleas, with leave of the Court; and if, upon issue joined thereon, the jury shall find the amends so tendered to have been sufficient, then they shall give a verdict for the defendant; and in such case, or in case the plaintiff shall become nonsuited, or discontinue his, her, or their action, or in case judgment shall be given for such defendant upon demurrer, then such defendant shall be entitled to the like costs as he would have been entitled to in case he had pleaded the general issue only; but if upon issue joined, the jury shall find that no amends were tendered, or that the same were not sufficient, or shall find against the defendant in such other plea or pleas, then they shall give a verdict for the plaintiff, and such damages as they shall think proper, together with his, her, or their costs of suit.

CXX. That in case such officer or other person as aforesaid shall neglect to tender any amends, or shall have tendered insufficient amends, before the action brought, it shall and may be lawful for him, by leave of the Court in which such action shall be brought, at any time before the trial of the said action, to pay into court such sums of money as he shall see fit, whereupon such proceedings, orders, and payments shall be had, made, and given in and by such Court as in other actions where the defendant is allowed to pay money into court.

CXXI. That if any action or suit shall be brought or commenced as aforesaid such action or suit shall be brought or commenced within six months next after the cause of action shall have arisen, and not afterwards, and shall be laid and tried in the county or place where the cause of action is alleged to have occurred, and not in any other county or place; and the defendant or defendants shall and may plead the general issue, and give the special matter in evidence, at any trial had thereupon; and if the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall become nonsuited, or discontinue his, her, or their action or suit, or if upon a verdict or demurrer judgment shall be given against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, the defendant or defendants shall be entitled to treble costs, and have such remedy for recovering the same as any defendant or defendants can or may have in other cases where costs are given by law.

CXXII. That whenever any person shall be charged with any offence against this or any Act relating to the Customs in which he or she may be prosecuted by indictment or information in Her Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench, and the same shall be made appear to any Judge of the same court, by affidavit or by certificate of an information or indictment being filed against such person in the said court for such offence, it shall and may be lawful for such Judge to issue his warrant under his hand and seal, and thereby to cause such person to be apprehended and brought before him or some other Judge of the same court, or before some one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace, in order to his or her being bound to the Queen's Majesty, with two sufficient sureties, in such sum as in the said warrant shall be expressed, with condition to appear in the said court at the time mentioned in such warrant, and to answer all and singular indictments or informations for any such offence; and in case any such person shall neglect or refuse to become bound as aforesaid it shall be lawful for such Judge or Justice respectively to commit such person to the common gaol of the county, city, or place where the offence shall have been committed, or where he or she shall have been apprehended, there to remain until he or she shall become bound as aforesaid, or shall be discharged by order of the Court in term time, or of one of the Judges of the said court in vacation, and the recognizance to be thereupon taken shall be returned and filed in the said court, and shall continue in force until such person shall have been acquitted of such offence, or in case of conviction shall have received judgment for the same unless sooner ordered by the Court to be discharged; and that where any person, either by virtue of such warrant of commitment aforesaid, or by virtue of any writ of capias ad respondendum issued out of the said court, is now detained or shall hereafter be committed to and detained in any gaol for want of bail, it shall be lawful for the prosecutor of any such indictment or information to cause a copy thereof to be delivered to such person, or to the gaoler or keeper or turnkey of the gaol wherein such person is or shall be so detained, with a notice thereon indorsed, that unless such person shall, within eight days from the time of such delivery of a copy of the indictment or information as aforesaid, cause an appearance and also a plea or demurrer to be entered in the said court to such indictment or information, an appearance and the plea of not guilty will be entered thereto in the name of such person; and in case he or she shall thereupon, for the space of eight days after the delivery of a copy of such indictment or information as aforesaid, neglect to cause an appearance and also a plea or demurrer to be entered in the said court to such indictment or information, it shall be lawful for the prosecutor of such indictment or information, upon affidavit being made and filed in the court of the delivery of a copy of such indictment or information, with such notice indorsed thereon as aforesaid, to such person, or to such gaoler, keeper, or turnkey, as the case may be, which affidavit may be made before any Judge or Commissioner of the said court authorized to take affidavits in the said Court, to cause an appearance and the plea of not guilty to be entered in the said court to such indictment or information for such person, and such proceedings shall be had thereupon as if the defendant in such indictment or information appeared and pleaded not guilty, according to the usual course of the said Court; and that if upon trial of such indictment or information any defendant so committed and detained as aforesaid shall be acquitted of all the offences therein charged upon him or her, it shall be lawful for the Judge before whom such trial shall be had, although he may not be one of the Judges of the said Court of Queen's Bench, to order that such defendant shall be forthwith discharged out of custody as to his or her commitment as aforesaid, and such defendant shall be thereupon discharged accordingly.

CCXIII. That where any person shall be arrested by virtue of a warrant issued as aforesaid, and shall enter into a recognizance, and appear in the said court at the return of the said recognizance, but shall not afterwards plead to the information or indictment, it shall and may be lawful for the prosecutor of such information or indictment to cause a copy thereof to be delivered to such person, or his or her attorney or agent, or to be left at his or her last place of abode, with a notice thereon indorsed, that unless such person shall, within eight days from the time of such delivery of a copy of the information or indictment as aforesaid, cause a plea to be entered in the said court to such information or indictment, that the prosecutor of such information or indictment will enter a plea of not guilty on his or her behalf; and that upon affidavit being made and filed in the said court of the delivery of a copy of such information or indictment, with such notice indorsed thereon as aforesaid, to such person, or to his or her attorney or agent, or at his or her last place of abode, as the case may be, it shall be lawful for the prosecutor of such information or indictment to cause the plea of not guilty to be entered in the said court to such information or indictment for such person, and such proceedings shall be had thereupon as if the defendant in such information or indictment had pleaded according to the usual course of the said court.

And for the purpose of enabling the mayor, commonalty, and citizens of the city of London, and their successors, to ascertain and collect the amount of the dues payable to them upon the several articles hereinafter mentioned, brought coastwise into the port of London;—

It is Enacted,

CCXIV. That if all or any of the goods of the description hereinafter mentioned, (that is to say), firkins of butter, tons of cheese, fish, eggs, salt, fruit, roots (eatable), and onions, brought coastwise into the port of the said city, and which are liable to the said dues, shall be landed or unshipped at or in the said port before a proper certificate of the payment of the said duties shall have been obtained, such goods respectively shall be forfeited, and may be seized by any officer of Her Majesty's Customs empowered to seize any goods landed without due entry thereof; and such forfeiture may be sued for, prosecuted, and recovered by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster, in the name of the chamberlain of the said city, on behalf of the said mayor, commonalty, and citizens.

CCXV. That if any person shall be arrested under or by virtue of a writ of capias ad respondendum issuing out of any of Her Majesty's courts of record, or out of any of the superior courts of record of either of the counties palatine, at the suit of the Queen's Majesty, her heirs and successors, and the sheriff or other officer shall take bail from such person, such sheriff or officer, at the request and costs of the prosecutor, shall assign to the Queen's Majesty, her heirs and successors, the bond taken from such person, by indorsing the same, and attesting the same under his hand and seal in the presence of two or more credible witnesses, which may be done without any stamp, provided the assignment so indorsed be duly stamped when any suit be commenced thereupon; and if such bail bond be forfeited such process shall thereupon issue as on bonds usually made to the Queen's Majesty, her heirs and successors, and the Court in which such bail bond is put in suit may, by rule or rules of the same court, give such relief to the defendant or defendants as is agreeable to justice and reason.

CCXVI. That no indictment shall be preferred for any offence against this or any other Act or Acts relating to the Customs or Excise, nor shall any suit be commenced for the recovery of any penalty or forfeiture for any such offence, (except in the case of persons detained and carried before one or more Justices in pursuance of this Act,) unless such indictment shall be preferred under the direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise, or unless such suit shall be commenced in the name of Her Majesty's Attorney General for England or Ireland, or in the name of the Lord Advocate of Scotland, or in the name of some officer of Customs or Excise, under the direction of the said Commissioners respectively.

CCXVII. That if any prosecution whatever shall be commenced for the recovery of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred by this or any other Act relating to the Customs or Excise, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Attorney General, or the Lord Advocate of Scotland, if he is satisfied that such fine, penalty, or forfeiture was incurred without any intention to evade, or that it is inexpedient to proceed in the said prosecution, to stop all further proceedings by entering a nolle prosequi, or otherwise, on such information, as well with respect to the share of such fine, penalty, or forfeiture to which any officer or officers may be entitled as to the Queen's share thereof.

CCXVIII. That if any goods shall be seized for non-payment of duties, or any other cause of forfeiture, and any dispute arise whether the Customs, Excise, or inland duties have been paid for the same, or the same have been lawfully imported, or concerning the place from whence such goods were brought, then and in such case the proof thereof shall be on the owner or claimer of such goods, and not on the officer who shall seize the same.

CCXIX. That no Justice of the Peace who is a collector or comptroller, or otherwise connected with the collection of the Customs or Excise, shall take cognizance of any matter relating to the summary conviction of persons offending against this or any other Act relating to the Customs.

CCXX. That in case of any information or proceedings had under this or any Act relating to the Customs, the averment that the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise have directed or elected such information or proceedings to be instituted, or that any vessel is foreign, or belonging wholly or in part to Her Majesty's subjects, or that any person detained or found on board any vessel or boat liable to seizure is or is not a subject of Her Majesty, or that any person is an officer of the Customs, and where the offence is committed in any port in the United Kingdom the naming such port in any information or proceedings, shall be sufficient, without proof as to such fact or facts, unless the defendant in such case shall prove to the contrary.

CCXXI. That all persons employed for the prevention of smuggling, under the direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, or of any officer or officers in the service of the Customs, shall be deemed and taken to be duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and the averment in any information or suit that such party was so duly employed shall be sufficient proof thereof, unless the defendant in such information or suit shall prove to the contrary.

CCXXII. That if upon any trial a question shall arise whether any person is an officer of the army, navy, or marines, being duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, and on full pay, or an officer of Customs or Excise, evidence of his having acted as such shall be deemed sufficient, and such person shall not be required to produce his commission or deputation, unless sufficient proof shall be given to the contrary; and every such officer, and any person acting in his aid or assistance, shall be deemed a competent witness upon the trial of any suit or information on account of any seizure or penalty as aforesaid, notwithstanding such officer or other person may be entitled to the whole or any part of such seizure or penalty, or to any reward upon the conviction of the party charged in such suit or information.

CCXXIII. That upon the trial of any issue, or upon any judicial hearing or investigation, touching any penalty or forfeiture under any law or laws relating to the Customs or Excise, or to the law of navigation, where it may be necessary to give proof of any order issued by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise respectively, the order, or any letter or instructions referring thereto, which shall have been officially received by any officer of Customs or Excise for his government, and under which he shall have acted as such officer, shall be admitted and taken as sufficient evidence and proof of such order to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

CCXXIV. That all suits, indictments, or informations exhibited for any offence against this or any other Act relating to the Customs in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster or in Dublin, or in Edinburgh, or in the royal courts of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, shall and may be had, brought, sued, or exhibited within three years next after the date of the offence committed, and shall and may be exhibited before any one or more Justices of the Peace within six months next after the date of the offence committed.

CCXXV. Provided and enacted, That where any person shall have been detained for any offence against this or any Act relating to the Customs, and shall have made his escape from custody, an information may be exhibited before one or more Justices of the Peace against such person for such offence at any time afterwards, although more than six months shall have expired.

CCXXVI. That any indictment or information for any offence against this or any other Act relating to the Customs shall and may be inquired of, examined, tried, and determined in any county of England where the offence is committed in England, and in any county in Scotland where the offence is committed in Scotland, and in any county in Ireland where the offence is committed in Ireland, in such manner and form as if the offence had been committed in the said county where the said indictment or information shall be tried.

And after reciting, that by an Act, 2 & 3 Vict., intituled, 'An Act for further improving the Police in and near the Metropolis,' it is enacted, that after the passing of that Act all summonses and warrants to be issued in any criminal proceeding within the metropolitan police district, or by any magistrate within the said district, shall be served and executed by a constable of the metropolitan police force, and by none other: And that it is expedient, in cases of proceedings instituted by direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs or Excise, that such summonses or warrants should be executed by their respective officers;—

It is Enacted,

CCXXVII. That from and after the passing of this Act all such summonses and warrants shall and may be served and executed by any officer of the Customs or Excise, any Act now in force or hereafter to be made to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

CCXXVIII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

25. Recovery of forfeitures.
26. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 54, whereby the laws for the encouragement of British shipping and navigation were consolidated: And that since the passing of the said Act divers parts of Acts for the further amendment of the law in that respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country that the said Act and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act;—

It is Enacted,

i. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force for the purposes therein mentioned, except where any other commencement is herein particularly directed.

ii. That the several sorts of goods hereinafter enumerated, being the produce of Europe, (that is to say,) masts, timber, boards, tar, tallow, hemp, flax, currants, raisins, figs, prunes, olive oil, corn or grain, wine, brandy, tobacco, wool, shumac, madders, madder roots, barilla, brimstone, bark of oak, cork, oranges, lemons, linseed, rapeseed and clover seed, shall not be imported into the United Kingdom to be used therein, except in British ships, or in ships of the country of which the goods are the produce, or in ships of the country from which the goods are imported.

iii. That goods the produce of Asia, Africa or America, shall not be imported from Europe into the United Kingdom to be used therein, except the goods hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,)

Goods the produce of the dominions of the Emperor of Morocco, which may be imported from places in Europe within the Straits of Gibraltar:

Goods the produce of Asia or Africa which (having been brought into places in Europe within the Straits of Gibraltar from or through places in Asia or Africa within those Straits, and not by way of the Atlantic Ocean,) may be imported from places in Europe within the Straits of Gibraltar:

Goods the produce of places within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, which (having been imported from those places into Gibraltar or Malta in British ships) may be imported from Gibraltar or Malta:

Goods taken by way of reprisal by British ships:

Bullion, diamonds, pearls, rubies, emeralds, and other jewels or precious stones.

iv. That goods the produce of Asia, Africa, or America shall not be imported into the United Kingdom to be used therein, in foreign ships, unless they be the ships of the country in Asia, Africa, or America of which the goods are the produce, and from which they are imported, except the goods hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,)

Goods the produce of the dominions of the grand seignior in Asia or Africa, which may be imported from his dominions in Europe in ships of his dominions.

Raw silk and mohair yarn, the produce of Asia, which may be imported from the dominions of the Grand Seignior in the Levant seas, in ships of his dominions:

Bullion:

Provided always, that in case any treaty shall be made with any country having a port or ports within the Straits of Gibraltar, stipulating that such productions of Asia or Africa as may by law be imported into the United Kingdom from places in Europe within the Straits of Gibraltar in British ships shall also be imported from the ports of such country in the ships of such country, then and in every such case it shall be lawful to import such goods from the ports of such country in the ships of such country.

v. Provided and enacted, That all manufactured goods shall be deemed to be the produce of the country of which they are the manufacture.

vi. That no goods shall be imported into the United Kingdom from the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, except in British ships.

vii. That no goods shall be exported from the United Kingdom to any British possession in Asia, Africa, or America, nor to the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, except in British ships.

viii. That no goods or passengers shall be carried coastwise from one part of the United Kingdom to another, or from the United Kingdom to the Isle of Man, or from the Isle of Man to the United Kingdom, except in British ships.

ix. That no goods shall be carried from any of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man to any other of such islands, nor from one part of any of such islands to another part of the same island, except in British ships.

x. That no goods shall be carried from any British possession in Asia, Africa, or America to any other of such possessions, nor from one part of any of such possessions to another part of the same, except in British ships.

xi. That no goods shall be imported into any British possession in Asia, Africa, or America in any foreign ships, unless they be ships of the country of which the goods are the produce, and from which the goods are imported.

xii. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time, by any Order in Council, to declare that goods the growth, produce, or manufacture of any foreign country, may be imported into the island of Hong Kong from the same or any other foreign country, in vessels belonging to the same or any other foreign country, and however navigated, subject nevertheless such limitations and restrictions as shall be contained in any such Order in Council; and from and after the publication of any such Order in Council such goods may lawfully be so imported into the said island of Hong Kong according to the provisions of such order, and until the revocation thereof; and any such Order in Council may from time to time be altered or revoked by Her Majesty by any subsequent Order in Council.

xiii. That no ship shall be admitted to be a British ship unless duly registered and navigated as such, and that every British registered ship (so long as the registry of such ship shall be in force, or the certificate of such registry retained for use of such ship,) shall be navigated during the whole of every voyage (whether with a cargo or in ballast), in every part of the world, by a master who is a British subject, and by a crew whereof three-fourths at least are British seamen; and if such ship be employed in a coasting voyage from one part of the United Kingdom to another, or in a voyage between the United Kingdom and the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, or from one of the said islands to another of the same, or from one part of either of them to another of the same, or be employed in fishing on the coasts of the United Kingdom or of any of the said islands, then the whole of the crew shall be British seamen.

xiv. Provided and enacted, That all British-built boats or vessels under fifteen tons burden, wholly owned and navigated by British subjects, although not registered as British ships, shall be admitted to be British vessels in all navigation in the rivers and upon the coasts of the United Kingdom, or of the British possessions abroad, and not proceeding over sea, except within the limits of the respective colonial governments within which the managing owners of such vessels respectively reside; and that all British-built boats or vessels wholly owned and navigated by British subjects, not exceeding the burden of thirty tons, and not having a whole or a fixed deck, and being employed solely in fishing on the banks and shores of Newfoundland and of the parts adjacent, or on the banks and shores of the provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia, or New Brunswick, adjacent to the Gulf of Saint Lawrence, or on the North of Cape Canso, or of the islands within the same, or in trading coastwise within the said limits, shall be admitted to be British boats or vessels, although not registered, so long as such boats or vessels shall be solely so employed.

xv. Provided and enacted, That all ships built in the British settlements at Honduras, and owned and navigated as British ships, shall be entitled to the privileges of British registered ships in all direct trade between the United Kingdom or the British possessions in America and the said settlements, provided the master shall produce a certificate under the hand of the superintendent of those settlements that satisfactory proof has been made before him that such ship (describing the same) was built in the said settlements, and is wholly owned by British subjects: Provided also, that the time of the clearance of such ship from the said settlements for every voyage shall be indorsed upon such certificate by such superintendent.

xvi. That no ship shall be admitted to be a ship of any particular country, unless she be of the build of such country, or have been made prize of war to such country, or have been forfeited to such country under any law of the same made for the prevention of the slave trade, and condemned as such prize or forfeiture by a competent Court of such country, or be British-built (not having been a prize of war from British subjects to any other foreign country), nor unless she be navigated by a master who is a subject of such foreign country, and by a crew of whom three-fourths at least are subjects of such country, nor unless she be wholly owned by subjects of such country usually residing therein, or under the dominion thereof: Provided always, that the country of every ship shall be deemed to include all places which are under the same dominion as the place to which such ship belongs.

xvii. That no person shall be qualified to be a master of a British ship or to be a British seaman within the meaning of this Act, except the natural-born subjects of Her Majesty, or persons naturalized by any Act of Parliament, or made denizens by letters of denisation, or except persons who have become British subjects by virtue of conquest or cession of some newly acquired country, and who shall have taken the oath of allegiance to Her Majesty, or the oath of fidelity required by the treaty or capitulation by which such newly acquired country came into Her Majesty's possession, or persons who shall have served on board any of Her Majesty's ships of war in time of war for the space of three years: Provided always, that the natives of places within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, although under British dominion, shall not, upon the ground of being such natives, be deemed to be British seamen: Provided always, that every ship (except ships required to be wholly navigated by British seamen) which shall be navigated by one British seaman if a British ship, or one seaman of the country of such ship if a foreign ship, for every twenty tons of the burden of such ship, shall be deemed to be duly navigated, although the number of other seamen shall exceed one-fourth of the whole crew: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall extend to repeal or alter the provisions of an Act 4 Geo. 4. c. 80. s. 21, for consolidating and amending the laws then in force with respect to trade from and to places within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, nor the provisions of an Act 3 & 4 Vict. c. 56, intituled 'An Act further to regulate the Trade of Ships built and trading within the Limits of the East India Company's Charter.'

xviii. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by her royal proclamation during war, to declare that foreigners having served two years on board any of Her Majesty's ships of war in time of such war shall be British seamen within the meaning of this Act.

xix. That no British registered ship shall be suffered to depart any port in the United Kingdom, or any British possessions in any part of the world, (whether with a cargo or in ballast,) unless duly navigated: Provided always, that any British ships trading between places in America may be navigated by British negroes, and that ships trading eastward of the Cape of Good Hope, within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, may be navigated by Lascars, or other natives of countries within those limits.

xx. That if any British registered ship shall at any time have as part of the crew in any part of the world any foreign seamen not allowed by law, the master or owners of such ship shall for every such foreign seaman forfeit the sum of 10*l*.: Provided always, that if a due proportion of British seamen cannot be procured in any foreign port, or in any place within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, for the navigation of any British ship, or if such proportion be destroyed during the voyage by any unavoidable circumstance, and the master of such ship shall produce a certificate of such facts under the hand of any British Consul, or of two known British merchants if there be no Consul at the place where such facts can be ascertained, or from the British Governor of any place within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, or in the want of such certificate shall make proof of the truth of such facts to the satisfaction of the collector and comptroller of the Customs of any British port, or of any person authorised in any other part of the world to inquire into the navigation of such ship, the same shall be deemed to be duly navigated.

xxi. That if Her Majesty shall at any time by her royal proclamation declare that the proportion of British seamen necessary to the due navigation of British ships shall be less than the proportion required by this Act, every British ship navigated with the proportion of British seamen required by such proclamation shall be deemed to be duly navigated, so long as such proclamation shall remain in force.

xxii. Provided and enacted, That goods of any sort, or the produce of any place, not otherwise prohibited than by the law of navigation hereinbefore contained, may be imported into the United Kingdom from any place in a British ship, and from any place, not being a British possession, in a foreign ship of any country, and however navigated, to be warehoused for exportation only, under the provisions of any law in force for the time being made for the warehousing of goods without payment of duty upon the first entry thereof.

XXIII. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time, by any order in council, to declare that goods of any sort, or the produce of any place, not otherwise prohibited than by the law of navigation hereinbefore contained, may be imported into any port or ports of the British possessions abroad, to be named in such order, from any place in a British ship, and from any place not being a part of the British dominions in a foreign ship of any country, and however navigated, to be warehoused for exportation only, under the provisions of any law in force for the time being, made for the warehousing of goods without payment of duty upon the first entry thereof; and from and after the date of any such order it shall be lawful so to import, for the purpose of being warehoused for exportation only, any such goods into the port or ports named therein, according to the provisions of the said order, and until the revocation thereof; and any such order in council may from time to time be altered or revoked by Her Majesty by any subsequent order in council.

XXIV. That if any goods be imported, exported, or carried coastwise, contrary to the law of navigation, all such goods shall be forfeited, and the master of the ship in which the same are so imported, exported, or carried coastwise shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

XXV. That all penalties and forfeitures incurred under this Act shall be sued for, prosecuted, recovered, and disposed of, or shall be mitigated or restored, in like manner as any penalty or forfeiture can be sued for, prosecuted, recovered, and disposed of, or may be mitigated or restored under an Act passed in the present session of Parliament for the prevention of smuggling.

XXVI. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act or Acts to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

53. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 55, whereby the laws in relation to the registration of British vessels were consolidated: And that since the passing of the said Act divers parts of Acts for the further amendment of the law in that respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to trade and commerce that the said Act and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and continue in full force for the purposes therein mentioned, except where any other commencement is herein particularly directed.

II. That no ship or vessel shall be entitled to any of the privileges or advantages of a British-registered ship, unless the person or persons claiming property therein shall have caused the same to have been registered in virtue of the said Act, or of an Act, 6 Geo. 4. c. 110, intituled, 'An Act for registering British Vessels,' or of an Act, 4 Geo. 4. c. 41, intituled, 'An Act for the registering of British Vessels,' or until such person or persons shall have caused the same to be registered in manner hereinafter mentioned, and shall have obtained a certificate of such registry from the person or persons authorized to make such registry and grant such certificate as hereinafter directed; the form of which certificate shall be as follows; (videlicet,) "This is to certify, That in pursuance of an Act passed in the Session of Parliament holden in the Eighth and Ninth Years of Reign of the Queen Victoria, intituled, An Act [here insert the title of this Act, the Names, Occupations, and Residence of the subscribing Owners], having made and subscribed the Declaration required by the said Act, and having declared that [he or they], together with [Names, Occupations, and Residence of non-subscribing Owners] is [or are] sole Owner [or Owners] in the Proportions specified on the Back hereof of the Ship or Vessel called the [Ship's Name] of [Place to which the Vessel belongs], which is of the burden of [Number of Tons], and whereof [Master's Name] is Master, and that the said Ship or Vessel was [when and where built, or condemned as Prize, referring to Builder's Certificate, Judge's Certificate, or Certificate of last Registry, then delivered up to be cancelled], and [Name and Employment of Surveying Officer] having certified to us that the said Ship or Vessel has [Number] Decks and [Number] Masts, that her Length from the inner Part of the Main Stem to the fore Part of the Stern-post aloft is [Feet Tenths], her Breadth in Midships is [Feet Tenths], her Depth in Hold at Midships is [Feet Tenths], that she is [how rigged] rigged, with a [standing or running] Bowsprit, is [Description of Stern] sterned, [Carvel or Clincher] built, has [whether any or not] Gallery, and [Kind of Head, if any] Head; and the said subscribing Owners having consented and agreed to the above Description, and having caused sufficient Security to be given as required by the said Act, the said Ship or Vessel called the [Name] has been duly registered at the Port of [Name of Port]. Certified under our Hands at the Custom House in the said Port of [Name of Port], this [Date] Day of [Name of Month] in the Year [Words at Length].

Collector.

111. That the persons authorized and required to make such registry and grant such certificates shall be the several persons hereinafter mentioned and described; (that is to say,)

The collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs in any port in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and in the Isle of Man respectively, in respect of ships or vessels to be there registered:

The principal officers of Her Majesty's Customs in the islands of Guernsey or Jersey, together with the governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief of those islands respectively, in respect of ships or vessels to be there registered:

The collector or comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs of any port of the British possessions in Asia, Africa, and America, or the collector of any such port at which no appointment of a comptroller has been made, in respect of ships or vessels to be there registered:

The collector of duties at any port in the territories under the government of the East India Company, within the limits of the charter of the said company, or any other person of the rank in the said company's service of senior merchant, or of six years' standing in the said service, being respectively appointed to act in the execution of this Act by any of the governments of the said company, in respect of ships or vessels to be there registered:

The collector of duties at any British possession within the said limits, and not under the government of the said company, and at which a custom house is not established, together with the governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief of such possession, in respect of ships or vessels to be there registered:

The governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief of Malta, Gibraltar, and Heligoland respectively, in respect of vessels or ships to be there registered:

Provided always, that no ship or vessel shall be registered at Heligoland, except such as is wholly of the build of that place, and that ships or vessels registered at Malta, Gibraltar, or Heligoland shall not be registered elsewhere; and that ships or vessels registered at Malta, Gibraltar, or Heligoland shall not be entitled to the privileges and advantages of British ships any trade between the said United Kingdom and any of the British possessions in America: Provided also, that wherever and by this Act it is directed or provided that any act, matter, or thing shall and may be done or performed by, to, or with the collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs, the same shall or may be done or performed by, to, or with the several persons respectively hereinbefore authorized and required to make registry and to grant certificates of registry as aforesaid, and according as the same act, matter, or thing is to be done or performed at the said several and respective places, and within the jurisdiction of the said several persons respectively: Provided also, that wherever in and by this Act it is directed or provided that any act, matter, or thing shall or may be done or performed by, to, or with the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, the same shall or may be done or performed by, to, or with the governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief of any place where any ship or vessel may be registered under the authority of this Act, so far as such act, matter, or thing can be applicable to the registering of any ship or vessel at such place.

iv. That in case any ship or vessel not being duly registered, and not having obtained such certificate of registry as aforesaid, shall exercise any of the privileges of a British ship, the same shall be subject to forfeiture, and also all the guns, furniture, ammunition, tackle, and apparel to the same ship or vessel belonging, and shall and may be seized by any officer or officers of Her Majesty's Customs: Provided always, that nothing in this Act shall extend or be construed to extend to affect the privileges of any ship or vessel duly registered prior to the commencement thereof.

v. That no ship or vessel shall be registered, or having been registered shall be deemed to be duly registered by virtue of this Act, except such as are wholly of the build of the said United Kingdom, or of the Isle of Man, or of the islands of Guernsey or Jersey, or of some of the colonies, plantations, islands, or territories in Asia, Africa, or America, or of Malta, Gibraltar or Heligoland, which belonged to Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, at the time of the building of such ships or vessels, or such ships or vessels as shall have been condemned in any Court of Admiralty as prize of war, or such ships or vessels as shall have been condemned in any competent court as forfeited for the breach of the laws made for the prevention of the slave trade, and which shall wholly belong and continue wholly to belong to Her Majesty's subjects duly entitled to be owners of ships or vessels registered by virtue of this Act.

vi. That no Mediterranean pass shall be issued for the use of any ship as being a ship belonging to Malta or Gibraltar except such as being duly registered at those places respectively, or such as, not being entitled to be so registered, shall have wholly belonged, before the 10th of October 1827, and shall have continued wholly to belong, to persons actually residing at those places respectively as inhabitants thereof, and entitled to be owners of British ships there registered, or who, not being so entitled, shall have so resided upwards of fifteen years prior to the said 10th of October 1827.

vii. That no ship or vessel shall continue to enjoy the privileges of a British ship after the same shall have been repaired in a foreign country, if such repairs shall exceed the sum of 20s. for every ton of the burden of the said ship or vessel, unless such repairs shall have been necessary, by reason of extraordinary damage sustained by such ship or vessel during her absence from Her Majesty's dominions, to enable her to perform the voyage in which she shall have been engaged, and to return to some port or place in the said dominions; and whenever any ship or vessel which has been so repaired in a foreign country shall arrive at any port in Her Majesty's dominions as a British-registered ship or vessel, the master or other person having the charge or command of the same shall, upon the first entry thereof, report to the collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs at such port that such ship or vessel has been so repaired, under penalty of 20s. for every ton of the burden of such ship or vessel, according to the admeasurement thereof; and if it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs that such ship or vessel was seaworthy at the time when she last departed from any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, and that no greater quantity of such repairs have been done to the said vessel than was necessary as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, upon a full consideration of all the circumstances, to direct the collector and comptroller of the port where such ship or vessel shall have arrived, or where she shall then be, to certify on the certificate of the registry of such ship or vessel that it has been proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs that the privileges of the said ship or vessel have not been forfeited, notwithstanding the repairs which have been done to the same in a foreign country.

viii. That if any ship or vessel registered under the authority of this or any other Act shall be deemed or declared to be stranded or unseaworthy, and incapable of being recovered or repaired to the advantage of the owners thereof, and shall for such reasons be sold by order or decree of any competent Court for the benefit of the owners of such ship or vessel or other persons interested therein, the same shall be taken and deemed to be a ship or vessel lost or broken up to all intents and purposes within the meaning of this Act, and shall never again be entitled to the privileges of a British-built ship for any purposes of trade or navigation.

ix. That no British ship or vessel which has been or shall hereafter be captured by and become prize to an enemy, or sold to foreigners, shall again be entitled to the privileges of a British ship: Provided always, that nothing contained in this Act shall extend to prevent the registering of any ship or vessel whatever which shall afterwards be condemned in any Court of Admiralty as prize of war, or in any competent Court, for breach of laws made for the prevention of the slave trade.

x. That no such registry shall hereafter be made, or certificate thereof granted, by any person or persons hereinbefore authorized to make such registry and grant such certificate, in any other port or place than the port or place to which such ship or vessel shall properly belong, except so far as relates to such ships or vessels as shall be condemned as prizes in any of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, or Man, which ships or vessels shall be registered in manner hereinafter directed; but all and every registry and certificate made and granted in any port or place to which any such ship or vessel does not properly belong shall be utterly null and void to all intents and purposes, unless the officers aforesaid shall be specially authorized and empowered to make such registry and grant such certificate in any other port by an order in writing under the hands of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, which order the said Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to issue if they shall see fit; and at every port where registry shall be made in pursuance of this Act a book shall be kept by the collector and comptroller, in which all the particulars contained in the form of the certificate of the registry hereinbefore directed to be used shall be duly entered; and every registry shall be numbered in progression, beginning such progressive numeration at the commencement of each and every year; and such collector and comptroller shall forthwith, or within one month at the farthest, transmit to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs a true and exact copy, together with the number of every certificate which shall be by them so granted.

xi. That every ship or vessel shall be deemed to belong to some port at or near to which some or one of the owners, who shall make and subscribe the declaration required by this Act before registry be made, shall reside; and whenever such owner or owners shall have transferred all his or their share or shares in such ship or vessel, the same shall be registered at

now before such ship or vessel shall sail or depart from the port to which she shall then belong, or from any other port which shall be in the same part of the United Kingdom, or the same colony, plantation, island, or territory, as the said port shall be in: Provided always, that if the owner or owners of such ship or vessel cannot in sufficient time comply with the requisites of this Act, so that registry may be made before it shall be necessary for such ship or vessel to sail or depart upon another voyage, it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller of the port where such ship or vessel may then be to certify upon the back of the existing certificate of registry of such ship or vessel that the same is to remain in force for the voyage upon which the said ship or vessel is then about to sail or depart: Provided also, that if any ship or vessel shall be built in any of the colonies, plantations, islands, or territories in Asia, Africa, or America, to Her Majesty belonging, for owners residing in the United Kingdom, and the master of such ship or vessel, or the agent for the owner or owners thereof, shall have produced to the collector and comptroller of the port at or near to which such ship or vessel was built the certificate of the builder required by this Act, and shall have made and subscribed a declaration before such collector and comptroller of the names and descriptions of the principal owners of such ship or vessel, and that she is the identical ship or vessel mentioned in such certificate of the builder, and that no foreigner, to the best of his knowledge and belief, has any interest therein, the collector and comptroller of such port shall cause such ship or vessel to be surveyed and measured in like manner as is directed for the purpose of registering any ship or vessel, and shall give the master of such ship or vessel a certificate under their hands and seals, purporting to be under the authority of this Act, and stating when and where and by whom such ship or vessel was built, the description, tonnage, and other particulars required on registry of any ship or vessel, and such certificate shall have all the force and virtue of a certificate of registry under this Act, during the term of two years, unless such ship shall sooner arrive at some place in the United Kingdom; and such collector and comptroller shall transmit a copy of such certificate to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

XII. That no person who has taken the oath of allegiance to any foreign State, except under the terms of some capitulation, unless he shall afterwards become a denizen or naturalized subject of the United Kingdom by Her Majesty's letters patent or by Act of Parliament, nor any person usually residing in any country not under the dominion of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, unless he be a member of some British factory, or agent for or partner in any house or copartnership actually carrying on trade in Great Britain or Ireland, shall be entitled to be the owner, in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, of any ship or vessel required and authorized to be registered by virtue of this Act.

XIII. That no registry shall henceforth be made or certificate granted until the following declaration be made and subscribed, before the person or persons hereinbefore authorized to make such registry and grant such certificate respectively, by the owner of such ship or vessel if such ship or vessel is owned by or belongs to one person only, or in case there shall be two joint owners, then by both of such joint owners if both shall be resident within twenty miles of the port or place where such registry is required, or by one of such owners if one or both of them shall be resident at a greater distance from such port or place, or if the number of such owners or proprietors shall exceed two, then by the greater part of the number of such owners or proprietors if the greater number of them shall be resident within twenty miles of such port or place as aforesaid, not in any case exceeding three of such owners or proprietors, unless a greater number shall be desirous to join in making and subscribing the said declaration, or by one of such owners if all, or all except one, shall be resident at a greater distance:

I A. B. of [Place of Residence and Occupation] do truly declare, That the Ship or Vessel [Name] of [Port or Place], whereof Master's Name] is at present Master, being [Kind of Build, Burden, et cetera, as is described in the Certificate of the Surveying Officer], was [when and where built, or, if Prize or forfeited, Capture and Condemnation as such], and that I the said A. B. [and other Owners Names and Occupations, if any, and where they respectively reside, (videlicet,) Town, Place, or Parish, and county, or if Member of and resident in any Factory in Foreign Parts, or in any Foreign Town or City, being an Agent for or Partner any House or Copartnership actually carrying on Trade in Great Britain or Ireland, the Name of such Factory, Foreign Town, City, and the Names of such House or Copartnership] am [or are] sole Owner [or Owners] of the said Vessel, and that no other person or Persons whatever hath or have any Right, Title, Interest, Share, or Property therein or thereto; and that I the said A. B. [and the said other Owners, if any,] am [or are] truly and bona fide a Subject [or Subjects] of Great Britain, and that I the said A. B. have not [nor have any of the other Owners, to the best of my Knowledge and Belief,] taken the Oath of Allegiance to any Foreign State whatever [except under the Terms of some Capitulation, describing the particulars thereof], or that since my taking [or his or their taking] the Oath of Allegiance to [naming the Foreign States respectively to which he or any of the said owners shall have taken the same] I have [or he or they hath or have] become a Denizen [or Denizens, or naturalized Subject Subjects, as the case may be,] of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland by Her Majesty's Letters Patent, or by Act of Parliament [naming the Times when such Letters of Denization have been granted respectively, or the Year or Years in which such Act or Acts for Naturalization have passed respectively], and that no Foreigner, directly or indirectly, hath any Share or Part Interest in the said Ship or Vessel:"

Provided always, that if it shall become necessary to register any ship or vessel belonging to any corporate body in the United Kingdom, the following declaration in lieu of the declaration hereinbefore directed shall be taken and subscribed by the Mayor or other proper officer of such corporate body, (that is to say,)

A. B., Secretary [or Officer] of [Name of Company or Corporation], do truly declare, That the Ship or Vessel [Name] of [Port or Place] whereof [Master's Name] is at present Master, being [Kind of Build, Burden, et cetera, as described in the Certificate of the Surveying Officer], was [when and where built, or, if Prize or forfeited, Capture and Condemnation as such], and that the same wholly and truly belong to [Name of Company or Corporation]."

IV. That in case the required number of joint owners or proprietors of any ship or vessel shall not personally attend to make and subscribe the declaration hereinbefore directed to be made and subscribed, then and in such case such owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors, as shall personally attend and make and subscribe the declaration aforesaid, shall further be that the part owner or part owners of such ship or vessel then absent is or are not resident within twenty miles of such port or place, and hath or have not, to the best of his or their knowledge or belief, wilfully absented himself or themselves in order to avoid the making the declaration hereinbefore directed to be made and subscribed, or is or are prevented by illness from attending to make and subscribe the said declaration.

And in order to enable the collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs to grant a certificate truly and accurately describing every ship or vessel to be registered in pursuance of this Act, and also to enable all other officers of Her Majesty's Customs, on due examination, to discover whether any such ship or vessel is the same with that for which a certificate is alleged to have been granted:—

It is Enacted,

xv. That previous to the registering or granting of any certificate of registry as aforesaid some one or more person or persons appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs (taking to his or their assistance, if he or they shall judge it necessary, one or more person or persons skilled in the building and admeasurement of ships,) shall go on board of every such ship or vessel as is to be registered, and shall strictly and accurately examine and admeasure every such ship or vessel as to all and every particular contained in the form of the certificate hereinbefore directed, in the presence of the master or of any other person who shall be appointed for that purpose on the part of the owner or owners, or in his or their absence by the said master, and shall deliver a true and just account in writing of all such particulars of the build, description, and admeasurement of every such ship or vessel as are specified in the form of the certificate above recited to the collector and comptroller authorized as aforesaid to make such registry and grant such certificate of registry; and the said master or other person attending on the part of the owner or owners is hereby required to sign his name also to the certificate of such surveying or examining officer, in testimony of the truth thereof, provided such master or other person shall consent and agree to the several particulars set forth and described therein.

xvi. That from and after the commencement of this Act the tonnage of every ship or vessel required by law to be registered shall, previous to her being registered, be measured and ascertained while her hold is clear, and according to the following rule; (that is to say,) divide the length of the upper deck between the after part of the stem and the fore part of the stern-post into six equal parts; depths, at the foremost, the middle, and the aftermost of those points of division, measure in feet and decimal parts of a foot the depths from the under side of the upper deck to the ceiling at the limber strake; in the case of a break in the upper deck the depths are to be measured from a line stretched in a continuation of the deck; breadths, divide each of those three depths into five equal parts, and measure the inside breadths at the following points; (vide licet;) at one-fifth and at four-fifths from the upper deck of the foremost and aftermost depths, and at two-fifths and four-fifths from the upper deck of the midship depth; length, at half the midship depth measure the length of the vessel from the after part of the stem to the fore part of the stern-post; then to twice the midship depth add the foremost and the aftermost depths for the sum of the depths; add together the upper and lower breadths at the foremost division, three times the upper breadth and the lower breadth at the midship division, and the upper and twice the lower breadth at the after division, for the sum of the breadths; then multiply the sum of the depths by the sum of the breadths, and this product by the length, and divide the final product by 3,500, which will give the number of tons for register; if the vessel have a poop or half deck or a break in the upper deck, measure the inside mean length, breadth, and height of such part thereof as may be included within the bulkhead; multiply these three measurements together, and dividing the product by 92·4, the quotient will be the number of tons to be added to the result as above found; in order to ascertain the tonnage of open vessels the depths are to be measured from the upper edge of the upper strake.

xvii. Provided and enacted, That in each of the several rules hereinbefore prescribed, when applied for the purpose of ascertaining the tonnage of any ship or vessel propelled by steam, the tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine-room shall be deducted from the total tonnage of the vessel as determined by either of the rules aforesaid, and the remainder shall be deemed the true register tonnage of the said ship or vessel; the tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine-room shall be determined in the following manner; (that is to say,) measure the inside length of the engine-room in feet in decimal parts of a foot from the foremost to the aftermost bulkhead, then multiply the said length by the depth of the ship or vessel at the midship division as aforesaid, and the product by the inside breadth at the same division at two-fifths of the depth from the deck, taken as aforesaid, and divide the last product by 92·4, and the quotient shall be deemed the tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine-room.

xviii. Provided and enacted, That the tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine-room, and also the length of the engine-room, shall be set forth in the certificate of registry as part of the description of the ship or vessel, and that any alteration of such tonnage due to the cubical contents of the engine-room, or of such length of the engine-room after registration shall be deemed to be an alteration requiring registry de novo within the meaning of this Act.

xix. That for the purpose of ascertaining the tonnage of all such ships as there shall be occasion to measure while their cargoes are on board, the following rule shall be observed, and is hereby established; (that is to say,) measure first the length on the upper deck between the after part of the stem and the fore part of the stern-post; secondly, the inside breadth at the under side of the upper deck at the middle point of the length; and thirdly, the depth from the under side of the upper deck down the pump well to the skin; multiply these three dimensions together, and divide the product by 194, and the quotient will be the amount of the register tonnages of such ships; if the vessel have a poop or half deck or a break in the upper deck, measure the inside mean length, breadth, and height of such part thereof as may be included within the bulkhead, multiply these three measurements together, and, dividing the product by 92·4 the quotient will be the number of tons to be added to the result above found.

xx. That the true amount of the register of tonnage of every ship or vessel required by law to be registered, ascertained according to the rule by this Act established, shall be deeply carved or cut in figures at least three inches in length on the main beam of every such ship or vessel prior to her being registered.

xxi. That nothing herein contained shall extend to alter the present measure of tonnage of any ship or vessel which shall have been registered prior to the commencement of this Act, unless in cases where the owners of any such ships shall require to have their tonnage established according to the rule hereinbefore provided, or unless there shall be occasion to have any such ship admeasured again on account of any alteration which shall have been made in the form or burden of the same, in which cases only such ships shall be readmeasured according to the said rule, and their tonnage registered accordingly.

XXII. That whenever the tonnage of any ship or vessel shall have been ascertained according to the rules herein prescribed, such account of tonnage shall ever after be deemed the tonnage of such ship or vessel, and shall be repeated in every subsequent registry of such ship or vessel, unless it shall happen that any alteration has been made in the form and burden of such ship or vessel, or it shall be discovered that the tonnage of such ship or vessel had been erroneously taken and computed.

XXIII. That at the time of the obtaining of the certificate of registry as aforesaid sufficient security by bond shall be given to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, by the master and such of the owners as shall personally attend as is hereinbefore required, such security to be approved of and taken by the person or persons hereinbefore authorized to make such registry, and grant such certificate of registry, at the port or place in which such certificate shall be granted, in the penalties following; (that is to say,) if such ship or vessel shall be a decked vessel, or be above the burden of fifteen tons, and not exceeding fifty tons, then in the penalty of 100*l.*; if exceeding the burden of fifty tons, and not exceeding one hundred tons, then in the penalty of 300*l.*; if exceeding the burden of one hundred tons, and not exceeding two hundred tons, then in the penalty of 500*l.*; if exceeding the burden of two hundred tons, and not exceeding three hundred tons, then in the penalty of 800*l.*; and if exceeding the burden of three hundred tons, then in the penalty of 1,000*l.*; and the condition of every such bond shall be, that such certificate shall not be sold, lent, or otherwise disposed of to any person or persons whatever, and that the same shall be solely made use of for the service of the ship or vessel for which it is granted; and that in case such ship or vessel shall be lost or taken by the enemy, burnt or broken up, or otherwise prevented from returning to the port to which she belongs, or shall on my account have lost and forfeited the privileges of a British ship, or shall have been seized and legally condemned for illicit trading, or shall have been taken in execution for debt, and sold by due process of law, or shall have been sold to the Crown, or shall under any circumstances have been registered de novo, the certificate, if preserved, shall be delivered up within one month after the arrival of the master in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions to the collector and comptroller of some port in Great Britain, or of the Isle of Man, or of the British plantations, or to the governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief for the time being of the islands of Guernsey or Jersey; and that if any foreigner, or any person or persons or the use and benefit of any foreigner, shall purchase or otherwise become entitled to the whole or to any part or share of or my interest in such ship or vessel, and the same shall be within the limits of any port of Great Britain, or of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, or Man, or of the British colonies, plantations, islands, or territories aforesaid, then and in such case the certificate of registry shall, within seven days after such purchase or transfer of property in such ship or vessel, be delivered up to the person or persons hereinbefore authorized to make registry, and grant certificate of registry, at such port or place respectively as aforesaid; and if such ship or vessel shall be in any foreign port when such purchase or transfer of property shall take place, then that the certificate shall be delivered up to the British consul or other chief British officer resident at or nearest to such foreign port, or if such ship or vessel shall be at sea when such purchase or transfer of property shall take place, then that the certificate shall be delivered up to the British consul or other chief British officer at the foreign port or place in or at which the master or other person having or taking the charge or command of such ship or vessel shall first arrive for such purchase or transfer of property at sea, immediately after his arrival at such foreign port; but if such master or her person who had the command thereof at the time of such purchase or transfer of property at sea shall not arrive at a foreign port, but shall arrive at some port of Great Britain, or of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, or Man, or of Her Majesty's colonies, plantations, islands, or territories, then that the certificate shall be delivered up in manner aforesaid within four days after the arrival of such ship or vessel, or of the person who had the command thereof in any port of Great Britain, or of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, or Man, or of any of Her Majesty's said colonies, plantations, islands, or territories: provided always, that if it shall happen that at the time of registry of any ship or vessel the same shall be at any other port in the port to which she belongs, so that the master of such ship or vessel cannot attend at the port of registry to join with the owner or owners in such bond as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for him to give a separate bond to the like effect at the port where such ship or vessel may then be, and the collector and comptroller of such other port shall transmit such bond to the collector and comptroller of the port where such ship or vessel is to be registered; and such bond, and the bond also given by the owner or owners, shall together be of the same effect against the master and owner or owners, or either of them, as if they had bound themselves jointly and severally in one bond.

XXIV. That when and so often as the master or other person having or taking the charge or command of any ship or vessel, registered in manner hereinbefore directed, shall be changed, the master or owner of such ship or vessel shall deliver to the person or persons hereinbefore authorized to make such registry, and grant such certificates of registry, at the port where such change shall take place, the certificate of registry belonging to such ship or vessel, who shall thereupon indorse and subscribe a memorandum of such change, and shall forthwith give notice of the same to the proper officer of the port or place where such ship or vessel was last registered pursuant to this Act, who shall likewise make a memorandum of the same in the book of registry which is hereby directed and required to be kept, and shall forthwith give notice thereof to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs: Provided always, that before the name of such new master shall be indorsed on the certificate of registry he shall be required to give and shall give a bond in the like penalties and under the same conditions as are contained in the bond hereinbefore required to be given at the time of registry of any ship or vessel.

XXV. That all bonds required by this Act shall be liable to the same duties of stamps as bonds given for or in respect of the duties of Customs are or shall be liable to under any Act for the time being in force for granting duties of stamps.

XXVI. That if any person whatever shall at any time have possession of and wilfully detain any certificate of registry granted by this or any other Act, which ought to be delivered up to be cancelled, according to any of the conditions of the bond hereinbefore required to be given upon the registry of any ship or vessel, such person is hereby required and enjoined to deliver such certificate of registry in manner directed by the conditions of such bond in the respective cases and under the respective penalties therein provided.

XXVII. That it shall not be lawful for any owner or owners of any ship or vessel to give any name to such ship or vessel other than that by which she was first registered in pursuance of this or any other Act; and the owner or owners of all and every ship or vessel which shall be so registered shall, before such ship or vessel after such registry shall begin to take in any cargo, paint or cause to be painted in white or yellow letters, of a length of not less than four inches, upon a black ground, upon some conspicuous part of the stern, the name by which such ship or vessel shall have been registered, and the port to which she belongs, in a distinct and legible manner, and shall so keep and preserve the same; and if such owner or owners, or master or other person having or taking the charge or command of such ship or vessel, shall permit such ship or vessel to begin to take in any cargo before the name of such ship or vessel has been so painted as aforesaid, or shall wilfully alter, erase, obliterate, or in anywise hide or conceal, or cause or procure or permit the same to be done, (unless in the case of square-rigged vessels in time of war,) or shall, in any written or printed paper or other document describe such ship or vessel by any name other than that by which she was first registered, or shall verbally describe or cause or procure or permit such ship or vessel to be described by any other name to any officer or officers of Her Majesty's revenue in the due execution of his or their duty, then and in every such case such owner or owners, or master or other person having or taking the charge or command of such ship or vessel, shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

XXVIII. That all and every person and persons who shall apply for a certificate of the registry of any ship or vessel shall and they are hereby required to produce to the person or persons authorized to grant such certificate a true and full account, under the hand of the builder of such ship or vessel, of the proper denomination of such vessel, and of the time when and the place where such ship or vessel was built, and also an exact account of the tonnage of such ship or vessel, together with the name of the first purchaser or purchasers thereof, (which account such builder is hereby directed and required to give under his hand, on the same being demanded by such person or persons so applying for a certificate as aforesaid,) and shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the person or persons hereinbefore authorized to grant such certificate that the ship or vessel for which such certificate is required is the same with that which is so described by the builder as aforesaid: Provided always, that where by reason of the death of such builder, or some other unavoidable cause, such certificate cannot be produced, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, on proof being made to their satisfaction of all the particulars required as aforesaid, to dispense with the account hereby required under the hand of the builder, and to allow the certificate of registry to be granted.

XXIX. That if the certificate of registry of any ship or vessel shall be lost or mislaid so that the same cannot be found or obtained for the use of such ship or vessel when needful, and proof thereof shall be made to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, such Commissioners shall and may permit such ship or vessel to be registered de novo, and a certificate thereof to be granted: Provided always, that if such ship or vessel be absent and far distant from the port to which she belongs, or by reason of the absence of the owner or owners, or of any other impediment, registry of the same cannot then be made in sufficient time, such Commissioners shall and may grant a licence for the present use of such ship or vessel, which licence shall, for the time and to the extent specified therein, and no longer, be of the same force and virtue as a certificate of registry: Provided also, that before such registry de novo be made the owner or owners and master shall give bond to the Commissioners aforesaid, in such sum as to them shall seem fit, with a condition that if the certificate of registry shall at any time afterwards be found the same shall be forthwith delivered to the proper officers of Her Majesty's Customs to be cancelled, and that no illegal use has been or shall be made thereof with his or their privacy or knowledge; and further, that before any such licence shall be granted as aforesaid the master of such ship or vessel shall also make and subscribe a declaration that the same has been registered as a British ship, naming the port where and the time when such registry was made, and all the particulars contained in the certificate thereof, to the best of his knowledge and belief, and shall also give such bond and with the same condition as is hereinbefore mentioned: Provided also, that before any such licence shall be granted such ship or vessel shall be surveyed in like manner as if a registry de novo were about to be made thereof, and the certificate of such survey shall be preserved by the collector and comptroller of the port to which such ship or vessel shall belong; and in virtue thereof it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners and they are hereby required to permit such ship or vessel to be registered after her departure, whenever the owner or owners shall personally attend to take and subscribe the declaration required by this Act before registry be made, and shall also comply with all other requisites of this Act, except so far as relates to the bond to be given by the master of such ship or vessel, which certificate or registry the said Commissioners shall and may transmit to the collector and comptroller of any other port, to be by them given to the master of such ship or vessel upon his giving such bond, and delivering up the licence which had been granted for the then present use of such ship or vessel.

And after reciting that it is not proper that any person, under any pretence whatever, should detain the certificate of registry of any ship or vessel, or hold the same for any purpose other than the lawful use and navigation of the ship or vessel for which it was granted:—

It is Enacted,

XXX. That in case any person who shall have received or obtained, by any means or for any purpose whatever, the certificate of the registry of any ship or vessel, (whether such person shall claim to be the master or to be the owner or one of the owners of such ship or vessel or not,) shall wilfully detain and refuse to deliver up the same to the proper officers of Her Majesty's Customs for the purposes of such ship or vessel, as occasion shall require, or to the person or persons having the actual command, possession, and management of such ship or vessel as the ostensible and reputed master, or as the ostensible and reputed owner or owners thereof, it shall be lawful to and for any such last-mentioned person to make complaint, on oath, of such detainer and refusal to any Justice of the Peace residing near to the place where such detainer and refusal shall be in Great Britain or Ireland, or to any member of the Supreme Court of Justice, or to any deemster or Justice of the Peace, in the islands of Jersey, Guernsey, or Man, or in any colony, plantation, island, or territory to Her Majesty belonging in Asia, Africa, or America, or in Malta, Gibraltar, or Heligoland, where such detainer and refusal shall be in any of the places last mentioned; and on such complaint the said Justice or other magistrate shall and is hereby required, by warrant under his hand and seal, to cause the person so complained against to be brought before him to be examined touching such detainer and refusal; and if it shall appear to the said Justice or other Magistrate, on examination of such person or otherwise, that the said certificate of registry is not lost or mislaid, but is wilfully detained by the said person, such person shall be thereof convicted, and shall forfeit and pay the sum of 100*l.*, and on failure of payment thereof he shall be committed to the common gaol, there to remain without bail or mainprize for such time as the said Justice or other Magistrate shall in his discretion deem proper, not being less than three months nor more than twelve months; and the said Justice or other Magistrate shall certify the aforesaid detainer, refusal, and conviction to the person or persons who granted such certificate of registry for such ship or vessel, who shall, on the terms and conditions of law being complied with, make registry of such ship or vessel de novo, and grant a certificate thereof conformably to law, notifying on the back of such certificate the ground upon which such ship or vessel was so registered de novo; and if the person who shall have detained and refused to deliver up such certificate of registry as aforesaid, or shall be verily believed to have detained the same, shall have absconded, so that the said warrant of the Justice or other Magistrate cannot be executed upon him, and proof thereof shall be made to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to permit such ship or vessel to be registered de novo, or otherwise, in their discretion, to grant a licence for the present use of such ship or vessel, in like manner as is hereinbefore provided in the case wherein the certificate of registry is lost or mislaid.

XXXI. That if any ship or vessel, after she shall have been registered, shall in any manner whatever be altered so as not to correspond with all the particulars contained in the certificate of her registry, in such case such ship or vessel shall be registered de novo, in manner hereinbefore required, as soon as she returns to the port to which she belongs, or to any other port which shall be in the same part of the United Kingdom, or in the same colony, plantation, island, or territory as the said port shall be in, on failure whereof such ship or vessel shall to all intents and purposes be considered and deemed and taken to be a ship or vessel not duly registered.

XXXII. That the owner or owners of all ships and vessels taken by any of Her Majesty's ships or vessels of war, or by any private or other ship or vessel, and condemned as lawful prize in any Court of Admiralty, or of ships or vessels condemned in any competent court as forfeited for breach of the laws for the prevention of the slave trade, shall, for the purpose of registering any such ship or vessel, produce to the collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs a certificate of the condemnation of such ship or vessel under the hand and seal of the Judge of the court in which such ship or vessel shall have been condemned (which certificate such Judge is hereby authorized and required to grant), and also a true and exact account in writing of all the particulars contained in the certificate hereinbefore set forth, to be made and subscribed by one or more skilful person or persons to be appointed by the Court then and there to survey such ship or vessel, and shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the collector and comptroller that such ship or vessel is the same vessel which is mentioned in the certificate of the Judge aforesaid.

XXXIII. Provided and enacted, That no ship or vessel which shall be taken and condemned as prize or forfeiture as aforesaid shall be registered in the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, or Man, although belonging to Her Majesty's subjects residing in those islands, or in some one or other of them, but the same shall be registered either at Southampton, Weymouth, Exeter, Plymouth, Falmouth, Liverpool, or Whitehaven by the collector and comptroller at such ports respectively, who are hereby authorized and required to register such ship or vessel, and to grant a certificate thereof in the form and under the regulations and restrictions in this Act contained.

XXXIV. That when and so often as the property in any ship or vessel, or any part thereof, belonging to any of Her Majesty's subjects, shall, after registry thereof, be sold to any other or others of Her Majesty's subjects, the same shall be transferred by bill of sale, or other instrument in writing, containing a recital of the certificate of registry of such ship or vessel, or the principal contents thereof, otherwise such transfer shall not be valid or effectual for any purpose whatever either in law or in equity: Provided always, that no bill of sale shall be deemed void by reason of any error in such recital, or by the recital of any former certificate of registry instead of the existing certificate, provided the identity of the ship or vessel intended in the recital be effectually proved thereby.

XXXV. That the property in every ship or vessel of which there are more than one owner shall be taken and considered to be divided into sixty-four equal parts or shares, and the proportion held by each owner shall be described in the registry as being a certain number of sixty-fourth parts or shares, and that no person shall be entitled to be registered as an owner of any ship or vessel in respect of any proportion of such ship or vessel which shall not be an integral sixty-fourth part or share of the same; and upon the first registry of any ship or vessel, the owner or owners who shall take and subscribe the declaration required by this Act before registry be made shall also declare the number of such parts or shares then held by each owner, and the same shall be so registered accordingly: Provided always, that if it shall at any time happen that the property of any owner or owners in any ship or vessel cannot be reduced by division into any number of integral sixty-fourth parts or shares, it shall and may be lawful for the owner or owners of such fractional parts as shall be over and above such number of integral sixty-fourth parts or shares into which such property in any ship or vessel can be reduced by division to transfer the same one to another, or jointly to any new owner, by memorandum upon their respective bills of sale, or by fresh bill of sale, without such transfer being liable to any stamp duty: Provided also, that the right of any owner or owners to any such fractional parts shall not be affected by reason of the same not having been registered: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for any number of such owners named and described in such registry, being partners in any house or copartnership actually carrying on trade in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, to hold any ship or vessel, or any share or shares of any ship or vessel, in the name of such house or copartnership, as joint owners thereof, without distinguishing the proportionate interest of each of such owners; and that such ship or vessel, or the share or shares thereof so held in copartnership, shall be deemed to be taken to be partnership property to all intents and purposes, and shall be governed by the same rules both in law and equity as relate to and govern all other partnership property in any other goods, chattels, and effects whatsoever.

XXXVI. That no greater number than thirty-two persons shall be entitled to be legal owners at one and the same time of any ship or vessel as tenants in common, or to be registered as such: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall affect the equitable title of minors, heirs, legatees, creditors, or others exceeding that number, duly represented by or holding in any of the persons within the said number registered as legal owners of any share or shares of such ship or vessel: Provided also, that if it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs that any number of persons have associated themselves as a joint stock company for the purpose of owning any ship or vessel, or any number of ships or vessels, as the joint property of such company, and that such company have duly elected or appointed any number not less than three of the members of the same to be trustees of the property in such ship or vessel or ships or vessels so owned by such company, it shall be lawful for such trustees, or any three of them, with the permission of such Commissioners, to make and subscribe the declaration required by this Act before registry be made, except that instead of stating therein the names and descriptions of the other owners they shall state the name and description of the company to which such ship or vessel or ships or vessels shall in such manner belong.

XXXVII. That no bill of sale or other instrument in writing shall be valid and effectual to pass the property in any ship or vessel, or in any share thereof, or for any other purpose, until such bill of sale or other instrument in writing shall have been produced to the collector and comptroller of the port at which such ship or vessel is already registered, or to the collector and comptroller of any other port at which she is about to be registered de novo, as the case may be, nor until such collector and comptroller respectively shall have entered in the book of such last registry in the one case, or in the book of such registry de novo, after all the requisites of law for such registry de novo shall have been duly complied with, in the other case (and which they are respectively hereby required to do upon the production of the bill of sale or other instrument for that purpose), the name, residence, and description of the vendor or mortgagor, or of each vendor or mortgagor if more than one, the number of shares transferred, the name, residence, and description of the purchaser or mortgagee, or of each purchaser or mortgagee if more than one, and the date of the bill of sale or other instrument and of the production of it; and further, if such ship or vessel is not about to be registered de novo, the collector and comptroller of the port where such ship is registered shall and they are hereby required to indorse the aforesaid particulars of such bill of sale or other instrument on the certificate of registry of the said ship or vessel, when the same shall be produced to them for that purpose, in manner and to the effect following; (videlicet,)

' Custom House [Port and Date.]

' [Name, Residence, and Description of Vendor or Mortgagor] has transferred by [Bill of Sale or other Instrument], dated [Date; Number of Shares] to [Name, Residence, and Description of Purchaser or Mortgagee].

' A. B. Collector.

' C. D. Comptroller.'

And forthwith to give notice thereof to the Commissioners of Customs; and in case the collector and comptroller shall be desired so to do, and the bill of sale or other instrument shall be produced to them for that purpose, then the said collector and comptroller are hereby required to certify by indorsement upon the bill of sale or other instrument that the particulars before mentioned have been so entered in the book of registry, and indorsed upon the certificate of registry as aforesaid.

XXXVIII. That when and so soon as the particulars of any bill of sale or other instrument by which any ship or vessel, or any share or shares thereof, shall be transferred, shall have been so entered in the book of registry as aforesaid, the said bill of sale or other instrument shall be valid and effectual to pass the property thereby intended to be transferred as against all and every person and persons whatsoever, and to all intents and purposes, except as against such subsequent purchasers and mortgagees who shall first procure the indorsement to be made upon the certificate of registry of such ship or vessel in manner hereinafter mentioned.

XXXIX. That when and after the particulars of any bill of sale or other instrument by which any ship or vessel, or any share or shares thereof, shall be transferred, shall have been so entered in the book of registry as aforesaid, the collector and comptroller shall not enter in the book of registry the particulars of any other bill of sale or instrument purporting to be a transfer by the same vendor or mortgagor or vendors or mortgagors of the same ship or vessel, share or shares thereof, to any other person or persons, unless thirty days shall elapse from the day on which the particulars of the former bill of sale or other instrument were entered in the book of registry, or in case the ship or vessel was absent from the port to which she belonged at the time when the particulars of such former bill of sale or other instrument were entered in the book of registry, then unless thirty days shall have elapsed from the day on which the ship or vessel arrived at the port to which the same belonged; and in case the particulars of two or more such bills of sale or other instruments as aforesaid shall at any time have been entered in the book of registry of the said ship or vessel, the collector and comptroller shall not enter in the book of registry the particulars of any other bill of sale or other instrument as aforesaid, unless thirty days shall in like manner have elapsed from the day on which the particulars of the last of such bills of sale or other instrument were entered in the books of registry, or from the day on which the ship or vessel arrived at the port to which she belonged, in case of her absence as aforesaid; and in every case where there shall at any time happen to be two or more transfers by the same owner or owners of the same property in any ship or vessel entered in the book of registry as aforesaid, the collector and comptroller are hereby required to indorse upon the certificate of registry of such ship or vessel the particulars of that bill of sale or other instrument under which the person or persons claims or claim property, who shall produce the certificate of registry for that purpose within thirty days next after the entry of his said bill of sale or other instrument in the book of registry as aforesaid, or within thirty days next after the return of the said ship or vessel to the port to which she belongs, in case of her absence at the time of such entry as aforesaid; and in case no person or persons shall produce the certificate of registry within either of the said spaces of thirty days, then it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller and they are hereby required to indorse upon the certificate of registry the particulars of the bill of sale or other instrument to such person or persons as shall first produce the certificate of registry for that purpose, it being the true intent and meaning of this Act that the several purchasers and mortgagees of such ship or vessel, share or shares thereof, when more than one appear to claim the same property, or to claim security on the same property, in the same rank and degree, shall have priority one over the other, not according to the respective times when the particulars of the bill of sale or other instrument by which such property was transferred to them entered in the book of registry as aforesaid, but according to the time when the indorsement is made upon the certificate of registry as aforesaid: Provided always, that if the certificate of registry shall be lost or mislaid, it shall be detained by any person whatever, so that the indorsement cannot in due time be made thereon, and proof thereof shall be made by the purchaser or mortgagee, or his known agent, to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to grant such further time as to them shall appear necessary for the recovery of the certificate of registry, or for the registry de novo of the said ship or vessel under the provisions of this Act; and thereupon the collector and comptroller shall make a memorandum in the book of registers of the further time so granted, and during such time no other bill of sale shall be entered for the transfer of the same ship or vessel, or the same share or shares thereof, or for giving the same security thereon.

XL. That if the certificate of registry of such ship or vessel shall be produced to the collector and comptroller of any port where she may then be after any such bill of sale shall have been recorded at the port to which she belongs, together with such bill of sale containing a notification of such record, signed by the collector or comptroller of such port as before directed, it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller of such other port to indorse on such certificate of registry (being required so to do) the transfer mentioned in such bill of sale, and such collector and comptroller shall give notice thereof to the collector and comptroller of the port to which such ship or vessel belongs, who shall record the same in like manner as if they had made such indorsement themselves, but inserting the name of the port at which such indorsement was made: Provided always, that the collector and comptroller of such other port shall first give notice to the collector and comptroller of the port to which such ship or vessel belongs of such requisition made to them to indorse the certificate of registry, and the collector and comptroller of the port to which such ship or vessel belongs shall thereupon send information to the collector and comptroller of such other port whether any and what other bill or bills of sale have been recorded in the book of the registry of such ship or vessel; and the collector and comptroller of such other port having such information shall proceed in manner directed by this Act in all respects to the indorsing of the certificate of registry as they would do if such port were the port to which such vessel belonged.

XLI. That if it shall become necessary to register any ship or vessel de novo, and any share or shares of such ship or vessel shall have been sold since she was last registered, and the transfer of such share or shares shall not have been recorded and indorsed in manner hereinbefore directed, the bill of sale thereof shall be produced to the collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs, who are to make registry of such ship or vessel, otherwise such sale shall not be noticed in such registry de novo, except as hereinafter excepted: Provided always, that upon the future production of such bill of sale, and of the existing certificate of registry, such transfer shall and may be recorded and indorsed as well after such registry de novo as before.

XLII. That if upon any change of property in any ship or vessel the owner or owners shall desire to have the same registered de novo, although not required by this Act, and the owner or proper number of owners shall attend at the custom house at the port to which such ship or vessel belongs for that purpose, it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs at such port to make registry de novo of such ship or vessel at the same port, and to grant a certificate thereof, the several requisites hereinbefore in this Act mentioned and directed being first duly observed and complied with.

And after reciting that great inconvenience hath arisen from the registering officers being served with subpoenas, requiring them to bring with them, and produce on trials in courts of law relative to the ownery of vessels or otherwise, the oaths or declarations required to be taken by the owners thereof prior to the registering thereof, and the books of registry or copies or extracts therefrom: And that it would tend much to the dispatch of business if the attendance of such registering officers with the same upon such trials were dispensed with;—

It is Enacted,

XLIII. That the collector and comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs at any port or place, and the person or persons acting for them respectively, shall, upon every reasonable request by any person or persons whomsoever, produce and exhibit for him, her, or their inspection and examination any oath or declaration sworn or made by any such owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors, and also any register or entry in any book or books of registry required by this Act to be made or kept relative to any ship or vessel, and shall, upon every reasonable request by any person or persons whomsoever, permit him, or her, or them to take a copy or copies or an extract or extracts thereof respectively, and that the copy and copies of any such oath or declaration, register or entry, shall, upon being proved to be a true copy or copies thereof respectively, be allowed and received as evidence upon every trial at law, without the production of the original or originals, and without the testimony or attendance of any collector or comptroller, or other person or persons acting for them respectively, in all cases as fully and to all intents and purposes as such original or originals, if produced by any collector or collectors, comptroller or comptrollers, or other person or persons acting for them, could or might legally be admitted or received in evidence.

XLIV. That if the ship or vessel, or the share or shares of any owner thereof who may be out of the kingdom, shall be sold in his absence by his known agent or correspondent under his directions, either expressed or implied, and acting for his interest at that behalf, and such agent or correspondent who shall have executed a bill of sale to the purchaser of the whole of such ship or vessel, or of any share or shares thereof, shall not have received a legal power to execute the same, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, upon application made to them, and proof to their satisfaction of the dealings of the parties, to permit such transfer to be registered, if registry de novo be necessary, or to be recorded and indorsed, as the case may be, in manner directed by this Act, as if such legal power had been produced; and also if it shall appear that any bill of sale cannot be produced, or if, by reason of distance of time or the absence or death of parties concerned, cannot be proved that a bill of sale for any share or shares in any ship or vessel had been executed, and registry de novo of such ship or vessel shall have become necessary, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, upon proof to their satisfaction of the fair dealings of the parties, to permit such ship or vessel to be registered de novo, in like manner as if a bill of sale for the transfer of such share or shares had been produced: Provided always, that in any of the cases herein mentioned good and sufficient security shall be given to produce a legal power or bill of sale within a reasonable time, or to satisfy the future claims of the absent owner, his heirs and successors, as the case may be, and, at the future request of the party whose property has been so transferred without the production of a bill of sale from him or from his lawful attorney, such bill shall be available for the protection of his interest, in addition to any powers or rights which he may have in law or equity against the ship or vessel, or against the parties concerned, until he shall have received full indemnity for any loss or injury sustained by him.

XLV. That when any transfer of any ship or vessel, or of any share or shares thereof, shall be made only as a security for the payment of a debt or debts, either by way of mortgage or of assignment to a trustee or trustees for the purpose of selling the same for the payment of any debt or debts, then and in every such case the collector and comptroller of the port where the ship or vessel is registered shall, in the entry in the book of registry, and also in the indorsement on the certificate of registry in manner hereinbefore directed, state and express that such transfer was made only as a security for the payment of a debt or debts, or by way of mortgage, or to that effect; and the person or persons to whom such transfer shall be made, or any other person or persons claiming under him or them as a mortgagee or mortgagees, or a trustee or trustees only, shall not by reason thereof be deemed to be the owner or owners of such ship or vessel, share or shares thereof, nor shall the person or persons making such transfer be deemed by reason thereof to have ceased to be an owner or owners of such ship or vessel any more than if no such transfer had been made, except so far as may be necessary for the purpose of rendering the ship or vessel, share or shares, so transferred, available, by sale or otherwise, for the payment of the debt or debts for securing the payment of which such transfer shall have been made.

XLVI. That when any transfer of any ship or vessel, or of any share or shares thereof, shall have been made as a security for the payment of any debt or debts, either by way of mortgage or of assignment as aforesaid, and such transfer shall have been duly registered according to the provisions of this Act, the right or interest of the mortgagee or other assignee as aforesaid shall not be in any manner affected by any act or acts of bankruptcy committed by such mortgagor or assignor, mortgagors or assignors, after the time when such mortgage or assignment shall have been so registered as aforesaid, notwithstanding such mortgagor or assignor, mortgagors or assignors, at the time he or they shall so become bankrupt as aforesaid, shall have in his, her, or their possession, order, and disposition, and shall be the reputed owner or owners of the said ship or vessel, or the share or shares thereof so by him or them mortgaged or assigned as aforesaid, but such mortgage or assignment shall take place of and be preferred to any right, claim, or interest which may belong to the assignee or assignees of such bankrupt or bankrupts in such ship or vessel, share or shares thereof, any law or statute to the contrary thereof notwithstanding.

XLVII. That it shall and may be lawful for any governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief of any of Her Majesty's colonies, plantations, islands, or territories, and they are hereby respectively authorized and required, if any suit, information, libel, or other prosecution or proceeding of any nature or kind whatever shall have been commenced or shall hereafter be commenced in any court whatever in any of the said colonies, plantations, islands, or territories respectively touching the force and effect of any register granted to any ship or vessel, upon a representation made to any such governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief, to cause all proceedings thereon to be stayed, if he shall see just cause so to do, until Her Majesty's pleasure shall be known and certified to him by Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Majesty's Privy Council; and such governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief is required to transmit to one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, to be laid before Her Majesty in Council, an authenticated copy of the proceedings in every such case, together with his reasons for causing the same to be stayed, and such documents (properly verified) as he may judge necessary, for the information of Her Majesty.

XLVIII. That if any person or persons shall falsely make declaration to any of the matters hereinbefore required to be verified by declaration, or if any person or persons shall counterfeit, erase, alter or falsify any certificate or other instrument in writing required or directed to be obtained, granted, or produced by this Act, or shall knowingly or wilfully make use of any certificate or other instrument so counterfeited, erased, altered, or falsified, or shall wilfully grant such certificate or other instrument in writing, knowing it to be false, such person or persons shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 500*l*.

XLIX. That the person or persons registered as owner or owners of any British ship or vessel which shall have been lost or taken by the enemy, or burnt or broken up, or otherwise prevented from returning to the port to which such ship or vessel belongs, or which shall on any account have lost or forfeited the privileges of a British ship, shall, immediately upon obtaining knowledge of any of the circumstances aforesaid, give notice in writing of such circumstances to the collector or comptroller of the Customs at the port of registry of such ship or vessel.

L. That in all cases where any British registered ship or vessel shall have been absent from the port of registry for the space of three years, the person or persons registered as the owner or owners of such ship or vessel shall in like manner give notice in writing to the collector or comptroller of the Customs at such port, stating therein the cause of such absence, and that the said vessel has not forfeited her privileges as a British ship.

LI. That every such owner or owners failing to give such notice in either of the cases aforesaid, or making any untrue statement in respect of any such ship or vessel, shall forfeit the sum of 5*l*.

LII. That all the penalties and forfeitures inflicted and incurred by this Act shall and may be sued for, prosecuted, recovered, and disposed of in such manner, and by such ways, means, and methods, as any penalties or forfeitures inflicted or which may be incurred for any offences committed against any law relating to the Customs may now legally be sued for, prosecuted, recovered, and disposed of; and that the officer or officers concerned in seizures or prosecutions under this Act shall be entitled to and receive the same share of the produce arising from such seizures as in the case of seizures for unlawful importation, and to such share of the produce arising from any pecuniary fine or penalty for any offence against this Act as any officer or officers is or are now by any law or regulation entitled to upon prosecutions for pecuniary penalties.

LIII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. XC.

AN ACT for granting Duties of Customs.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Commencement of Act.
2. Instead of all other duties of Customs (except on corn, &c.), there shall be paid and allowed the duties and drawbacks specified in Tables annexed.
3. Duties on corn, &c. to be raised, &c. in the same manner as duties mentioned in this Act.
4. An additional duty of 4d. per gallon to be levied upon spirits, and of 5l. per cent. upon all other articles.
5. Goods having paid duties imposed by former Acts to be entitled to drawbacks.
6. Goods in warehouse to be liable to the duties imposed by this Act.
7. Duties and drawbacks to be under the management of the Commissioners of Customs.
8. Additional duties to be levied on foreign merchandise, &c.
9. 59 Geo. 3. c. 54. to apply to all foreign powers as well as United States and Portugal, and to duties on goods as well as on ships.
10. Recited Act not to be construed as granting powers beyond subsisting treaties.
11. Her Majesty, with the advice of Privy Council, to declare the powers with whom treaties are subsisting.
12. Lords of Treasury may reduce duties on ships or goods of countries under reciprocity.
13. Manufactures of Gibraltar, &c. from foreign materials deemed foreign.
14. Certain produce of the State of Maine to be treated as the produce of New Brunswick.
15. Drawback on the exportation of foreign rice or paddy.
16. Conditions on which such drawback is to be paid.
17. Warehousing of goods.
18. Cape of Good Hope deemed to be within limits of charter; Mauritius as West Indies.
19. Produce of limits of charter imported from Malta or Gibraltar.
20. An account of the amount of hereditary revenues of the Crown to be kept separate.
21. Not to effect the hereditary revenue in Scotland.
22. Duties to be paid into the Exchequer, and carried to the Consolidated Fund.
23. Duties due before the passing of this Act, but levied after, to be deemed duties under this Act, and appropriated as such.
24. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 56, whereby the several duties of Customs were consolidated into one Act: And it since the passing of the said Act divers parts of Acts altering the said duties have been passed, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country that the said several duties should be consolidated into one Act:—

It is Enacted,

- I. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and operation for the purposes mentioned therein, except where any other commencement is herein particularly directed.
- II. That in lieu and instead of all other duties and drawbacks of Customs (except the duties and drawbacks upon corn, meal or flour, sugar, and molasses) there shall be raised, levied, collected, and paid unto Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, upon goods, wares, and merchandise imported into or exported from the United Kingdom, the several duties of Customs, and there shall be allowed the several drawbacks, as the same are respectively inserted, described, and set forth in Tables in the Tables marked (A.) and (B.) to this Act annexed, together with the additional duties hereinafter mentioned.
- III. That the duties imposed upon corn, grain, meal, and flour by an Act, 5 & 6 Vict., intituled 'An Act to amend the Laws the Importation of Corn,' shall be raised, levied, collected, and paid in such and the same manner in all respects as the several duties of Customs mentioned in this Act are directed to be raised, levied, collected, and paid.
- IV. That there shall be charged, raised, levied, collected, and paid unto Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in addition to the duties mentioned in the said Table marked (A.), upon every gallon of spirits or strong waters of all sorts imported into the United Kingdom a further duty of 4d., and upon all the articles enumerated in the said Table marked (A.), except spirits or strong waters, a further duty of 5l. per centum upon the amount of the several duties in and by the said Table marked (B.) respectively charged upon the said articles, and each of them, except the following articles; (that is to say,)

Isinglass;
Oils, chemical, essential, or perfumed;
Oils, essential, of cloves;
Pickles preserved in vinegar;
Pickles or vegetables preserved in salt;
Refined camphor;

Smalts;
Turpentine;
Verdigris;
Yarn cable;
Glass of all sorts.

- V. That the amount of drawbacks granted, allowed, and made payable upon goods, wares, and merchandise exported from or consumed in Great Britain or Ireland, under or by virtue of any Act or Acts in force in Great Britain or Ireland, or immediately before the passing of this Act, shall remain and continue payable with respect to such goods, wares, and merchandise as, having paid the duties imposed upon the importation thereof by any such Act or Acts, shall, from and after the passing of this Act, be exported from or be so used or consumed in Great Britain or Ireland respectively.

vi. That all goods whatsoever which shall have been warehoused without payment of duty upon the first importation thereof, and which shall be in the warehouse at the commencement of the duties imposed by this Act, shall be deemed and taken to be liable to such duties.

vii. That the duties and drawbacks by this Act imposed and allowed shall be under the management of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and shall be ascertained, raised, levied, collected, paid, and recovered, and allowed and applied or appropriated, under the provisions of an Act passed in the present session of Parliament, intituled 'An Act for the general Regulation of the Customs.'

viii. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, by her order in council, from time to time to order and direct that there shall be levied and collected any additional duty, not exceeding one-fifth of the amount of any existing duty, upon all or any goods, wares, or merchandise, the growth, produce, or manufacture of any country which shall levy higher or other duties upon any article the growth, produce, or manufacture of any of Her Majesty's dominions than upon the like article the growth, produce, or manufacture of any other foreign country, and in like manner to impose such additional duties upon all or any goods when imported in the ships of any country which shall levy higher or other duties upon any goods when imported in British ships than when imported in the national ships of such country, or which shall levy higher or other tonnage or port or other duties upon British ships than upon such national ships, or which shall not place the commerce or navigation of this kingdom upon the footing of the most favoured nation in the ports of such country, and either to prohibit the importation of any manufactured article the produce of such country in the event of the export of the raw material of which such article is wholly or in part made being prohibited from such country to the British dominions, or to impose an additional duty, not exceeding one-fifth as aforesaid, upon such manufactured article, and also to impose such additional duty in the event of such raw material being subject to any duty upon being exported from the said country to any of Her Majesty's dominions; and all duties imposed by any such order shall be deemed to be duties imposed by this Act.

After reciting that by 59 Geo. 3. c. 54. divers provisions were made respecting the duties payable and the bounties and allowances to be granted upon the importation and exportation of goods, wares, and merchandise into or from the United Kingdom in vessels of the United States and in Portuguese vessels, and respecting the repayment to certain corporations, bodies politic and corporate, and sundry other persons, of the amount of the sums of money of which they would be deprived by means of the said Act, and it was thereby enacted that the said Act should continue in force so long as the convention therein recited between His said late Majesty and the United States of America, and the treaty therein recited between His said late Majesty and His Royal Highness the Prince Regent of Portugal, and so long as any treaty to be made with any foreign power with the similar provisions thereinbefore recited, should respectively continue in force: And that, subsequently to the enactment of the said recited Act, Her Majesty and her royal predecessors have made and concluded with divers foreign powers treaties containing provisions similar to those recited in the said recited Act, and doubts have arisen whether, according to the true construction thereof, the said Act doth apply and extend to the trade and shipping of such other foreign powers, and whether the same applies to differential duties or charges on goods imported or exported in foreign ships as well as to differential duties and charges on foreign ships, and it is expedient that such doubts be removed:—

ix. That from and after the ratification of any treaty heretofore made by Her Majesty or any of her royal predecessors subsequently to the enactment of the said Act, or of any treaty which may hereafter be made by Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, with any such foreign power, in which treaty has been or shall be contained provisions similar to those recited in the said recited Act, all and every the provisions, clauses, matters, and things in the said recited Act contained shall apply and extend to the trade and shipping of such foreign powers respectively as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as to the trade and shipping of the said United States and of the said kingdom of Portugal, and also shall apply and extend to differential duties or charges on goods imported or exported in the ships of such foreign powers as well as to differential duties on the ships of such foreign powers.

x. Provided, and enacted and declared, That the said recited Act doth not extend, and shall not be construed to extend, to grant to or to confer upon the trade or shipping of the said United States, or of the said kingdom of Portugal, or of any other foreign power, or to the subjects of such states or kingdom, or of any such foreign power as aforesaid, any other or greater advantage than such as shall have been stipulated for by and granted to the said United States, the said kingdom of Portugal, or any such other foreign power, by the respective treaties subsisting and in force between them respectively and Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, or her royal predecessors, but that the said Act shall be so construed and applied as to give full and complete effect to such respective treaties so long as the same shall respectively remain in force, and in so provide such, and only such, indemnity as therein mentioned to such bodies politic and corporate, and other persons as are therein mentioned, for such losses as they shall respectively sustain by the execution of such respective treaties.

And for the prevention of uncertainty herein, xi. That it shall and may be lawful for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, by any order or orders to be by her or them made, with the advice of her or their Privy Council, and published in the London Gazette, from time to time to declare what are the foreign powers with which any such treaty or treaties as aforesaid is or are subsisting, and this present Act and the said recited Act shall apply and shall be deemed from the time of the ratification of any such treaties to have been applicable to the trade and shipping of such foreign countries as shall be so mentioned in any such order or orders in Council as aforesaid, so long as any such order or orders shall continue unrevoked, and no longer.

It is Enacted,

xii. That in any case where any treaty is in force between Her Majesty and any foreign state, containing any stipulations that no higher duties or charges shall be levied on the vessels or produce of such foreign state, or upon goods exported or imported in the vessels of such foreign state than on British vessels or produce, or upon the like goods exported or imported in British vessels, or any direct or indirect stipulations to the like effect, or for the like objects, or any of them, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two or more of them, from time to time to give directions that all duties or charges imposed by any Act passed after the 10th of July 1842 upon the vessels of such foreign state entering or leaving any port of Her Majesty's dominions, or upon articles of the growth, produce, or manufacture of the dominions of such foreign state, or upon any articles imported into the United Kingdom in vessels of such foreign state, or upon any articles (or any particular classes of articles) exported from the United Kingdom (or exported from the United Kingdom to any particular place or places), shall be reduced to the same rates as are in the like cases imposed upon British vessels, or upon the like articles of British growth, produce, or manufacture, or upon the like articles imported into or exported from the United Kingdom in British vessels, or to give so much of the said directions as the case may require.

XIII. That all manufactures of Gibraltar, Malta, and Heligoland made of materials of foreign produce liable to duty upon importation into the United Kingdom, upon which no such duty has been paid, or upon which drawback of such duty has been allowed in the United Kingdom, shall, for the purposes of duty, be deemed and taken to be the produce of and imported from a foreign country.

And after reciting that a treaty has been concluded between Her Majesty and the United States of America, dated the 9th August 1842, whereby it is stipulated that all the produce of the forest in logs, lumber, timber, timber boards, staves, oringles, or of agriculture, not being manufactured, grown on any of those parts of the state of Maine watered by the river Saint John or by its tributaries, of which fact reasonable evidence shall, if required, be produced, shall have free access into and through the said river and its tributaries having their source within the state of Maine to and from the seaport at the mouth of the river Saint John, and to and round the falls of the said river, either by boats, rafts, or other conveyance, and at when within the province of New Brunswick the said produce shall be dealt with as if it were the produce of the said province: And that it is the intention of the high contracting parties to the said treaty that the aforesaid produce should be dealt with as if it were the produce of the province of New Brunswick;—

It is Enacted,

XIV. That the produce in the said recited treaty and hereinbefore described shall, so far as regards all laws relating to duties, navigation, and customs in force in the United Kingdom, or in any of Her Majesty's dominions, be deemed and taken to be and be dealt with as the produce of the province of New Brunswick: Provided nevertheless, that in all cases in which declarations and certificates of production or origin, and certificates of clearance, would be required in respect of such produce if it were the produce of New Brunswick, similar declarations and certificates shall be required in respect of such produce, and shall state the same to be the produce of those parts of the state of Maine which are entered by the river Saint John or by tributaries.

XV. That upon the exportation from the United Kingdom of any foreign rice or paddy which shall have been cleaned, and which shall have paid the duties payable on the importation thereof, there shall be allowed and paid for every hundred weight thereof a drawback equal in amount to the duty paid on every four bushels of the rough rice or paddy from which the same shall have been cleaned.

XVI. Provided and enacted, That such drawback upon rice so exported shall be paid and allowed only upon such clean rice as shall be deposited for the purpose of exportation, within one calendar month from the day on which the duty thereon has been paid, in some warehouse in which rice may be warehoused on importation without payment of duty, and shall there remain secured until duly shipped to be exported from such warehouse: Provided also, that the exporter of such rice shall make declaration before the collector or comptroller that the rice so warehoused for exportation was cleaned from the rough rice or paddy upon which the duties had been so paid.

XVII. That it shall be lawful for the importer of any goods subject to any duties of Customs to warehouse such goods upon first entry thereof, under the laws in force for the warehousing of goods, without payment of duty upon such first entry, that all goods which shall have been so warehoused before the commencement of any such duties, and shall remain so warehoused after the commencement of the same, shall become liable to such duties in lieu of all former duties.

XVIII. That for the purposes of this Act the Cape of Good Hope, and the territories and dependencies thereof, shall be deemed to be within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, and the island of Mauritius shall be deemed to be of Her Majesty's sugar colonies, and placed upon the same footing in all respects as Her Majesty's islands in the West Indies.

XIX. That all goods the produce of places within the limits of the East India Company's Charter having been imported from Malta or Gibraltar from those places in British ships shall, upon subsequent importation into the United Kingdom direct from Malta or Gibraltar, be liable to the same duties as the like goods would respectively be liable to if imported direct from the place within the limits of the said charter.

And after reciting that by the consolidation of the different branches of the public revenue, and of the several duties leviable on the importation or exportation of goods, wares, and merchandise, and the appropriation thereof, as directed by the Acts in force in England, the hereditary and temporary revenues of the Crown of subsidies of tonnage and poundage, and other duties upon goods, wares, and merchandise arising in England, are not now kept distinct and separate at the several offices, but have become blended with other duties of Customs and tonnage both in the collection and appropriation of: And that it is expedient that provision should be made for ascertaining the annual amount of what such hereditary revenues would have produced in case the same had not been so consolidated, and that an account should hereafter be kept of the annual amount;—

It is Enacted,

xx. That from and after the passing of this Act the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland for the time being, or any three or more of them, shall cause to be prepared and kept an account of what such hereditary revenue arising in England would have amounted to in case the same had not been and was not consolidated and collected with other duties of Customs and tonnage in the collection and appropriation thereof, in such manner and form as shall appear to the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being best adapted to ascertain such amount, which account the said Commissioners for the time being are hereby required to make out, or cause to be made out, and laid before Parliament, together with the public accounts directed to be laid before Parliament, pursuant to the provisions of the several Acts for directing public accounts to be laid annually before Parliament.

xxi. Provided and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to affect or to alter the hereditary revenue of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in Scotland, or other revenues there granted to His late Majesty King George the Second, during his life, and reserved to Her present Majesty during her life, by an Act passed in the first year of Her present Majesty's reign, but the same, and the civil establishment payable out of the same, shall continue to be paid in like manner as heretofore, anything in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

xxii. That all the monies arising by the duties imposed by this Act (the necessary charges of raising and accounting in the same excepted) shall from time to time be paid into the receipt of Her Majesty's Exchequer in Great Britain, and shall be carried to and made part of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, except only as by this Act is specially provided, and shall be appropriated in like manner and to the same services as the duties by this Act repealed would have been if this Act had not been passed.

xxiii. That all monies arising from any duties of Customs, or any arrears thereof, shall be raised, levied, collected, paid, or received from and after the passing of this Act, for or on account of any goods, wares, or merchandise whatever imported or brought into the United Kingdom of Great Britain or Ireland, or exported from the said United Kingdom, although the amount of the said duties may have been computed and ascertained as such duties have been computed and ascertained before the passing of this Act, and although the goods, wares, or merchandise whereon any such duties of Customs may have been charged or may be charged may have been imported into or exported from the United Kingdom before the passing of this Act, and although any duties of Customs due and payable, or charged or chargeable thereon, may have been secured by bond or otherwise on or before the passing of this Act; and all such monies shall from and after the passing of this Act be appropriated and applied in like manner and to the same purposes, as the duties of Customs by this Act granted are directed to be appropriated and applied, except as is in this Act provided, any Act or Acts of Parliament, law, usage, or custom, to the contrary notwithstanding; and that all monies arising by any of the revenues of Customs hereafter to be paid or allowed, either upon bond or otherwise, either by way of drawback, bounty, certificate, premium, or allowance, or by any other legal document whatever, from and after the passing of this Act, although the amount of the same shall have been computed and ascertained in like manner in which they have heretofore been usually computed and ascertained, or shall have become due before the passing of this Act, shall and may be paid or allowed in like manner by the proper officer or officers of the Customs out of any monies in their hands arising from the duties of Customs respectively.

xxiv. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

38. No foreign casks, &c. to be used for re-packing unless duties paid.
39. Goods may be delivered out of warehouse for such purposes as the Commissioners of Customs may direct.
40. Goods in bulk delivered.
41. Packages to be marked before delivery.
42. Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs may approve of premises for refining sugar for exportation.
43. On approval thereof, officers of Customs empowered to deliver sugars duty free, to be there refined for exportation only.—Order of approval may be revoked.
44. Refiner to give bond.
45. Decrease and increase may be ascertained and allowed, under regulations of the Treasury.—No duty on deficiency of gum exported from warehouses declared of special security.
46. Allowances for natural waste of wine, spirits, &c., in warehouses not of special security, on exportation.
47. In case of embezzlement and waste through misconduct of officers, damages to be made good to the proprietor.
48. On entry outwards, bond for due shipping and landing shall be given.
49. Goods removed from warehouse for shipment under care of Customs officers.
50. Ships to be not less than sixty tons for exporting such goods.
51. Goods landed in docks liable to claims for freight as before landing.
52. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 57, whereby the laws of Customs in relation to the warehousing of goods were consolidated : And that since the passing of the said Act divers parts of Acts for the further amendment of the law in this respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country that the said Acts and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act :—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and effect for the purposes therein mentioned, except where any other commencement is therein particularly directed.

II. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, by their warrant from time to time, to appoint the ports in the United Kingdom which shall be warehousing ports for the purposes of this Act; and that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, subject to the authority and directions of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by their order from time to time to appoint in what warehouses or places of special security, or of ordinary security, as the case may require, in such ports, and in what different parts or divisions of such warehouses or places, and in what manner, any goods, and what sorts of goods, may and may only be warehoused and kept and secured without payment of any duty upon the first entry thereof, or for exportation only, in cases where the same may be prohibited to be imported for home use; and also in such order to direct in what cases (if any) security by bond, in manner hereinafter provided, shall be required in respect of any warehouse so appointed by them.

III. That whenever any warehouse shall have been approved of by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs as being a warehouse of special security, it shall be stated in their order of appointment that such warehouse is appointed as a warehouse for special security: Provided always, that all warehouses connected with the wharfs for the landing of the goods to be lodged therein, and inclosed together with such wharfs within walls such as are or shall be required by any Act for the constructing of such warehouses and wharfs, and being appointed to be legal quays, shall, without any order of the said Commissioners, be warehouses for the purposes of this Act for all goods landed at such wharfs or quays at any port appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to be a warehousing port as aforesaid, and all such warehouses shall be warehouses of special security.

IV. That all appointments of warehouses for the warehousing of goods made under the authority of any other Act in force at the time of the commencement of this Act, shall continue in force as if the same had been made under the authority of this Act; and all bonds given in respect of any goods warehoused or entered to be warehoused under any Act in force at the time of the commencement of this Act, shall continue in force for the purposes of this Act.

V. That the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall, out of the monies arising from the duties of Customs, provide from time to time the warehouses for the warehousing of tobacco at the ports into which tobacco may be legally imported: Provided always, that for every hogshead, chest, case, or other package of tobacco so warehoused the importer or proprietor thereof shall pay as and for warehouse rent such sum or sums, not exceeding any sum payable under any Act in force at the time of the commencement of this Act, and at such periods and in such manner, as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall from time to time by their warrant appoint and direct, and all such sums shall be paid, received, and appropriated as duties of Customs.

VI. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by their warrant, and for the said Commissioners of Customs by their order, from time to time to revoke any former warrant or any former order, or to make any alteration in or addition to any former warrant or any former order made as aforesaid by them respectively.

VII. That every order made by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs in respect of warehouses of special security, as well those of original appointment as those of revocation, alteration, or addition, shall be published in the London Gazette for such as shall be appointed in Great Britain, and in the Dublin Gazette for such as shall be appointed in Ireland.

VIII. That before any goods shall be entered to be warehoused in any warehouse, in respect of which security by bond shall be required as aforesaid, the proprietor or occupier of such warehouse, if he be willing, shall give general security by bond, with two sufficient sureties, for the payment of the full duties of importation on all such goods as shall at any time be warehoused therein, or for the due exportation thereof; and if such proprietor or occupier be not willing to give such general security, the different importers of the separate quantities of goods shall upon each importation, before such goods shall be entered to be warehoused, give such security by bond with one sufficient surety, in respect of the particular goods imported, the penalty of such bond being double the amount of the duty to which such goods are subject.

IX. That if any goods lodged in any warehouse shall be the property of the occupier of such warehouse, and shall be bond sold by him, and upon such sale there shall have been a written agreement signed by the parties, or a written contract of sale made, executed, and delivered by a broker, or other person legally authorized for or in behalf of the parties respectively, the amount of the price stipulated in the said agreement or contract shall have been actually paid or secured to be paid by the purchaser, every such sale shall be valid, although such goods shall remain in such warehouse; provided that a transfer of such goods, according to such sale, shall have been entered in a book to be kept for that purpose by the officer of the Customs having the charge of such warehouse, who is hereby required to keep such book and to enter such transfers, with the date thereof, upon application of the owners of the goods, and to produce such book upon demand made.

X. That all goods warehoused shall be stowed in such manner as that easy access may be had to every package and parcel of the same, and if the occupier of the warehouse shall omit so to stow the same he shall for every such omission forfeit the sum of 5*l.*; and if any goods shall be taken out of any warehouse without due entry of the same with the proper officers of the Customs, the occupier of the warehouse shall be liable to the payment of the duties due thereon.

XI. That the occupier or occupiers of any warehouse in which goods are deposited under the provisions of this Act shall, on any request being made by any officer duly authorized by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, immediately deliver to such officer any goods deposited therein, or received into his or their custody, for the delivery of which the said occupier or occupiers has or have not received an order duly signed by the proper warehouse officer, and upon every failure to do so such occupier or occupiers shall forfeit the sum of 5*l.*, over and above the duties to which every package or parcel of goods so produced may be liable.

XII. That if any goods warehoused shall be fraudulently concealed in or removed from the warehouse the same shall be forfeited; and if any importer or proprietor of any goods warehoused, or any person in his employ, shall by any contrivance fraudulently open the warehouse, or gain access to the goods, except in the presence of the proper officer acting in the execution of his duty, such importer or proprietor shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of 500*l*.

XIII. That if any goods entered to be warehoused under any law made for the warehousing of goods shall be removed and not deposited in a warehouse or place of security, in pursuance of such entry, every person who shall remove or assist or be otherwise concerned in the removing of any such goods, or who shall knowingly harbour, keep, or conceal, or shall knowingly permit or suffer to be harboured, kept, or concealed, any such goods so removed, and every person to whose hands and possession any goods so removed shall knowingly come, shall forfeit either treble the value thereof, or the penalty of 100*l*. at the election of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and such goods shall be forfeited.

XIV. That within one month after any tobacco shall have been warehoused, and upon the entry and landing of any other goods to be warehoused, the proper officer of Customs shall take a particular account of the same, and shall mark the contents on each package, and shall mark the word "prohibited" on such packages as contain goods prohibited to be imported for home use; and that all goods shall be warehoused and kept in the packages in which they shall have been imported, and no alteration shall be made in the packages or the packing of any goods in the warehouse, except in the cases hereinafter provided.

XV. That all goods entered to be warehoused or to be re-warehoused shall be carried into the warehouse under the care or with the authority or permission of the proper officer of Customs, and in such manner and by such persons, and by such roads or ways, and within such spaces of time, as the proper officer of Customs shall authorize, permit, or direct, and all such goods not so carried shall be forfeited.

XVI. That all goods which shall have been so warehoused shall be duly cleared either for exportation or for home use within three years, and all surplus stores of ships within one year from the day of the first entry thereof, unless further time be given by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury; and if any such goods be not so cleared, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to cause the same to be sold, and the produce shall be applied to the payment of the warehouse rent and other charges, and the overplus (if any) shall be paid to the proprietor; and such goods, when sold, shall be held subject to all the conditions to which they were subject previous to such sale, except that a further time of three months from the date of the sale shall be allowed to the purchaser for the clearing of such goods from the warehouse; and if the goods so sold shall not be duly cleared from the warehouse within such three months the same shall be forfeited.

XVII. That if any goods entered to be warehoused, or entered to be delivered from the warehouse, shall be lost or destroyed by any unavoidable accident, either on ship-board or in the landing or shipping of the same, or in the receiving into or delivering from the warehouse, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to remit or return the duties payable or paid on the quantity of such goods so lost or destroyed.

XVIII. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to remit the duties payable or paid on the whole or any portion of any goods which shall be lost or destroyed by any unavoidable accident in the warehouse in which the same shall have been deposited under the provisions of this or any other Act passed for the warehousing of goods; and that the duties payable upon the following articles deposited in warehouses of special security, that is to say, wines, currants, raisins, figs, hams, and cheese, when taken out of the warehouse for home use, shall be charged upon the quantities ascertained by the measure or weight of the same actually delivered.

XIX. That no goods which have been so warehoused shall be taken or delivered from the warehouse, except upon due entry, and under care of the proper officers for exportation, or upon due entry and payment of the full duties payable thereon for home use, if they be such goods as may be used in the United Kingdom, save and except goods delivered into the charge of the searchers to be shipped as stores, and which shall and may be so shipped without entry or payment of any duty for any ship of the burden of sixty tons at least, bound upon a voyage to foreign parts, the probable duration of which, out and home, will not be less than forty days: Provided always, that such stores shall be duly borne upon the ship's victualling bill, and shall be shipped in such quantities and subject to such directions and regulations as the Commissioners of Customs shall direct and appoint.

XX. Provided and enacted, That any rum of the British plantations may be delivered into the charge of the searcher to be shipped as stores for any ship without entry or payment of any duty, and any surplus stores of any ship may be delivered into the charge of the searcher to be re-shipped as stores for the same ship, or for the same master in another ship, without entry or payment of any duty, such rum and such surplus stores being duly borne upon the victualling bills of such ships respectively, and if the ship, for the future use of which any surplus stores have been warehoused, shall have been broken up or sold, such stores may be so delivered for the use of any other ship belonging to the same owners, or may be entered for payment of duty, and delivered for the private use of such owners, or any of them, or of the master and purser of such ship.

XXI. That upon the entry of any such goods to be cleared from the warehouse, if the same be for home use, the person entering such goods inwards shall deliver a bill of the entry and duplicates thereof, in like manner as directed by law in the case of goods entered to be landed, as far as the same is applicable, and at the same time shall pay down to the proper officer of the Customs the full duties of Customs payable thereon, and not being less in amount than according to the account of the quantity first taken of the respective packages or parcels of the goods in such entry at the examination thereof, at the time of the first entry and landing of the same, without any abatement on account of any deficiency, except by this Act is otherwise provided; and that if the entry be for exportation or for removal to any other warehouse, and any of the packages or parcels of the goods be deficient of the respective quantities of the same according to the account first taken as aforesaid, a like entry inwards shall also be passed in respect of the quantities so deficient, and the full duties shall be paid on the amount thereof before such packages or parcels of goods shall be delivered or taken for exportation or removal, except as by this Act is otherwise provided; and if any goods so deficient in quantity shall be such as are charged to pay duty according to the value thereof, such value shall be estimated at the price for which the like sorts of goods of the best quality shall have been last or lately sold.

XXII. That the duties payable upon tobacco, sugar, and spirits respectively, when taken out of warehouse for home use, shall be charged upon the quantities ascertained by the weight, measure, or strength of the same actually delivered, save and except that if the sugar shall not be in a warehouse of special security no greater abatement on account of deficiency of the quantity, first ascertained as aforesaid, shall be made than shall be after the rate of 3*l.* per cent. of such quantity for the first three months, and 1*l.* per cent. for every subsequent month during which such sugar shall have been warehoused; and also save and except that if the spirits (being any other spirits than rum of the British plantations) shall not be in a warehouse of special security no greater abatement on account of deficiency of the quantity or strength first ascertained as aforesaid shall be made than shall be after the several rates of allowances following; (that is to say),

For every hundred gallons hydrometer proof:—

For any time not exceeding six months, one gallon :

For any time exceeding six months, and not exceeding eighteen months, three gallons :

For any time exceeding eighteen months, and not exceeding two years, five gallons :

For any time exceeding two years, and not exceeding two years and a half, six gallons :

For any time exceeding two years and a half, and not exceeding three years, seven gallons :

And for every additional year, two gallons :

Provided always, that no abatement shall be made in respect of any deficiency in quantity of any spirits occasioned by leakage and not by natural evaporation, in whatever warehouse the same may be, except as by this Act is otherwise specially provided.

XXIII. That in respect of any wheat or barley, or any rye or any oats, lodged in warehouses without payment of duty on the first importation thereof, the following allowances for natural waste shall be made upon the exportation thereof, or upon the entry thereof for home consumption; (that is to say),

In respect of all wheat, barley, and rye, except as is hereinafter provided, which has been in warehouse one month and less than three months, there shall be allowed 1½*l.* per cent. :

In respect of all wheat, barley, and rye, except as hereinafter provided, which has been in warehouse three months and less than six months, there shall be allowed 2*l.* per cent. :

In respect of all wheat, barley, and rye, except as is hereinafter provided, which has been in warehouse six months and less than twelve months, there shall be allowed 2½*l.* per cent. :

And in respect of all wheat, barley, and rye, except as is hereinafter provided, which has been in warehouse twelve months and upwards, there shall be allowed 3*l.* per cent. :

In respect of oats, except as is hereinafter provided, which have been in warehouse one month, and less than three months, there shall be allowed 2½*l.* per cent. :

In respect of oats, except as is hereinafter provided, which have been in warehouse three months and less than six months, there shall be allowed 3½*l.* per cent. :

In respect of oats, except as is hereinafter provided, which have been in warehouse six months and less than twelve months, there shall be allowed 4½*l.* per cent. :

And in respect of oats, except as is hereinafter provided, which have been in warehouse twelve months and upwards, there shall be allowed 5*l.* per cent. :

Provided nevertheless, that only half the above allowances hereby directed to be made on wheat and barley and oats respectively shall be made upon Spanish wheat and barley and oats respectively, and upon wheat and barley kiln-dried abroad respectively, and that no such allowance shall be made in respect of rye being kiln-dried: Provided also, that no such allowance shall be made unless there shall be an actual deficiency in the quantity of such wheat, rye, barley, and oats actually warehoused.

XXIV. That if after any goods shall have been duly entered and landed to be warehoused, and before the same shall have been actually deposited in the warehouse, the importer shall further enter the same, or any part thereof, for home use or for exportation, as from the warehouse, the goods so entered shall be considered as virtually and constructively warehoused, though not actually deposited in the warehouse, and shall and may be delivered and taken for home use or for exportation, as the case may be.

And after reciting that it is expedient to make regulations for the removal of warehoused goods from one warehousing port to another, and from one warehouse to another in the same port;—

It is Enacted,

XXV. That any goods which have been warehoused at some port in the United Kingdom may be removed by sea or inland carriage to any other port in the same in which the like goods may be warehoused upon importation, to be re-warehoused at such other port, and again as often as may be required to any other such port, to be there re-warehoused, subject to the regulations hereinafter mentioned; that is to say, twelve hours' notice in writing of the intention to remove such goods shall be given to the warehouse officer, specifying the particular goods intended to be removed, and the marks, numbers, and description of the packages in which the same are contained, in what ship imported, when and by whom entered inwards to be re-warehoused, and if subsequently re-warehoused when and by whom re-warehoused, and to what ports the same are to be re-warehoused; and thereupon the warehouse officer shall take a particular account of such goods, and shall mark the contents on every package in preparation for the delivering of the same for the purposes of such removal, and previous to the delivery thereof by cause the proper seals of office to be affixed thereto: Provided always, that tobacco, the produce of the British possessions in America, or of the United States of America, and purchased for the use of Her Majesty's navy, may be removed by the purser of any ship of war in actual service to the ports of Rochester, Portsmouth, or Plymouth, to be there re-warehoused, in the name of such purser, in such warehouse as shall be approved for that purpose by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

XXVI. That before such goods shall be delivered to be removed due entry of the same shall be made, and a proper bill of such entry, with duplicates thereof, be delivered to the collector or comptroller, containing the before-mentioned particulars, and an exact account of the quantities of the different sorts of goods; and such bill of entry, signed by the collector and comptroller, shall be the warrant for the removal of such goods; and an account of such goods, containing all such particulars, shall be transmitted by the proper officers of the port of removal to the proper officers of the port of destination; and upon the arrival of such goods at the port of destination due entry of the same to be re-warehoused shall in like manner be made with the collector and comptroller at such port, containing all the particulars and accounts before mentioned, together with the name of the port from which such goods have been removed, and the description and situation of the warehouse in which they are to be warehoused; and the bill of such entry, signed by such collector and comptroller, shall be the warrant to the landing officer and the warehouse officer to admit such goods, to be there re-warehoused, under such examination as is made of the like goods when first warehoused upon importation from parts beyond the seas; and the particulars to be contained in such notice and in such entries shall be written and arranged in such form and manner as the collector and comptroller shall require; and the officers at the port of arrival shall transmit to the officers at the port of removal an account of the goods so arrived, according as they shall upon examination prove to be, and the warehouse officers at the port of removal shall notify such arrival in their books.

XXVII. That the person removing such goods shall at the time of entering the same give bond, with one sufficient surety, for the due arrival and re-warehousing of such goods, within a reasonable time, with reference to distance between the respective ports, to be fixed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, which bond may be taken by the collector and comptroller either of the port of removal or of the port of destination, as shall best suit the residence or convenience of the persons interested in the removal of such goods; and if such bond shall have been given at the port of destination, a certificate thereof, under the hands of the collector and comptroller of such port, shall, at the time of entering such goods, be produced to the collector or comptroller at the port of removal.

XXVIII. That such bond shall not be discharged unless such goods shall have been duly re-warehoused at the port of destination within the time allowed for such removal, or shall have been otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners, nor until the full duties due upon any deficiency of such goods shall have been paid, nor until fresh security shall have been given in respect of such goods in manner hereinafter provided, unless such goods shall have been lodged in some warehouse in respect of which general security shall have been given by the proprietor or occupier thereof, or in some warehouse in respect of which no security is required.

XXIX. That such goods when so re-warehoused may be entered and shipped for exportation, or entered, and delivered for home use, as the like goods may be when first warehoused upon importation, and the time when such goods shall be allowed to remain re-warehoused at such port shall be reckoned from the day when the same were first entered to be warehoused.

XXX. That if upon the arrival of such goods at the port of destination the parties shall be desirous forthwith to export the same, or to pay duty thereon for home use, without actually lodging the same in the warehouse for which they have been entered and examined to be re-warehoused, it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs at such port, after all the formalities of entering and examining such goods for re-warehousing have been duly performed, except the actual labour of carrying and lodging the same in the warehouse, to consider the same as virtually or constructively re-warehoused, and to permit the same to be entered and shipped for exportation, or to be entered and delivered for home use, upon payment of the duties due thereon, in like manner as if such goods had been actually so carried and lodged in such warehouse; and the account taken for the re-warehousing of such goods may serve as the account for delivering the same as if from the warehouse either for shipment or for payment of duties, as the case may be; and all goods so exported, or for which the duties have been so paid, shall be deemed to have been duly cleared from the warehouse.

XXXI. That any goods which have been warehoused in some warehouse in the port of London may, with the permission of the Commissioners of Customs first obtained, be removed to any other warehouse in the said port in which the like goods may be warehoused on importation; and any goods which have been warehoused in some warehouse in any other port may, with the permission of the collector and comptroller of such port first obtained, be removed to any other warehouse in the same port in which the like goods may be warehoused on importation, under such general regulations as the Commissioners of Customs shall direct.

XXXII. That all goods which shall have been removed from one warehouse for or to another, whether in the same port or in a different port, and all proprietors of such goods, shall be held subject in all respects to all the conditions to which they would have been held subject if such goods had remained in the warehouse where the same had been originally warehoused.

XXXIII. That if any goods shall have been warehoused in any warehouse in respect of which general security by bond hereinbefore provided shall not have been given by the proprietor or occupier of such warehouse, and particular security in such case is required, shall have been given by the importer of such goods in respect of the same, and such goods shall have been sold or disposed of, so that the original bondholder shall be no longer interested in or have controul over such goods, it shall be lawful for the proper officers to admit fresh security to be given, by the bond of the new proprietor of such goods or persons having the controul over the same, with his sufficient surety, and to cancel the bond given by the original bondholder of such goods, or to exonerate him and his surety to the extent of the fresh security so given.

XXXIV. That if the person removing any goods from one port to another, and who shall have given bond in respect of such removal and re-warehousing, shall be and shall continue to be interested in such goods after the same shall have been duly re-warehoused, and such goods shall have been so re-warehoused in some warehouse in respect of which security is required, and the proprietor or occupier of the same shall not have given general security, the bond in respect of such removal and re-warehousing shall be void.

housing shall be conditioned and continue in force for the re-warehousing such goods until fresh bond be given by some new proprietor or other person in manner hereinbefore provided.

XXXV. That it shall be lawful in the warehouse to sort, separate, pack and re-pack any goods, and to make such lawful alterations therein or arrangements thereof as may be necessary either for the preservation of such goods, or in order to the sale, shipment, or legal disposal of the same; provided that such goods be re-packed in the same packages in which the same goods, or some part of the whole quantity of the same parcel of goods, were imported, or in packages of entire quantity equal thereto, or in such other packages as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall permit (not being less in any case, if the goods be to be exported or to be removed to another warehouse, than may be required by law for the importation of such goods); and also in the warehouse to draw off any wine or any rum of the British plantations into reputed quart bottles or reputed pint bottles, for the purpose only of being exported from the warehouse; and also in the warehouse to draw off any such rum into casks, containing not less than twenty gallons each, for the purpose only of being disposed of as stores for ships; and also in the warehouse to draw off any other spirits into reputed quart bottles, under such regulations as the Commissioners of Customs shall from time to time direct, for the purpose only of being exported from the warehouse; and also in the warehouse to draw off and mix with any wine any brandy, secured in the same warehouse, not exceeding the proportion of ten gallons of brandy to one hundred gallons of wine; and also in the warehouse to fill up any casks of wine or spirits from any other casks of the same, respectively secured in the same warehouse; and also in any warehouse of special security to rack off any wine from the lees, and in such warehouse to mix any wines of the same sort, erasing from the casks all import brands; and also in the warehouse to take such moderate samples of goods as may be allowed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, without entry and without payment of duty, except as the same may eventually become payable as on a deficiency of the original quantity.

XXXVI. Provided and enacted, That no alteration shall be made in any such goods or packages, nor shall any such wine, rum, brandy, or spirits be bottled, drawn off, mixed, or filled up, nor shall any such samples be taken, except after such notices given by the respective importers or proprietors, and at such times and in such manner, and under such regulations and restrictions, as the Commissioners of Customs shall from time to time require and direct.

And after reciting that it may happen that after the re-packing into proper packages of any parcel of goods which have been unpacked and separated or drawn off from the original package, in any of the cases hereinbefore provided for, there may remain some surplus quantities of the respective parcels of such goods which may not be sufficient to make or fill up any one of such proper packages, or it may happen that some part of such goods when separated from other parts may be such refuse, or in so damaged a state, as to be worthless, or that the total quantity of such parcel of goods may be reduced by the separation of dirt or sediment, or by the dispersion of dust or otherwise: And that the duties payable on such goods may have been levied at a rate having regard to a just allowance for the state in which such goods are imported, and it is not proper that any manufacturing process should be performed in such warehouse to the detriment of the revenue;—

It is Enacted,

XXXVII. That after such goods have been so re-packed in proper packages, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Customs, at the request of the importer or proprietor of such goods, to cause or permit any such refuse, damages, or surplus goods not contained in any of such packages to be destroyed; and if the goods be such as may be delivered for home use the duties shall be immediately paid upon any part of such surplus as may remain, and the same shall be delivered for home use accordingly; and if they be such as may not be so delivered such surplus as may so remain shall be disposed of for the purpose of exportation in such manner as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall direct; and thereupon the quantity contained in each of such proper packages shall be ascertained and marked upon the same; and the deficiency shall be ascertained by a comparison of the total quantity in such proper packages with the total quantity first warehoused, and the proportion which such deficiency may bear to the quantity in each package shall also be marked on the same and added to such quantity, and the total shall be deemed to be the imported contents of such package, and be held subject to the full duties of importation, except as otherwise in any case provided by this Act: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to except the abandonment for the duties of any quantity of tobacco or coffee, or pepper or cocoa, or lees of wine, and also of any whole packages of other goods, and to cause or permit the same to be destroyed, and to deduct such quantity of tobacco or coffee, or pepper or cocoa, or the contents of such whole packages, from the total quantity of the same importations in computing the amount of the deficiency of such total quantity.

XXXVIII. That no foreign casks, bottles, corks, packages, or materials whatever, except any in which some goods shall have been imported and warehoused, shall be used in the re-packing of any goods in the warehouse, unless the full duties shall have been first paid thereon.

XXXIX. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to permit any goods to be taken out of warehouse for any such purpose as may appear to them to be expedient, under such regulations and restrictions as they may think fit to direct, without payment of duty of Customs, under security, nevertheless, by bond to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners, that such regulations and restrictions shall be duly complied with, and that such goods shall be returned to the warehouse within such time as they shall appoint.

XL. That no parcels of goods so warehoused, which were imported in bulk, shall be delivered, except in the whole quantity of each parcel, or in a quantity not less than one ton weight, unless by special leave of the proper officers of Customs.

XLI. That no goods so warehoused shall be delivered unless the same, or the packages containing the same, shall have been marked in such distinguishing manner as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall deem necessary and practicable, and shall from time to time direct.

XLII. That upon the application to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs of any person actually carrying on the business of a sugar refiner in the ports of London, Liverpool, Bristol, Hull, Greenock, or Glasgow, or any other port to be approved of by any three of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs by their order to approve of such premises as bonded sugar houses for the refining of sugar for exportation only, on it being made appear to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners that the said premises are fit in every respect for receiving such sugars, and wherein the same may be safely deposited.

XLIII. That on the approval of any premises as bonded sugar houses as aforesaid it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs at the ports respectively where such premises are situated to deliver, without payment of duty, to the party or parties so applying as aforesaid, on entry with the proper officer of Customs, any quantity of foreign sugar, or of sugar the produce of any British possession, for the purpose of being there refined under the locks of the Crown for exportation only; and that all sugars so delivered shall be lodged and secured in such premises, under such conditions, regulations, and restrictions as the said Commissioners shall from time to time direct; provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, by their order, to revoke or alter any former order of approval of any such premises.

XLIV. That upon the entry of the sugar to be refined in any premises approved of under the authority of this Act, the refiner on whose premises the same is to be refined shall give bond to the satisfaction of the officers of the Customs, in the penalty of double the amount of the duty payable upon a like quantity of sugar of the British plantations, with a condition that the whole of such sugar shall be actually subjected to the process of refinement upon the said premises, and that within four months from the date of such bond the whole of the refined sugar and treacle produced by such process shall be either duly exported from the said premises or delivered into an approved bonded warehouse, under the locks of the Crown, for the purpose of being eventually exported to foreign parts.

And after reciting that some sorts of goods are liable in time to decrease, and some to increase, and some to fluctuation of quantity, by the effect of the atmosphere and other natural causes, and it may be necessary in some cases that the duties should not be charged upon the deficiency arising from such causes;—

It is Enacted,

XLV. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to make regulations for ascertaining the amount of such decrease or increase of the quantity of any particular sorts of goods, and to direct in what proportion any abatement of duty payable under this Act for deficiencies shall be made on account of any such decrease: Provided always, that if such goods be lodged in warehouses of special security, or declared in the order of appointment to be of special security, no duty shall be charged for any amount whatever of deficiency of any of such goods on the exportation thereof, except in cases where suspicion shall arise that part of such goods has been clandestinely conveyed away, nor shall any such goods (unless they be wine or spirits) be measured, counted, weighed, or gauged for exportation, except in such cases of suspicion.

XLVI. Provided and enacted, That for any wine, spirits, coffee, cocoa nuts, or pepper, lodged in warehouses not being or being declared to be of special security, the following allowances for natural waste, in proportion to the time during which any such goods shall have remained in the warehouse, shall be made upon the exportation thereof, according as such allowances are hereinafter respectively set forth: (that is to say,)

Wine, upon every cask; (videlicet,)

For any time not exceeding one year, one gallon:

For any time exceeding one year and not exceeding two years, two gallons:

For any time exceeding two years, three gallons:

Spirits, upon every one hundred gallons hydrometer proof; (videlicet,)

For any time not exceeding six months, one gallon:

For any time exceeding six months and not exceeding twelve months, two gallons:

For any time exceeding twelve months and not exceeding eighteen months, three gallons:

For any time exceeding eighteen months and not exceeding two years, four gallons:

For any time exceeding two years, five gallons:

Coffee, cocoa nuts, pepper, for every 100*l.*, and so in proportion for any less quantity, 2*l.*

XLVII. That in case it shall at any time happen that any embezzlement, waste, spoil, or destruction shall be made of or in any goods or merchandise which shall be warehoused in warehouses under the authority of this Act, by or through any wilful misconduct of any officer or officers of Customs or Excise, such officer or officers shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and shall upon conviction suffer such punishment as may be inflicted by law in cases of misdemeanour; and if such officer shall be so prosecuted to conviction by the importer, consignee, or proprietor of the goods or merchandise so embezzled, wasted, spoiled, or destroyed, then and in such case no duty of Customs or Excise shall be payable for or in respect of such goods or merchandise so embezzled, wasted, spoiled, or destroyed, and no forfeiture or seizure shall take place of any goods and merchandise so warehoused in respect of any deficiency caused by such embezzlement, waste, spoil, or destruction, and the damage occasioned by such embezzlement, waste, spoil, or destruction of such goods or merchandise, not being occasioned by fire, shall be repaid and made good to such importer, consignee, or proprietor, by the Commissioners of Customs or Excise, under such orders, regulations, and directions as shall be for that purpose made and given by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three of them.

And after reciting that it is expedient to make regulations for the exporting of such goods to parts beyond the seas as have been imported into the United Kingdom from parts beyond the seas, and warehoused without payment of any duty on the importation thereof, or notwithstanding that the same may be prohibited to be used in the United Kingdom;—

It is Enacted,

XLVIII. That upon the entry outwards of any goods to be exported from the warehouse to parts beyond the seas, and before cocket be granted, the person in whose name the same shall be entered shall give security by bond in double the amount of duty payable by law upon the importation of such goods, with one sufficient surety, that such goods shall be duly shipped and exported, and shall be landed at the place for which they be entered outwards, or otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

XLIX. That all goods taken from the warehouse for removal or for exportation shall be removed, or shall be carried to be shipped, under the care or with the authority or permission of the proper officer of Customs, and in such manner, and by such persons, and within such spaces of time, and by such roads or ways, as the proper officer of Customs shall authorize, permit, or direct, and all such goods not so removed or carried shall be forfeited.

L. That it shall not be lawful for any person to export any goods so warehoused, nor to enter for exportation to parts beyond the seas any goods so warehoused, in any ship which shall not be of the burden of sixty tons or upwards.

LI. That all goods or merchandise which shall be landed in docks, and lodged in the custody of the proprietors of the said docks under the provisions of this Act, not being goods seized as forfeited to Her Majesty, shall when so landed continue and be subject or liable to such and the same claim for freight in favour of the master, owner or owners, of the respective ships or vessels, or of any other person or persons interested in the freight of the same, from or out of which such goods or merchandise shall be so landed, as such goods, wares, or merchandise respectively were subject and liable to whilst the same were on board such ships or vessels, and before the landing thereof; and the directors and proprietors of any such docks at or in which any such goods or merchandise may be landed and lodged as aforesaid, or their servants or agents, or any of them, shall and may and they are hereby authorized, empowered, and required, upon due notice in that behalf given to them by such master or masters, owner or owners, or other persons as aforesaid, to detain and keep such goods and merchandise, not being seized as forfeited to Her Majesty, in the warehouses belonging to the said docks as aforesaid, until the respective freights to which the same shall be subject and liable as aforesaid shall be duly paid or satisfied, together with the rates and charges to which the same shall have been subject and liable, or until a deposit shall have been made by the owner or owners or consignee or consignees of such goods or merchandise, equal in amount to the claim or demands made by the master, owner or owners, of the respective ships or vessels or other persons as aforesaid, for or on account of freight upon such goods or merchandise, which deposit the said directors or proprietors of such docks, or their agents respectively, are hereby authorized and directed to receive and hold in trust, until the claim or demand for freight upon such goods shall have been satisfied, upon proof of which, and demand made by the person or persons, their executors, administrators, or assigns, by whom the said deposit shall have been made, and the rates and charges due upon the said goods being first paid, the said deposit shall be returned to him or them by the said directors or proprietors, or their agents on their behalf, with whom the said deposit shall have been made as aforesaid.

LII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. XCII.

AN ACT to grant certain Bounties and Allowances of Customs.

(4th August 1845.)

---

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Commencement of Act.
2. Bounties allowed upon the exportation of refined sugar.
3. Bond to be given for the due exportation.
4. Candy in packages of half hundred weight.
5. Sugar crashed for exportation.
6. Different sorts of crashed sugar to be kept separate.
7. Sample loaves to be provided.—Proviso for double refined sugar.—Proviso for patent sugar.
8. Sugar entered not equal to the standard shall be forfeited.
9. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 58, whereby the laws of Customs in relation to bounties and allowances of customs were consolidated: And that, since the passing of the said Act, divers parts of Acts for the further amendment of the law in that respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country at the said Act and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and operation, for all the purposes mentioned therein, except where any other commencement is herein particularly directed.

II. That so long as the duties due and payable upon the importation of sugar shall be continued there shall be allowed upon the exportation of refined sugar made in the United Kingdom the several bounties set forth in the table hereinafter contained, that is to say,)

Upon double refined Sugar, or Sugar equal in quality to double refined, for every hundred weight . . . . .	£. s. d. 1 0 0
Upon other refined Sugar, in loaf, complete and whole, or lumps duly refined, having been perfectly clarified and thoroughly dried in the stove, and being of an uniform whiteness throughout, or such Sugar pounded, crashed, or broken, and Sugar Candy, for every hundred weight . . . . .	0 17 0
Upon bastard or refined Sugar broken in pieces, or being ground or powdered Sugar, or such Sugar pounded, crashed, or broken, for every hundred weight . . . . .	0 14 0

III. That the exporter of any goods in respect of which any bounty is claimed under this Act, or the person in whose name the same are entered outwards, shall at the time of entry, and before cocket be granted, give security by bond in double the amount of such bounty, with one sufficient surety, that the same shall be duly exported to the place for which they are entered, or be otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and shall not be re-landed in the United Kingdom, or landed in the Isle of Man unless expressly entered to be carried thereto.

IV. That no bounty shall be given upon the exportation of any refined sugar called candy unless it be properly refined and manufactured, and free from dirt and scum, and packed in packages each of which shall contain half a hundred weight of such candy at the least.

V. That if any sugar in lumps or loaves is to be pounded, crashed, or broken before the same be exported for the bounty payable thereon, such lumps or loaves shall, after due entry thereof, be lodged in some warehouse provided by the exporter, and approved by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs for such purpose, to be then first examined by the officers of Customs while in such lumps or loaves as if for immediate shipment, and afterwards to be there pounded, crashed, or broken, and packed for exportation in the presence of such officers and at the expense of the exporter; and such sugar shall be kept in such warehouse, and be removed from thence for shipment, and be shipped under the care and in the charge of the searchers, in order that the shipment and exportation thereof may be duly certified by them upon the debenture, according to the quality ascertained by them of the same while in such lumps or loaves.

VI. That the different sorts of such sugar shall be kept apart from each other, in such manner and in such distinct rooms or divisions of such warehouse as shall be directed and appointed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs; and if any sort of such sugar shall be found in any part of such warehouse appointed for the keeping of sugar of a sort superior in quality thereto the same shall be forfeited; and if any sort of such sugar shall be brought to such warehouse to be pounded, crashed, or broken, which shall be of a quality inferior to the sort of sugar expressed in the entry for the same, such sugar shall be forfeited.

VII. That there shall be provided by and at the expense of the committee of sugar refiners in London, and in like manner by and at the expense of the committee of merchants in Dublin, as many loaves of double refined sugar prepared in manner hereinafter directed, and as many loaves or lumps of sugar made upon the patent principle, and equal in quality to double refined sugar, as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall think necessary; which loaves or lumps, when approved of by the said Commissioners, shall be deemed and taken to be standard samples; one of which loaves or lumps shall be lodged with the said committees respectively, and one other with such person or persons as the said Commissioners shall direct, for the purpose of comparing therewith double refined sugar, or sugar equal in quality to double refined sugar, entered for exportation for the bounty; and fresh standard samples shall in like manner be again furnished by such committees respectively, and in like manner lodged, whenever it may be deemed expedient by the said Commissioners: Provided always, that no loaf of sugar shall be deemed to be a proper sample loaf of double refined sugar as aforesaid, if it be of greater weight than fourteen pounds, nor unless it be a loaf complete and whole, nor unless the same shall have been made by a distinct second process of refinement from a quantity of single refined sugar, every part of which had first been perfectly clarified and duly refined, and had been made into loaves or lumps which were of an uniform whiteness throughout, and had been thoroughly dried in the stove: Provided also, that no loaf or lump of sugar shall be deemed to be a proper sample loaf or lump of sugar equal to double refined, unless it be a loaf or lump complete, nor unless the same shall have been prepared after the patent principle.

VIII. That in case any sugar which shall be entered in order to obtain the bounty on double refined sugar or sugar equal in quality to double refined sugar shall, on examination by the proper officer, be found to be of a quality not equal to such standard sample, all sugar so entered shall be forfeited and may be seized.

IX. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

And if any goods shall be imported into any port or place in any of the said possessions contrary hereto, such goods shall be forfeited: Provided always, that if Her Majesty shall deem it expedient to extend the provisions of this Act to any port or ports not enumerated in the said table, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, to extend the provisions of this Act to such port or ports; and from and after the day mentioned in such Order in Council all the privileges and advantages of this Act, and all the provisions, penalties, and forfeitures therein contained (subject nevertheless to the limitations and restrictions hereinafter provided) shall extend, and be deemed and construed to extend, to any such port or ports respectively, as fully as if the same had been inserted and enumerated in the said table at the time of passing this Act: Provided also, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall extend to prohibit the importation or exportation of goods into or from any ports or places in Newfoundland or Labrador in British ships: Provided also, that it shall be lawful to import from the islands of Guernsey and Jersey in British ships into any port or place in the British possessions in North America, at or from whence the British fisheries in North America are carried on, any sort of craft, food, victuals (except spirits), and any sort of clothing and implements and materials fit and necessary for the said fisheries, although such port or place be not a free port.

And after reciting that there are in the said possessions many places situated in rivers and in bays at which it may be necessary to establish ports for particular and limited purposes only;—

It is Enacted,

III. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, in any Order in Council made for the appointment of any free port, to limit and confine such appointments respectively to any and such purposes only as shall be expressed in such order.

And after reciting that by the law of navigation foreign ships are permitted to import into any of the British possessions in Asia, Africa, or America, from the countries to which they belong, goods the produce of those countries, and to export goods from such possessions to be carried to any foreign country whatever: And that it is expedient that such permission should be subject to certain conditions;—

It is Enacted,

iv. That the privileges thereby granted to foreign ships shall be limited to the ships of those countries which, having colonial possessions, shall grant the like privileges of trading with those possessions to British ships, or which, not having colonial possessions, shall place the commerce and navigation of this country, and of its possessions abroad, upon the footing of the most favoured nation, unless Her Majesty, by her Order in Council, shall in any case deem it expedient to grant the whole or any of such privileges to the ships of any foreign country, although the conditions aforesaid shall not in all respects be fulfilled by such foreign country: Provided always, that no foreign country shall be deemed to have fulfilled the before-mentioned conditions, or to be entitled to the privileges aforesaid, unless and until Her Majesty shall, by some order or orders by her made or to be made by the advice of her Privy Council, have declared that such foreign country hath so fulfilled the said conditions, and is entitled to the said privileges.

v. That nothing contained in this Act, or in any other Act passed in the present session of Parliament, shall extend to repeal or in any way alter or affect an Act, 4 Geo. 4. c. 77, intituled, 'An Act to authorize his Majesty, under certain circumstances, to regulate the Duties and Drawbacks on Goods imported or exported in Foreign Vessels, and to exempt certain Foreign Vessels from Pilotage,' nor to repeal or in any way alter or affect an Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 50, among other things, to amend the last-mentioned Act; and that all trade and intercourse between the British possessions and all foreign countries shall be subject to the powers granted to his said late Majesty by those Acts.

vi. That the several sorts of goods enumerated or described in the table following, denominated "A Table of Prohibitions and Restrictions," are hereby prohibited to be imported or brought, either by sea or by inland carriage or navigation, into the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, or shall be so imported or brought only under the restrictions mentioned in such table, according as the several sorts of such goods are set forth therein; (that is to say),

A TABLE OF PROHIBITIONS AND RESTRICTIONS.

Gunpowder,
Ammunition, Arms, or Utensils of War,

[Prohibited to be imported, except from the United Kingdom, or from some other British Possession.]

Coffee

Sugar (not being refined in Bond in the United Kingdom)

Molasses

Rum

} Being the Produce or Manufacture of any British Possession within the Limits of the East India Company's Charter (except and subject as hereinafter is provided), or, being of Foreign Produce or Manufacture.

[Prohibited to be imported into any of the British Possessions on the Continent of South America or in the West Indies (the Bahama and Bermuda Islands not included), or into the Mauritius, except to be warehoused for Exportation only, and may also be prohibited to be imported into the Bahama or Bermuda Islands by Her Majesty's Order in Council.]

Base or Counterfeit Coin,

[Prohibited to be imported.]

And if any goods shall be imported or brought into any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius contrary to any of the prohibitions or restrictions mentioned in such table in respect of such goods, the same shall be forfeited; and if the ship or vessel in which such goods shall be imported be of less burden than sixty tons, such ship or vessel shall also be forfeited.

vii. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful to import into any British possessions in the West Indies and South America, and into the Mauritius, any coffee the produce of any British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, and also any sugar the produce of any British possession within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, into which the importation of sugar the produce of any foreign country, or of any British possession into which foreign sugar may be legally imported, has been prohibited, and also any rum the produce of any British possession within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, into which the importation of rum the produce of any foreign country, or of any British possession into which foreign sugar or rum may be legally imported, has been prohibited: Provided nevertheless, that no such coffee, sugar, or rum shall be entered in any British possession in the West Indies or South America, or in the Island of Mauritius, as being the produce of any British possession within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, from which the same may be so legally imported, unless the master of the ship importing the same shall have delivered to the collector or principal officer of the Customs at the port of importation such certificate of origin as hereinafter is mentioned, under the hand and seal of the proper officer of the place where the same shall have been taken on board; and such master shall also make and subscribe a declaration before the proper officer of the Customs that such certificate was received by him at the place where such coffee, sugar, or rum was taken on board, and that the coffee, sugar, or rum so imported is the same as is mentioned therein; and such certificate of origin shall, as regards coffee, certify that a declaration in writing had been made and signed before the officer giving such certificate, the contents of which he believed to be true, by the shipper of such coffee, that the same was really and bona fide the produce of some British possession; and such certificate of origin shall, as respects sugar, state the name of the district in which such sugar was produced, the quantity and quality thereof, the number and denomination of the packages containing the same, and the name of the ship in which they were laden, and of the master thereof, and the officer giving the same; the shipper of such sugar shall likewise certify that there had been produced a certificate under the hand and seal of the collector or assistant collector of the Land or Customs Revenue of the district within which such sugar was produced, that such sugar was of the produce of such district, and that the importation into such district of foreign sugar, or sugar the growth of any British possession into which foreign sugar can be legally imported, is prohibited; and such certificate of origin shall, as respects rum, state the name of the district in which such rum was produced, the quantity and strength thereof, the number and denomination of the packages containing the same, and the name of the ship in which they were laden, and of the master thereof, and shall also testify that there had been produced to the party giving such certificate, by the shipper of such rum, a certificate under the hand and seal of the collector or assistant collector of the Land or Customs Revenue of the district within which such rum was produced, that the same was the production of such district.

VIII. That all coffee, sugar, molasses, and rum (although the same may be of British plantations) exported from any of the British possessions in America, into which the like goods of foreign production can be legally imported, shall, upon subsequent importation from thence into any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, into which such goods, being of foreign production cannot be legally imported, or into the United Kingdom, be deemed to be of foreign production, and shall be liable, on such importation respectively, to the same duties or the same forfeitures as articles of the like description, being of foreign production, would be liable to, unless the same shall have been warehoused under the provisions of this Act, and exported from the warehouse direct to such other British possession, or to the United Kingdom, as the case may be.

ix. That any books wherein the copyright shall be subsisting, first composed or written or printed in the United Kingdom, and printed or reprinted in any other country, shall be and are hereby absolutely prohibited to be imported into the British possessions abroad: Provided always, that no such books shall be prohibited to be imported as aforesaid unless the proprietor of such copyright, or his agent, shall have given notice in writing to the Commissioners of Customs that such copyright subsists, and in such notice, shall have stated when the copyright will expire; and the said Commissioners shall cause to be made, and to be publicly exposed at the several ports in the British possessions abroad, from time to time, printed lists of books respecting which such notice shall have been duly given, and all books imported contrary thereto shall be forfeited.

x. That if any articles of foreign manufacture, and any packages of such articles bearing any names, brands, or marks of manufacturers resident in the United Kingdom, shall be imported into any of the British possessions abroad, the same shall be forfeited.

xi. That there shall be raised, levied, collected, and paid unto Her Majesty the several duties of Customs, as the same are respectively set forth in figures in the table of duties hereinafter contained, upon goods, wares, and merchandise not being the growth, production, or manufacture of the United Kingdom, or of any of the British possessions in America, or of the Mauritius, or of any of the British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, or the produce of any of the British fisheries imported or brought into any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, by sea or inland carriage or navigation.

as shall be imported for the use of the British fisheries in America into any place at or from whence any such fishery is carried on.

XII. That the Commissioners of Customs, or the principal officer of Customs at the place of importation, shall make and establish such regulations as may be necessary for the purpose of ascertaining that such articles as last aforesaid are bond fide intended to be applied to the use of such fisheries, or that such provisions and stores as aforesaid are bond fide imported or supplied for the use of Her Majesty's land and sea forces.

XIII. That there shall be raised, levied, collected, and paid unto Her Majesty a duty of 10*l.* for every 100*l.* of the value upon sugar refined in bond in the United Kingdom, not being of the growth of any of the British possessions in America or of the Mauritius, or of any of the British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, imported into any of the British possessions in America or into the Mauritius.

XIV. That all goods, wares, and merchandise, the property of the Crown, shall, in case of the sale thereof after importation into any of the British possessions abroad, be liable to and be charged with such and the same duties of Customs as may by law be payable or charged on the like goods, wares, and merchandise, not being the property of the Crown.

XV. That if in any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius any duty be chargeable by any colonial law upon any articles being the growth, produce, or manufacture of the United Kingdom, or of the British possessions in America, or the Mauritius, or of the British possessions within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, or the produce of the British fisheries, beyond the duty (if any) chargeable by such colonial law upon similar foreign articles, a duty equal to such excess or amount (as the case may be) of the duties so chargeable by such colonial law upon such British articles shall be charged under this Act upon such foreign articles, in addition to the imperial duties (if any) hereby imposed thereon; and that if in any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius any duty be chargeable by any colonial law upon tea imported direct from China, or imported from the United Kingdom, or any of the British possessions, beyond the duty (if any) chargeable by such colonial law upon tea not so imported, the imperial duty hereby imposed upon tea not so imported shall be increased by such excess or amount (as the case may be) of the duties so chargeable by such colonial law upon tea imported direct from China, or imported from the United Kingdom, or from any of the British possessions.

XVI. That it shall and may be lawful for Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, by any Order or Orders in Council to be issued from time to time, to direct that any article described in such order, being an article chargeable under this Act as an unenumerated article, with a duty of 4*l.* per cent. ad valorem, shall be added to the lists of exemptions hereinbefore set forth, and shall be free from such duty, and from and after the time mentioned in such order for the commencement of such exemption, not being less than six months from the date thereof, such exemption shall take effect, and such article shall thenceforth, whilst such order shall continue in force, be free from such duty accordingly; and any such order may at any time be suspended or revoked by Her Majesty, with the advice of Her Privy Council, by any other Order in Council.

XVII. That all sums of money granted or payable under this Act as duties, penalties, or forfeitures in the British possessions in America or the Mauritius shall be deemed and are hereby declared to be sterling money of Great Britain, and shall be collected, recovered, and paid to the amount of the value which such nominal sums bear in Great Britain, and such money may be received and taken in sterling money of Great Britain, or in foreign coins at such rates as shall be equivalent to sterling money of Great Britain, and which shall have been fixed by any proclamation issued by Her Majesty; and all duties under this Act shall be paid and received in every part of the British possessions in America and in the Mauritius according to the imperial weights and measures now by law established; and in all cases where such duties are imposed according to any specific quantity or any specific value, the same shall be deemed to apply in the same proportion to any greater or less quantity or value; and all such duties shall be under the management of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

XVIII. That the net produce of the duties so received by the means and powers of this Act shall be paid by the collector of the Customs into the hands of the treasurer or receiver general of the colony, or other proper officer authorized to receive the same in the colony in which the same shall be levied, to be applied to such uses as shall be directed by the local legislatures of such colonies respectively; and that the produce of such duties so received as aforesaid in the colonies which have no local legislature shall and may be applied in such manner as shall be directed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

XIX. That goods the produce or manufacture of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, when imported from such islands into the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, shall be admitted to entry upon payment of the same duties as are payable upon the like goods the produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom, or of any of the said possessions, upon production to the principal officer of Customs at the port of importation of the proofs now required by law that such goods are the production or manufacture of the islands aforesaid.

And after reciting that in some of Her Majesty's possessions abroad certain duties of tonnage are, by Acts of the local legislatures of such possessions, made payable in respect of or are levied upon British vessels, to which duties the like vessels built within such possessions, or owned by persons resident there, are not subject;—

It is Enacted,

xx. That there shall be levied and paid at the several British possessions abroad upon all vessels built in any such possessions, or owned by any person or persons there resident, other than coasting or drogueing vessels employed in coasting or drogueing, all such and the like duties of tonnage and shipping as are or shall be payable in any such possessions upon the like British vessels built in other parts of Her Majesty's dominions, or owned by persons not resident in such possessions.

xxi. That the master of every ship arriving in any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, whether laden or in ballast, shall come directly, and before bulk be broken, to the custom house for the port or district where he arrives, and there make a report in writing to the collector or comptroller, or other proper officer, of the arrival and voyage, of such ship, stating her name, country, and tonnage, and, if British, the port of registry, the name and country of the master, the country of the owners, the number of the crew, and how many are of the country of such ship, and whether she be laden or in ballast, and, if laden, the marks, numbers, and contents of every package and parcel of goods on board, and where the same was laden, and where and to whom consigned, and where any and what goods, if any, had been unladen during the voyage, as far as any such particulars can be known to him; and the master shall further answer all such questions concerning the ship and cargo, and the crew and the voyage, as shall be demanded of him by such officer; and if any goods be unladen from any ship before such report be made, or if the master fail to make such report, or make an untrue report, or do not truly answer the questions demanded of him, he shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*, and if any goods be not reported such goods shall be forfeited.

xxii. That the master of every ship bound from any British possession abroad, except the territories subject to the government of the Presidencies of Fort William in Bengal, Fort St. George, and Bombay, shall, before any goods be laden therein, deliver to the collector or comptroller, or other proper officer, an entry outwards under his hand of the destination of such ship, stating her name, country, and tonnage, and, if British, the port of registry, the name and country of the master, the country of the owners, the number of the crew, and how many are of the country of such ship; and if any goods be laden on board any ship before such entry be made the master of such ship shall forfeit the sum of 50*l.*; and before such ship depart, the master shall bring and deliver to the collector or comptroller, or other proper officer, a content in writing under his hand of the goods laden, and the names of the respective shippers and consignees of the goods, with the marks and numbers of the packages or parcels of the same, and shall make and subscribe a declaration to the truth of such content as far as any of such particulars can be known to him; and the master of every ship bound from any such possession, whether in ballast or laden, shall, before departure, come before the collector or comptroller, or other proper officer, and answer all such questions concerning the ship and the cargo, if any, and the crew and the voyage, as shall be demanded of him by such officer; and thereupon the collector and comptroller, or other proper officer, if such ship be laden, shall make out and give to the master a certificate of the clearance of such ship for her intended voyage, containing an account of the total quantities of the several sorts of goods laden therein, or a certificate of her clearance in ballast, as the case may be; and if the ship shall depart without such clearance, or if the master shall deliver a false content, or shall not truly answer the questions demanded of him, he shall forfeit the sum of 100*l.*

xxiii. That no goods shall be stated in such certificate of clearance of any ship from any British possession to be the produce of such possession unless such goods shall have been expressly stated so to be in the entry outwards of the same, and that all goods not expressly stated in such certificate of clearance to be the produce of such possession shall, at the place of exportation in any other such possession or in the United Kingdom, be deemed to be of foreign production.

xxiv. That before any clearing officer permits any vessel wholly or in part laden with timber or wood goods to clear out from any British port in North America, or in the settlement of Honduras, for any port in the United Kingdom, at any time after the 1st of September, or before the 1st of May in any year, he shall ascertain that the whole of the cargo of such vessel below deck, and shall give the captain or other person having command of such vessel a certificate to that effect; and no captain or other person having command of any vessel so laden as aforesaid shall sail from any of the ports aforesaid for any port of the United Kingdom, at any such time as aforesaid, until he has obtained such a certificate as aforesaid from the clearing officer.

xxv. That no captain, owner, supercargo, or other person having command of any vessel in respect of which such certificate as aforesaid has been obtained shall place, or permit or cause to be placed or to remain or be, upon or above the deck of such vessel, any part of the cargo thereof, until such vessel has arrived at the port of her destination: Provided always, that if the captain, or other person having command of any such vessel, consider that it is necessary, in consequence of the springing a leak, or of other damage received or apprehended during the voyage, to remove any portion of the cargo upon deck, he may remove or cause to be removed upon the deck of such vessel so much of the cargo, and may permit the same to remain there for such time as he considers expedient: Provided also, that the store spars or other articles necessary for the vessel's use shall not be taken to be cargo for the purposes of this Act.

xxvi. That if any captain or other person having the command of any vessel for which such certificate as aforesaid is hereby required sails or attempts to sail without having obtained such certificate, or places or permits, or causes to be placed or to remain or be, upon or above the deck of such vessel, any part of the cargo thereof, except in the cases in which the same is not hereby forbidden, he shall for every offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 100*l*.

And after reciting that a treaty has been concluded between Her Majesty and the United States of America, dated the 9th of August 1842, whereby it is stipulated that all the produce of the forest in logs, lumber, timber, timber boards, staves, or shingles, or of agriculture not being manufactured, grown on any of those parts of the state of Maine watered by the river Saint John or by its tributaries, of which fact reasonable evidence shall, if required, be produced, shall have free access into and through the said river and its said tributaries, having their source within the state of Maine, to and from the seaport at the mouth of the river Saint John, and to and round the falls of the said river, either by boats, rafts, or other conveyance; and that when within the province of New Brunswick, the said produce shall be dealt with as if it were the produce of the said province: And that it is the intention of the high contracting parties to the said treaty that the aforesaid produce should be dealt with as if it were the produce of the province of New Brunswick;—

xxvii. That the produce in the said recited treaty and hereinbefore described shall, so far as regards all laws relating to duties, navigation, and Customs in force in the United Kingdom, or in any of Her Majesty's dominions, be deemed and taken to be and be dealt with as the produce of the province of New Brunswick: Provided, nevertheless, that in all cases in which declarations and certificates of production or origin and certificates of clearance would be required in respect of such produce, if it were the produce of New Brunswick, similar declarations and certificates shall be required in respect of such produce, and shall state the same to be the produce of those parts of the state of Maine which are watered by the river Saint John or by its tributaries.

xxviii. Provided and enacted, That whenever a ship shall be cleared out from any port in Newfoundland, or in any other part of Her Majesty's dominions, for the fisheries on the banks or coasts of Newfoundland or Labrador, or the dependencies thereof, without having on board any article of traffic, (except only such provisions, nets, tackle, and other things as are usually employed in and about the said fishery, and for the conduct and carrying on of the same,) the master of any such ship shall be entitled to demand from the collector or other principal officer of the Customs at such port a certificate under his hand that such ship hath been specially cleared out for the Newfoundland fishery, and such certificate shall be in force for the fishing season for the year in which the same may be granted, and no longer; and upon the first arrival in any port in the said colony of Newfoundland, or its dependencies, of any ship having on board any such certificate as aforesaid, a report thereof shall be made by the master of such ship to the principal officer of Customs at such port, and all ships having such certificate which has been so reported, and being actually engaged in the said fishery, or in carrying coastwise, to be landed or put on board any other ships engaged in the said fishery, any fish, oil, salt, provisions, or other necessities for the use and purposes thereof, shall be exempt from all obligation to make an entry at or obtain any clearance from any custom house at Newfoundland, upon arrival or departure from any of the ports or harbours of the said colony or its dependencies, during the continuance of the fishing season for which such certificate may have been granted; and previously to obtaining a clearance at the end of such season for any voyage at any of such ports the master of such ship shall deliver up the before-mentioned certificate to the principal officer of the Customs of such port: Provided always, that in case any such ship shall have on board during the time the same may be engaged in the said fishery any goods or merchandises whatsoever other than fish, seals, oil made of fish or seals, salt, provisions, and other things, being the produce of or usually employed in the said fishery, such ship shall forfeit the said fishing certificate, and shall thenceforth become and be subject and liable to all such and the same rules, restrictions, and regulations as ships in general are subject or liable to.

xxix. That no goods shall be laden or waterborne to be laden on board any ship, or unladen from any ship, in any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, until due entry shall have been made of such goods, and warrant granted for the lading or unlading of the same; and that no goods shall be laden or waterborne, or so unladen, except at some place at which an officer of the Customs is appointed to attend the lading and unlading of goods, or at some place for which a sufferance shall be granted by the collector and comptroller or other principal officer for the lading and unlading of such goods; and that no goods shall be so laden or unladen except in the presence or with the permission in writing of the proper officer: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs to make and appoint such other regulations for the carrying coastwise of any goods, or for the removing of any goods for shipment, as to them shall appear expedient; and that all goods laden, waterborne, or unladen contrary to the regulations of this Act, or contrary to any regulations so made and appointed, shall be forfeited.

xxx. That whenever it shall appear to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs expedient to establish a coasting trade for the removal of goods generally, or for the removal of any particular goods between neighbouring ports of different colonies similarly circumstanced in respect of duties in any of the British possessions abroad, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to issue directions for that purpose, and from and after the publication thereof in the Gazette, or other public paper printed in the said colonies to which such coasting trade has been extended, the same shall come into and be in full force and effect; and such coasting trade shall be subject to the like rules, regulations, penalties, and forfeitures as the said Commissioners are authorized to make for the carrying coastwise of any goods under the provisions of this Act.

XXXI. That the person entering any goods shall deliver to the collector or comptroller or other proper officer a bill of the entry thereof, fairly written in words at length, containing the name of the exporter or importer, and of the ship and of the master, and of the place to or from which bound, and of the place within the port where the goods are to be laden or unladen, and the particulars of the quality and quantity of the goods, and the packages containing the same, and the marks and numbers on the packages, and setting forth whether such goods be the produce of the British possessions in America or not, and shall also deliver at the same time one or more duplicates of such bill, in which all sums and numbers may be expressed in figures; and the particulars to be contained in such bill of entry shall be written and arranged in such form and manner, and the number of such duplicates shall be such, as the collector or other principal officer shall require, and such person shall at the same time pay down all duties due upon the goods; and the collector and comptroller or other proper officer shall thereupon grant their warrant for the lading or unlading of such goods.

XXXII. Provided and enacted, that where there is no collector or comptroller or officer of Customs at the port or place of shipment of such goods, then the principal civil officer in the service of Her Majesty at such place, or his sufficient representative, shall be deemed and taken to be the proper officer for the performance of all such duties with respect to such goods as are hereby required to be performed by the collector or other officer or officers of Customs.

XXXIII. That if the importer of any goods shall make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller or other proper officer that he cannot, for want of full information, make perfect entry thereof, it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller or other proper officer to receive an entry by bill of sight for the packages or parcels of such goods by the best description which can be given, and to grant a warrant thereupon, in order that the same may be landed and secured to the satisfaction of the officer of the Customs, and at the expense of the importer, and may be seen and examined by such importer in the presence of the proper officers; and within three days after the goods shall have been so landed the importer shall make a perfect entry thereof, and pay down all duties due thereon, and in default of such entry such goods shall be taken to the Queen's warehouse; and if the importer shall not, within one month after such landing, make perfect entry of such goods, and pay the duties due thereon, together with charges of removal and warehouse rent, such goods shall be sold for the payment thereof, and the overplus (if any) shall be paid to the proprietor of the goods.

XXXIV. That in all cases where the duties imposed by this Act upon the importation of articles into Her Majesty's possessions in America or the Mauritius are charged not according to the weight, tale, gauge, or measure, but according to the value thereof, such value shall be ascertained by the declaration of the importer of such articles, or his known agent, in manner and form following; (that is to say,)

I, A. B. do hereby declare, That the Articles mentioned in the Entry, and contained in the Packages [here specifying the several Packages, and describing the several Marks and Numbers, as the Case may be], are of the value of

'Witness my Hand the Day of

'A. B.

'The above Declaration signed the Day of in the Presence of C. D., Collector [or other principal Officer].'

which declaration shall be written on the bill of entry of such articles, and shall be subscribed with the hand of the importer thereof, or his known agent, in the presence of the collector or other principal officer of the Customs at the port of importation; provided that if upon view and examination of such articles by the proper officer of the Customs it shall appear to him that the said articles are not valued according to the true price or value thereof, and according to the true intent and meaning of this Act, then and in such case the importer or his known agent shall be required to declare on oath before the collector or comptroller what is the invoice price of such articles, and that he verily believes such invoice price is the current value of such articles at the place from whence the said articles were imported; and such invoice price, with the addition of 10% per cent thereon, shall be deemed to be the value of the articles, in lieu of the value so declared by the importer or his known agent, and upon which the duties imposed by this Act shall be charged and paid: Provided also, that if it shall appear to the collector and comptroller or other proper officer that such articles have been invoiced below the real and true value thereof at the place from whence the same were imported, or if the invoice price is not known, the articles shall in such case be valued by two competent persons, to be nominated and appointed by the governor or commander-in-chief of the colony, plantation, or island into which the said articles are imported; and such persons shall declare on oath before the collector or comptroller or other proper officer what is the true and real value of such articles in such colony, plantation, or island; and the value so declared on the oaths of such persons shall be deemed to be the true and real value of such articles, and upon which the duties imposed by this Act shall be charged and paid.

XXXV. That if the importer of such articles shall refuse to pay the duties hereby imposed thereon, it shall and may be lawful for the collector or other chief officer of the Customs where such articles shall be imported, and he is hereby required, to take and secure the same, with the casks or other package thereof, and to cause the same to be publicly sold within the space of twenty days at the most after such refusal made, and at such time and place as such officer shall, by four or more public notice, appoint for that purpose, which articles shall be sold to the best bidder; and the money arising from the sale thereof shall be applied in the first place in payment of the said duties, together with the charges that shall have been occasioned by the said sale, and the overplus, if any, shall be paid to such importer or proprietor, or any other person authorized to receive the same.

XXXVI. That every importer of any goods shall, within twenty days after the arrival of the importing ship, make due entry of such goods, and land the same; and in default of such entry and landing it shall be lawful for the officers of the Customs to convey such goods to the Queen's warehouse; and if the duties due upon such goods be not paid within three months after such twenty days shall have expired, together with all charges of removal and warehouse rent, the same shall be sold, and the produce thereof shall be applied first to the payment of freight and charges, next of duties, and the overplus, if any, shall be paid to the proprietor of the goods, or any other person authorized to receive the same.

XXXVII. That every act, matter, or thing required by any law at any time in force to be done or performed by, to, or with the collector and comptroller of Customs in any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad shall and may be done or performed at such ports or places where there is no comptroller of Customs by, to, or with the collector or other principal officer of Customs; and every such act, matter, or thing so done or performed by, to, or with such collector or other principal officer of Customs shall be as valid and effectual in law as if the same had been done and performed by, to, or with any collector and comptroller of Customs under any law now in force or hereafter to be made.

XXXVIII. That no goods shall be imported into any British possession as being imported from the United Kingdom, or from any other British possession (if any advantage attach to such distinction), unless such goods appear upon the cockets or other proper documents for the same to have been duly cleared outwards at the port of exportation in the United Kingdom, or in such other British possession, nor unless the ground upon which such advantage be claimed be stated in such cocket or document.

XXXIX. That no goods shall, upon importation into any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, be deemed to be of the growth, production, or manufacture of the United Kingdom, or of any British possession in America or the Mauritius respectively, unless imported from the United Kingdom, or from some British possession in America or the Mauritius respectively.

XL. That no entry nor any warrant for the landing of any goods, or for the taking of any goods out of any warehouse, shall be deemed valid, unless the particulars of the goods and packages in such entry shall correspond with the particulars of the goods and packages purporting to be the same in the report of the ship, or in the certificate or other document, where any is required, by which the importation or entry of such goods is authorized, nor unless the goods shall have been properly described in such entry by the denominations and with the characters and circumstances according to which such goods are charged with duty or may be imported; and any goods taken or delivered out of any ship or out of any warehouse by virtue of any entry or warrant not corresponding or agreeing in all such respects, or not properly describing the same, shall be deemed to be goods landed or taken without due entry thereof, and shall be forfeited.

XLI. That before any sugar, coffee, cocoa, or spirits shall be shipped for exportation in any British possession in America, or in the island of Mauritius, as being the produce of such possession or of the said island, the proprietor of the estate or which such goods were produced, or his known agent, shall make and sign a declaration in writing before the collector, comptroller, or other officer of Customs at the port of exportation, or before one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace residing in or near the place where such estate is situated, declaring that such goods are the produce of such estate; and such declaration shall set forth the name of the estate, and the description and quantity of the goods, and the packages containing the same, with the marks and numbers thereon, and the name of the person to whose charge at the place of shipment they are to be sent; and if any Justice of the Peace or other officer aforesaid shall subscribe his name to any writing purporting to be such a declaration, unless the person purporting to make the same shall actually appear before him, and shall declare to the truth of the same, such Justice of the Peace or officer aforesaid shall forfeit and pay for any such offence the sum of 50*l.*; and the person entering and shipping such goods shall deliver such declaration to the collector or comptroller or other proper officer, and shall make and subscribe a declaration before him that the goods which are to be shipped by virtue of such entry are the same as are mentioned in such first-mentioned declaration; and the master of the ship in which such goods shall be laden shall, before clearance, make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller or other proper officer that the goods shipped by virtue of such entry are the same as are mentioned and intended in such first-mentioned declaration, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and thereupon the collector and comptroller or other proper officer shall sign and give to the master a certificate of production, stating that proof has been made in manner required by law that such goods (describing the same) are the produce of such British possession, or of the said island, and setting forth in such certificate the name of the exporter and of the exporting ship, and of the master thereof, and the destination of the goods; and if any sugar, coffee, cocoa, or spirits be imported into any British possession in America, as being the produce of some other such possession or of the said island, without such certificate of production, the same shall be forfeited.

XLII. That before any sugar, coffee, cocoa, or spirits shall be shipped for exportation in any British possession in America as being the produce of some other such possession, the person exporting the same shall in the entry outwards state the place of production, and refer to the entry inwards and landing of such goods, and shall make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or comptroller to the identity of the same; and thereupon, if such goods shall have been duly imported with a certificate of production within twelve months prior to the shipping for exportation, the collector and comptroller shall sign and give to the master a certificate of production founded upon and referring to the certificate of production under which such goods had been so imported, and containing the like particulars, together with the date of such importation.

And after reciting that it is expedient to make regulation respecting the inland trade of the British possessions in America:

It is Enacted,

XLIII. That it shall be lawful to bring or import by land or by inland navigation into any of the British possessions in America from any adjoining foreign country any goods which might be lawfully imported by sea into such possession from such country, and so to bring or import such goods in the vessels, boats, or carriages of such country, as well as in British vessels, boats, or carriages.

XLIV. That no vessel or boat shall be admitted to be a British vessel or boat on any of the inland waters or lakes in America except such as shall have been built at some place within the British dominions, and shall be wholly owned by British subjects, and shall not have been repaired at any foreign place to a greater extent than in the proportion of 10*s.* for every ton of such vessel or boat at any one time : Provided always, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall extend to prevent the employment of any vessel or boat as a British vessel or boat on such inland waters or lakes which shall have wholly belonged to British subjects before the 5th of July 1825, and which shall not have been since that day repaired as aforesaid in any foreign place.

XLV. Provided and enacted, That it shall not be lawful so to bring or import any goods except into some port or place of entry at which a custom house now is or hereafter may be lawfully established : Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the governor, lieutenant governor, or person administering the government of any of the said possessions respectively, by and with the advice and consent of the executive council thereof for the time being, if any executive council be there established, from time to time to diminish or increase, by proclamation, the number of ports or places of entry which are or hereafter may be appointed in such province for the entry of goods brought or imported as aforesaid.

XLVI. That the duties imposed by this Act shall be ascertained, levied, and recovered for and upon all goods so brought or imported in the same manner, and by the same means, and under the same rules, regulations, restrictions, penalties, and forfeitures, as the duties on the like goods imported by sea may and can be ascertained, levied, or recovered, as far as the same are applicable ; and if any goods shall be brought or imported contrary hereto, or if any goods so brought or imported shall be removed from the station or place appointed for the examination of such goods by the officers of the Customs before such examination shall have been made, and before all duties payable thereon shall have been paid or satisfied, such goods shall be forfeited, together with the vessel, boat, or carriage, and the horses or other cattle, in or by which such goods shall have been so imported or brought or so removed.

XLVII. That the same tonnage duties shall be paid upon all vessels or boats of the United States of America importing any goods into either of the Provinces of Upper or Lower Canada as are or may be for the time being payable in the United States of America on British vessels or boats entering the harbours of the state from whence such goods shall have been imported.

And after reciting that it is expedient to constitute and appoint some of the free ports and other ports in America to be free warehousing ports, or to be warehousing ports for all or any of the goods which may be legally imported into the said ports respectively, and it is also expedient to empower Her Majesty to constitute and appoint from time to time any other ports in any of the said British possessions in America to be in like manner warehousing ports for such goods as may be legally imported into such ports respectively ; and it is therefore necessary to make regulations for the appointing of proper warehouses at such ports, and for the lodging and securing of goods therein :—

It is Enacted,

shall be FREE WAREHOUSING PORTS for all the purposes of this Act ; and that Kingston,	.	.	.	.	} in Canada,

Toronto,	.	.	.	.
Hamilton,	.	.	.	.
Montreal,	.	.	.	.

shall be WAREHOUSING PORTS for the warehousing of goods brought by land or inland navigation, or imported in British ships; and that it shall be lawful for the several collectors and comptrollers of the said ports respectively, by notice in writing under their hands, to appoint from time to time such warehouses at such ports respectively as shall be approved of by them for the free warehousing and securing of goods therein for the purposes of this Act, and also in such notice to declare what sorts of goods may be so warehoused, and also by like notice to revoke or alter any such appointment or declaration: Provided always, that every such notice shall be transmitted to the governor of the place, and shall be published in such manner as he shall direct.

XLIX. That it shall be lawful for the importer of any such goods into the said ports to warehouse the same in the warehouses so appointed without payment of any duty on the first entry thereof, subject nevertheless to the rules, regulations, restrictions and conditions hereinafter contained.

L. That upon the arrival of any goods at any frontier port in the Canadas, such goods may be entered with the proper officer of the Customs at such port, to be warehoused at some warehousing port in the Canadas, and may be delivered by such officer to be passed on to such warehousing port, under bond, to the satisfaction of such officer, for the due arrival and warehousing of such goods at such port.

LI. That all goods so warehoused shall be stowed in such parts or divisions of the warehouse and in such manner as the collector and comptroller shall direct, and that the warehouse shall be locked and secured in such manner, and shall be opened and visited only at such times, and in the presence of such officers, and under such rules and regulations, as the collector and comptroller shall direct; and that all such goods shall, after being landed upon importation, be carried to the warehouse, or shall, after being taken out of the warehouse for exportation, or for stores, be carried to be shipped under such rules and regulations as the collector and comptroller shall direct.

LII. That upon the entry of any goods to be warehoused, the importer of such goods, instead of paying down the duties due thereon, shall give bond with two sufficient sureties, to be approved of by the collector or comptroller, in treble the duties payable on such goods, with condition for the safe depositing of such goods in the warehouse mentioned in such entry, and for the payment of all duties due upon such goods, or for the exportation thereof or shipment thereof as stores, according to the first account taken of such goods upon the landing of the same; and with further condition, that no part thereof shall be taken out of such warehouse until cleared from thence upon due entry and payment of duty, or upon due entry for exportation or for shipment as stores; and with further condition, that the whole of such goods shall be so cleared from such warehouse, and the duties, upon any deficiency of the quantity according to such first account, shall be paid within two years from the date of the first entry thereof; and if after such bond shall have been given the goods or any part thereof shall be sold or disposed of, so that the original bondholder shall be no longer interested in or have any controul over the same, it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller to admit fresh security to be given by the bond of the new proprietor or other person having controul over such goods, with his sufficient sureties, and to cancel the bond given by the original bondholder of such goods, or to exonerate him to the extent of the fresh security so given.

LIII. That if any goods which have been entered to be warehoused shall not be duly carried into and deposited in the warehouse, or shall afterwards be taken out of the warehouse without due entry and clearance, or having been entered and cleared for exportation, or for shipment as stores, from the warehouse, shall not be duly carried and shipped, or shall afterwards be re-landed, except with the permission of the proper officer of the Customs, such goods shall be forfeited.

LIV. That upon the entry and landing of any goods to be warehoused the proper officer of the Customs shall take a particular account of the same, and shall mark the contents on each package, and shall enter the same in a book to be kept for that purpose; and no goods which have been so warehoused shall be taken or delivered from the warehouse, except upon due entry and under the care of the proper officers for exportation, or for stores, or upon due entry and payment of duty for home use; and whenever the whole of the goods warehoused under any entry shall be cleared from the warehouse, or whenever further time shall be granted for any such goods to remain warehoused, an account shall be made out of the quantity upon which the duties have been paid, and of the quantity exported, and of the quantity (to be then ascertained) of the goods still remaining in the warehouse, as the case may be, deducting from the whole the quantity contained in any whole packages (if any) which may have been abandoned for duties; and if upon such account there shall in either case appear to be any deficiency of the original quantity, the duty payable upon the amount of such deficiency shall then be paid.

LV. That it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller, under such regulations as they shall see fit, to permit moderate samples to be taken of any goods so warehoused, without entry, and without payment of duty, except as the same shall eventually become payable, as on a deficiency of the original quantity.

LVI. That it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller, under such regulations as they shall see fit, to permit the proprietor or other person having controul over the goods so warehoused to sort, separate, and pack and re-pack any such goods, and to make such lawful alterations therein, or arrangements and assortments thereof, as may be necessary for the preservation of such goods, or in order to the sale, shipment, or legal disposal of the same, and also to permit any parts of such goods so separated to be destroyed, but without prejudice to the claim for duty upon the whole original quantity of such goods: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for any person to abandon any whole packages to the officers of the Customs for the duties, without being liable to any duty upon the same.

LVII. That goods warehoused at any warehousing port in any of the British possessions in America, being first duly entered, may be delivered, under the authority of the proper officer of Customs, without payment of duty, except any deficiency thereof, for the purpose of removal to another warehousing port in the same possession, under bond, to the satisfaction of such officer, for the due arrival and re-warehousing such goods at such other port.

LVIII. That all goods which have been so warehoused or re-warehoused shall be duly cleared, either for exportation or for home consumption, within two years from the day of first entry for the warehousing thereof, and if any such goods be not so cleared it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller to cause the same to be sold, and the produce shall be applied first to the payment of the duties, next of warehouse rent and other charges, and the overplus (if any) shall be paid to the proprietor: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the collector and comptroller to grant further time for any such goods to remain warehoused, if they shall see fit so to do: Provided also, that foreign salted beef or pork so warehoused or re-warehoused may be delivered into the charge of a searcher or other proper officer of Customs to be shipped as stores; and such beef and pork shall and may be so shipped without entry or payment of any duty for every ship of the burden of sixty tons at least bound upon a voyage to foreign parts, the probable duration of which, out and home, will not be less than forty days, and such foreign beef or pork so shipped shall be deemed to be exported: Provided also, that such foreign beef and pork shall be duly borne upon the ship's clearance, and shall be shipped in such quantities, and subject to such directions and regulations, as the collector or other chief officer of Customs at the port of shipment shall appoint: Provided also, that the surplus stores of such foreign beef or pork may be delivered into the charge of the searcher or other proper officer of Customs to be re-shipped as stores, under such directions and regulations as the collector or other chief officer of Customs shall appoint; and any such beef or pork shipped as stores contrary to such directions and regulations shall be forfeited.

LIX. That upon the entry outwards of any goods to be exported from the warehouse, the person entering the same shall give security by bond in treble the duties of importation on the quantity of such goods, or if such goods are prohibited to be imported for home use, in double the value of such goods, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the collector or comptroller, that the same shall be landed at the place for which they be entered outwards, or be otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the collector and comptroller.

LX. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, from time to time to appoint any port in Her Majesty's possessions in America to be a free warehousing port for all or any of the purposes of this Act; and every such port so appointed by Her Majesty shall be, for all the purposes expressed in such order, a free warehousing port under this Act, as if appointed by the same.

And after reciting that it is expedient that all duties and regulations relating to importation and exportation into and from Her Majesty's Islands in the West Indies should be extended to the Island of Mauritius,—

It is Enacted,

LXI. That all goods, wares, and merchandise, the growth, produce, or manufacture of the island of Mauritius, and all goods, wares, and merchandise which, having been imported into the said island of Mauritius, shall be imported from thence into any part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or into any possessions of Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, shall be liable, upon such importation into the United Kingdom, or into any such possessions respectively, to the payment of the same duties, and shall be subject to the same regulations, as the like goods, wares, and merchandise, being of the growth, produce, or manufacture of Her Majesty's islands in the West Indies, or having been imported into or exported from any of the said islands, and imported from the same into the said United Kingdom, or into any such possessions respectively, would on such importation be liable to the payment of or would be subject unto; and that upon the importation of any goods, wares or merchandise from the United Kingdom to the island of Mauritius such goods, wares, or merchandise shall be liable to the same duties, and shall be entitled to the like drawbacks respectively, as would or ought by law to be charged or allowed upon the like goods from the United Kingdom to any of Her Majesty's islands in the West Indies; and that all goods, wares, and merchandise which shall be imported into or exported from the said island of Mauritius from or to any place whatever other than the United Kingdom shall, upon such importation or exportation respectively, be liable to the payment of the same duties, and shall be subject to the same regulations, so far as any such regulations can or may be applied, as the like goods, wares, and merchandise would be liable to the payment of or would be subject to upon importation into or exportation from any of Her Majesty's islands in the West Indies; and that all ships and vessels whatever which shall arrive at or depart from the said island of Mauritius shall be liable to the payment of the same duties, and shall be subject to the same regulations, as such ships or vessels would be liable to the payment of or would be subject to if arriving at or departing from any of Her Majesty's islands in the West Indies.

LXII. That in all trade with the British possessions in America and the Mauritius, the Cape of Good Hope, and the territories and dependencies thereof, shall be deemed to be within the limits of the East India Company's Charter.

LXIII. That all laws, bye-laws, usages, or customs at this time or which hereafter shall be in practice, or endeavoured or tended to be in force or practice, in any of the British possessions in America, which are in anywise repugnant to this Act, or to any Act of Parliament made or hereafter to be made in the United Kingdom, so far as such Act shall relate to and concern the said possessions, are and shall be null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

LXIV. Provided and enacted, That no exemption from duty in any of the British possessions abroad, contained in any Act of Parliament, shall extend to any duty not imposed by Act of Parliament, unless and so far only as any duty not so imposed is or shall be expressly mentioned in such exemption.

LXV. That it shall be lawful for the officers of Customs to go on board any ship in any port in any British possession in America, and to rummage and search all parts of such ship for prohibited and uncustomed goods, and also to go on board any ship hovering within one league of any of the coasts thereof, and in either case freely to stay on board such ship so long as they shall remain in such port or within such distance; and if any such ship be bound elsewhere, and shall continue so hovering for the space of twenty-four hours after the master shall have been required to depart, it shall be lawful for the officer of Customs to bring such ship into port, and to search and examine her cargo, and to examine the master on oath touching the cargo and voyage; and if there be any goods on board prohibited to be imported into such possession, such ship and her cargo shall be forfeited; and if the master shall not truly answer the questions which shall be demanded of him on such examination he shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

LXVI. That all vessels, boats, carriages, and cattle made use of in the removal of any goods liable to forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, shall be forfeited; and every person who shall assist or be otherwise concerned in the unshipping, landing, or removal, or in the harbouring, of such goods, or into whose hands or possession the same shall knowingly come, shall forfeit the treble value thereof, or the penalty of 100*l*., at the election of the officers of the Customs; and the averment in any information or libel to be exhibited for the recovery of such penalty, that the officer proceeding has elected to sue for the sum mentioned in the information, shall be deemed sufficient proof of such election, without any other or further evidence of such fact.

LXVII. That all goods, and all ships, vessels, and boats, and all carriages, and all cattle, liable to forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, shall and may be seized and secured by any officer of the Customs or navy, or by any person employed for that purpose, by or with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs; and every person who shall in any way hinder, oppose, molest, or obstruct any officer of the Customs or Navy, or any person so employed as aforesaid, in the exercise of his office, or any person acting in his aid or assistance, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 200*l*.

LXVIII. That if any officer of Customs, or any person duly employed for the prevention of smuggling, shall make any collusive seizure, or deliver up, or make any agreement to deliver up, or not to seize, any vessel, boat or goods liable to forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, or shall take any bribe, gratuity, recompence, or reward for the neglect or non-performance of his duty, every such officer or other person shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of 500*l*., and be rendered incapable of serving Her Majesty in any office whatever; and every person who shall give or offer, or promise to give or procure to be given, any bribe, recompence, or reward to, or shall make any collusive agreement with, any such officer or person as aforesaid in any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad, to induce him in any way to neglect his duty, or to do, conceal, or connive at any thing whereby the provisions of any such Act may be evaded, shall forfeit the sum of 200*l*.

LXIX. That all vessels, boats, goods, and other things which shall have been or shall hereafter be seized as forfeited in or near any of the British possessions abroad, under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, shall be deemed and taken to be condemned, and may be dealt with in the manner directed by law in respect to vessels, boats, goods, and other things seized and condemned for breach of any such Act, unless the person from whom such vessels, boats, goods, and other things shall have been seized, or the owner of them, or some person authorized by him, shall, within one calendar month from the day of seizing the same, give notice in writing to the person or persons seizing the same, or to the collector, comptroller, or other chief officer of Customs at the nearest port, that he claims the vessel, boat, goods, or other things, or intends to claim them.

LXX. That under the authority of a writ of assistance granted by the superior or supreme court of justice or court of vice-admiralty having jurisdiction in the place (who are hereby authorized and required to grant such writ of assistance, upon application made to them for that purpose by the principal officers of Her Majesty's Customs), it shall be lawful for any officer of the Customs, taking with him a peace officer, to enter any building or other place in the day time, and to search for and seize and secure any goods liable to forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation; and, in case of necessity, to break open any doors and any chests or other packages for that purpose; and such writ of assistance, when issued, shall be deemed to be in force during the whole of the reign in which the same shall have been granted, and for twelve months from the conclusion of such reign.

LXXI. That if any person shall, by force or violence, assault, resist, oppose, molest, hinder, or obstruct any officer of the Customs or Navy, or other person employed as aforesaid, in the exercise of his office, or any person acting in his aid or assistance, such person being thereof convicted shall be adjudged a felon, and shall be proceeded against as such, and punished at the discretion of the Court before whom such person shall be tried.

LXXII. That all things which shall be seized as being liable to forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs or to trade or navigation, shall be taken forthwith and delivered into the custody of the collector and comptroller of Customs at the custom house next to the place where the same were seized, who shall secure the same by such means and in such manner as shall be provided and directed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, and after condemnation thereof the collector and comptroller shall cause the same to be sold by public auction to the best bidder: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners to direct in what manner the produce of such sale shall be applied, or, in lieu of such sale, to direct that any of such things shall be destroyed, or shall be reserved for the public service.

LXXIII. That all penalties and forfeitures which may have been heretofore or may be hereafter incurred under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, shall and may be prosecuted, sued for, and recovered in any court of record or of vice-admiralty having jurisdiction in the colony or plantation where the cause of prosecution arises, and in cases where there shall happen to be no such court, then in any court of record or of vice-admiralty having jurisdiction in some British colony or plantation near to that where the cause of prosecution arises; provided that in cases where seizure is made in any other colony than that where the forfeiture accrues, such seizure may be prosecuted in any court of record or of vice-admiralty having jurisdiction either in the colony or plantation where the forfeiture accrues, or in the colony or plantation where the seizure is made, at the election of the seizer or prosecutor; and in cases where there shall happen to be no such courts in either of the last-mentioned colonies or plantations, then in the court of record or of vice-admiralty having jurisdiction in some British colony or plantation near to that where the forfeiture accrues, or to that where the seizure is made, at the election of the seisor or prosecutor.

LXXIV. That if any goods or any ship or vessel shall be seized as forfeited under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, and detained in any of the British possessions in America, it shall be lawful for the Judge or Judges of any court having jurisdiction to try and determine such seizures, with the consent of the collector and comptroller of the Customs, to order the delivery thereof on security by bond, with two sufficient sureties, to be first approved by such collector and comptroller, to answer double the value of the same in case of condemnation; and such bond shall be taken to the use of Her Majesty in the name of the collector or officer of the Customs in whose custody the goods or the ship or vessel may be lodged, and such bond shall be delivered and kept in the custody of such collector or officer; and in case the goods or the ship or vessel shall be condemned, the value thereof shall be paid into the hands of such collector or officer, who shall thereupon, with the consent or privity of his comptroller, cancel such bond.

LXXV. That no suit shall be commenced for the recovery of any penalty or forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, except in the name of some superior officer of the Customs or Navy, or other person employed as hereinbefore mentioned, or of Her Majesty's Advocate or Attorney General for the place where such suit shall be commenced; and if a question shall arise, whether any person is an officer of the Customs or Navy, or such other person as aforesaid, visd voce evidence may be given of such fact, and shall be deemed legal and sufficient evidence.

LXXVI. That if any goods shall be seized for non-payment of duties, or any other cause of forfeiture, and any dispute shall arise whether the duties have been paid for the same, or the same have been lawfully imported, or lawfully laden or exported, the proof thereof shall lie on the owner or claimer of such goods and not on the officer who shall seize or stop the same.

LXXVII. That no claim to anything seized under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation and returned into any of Her Majesty's courts for adjudication, shall be admitted, unless such claim be entered in the name of the owner, with his residence and occupation, nor unless oath to the property in such thing be made by the owner, or by his attorney or agent by whom such claim shall be entered, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and every person making a false oath thereto shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and shall be liable to the pains and penalties to which persons are liable for a misdemeanour.

LXXVIII. That no person shall be admitted to enter a claim to any thing seized in pursuance of this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, and prosecuted in any of the British possessions in America, until sufficient security shall have been given in the court where such seizure is prosecuted, in a penalty not exceeding 60*l.*, to answer and pay the costs occasioned by such claim; and in default of giving such security such things shall be adjudged to be forfeited, and shall be condemned.

LXXIX. That no writ shall be sued out against, nor a copy of any process served upon, any officer of the Customs or Navy, or other person as aforesaid, for anything done in the exercise of his office, until one calendar month after notice in writing shall have been delivered to him, or left at his usual place of abode, by the attorney or agent of the party who intends to sue out such writ or process, in which notice shall be clearly and explicitly contained the cause of the action, the name and place of abode of the person who is to bring such action, and the name and place of abode of the attorney or agent; and no evidence of the cause of such action shall be produced, except of such as shall be contained in such notice; and no verdict shall be given for the plaintiff unless he shall prove on the trial that such notice was given; and in default of such proof the defendant shall receive in such action a verdict and costs.

LXXX. That every such action shall be brought within three calendar months after the cause thereof, and shall be laid and tried in the place or district where the facts were committed; and the defendant may plead the general issue and give special matter in evidence; and if the plaintiff shall become nonsuited, or shall discontinue the action, or if upon a verdict or demurrer judgment shall be given against the plaintiff, the defendant shall receive treble costs, and have such remedy for the same as any defendant can have in other cases where costs are given by law.

LXXXI. That in case any information or suit shall be brought to trial on account of any seizure made under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, and a verdict shall be found for the claimant thereof, and the Judge or Court before whom the cause shall have been tried shall certify on the record that there was probable cause of seizure, the claimant shall not be entitled to any costs of suit, nor shall the person who made such seizure be liable to any action, indictment, or other suit or prosecution on account of such seizure; and if any action, indictment, or other suit or prosecution shall be brought to trial against any person on account of such seizure, wherein a verdict shall be given against the defendant, the plaintiff, besides the things seized, or the value thereof, shall not be entitled to more than 2*d.* damages, nor any costs of suit, nor shall the defendant in such prosecution be fined more than 1*s.*

LXXXII. That it shall be lawful for such officer, within one calendar month after such notice, to tender amends to the party complaining, or his agent, and to plead such tender in bar to any action, together with other pleas; and if the jury all find the amends sufficient, they shall give a verdict for the defendant; and in such case, or in case the plaintiff shall come nonsuited, or shall discontinue his action, or judgment shall be given for the defendant upon demurrer, then such defendant shall be entitled to the like costs as he would have been entitled to in case he had pleaded the general issue only: provided always, that it shall be lawful for such defendant, by leave of the Court where such action shall be brought, at any time before issue joined, to pay money into court as in other actions.

LXXXIII. That in any such action, if the Judge or Court before whom such action shall be tried shall certify upon the record that the defendant or defendants in such action acted upon probable cause, then the plaintiff in such action shall not be entitled to more than 2*d.* damages, nor to any costs of suit.

LXXXIV. That all penalties and forfeitures recovered in any of the British possessions in America under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, shall be paid into the hands of the collector or comptroller of the port or place of the British possessions in America where the same shall have been recovered, and shall be divided, paid, and applied as follows; (that is to say), after deducting the charges of prosecution from the produce thereof, one third part of the net produce shall be paid into the hands of the collector of Her Majesty's Customs at the port or place where such penalties or forfeitures shall be recovered for the use of Her Majesty, one third part to the governor or commander-in-chief of the said colony or plantation, and the third part to the person who shall seize, inform, and sue for the same; excepting such seizures as shall be made at sea by the commanders or officers of Her Majesty's ships of war duly authorized to make seizures, one moiety of which seizure, and of the penalties and forfeitures recovered thereon, first deducting the charges of prosecution from the gross produce thereof, shall be paid as aforesaid to the collector of Her Majesty's Customs, and for the use of Her Majesty, and the other moiety to him or them who shall seize, inform, and sue for the same, any law, custom, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding, subject nevertheless to such distribution of the produce of the seizures so made at sea, as well with regard to the moiety hereinbefore granted to Her Majesty as with regard to the other moiety given to the seizer or prosecutor, as Her Majesty shall think fit to order and direct by any Order or Orders in Council, or by any proclamation or proclamations to be made for that purpose.

LXXXV. That all actions or suits for the recovery of any of the penalties or forfeitures imposed by this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, may be commenced or prosecuted at any time within three years after the offence committed by reason whereof such penalty or forfeiture shall be incurred, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

LXXXVI. That no appeal shall be prosecuted from any decree or sentence of any of Her Majesty's Courts in America touching any penalty or forfeiture imposed by this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, unless the inhibition shall be applied for and decreed within twelve months from the time when such decree or sentence was pronounced.

LXXXVII. Provided and enacted, That in any case in which proceedings shall have been or shall hereafter be instituted in any court of vice-admiralty or other competent court in any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad against any ship, vessel, boat, goods, or effects for the recovery of any penalty or forfeiture under this or any Act relating to the Customs, or to trade or navigation, the execution of any sentence or decree restoring such ship, vessel, boat, goods, or effects to the claimant thereof, which shall be pronounced by the said vice-admiralty court in which such proceedings shall have been had, shall not be suspended by reason of any appeal which shall be prayed and allowed from such sentence; provided that the party or parties appellants shall give sufficient security, to be approved of by the Court, to render and deliver the ship, vessel, boat, goods, or effects concerning which such sentence or decree shall be pronounced, or the full value thereof, to be ascertained either by agreement between the parties, or in case the said parties cannot agree, then by appraisement under the authority of the said Court, to the appellant or appellants, in case the sentence or decree so appealed from shall be reversed, and such ship, vessel, boat, goods, or effects be ultimately condemned.

LXXXVIII. That all persons authorized to make seizures under an Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 119, intituled, 'An Act to amend and consolidate the Laws relating to the Abolition of the Slave Trade,' shall, in making and prosecuting any such seizures, have the benefit of all the provisions granted to persons authorized to make seizures under this Act.

LXXXIX. That all penalties and forfeitures created by the said Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 119, whether pecuniary or specific, shall (except in cases specially provided for by the said Act) go and belong to such persons as are authorized by that Act to make seizures in such shares, and shall and may be sued for and prosecuted, tried, recovered, distributed, and applied, in such and the like manner, and by the same ways and means, and subject to the same rules and directions, as any penalties and forfeitures incurred in Great Britain and in the British possessions in America respectively now go and belong to, and may be sued, prosecuted, tried, recovered, and distributed respectively in Great Britain or in the said possessions under and by virtue of this Act.

XC. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council by any Order or Orders in Council to be issued from time to time, to give such directions and make such regulations touching the trade and commerce to and from any British possessions on or near the continent of Europe, or within the Mediterranean Sea, or in Africa, or within the limits of the East India Company's Charter (excepting the possessions of the said company), as to Her Majesty in Council shall appear most expedient and salutary, anything in this Act to the contrary notwithstanding; and if any goods shall be imported or exported in any manner contrary to any such order of Her Majesty in Council, the same shall be forfeited together with the ship importing or exporting the same.

XCI. That it shall be lawful for any person, being the shipper of any sugar the produce of some British possession within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, about to be exported from any place in such possession, to go before the collector or comptroller or other chief officer of the Customs at such place, or, if there be no such officer of the Customs, to go before the principal officer of such place, or the Judge or commercial resident of the district, and make and sign a declaration before him that such sugar was really and bona fide the produce of such British possession, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and such officer, Judge, or resident is hereby authorized and required to grant a certificate thereof, setting forth in such certificate the name of the ship in which the sugar is to be exported, and the destination of the same.

XCII. That all ships built at any place within the limits of the East India Company's Charter prior to the 1st of January 1816 and which then were and have continued ever since to be solely the property of Her Majesty's subjects, shall be deemed to be British ships for all the purposes of trade within the said limits, including the Cape of Good Hope, anything in this Act, or in any other Act or Acts passed in this present session of Parliament to the contrary notwithstanding.

XCIII. That it shall be lawful for the shipper of any wine the produce of the Cape of Good Hope or of its dependencies which is to be exported from thence, to go before the chief officer of the Customs, and make and sign a declaration before him that such wine was really and bona fide the produce of the Cape of Good Hope or of its dependencies; and such officer is hereby authorised and required to grant a certificate thereof, setting forth in such certificate the name of the ship in which the wine is to be exported, and the destination of the same.

xciv. That it shall be lawful for any person who is about to export from any of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark to the United Kingdom, or to any of the British possessions in America or the Mauritius, any goods of the growth or produce of any of those islands, or any goods manufactured from materials which were the growth or produce thereof, or of the United Kingdom, or of materials duty free in the United Kingdom, or whereupon the duty has been there paid, and not drawn back, to go before any magistrate of the island from which the goods are to be exported, and make and sign before him a declaration that such goods, describing the same, are of such growth or produce, or of such manufacture, and such magistrate shall administer and sign such declaration; and thereupon the governor, lieutenant governor, or commander-in-chief of the island from which the goods are to be exported shall, upon the delivery to him of such declaration, grant a certificate under his hand of the proof contained in such declaration, stating the ship in which and the port to which, in the United Kingdom or in any such possession, the goods are to be exported; and such certificate shall be the proper document to be produced at such ports respectively in proof that the goods mentioned therein are of the growth, produce, or manufacture of such islands respectively.

xcv. That no brandy, geneva, or other spirits (except rum of the British plantations) shall be imported into or exported from the islands of Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, or Sark, or any one of them, or be removed from any one to any other of the said islands, or be carried coastwise from any one part to any other part of any one of the said islands, or shall be shipped in order to be so removed or carried, or shall be waterborne for the purpose of being so shipped in any vessel of less burden than sixty tons, nor in any cask or other vessel capable of containing liquids not being of the size or content of twenty gallons at the least; and that all brandy, geneva, or other spirits imported, exported, removed, carried, shipped, or waterborne contrary hereto shall be forfeited, together with the vessel or boat importing, exporting, removing, or carrying the same, and all the guns, furniture, ammunition, tackle, and apparel thereof: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to any spirits imported in glass bottles in square-rigged ships as part of the cargo thereof, nor to any spirits being really intended for the consumption of the seamen and passengers during their voyage, and not being more in quantity than is necessary for that purpose.

xcvi. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to subject to forfeiture or seizure, under any of the provisions of this Act, any boat not exceeding the burden of ten tons for having on board at any one time any foreign spirits of the quantity of ten gallons or under, such boat having a licence from the proper officer of Customs at either of the islands of Guernsey or Jersey for the purpose of being employed in carrying commodities for the supply of the said island of Sark, which licence such officer of Customs is hereby required to grant, without taking any fee or reward for the same: Provided also, that every such boat having on board at any one time any greater quantity of spirits than ten gallons, unless such greater quantity of spirits shall be in casks or packages of the size and content hereinbefore required, shall be forfeited.

xcvii. That every person who shall be found or discovered to have been on board any vessel or boat liable to forfeiture under any Act relating to the revenue of Customs, for being found within one league of the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, or Sark, having on board or in any manner attached or affixed thereto, or conveying or having conveyed, in any manner, such goods or other things as subject such vessel or boat to forfeiture, or who shall be found or discovered to have been on board any vessel or boat from which any part of the cargo shall have been thrown overboard during chase, or staved or destroyed, shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*.

xcviii. That it shall not be lawful for any person to re-export from any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad to any foreign place in any foreign ship any coals the produce of the United Kingdom, except upon payment of the duty to which such coals would be liable upon exportation from the United Kingdom to such foreign place; and that no such coals shall be so shipped at any of such possessions to be exported to any British place until the exporter or the master of the exporting vessel shall have given bond, with one sufficient surety, in double the value of the coals, that such coals shall not be landed at any foreign place.

xcix. That if any person shall, in any of Her Majesty's possessions abroad, counterfeit or falsify, or wilfully use when counterfeited or falsified, any entry, warrant, cocket, transire, or other document for the unlading, lading, entering, reporting, or clearing any ship or vessel, or for the landing, shipping, or removing of any goods, stores, baggage, or article whatever, or shall by any false statement procure any writing or document to be made for any such purposes, or shall falsely make any oath or affirmation required by this Act, or shall forge or counterfeit a certificate of the said oath or affirmation, or shall publish such certificate knowing the same to be so forged or counterfeited, every person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 200*l*; and such penalty shall and may be prosecuted, sued for, and recovered in like manner and by such ways and means as any penalty may be prosecuted, sued for, and recovered under the provisions and directions of this Act.

And after reciting that by an Act, 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 78, intituled 'An Act to continue certain Acts relating to the Island of Newfoundland, and to provide for the Appropriation of all Duties which may hereafter be raised within the said Island,' provision was made for the appropriation of the net produce of all duties levied within the said colony by any Act of Parliament then or thereafter to be in force there, and for the deduction from and out of such net proceeds in each and every year of a sum not exceeding 6,550*l*., to be applied in the manner, for the purposes, and under the authority therein mentioned: And that doubts may arise whether the provisions aforesaid, or some of them, were not repealed or abrogated by some or one of the Acts passed in 3 & 4 Will. 4; for the removal of such doubts:—

c. That nothing contained in any Act passed in that session of Parliament, or in the present session of Parliament, did or doth repeal, abrogate, annul, or alter the said recited Act, or any part thereof, or any of the provisions therein contained; but that from and out of the net proceeds of all duties levied from year to year within the said colony of Newfoundland by any Act of the said last mentioned session of Parliament, or any Act thereafter passed or to be passed, such deduction shall be annually made as in the said recited Act is mentioned; and that the sum of money so from year to year to be deducted shall be applied from time to time in such manner, and for such purposes, and under such authority as in the said recited Act is particularly mentioned and set forth.

ci. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 60, whereby the laws of Customs in relation to the trade of the Isle of Man were consolidated: And that since the passing of the said Act divers Acts and parts of Acts for the further amendment of the law in that respect have been found necessary, and it will be of advantage to the trade and commerce of the country that the said Acts and parts of Acts should be consolidated into one Act:—

It is Enacted,

i. That from and after the passing of this Act the same shall come into and be and continue in full force and effect for all the purposes therein mentioned, except where any other commencement is herein particularly directed.

ii. That in lieu of all duties of Customs (except the duties of Customs on corn, grain, meal, or flour,) now payable by law upon the importation of goods, wares, or merchandise into the Isle of Man there shall be raised, levied, collected, or paid unto Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, the several duties of Customs as the same are respectively set forth in figures in the table hereinafter contained, denominated Table of Duties, upon the importation or bringing into the Isle of Man of the several goods, wares, or merchandise in the said table mentioned, according to the quantity or value thereof specified in the said table, and so in proportion for any greater or less quantity or value of the same; (that is to say.)

III. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or any three or more of them from time to time, by any order or orders under their hands, to declare that all or any articles legally importable into the Isle of Man and not enumerated in the said table, and upon which the said duty of 15*l*. for every 100*l*. value is hereby imposed, shall and may, from and after a day to be named in the said order or orders, be imported from the places and in the manner in the said order or orders mentioned into the Isle of Man duty-free, and that such articles shall be imported duty-free accordingly so long as such order or orders or any part thereof affecting such articles shall continue in force: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, or any three or more of them, at any time and from time to time as they shall consider expedient, by any further order under their hands to revoke the whole or any part of such order or orders for admitting the aforesaid articles or any of them into the Isle of Man duty-free, such order of revocation to take effect from a day to be named therein: Provided also, that all orders of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury made in pursuance of this enactment shall be duly published in the London and Dublin Gazettes, twice at least within fourteen days from the date of such orders respectively, and that a copy of every such order shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks after the date of such order if Parliament be then sitting, and if not then within six weeks after the commencement of the then next session of Parliament.

IV. That the several sorts of goods enumerated or described in the Schedule to this Act annexed, denominated "Schedule of Licence Goods," shall not be brought into the Isle of Man, nor laden on board any vessel to be carried from any place to the Isle of Man, without the licence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs first obtained, nor in greater quantities in the whole in any one year than the respective quantities of such goods specified in the said schedule, and that such goods shall not be so brought into the said Isle of Man, except from the respective places set forth in the said schedule, and according to the rules subjoined thereto: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, from time to time, upon sufficient cause to them appearing, by any order under their hands to permit the importation into the Isle of Man of such additional quantity of such several sorts of goods or any of them, in any one year, beyond the quantities named in the said table as they shall in their discretion consider expedient.

v. That every application for licence to import any of the goods aforesaid into the Isle of Man shall be made in writing, and delivered between the 5th of May and the 5th of July in each year to the collector or comptroller of the port of Douglas in the said isle; and such application shall specify the date thereof, and the name, residence, and occupation of the person applying, and the description and quantity of each article for which such licence is required; and all such applications, with such particulars, shall be entered in a book, to be kept at the custom house at the port of Douglas, and to be there open for public inspection during the hours of business, and on the 5th of July in each year such book shall be closed, and within fourteen days thereafter the collector and comptroller shall make out and sign a true copy of such entries, specifying the applicants resident and the applicants not resident in the said isle, and deliver or transmit such copy to the governor or lieutenant-governor of the said isle for the time being.

vi. That within fourteen days after the receipt of such copy the governor or lieutenant-governor of the said isle shall allot the whole quantity of each article in the first place among the applicants resident in the said island; and in case the whole quantity of any article shall not have been applied for by residents, he shall then allot the quantity not so applied for among the non-resident applicants, in such proportions in all cases as he shall judge most fair and equitable; and shall cause a report thereon to be drawn up in writing, and sign and transmit the same to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, and shall cause a duplicate of such report so signed to be transmitted to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

vii. That upon receipt of such duplicate report the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall grant licences, to continue in force for any period until the 5th of July then next ensuing, for the importation into the Isle of Man of the quantities of such goods as are allowed by law to be so imported, with their licence, according to the allotments in such report, and dividing the whole portion allotted to any one applicant into several licences, as they shall be desired and see fit; and such licences shall be transmitted without delay to the collector and comptroller of Douglas, to be by them delivered to the different applicants, after taking bond for the same under the provisions of this Act.

viii. That previous to the delivery of any such licences to the persons to whom they are granted, the collector and comptroller of Douglas shall take the bond of such persons to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, with sufficient security for the importation or bringing in of the articles for which the said licences are respectively granted on or before the 5th of July succeeding the delivery of such licences, with such conditions, and for the forfeiture of such sums, not exceeding the whole amount of duties payable in Great Britain on articles similar to those specified in such licences, as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall think fit: Provided always, that if any person to whom such licence shall be granted shall not have given such bond prior to the 5th of January next after the granting such licence, it shall be lawful for the governor or lieutenant governor of the said isle, if he shall see fit, to transfer any such licence to any other person who shall be desirous to take up the same, and willing and able to give such bond; and such transfer shall be notified by indorsement on the licence signed by such governor or lieutenant governor.

ix. That if any person, having obtained a licence under this Act, shall not import or bring into the said island the whole quantity of goods permitted to be imported or brought under such licence, during the period for which it shall remain in force, such person shall be thereby disqualified from receiving a licence in the year next following that in which his previous licence shall have been granted.

x. That if any person or persons shall counterfeit or falsify any licence or other document required for the importation into the Isle of Man of any goods which would otherwise be prohibited to be imported into the said isle, or shall knowingly or wilfully make use of any such licence or other document so counterfeited or falsified, such person or persons shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 500*l*.

xi. That it shall not be lawful to re-export from the Isle of Man any goods which have been imported into the said isle with licence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs as aforesaid; and that it shall not be lawful to carry any such goods coastwise from one part of the said isle to another, except in vessels of fifty tons burden at the least, and in the same packages in which such goods were imported into the said isle; and that it shall not be lawful to remove any wine from one part of the said isle to another, except in such packages or in bottles.

xii. That all trade from any port of the United Kingdom to the Isle of Man, or from the Isle of Man to any port of the United Kingdom, shall be deemed to be a coasting trade, and all ships employed therein shall be deemed to be coasting ships, and shall be subject to all the rules, regulations, penalties, and forfeitures now in force relating to coasting ships, and that the Isle of Man shall not be deemed in law with reference to any part of the United Kingdom to be parts beyond the seas in any matter relating to the trade or navigation or revenue of this realm: Provided nevertheless, that all goods subject to duty under this Act, when brought from the United Kingdom into the Isle of Man, and all vessels bringing the same, shall be liable to the same rules and regulations as are required by law in respect of goods imported into the said isle from foreign parts, and in respect of the vessels importing the same; and that all the penalties and forfeitures inflicted by law for any breach of the said rules and regulations shall attach upon all goods so brought into the said isle contrary to the said rules and regulations, or any of them, and upon all persons committing any breach of any such rule or regulation; and such penalties and forfeitures shall and may be recovered in the same manner as any penalty or forfeiture may be recovered by any Act relating to the Customs.

And after reciting that an Act was passed in this present session of Parliament, intituled 'An Act for the warehousing of Goods': And that it is expedient to extend the operation of the said Act to the Isle of Man, so far as relates to the privilege of warehousing foreign corn, grain, meal, and flour;—

xiii. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by their warrant, from time to time, to appoint any port or ports in the Isle of Man to be warehousing ports, for the purposes hereinafter declared, and that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, subject to the authority and directions of the Commissioners of

Her Majesty's Treasury, by their order from time to time to appoint in what warehouses or places of special security or of ordinary security, as the case may require, in such port or ports, and in what different parts or divisions of such warehouses or places, in what manner, any corn, grain, meal, or flour may and may only be warehoused and kept and secured, without payment of any duty upon the first entry thereof, and also in such order to direct in what cases (if any) security by bond shall be required in respect of any warehouse so appointed by them.

xv. That all provisions, powers, regulations, and enactments in the said last-mentioned Act contained shall be construed and taken to extend and be applicable to the Isle of Man, so far as relates to the articles of corn, grain, meal, and flour: Provided always, that whenever in the said last-mentioned Act any notice, order, or appointment is directed to be published in the London or Dublin Gazettes respectively, it shall be necessary that any such notice, order, or appointment in respect of any warehouse in the Isle of Man shall be published in the London and Dublin Gazettes.

xv. That goods warehoused in the United Kingdom may be removed from such warehouses into any port in the Isle of Man, under such security and under such regulations and conditions as are set forth in the said last-mentioned Act with respect to the removal of warehoused goods from one warehousing port to another warehousing port in the United Kingdom, save and except so far as the said last-mentioned regulations apply to the warehousing such goods at their port of destination.

xvi. That nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to affect the laws and regulations now in force respecting duties and drawbacks of Excise on goods exported or carried, or to be exported or carried, to the Isle of Man.

xvii. That any sugar upon which any bounty shall have been allowed under any Act relating to the Customs may be removed to the Isle of Man.

xviii. That before any such sugar shall be removed to the Isle of Man, the person removing the same shall give bond to Her Majesty with one sufficient surety that the same shall be duly landed in the Isle of Man, and shall not be re-landed in any part of the United Kingdom.

xix. That it shall not be lawful to carry any goods not being of the growth, produce, or manufacture of the Isle of Man or of the United Kingdom, except corn, grain, meal, or flour, in any ship from the Isle of Man to any port or place in the United Kingdom.

xx. That the several sorts of goods enumerated or described in the schedule hereinafter contained, denominated "Schedule of Prohibitions," shall not be imported or brought into the Isle of Man; (that is to say,)

SCHEDULE OF PROHIBITIONS.

Goods the produce or manufacture of places within the limits of the East India Company's Charter, except from the United Kingdom:

Cotton yarn, cotton cloth, linen cloth, glass manufactures, woollen manufactures, unless bond fide laden in and brought directly from the United Kingdom:

British distilled spirits:

Sugar or rum other than that enumerated and described in the table of duties hereinbefore contained:

All goods prohibited to be imported into the United Kingdom to be used or consumed therein on account of the sort or description of the same.

xxi. That if any goods shall be imported into or exported from the Isle of Man, or shall be carried coastwise from one part of the said Isle or from the United Kingdom to the said Isle, or from the said Isle to the United Kingdom, or shall be taken on board or brought to any wharf or place with intent to be waterborne, to be so exported or carried, or shall be removed by land within the said Isle, contrary to any of the directions or provisions of this Act, the same and all the packages containing the same shall be forfeited, together with all ships, vessels, or boats, and all cattle and carriages used or employed therein; and every person offending therein shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of 100*l.*, or the full amount of all duties which could be payable in respect of similar goods the produce of foreign countries if imported into and entered for home consumption in the United Kingdom, at the election of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs.

xxii. That if any decked vessels, bound from the Isle of Man to any port of Great Britain or Ireland, shall have on board for the use of the seamen any spirits exceeding the quantity of half a gallon for each seaman, or any tobacco exceeding one pound weight for each seaman, or any tea exceeding two pounds weight for the whole of the seamen on board such vessel, or if any open boat, bound from the Isle of Man to any port of Great Britain or Ireland, shall have on board for the use of the seamen any spirits exceeding one quart for each seaman, or any tobacco exceeding one-half of a pound weight for each seaman, or any tea exceeding one pound weight for the whole of the seamen on board such boat, all such foreign spirits, tobacco, and tea, respectively, together with the casks or packages containing the same, and also every such vessel or boat, together with the guns, furniture, ammunition, tackle, and apparel thereof, shall be forfeited.

xxiii. That before any goods shall be shipped in the Isle of Man, to be carried to the United Kingdom as being the produce or manufacture of that island, proof shall be made by the written declaration of some competent person to the satisfaction of the collector and comptroller of the Customs, at the port of shipment, that such goods, describing and identifying the same, are the produce or the manufacture, as the case may be, of the said island, and in such declaration shall be stated the name of the person by whom such goods are intended to be shipped; and such person at the time of shipping (not being more than one month after the date of such declaration) shall make and subscribe a declaration before such collector or comptroller that the goods to be shipped are the same as are mentioned in such declaration; and thereupon the collector and comptroller shall, on demand, give to the master of the ship in which the goods are to be exported a certificate of such proof of produce or of manufacture having been made in respect of such goods, describing the same, and setting forth the name of the party and of the ship, and of the master thereof, and the destination of the goods; and such certificate shall be received at the port in the United Kingdom into which the said goods shall be brought, instead of the certificate of the governor, Lieutenant-governor, or commander-in-chief of the said island, heretofore required.

xxiv. That the duties of Customs hereinbefore imposed shall be raised, levied, collected, paid, recovered, and accounted for under the authority and direction or under the management and controul of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs; and, except the necessary charges of raising, collecting, levying, recovering, and accounting for the same, the said rates and duties shall from time to time (subject to the deductions hereinafter mentioned) be brought and paid into the receipt of Her Majesty's Exchequer, distinctly and apart from all other branches of the public revenue, and shall go to and make part of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: Provided always, that any of the collectors of Customs of the said isle shall retain, and he and they is and are hereby authorized and required, agreeably to such directions as shall from time to time be given for that purpose by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, to retain, such sum or sums of money in his or their hands as may be sufficient to defray the necessary expenses attending the government of the said Isle of Man, and the administration of justice there, and other charges incurred in the said isle, which have heretofore been or may hereafter be deemed fit and proper charges to be deducted from and paid out of the duties of Customs collected in the said Isle of Man; and upon the amount of the said expenses and charges being ascertained, the said Commissioners are hereby authorized to direct the same to be paid out of the said monies so retained to such person or persons as may be entitled to receive the same.

And after reciting that by an Act of the 54 Geo. 3, intituled, 'An Act to repeal the Duties granted by an Act passed in the Eleventh Year of His present Majesty, for repairing, amending, and supporting the several Harbours and Sea-ports in the Isle of Man, and for granting new Duties in lieu thereof, and for giving further Powers to the Commissioners appointed under the said Act,' certain harbour duties were imposed on ships and vessels, goods, wares, and merchandise, arriving at and imported into the said Isle of Man, and certain rates were also imposed on boats and vessels employed in the herring fishery on the coasts thereof: And that the said duties and rates have subsequently to the passing of the said last-mentioned Act been repealed;—

It is Enacted,

xxv. That the collectors of Customs of the said isle shall, out of the duties collected under this Act, pay to Her Majesty's Receiver General in the said Isle of Man, to be applied as hereinafter is mentioned, yearly and every year the sum of 2,300*l*, by four equal quarterly payments on the 1st of January, the 1st of April, the 1st of July, and the 1st of October, the first of such payments to be made on the 1st of October, 1845, and the same shall be applied by the said Harbour Commissioners to the same purposes to which the duties imposed by the said last-mentioned Act and since repealed would be lawfully applicable by the said Harbour Commissioners.

xxvi. That all vessels registered at any port in the said Isle of Man, and bond fide the property of inhabitants thereof, being so registered as of the burden of fifty tons, shall, with regard to coasting trade between the Isle of Man and the United Kingdom, be entitled to all the privileges to which vessels registered in the United Kingdom as of sixty tons burden are by law entitled.

xxvii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

CAP. XCV.

AN ACT to exempt Van Diemen's Land from the Provisions of an Act, intituled An Act for regulating the Sale of Waste Land belonging to the Crown in the Australian Colonies.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Act not to take effect in the colony of Van Diemen's Land so long as felons are transported there.
2. Commencement of this Act.
3. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 36; and that the provisions of the said Act are inapplicable to those colonies to which felons and offenders may be transported by law from the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland:—

It is Enacted,

I. That the said Act shall be suspended and of no force and effect in the colony of Van Diemen's Land, as such colony is now defined and limited, so long as the said colony shall continue to be a place to which felons and other offenders under sentence or order of transportation may be conveyed from the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, by direction of Her Majesty, given with the advice of Her Privy Council.

II. That this Act shall take effect and have the force of law in the said colony from and after a day to be specified by the governor of the said colonies in some proclamation to be issued by him for that purpose.

III. That this Act may be altered or amended during the present session of Parliament.

CAP. XCVI.

AN ACT to restrict the Powers of selling or leasing Railways contained in certain Acts of Parliament relating to such Railways.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENT.

No railway company to grant or accept a lease or transfer of any railway unless under a distinct provision of an Act specifying the parties.

By this Act,

After reciting that provisions have been introduced in various Acts of Parliament, during the present session of Parliament, relating to railways, giving to railway companies general powers of granting or accepting a lease, sale or transfer of their own other lines of railway; and it is expedient that such powers should be restrained:—

It is Enacted

That it shall not be lawful for the company of proprietors of any railway, by virtue of any powers contained in any Act passed in the present session, to make or grant, or for any other railway company or party, by virtue of any such powers, to accept a sale, lease, or other transfer of any railway, unless under the authority of a distinct provision in some Act of Parliament to that effect specifying by name the railway to be so leased, sold or transferred, and the company or party by whom such lease, sale, or transfer may be respectively made, granted or accepted.

CAP. XCVII.

AN ACT to amend the Law respecting Testamentary Dispositions of Property in the Public Funds, and to authorize the Payment of Dividends on Letters of Attorney in certain Cases.

(4th August 1845.)

[See this Act printed at length in the Appendix, p. i.]

CAP. XCVIII.—IRELAND.

AN ACT for facilitating the winding up the Affairs of Joint Stock Companies in Ireland unable to meet their pecuniary Engagements.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. If any incorporated commercial or trading company, or any other body of persons associated together for commercial or trading purposes, as herein described, shall commit any act which is hereby deemed an act of bankruptcy on the part of such company, a commission of bankruptcy may issue against the same, and be prosecuted in like manner as against other bankrupts, subject to the provisions hereinafter made.
2. Bankruptcy of company not to be construed to be the bankruptcy of any member individually.
3. Declaration of insolvency in pursuance of a resolution of the board of directors under the common seal of the company, or signed by the chairman, and attested by the solicitor of the company, and filed in the office of the Secretary of Bankrupts, to be an act of bankruptcy.
4. Company not paying, securing, or compounding for a judgment debt, upon which the plaintiff might sue out execution within fourteen days after notice requiring payment, an act of bankruptcy.
5. Company disobeying order of any court of equity, &c., for payment of money after service of order for payment on a peremptory day fixed, an act of bankruptcy.
6. Creditor filing an affidavit of debt in one of the superior courts, and issuing a writ thereon, if the company do not within a week pay, secure, or compound to the satisfaction of the creditor, or satisfy a Judge of their intention to defend on the merits, and enter an appearance to the action, an act of bankruptcy.
7. Assignees of the estate of a company may maintain action to recover a debt; and any person may claim under a commission against a company any debt due on the balance of accounts.
8. Member's share not to be set off against a demand which the assignees of the estate and effects of a company adjudged bankrupt may have against such member.
9. No action, &c. by a creditor of a company, so far as concerns his recourse against the person or property of any individual member, to affect his right to issue or prove under a commission against the company for any debt remaining unsatisfied; and a commission, or a proof or proceeding thereon, not to affect any action by a creditor, so far as concerns his recourse to the person or property of any individual member.
10. The law and practice in bankruptcy to extend, so far as applicable, to commissions under this Act.
11. The Commissioner may order the directors of a company adjudged bankrupt, &c. to prepare and file a balance sheet and accounts, and to make oath of the truth thereof; and the Commissioner may make allowance out of the estate for the preparation thereof.
12. Persons ordered by the Commissioner to prepare the balance sheet to be under the like obligation to surrender at the last examination under the commission, and to submit to be examined, &c., and to incur such danger or penalty for not conforming, &c. as is now provided against a bankrupt.
13. Persons ordered to prepare the balance sheet to have the same freedom from arrest, &c. as a bankrupt.
14. The Commissioner, before adjudication, may summon any person, whether a member of the company or not, to give evidence as to the trading and any act of bankruptcy; and after adjudication the Commissioner may summon and examine any person who is suspected to have property of the company in his possession, or to be indebted to the company, &c., and compel him to produce books, &c.
15. As to costs where a person summoned under a commission against a company was a member thereof.
16. Penalty on members (other than those who are ordered to prepare the balance sheet) and on other persons wilfully concealing the estate of the company, 100*l.*, and double the value of the estate concealed, and allowance to persons other than members of the company, for making discovery thereof.
17. The Commissioner, after adjudication, may order any treasurer, &c., or solicitor or agent of the bankrupt, to deliver to the official assignee, or to the Bank of Ireland, all monies and securities in his custody or power which he is not by law entitled to retain as against the bankrupt or his assignees.
18. If any person disobey any rule or order of the Commissioner duly made, the Commissioner to commit him to prison, there to remain until he conform, or until the Commissioner or Lord Chancellor shall otherwise order.
19. The Commissioner may direct the assignees of the estate of a company adjudged bankrupt to petition the Court of Chancery for directions for winding up the affairs of the company, upon which petition an order of reference may be made, and accounts taken, and upon the confirmation of the Master's report a receiver may be appointed.

20. The Court of Chancery may make order in individual claims of members in respect of the transactions of the company.
21. The Lord Chancellor, with the advice and consent of the Master of the Rolls, to make rules and orders as to the form and mode of proceeding for settling and enforcing contribution to be made by members of company, and the practice to be observed by the Court of Chancery and the Masters in such proceeding.
22. The Act 41 Geo. 3. (U.K.) c. 90, to extend to decrees or orders made by the Court of Chancery in any suit under this Act.
23. Previous to passing the last examination the Commissioner shall inquire into the cause of the failure of a company, and after the last examination shall cause a copy of the balance sheet to be transmitted to the Board of Trade, and certify the cause of the failure, and any special circumstances, and annex a copy of any examinations deemed material.
24. After the Commissioner shall have certified to the Board of Trade the cause of the failure of such company, the Queen, upon the recommendation of the Board of Trade, may revoke and make void any privileges granted to the company, and determine the company.
25. After the Court shall have certified to the Board of Trade the cause of the failure of any company adjudged bankrupt, the Board may cause the papers to be laid before the Attorney General, who shall direct as to any proceedings thereon.
26. Until determination of company by the Crown, it shall be considered as subsisting for the original purposes, and notwithstanding such determination, shall be considered as subsisting so far as necessary for winding up.
27. Notwithstanding determination of company in any other manner, the same to be considered as subsisting so long as any matters remain unsettled.
28. Any member of a company adjudged bankrupt, with knowledge of or in contemplation of a bankruptcy, destroying or falsifying books &c. of the company, or making false entries, &c., guilty of a misdemeanour.
29. If joint stock company shall have establishments or carry on business in England and Ireland, it shall be deemed an English company if head office shall last have been in England, or an Irish company if head office shall last have been in Ireland.
30. Construction of the Act.
  1. Act to extend only to Ireland.
  2. Commencement of Act.
  3. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient to extend the remedies of creditors against the property of such joint stock companies or bodies as hereinafter mentioned when unable to meet their pecuniary engagements, and to facilitate the winding up of their concerns; and it may also be for the benefit of the public to make better provision for discovery of the abuses that may have attended the formation or management of the affairs of any such companies or bodies, and for ascertaining the causes of their failure:—

It is Enacted,

I. That if any commercial or trading company now or at any time hereafter incorporated by Charter or Act of Parliament, any company or body of persons now or at any time hereafter associated together for any commercial or trading purposes, and to which any privilege or privileges or power or powers shall, before or after the passing of this Act, have been granted, under the authority of 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. 74, intituled 'An Act for better enabling Her Majesty to confer certain powers and Immunities on trading and other Companies,' or by any Act of Parliament, or any commercial or trading company or body which by the said statute made and passed in the first year of the reign of Her present Majesty is to be considered as subsisting, and to be subject to the provisions of the said statute, in manner therein mentioned, or any company or body of persons now or at any time hereafter associated together for any commercial or trading purposes, and registered, either provisionally or completely, under the provisions of an Act, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 110, intituled 'An Act for the registration, Incorporation, and Regulation of Joint Stock Companies,' or any joint stock company now existing and comprehended within the definition therein contained of a joint stock company, shall commit any act which by this Act is deemed an act of bankruptcy on the part of any such company or body, a commission of bankruptcy may issue against such company or body by the name or style of the said company or body, upon the petition of any creditor or creditors of such company or body (whether a member or members of such company or body or not), to such amount as is now by law requisite to support a commission of bankruptcy; and the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of such commission, and all persons acting under such commission, may proceed thereon in like manner as against other bankrupts, subject always to the provisions hereinafter made.

II. Provided and enacted, That the bankruptcy of any such company or body, in its corporate or associated capacity, (as the case may be,) shall not be construed to be the bankruptcy of any member of such company or body in his individual capacity.

III. That if any such company or body shall, by virtue of a resolution to be duly passed in that behalf at a board of directors of such company or body duly summoned for that purpose, file or cause to be filed in the office of the Lord Chancellor's Secretary of Bankrupts a declaration in writing, in the form specified in the Schedule (A.) No. 1. hereunto annexed, that the said company or body is unable to meet its engagements, and also a minute of such resolution in the form specified in the said Schedule (A.) No. 2, such declaration and minute of resolution respectively being under the common seal of such company or body, and if such company or body have no common seal then signed by the chairman of the board of directors who was present at the passing of such resolution, and in either case such declaration and minute of resolution being respectively attested by the attorney or solicitor of the said company or body for the time being, every such company or body shall be deemed thereby to have committed an act of bankruptcy at the time of filing such declaration, provided a commission of bankruptcy shall issue against such company or body within two calendar months from the filing of such declaration; and a copy of such declaration and minute of resolution respectively, purporting to be certified by the said secretary or his clerk as a true copy, shall be received as evidence of such declaration and minute of resolution respectively having been filed by such company or body, and that upon such evidence being given, and upon proof by the attesting witness of the sealing or signature, as the case may be, of the said declaration and minute of resolution, no further evidence shall be required of the said act of bankruptcy.

iv. That if any plaintiff shall recover judgment in any action personal for the recovery of any debt or money demand in any of Her Majesty's courts of record, against any such company or body, or against any person duly authorized to be sued as the nominal defendant on behalf of such company or body, and shall be in a situation to sue out execution upon such judgment, and there be nothing due from such plaintiff by way of set-off, or which may be legally set off against such judgment, and such company or body shall not, within fourteen days after notice in writing served upon the said company or body, by service of the same on a chief clerk or secretary or registrar of the said company or body, or (if there be no officer of such denomination) on any director of the said company or body personally, or by the same having been left at the head office for the time being of such company or body, requiring immediate payment of such judgment debt, pay, secure, or compound for the same to the satisfaction of such plaintiff, such company or body shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy on the fifteenth day after service of such notice: Provided always, that if such execution shall in the meantime be suspended or restrained by any rule, order, or proceeding of any court of justice having jurisdiction in that behalf, no further proceeding shall be had on such notice, but that it shall be lawful, nevertheless, for such plaintiff, when he shall again be in a situation to sue out execution on such judgment, to proceed again by notice in manner before directed.

v. That if any decree or order shall be pronounced in any cause depending in any court of equity, or any order shall be made in any matter of bankruptcy or lunacy against any such company or body, or against any person duly authorized to be sued as the nominal defendant on behalf of such company or body, ordering any sum of money to be paid by such company or body, and such company or body shall disobey such decree or order, the same having been served upon such company or body by service of the same on a chief clerk or secretary or registrar of the said company or body, or (if there be no officer of such denomination) on any director of the said company or body personally, or by the same having been left at the head office for the time being of such company or body, the person entitled to receive such sum under such decree or order, or interested in enforcing the payment thereof pursuant thereto, may apply to the Court by which the same shall have been pronounced to fix a peremptory day for the payment of such money, which shall accordingly be fixed by an order for that purpose; and if such company or body, being served in manner aforesaid with such last-mentioned order fourteen days before the day therein appointed for payment of such money, shall neglect to pay the same, such company or body shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy on the fifteenth day after the service of such order.

vi. That if any creditor or creditors of any such company or body to such amount as is now by law requisite to support a commission shall file an affidavit or affidavits in any of Her Majesty's superior courts of law at Dublin that such debt or debts is or are justly due to him or them respectively from the said company or body, and that such company or body, as he or they verily believe, is a commercial or trading company or body incorporated or associated as aforesaid (as the case may be), and shall sue out of the same court a writ against such incorporated company, or against any person duly authorized to be sued as the nominal defendant on behalf of such associated company or body, as the case may be, and serve a chief clerk or secretary or registrar of such incorporated or associated company or body, as the case may be, or (if there be no officer of such denomination) any director of the said company or body personally, with a copy of such writ, if such company or body shall not, within one calendar month after service of such copy, pay, secure, or compound for such debt or debts to the satisfaction of such creditor or creditors, or make it appear to the satisfaction of one of the Judges of the Court out of which such writ shall issue that it is the intention of such company to defend the action upon the merits, and within one calendar month next after service of such copy cause an appearance or appearances to be entered to such action or actions in the proper court or courts in which the same shall have been brought, every such company or body shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy from the time of the service of such copy.

vii. That it shall be lawful for the assignees of the estate and effects of any such company or body to maintain any action, suit, or other proceeding against any person or persons (whether a member or members of such company or body or not), to recover any debt or demand on behalf of the said company or body against such person or persons, and for any person or persons to prove or claim under the commission against such company or body such debt or demand as may be due to him or them (whether a member or members of such company or body or not) on the balance of accounts between him or them and the said company or body.

viii. Provided and enacted, That no claim or demand which any member of any such company or body may have in respect of his share of the capital or joint stock thereof, or of any dividends, interest, profits, or bonus payable or apportionable in respect of such share, shall be capable of being set off, either at law or in equity, against any demand which the assignees of the estate and effects of such company or body may have against such member on account of any other matter or thing whatsoever, but all proceedings in respect of such matter or thing may be carried on as if no claim or demand existed in respect of such capital or joint stock, or of any dividends, interest, profits, or bonus payable or apportionable in respect thereof.

ix. That no action, suit, or other proceeding by any creditor or creditors of any such company or body shall, so far as concerns or may be necessary for the recourse of such creditor or creditors against the person, property, or effects of any member or members thereof for the time being, or any former member or members thereof, be deemed to prejudice or in any manner affect the right of such creditor or creditors to sue out or prosecute a commission against such company or body, or his or their right to prove or claim, under any commission against such company or body, any debt or demand remaining unsatisfied; and that no such commission, or proof or proceeding thereunder, shall be deemed to prejudice or in any manner affect the right of any creditor or creditors of such company or body to institute or maintain any action, suit, or other proceeding, so far as concerns or may be necessary for the recourse of such creditor or creditors against the person, property, or effects of any member or members thereof for the time being, or any former member or members thereof: Provided always that nothing herein contained shall prevent remedy against copartners; provided also, that no execution in respect of any debt or demand proveable under the commission against any such company or body adjudged bankrupt shall be issued against the person, property, or effects of any member or members for the time being of such company or body, or any former member or members thereof, until after such debt or demand shall have been proved under such commission, nor shall any such execution be issued, after the appointment of a receiver in manner hereinafter mentioned, without leave of the High Court of Chancery.

x. That the law and practice in Bankruptcy now in force in Ireland shall extend, so far as the same may be applicable, to this Act, and to commissions in Bankruptcy issued by virtue of this Act, and to all proceedings under such commissions, save and except as may be otherwise directed by this Act.

xi. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of a commission of bankruptcy against any such company or body, at any time after the advertisement of the bankruptcy in the Dublin Gazette, to order that the persons who were at the date of such commission directors of such company or body, or such of them as such Commissioner in his discretion shall think fit, or if there be no directors then such members of the company as such Commissioner in his discretion shall think fit, shall prepare such balance sheet and accounts, and in such form as such Commissioner shall direct, and shall subscribe such balance sheet and accounts, and file the same in such court, and deliver a copy thereof to the assignee ten days at least before the last examination under such commission; and such balance sheet and accounts, before such last examination, may be amended from time to time as occasion shall require and such Commissioner shall direct; and such persons shall make oath of the truth of such balance sheet and accounts whenever they shall be duly required so to do; and such Commissioner may from time to time make such allowance out of the estate of such company or body for the preparation of such balance sheet and accounts, and to such person or persons as such Commissioner shall think fit.

xii. That every such person ordered as aforesaid to prepare such balance sheet and accounts shall be under the like obligation to surrender to the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of such commission, at the hour and upon the day allowed for finishing the last examination under such commission, and to sign and subscribe such surrender, and to submit to be examined before such Commissioner from time to time upon oath, and to make a full and true discovery of the estate and effects of such company or body, and shall incur such damage or penalty for not surrendering, or for not signing or subscribing such surrender, or for not coming before the Commissioner, or for refusing to be sworn and examined, or for not fully answering to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, or for refusing to sign or subscribe his examination, or for not delivering up at the last examination under such commission all such part of the estate of such company or body, and all books, papers, and writings relating thereunto, as shall be in his possession, custody, or power, or for removing, concealing, or embezzling any part of such estate to the value of 10*l.*, or upwards, or any books of account, papers, or writings relating thereto, with intent to defraud the creditors of such company or body, as is now by the law in force concerning bankrupts provided as to a bankrupt for not conforming to the like requisitions for the discovery of and in relation to the estate and effects of such bankrupt.

xiii. That every such person so ordered as aforesaid to prepare such balance sheet and accounts shall have such freedom from arrest and imprisonment in coming to surrender to such commission, and such discharge if arrested in coming to surrender, as a bankrupt now has or may have under a commission of bankruptcy against him; and such person or persons, if in prison, may be brought before such Court by warrant in like manner as such bankrupt now may.

xiv. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of a commission of bankruptcy issued against any such company or body, before adjudication, to summon before such Commissioner any person (whether a member of such company or body or not) whom such Commissioner shall believe capable of giving any information concerning the commercial dealings or trading of, or any act or acts of bankruptcy within the meaning of this Act committed by, such company or body, and also to require such person so summoned to produce any books, papers, deeds, writings, and other documents in the custody, possession or power of such person which may appear to such Commissioner to be necessary to establish such dealings, trading, or act or acts of bankruptcy; and it shall be lawful for such Commissioner to examine every such person upon oath, by word of mouth or interrogatories in writing, concerning the dealings or trade of, or any act or acts of bankruptcy within the meaning of this Act committed by, such company or body; and it shall also be lawful for such Commissioner, after adjudication, to summon before him any person (whether a member of such company or body or not) known or suspected to have any of the estate of such company or body in his possession, or who is supposed to be indebted to such estate, or any person (whether a member of such company or body or not) whom such Commissioner believes capable of giving information concerning any person or persons who was or were a member or members of such company or body at or before the date of the commission, or concerning the trade, dealings, or estate of such company or body, or concerning any act or acts of bankruptcy within the meaning of this Act committed by such company or body, or any information material to the full disclosure of the dealings of such company or body; and it shall be lawful for such Commissioner to examine in manner aforesaid every such person so summoned concerning the person of any such member, or concerning the trade, dealings, or estate of such company or body, and also to require every such person so summoned to produce any books, papers, deeds, writings, or other documents in his custody, possession, or power which may appear to such Commissioner necessary to the verification of the deposition of such person, or to the full disclosure of any of the matters which such Commissioner is authorized to inquire into; and every such person so summoned shall incur such larger or penalty for not coming before the Commissioner, or for refusing to be sworn and examined, or for not fully answering to the satisfaction of such Commissioner, or for refusing to sign or subscribe his examination, or for refusing to produce or for not producing any such book, paper, deed, writing, or document, as is now provided against persons summoned to be examined under a commission of bankruptcy.

xv. That where any person who, at or before the date of a commission of bankruptcy issued against any such company or body, was a member of such company or body, shall be summoned to attend before the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of such commission, every such person shall have such costs and charges only (if any) as such Commissioner in his discretion shall think fit.

xvi. That if any person who, at or before the date of the commission against any such company or body, was a member of such company or body, but not being a person so ordered as aforesaid to prepare such balance sheet and accounts, or if any other person shall wilfully conceal any real or personal estate of any such company or body, and shall not within thirty days after the issuing of the commission against such company or body discover such estate to the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of such commission, or to the assignees, every such person shall forfeit the sum of 100*l*., and double the value of the estate so concealed; and any person, other than a person having been a member of such company or body, who shall after the time allowed for finishing the last examination under such commission, voluntarily discover to such Commissioner or the assignees any part of the estate of such company or body not before come to the knowledge of the assignees, shall be allowed 5*l*. per centum thereupon, and such further reward as the major part in value of the creditors present at any meeting called for that purpose shall think fit, to be paid out of the estate recovered on such discovery.

xvii. That, after the adjudication of bankruptcy under any commission already issued or hereafter to be issued shall have been advertised in the Dublin Gazette, it shall be lawful for the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of such commission to order any treasurer or other officer, or any attorney or solicitor or other agent of the company or body, or person or persons, adjudged bankrupt under such commission, to pay and deliver over to the assignee appointed under such commission, or to the Bank of Ireland or any of the branches thereof, according to the rules now or hereafter in force with respect to payments into the Bank of Ireland of monies due to any bankrupt's estate, all monies or securities for money in his custody, possession, or power as such officer or agent, and which he is not by law entitled to retain as against the bankrupt or bankrupts, or his or their assignees.

xviii. Declared and enacted, That if any person shall disobey any rule or order of the Commissioner of Bankruptcy authorized to act in the prosecution of any commission of bankruptcy duly made by such Commissioner for enforcing any of the purposes and provisions of this Act, or of any other Act relating to bankruptcy or insolvency now or hereafter to be in force, or made or entered into by consent of such person for carrying into effect any of such purposes or provisions, it shall and may be lawful for such Commissioner, by warrant under hand and seal, to commit the person so offending to the Queen's Prison, or to the common gaol of any county, city, or place where he shall be found or where he shall usually reside, there to remain without bail or mainprize until such person shall have fulfilled the duty required by such rule or order, or until such Commissioner or the Lord Chancellor shall make order to the contrary.

xix. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of any such commission of Bankruptcy to direct the creditors' assignees of the estate and effects of any such company or body to apply to the High Court of Chancery, by petition in a summary way to the Lord Chancellor or the Master of the Rolls, praying that all such orders and directions may be given as shall be necessary for the final winding up and settling the affairs of such company or body, and to compel a just contribution from all the members of such company or body towards the full payment of all the debts and liabilities of such company or body, and of the costs of winding up and finally settling the affairs of such company or body; and that upon the hearing of such petition it shall be lawful for the said High Court of Chancery to refer it to one of the Masters of the High Court of Chancery to take all such accounts and make all such inquiries as shall be required, for the purpose of ascertaining what sum of money in the whole, and what sums of money as proportionate parts of the whole, or what sum or sums of money from time to time on account, will (having regard to the deed of settlement of such company, and the calls, contributions, debts, or demands actually paid by the several and respective members thereof, and also having regard to any proceedings before the Commissioner of Bankruptcy,) be necessary and proper to be raised, by calls or contributions from the respective members of such company or body, for the payment and satisfaction of all the debts and liabilities of such company or body, and also of all the costs of winding up and settling the affairs of the said company; and that the High Court of Chancery, upon confirmation of the Master's report made upon any such reference, or upon making such reference, or otherwise, may order the payment of the several and respective sums of money which by such report are found necessary and proper to be paid, and may refer it to the Master to appoint a receiver to collect and receive such sums of money, and either to pay the same into the Bank of Ireland, in the name and to the account of the Accountant General of the High Court of Chancery, to the credit of such company or body, and may, upon the petition of such assignees, order such sums of money to be paid in or towards satisfaction of the debts which by the proceedings in bankruptcy shall have been found to be due to the creditors of such company or body, and all persons having claims and demands thereon, and also in satisfaction of costs, or may order such receiver to pay such sums of money in satisfaction of such debts, claims, and demands, and costs, in the first instance.

xx. That if it shall appear that any individual members of such company or body have claims against each other in respect of the affairs or transactions of such company or body, it shall be lawful for the Court of Chancery, upon the petition of any member of such company or body, alleging that he hath any such claim against any other member of the said company or body, to make all such orders as shall be just for the purpose of finally settling and determining such claim, and may order the payment of such sum of money (if any) as shall appear to be due in respect of any such claim.

And after reciting that the law is defective in the means of making the members of joint stock companies contributaries for paying their debts in full, and in the means of giving relief where execution may have been had in respect of a debt due from any such company against one or a very few members of such company, and also in the means of adjusting the rights of the members of any such company amongst themselves, and finally winding up the affairs of such company;—

xxi. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, with the advice and consent of the Master of the Rolls, from time to time, and as often as circumstances shall require, to make and prescribe such rules and orders touching and concerning the form and mode of proceeding to be had and taken in the Court of Chancery for settling and enforcing the contribution to be paid by any member or members for the time being of any such company, or any former member or members thereof, or any real or personal representative, or other persons liable in that behalf, and the practice to be observed by such Court in or relating to such proceeding, or any matters incident thereto, and the form and mode of proceeding to be had and taken before any one of the Masters of the said court, primarily or by reference from the said court, in any matter for or relating to contribution, as shall from time to time seem necessary and proper for the advancement of justice in such cases, and for adjusting and determining the rights and equities of the parties concerned, and for suing for and getting in the assets, and for ascertaining and discharging the liabilities of such companies, and requiring the creditors thereof to claim their debts, and finally winding up the affairs thereof, with as little delay, expense, and uncertainty as possible: Provided always, that such rules and orders shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within one month from the making thereof, if Parliament be then sitting, or, if Parliament be not then sitting, within one month from the commencement of the then next session of Parliament; and every rule and order so made shall be binding and obligatory and be of like force and effect as if the provisions contained therein had been expressly enacted by Parliament.

XXII. That an Act, 41 Geo. 3. (U.K.) c. 90, intituled, 'An Act for the more speedy and effectual Recovery of Debts due to His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, in right of the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and for the better Administration of Justice within the same,' shall extend to decrees or orders made by the said Court of Chancery in any suit, proceeding, or matter under or by virtue of this Act.

XXIII. That, previous to passing the last examination under a commission against any such company or body adjudged bankrupt, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner authorized to act in the prosecution of such commission, to inquire, by the examination of such person or persons as such Commissioner shall think fit, into the cause of the failure of such company or body; and after the passing of such last examination, or after the time allowed by such Court for that purpose shall have elapsed, such Court shall cause a copy of the balance sheet filed in the court under such commission to be transmitted to the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations, and such Commissioner shall at the same time certify in writing to the said committee what, in the opinion of such Commissioner, was the cause of the failure of such company or body, and shall have liberty to state any special circumstances relating to the formation or management of the affairs of such company or body, and shall cause to be annexed to such certificate a copy of the examination of any person or persons taken under such commission, and which such Commissioner shall deem material, relating to the formation or management of the affairs of such company or body.

XXIV. That after the Commissioner shall have certified to the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations the cause of the failure of any such company or body adjudged bankrupt, it shall and may be lawful for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, upon the recommendation of the said Committee, by any instrument in writing under her or their great seal of Ireland, to signify her or their pleasure for revoking and making void, and thereby to revoke and make void, all the powers, privileges, and advantages at any time by any charter or letters patent or Act of Parliament granted to such company or body, and to determine the same, and thereupon the said powers, privileges and advantages shall accordingly be revoked, and the same company or body shall be determined, without any inquisition, scire facias, or any matter or thing to make void or determine the same, anything in such charter or letters patent or Act of Parliament contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

XXV. That after the Commissioner shall have certified to the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations the cause of the failure of any such company or body adjudged bankrupt, the said Committee may, whenever it shall think fit, cause all the papers relating to such failure, and to the formation and management of such company or body, and to the conduct of any of the directors or other officers of the said company or body therein, or to any or either of such matters, to be laid before Her Majesty's Attorney General for Ireland, who shall direct whether any and what proceedings shall be taken thereupon against any person who was a director or other officer of such company or body, or any other person; and any prosecution or other proceeding which shall be thereupon directed by the Attorney General for Ireland shall be conducted by under the direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

XXVI. Provided and enacted, That, until the determination of such company or body by Her Majesty, her heirs, or successors, such company or body, and the persons who were officers thereof at the time of such determination, shall respectively be considered as subsisting, and as continuing such officers as aforesaid, for all the purposes for which the same as originally constituted, and that, notwithstanding such determination as aforesaid, the same shall be considered as subsisting and continuing respectively so long and so far as may be necessary for the winding up of the concerns of such company or body under the commission issued against such company or body.

XXVII. That, notwithstanding the determination of any company or body incorporated or associated within the meaning of this Act, as the case may be, by any other means than as last aforesaid, such company or body, and the persons who were officers thereof at the time of such determination, shall respectively be considered as subsisting and as continuing such officers as aforesaid, for all the purposes of this Act, so long and so far as any matters relating to such company or body shall remain unsettled.

XXVIII. That if any person, being a member of any such company or body which shall be adjudged bankrupt shall, after and with knowledge of an act of bankruptcy within the meaning of this Act committed by such company or body, or in contemplation of the bankruptcy of such company or body, have destroyed, altered, mutilated, or falsified any of the books, papers, writings, or securities of such company or body, or made or been privy to the making of any false or fraudulent entry in any book of account or other document, with intent to defraud the creditors of such company or body, or to defeat the effect of this or any other statute relating to bankrupts, every such person shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanour, and, being convicted thereof, shall be liable to be imprisoned in any common gaol or house of correction for any term not exceeding three years, with or without hard labour.

And after reciting that an Act was passed in the last session of Parliament, intituled, 'An Act for facilitating the winding up of Joint Stock Companies unable to meet their pecuniary Engagements,' the provisions whereof are applicable to companies carrying on business in England: and that several joint stock companies already have and other joint stock companies may hereafter have establishments, and have carried on or may carry on business, both in England and Ireland;—

It is Enacted,

XXIX. That in all cases in which any such joint stock company as in this Act and the said recited Act respectively is specified, and made subject to the provisions thereof, shall have had or hereafter shall have an establishment or establishments, or shall have carried on, or hereafter shall carry on business, both in England and Ireland, if the head office of such company be or shall last have been in England such company shall be deemed to be an English company, and within and subject to the provisions of the said recited Act, and not of this Act, and if the head office be or shall last have been in Ireland such company shall be deemed to be an Irish company, and within and subject to the provisions of this Act, and not of the said recited Act,

XXX. That in construing this Act all powers given or duties directed to be performed by the Lord Chancellor may be performed by the Lord Keeper or Lords Commissioners of the Great Seal of Ireland; and every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things as well as one person or thing, and bodies corporate as well as individuals; and every word importing the plural number shall extend and be applied to one person or thing as well as several persons or things; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to a female as well as a male; unless (in the cases above specified) a different construction shall be provided, or the construction be repugnant to the subject matter or context.

XXXI. That this Act shall extend only to Ireland, except where there is any special provision to the contrary.

XXXII. That this Act shall commence and take effect on the 1st of November next.

XXXIII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. XCIX.

AN ACT to amend an Act of the Tenth Year of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to the Management and Improvement of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, Parks, and Chases; and for other Purposes relating to the said Land Revenue.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Commissioners of Woods, &c. may demise or lease any portion of the shore of the sea or navigable rivers or lands derelict or gained from the sea, or hereafter to become so, for any term not exceeding ninety-nine years, where lessee shall covenant to embark or to construct docks, &c. thereon.
2. When any persons have erected buildings on Crown lands in ignorance of title of the Crown, Commissioners to grant such leases as by recited Acts is provided with reference only to value of land as building ground.
3. Leases heretofore granted of ground intended to be applied for building purposes, reserving different rents for different portions of the term, instead of one uniform rent, confirmed.
4. Commissioners, in future exercise of powers given of granting leases for ninety-nine years, to reserve either one uniform rent, or separate rents for separate parts of the term.
5. Where any licence or waiver of forfeiture reserved in any lease of the land revenues of the Crown shall be given by the Commissioners, such licence, &c. shall extend only to the breach of the particular covenant, and not prevent proceeding for subsequent breach.
6. Commissioners may accept a surrender of any lease, and grant separate leases of the hereditaments so surrendered, and apportion the rent reserved by the surrendered lease.
7. And whenever a surrender shall be made for the purpose of taking a new lease, the new lease shall be taken to be a renewal of the surrendered lease.
8. Commissioners may relieve tenants from forfeiture by reason of non-compliance with their covenants to insure buildings in names of the Commissioners for the time being; and may designate in writing any persons in whose names such insurance is to be made instead of the names of the Commissioners;—or any such insurance may be made in name of Commissioners of Woods, &c. as if they were a corporation, or jointly in such name and the names of any other persons;—and such an insurance shall be deemed a compliance with the covenant.
9. Where a tenant of Crown lands has transferred or may hereafter transfer any stock for redemption or purchase of land tax on such lands in ignorance of the exception in 38 Geo. 3, the Commissioners may transfer to such tenant so much stock as shall be a compensation for the stock transferred by such tenant.
10. Such parts of an estate near Millbank, Westminster, now vested in Her Majesty, as have not been required for purposes of the Penitentiary to be under the management of Commissioners of Woods, &c. as part of the land revenues of the Crown;—and grants, &c. already made confirmed.
11. Commissioners of Woods, &c. empowered to purchase the Grapes tavern at Kensington for the purpose of improvements.
12. Powers in 10 Geo. 4. c. 50. (as far as applicable) to extend to the said premises.
13. All monies paid by the Commissioners for said premises, and for purchase of houses in High Street, Kensington, described in schedule to 5 & 6 Vict. c. 19, and costs of forming roads, &c. to be recouped to Commissioners before any surplus shall be applicable for purposes of that Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 10 Geo. 4. c. 50, it was (amongst other things) enacted, that it should be lawful for the Commissioners or the time being of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues, as therein is mentioned, from time to time to demise or lease, or to enter into any contract or agreement for demising and leasing, any part or parts of the possessions and land revenues of the Crown to which the now reciting Act related, to any person or persons, or body or bodies politic, corporate, or collegiate, for any term not exceeding ninety-nine years from the time of making such lease or agreement; (that is to say,) amongst other hereditaments, of land or ground proper for the erection of any houses or other buildings thereupon, with or without gardens, yards, curtilages, and other appurtenances to be used therewith, and where the lessee or intended lessee should covenant or agree to erect a building or buildings thereon of greater yearly value than such land or ground; and it was further enacted, that in every lease to be granted under the power thereinbefore given there should be reserved and made payable, during the whole of the term thereby granted, such clear yearly rent as to the said Commissioners for the time being of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues should appear a reasonable rent or consideration for such lease, without asking any fine for the same, except as thereinbefore mentioned; and it was further enacted, that in any lease to be granted, under any of the powers thereinbefore given, of any land or ground, tenements or hereditaments, where, at the time of granting such lease, (or, if such lease should be granted in pursuance of a previous agreement, at the time when such agreement should have been made,) there should not be any substantial building or buildings upon the land or ground to be demised, and the lessee or lessees should agree to erect on such land or ground any building or buildings of greater yearly value than the land ground demised or agreed to be demised, it should be lawful to reserve, during any period not exceeding the first three years of the term thereby granted, a nominal rent or such other rent only as to the said Commissioners for the time being of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues should seem fit; and it was also further enacted, that before the making or entering into any agreement for making any lease by the said Commissioners of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues, under the powers thereinbefore contained, a survey of the part or parts of the possessions and land revenues of the Crown proposed to be leased, where the same should be capable of such survey, and an estimate of the value thereof, should be taken and made as in the said Act is mentioned: And that by 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 1, it was enacted, that the persons to be appointed as therein mentioned, and their successors, should be called "The Commissioners of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings," and that all Acts of Parliament, deeds, bonds, contracts, agreements, and other instruments in which the Commissioners of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues, or the Surveyor General of His Majesty's Works and Public Buildings, were named or mentioned, should apply to the Commissioners for the time being of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, so to be appointed as therein mentioned, as if such last-mentioned Commissioners had been originally named and made parties to such Acts of Parliament, deeds, bonds, contracts, agreements, and other instruments, instead of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues, and the Surveyor General of His Majesty's Works and Public Buildings: And that an Act was passed, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 69, intitled, 'An Act to extend and enlarge the powers of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings in relation to the Management and Disposition of the Land Revenue of the Crown in Scotland: And that it is expedient that the said powers of leasing contained in the said recited Acts should be altered and extended:—

I. That from and after the passing of this Act, in the execution of the powers of leasing or agreeing to lease in the said recited Acts contained of any land or ground by the said Acts authorized to be leased for any term not exceeding ninety-nine years, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, for the time being, to demise or lease, or to enter into any contract or agreement for demising and leasing, all the estate, right, title, and interest of Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in right of her Crown, of and in any portions of the shore of the sea or any arms thereof, or of navigable rivers or lands, derelict or gained, or which may hereafter become derelict or be gained, from the sea or any arms thereof, or navigable rivers, as by the said recited Acts is provided with regard to land or ground thereby authorized to be leased for any term not exceeding ninety-nine years as aforesaid, except that when the lessee or lessees shall covenant and agree to make any embankments, or do other acts, in the opinion of the said Commissioners necessary or expedient for the reclaiming any such land, or to construct or erect wharfs, docks, or other works thereon, or on any part thereof, to the satisfaction of the said Commissioners and for the permanent improvement of the value of the said land, it shall not be necessary that such lessee or lessees should agree or enter into any contract to erect on such land, or any part thereof, any building or buildings, other than and except as aforesaid.

II. That when any leases shall be granted or agreements entered into after the passing of this Act, in pursuance of the powers in the said recited Acts or this Act contained, of any land or ground, and whereon or on any part whereof any person or persons to whom any such leases may be granted, or with whom any such agreements may be entered into, may have erected any building which in the opinion of the said Commissioners were erected in ignorance of the Crown's title to such land, then such leases may be granted or agreements entered into in all respects as by the said recited Acts is provided, but without reference to or taking into consideration the value of the buildings so erected, and with reference only to the value of the land for building ground, either at the time of the erection of such buildings, or at the time of granting the said lease, or of entering into the said agreement, as the said Commissioners may think fit.

And after reciting that in the execution of the powers of granting leases in the said first recited Act contained, leases have from time to time been granted of certain parcels of ground intended to be applied for building purposes, and by reason that the ultimate value could only be ascertained and realized after a long period, instead of one uniform rent having been reserved in respect thereof during the whole term of the lease so granted as aforesaid, different rents for different portions of the term for which such leases were granted have been reserved therefore, as being the most beneficial mode of disposing of such ground for building purposes; and inasmuch as doubts may be entertained as to the validity of such leases, by reason of such varying amount in the rents reserved, instead of one uniform rent during the term granted, it is expedient that such doubts should be removed;—

It is Enacted,

III. That all such leases so granted as aforesaid, so far as regards any doubts which may arise with respect to any such reservation of rent as aforesaid, shall be as from the making thereof absolutely confirmed, and shall be taken to have been made within the powers of the said first-mentioned Act contained, anything therein to the contrary notwithstanding.

IV. That from and after the passing of this Act, in the exercise of the powers in the said first-recited Act or in this Act contained with regard to ground authorized to be let or agreed to be let for any term not exceeding ninety-nine years for building purposes, where the lessee or lessees shall agree to erect buildings thereon, or otherwise, as hereinbefore mentioned, or on any part thereof, the said Commissioners may, if they shall think fit, either reserve one uniform rent in respect thereof, or may reserve separate rents for separate parts of the term demised or agreed to be demised, varying in such manner as may be determined on by the said Commissioners for the time being, instead of one uniform rent during the said term; and all and every the leases or agreements for leases by the said Act or this Act authorized to be granted or entered into shall in all respects be made and entered into in the manner and subject in all respects as by the said first-recited Act is provided except as far as the terms and provisions of the said first-recited Act, as to the granting and making such leases and agreements as aforesaid, are hereby altered or extended.

V. That where any licence or waiver of any forfeiture or power of re-entry reserved in any lease heretofore granted or to be granted of the possessions or land revenues of the Crown shall at any time after the passing of this Act be given by the said Commissioners or any two of them, (which they are hereby authorized to do, by any memorandum in writing, without stamp), every such licence or waiver shall, unless otherwise expressed, only extend to the actual breach of the particular covenant or condition in respect of which the same is given, or to any specific breach of any proviso or covenant made or to be made, but not so as to prevent any proceeding for any subsequent breach or omission (unless otherwise specified in such licence), or to the actual assignment, under-lease, or other matter thereby specifically authorized to be done; and all rights under covenants and powers of forfeiture and re-entry in the lease contained shall remain in full force and virtue, and shall be available as against any subsequent breach of covenant or condition, assignment, under-lease, or other matter not specifically authorized or made dispensable by such licence or waiver, in the same manner as if no such licence or waiver had been given; and the condition or right of re-entry shall be and remain in all respects as if such licence or waiver had not been given, except in respect of the particular matter waived or authorized to be done or omitted.

vi. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being, in the execution of the powers contained in the said Act, 10 Geo. 4. c. 50, to accept a surrender of any lease of any of the possessions or land revenues of the Crown, and to grant separate leases of the hereditaments so surrendered, for the residue of the term for which such surrendered hereditaments were held, and to apportion the rent reserved in or by any such surrendered lease, as they shall think fit; and any leases which may heretofore have been made on any such surrender as aforesaid, and which might have been made if this Act had passed, are (so far as relates to any question as to the validity of any such surrender and regrant) hereby confirmed.

vii. That whenever a surrender shall be made of any existing lease, for the purpose of taking a new lease or leases by virtue of this Act, the new lease or leases shall be taken to be a renewal of the surrendered lease, within the scope and meaning of sect. 6. of an Act, 4 Geo. 2, intitled 'An Act for the more effectual preventing Frauds committed by Tenants, and for the more easy Recovery of Rents and Renewal of Leases,' so far as to render unnecessary the surrender of any under-leases previously to the granting of such new lease or leases, and to give full effect to such new lease in all respects, notwithstanding any under-lease or under-leases may not be surrendered.

And after reciting that in many of the leases of Crown lands there is contained a covenant on the part of the lessee to insure the buildings therein against fire in the names of the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, and in many cases such covenants have not been strictly observed, by reason of the changes of the said Commissioners, or otherwise; and it is expedient that the lessees should be relieved from the forfeiture incurred by such non-observance of covenants, and that some provision should be made for facilitating the due observance thereof in future;—

It is Enacted,

viii. That where in any lease heretofore made, or which shall at any time hereafter be made, in pursuance of the powers in the said Act of the 10 Geo. 4. c. 50, or in this Act contained, there shall be contained a covenant on the part of the lessee to insure against fire the buildings erected, or the hereditaments therein comprised, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being, or any two of them, at their discretion, to release by licence or waiver, as hereinbefore is provided, the tenant or lessee from any such covenant, where default has been made in the same or not, or for any particular breach thereof; and where any such insurance is covenanted to be made in the names of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being, or in the joint names of the same Commissioners and any other person or persons, or otherwise, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners for the time being, or any two of them, at their discretion, to designate in writing any person or persons in whose name or names such insurance is to be made in lieu of the names of the said Commissioners for the time being; and the name or names of such person or persons shall be in all respects equivalent to the names of the said Commissioners for the time being, for the purposes of any such insurance and covenant, and shall so continue until such designation as aforesaid shall be revoked in writing, and a new person or persons appointed for the purposes aforesaid by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being, or any two of them; any such insurance may be made in the name of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, as if they were a corporation, or jointly in such name and in the name or names of any other person or persons; and the Commissioners aforesaid, from time to time, by the name of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, alone or jointly with any other person or persons, as the case may be, shall re and recover and receive under any policy so effected as aforesaid, in all respects by such name as aforesaid, and as if they were incorporated by such name; and any insurance made in the name or names of the person or persons so nominated as aforesaid either solely or jointly with any other person or persons (as the case may be), or in the name of the said Commissioners as aforesaid, and either jointly or solely as aforesaid, and as the said Commissioners for the time being, or any two of them, shall direct, shall be and be deemed to all intents and purposes a compliance with and performance of any covenant so entered into, or hereafter to be entered into, to insure in the names of the said Commissioners for the time being, either solely or jointly with any other person or persons, or otherwise.

And after reciting that by an Act of 38 Geo. 3, for the redemption of the land tax, the tenants of Crown lands were excepted from the general preference in purchasing or redeeming the land tax therein given to persons having any estate or interest in the lands or hereditaments wherein any land tax was chargeable: and that by an Act of 42 Geo. 3, for making further provision for the redemption of the land tax, after mentioning that it might have happened that tenants or lessees of Crown lands had redeemed the land tax charged thereon, and had transferred the consideration for the redemption thereof as if they had been empowered to contract for the same, it was by the last-mentioned Act provided that it should be lawful for the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, for the time being, in all such cases to cause to be transferred to any such lessees or tenants so much capital stock as should be equivalent in amount to the stock transferred by such lessees or tenants for the redemption of such land tax which ought not to have been contracted for, and thereupon His Majesty, his heirs and successors, should be entitled to the benefit of such land tax: And that by 10 Geo. 4. c. 50. it was enacted that it should be lawful for the said Commissioners for the time being of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues to ferm the land tax charged on any part of the possessions of the Crown, and to purchase any land tax on any part thereof which might have been redeemed or should be redeemed by any other person or persons, but such provision was not authorized any person or persons to purchase or redeem the land tax charged on any Crown lands contrary to the provisions of the 42 Geo. 3: And that lessees or tenants of Crown lands may have entered into, or may hereafter enter into, contracts for the purchase or redemption of the land tax on such lands, and may have transferred or may transfer to the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt sums of 3l. per cent. Bank annuities, as the consideration for the purchase or redemption of such land tax, in ignorance of the exception in the said Act of 38 Geo. 3, hereinbefore referred to; and it is expedient that the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being should be empowered to reimburse such tenants or lessees, their executors, administrators, or assigns, as after mentioned, and that thereupon such Crown lands as aforesaid should become exempt from land tax;—

ix. That in any case where any tenant or lessee of any part of the possessions of the Crown to which the said Act, 10 Geo. 4 c. 50, or this Act relates shall have transferred, or at any time hereafter shall transfer, any sum or sums of stock into the names of the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, for the purpose of purchasing or redeeming the land tax on the Crown lands of which such person was or shall be such tenant or lessee, and such attempted purchase or redemption shall be invalid or doubtful under the aforesaid provision of the said Act of 38 Geo. 3, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being, with the consent in writing of the Lord High Treasurer for the time being, or of any three of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury for the time being, by and out of the annual income of the land revenues of the Crown, to purchase and cause to be transferred to any such lessee or tenant as aforesaid, his executors, administrators, or assigns, so much stock as, under all the circumstances of the case, shall, in the judgment of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, be a due compensation for the stock so transferred by such tenant or lessee; and upon the execution by the party to whom such stock shall be so transferred of an instrument in writing acknowledging the transfer thereof (to be enrolled in the office of Land Revenue Records and Enrolments), the lands on which the land tax shall have been so attempted to be purchased or redeemed by such tenant or lessee as aforesaid shall become and be absolutely freed and discharged of and from the payment of the land tax, and all arrears thereof: Provided always, that during the continuance of the estate of any such tenant or lessee, his executors, administrators, or assigns, by whom such attempted purchase or redemption of land tax as aforesaid shall have been made, Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, shall have and be entitled to a rent-charge to be issuing out of such lands the land tax whereof shall have been so redeemed, equal in amount to the land tax redeemed; and such rent shall be payable yearly, and shall be recovered by distress as in case of rent reserved on lease.

And after reciting that it is expedient that such parts of an estate situate at or near Millbank in the city of Westminster and county of Middlesex, and now vested in Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, as have not been required for the purposes of the Penitentiary at Millbank, should be let on building leases, or otherwise advantageously disposed of;—

x. That such parts of the said estate and hereditaments at Millbank aforesaid as have not been used for the purpose of the said Penitentiary shall be under the management of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being, in like manner in all respects as the possessions and land revenues of the Crown to which the said Act, 10 Geo. 4. c. 50, relates are under the management of the same Commissioners under or by virtue of the last-mentioned Act, or any other Act or Acts now made or hereafter to be made; and the said hereditaments shall be taken and considered as part of the possessions and land revenues of the Crown to which the said Act, 10 Geo. 4. c. 50, relates; and every grant, lease, or agreement of such parts of the said hereditaments, already made or entered into by the said last-mentioned Commissioners, is hereby confirmed, in all respects as if the same had been made or entered into after the passing of this Act.

And after reciting the passing of an Act, 5 Vict., intituled, 'An Act to authorize Her Majesty's Commissioners of Woods to grant Building Leases of the Royal Kitchen Garden at Kensington, and to form and improve other Royal Gardens: and to enable the said Commissioners to purchase Lands of Copyhold or Customary Tenure.' And of another Act, 5 Vict. (Session 2), intituled, 'An Act to empower the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods to form a new Opening from the Knightsbridge Road into Hyde Park, and a new Opening from High Street, Kensington, into an intended new Road across the Palace Green, and for annexing a Piece of extra-parochial Ground in the Royal Garden to the respective Parishes of Saint Mary Abbots Kensington and Saint Mary Paddington in several Portions.' And that the opening from High Street, Kensington, into the new road across the Palace Green, contemplated by the last-mentioned Act, has been made, but the same being narrow and confined it is desirable and expedient that such opening should be widened and enlarged;—

xi. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, for and on behalf of Her Majesty, and they are hereby empowered, with the consent and approbation of the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Treasurer of the United Kingdom, or any three or more of them, to purchase a certain piece or parcel of ground, messuage or tenement, and buildings, with the appurtenances, situate on the north side of High Street, Kensington, in the county of Middlesex, known as the Grapes Tavern, and all subsisting terms, estates, charges, and interests therein, and to pull down such buildings when so purchased, and to appropriate the site thereof, or any part thereof, towards widening the said entrance or approach from High Street, Kensington, aforesaid, into the new road across the Palace Green aforesaid.

xii. That all the powers and provisions contained in the hereinbefore recited Act of 10 Geo. 4. c. 50, with reference to contracts and sales to be made to and with His Majesty, his heirs and successors, or to and with the Commissioners of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues, on behalf of Her Majesty, shall, so far as the same are applicable, extend and apply to the said piece or parcel of ground, messuage, and buildings, with the appurtenances known as the Grapes Tavern, at Kensington aforesaid, and to the owners or occupiers thereof, or other parties in anywise interested therein; and all the provisions in the said Act as regards stamps shall apply to this Act: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall authorize the said Commissioners to take or use the said last-mentioned premises against the consent of the parties interested therein, and by the Act last hereinbefore mentioned authorized and empowered to convey the same.

XIII. Declared and enacted, That all monies paid or to be paid by the said Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, for or incident to the purchase of the Grapes Tavern, with its appurtenances, aforesaid, and all monies paid or to be paid by the said Commissioners for or incident to the purchase of the houses and hereditaments in High Street, Kensington, aforesaid, described in the Schedule to the hereinbefore recited Act of 5 Vict. (Session 2), and also all the costs and expenses incurred or to be incurred by the said Commissioners in forming and completing roads or sewers upon or across or otherwise in appropriating and adapted for building purposes the ground at or near Kensington, mentioned in the Schedule to the hereinbefore first-recited Act of 5 Vict., shall be taken into account and recouped to the funds or property under the charge of the said Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, before any surplus shall be deemed to have arisen or become applicable for the purposes mentioned in the said last hereinbefore mentioned Act of 5 Vict.

By this ACT, it is Enacted,

i. That from and after the passing of this Act, 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 107, 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 64, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 22, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 73, 5 Vict. c. 4, and 5 & 6 Vict. c. 87, shall be and the same are hereby repealed, save and except so far as they or any of them repeat any other Act: Provided always, that until the appointment for any jurisdiction of visitors and their clerk under the provisions of this Act the visitors and clerk appointed for such jurisdiction under the said repealed Acts or any of them shall respectively have and perform the powers, authorities, and duties which they would have respectively had or performed if appointed under this Act: Provided also, that all licences heretofore granted shall remain in force for the periods for which they were respectively granted, unless revoked as hereinafter provided; and that all orders, matters, and things which have been granted, made, done, or directed to be done in pursuance of the said repealed Acts or any of them shall be and remain as good, valid, and effectual to all intents and purposes as if the said repealed Acts had not been repealed, except so far as such orders, matters, or things are expressly made void or affected by this Act; and that all fees, charges, and expenses which have become payable under the said repealed Acts or any of them shall be payable in the same manner and from the same funds as would have been applicable thereto in case such Acts had not been repealed.

ii. That the persons already appointed and hereafter to be appointed under an Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 84, intituled, 'An Act to alter and amend the Practice and Course of Proceeding under Commissions in the Nature of Writs De lunatico inquirendo,' whereby the Lord Chancellor is empowered to appoint two persons, to be called "The Commissioners in Lunacy," shall henceforth be and be called "The Masters in Lunacy," and shall take the same rank and precedence as the Masters in ordinary of the High Court of Chancery.

iii. That the Right Honourable Lord Ashley, the Right Honourable Lord Seymour, the Right Honourable Robert Vernon Smith, Robert Gordon, of Lewiston, in the county of Dorset, Esquire, Francis Barlow of Montagu Square, Esquire, Thomas Turner of Curzon Street, Esquire, Henry Herbert Southey of Harley Street, Esquire, John Robert Hume of Curzon Street aforesaid, Esquire, Bryan Waller Proctor of Gray's Inn, Esquire, James William Mylne of Lincoln's Inn, Esquire, and John Hancock Hall of the Middle Temple, Esquire, (which said Thomas Turner, Henry Herbert Southey, and John Robert Hume, and no other of the said persons, are physicians, and which said Bryan Waller Proctor, James William Mylne, and John Hancock Hall, and no other of the said persons, are practising barristers at law of ten years standing at the bar and upwards,) and their respective successors, to be appointed as hereinafter provided, shall be Commissioners for the purposes of this Act, to be called "The Commissioners in Lunacy;" and that such Commissioners for the time being shall respectively hold their offices during good behaviour, and shall not, so long as they shall remain such Commissioners, receive any salary under this Act, accept, hold, or carry on any other office or situation, or any profession or employment, from which any gain or profit shall be derived; and that there shall be paid to each of the six Commissioners for the time being who shall be physicians, surgeons, or barristers of five years standing and upwards, out of the monies or funds herein-after mentioned, over and above their respective travelling and other expenses whilst employed in visiting any houses, hospitals, asylums, gaols, workhouses, or other places, in pursuance of this Act, the yearly salary of 1,500*l.*, by four equal quarterly payments, on the 29th of September, the 25th of December, the 26th of March, and the 24th of June in every year, the first of each such payments (or a proportionate part thereof, to be computed, in the case of the Commissioners appointed by this Act, from the passing of the Act, and in case of the Commissioners to be appointed as herein-after provided, from the time of the respective appointments of such Commissioners,) to be made to such Commissioners respectively on such of the same days of payment as shall first happen after the passing of this Act, or after the date of their respective appointments, as the case may be.

iv. That as often as any Commissioner appointed by this Act or to be appointed under this present provision shall die, or be removed for ill-behaviour, or be disqualified, or resign or refuse to act, or become unable by illness or otherwise to perform the duties or exercise the powers of this Act, the Lord Chancellor shall appoint a person to be a Commissioner in the room of the Commissioner who shall die, or be removed, or be disqualified, or resign, or refuse or become unable to act as aforesaid, but so that every person so appointed in the room of a physician shall be a physician or surgeon, and every person so appointed in the room of a barrister of five years standing at the bar and upwards shall be a practising barrister of not less than five years standing at the bar, and every person appointed in the room of any other Commissioner shall be neither a physician nor a surgeon, nor a practising barrister; and until such appointment it shall be lawful for the continuing Commissioners or Commissioner to act as if there were no such vacancy.

v. That any superannuation allowance to be granted to any Commissioner appointed or to be appointed under this Act shall be granted only in respect of services performed under this Act, and shall be subject to the provisions of an Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 24, intitled, 'An Act to alter, amend, and consolidate the Laws for regulating the Pensions, Compensation, and Allowances to be made to Persons in respect of their having held Civil Offices in His Majesty's Service,' so far as such provisions relate to officers and clerks who had entered or might enter the public service subsequent to the 4th of August 1872.

vi. That every person hereby or hereafter appointed a Commissioner under this Act shall, before he acts in the execution of his duty as a Commissioner, take an oath to the following effect; (that is to say,)

'I A.B. do swear, That I will discreetly, impartially, and faithfully execute all the trusts and powers committed unto me by virtue of an Act of Parliament made in the Ninth Year of the Reign of Her present Majesty Queen Victoria, intitled [here insert the Title of the Act]; and that I will keep secret all such matters as shall come to my knowledge in the execution of my Office (except when required to divulge the same by legal Authority, or so far as I shall feel myself called upon to do so for the better Execution of the Duty imposed on me by the said Act). So help me GOD.'

Which oath it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to administer to every such Commissioner; and any three of the Commissioners who shall have previously taken the oath are hereby authorized to administer such oath to any other Commissioner.

vii. That the Commissioners shall cause to be made a seal of the commission, and shall cause to be sealed or stamped therewith all licences, orders and instruments granted or made, or issued, or authorized by the Commissioners, in pursuance of this Act, except such orders or instruments as are hereinafter required or directed to be given or signed and sealed by one Commissioner or two Commissioners; and all such licences, orders and instruments, or copies thereof, purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the commission, shall be received as evidence of the same respectively, and of the same respectively having been granted, made, issued, or authorized by the Commissioners, without any further proof thereof; and so such licence, order, or instrument, or copy thereof, shall be valid, or have any force or effect, unless the same shall be so sealed or stamped as aforesaid.

viii. That the Commissioners or any five of them shall, as soon as may be after the passing of this Act, meet at the usual office or place of business now occupied or used by the Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy, or at such other place as the Lord Chancellor shall direct, and elect one of the same Commissioners (not being a physician or a barrister receiving any salary by virtue of this Act) to be the permanent chairman of the commission; and in case such permanent chairman, or any other permanent chairman who shall thereafter be elected in pursuance of this provision, shall die, or decline or become incapable to act as chairman, or shall cease to be a Commissioner, then and as often as the same shall happen the Commissioners for the time being, or any five of them, at any meeting to be specially summoned for that purpose, shall elect another person to be the permanent chairman of the Commission in the place of the chairman who shall so die, or decline or become incapable to act, or cease to be a Commissioner as aforesaid; and in case the permanent chairman for the time being shall be absent from any meeting it shall be lawful for the majority of the Commissioners present at any such meeting to elect a chairman for that meeting; and in all cases every question shall be decided by a majority of voters (the chairman, whether permanent or temporary, having a vote), and in the event of an equality of votes the chairman for the time being shall have an additional or casting vote.

ix. That Robert Wilfred Skeffington Lutwidge of Lincoln's Inn, Esq., shall be the secretary to the Commissioners; and that the said Robert Wilfred Skeffington Lutwidge, and every secretary to be hereafter appointed, shall be removable from his office by the Lord Chancellor, on the application of the Commissioners; and that as often as the said Robert Wilfred Skeffington Lutwidge, or any secretary to be appointed under this present provision, shall die, or resign to be removed from his office, the Commissioners, with the approbation of the Lord Chancellor, shall appoint a person to be secretary in the room of the said Robert Wilfred Skeffington Lutwidge, or other the secretary who shall die or resign or be removed as aforesaid; and that the secretary for the time being shall, in the performance of all his duties, and in all respects, be subject to the inspection, direction, and controul of the Commissioners; and that there shall be paid to the secretary for the time being, out of the monies and funds herein-after mentioned, the yearly salary of 800*l.* by four equal quarterly payments, on the 29th of September, the 25th of December, the 25th of March, and the 24th of June in every year, the first of such payments (or a proportionate part thereof, to be computed, in the case of the said Robert Wilfred Skeffington Lutwidge, from the passing of this Act, and in case of every other secretary from the time of his appointment,) to be made to the said Robert Wilfred Skeffington Lutwidge on such of the same days of payment as shall first happen after the passing of this Act, and to every other secretary for the time being on such of the same days of payment as shall first happen after his appointment.

x. That any superannuation allowance to be granted to any secretary appointed or to be appointed under this Act shall be granted only in respect of services performed under this Act, and shall be subject to the provisions of an Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 24, intituled, 'An Act to alter, amend, and consolidate the Laws for regulating the Pensions, Compensation, and Allowances to be made to Persons in respect of their having held Civil Offices in His Majesty's Service,' so far as such provisions relate to officers and clerks who had entered or might enter the public service subsequent to the 4th of August 1829.

xi. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to appoint, during pleasure, any two persons as clerks to the Commissioners, and to allow to such two clerks any such yearly or other salaries (not exceeding in the whole the yearly sum of 200*l.* for such two clerks) as the Commissioners shall think proper; and further, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, at any time hereafter, in case they shall find it expedient so to do, for the due performance of the business of the commission, with the consent of the Lord High Treasurer, or of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or of any three or more of them, to appoint one or two other clerks (in addition to the two clerks firstly hereinbefore mentioned), and to allow to such one or two additional clerk or clerks any such yearly or other salaries as the Commissioners shall think fit (not exceeding in the whole the yearly sum of 200*l.*); and such salaries shall be paid out of the monies or funds hereinafter mentioned.

xii. That every person appointed to be secretary or clerk as aforesaid shall, before he shall act as such secretary or clerk take the following oath, to be administered by any one of the Commissioners:

'I A. B. do swear, That I will faithfully execute all such Trusts and Duties as shall be committed to my Charge as Secretary, to the Commissioners in Lunacy [or as Clerk to the Commissioners in Lunacy, as the case may be]; and that I will keep secret all such Matters as shall come to my Knowledge in the execution of my Office (except when required to divulge the same by legal Authority).
So help me GOD.'

xiii. That immediately after the passing of this Act the clerk to the Metropolitan Commissioners in Lunacy appointed under the said Act, 2 & 3 Will. 4. c. 107, or under any of the other Acts hereby repealed, shall forthwith deliver up every book, paper, and document, and all goods, property, and effects which may be in his possession by virtue of his said office, or in consequence thereof, or connected with the business thereof, to the Commissioners in Lunacy hereby appointed; and every book, paper, and document, and all goods, property, and effects respectively, which shall be so delivered unto or shall hereafter come into the possession of the Commissioners in Lunacy by virtue of their office, shall thereupon be vested in and shall be deemed to be the property of the Commissioners in Lunacy for the time being.

xiv. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners (if and when they shall think fit) to grant a licence to any person to keep a house for the reception of lunatics, or of any sex or class of lunatics, within the places following; (that is to say,) the cities of London and Westminster, the county of Middlesex, the borough of Southwark, and the several parishes and places hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say,) Brixton, Battersea, Barnes, Saint Mary Magdalen Bermondsey, Christ Church Clapham, Saint Giles Camberwell, Dulwich, Saint Paul Deptford, Gravenay, Kew Green, Kennington, Saint Mary Lambeth, Mortlake, Merton, Mitcham, Saint Mary Newington, Norwood, Putney, Peckham, Saint Mary Rotherhithe, Roehampton, Streatham, Stockwell, Tooting, Wimbledon, Wandsworth, and Walworth, in the county of Surrey; Blackheath, Charlton, Deptford, Greenwich, Lewisham, Lee, Southend, and Woolwich, in the county of Kent; and East Ham, Layton, Laytonstone, Low Layton, Plaistow, West Ham, and Walthamstow, in the county of Essex; and also within every other place (if any) within the distance of seven miles from any part of the said cities of London or Westminster, or of the said borough of Southwark; all which cities, county, borough, parishes, and places aforesaid shall be and are hereafter referred to as the immediate jurisdiction of the Commissioners.

xv. That the Commissioners or some five of them shall meet at the usual office or place of business which shall for the time being be occupied or used by the said Commissioners, or at such other place as the Lord Chancellor may direct, on the first Wednesday in the months of February, May, July, and November in every year, in order to receive applications from persons requiring houses to be licensed for the reception of lunatics within the immediate jurisdiction of the Commissioners, and (if they shall think fit) to license the same; and in case on any such occasion five Commissioners shall not be present the meeting shall take place on the next succeeding Wednesday, and so on weekly until five Commissioners shall be assembled; and the Commissioners assembled at every such meeting shall have power to adjourn such meeting from time to time and to such place as they shall see fit: Provided always, nevertheless, that it shall be lawful for any five of the Commissioners at any other time, at any meeting duly summoned under the provisions in that behalf hereinafter contained, to receive applications from persons requiring houses to be licensed as aforesaid, and, if they shall think fit, to license the same.

xvi. That when and so often as any Commissioner shall by writing under his hand require the secretary to convene a meeting of the Commissioners for a purpose or purposes specified in such writing, or for the general despatch of business, such secretary is hereby required to convene such meeting by summons to the other Commissioners, or such of them as shall then in England and shall have an address known to the secretary, and to give them, as far as circumstances will admit, at least twenty-four hours notice of the place, day, and hour where and on and at which such meeting is intended to be held, and also to state in the summons the purpose or purposes of such meeting, as specified by the Commissioner requiring the same to be convened; and then and in every such case it shall be lawful for any three of the Commissioners to assemble themselves to consider, and (if they shall think fit) to execute the purpose or purposes of such meeting: Provided always, nevertheless, that nothing shall be done at any such meeting, at which less than five Commissioners shall be present, which this Act is required to be done by five Commissioners: Provided also, that every such meeting shall, as far as circumstances will admit, be held at the usual office or place of business of the Commissioners.

xvii. That in all places not being within the immediate jurisdiction of the Commissioners the Justices for the county or borough assembled in general or quarter sessions shall have the same authority within their respective counties or boroughs to license houses for the reception of lunatics as the Commissioners within their immediate jurisdiction; and that the said Justices shall, at the Michaelmas General or Quarter Sessions in every year, appoint three or more Justices, and also one physician, surgeon, or apothecary, or more, to act as visitors of every or any house or houses licensed for the reception of lunatics within the said counties or boroughs respectively; and such visitors shall at their first meeting take the oath required by this Act to be taken by the Commissioners, mutatis mutandis, such oath to be administered by a Justice.

XVIII. That in case at any time of the death, inability, disqualification, resignation, or refusal to act of any person so appointed a visitor as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Justices of the county or borough, at any General or Quarter Sessions, to appoint a visitor in the room of the person who shall die, or be unable or be disqualified, or resign, or refuse to act as aforesaid.

XIX. That a list of the names, places of abode, occupations, or professions of all visitors appointed as hereinbefore is directed shall, within fourteen days from the date of their respective appointments, be published by the clerk of the peace of the county or borough for which they shall be respectively appointed in some newspaper commonly circulated within the same county or borough, and shall, within three days from the date of their respective appointments, be sent by the clerk of the peace to the Commissioners; and every clerk of the peace making default in either of the respects aforesaid shall for every such default forfeit a sum not exceeding 2*l*.

XX. That every such visitor as aforesaid, being a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, shall be paid out of the monies or funds hereinafter mentioned for every day during which he shall be employed in executing the duties of this Act such sum as the Justices of the county or borough shall in General or Quarter Sessions direct.

XXI. That the clerk of the peace, or some other person to be appointed by the Justices for the county or borough in General or Quarter Sessions, shall act as clerk to the visitors so appointed as aforesaid, and such clerk shall summon the visitors to meet at such time and place, for the purpose of executing the duties of this Act, as the said Justices in General or Quarter Sessions shall appoint; and every such appointment, summons, and meeting shall be made and held as privately as may be, and in such manner that no proprietor, superintendent, or person interested in or employed about or connected with any house to be visited shall have notice of such intended visitation; and such clerk to the visitors shall, at their first meeting, take the oath required by this Act to be taken by the Secretary of the Commissioners, mutatis mutandis, such oath to be administered by one of the visitors, being a Justice; and the name, place of abode, occupation, and profession of the clerk to the visitors (whether the same shall be the clerk of the peace or any other person) shall within fourteen days after the appointment be published by the clerk of the peace for the county or borough in some newspaper commonly circulated therein, and within three days from the date of the appointment be communicated by the said clerk of the peace to the Commissioners; and every clerk of the peace making default in either of the respects aforesaid shall for every such default forfeit a sum not exceeding 2*l*; and every such clerk to the visitors shall be allowed such salary or remuneration for his services (to be paid out of the monies or funds hereinafter mentioned) as the Justices for the county or borough shall in General or Quarter Sessions direct.

XXII. That if the clerk of any visitors shall at any time desire to employ an assistant in the execution of the duties of his office, such clerk shall certify such desire and the name of such assistant to one of the visitors, being a Justice; and if such visitor shall approve thereof he shall administer the following oath to such assistant:

'I A.B. do solemnly swear, That I will faithfully keep secret all such Matters and Things as shall come to my Knowledge in consequence of my Employment as Assistant to the Clerk of the Visitors appointed for the County [or Borough] of

'by virtue of an Act of Parliament passed in the Ninth Year of the Reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, intitled [here insert the Title of the Act], unless required to divulge the same by legal Authority. So help me GOD.'

And such clerk may thereafter, at his own cost, employ such assistant.

XXIII. That no person shall be or act as a commissioner, or visitor, or secretary, or clerk to the Commissioners, or clerk or assistant clerk to any visitors, or act in granting any licence, who shall then be, or shall within one year then next preceding have been, directly or indirectly interested in any house licensed for the reception of lunatics, or the profits of such reception; and no physician or surgeon (being a Commissioner), and no physician, surgeon, or apothecary, (being a visitor,) shall sign any certificate for the admission of any patient into any licensed house or hospital, or shall professionally attend upon any patient in any licensed house or hospital, unless he be directed to visit such patient by the person upon whose order such patient has been received into such licensed house or hospital, or by the Lord Chancellor, or Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the time being for the Home Department, or by a committee appointed by the Lord Chancellor; and if any such commissioner, or visitor, or secretary or clerk to the Commissioners, or clerk or assistant clerk to any visitors, shall after his appointment be or become so interested in any house licensed for the reception of lunatics, or the profits of such reception, such commissioner, visitor, secretary, or clerk, or assistant clerk, as the case may be, shall immediately thereupon be disqualified from acting and shall cease to act in such capacity; and if any person, being disqualified as aforesaid, shall take the office of commissioner, visitor, secretary, clerk, or assistant clerk, or, being a commissioner, visitor, secretary, clerk, or assistant clerk, shall become disqualified as aforesaid, and shall afterwards continue to act in such capacity, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and if any physician or surgeon (being a Commissioner), or any physician, surgeon, or apothecary, (being a visitor,) shall sign any certificate for the admission of any patient into any licensed house or hospital, or shall professionally attend any patient in any licensed house or hospital (except as aforesaid), such physician, surgeon, or apothecary (as the case may be) shall for each offence against this provision forfeit the sum of 10*l*.

XXIV. That every person who shall desire to have a house licensed for the reception of lunatics shall give a notice, if such house be situate within the immediate jurisdiction of the Commissioners, to the Commissioners, or if elsewhere to the clerk of the peace for the county or borough in which such house is situate, fourteen clear days at the least prior to some quarterly or other meeting of the Commissioners, or to some General or Quarter Sessions for such county or borough, as the case be; and such notice shall contain the true christian and surname, place of abode, and occupation of the person to whom the licence is desired to be granted, and a true and full description of his estate or interest in such house; and in case the person to whom the licence is desired to be granted does not propose to reside himself in the licensed house, the true christian and surname and occupation of the superintendent who is to reside therein; and such notice, when given for any house which shall not have been previously licensed, shall be accompanied by a plan of such house, to be drawn upon a scale of not less than one-eighth of an inch to a foot, with a description of the situation thereof, and the length, breadth, and height of and a reference by a figure or letter to every room and apartment therein, and a statement of the quantity of land, not covered by any building, annexed to such house, and appropriated to the exclusive use, exercise, and recreation of the patients proposed to be received therein, and also a statement of the number of patients proposed to be received into such house, and whether the licence so applied for is for the reception of male or female patients, or of both, and if for the reception of both, of the number of each sex proposed to be received into such house, and of the means by which the one sex may be kept distinct and apart from the other; and such notice, plan, and statement, when sent to the clerk of the peace, shall be laid by him before the Justices of the county or borough at such time as they shall take into their consideration the application for such licence: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for any person to whom a licence shall be granted to remove the superintendent, named in the notice, and at any time or times to appoint another superintendent, upon giving a notice containing the true christian and surname and occupation of the new superintendent to the Commissioners or the visitors of the house, as the case may require: Provided always, that all plans heretofore delivered shall be deemed sufficient for the purposes of this Act, if the Commissioners or Justices, as the case may be, shall so think fit.

xxv. That no one licence shall include or extend to more than one house; but if there be any place or building detached from a house to be licensed, but not separated therefrom by ground belonging to any other person, and if such place or building be specified, delineated, and described in the notice, plan, and statement hereinbefore required to be given, in the same manner in all particulars as if the same had formed part of such house, then such detached place or building may be included in the licence for the house, if the Commissioners or Justices, as the case may be, shall think fit, and if so included shall be considered part of such house for the purposes of this Act: Provided always, that no person hereafter receiving a licence for the first time shall receive any licence for the reception of lunatics in any lunatic asylum who shall not reside on the premises for which he is licensed.

xxvi. That no addition or alteration shall be made to, in, or about any licensed house, or the appurtenances, unless previous notice in writing of such proposed addition or alteration, accompanied with a plan of such addition or alteration, to be drawn upon the scale aforesaid, and to be accompanied by such description as aforesaid, shall have been given by the person to whom the licence shall have been granted to the Commissioners or to the clerk of the peace, as the case may be, and the consent in writing of the Commissioners, or of two of the visitors, as the case may be, shall have been previously given.

xxvii. That if any person shall wilfully give an untrue or incorrect notice, plan, statement, or description of any of the things hereinbefore required to be included in any notice, plan, or statement, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

xxviii. That in every case in which a licence for the reception of lunatics shall after the passing of this Act be granted by any Justices the clerk of the peace for the county or borough shall, within fourteen days after such licence shall have been granted, send a copy thereof to the Commissioners; and any clerk of the peace omitting to send such copy within such time shall for every such omission forfeit a sum not exceeding 2*l*.

xxix. That in every case in which any person shall apply for the renewal of a licence already granted or hereafter to be granted, such person, if applying to the Commissioners, shall with such application transmit to the Commissioners, and if applying to any Justices shall with such application transmit to the clerk of the peace for the county or borough, and also at the same time to the Commissioners, a statement signed by the person so applying, containing the names and number of the patients of each or either sex then detained in such house, and distinguishing whether such patients respectively are private or pauper patients; and any person who shall hereafter obtain the renewal of a licence without making such return or returns shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 10*l*.; and any person who shall make any such return untrue shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

xxx. That every licence shall, as nearly as conveniently may be, be according to the form in the Schedule (A.) annexed to this Act, and shall be stamped with a 10*s*. stamp, and shall be under the seal of the Commissioners, if granted by them, and if by any Justices under the hands and seals of three or more such Justices in General or Quarter Sessions assembled, and shall be granted for such period, not exceeding thirteen calendar months, as the Commissioners or Justices, as the case may be, shall think fit.

xxxi. That no licence shall be granted or visitor or clerk appointed by the Justices for any borough without the consent in writing of the recorder of such borough to such grant or appointment.

xxxi. That for every licence to be hereafter granted there shall be paid to the secretary of the Commissioners, or to the clerk of the peace, according as the licence shall be granted by the Commissioners or Justices (exclusive of the sum to be paid for the stamp) the sum of 10*s*. and no more for every patient not being a pauper, and the sum of 2*s*. 6*d*. and no more for every patient being a pauper, proposed to be received into such house, and if the total amount of such sums of 10*s*. and 6*d*. shall not amount to 15*l*., then so much more as shall make up the sum of 15*l*.; and no such licence shall be delivered until the sum payable for the same shall be paid: Provided always, that if the period for which a licence shall be granted be not more than thirteen calendar months it shall be lawful for the Commissioners or the Justices, as the case may be, to reduce the sum to be made on such licence to any sum not less than 5*l*.

xxxii. That all monies received for licences granted by the Commissioners, and for searches made in pursuance of the provisions for that purpose hereinafter contained, shall be retained by the secretary of the Commissioners, and be applied by him or towards the payment of the salaries and travelling and other expenses of the Commissioners and of their secretary clerks, and in or towards the payment or discharge of all or any costs, charges, and expenses incurred by or under the authority of the Commissioners in the execution of or under or by virtue of this Act.

xxxiv. That the secretary of the Commissioners shall make out an account of all monies received and paid by him as aforesaid, and of all monies otherwise received and paid by him, and of all charges and expenses incurred under or by virtue of or in the execution of this Act; and such account shall be made up to the 1st of August in each year, and shall be signed by five at least of the Commissioners; and such account shall specify the several heads of charge and expenditure, and shall be transmitted to the Lord High Treasurer, or to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, who shall thereupon audit such account, and, if he or they shall deem it expedient, direct the balance (if any) remaining in the hands of the said secretary to be paid into the Exchequer to the account of the Consolidated Fund; and such accounts shall be laid before Parliament on or before the 25th of March in each year, if Parliament be then sitting, or if Parliament be not then sitting then within one month after the then next sitting of Parliament.

xxxv. That it shall be lawful for the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, and they are hereby directed and empowered, from time to time (on an application to them, agreed to at some quarterly or other meeting of the Commissioners, attended by five at least of the Commissioners, and certified under their hands,) to cause to be issued and paid out of the Consolidated Fund to the secretary of the Commissioners such a sum of money as the Commissioners shall in such application have certified to be requisite to pay and discharge so much of the salaries, costs, charges, and expenses hereinbefore directed to be paid out of the monies received by the said secretary for licences and otherwise as aforesaid as such monies shall be inadequate to pay, and the said secretary shall thereupon apply such money in or towards the payment or discharge of such salaries, costs, charges, and expenses respectively; and that it shall be lawful for the Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, from time to time to advance by way of imprest to the said secretary such sum or sums of money as to such Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may appear requisite and reasonable, for or towards the payment or discharge of all or any such salaries, costs, charges, or expenses as aforesaid, such sum or sums to be accounted for by the said secretary in his then next account.

xxxvi. That all monies to be received for licences granted by any Justices shall be applied by the clerk of the peace for the county or borough in or towards the payment of the salary or remuneration of the clerk to the visitors for such county or borough, and in or towards the remuneration of such of the same visitors as are hereinbefore directed to be remunerated, and in or towards the payment or discharge of all costs, charges, and expenses incurred by or under the authority of the same Justices or visitors in the execution of or under or by virtue of this Act.

xxxvii. That the clerk of the peace for every county or borough shall keep an account of all monies received and paid by him as aforesaid, and of all monies otherwise received or paid by him under or by virtue of or in the execution of this Act; and such account shall respectively be made up to the 1st of August in each year, and shall be signed by two at least of the visitors for the county or borough; and every such account shall be laid by the clerk of the peace before the Justices at the Michaelmas General or Quarter Sessions, who shall thereupon direct the balance (if any) remaining in the hands of the clerk of the peace to be paid into the hands of the treasurer for such county or borough, in aid and as part of the county or borough rate.

xxxviii. That it shall be lawful for the Justices for any county or borough in General or Quarter Sessions assembled, if they shall think fit, to order to be paid to the clerk of the peace of such county or borough, out of the rates or funds thereof, such sum or sums of money as they shall on examination deem to be necessary to pay and discharge so much of the salary, remuneration, costs, charges, and expenses hereinbefore directed to be paid out of the monies received by such clerk of the peace for licences and otherwise as aforesaid as such monies shall be inadequate to pay; and also that it shall be lawful for the Justices in General or Quarter Sessions assembled, if they shall think fit, from time to time to order to be advanced out of the rates or funds of such county or borough, to the clerk of the peace, such sum or sums of money as to such Justices may appear requisite and reasonable, for or towards the payment or discharge of any such salary, remuneration, costs, charges, or expenses as last aforesaid; and every such sum of money as aforesaid shall be paid and advanced out of the rates or funds of such county or borough by the treasurer thereof, and shall be allowed in his accounts, on the authority of the aforesaid order by the Justices for the payment or advance thereof.

xxxix. That if any person to whom a licence shall have been granted under this Act or under any of the Acts hereinbefore repealed shall by sickness or other sufficient reason become incapable of keeping the licensed house, or shall die before the expiration of the licence, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners or for any three Justices for the county or borough, as the case may be, if they shall respectively think fit, by writing indorsed on such licence, under the seal of the Commissioners or under the hands of such three Justices, to transfer the said licence, with all the privileges and obligations annexed thereto, for the term then unexpired, to such person as shall at the time of such incapacity or death be the superintendent of such house, or have the care of the patients therein, or to such other person as the Commissioners or such Justices respectively shall approve, and in the meantime such licence shall remain in force and have the same effect as if granted to the superintendent of the house; and in case a licence has been or shall be granted to two or more persons and before the expiration thereof any or either of such persons shall die, leaving the other or others surviving, such licence shall remain in force and have the same effect as if granted to such survivors or survivor.

xl. That if any licensed house shall be pulled down or occupied under the provisions of any Act of Parliament, or shall by fire, tempest, or other accident be rendered unfit for the accommodation of lunatics, or if the person keeping such house shall desire to transfer the patients to another house, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners (if the new house shall be within their immediate jurisdiction), at any quarterly or other meeting, or for any two or more of the visiting Justices for the county or borough within which the new house is situate, as the case may be, upon the payment to the secretary of the Commissioners or the clerk of the peace, as the case may be, of not less than 1*l*. for the licence (exclusive of the sum to be paid for the stamp), to grant to the person whose house has been so pulled down, occupied, or so rendered unfit, or who shall desire to transfer his patients as aforesaid, a licence to keep such other house for the reception of lunatics, for such time as the Commissioners or the said Justices, as the case may be, shall think fit: Provided always, that the same notice of such intended change of house, and the same plans and statements and descriptions of and as to such intended new house, shall be given as are required when application is first made for a licence for any house, and shall be accompanied by a statement in writing of the cause of such change of house; and that, except in cases in which the change of house is occasioned by fire or tempest, seven clear days previous notice of the intended removal shall be sent, by the person to whom the licence for keeping the original house shall have been granted, to the person who signed the order for the reception of each patient, not being a pauper, or the person by whom the last payment on account of such patient shall have been made, and to the relieving officer or overseer of the union or parish to which each patient being a pauper is chargeable, or the person by whom the last payment on account of such patient shall have been made.

XLII. That if a majority of the Justices of any county or borough in General or Quarter Sessions assembled shall recommend to the Lord Chancellor that any licence granted by the Justices for such county or borough, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall be revoked, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to revoke the same by an instrument under his hand and seal, such revocation to take effect at a period to be named in such instrument, not exceeding two calendar months from the time a copy or notice thereof shall have been published in the London Gazette; and a copy or notice of such instrument of revocation shall be published in the London Gazette, and shall before such publication be transmitted to the person to whom such licence shall have been granted, or to the resident superintendent of the licensed house, or be left at the licensed house: Provided always, that in case of any such revocation being recommended to the Lord Chancellor, notice thereof in writing shall, seven clear days previously to the transmission of such recommendation to the Lord Chancellor, be given to the person the revocation of whose licence shall be recommended, or to the resident superintendent of the licensed house, or shall be left at the licensed house.

XLIII. That if the Commissioners shall recommend to the Lord Chancellor that any licence granted either by the Commissioners or by any Justices, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall be revoked or shall not be renewed, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor by an instrument under his hand and seal to revoke or prohibit the renewal of such licence; and in the case of a revocation the same shall take effect at a period to be named in such instrument, not exceeding two calendar months from the time a copy or notice thereof shall have been published in the London Gazette; and a copy or notice of such instrument of revocation shall be published in the London Gazette, and shall before such publication be transmitted to the person to whom such licence shall have been granted, or to the resident superintendent of the licensed house, or shall be left at the licensed house: Provided always, that in case of any such revocation or prohibition to renew being recommended to the Lord Chancellor, notice thereof in writing shall, seven clear days previously to the transmission of such recommendation to the Lord Chancellor, be given to the person the revocation or prohibition of renewal of whose licence shall be recommended, or to the resident superintendent of the licensed house, or shall be left at the licensed house.

XLIV. That the regulations as to lunatics of every hospital in which lunatics are or shall be received shall be printed, and complete copies thereof shall be sent to the Commissioners, and also kept hung up in the visitors room of such hospital; and that every such hospital shall have a physician, surgeon or apothecary resident therein, as the superintendent and medical attendant thereof; and such superintendent shall immediately after the passing of this Act (or immediately after the establishment of such hospital, as the case may be,) apply to the Commissioners to have such hospital registered, and thereupon such hospital shall be registered in a book to be kept for that purpose by the Commissioners; and in case the superintendent of any such hospital shall at any time omit to have copies of such regulations sent or hung up as aforesaid, or to apply to have such hospital registered as aforesaid, he shall for every such omission forfeit a sum not exceeding 20*l*.

XLV. That after the passing of this Act it shall not be lawful for any person to receive two or more lunatics into any house, unless such house shall be an asylum or an hospital registered under this Act, or a house for the time being duly licensed under this Act, or one of the Acts hereinbefore repealed; and any person who shall receive two or more lunatics into any house other than a house for the time being duly licensed as aforesaid, or an asylum or an hospital duly registered under this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

XLVI. That no person (not a pauper), whether being or represented to be a lunatic, or only a boarder or lodger, in respect of whom any money shall be received or agreed to be received for board, lodging, or any other accommodation, shall be received into or detained in any licensed house, and no person (not a pauper) shall be received into or detained as a lunatic in any hospital, without an order under the hand of some person according to the form and stating the particulars required in Schedule (B.) annexed to this Act, nor without the medical certificates, according to the form in Schedule (C.) annexed to this Act, of two physicians, surgeons, or apothecaries who shall not be in partnership, and each of whom shall separately from the other have personally examined the person to whom it relates, not more than seven clear days previously to the reception of such person into such house or hospital, and shall have signed and dated the same on the day on which such person shall have been so examined; and every person who shall receive or detain any such person as aforesaid in any such house or hospital as aforesaid without such order and medical certificates as aforesaid, and any physician, surgeon, or apothecary who shall knowingly sign any such medical certificate as aforesaid which shall untruly state any of the particulars required by this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

XLVII. Provided and enacted, That every physician, surgeon, or apothecary signing such certificate shall specify therein any fact or facts (whether arising from his own observation or from the information of any other person) upon which he has formed his opinion that the person to whom such certificate relates is a lunatic or an insane person, or an idiot, or a person of unsound mind.

XLVIII. Provided nevertheless, and enacted, That any person (not a pauper) may, under special circumstances, be received into any such house or hospital as aforesaid, upon such order as aforesaid, with the certificate of one physician, surgeon, or apothecary alone, provided that such order state the special circumstances which have prevented the person from being examined by two medical practitioners; but in every such case another such certificate shall be signed by some other physician, surgeon, or apothecary, not being connected with any such house or hospital, who shall have especially examined such person within three days after his reception into such house or hospital; and every person who, having received any person into any house or hospital as aforesaid upon the certificate of one medical practitioner alone, as aforesaid, shall keep or permit such person to remain in such house or hospital beyond the said period of three days without such further certificate as aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

XLVIII. That no pauper shall be received into or detained in any licensed house, or any hospital, without an order and statement according to the form and stating the particulars required in Schedule (D.) annexed to this Act, under the hands of one Justice or an officiating clergyman, with the relieving officer or one of the overseers of the union or parish from which such pauper shall be sent, (which said Justice or which said clergyman and relieving officer or overseer, as the case may be, shall have personally examined such pauper previously to signing such order,) nor without a medical certificate according to the form in the said Schedule (D.) annexed to this Act, and dated not more than seven clear days previously to the reception of such pauper into such house or hospital; and every such certificate shall be signed by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, (not being the medical officer of such parish or union) on the day whereon he shall examine such pauper; and every person who shall receive any pauper into any such house or hospital as aforesaid without such order and medical certificate as last aforesaid shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

XLIX. That no physician, surgeon, or apothecary who, or whose father, brother, son, or partner, is wholly or partly the proprietor of or a regular professional attendant in a licensed house or an hospital, shall sign any certificate for the reception of a patient into such house or hospital; and no physician, surgeon, or apothecary who, or whose father, brother, son, or partner, shall sign the order hereinbefore required for the reception of a patient, shall sign any certificate for the reception of the same patient; and any physician, surgeon, or apothecary who shall sign any certificate contrary to any of the provisions hereinbefore contained, or without having complied with all the provisions hereby required in the case of the patient to whom the same shall relate, or who shall in such certificate describe his medical qualification untruly, or shall untruly state anything therein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

L. That every proprietor or superintendent who shall receive any patient into any licensed house or any hospital shall, within two days after the reception of such patient, make an entry with respect to such patient in a book to be kept for that purpose to be called "The Book of Admissions," according to the form and containing the particulars required in Schedule (E.) annexed to this Act, so far as he can ascertain the same, except as to the form of the mental disorder, and except also as to the discharge or death of the patient, which shall be made when the same shall happen; and every person who shall so receive any such patient, and shall not within two days thereafter make such entry as aforesaid (except as aforesaid), shall forfeit a sum not exceeding 2*l*.; and every person who shall knowingly and willingly in any such entry untruly set forth any of the particulars shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LI. That the form of the mental disorder of every patient received into any licensed house or any hospital shall within seven days after his reception be entered in the said book of admissions by the medical attendant of such house or hospital; and every such medical attendant who shall omit to make any such entry within the time aforesaid shall for every such offence forfeit a sum not exceeding 2*l*.

LII. That the proprietor or resident superintendent of every licensed house (whether licensed by the Commissioners or by any Justices), and the superintendent of every hospital, shall after two clear days, and before the expiration of seven clear days from the day on which any patient shall have been received into such house or hospital, transmit a copy of the order and medical certificates or certificate on which such person shall have been received, and also a notice and statement according to the form in Schedule (F.) annexed to this Act, to the Commissioners; and the proprietor or resident superintendent of every house licensed within the jurisdiction of any visitors shall also within the same period transmit another copy of such order and certificates or certificate, and a duplicate of such notice and statement, to the clerk of the visitors; and every proprietor or superintendent of any such house or hospital who shall neglect to transmit such copy, notice, or statement to the Commissioners, or (where the same is required) to the clerk of the visitors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LIII. That whenever any patient shall escape from any licensed house or any registered hospital the proprietor or superintendent of such house or hospital shall within two clear days next after such escape transmit a written notice thereof to the Commissioners, and if such house be within the jurisdiction of any visitors then also to the clerk of such visitors; and such notice shall state the christian and surname of the patient who has so escaped, and his then state of mind, and also the circumstances connected with such escape; and if such patient shall be brought back to such house or hospital such proprietor or resident superintendent shall, within two clear days next after such person shall be so brought back transmit a written notice thereof to the Commissioners, and also, if such house be within the jurisdiction of any visitors, to the clerk of such visitors; and such notice shall state when such person was so brought back, and the circumstances connected therewith, and whether with or without a fresh order and certificates or certificate; and every proprietor or resident superintendent omitting to transmit such notice, whether of escape or of return, shall for every such omission forfeit a sum not exceeding 10*l*.

LIV. That whenever any patient shall be removed or discharged from any licensed house or any hospital, or shall die therein, the proprietor or superintendent of such house or hospital shall, within two clear days next after such removal, discharge, or death, make an entry thereof in a book to be kept for that purpose according to the form and stating the particulars in Schedule (G. 1.) annexed to this Act, and shall also within the same two days transmit a written notice thereof, and also of the cause of his death, to the Commissioners, and also, if such house shall be within the jurisdiction of any visitors, to the clerk of such visitors, according to the form and containing the particulars in Schedule (G. 2.) annexed to this Act; and every proprietor or superintendent of any such house or hospital who shall neglect to make such entry or transmit such notice or notices, or shall therein set forth anything untruly, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LV. That in case of the death of any patient in any licensed house or any hospital, a statement of the cause of the death of such patient, with the name of any person present at the death, shall be drawn up and signed by the medical attendant of such house or hospital, and a copy thereof, duly certified by the proprietor or superintendent of such house or hospital, shall by him be transmitted to the Commissioners, and also to the person signing the order for such patient's confinement, and to the registrar of deaths for the district, and if such house be within the jurisdiction of any visitors, then also to the clerk of such visitors, within forty-eight hours after the death of such patient; and every medical attendant, proprietor, or superintendent who shall neglect or omit to draw up, sign, certify, or transmit such statement as aforesaid shall for every such neglect or omission forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 50*l*.

LVI. That if any superintendent, officer, nurse, attendant, servant, or other person employed in any licensed house or registered hospital shall in any way abuse or ill-treat any patient confined therein, or shall wilfully neglect any such patient, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour; and that in the event of the release of any person from confinement in any asylum or private house who shall consider himself to have been unjustly confined, a copy of the certificates and order upon which he has been confined shall at his request be furnished to him or to his attorney by the clerk to the Commissioners, without any fee or reward for the same; and it shall be lawful for the Home Secretary, on the report of the Commissioners or visitors of any asylums, to direct Her Majesty's Attorney General to prosecute on the part of the Crown any person who shall have been concerned in the unlawful taking or confinement of any of Her Majesty's subjects as an insane patient, and likewise any person who shall have been concerned in the neglect or ill-treatment of any patient or person so confined.

LVII. That in every house licensed for one hundred patients or more there shall be a physician, surgeon, or apothecary resident as the superintendent or medical attendant thereof; and that every house licensed for less than one hundred or more than fifty patients (in case such house shall not be kept by or have a resident physician, surgeon, or apothecary,) shall be visited daily by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary; and that every house licensed for less than fifty patients (in case such house shall not be kept by or have a resident physician, surgeon, or apothecary,) shall be visited twice in every week by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the visitors of any licensed house to direct that such house, and for the Commissioners to direct that any licensed house, shall be visited by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary at any other time or times, not being oftener than once in every day.

LVIII. Provided and enacted, That when any house is licensed to receive less than eleven lunatics it shall be lawful for any two of the Commissioners or any two of the visitors of such house, if they shall respectively so think fit, by any writing under their hands, to permit that such house shall be visited by a physician, surgeon, or apothecary at such intervals more distant than twice in every week as such Commissioners or visitors shall appoint, but not at a greater interval than once in every two weeks.

LIX. That every physician, surgeon, or apothecary, where there shall be only one, keeping or residing in or visiting any licensed house or any hospital, and where there shall be two or more physicians, surgeons, or apothecaries keeping or residing in or visiting any licensed house or any hospital, then one at least of such physicians, surgeons, or apothecaries, shall once in every week (or, in the case of any house at which visits at more distant intervals than once a week are permitted, on every visit), enter and sign in a book to be kept at such house or hospital for that purpose to be called "The Medical Visitation Book," a report, shewing the date thereof, and also the number, sex, and state of health of all the patients then in such house or hospital, the christian and surname of every patient who shall have been under restraint, or in seclusion, or under medical treatment, since the date of the last preceding report, the condition of the house or hospital, and every death, injury, and act of violence which shall have happened to or affected any patient since the then last preceding report, according to the form in Schedule (H.) annexed to this Act; and every such physician, surgeon, or apothecary who shall omit to enter or sign such report as aforesaid shall for every such omission forfeit and pay the sum of 20*l*.; and every such physician, surgeon, or apothecary who shall in any such report as aforesaid enter anything untrue shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LX. That there shall be kept in every licensed house and in every hospital a book to be called "The Case Book," in which be physician, surgeon, or apothecary keeping or residing in or visiting such house or hospital shall from time to time make entries of the mental state and bodily condition of each patient, together with a correct description of the medicine and other remedies prescribed for the treatment of his disorder; and that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners from time to time, by any order under their common seal, to direct the form in which such case book shall be kept by such physician, surgeon, or apothecary; and immediately after a copy of such order shall have been transmitted by the secretary of the Commissioners such physician, surgeon, or apothecary, such physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall thereupon keep such case book in the form which shall be directed by such order; and that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners (whenever they shall see fit) require, by an order in writing under their common seal, such physician, surgeon, or apothecary to transmit to the Commissioners a correct copy of the entries or entry in any case book kept under the provisions of this Act, relative to the case of any lunatic who is or may have been confined in any such licensed house or hospital; and every such physician, surgeon, apothecary who shall neglect to keep the said case book, or to keep the same according to the form directed by the Commissioners, or to transmit a copy of the said entry or entries, pursuant to such order or orders as aforesaid, shall for every such neglect forfeit any sum not exceeding 10*l*.

LXI. That every licensed house shall, without any previous notice, be visited by two at least of the Commissioners (one of whom shall be a physician or surgeon, and the other a barrister,) four times at the least in every year, if such house shall be within the immediate jurisdiction of the Commissioners, and if not, twice at least in every year; and every hospital in which entries shall be received shall, without any previous notice, be visited by two at least of the said Commissioners (one of whom shall be a physician or surgeon, and the other a barrister,) once at least in every year; and every such visit shall be made on such day or days, and at such hours of the day, and for such length of time, as the visiting Commissioners shall think fit, and also at such other times (if any) as the said Commissioners in Lunacy shall direct; and such visiting Commissioners, when visiting such house or hospital, may and shall inspect every part of such house or hospital, and every outhouse, place and building communicating with such house or hospital, or detached therefrom, but not separated by ground belonging to any other person, and every part of the ground or appurtenances held, used, or occupied therewith, and see every patient then confined in such house or hospital, and inquire whether any patient is under restraint, and why, and inspect the order and certificates or certificate for the reception of every patient who shall have been received into such house or hospital since the last visit of the Commissioners, and in the case of any house licensed by Justices shall consider the observations made in the visitors book for such house by the visitors appointed by the Justices, and enter in the visitors book of such house or hospital a minute of the then condition of the house or hospital, and of the patients therein, and the number of patients under restraint, with the reasons thereof, as stated, and such irregularity (if any) as may exist in any such order or certificates as aforesaid, and also whether the previous suggestions (if any) of the visiting Commissioners or visitors have or have not been attended to, and any observations which they may deem proper as to any of the matters aforesaid or otherwise, and also, if such visit be the first after the granting a licence to the house, shall examine such licence, and, if the same be in conformity with the provisions of this Act, sign the same, but if it be informal enter in such visitors book in what respect such licence is informal: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, on a representation by the Commissioners setting forth the expediency of such alteration, by any writing under his hand, to direct that any house licensed by Justices shall (during such period as he shall therein specify, or until such his direction shall be revoked,) be visited by the Commissioners once only in the year, and also to direct that any house licensed by the Commissioners, and not receiving any pauper patients therein, shall (during such period as he shall therein specify, or until such his direction shall be revoked,) be visited by the Commissioners twice only in the year.

LXII. That every licensed house within the jurisdiction of any visitors appointed by Justices shall be visited by two at least of the said visitors (one of whom shall be a physician, surgeon, or apothecary,) four times at the least in every year, on such days, and at such hours in the day, and for such length of time as the said visitors shall think fit, and also at such other times (if any) as the Justices by whom such house shall have been licensed shall direct; and such visitors when visiting any such house may and shall inspect every part of such house, and every house, outhouse, place, and building communicating therewith, or detached therefrom, but not separated by ground belonging to any other person, and every part of the ground or appurtenances held, used, or occupied therewith, and see every patient then confined therein, and inquire whether any patient is under restraint, and why, and inspect the order and certificates or certificate for the reception of every patient who shall have been received into such house since the last visit of the visitors, and enter in the visitors book a minute of the then condition of the house, of the patients therein, and the number of patients under restraint, with the reasons thereof as stated, and such irregularity (if any) as may exist in any such order or certificates as aforesaid, and also whether the previous suggestions (if any) of the visitors or visiting Commissioners have or have not been attended to, and any observations which they may deem proper as to any of the matters aforesaid or otherwise.

LXIII. That the proprietor or superintendent of every licensed house or hospital shall shew to the Commissioners and visitors respectively visiting the same every part thereof respectively, and every person detained therein as a lunatic; and every proprietor or superintendent of any licensed house or any hospital who shall conceal or attempt to conceal, or shall refuse or wilfully neglect to shew, any part of such house or hospital, or any house, outhouse, place, or building communicating therewith, or detached therefrom, but not separated as aforesaid, or any part of the ground or appurtenances held, used, or occupied therewith, or any person detained or being therein, from any visiting Commissioners or visitors, or from any person authorized under any power or provision of this Act to visit and inspect such house or hospital, or the patients confined therein or any of them, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LXIV. That the visiting Commissioners and visitors respectively, upon their several visitations to every licensed house and to every hospital, shall inquire when Divine Service is performed, and to what number of the patients, and the effect thereof; and also what occupations or amusements are provided for the patients, and the result thereof; and whether there has been adopted any system of non-coercion, and, if so, the result thereof; and also as to the classification of patients; and also as to the condition of the pauper patients (if any) when first received; and also as to the dietary of the pauper patients (if any); and shall also make such other inquiries as to such visiting Commissioners or visitors shall seem expedient; and every proprietor or superintendent of a licensed house or an hospital who shall not give full and true answers to the best of his knowledge to all questions which the visiting Commissioners and visitors respectively shall ask in reference to the matters aforesaid shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LXV. That upon every visit of the visiting Commissioners to any licensed house or to any hospital, and upon every visit of the visitors to any licensed house, there shall be laid before such visiting Commissioners or visitors (as the case may be), by the proprietor or superintendent of such licensed house or of such hospital, a list of all the patients then in such house or hospital (distinguishing pauper patients from other patients, and males from females, and specifying such as are deemed curable), and also the several books by this Act required to be kept by the proprietor or superintendent and by the medical attendant of a licensed house or an hospital, and also all orders and certificates relating to patients admitted since the last visitation of the Commissioners or visitors (as the case may be), and also, in the case of a licensed house, the licence then in force for such house, and also all such other orders, certificates, documents, and papers relating to any of the patients at any time received into such licensed house or hospital as the visiting Commissioners or visitors shall from time to time require to be produced to them; and the said visiting Commissioners or visitors, as the case may be, shall sign the said books as having been produced to them.

LXVI. That there shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of every licensed house a copy of the plan given to the Commissioners or Justices on applying for the licence for such house; and that there shall be kept in every licensed house and in every hospital in which lunatics shall be received a Queen's printer's copy of this Act, bound up in a book to be called "The Visitors' Book," and that the said visiting Commissioners and visitors respectively shall at the time of their respective visitations enter therein the result of the inspections and inquiries hereinbefore directed or authorized to be made by them respectively, with such observations (if any) as they shall think proper; and that there shall also be kept in every such house and hospital a book to be called "The Patients Book," and that the said visiting Commissioners and visitors respectively shall at the times of their respective visitations enter therein such observations as they may think fit respecting the state of mind or body of any patient in such house or hospital.

LXVII. That the proprietor or resident superintendent of every licensed house and of every hospital shall, within three days after every such visit by the visiting Commissioners as aforesaid, transmit a true and perfect copy of the entries made by them in "The Visitors Book," "The Patients Book," and "The Medical Visitation Book" respectively (distinguishing the entries in the several books) to the Commissioners, and shall, within three days after every such visitation by the visitors, transmit a true and perfect copy of the entries made by them as aforesaid (distinguishing as aforesaid) to the Commissioners and also to the clerk of the visitors; and the copies so transmitted to the clerk of the visitors of all such entries relating to any licensed house, and made since the grant or last renewal of the licence thereof, shall be laid before the Justices on taking into consideration the renewal of the licence to the house to which such entries shall relate; and every such proprietor or superintendent as aforesaid who shall omit to transmit, as hereinbefore directed, a true and perfect copy of every or any such entry as aforesaid, shall for every such omission forfeit a sum not exceeding 10*l*.

LXVIII. That the Commissioners visiting any house licensed by Justices shall carefully consider and give special attention to the state of mind of any patient therein confined, as to the propriety of whose detention they shall doubt (or as to whose sanity their attention shall be specially called), and shall, if they shall think that the state of mind of such patient is doubtful, and that the propriety of his detention requires further consideration, make and sign a minute thereof in the patients book of such house; and a true and perfect copy of every such minute shall, within two clear days after the same shall have been made, be sent by the proprietor or superintendent of such house to the clerk of the visitors of such house, and such clerk shall forthwith communicate the same to the said visitors, or some two of them (of whom a physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall be one), and such visitors shall thereupon immediately visit such patient, and act as they shall see fit; and every such proprietor or superintendent who shall omit to send a true and perfect copy, as hereinbefore directed, of every or any such last-mentioned minute, and every clerk who shall neglect to communicate the same to two of the visitors as aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LXIX. That the visiting Commissioners shall, after every visitation by them to every licensed house not being within their immediate jurisdiction, and to every hospital, report in writing the general result of their inspection thereof (together with such special circumstances, if any, as they may deem proper to notice,) to the Commissioners, and the secretary of the Commissioners shall thereupon enter the same in a book to be kept for that purpose.

LXX. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners or any five of them, at any quarterly or special meeting, by any resolution or resolutions under their common seal, or to be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and signed by five at least of the Commissioners present at such meeting, from time to time to make such orders and rules as they shall think fit for regulating the duties of the Commissioners or any of them, or of their secretary, clerks, and servants, or for the due or better performance of the business of the commission: Provided nevertheless, that the Secretary of the Commissioners shall give to every Commissioner, so far as circumstances will admit, not less than seven days' notice of every such special meeting, and shall in the summons for such special meeting state the purposes for which the same is intended to be held.

LXXI. That it shall be lawful for any two or more of the Commissioners, or any two visitors, to visit and to inspect any licensed house or hospital at such hour of the night as they shall think fit: Provided nevertheless, that no such visitor shall make any such visitation or inspection except of a licensed house within their jurisdiction.

LXXII. That if and when any person who signed the order on which any patient (not being a pauper) was received into any licensed house or into any hospital shall by writing under his hand direct that such patient shall be discharged or removed, and in such case such patient shall forthwith be discharged or removed, as the person who signed the order for his reception shall direct.

LXXIII. That if the person who signed the order on which any patient (not being a pauper) was received into any licensed house or into any hospital be incapable by reason of insanity or absence from England, or otherwise, of giving an order for the discharge or removal of such patient, or if such person be dead, then and in any of such cases the husband or wife of such patient, or if there be no such husband or wife, the father of such patient, or if there be no father, the mother of such patient, or if there be no mother, then any one of the nearest of kin for the time being of such patient, or the person who made the last payment on account of such patient, may by any writing under his or her hand give such direction as aforesaid for the discharge or removal of such patient, and thereupon such patient shall be forthwith discharged or removed as the person giving such direction shall direct.

LXXIV. That the guardians of any parish or union may by a minute of their board, or an officiating clergyman of any parish or under a board of guardians, and one of the overseers thereof, or any two Justices of the county or borough in which such mentioned parish is situate, may by writing under the hands respectively of such clergyman and overseer or of such Justices direct that any pauper patient belonging to such parish or union, and detained in any licensed house or any hospital, shall be discharged or removed therefrom, and may direct the mode of such discharge or removal; and if a copy of such minute or such writing be produced to the proprietor or superintendent of such licensed house or such hospital, he shall forthwith discharge or remove such patient, or cause or suffer such patient to be discharged or removed accordingly.

LXXV. Provided nevertheless, and enacted, That no patient shall be discharged or removed, under any of the powers hereinbefore contained, from any licensed house or any hospital, if the physician, surgeon, or apothecary by whom the same shall be kept, or who shall be the regular medical attendant thereof, shall by writing under his hand certify that in his opinion such patient is dangerous and unfit to be at large, together with the grounds on which such opinion is founded, unless the Commissioners visiting such house or the visitors of such house shall, after such certificate shall have been produced to them, give their consent in writing that such patient shall be discharged or removed; provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent any patient from being transferred from any licensed house or any hospital, to any other licensed house or any other hospital, or to any asylum, but in such case every such patient shall be placed under the controul of an attendant belonging to the licensed house, hospital, or asylum to or from which he shall be about to be removed for the purpose of such removal, and shall remain under such controul until such time as such removal shall be duly effected.

LXXVI. That it shall be lawful for any two or more of the Commissioners to make visits to any patient detained in any house licensed by the Commissioners, on such days and at such hours as they shall think fit; and if after two distinct and separate visits so made (seven days at least to intervene between such visits) it shall appear to such visiting Commissioners that such patient is detained without sufficient cause, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, if they shall think fit, to make such order as to the Commissioners shall seem meet for the discharge of such patient, and such patient shall be discharged accordingly.

LXXVII. That it shall be lawful for any two or more of the Commissioners, of whom one shall be a physician and one a barrister, to make special visits to any patient detained in any house licensed by the Justices or in any hospital, on such days and at such hours as they shall think fit; and if after two distinct and separate visits so made it shall appear to such visiting Commissioners that such patient is detained without sufficient cause, they may make such order as to them shall seem meet for the discharge of such patient, and such patient shall be discharged accordingly.

LXXVIII. That it shall be lawful for any two or more of the visitors of any licensed house, of whom one shall be a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, to make special visits to any patient detained in such house, on such days and at such hours as they shall think fit; and if after two distinct and separate visits so made it shall appear to such visitors that such patient is detained without sufficient cause, they may make such order as to them shall seem meet for the discharge of such patient, and such patient shall be discharged accordingly.

LXXIX. Provided and enacted, That every such order by any Commissioners or visitors for the discharge of a patient from any house licensed by Justices, or from any hospital, shall be signed by them, and that each of such special visits shall be by the same Commissioners or visitors; and that it shall not be lawful for such Commissioners or visitors to order the discharge of any patient from any such last-mentioned house or hospital without having previously, if the medical attendant of such house or hospital shall have tendered himself for that purpose, examined him as to his opinion respecting the fitness of such patient to be discharged; and if such Commissioners or visitors shall, after so examining such medical attendant, discharge such patient, and such medical attendant shall furnish them with any statement in writing containing his reasons against the discharge of such patient, they shall forthwith transmit such statement to the Commissioners or to the clerk of the visitors, as the case may require, to be kept and registered in a book for that purpose.

LXXX. Provided and enacted, That not less than seven days shall intervene between the first and second of such special visits; and that such Commissioners or visitors shall, seven days previously to the second of such special visits, give notice thereof, either by post or by an entry in the Patients Book, to the proprietor or superintendent of the house licensed by Justices or of the hospital in which the patient intended to be visited is detained; and that such proprietor or superintendent shall forthwith, if possible, transmit by post a copy of such notice, in the case of a patient not being a pauper, to the person by whose authority such patient was received into such house, or by whom the last payment on account of such patient was made, and in the case of a pauper, to the guardians of his parish or union, or if there be no such guardians, to one of the overseers for the time being of his parish, and also in the case of any patient detained in a house licensed by Justices, to the clerk of the visitors of such house.

LXXXI. Provided nevertheless, and enacted, That none of the powers of discharge hereinbefore contained shall extend to any person who shall have been found lunatic by inquisition or under any inquiry directed by the Lord Chancellor, in pursuance of the powers in that behalf hereinafter given to him, nor to any lunatic confined under any order or authority of Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, or under the order of any court of criminal jurisdiction.

LXXXII. That it shall be lawful for the visitors of any licensed house at any time to determine and regulate the dietary of the pauper patients therein; and that it shall be lawful for the visiting Commissioners at any time to determine and regulate the dietary of the pauper patients in any licensed house or in any hospital; and that if such determination and regulation of any visitors and of the visiting Commissioners shall not agree with each other, then the determination and regulation of the visiting Commissioners shall be followed: Provided always, nevertheless, that every such regulation shall be made to take effect only from such time as not to affect any contract existing on the 1st of June last for the maintenance of pauper patients before the 1st of June 1846, or the expiration of such contract, whichever shall first happen.

LXXXIII. That if any person shall apply to any visitor in order to be informed whether any particular person is confined in any licensed house within the jurisdiction of such visitor, the said visitor, if he shall think it reasonable to permit such inquiry to be made, shall sign an order to the clerk of the visitors, and the said clerk shall, on receipt of such order, and on payment to him of a sum not exceeding 7s. for his trouble, make search amongst the returns made to him in pursuance of this Act whether the person inquired after is or has been within the then last twelve calendar months confined in any licensed house within the jurisdiction of such visitor; and if it shall appear that such person is or has been so confined the said clerk shall deliver to the person so applying a statement in writing, specifying the situation of the house in which the person so inquired after appears to be or to have been confined, and of the name of the proprietor or resident superintendent thereof, and also the date of the admission of such person into such licensed house, and (in case of his having been removed or discharged) the date of his removal or discharge therefrom.

LXXXIV. That if any person shall apply to any Commissioner in order to be informed whether any particular person is confined in any licensed house, or in any hospital, asylum, or other place by this Act made subject to the visitation of the Commissioners, such Commissioner, if he shall think it reasonable to permit such inquiry to be made, shall sign an order to the secretary of the Commissioners, and the secretary shall, on the receipt of such order, and on payment to him of a sum not exceeding 7s. (to be applied as hereinbefore provided), make search amongst the returns made in pursuance of this Act or of any of the Acts hereby repealed, whether the person inquired after is or has been within the last twelve calendar months confined in any house, hospital, asylum, or place by this Act made subject to the visitation of the Commissioners; and if it shall appear that such person is or has been so confined the secretary shall deliver to the person so applying a statement in writing, specifying the situation of the house, hospital, asylum, or place in which the person so inquired after appears to be or to have been confined, and also (so far as the said secretary can ascertain the same from any register or return in his possession) the name of the proprietor, superintendent, or principal officer of such house, hospital, asylum, or place, and also the date of the admission of such person into such licensed house, hospital, asylum, or other place, and (in case of his having been removed or discharged) the date of his removal or discharge therefrom.

XXXV. That it shall be lawful for any one of the Commissioners, as to patients confined in any house, hospital, or other place (not being a gaol) hereby authorized to be visited by the Commissioners, and also for any one of the visitors of any licensed house as to patients confined in such house, at any time to give an order in writing under the hand of such one Commissioner or visitor for the admission to any patient of any relation or friend of such patient (or of any medical or other person whom any relation or friend of such patient shall desire to be admitted to him), and such order of admission may be either for a single admission, or for an admission for any limited number of times, or for admission generally at all reasonable times, and either with or without any restriction as to such admission or admissions being in the presence of a keeper or not, or otherwise; and if the proprietor or superintendent of any such house, hospital, or place shall refuse admission to, or shall prevent or obstruct the admission to any patient of, any relation, friend, or other person who shall produce such order of admission as aforesaid, he shall for every such refusal, prevention, or obstruction forfeit a sum not exceeding 20*l*.

XXXVI. That it shall be lawful for the proprietor or superintendent of any licensed house or of any hospital, with the consent in writing of any two of the Commissioners, or in the case of a house licensed by Justices of any two of the visitors of such house, to send or take, under proper controul, any patient to any specified place for any definite time for the benefit of his health: Provided always, nevertheless, that before any such consent as aforesaid shall be given by any Commissioners or visitors the approval in writing of the person who signed the order for the reception of such patient, or by whom the past payment on account of such patient was made, shall be produced to such Commissioners or visitors, unless they shall, on cause being shewn, dispense with the same.

XXXVII. That in every case in which any patient shall, under any of the powers or provisions of this Act, be removed temporarily from the house or hospital into which the order for his reception was given, or be transferred from such house or hospital into any new house, and also in every case in which any patient shall escape from any house or hospital, and shall be retaken within fourteen days next after such escape, the certificate or certificates relating to and the original order for the reception of such patient respectively remain in force, in the same manner as the same would have done if such patient had not been so removed or transferred, or had not so escaped or been retaken.

XXXVIII. That the Commissioners shall, at the expiration of every six calendar months, report to the Lord Chancellor the number of visits which they shall have made, the number of patients whom they shall have seen, and the number of miles which they shall have travelled during such months, and shall on the 1st of January in each year make a return to the Lord Chancellor of all sums received by them for travelling expenses, or upon any other and what account, and shall also in the month of June in every year make to the Lord Chancellor a report of the state and condition of the several houses, hospitals, asylums, and other places visited by them under this Act, and of the care of the patients therein, and of such other particulars as they shall think deserving of notice; and a true copy of such reports, shewing the number of visits made, the number of patients seen, and the number of miles travelled, and also a copy of such return of sums received for travelling expenses, or on any other and what account, shall be laid before Parliament within twenty-one days next after the commencement of every session of Parliament.

XXXIX. That the permanent chairman for the time being of the Commissioners, and two other of the Commissioners to be appointed by the Lord Chancellor from time to time as occasion may require (one of whom shall be a physician or surgeon, and the other a barrister), shall be a committee, to be called "The Private Committee," for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned.

XC. That no person (unless he be a person who derives no profit from the charge, or a committee appointed by the Lord Chancellor) shall receive to board or lodge in any house, other than an hospital registered under this Act, or an asylum, or house licensed under this Act or under one of the Acts hereinbefore repealed, or take the care or charge of any one patient who is a lunatic or alleged lunatic, without the like order and medical certificates in respect of such patient as are hereinbefore required on the reception of a patient (not being a pauper) into a licensed house; and that every person (except a person deriving no profit from the charge, or a committee appointed by the Lord Chancellor,) who shall receive to board or lodge in any unlicensed house, not being a registered hospital or an asylum, or take the care or charge of any one patient as a lunatic or alleged lunatic, shall, within seven clear days after so receiving or taking such patient, transmit to the secretary of the Commissioners a true and perfect copy of the order and medical certificates on which such patient has been so received, and a statement of the date of such reception, and of the situation of the house into which such patient has been received, and of the christian and surname and occupation of the occupier thereof and of the person by whom the care and charge of such patient has been taken; and every such patient shall at least once in every two weeks be visited by a physician, surgeon, apothecary not deriving, and not having a partner, father, son, or brother who derives, any profit from the care or charge of such patient; and such physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall enter in a book to be kept at the house or hospital for that purpose, to be called "The Medical Visitation Book," the date of each of his visits, and a statement of the condition of the patient's health, both mental and bodily, and of the condition of the house in which such patient is, and such book shall be produced to the visiting Commissioner on every visit, and shall be signed by him as having been so produced; and the person to whom the care or charge of such patient has been taken, or into whose house he has been received as aforesaid, shall transmit to the secretary of the Commissioners the same notices and statements of the death, removal, escape, and recapture of such lunatic, and within the same periods, as are hereinbefore required in the case of the death, removal, escape, and recapture of a patient (not being a pauper) received into a licensed house; and that every person who shall receive into an unlicensed house, not being a registered hospital nor an asylum, or take the care or charge of any person therein as a lunatic, without first having such order and medical certificates as aforesaid, or who, having received any such patient, shall not within the several periods aforesaid transmit to the secretary of the Commissioners such copy, statement, and notices as aforesaid, or shall fail to cause such patient to be so visited by a medical attendant as aforesaid, and every such medical attendant who shall make an untrue entry in the said medical visitation book, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

xcI. That the secretary to the Commissioners shall preserve every copy transmitted as aforesaid of the order and certificates for the reception of any patient as a lunatic into an unlicensed house, and every statement and notice which may be transmitted to such secretary with respect to any such patient as aforesaid, and shall enter the same (in such form as the private committee shall direct) in a book to be kept for that purpose, to be called "The Private Register," and such private register shall be kept by such secretary in his own custody, and shall be inspected only by the members for the time being of the said private committee, and by such other persons as the Lord Chancellor shall by writing under his hand appoint.

xcII. That it shall be lawful for any one member of the said private committee, on the direction of such committee, or of any two members thereof (of whom the one member aforesaid may be one), at all reasonable times to visit every or any unlicensed house in which one patient only is received as a lunatic (unless such patient be so received by a person deriving no profit from the charge, or by a committee appointed by the Lord Chancellor), and to inquire and report to the said private committee on the treatment and state of health, both bodily and mental, of such patient; and a copy of every or any such report shall be entered in a private register, to be kept for that purpose, by the secretary of the Commissioners, and another copy thereof shall, if such private committee think it expedient, be laid before the Lord Chancellor.

xcIII. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, on the representation of the said private committee, accompanied with a copy of a report made as last aforesaid as to any patient received or detained as a lunatic in an unlicensed house as aforesaid, to make an order that such patient shall be removed from such house, and from the care and charge of the person under whose care and charge such lunatic may be; and any person detaining such lunatic in such house, or in such care or charge, for the space of three days after a copy of such order shall have been left at such house or served on such person, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

xcIV. That whenever the Commissioners shall have reason to suppose that the property of any person detained or taken charge of as a lunatic is not duly protected, or that the income thereof is not duly applied for his maintenance, such Commissioners shall make such inquiries relative thereto as they shall think proper, and report thereon to the Lord Chancellor.

xcv. That when any person shall have been received or taken charge of as a lunatic upon an order and certificate or an order and certificate, in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, or of any Act hereinbefore repealed, and shall either have been detained as a lunatic for the twelve months then last past, or shall have been the subject of a report by the Commissioners in pursuance of the provision lastly hereinbefore contained, it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to direct that one of the said Masters in Lunacy shall, and thereupon one of the said Masters shall personally examine such person, and shall take such evidence and call for such information as to such Master shall seem necessary to satisfy him whether such person is a lunatic, and shall report thereon to the Lord Chancellor, and such report shall be filed with the secretary of lunatics; and it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor from time to time to make orders for the appointment of a guardian, or otherwise for the protection, care, and management of the person of any person who shall by any such report as last aforesaid be found to be a lunatic, and such guardian shall have the same powers and authorities as a committee of the person of a lunatic found such by inquisition now has, and also to make orders for the appointment of a receiver, or otherwise for the protection, care, and management of the estate of such lunatic, and such receiver shall have the same powers and authorities as a receiver of the estate of a lunatic found such by inquisition now has, and also to make orders for the application of the income of such lunatic, or a sufficient part thereof, for his maintenance and support, and in payment of the costs, charges, and expenses attending the protection, care, and management of the person and estate of such lunatic, and also as to the investment or other application for the purpose of accumulation of the overplus, if any, of such income, for the use of such lunatic, as to the Lord Chancellor shall from time to time in each case seem fit: Provided always, that such protection, care, and management shall continue only during such time as such lunatic shall continue to be detained as a lunatic upon an order and certificates or certificate as aforesaid, and for such further time, not exceeding six months, as the Lord Chancellor may fix: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor in any such case, either before or after directing such inquiry by such Master as aforesaid, and whether such Master shall have made a report as aforesaid or not, to direct a commission in the nature of a writ de lunatico inquirendo to issue, to inquire of the lunacy of such person.

xcvi. That such Masters shall have power, in the prosecution of all inquiries and matters which may be referred to them as aforesaid or otherwise under this Act, to summon persons before them, and to administer oaths, and take evidence, either viâ voce or on affidavit, and to require the production of books, papers, accounts, and documents; and that the Lord Chancellor may by any order (either general or particular) refer to the said Masters any inquiries under the provisions of this Act relating to the person and estate of any lunatic as to whom a report shall be made by a Master as aforesaid, in the manner as inquiries relating to the persons and estates of lunatics found such by inquisition are now referred to them.

xcvII. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor from time to time to make such orders as shall to him seem fit for regulating the form and mode of proceeding before the Lord Chancellor and before the said Masters, and of any other proceedings pursuant to the provisions of this Act, for the due protection, care, and management of the persons and estates of lunatics as to whom such reports shall be made by the said Masters as aforesaid, and also for fixing, altering, and discontinuing the fees to be received and taken in respect of such proceedings, as to the Lord Chancellor shall from time to time seem fit: Provided nevertheless, that all fees to be so received and taken shall be paid into the Bank of England, and placed to the credit of the accountant-general of the Court of Chancery, to the account intituled "The Sutors Fee Fund Account."

in like manner as and together with the fees payable under the Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 84, intituled, 'An Act to alter and amend the Practice and Course of Proceeding under Commissions in the Nature of Writs De lunatico inquirendo,' and be applied in like manner as such last-mentioned fees.

xcviii. That the travelling and other expenses of the said Masters and their clerks shall be paid to them, by virtue of any order or orders of the Court of Chancery, out of the said fund intituled "The Sutors Fee Fund Account," in the same manner as their expenses under the said last-mentioned Act.

xcix. That every proprietor and superintendent of a licensed house or registered hospital, and every other person hereby or by any of the Acts hereinbefore repealed authorized to receive or take charge of a lunatic upon an order, and who shall receive or has received a proper order, in pursuance of this Act or any of the said repealed Acts, accompanied with the required medical certificates or certificate, for the reception or taking charge of any person as a lunatic, and the assistants and servants of such proprietor, superintendent, or other person, shall have power and authority to take charge of, receive, and detain such patient until he shall die, or be removed or discharged by due authority, and in case of the escape at any time or times of such patient to retake him at any time within fourteen days after such escape, and again to detain him as aforesaid; and in every writ, indictment, information, action, and other proceeding which shall be preferred or brought against any such proprietor, superintendent, or other person authorized as aforesaid, or against any assistant or servant of any such proprietor, superintendent, or authorized person, for taking, confining, detaining, or retaking any person as a lunatic, the party complained of may plead such order and certificates or certificate in defence to any such writ, indictment, information, action, or other proceeding as aforesaid, and such order and certificates or certificate shall, as respects such writ, be a justification for taking, confining, detaining, or retaking such lunatic or alleged lunatic.

c. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, or any two of them, and also for the visitors of any licensed house, or any two of such visitors, from time to time, as they shall see occasion, to require, by summons under the common seal of the commission, if by the Commissioners, and if by two only of the Commissioners or by two visitors, then under the hands and seals of such two Commissioners or two visitors, as the case may be, (according to the form in Schedule (I.) annexed to this Act, or as near thereto as the case will permit,) any person to appear before them to testify on oath the truth touching any matters respecting which such Commissioners and visitors respectively are by this Act authorized to inquire (which oath such Commissioners or visitors are hereby empowered to administer); and every person who shall not appear before such Commissioners or visitors pursuant to such summons, or shall not assign some reasonable excuse for not so appearing, or shall appear and refuse to be sworn or examined, shall, on being convicted thereof before one of Her Majesty's Justices for the county or borough within which the place at which such person shall have been by such summons required to appear and give evidence is situate, shall for every such neglect or default forfeit a sum not exceeding 50*l*.

1. That it shall be lawful for any Commissioners or visitors who shall summon any person to appear and give evidence aforesaid to direct the secretary of the Commissioners or the clerk of such visitors, as the case may be, to pay to such person all reasonable expenses of his appearance and attendance in pursuance of such summons, the same to be considered expenses incurred by such Commissioners and visitors respectively in the execution of this Act, and to be taken into account and paid accordingly.

ii. That every complaint or information of or for any offence against this Act, where any pecuniary penalty is hereby imposed, (except when hereby otherwise provided for,) may be made before one Justice; and when any person shall be charged upon oath before a Justice for any such offence against this Act, such Justice may summon the person charged to appear at a time and place to be named in such summons, and if he shall not appear accordingly, and upon proof of the due issue of the summons (either personally or by leaving the same at his last or usual place of abode) any two Justices may proceed to hear and determine the case, or may issue their warrant for apprehending such person, and bringing him before any two Justices; and any two Justices shall and may, upon the appearing of such person pursuant to such summons, or upon such person being apprehended with such warrant, or upon the non-appearance of such person, hear the matter of every such complaint or information, and make any such determination thereon as such Justices shall think proper; and upon conviction of any person such Justices may, if they shall think fit, reduce the amount of the penalty by this Act imposed for such offence to any sum not less than one-fourth of the amount thereof, and shall and may issue a warrant under their hands and seals for levying such penalty, or reduced penalty, and all costs and charges of such summons, warrant, hearing and all incidental costs and charges, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person so convicted; it shall be lawful for any such two Justices to order any person so convicted to be detained and kept in the custody of any constable or other peace officer until return can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, unless the said offender give security, to the satisfaction of such Justices, by way of recognizance or otherwise, for his appearance before such Justices on such day as shall be appointed for the return of such warrant of distress, such day not being more than seven days from the time of taking any such security; but if upon the return of such warrant of distress it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had whereupon to levy the said penalty, and such costs and charges as aforesaid, and the same shall not be forthwith paid, or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Justices, either by the confession of the offender or otherwise, that the offender hath not sufficient goods and chattels whereupon the said penalty, costs, and charges may be levied, such Justices shall and may, by warrant under their hands and seals, commit such offender to the common house of correction for any term not exceeding three calendar months, unless such penalty, and all such costs and charges as aforesaid, shall be sooner paid; and all such penalties, when recovered, shall be paid, when the complaint or information shall be laid or brought by or by the direction of the Commissioners, to the secretary of the Commissioners, to be by him applied and accounted for as hereinbefore directed with respect to monies received for licences granted by the Commissioners, and when the complaint or information shall be laid or brought by the direction of any visitors, to the clerk of peace for the county or borough, to be by him applied and accounted for as hereinbefore directed with respect to monies received for licences granted by the Justices of such county or borough; and the overplus (if any) arising from such sums as and sale, after payment of the penalty and all costs and charges as aforesaid, shall be paid, upon demand, to the owner of the goods and chattels so distrained.

CIII. That the Justices before whom any person shall be convicted of any offence against this Act for which a pecuniary penalty is imposed may cause the conviction to be drawn up in the following form, or in any other form to the same effect, as the case may require; and that no conviction under this Act shall be void through want of form:

'Be it remembered, That on the _____ day of _____ in the Year of Our Lord _____ at _____ in the County [or Borough] of _____ A. B. was convicted before us _____ of Her Majesty's Justices and we _____ of the Peace for the said County [or Borough], for that he the said _____ did _____ the said _____ adjudge the said _____ for his Offence to pay the Sum of _____.'

civ. Provided and enacted, That any person who shall think himself aggrieved by any order or determination of any Justices under this Act may, within four calendar months after such order made or given, appeal to the Justices at General or Quarter Sessions, the person appealing having first given at least fourteen clear days' notice in writing of such appeal, and the nature and matter thereof, to the person appealed against, and forthwith after such notice entering into a recognizance before some Justice, with two sufficient sureties, conditioned to try such appeal, and to abide the order and award of the said Court thereupon; and the said Justices at General or Quarter Sessions, upon the proof of such notice and recognizance having been given and entered into, shall in a summary way hear and determine such appeal, or, if they think proper, adjourn the hearing thereof until the next General or Quarter Sessions, and, if they see cause, may mitigate any penalty to not less than one-fourth of the amount imposed by this Act, and may order any money to be returned which shall have been levied in pursuance of such order or determination, and shall and may also award such further satisfaction to be made to the party injured, or such costs to either of the parties, as they shall judge reasonable and proper; and all such determinations of the said Justices at General or Quarter Sessions shall be final, binding, and conclusive upon all parties to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

cv. That if any action or suit shall be brought against any person for anything done in pursuance of this Act or of any of the Acts hereby repealed, the same shall be commenced within twelve calendar months next after the release of the party bringing the action, and shall be laid or brought in the county or borough where the cause of action shall have arisen, and not elsewhere; and the defendant in every such action or suit may, at his election, plead specially or the general issue not guilty, and give this Act and the special matter in evidence at any trial to be had thereupon, and that the same was done in pursuance and by the authority of this Act; and if the same shall appear to be so done, or that such action or suit shall be brought in any other county or borough than as aforesaid, or shall not have been commenced within the time before limited for bringing the same, then the jury shall find a verdict for the defendant; and upon a verdict being so found, or if the plaintiff shall be nonsuited, or discontinue his action or suit after the defendant shall have appeared, or if upon demurrer judgment shall be given against the plaintiff, then the defendant shall recover double costs, and have such remedy for recovering the same as any defendant hath or may have in any other cases by law.

cvi. That it shall be lawful for the secretary of the Commissioners, on their order, to prosecute any person for any offence against the provisions of this Act, and to sue for and recover any penalty to which any person is made liable by this Act; and all penalties sued for and recovered by such secretary shall be paid to him, and be by him applied and accounted for as hereinbefore directed with respect to monies received for licences granted by the Commissioners; and that it shall be lawful for the clerk of any visitors, on their order, to prosecute any person for any offence against the provisions of this Act committed within the jurisdiction of such visitors, and to sue for and recover any penalty to which any person within the jurisdiction of such visitors is made liable by this Act; and all penalties sued for and recovered by any such clerk shall be paid to him, and be by him paid to the clerk of the peace for such county or borough, and be by such clerk of the peace applied and accounted for as hereinbefore directed with respect to monies received for licences by such clerk of the peace; and it shall not be lawful for any one to prosecute any person for any offence against the provisions of this Act, or to sue for any penalty to which any person is made liable by this Act, except by order of the Commissioners or of visitors having jurisdiction in the place where the cause of prosecution has arisen or the penalty been incurred, or with the consent of Her Majesty's Attorney General or Solicitor General for England for the time being.

cvi. That, notwithstanding the repeal of the several Acts hereinbefore repealed, every offence heretofore committed against any of the provisions of any of the same Acts may be prosecuted, and every penalty heretofore incurred by any person for any offence against the provisions of any of the same Acts may be sued for and recovered, by the secretary of the Commissioners, in the same manner and with all the same powers and rights as if such offence had been committed or such penalty incurred for an offence against the provisions of this Act; and every penalty so recovered shall be applied in the same manner as a penalty recovered for an offence against the provisions of this Act.

cvi. That when any person shall be proceeded against, under the provisions of this Act, for omitting to transmit or send any copy, list, notice, statement, or other document hereinbefore required to be transmitted or sent by such person, and any person shall prove by the testimony of one witness upon oath that the copy, list, notice, statement, or document in respect of which such proceeding is taken was put into the post in due time, or (in case of documents required to be transmitted or sent to the Commissioners or a clerk of the peace) left at the office of the Commissioners or of the clerk of the peace, and shall have been properly addressed, such proof shall be a bar to all further proceeding in respect of such omission.

cix. That the costs, charges, and expenses incurred by or under the authority or order of the Commissioners in proceedings under this Act shall be paid by the secretary of the Commissioners, and included by him in the account of receipts and payments hereinbefore directed to be kept by him; and that the costs, charges, and expenses incurred by or under the authority of any visitors in proceedings under this Act shall be paid by the clerk of the peace of their county or borough, and included by him in the account of receipts and payments hereinbefore directed to be kept by him.

cx. That two or more of the Commissioners, one at least of whom shall be a physician or surgeon, and one at least a barrister, shall and may, once or oftener in each year, on such day or days, and at such hours of the day, and for such length of time as they shall think fit, visit every asylum for lunatics, and every gaol in which there shall be or alleged to be any lunatic, and shall inquire whether the provisions of the law have been carried out as to the construction of each asylum visited, and as to its visitation and management, and also as to the regularity of the admissions and discharges of patients therein.

therefrom; and whether Divine Service is performed therein; and whether any system of coercion is in practice therein, and the result thereof; and as to the classification or non-classification of patients therein, and the number of attendants on each class; and as to the occupations and amusements of the patients, and the effects thereof; and as to the condition, as well mental as bodily, of the pauper patients when first received; and also as to the dietary of the pauper patients; and shall also make such other inquiries as to every or any such asylum, and all such inquiries as to the lunatics in any gaol, as to such visiting Commissioners shall seem meet.

cxI. That two or more of the Commissioners, one at least of whom shall be a physician or surgeon, and one at least a barrister, shall and may, once or oftener in each year, on such day or days, and such hours in the day, and for such length of time as they shall think fit, visit every parish and union workhouse in which there shall be or alleged to be any lunatic, and shall inquire whether the provisions of the law as to lunatics have been carried out as to the arrangements, visitation, and management of such workhouse, and as to the dietary, accommodation, and treatment of the lunatics in such workhouse, and shall report in writing thereon to the Poor Law Commissioners for England and Wales.

cxII. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, in the case of any lunatic under the care of a committee appointed by the Lord Chancellor, and for the Lord Chancellor, or Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, in the case of any lunatic under the care of any person receiving or taking the charge of such one lunatic only, and deriving no profit from the charge, and in the case of any person confined as a state lunatic, or as a lunatic under the order of any criminal court of justice, and in the case of every other person detained or taken charge of as a lunatic, or represented to be a lunatic, or to be under any restraint as a lunatic, at any time, by an order in writing under the hand of the Lord Chancellor or the said Secretary of State, as the case may be, directed to the Commissioners or any of them, or to any other person, to require the persons or person to whom such order shall be directed, or any of them, to visit and examine such lunatic or supposed lunatic, and to make a report to the Lord Chancellor, or to Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, of such matters as in such order shall be directed to be inquired into.

cxIII. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor or Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department to employ any Commissioner appointed under this Act, or other person, to inspect or inquire into the state of any asylum, hospital, gaol, house, or place wherein any lunatic, or person represented to be lunatic, shall be confined or alleged to be confined, and to report to him the result of such inspection and inquiry; and every such person so employed, and not being a Commissioner, may be paid such sum of money for his attendance and trouble as to the Lord Chancellor or Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department shall seem reasonable; and every such person so employed, whether a Commissioner or not, shall be allowed his reasonable travelling or other expenses while so employed; and such sum of money for attendance and trouble, and such expenses, shall be charged on and shall be paid out of the Contingency Fund of the Home Office.

cxIV. That in this Act and the Schedules thereto the words and expressions following shall have the several meanings hereby assigned to them, unless there shall be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction; (that is to say,)

CAP. CI.

AN ACT to continue until the Fifth Day of July One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two the Act for regulating the Vend and Delivery of Coals in London and Westminster, and in certain Parts of adjacent Counties; and to alter and amend the said Acts.

(4th August 1845)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Recited Acts continued except as altered.
2. Duties extended to coals brought by railway.
3. Application of duty of 1d. per ton on coals, &c. after 31st December 1845.
4. Duty to be laid out and form an accumulating fund for improvements till appropriated by Parliament.
5. The corporation and Board of Trade may agree upon a sum to be paid to the corporation for redemption of annuities.
6. Power to make bye-laws.
7. Authentication of bye-laws.
8. Justices may proceed by summons in the recovery of penalties.
9. Expenses of Act.
10. Public Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. lxxvi, whereby the provisions of the said Act were directed to be in force for seven years from and after the 31st of December next after the passing thereof: and that an Act, 1 & 2 Vict. c. ci, intituled, 'An Act to continue for Seven Years an Act for regulating the Vend and Delivery of Coals in London and Westminster, and in certain Parts of the adjacent Counties:' And that the last-mentioned term of seven years, during which the provisions contained in the said Acts were directed to continue in force, will expire on the 31st of December 1845, and it is expedient that the same should be continued, and that in the respects hereinafter mentioned the said Acts should be altered and amended:—

It is Enacted,

1. That the said Acts of 1 & 2 Will. 4. and 1 & 2 Vict., and all the powers, authorities, directions, provisions, penalties, forfeitures, regulations, clauses, matters, and things therein contained, (except such of them, or such parts thereof respectively, as are repealed, altered, or otherwise provided for,) shall be and the same are hereby continued until the 5th of July 1862; and all the provisions, regulations, clauses, matters, and things in the said first-mentioned Act contained, to take effect at the end of the term of seven years therein mentioned, or at any other time or times, shall take effect in the same manner to all intents and purposes as if the 5th day of July 1862 had been inserted in the said Act of 1 & 2 Will. 4. instead of the said term of seven years.

II. That all and singular the duties by the said Acts authorized to be levied upon coals, culm, and cinders contained in any ship or vessel arriving at her moorings within any part of the port of London at or to the westward of Gravesend, or brought near London by the Grand Junction or Paddington Canals, or by the River Thames, and by other Acts now in force authorized to be levied upon coals, culm, and cinders brought near London by certain railways in the same Acts particularly mentioned, shall be extended, and the same are hereby imposed and authorized to be levied, until the said 5th of July 1862, upon all coals, culm, and cinders brought to any place within the port of London, or within the cities of London and Westminster and the borough of Southwark, or to any place within the distance of twenty miles from the General Post Office in the city of London, by any railway already constructed or hereafter to be constructed, or by inland navigation, or by any other mode of conveyance; and the same duties shall be payable to such person or persons, at such place or places, in such manner, and under such regulations, as the lord mayor, aldermen, and commons of the city of London, in Common Council assembled, shall from time to time direct or appoint, with the same powers and authorities for giving receipts for and enforcing or recovering payment of the same as are given by the said recited Acts in respect of the like duty on coals, culm, and cinders by the same Acts authorized to be levied; and all and singular the duties hereby extended and imposed as aforesaid shall be applied to the same purposes to which the like duties authorized to be levied by the said recited Acts shall from time to time by law be applicable: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent any railway company, their workmen and agents, or other persons using their railways, from bringing by such railways to any points of the said railways nearer to London than the aforesaid distance all such quantities of coal and coke from time to time as shall be required to be used, and shall be bond fide used, for the purposes of the engines of the said company, not exceeding five hundred tons in any one year, without any duty being payable in respect of such coals or coke: Provided always, nevertheless, that if any coals or coke brought nearer to London than the aforesaid distance, without the duty being paid in respect thereof according to the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall be used otherwise than for the purposes of the engines of the said company, or more than five hundred tons of such coals or coke shall be so brought in any one year without the duty being paid in respect thereof as aforesaid, every such company shall in either of such cases, for every ton of such coals or coke so brought and otherwise used, or for every ton of such coals or coke exceeding five hundred tons in any one year (as the case may be), forfeit and pay to the said mayor and commonalty and citizens the sum of 100*l.*, to be recovered by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster.

And in order to provide a fund for the opening of poor and densely populated districts in the metropolis, or for keeping open spaces in the immediate vicinity of the same, as a means of promoting the public convenience, recreation, and health:—

It is Enacted,

III. That the duty of 1*d.* per ton on coals, cinders, or culm contained in any ship or vessel laden with coals, cinders, or culm arriving at her moorings within any part of the port of London at or to the westward of Gravesend, and also the like duty of 1*d.* per ton on coals, culm, and cinders brought near London by the Grand Junction or Paddington Canals, or by the River Thames, created and imposed by the said Act of 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. lxxvi, and by this and other Acts extended to coals, culm, and cinders brought near London by railway, inland navigation, or other mode of conveyance, shall from and after the 31st December 1845 be applied to the creation of a fund for the execution of such improvements in the metropolis as Parliament may hereafter direct or sanction; and the public stocks or funds in which the residue or overplus of the produce of the said duty of 1*d.* per ton on coals, cinders, or culm has been from time to time invested in the names of the chamberlain, town clerk, and comptroller of the chamber of the said city, in pursuance of the said Act of 1 & 2 Will. 4. and the dividends and interest thereof, and also the rents and profits to be derived from the coal market, shall from time to time be applied to the same purposes as the said duty of 1*d.* per ton on coals, cinders, or culm is now applicable by virtue of the said Act.

IV. That from and after the said 31st of December 1845 the said duty of 1*d.* per ton on coals, cinders, and culm, so created, imposed, and extended as aforesaid, shall from time to time, when and as received, be laid out and invested in the purchase of stock in some of the public stocks or funds, or upon government or real securities, at interest, in the names of the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings, to an account to be rendered, "The Metropolis Improvement Fund Account;" and the said Commissioners shall from time to time lay out or invest the yearly dividends or interest of the stocks, funds, and securities so to be purchased in their names on the account aforesaid, in like manner, for the purpose of accumulation in the meantime, and until the said fund shall be required for and appropriated by Parliament to the execution of improvements in the metropolis.

v. That it shall be lawful for the said mayor, aldermen and commons in common council assembled, and the Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council for managing the affairs of Trade to agree upon a sum of money, to be paid to the said mayor, aldermen, and commons, in common council assembled, for the redemption of the sums of money, annuities, and other compensation to which the principal and labouring land coal meters, and the clerks, officers, and other persons who were employed in the land metage of coals, and also the clerks of the coal market, are now entitled, in respect of the abolition of their respective offices, under and by virtue of the said Act of 1 & 2 Will. 4; and thereupon the chamberlain shall receive out of the said stocks or funds in which the said residue or overplus of the said duty of 1*d.* per ton on coals, cinders, or culm has been invested as aforesaid, the sum of money so to be certified as aforesaid, to the use of the mayor and commonalty and citizens of the city of London; and when such money shall have been paid to the said chamberlain as aforesaid, the said mayor and commonalty and citizens shall be and are hereby made liable to the payment of the said sums of money, annuities, and other compensation as aforesaid, and the charge thereof upon the said stocks or funds shall cease and determine.

vi. That it shall be lawful for the said mayor, aldermen, and commons of the city of London, in common council assembled, with the approbation and in the manner mentioned in the said Act, 1 & 2 Vict. c. ci., to make from time to time such bye-laws as shall appear to them to be necessary for regulating and removing vessels laden or partly laden with coals, and from time to time to amend, alter, vary, or repeal such bye-laws, and to make others.

vii. That a printed or written copy of the bye-laws made in pursuance of this Act, or of an Act, 10 Geo. 4. c. cxxiv., intitled 'An Act for altering and amending the Powers of an Act of the Thirty-ninth Year of the Reign of King George the Third, for rendering more commodious and for better regulating the Port of London,' or of the said Act of 1 & 2 Will. 4, or of the said Act of 1 & 2 Vict., signed by the town clerk of the city of London, shall, without any other proof, be admitted as evidence of such bye-laws, and of the making, submission, allowance, and publication thereof, unless the contrary shall be proved.

viii. That in all cases in which by the said Acts or either of them, or this Act, or any bye-laws made or to be made in pursuance thereof, any penalty or forfeiture is made recoverable before a Justice of the Peace, it shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace to whom complaint shall be made of any offence against the said Acts or either of them, or this Act, or such bye-laws as aforesaid, to summon the party complained against before any Justice, who on such summons shall hear and determine the matter of such complaint, and on proof of the offence convict the offender, and adjudge him to pay the penalty or forfeiture incurred, and proceed to recover the same, although no information in writing shall have been exhibited or taken by or before any Justice; and all such proceedings by summons without information shall be as good, valid, and effectual to all intents and purposes as if an information in writing was exhibited.

ix. That the costs, charges, and expenses incident to and incurred in obtaining and passing this Act shall be paid and discharged by and out of the produce of the said duty of 1*d.* per ton.

x. That this Act shall be a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such.

CAP. CII.

AN ACT to continue until the First Day of January One thousand eight hundred and fifty-one an Act for exempting certain Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes from the Operation of the Laws relating to Usury.

By this Act, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 37. is continued until the 1st of January 1851.

CAP. CIII.

AN ACT to continue until the Thirty-first day of August One thousand eight hundred and forty-eight and to the End of the next Session of Parliament, and to amend, an Act of the Fifth and Sixth Years of Her present Majesty, for permitting Wheat to be delivered from the Warehouse or the Vessel Duty free, upon the previous Substitution of an equivalent quantity of Flour or Biscuit in the Warehouse.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Recited Act (except as altered or repealed by this Act) continued for three years.
2. Same period allowed for entering wheat from a vessel as from the warehouse.
3. Commissioners of Customs to provide standard samples of biscuit.

4. Repeal of certain penalties imposed by the said Act.
5. Penalties for depositing articles of inferior quality.
6. Flour not to be taken out of bond for four weeks.
7. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 92, and that it is expedient that the said Act should be further continued for the term hereinafter specified; but it is necessary that the same should be amended in certain respects;—

It is Enacted,

i. That the said Act, except so far as the same or any part thereof is hereby altered or repealed, shall continue in force until the 31st of August 1848, and from thence until the end of the next session of Parliament.

And after reciting that it is enacted by the said Act that persons having deposited in any warehouse in the manner required by the said Act any quantity of fine wheat flour or biscuit, or being holders of certain certificates in the said Act mentioned, shall be entitled to enter duty-free from any vessel certain quantities of wheat: And that doubts have arisen as to the period within which such entry ought to be made; and it is expedient that such doubts should be removed, and that the same period should be allowed for entering wheat duty-free from any vessel as is now allowed for entering wheat from the warehouse;—

It is Enacted,

ii. That any person, being entitled under the provisions of the said Act to enter any wheat duty-free from any vessel, may enter such wheat duty-free from such vessel at any time or times, and at such time or times only, at which it would be lawful under the provisions of the said Act for such person to enter such wheat if the same were in any warehouse.

iii. That the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs shall forthwith provide samples of the several kinds of biscuit in the said Act mentioned, and such samples shall be deemed standard samples, for the purpose of comparing therewith any biscuit tendered to be deposited as being captains biscuit, or biscuit of the standard supplied to Her Majesty's navy, or common ship's biscuit; and the said Commissioners shall from time to time renew such standard samples as they may deem it expedient.

iv. That so much of the said Act as relates to the forfeiture in certain cases of parcels or packages tendered to be deposited under the provisions thereof, and to the imposition of penalties upon persons tendering the same for the purpose of being deposited, shall be repealed.

v. That if any parcel or package, being or containing any other article than flour, or any other flour than fine wheat flour in sound condition, is tendered to be deposited under the provisions of the said Act as being or containing flour, or if any parcel or package being or containing any other article than biscuit is tendered to be deposited under the provisions of the said Act as being or containing biscuit, or if any parcel or package being or containing biscuit of an inferior quality to the standard sample of any one of the several kinds of biscuits in the said Act mentioned, or being or containing biscuit not in sound condition, is tendered to be deposited under the provisions of the said Act as being or containing biscuit of that kind, such parcel or package and the contents thereof shall be forfeited; and any person so tendering any such parcel or package to be deposited as aforesaid shall forfeit and pay the sum of 5*l.* for every hundred pounds weight of the wheat for which such parcel or package was tendered to be substituted; and such forfeitures and penalties, and any other forfeitures imposed by the said Act, shall be recovered and dealt with in all respects as forfeitures and penalties under any law relating to the Customs to be recovered and dealt with.

vi. That no flour deposited in the warehouse under the provisions of the said Act shall be entered from the warehouse for home consumption until four weeks after the day on which it was deposited.

vii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

CAP. CIV.

AN ACT to empower the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods to appropriate to building Purposes the Area of Darby Court, in the Parish of Saint James Westminster.

(4th August 1845.)

---

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

The area of Darby Court vested in Her Majesty, discharged of rights of way.

Saving the rights of the lessee.

Saving the jurisdiction of the Paving Commissioners as to rating.

Public Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that the Queen's most excellent Majesty, in right of her Crown, is seised to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, of a plot of ground, with the messuages or tenements standing thereon, situate in the parish of St. James Westminster in the county of Middlesex, abutting northward on Piccadilly, and southward on Jermyn Street, and including the open area of a court or passage leading from Jermyn Street to Piccadilly aforesaid, subject nevertheless, as to the last-mentioned area, to the power and superintendence of the paving, repairing, cleansing, and lighting the same, vested in the Commissioners for paving and improving the parish of St. James Westminster, and subject, as respects two messuages or tenements, numbered respectively 6 and 7 in Darby Court aforesaid, to a certain indenture of lease whereby the said two messuages or tenements were, together with other property of the Crown, demised to Samuel Rickards, his executors, administrators, and assigns, for a term which will expire on the 10th of October 1884: And that all the houses and buildings now standing in or abutting upon Darby Court aforesaid (with the exception of numbers 6 and 7 aforesaid) are about to be pulled down with the view of a substantial public building being erected on the site thereof, and also on the site of the said court, or of some part thereof respectively;—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the passing of this Act the ground and open area of the said court called Darby Court shall be and the same is hereby vested in the Queen's most excellent Majesty, her heirs and successors, freed and discharged from all rights of way and other rights and easements whatsoever, into, through, or over the same, and freed and discharged of and from the power and superintendence of the paving, repairing, cleansing, lighting, watering, and improving the said court, and preventing nuisances and obstructions therein, now vested in the Commissioners for paving and improving the parish of St. James Westminster, all which said rights of way, and other rights and easements, power and superintendence, shall be and the same are hereby extinguished; and it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings to take and use or demise the said ground and premises so freed and discharged as aforesaid for building or other purposes, and either together with the adjoining ground and premises, the property of Her Majesty, and as part or parcel thereof, or separately therefrom, in as full and ample manner as they are by law authorized and empowered to take, use, or demise any part or parts of the possessions and land revenues of the Crown under their care and management.

II. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to prejudice or affect the term, estate, and interest of the said Samuel Rickards, his executors, administrators, undertenants, or assigns, under the hereinbefore mentioned indenture of lease; and such term, estate, and interest shall remain whole and unimpaired as if this Act had not been passed.

III. That the exclusion hereinbefore contained of the area of the said court from the jurisdiction of the said Commissioners for paving and improving the parish of St. James Westminster, as to paving, cleansing and lighting the same, shall not extend to exclude the same from the jurisdiction of the said Commissioners as to rating, but the jurisdiction of the said Commissioners as to rating all and every the persons and person who shall inhabit, use, or occupy all or any of the houses or buildings to be erected on the said area, ground, and premises, shall remain whole and unimpaired as if this Act had not been passed.

IV. That this Act shall be a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such.

CAP. CV.

AN ACT for amending certain Acts of the Fourth and Fifth Years of the Reign of Her Majesty, for facilitating the Administration of Justice in the Court of Chancery; and for providing for the Discharge of the Duties of the Subpoena Office after the Death, Resignation, or Removal of the present Patentee of that Office.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. The term of five years, within which certain rules, orders, and regulations were directed by the first-recited Act to be extended to ten years.
2. All rules, &c. so made to be deemed general rules, &c.
3. Recited Act in part repealed; and after the removal of the patentee of the subpoena office duties of that office to be discharged and fees received by clerks of records and writs.—Application of the fees.—Lord Chancellor may fix an earlier time for transferring the duties.
4. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Vict. c. 94, whereby power was given to the Lord Chancellor, with the advice and consent of the Master of the Rolls and the Vice Chancellor, or one of them, to make, from time to time, and at any time within five years from the passing of the said Act, any rules, orders, and regulations for the purposes in the said Act mentioned; and it was thereby enacted, that all such rules, orders, and regulations should be laid before both Houses of Parliament, if Parliament should be then sitting, then within five days after the next meeting thereof: And that another Act was passed, 4 & 5 Vict. c. 52, whereby it was enacted, that every such rule, order, or regulation made in pursuance of the said recited Act should, from and after the time in that behalf to be appointed by the Lord Chancellor, with such advice and consent as aforesaid, and if no time should be so appointed, then from and after the making thereof, be binding and obligatory on the said court, and be of like force and effect as if the provisions therein contained had been expressly enacted by Parliament; and it was thereby provided, that if either of the Houses of Parliament should, by any resolution passed at any time before such House of Parliament should have actually sat thirty-six days after such rules, orders, and regulations should have been laid before such House of Parliament, resolve that the whole or any part of such rules, orders, or regulations ought not to continue in force, in such case the whole, or such part thereof as should be so included in such resolution, should from and after such resolution cease to be binding and obligatory on the said court; and it was thereby also provided, that no such rule, order, or regulation as aforesaid should by virtue of the said Act be of the like force and effect as if the provisions therein contained had been expressly made by Parliament, unless the same should be expressed to be made in pursuance of said Act and of the now reciting Act; and that every such rule, order or regulation so expressed to be made in pursuance of the said Act and of the now reciting Act, which should not be laid before both Houses of Parliament within the time by the said recited Act limited for that purpose, should from and after the expiration of such time be absolutely void and of no effect: And that an Act was passed, 5 Vict. c. 5, intituled, 'An Act to make further Provision for the Administration of Justice,' under the authority of which two additional Vice Chancellors have been appointed; and it was thereby enacted, that from and after the appointment of the Vice Chancellors, under the said now reciting Act, it should be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, with the advice or consent of the Master of the Rolls and Vice Chancellors for the time being, or any two of them, and he was thereby authorized and empowered, to do all such acts, and to make and issue all such rules and orders, as by any Act or Acts of Parliament then in force the Lord Chancellor, with the advice or consent of the Master of the Rolls and the Vice Chancellor for the time being, or one of them, was empowered to do, make or issue: And that rules, orders or regulations have from time to time been made in pursuance of the said two first-recited Acts, but it is expedient to extend the time limited by the said first-recited Act for the making thereof in manner hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

11. That the term of five years, which under and by virtue of the said first-recited Act now stands limited as the time within which any rules, orders, or regulations thereby or by the said two other Acts authorized and required to be made must be so made, shall be and the same is hereby extended to ten years from the passing of the said first-recited Act, as if such term of ten years had been originally contained in that Act.

12. That all rules, orders, and regulations made and to be hereafter made under the provisions of the said recited Acts and this Act, or any of them, shall for all purposes be deemed and taken to be general rules and orders of the High Court of Chancery.

And after reciting that by 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 94, it was enacted, that from and after the death, resignation, or removal from his office of the present patentee of the subpoena office all the duties of such office should be performed by the clerk of the affidavits, who should thereupon receive and account for, in manner thereafter mentioned, all the fees then receivable by the said patentee: And that since the passing of the last-mentioned Act four clerks of records and writs have been appointed, by whom the business of issuing writs on the equity side of the Court of Chancery, other than such writs as are issuable by the patentee of the subpoena office, is now discharged: And that it is expedient that the duties of the patentee of the subpoena office should be performed and the fees payable to him should be received by the said clerks of records and writs:

It is Enacted,

13. That so much of the said Act 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 94, as provides for the execution of the duties and the receipt of the fees of the subpoena office by the clerk of the affidavits shall be and the same is hereby repealed; and that after the death, resignation, or removal from his office of the present patentee of the subpoena office the said clerks of records and writs, or any one of them, shall, in place and instead of the said clerk of the affidavits, perform all the duties of the subpoena office, and shall receive all the fees now receivable by the said patentee of that office, and shall pay such parts thereof as the said patentee is now by the said last-mentioned Act required to pay to the several officers named in that Act for that purpose, and shall pay the residue of such fees into the Bank of England, to be placed to the account there standing in the name of the accountant general of the High Court of Chancery, intituled, "The Suits Fee Fund Account," at such times and under such regulations as the Lord Chancellor, with the advice and consent of the Master of the Rolls and Vice Chancellors for the time being, or any two of them, shall by any order direct: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, with such advice and consent as last aforesaid, by any rule or order to be made under the provisions of the said two first-recited Acts, to fix such earlier time for transferring the execution of the duties of the subpoena office to the clerks of records and writs as he shall think fit.

14. That this Act may be amended or repealed in the present session of Parliament

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Commissioners of Public Works to be trustees for providing buildings and lands necessary for the establishment of a central asylum for criminal lunatics.
2. Commissioners of Public Works to be a corporation for the purposes of this Act.
3. Power to Commissioners of Public Works to purchase or rent buildings, lands, &c. which may be required for such central asylum.
4. Consolidation of this Act with Lands Clauses Consolidation Act.
5. Commissioners of Public Works to obtain surveys, plans, and specifications, and submit same to the Treasury.
6. Commissioners of Public Works to lay accounts before the Commissioners of the Treasury.
7. Proceedings in actions by and against the Commissioners of Public Works.
8. When central asylum established, the Lord Lieutenant empowered to order the removal of criminal lunatics to such asylum.
9. Lord Lieutenant to appoint the officers and servants of central asylum, and Lord Lieutenant and Council to make rules and regulations for the government thereof.
10. Persons not to be committed as dangerous lunatics, unless upon information upon oath.
11. Lord Lieutenant may discharge a person committed as a dangerous lunatic who is duly certified to him to have become of unsound mind, or to have ceased to be a dangerous lunatic.
12. Lord Lieutenant may direct persons under sentence of imprisonment or transportation, who become insane, to be removed to central asylum.
13. The district lunatic asylums may receive as many patients as they can accommodate, the care and maintenance of whom shall be provided for as heretofore.
14. Lord Lieutenant authorized to make orders in council for the enlargement of district lunatic asylums.
15. Asylums may be appropriated for the exclusive reception of particular classes as to disease of pauper lunatics.
16. Powers of recited Acts to apply to this Act.
17. Manner of proceeding where any county, &c. shall be taken out of any district and removed to any new district.
18. Lunatic wards, &c. connected with houses of industry.
19. Cork Lunatic Asylum shall become a district lunatic asylum for the county and the city of Cork, and of such other county, &c. any, as shall be added thereto.
20. Grand juries of Cork, &c. shall make presentments for support of such asylum.
21. Asylum vested in Commissioners under 1 & 2 Geo. 4. c. 33.
22. Lord Lieutenant may make rules and regulations for the holding of lectures.
23. Lord Lieutenant to appoint inspectors of lunatics, and functions of inspectors general of prisons vested in them.
24. Inspectors to visit asylums and inquire into the management thereof.
25. Registry of admissions, of discharges and deaths, and medical journal, to be kept.
26. Interpretation clause.
27. Act to extend only to Ireland.
28. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient that one central asylum in or near the city of Dublin should be provided for the custody and care of criminal lunatics:—

It is Enacted,

I. That the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland for the time being shall be trustees for the purpose of purchasing or providing, as hereinafter mentioned, any buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments that may be necessary for the said central asylum, and the site thereof, and the premises to be occupied therewith, and for erecting thereon suitable buildings, and for repairing, enlarging, improving, upholding, and furnishing the same from time to time.

II. That for the purposes of this Act the said Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland for the time being, and their successors, shall be a corporation, by the name or style of "The Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland," and by that name, for the purposes of this Act, shall have perpetual succession and a common seal, to be by them made and from time to time altered as they shall think fit, and shall and may sue and be sued, plead or be impleaded, in all courts, and before all Justices and others, and in that capacity shall be deemed promoters of the undertaking authorized to be executed by this Act.

III. That in order to enable the said Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland to purchase and provide the buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments which may be required for the said central asylum and the site thereof, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, with the approval of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to contract and agree with any person or persons, or body or bodies corporate, for the purchase or renting of any buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments required for such central asylum, or the site thereof, and the premises to be occupied therewith, and also for the purchase of any subsisting leases, terms, estates, or interests therein or charges thereon; and the buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments so contracted and agreed for shall be conveyed, assigned, or demised to or in trust for Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, in such manner and form as the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct.

iv. That in order to enable the said Commissioners of Public Works to purchase and provide the said buildings, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, the "Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845," shall be incorporated with this Act, except the clauses with respect to the purchase and taking of lands otherwise than by agreement: Provided always, that all things by the said Act required or authorized to be done by the promoters of the undertaking may be done by any two of the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in the cases provided by this Act.

v. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Public Works, if they shall be so directed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to employ any competent surveyor or architect to make a survey and estimate of the said proposed work, and to prepare such plan, section, or specification thereof as may be necessary, and send the same to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, for their approval; and if the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall think fit to authorize the work in any such plan, section, or specification, or any modification thereof which they may think proper, to be undertaken, they shall, by warrant under their hands, direct the said Commissioners of Public Works to execute such work, at and for an amount not exceeding a sum to be specified in such warrant; and the said Commissioners of Public Works shall upon receipt of such warrant forthwith cause the construction of the works mentioned therein to be proceeded with.

vi. That the said Commissioners of Public Works shall cause accounts in writing of the several sums received by them as such Commissioners for the purposes of this Act, and the sums expended by them for such purposes, and the mode of such expenditure, to be made up to the 31st of December in each year, or to such period as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct; and the said Commissioners shall, as often as they shall be required so to do by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, transmit to the said Commissioners of the Treasury the said accounts; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to give such directions as they shall think proper, defining the duties of the said Commissioners of Public Works in the execution of this Act; and the said Commissioners of Public Works shall observe all such directions as aforesaid which shall from time to time be signified to them by the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

vii. That the several enactments contained in an Act, 1 & 2 Will. 4. c. 33, intituled 'An Act for the Extension and Promotion of Public Works in Ireland,' which affect or relate to any action or suit to be commenced against the Commissioners for the execution of the last recited Act, or their secretary, or any person or persons, for anything done by virtue of or in pursuance of the last-recited Act, or in any proceedings in any such action or suit, or any limitation of time for the commencement thereof or any costs thereof, or any evidence to be given therein, or any notice of action or suit, or satisfaction, or tender thereof, or any action or suit to be commenced by the said Commissioners, or any proceedings therein, or the said Commissioners suing or being sued in the name of their secretary, or any abatement or discontinuance of any such action or suit, or to the court in which, or to the terms or conditions on which, any such action or suit shall be brought against the said Commissioners, collectively or individually, or their secretary, shall be held to apply to and extend to any action or suit to be commenced against the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland, or their secretary, or any person or persons, for anything done by virtue of or in pursuance of this Act, or to any proceedings in any such action or suit, or to the limitation of time for the commencing thereof, or to any costs thereof, or to any notice of any such action or suit, or to any evidence to be given therein, or to any action or suit to be commenced by the said Commissioners of Public Works in the execution of this Act, or on account of or in pursuance of this Act, or to any proceedings in any such action or suit, or to the said Commissioners suing or being sued in the name of their secretary for the time being, or to any abatement or discontinuance of any such action or suit, or to the court in which, or to the terms or conditions on which, any such action or suit shall be brought against the said Commissioners of Public Works, collectively or individually, or against their secretary.

And after reciting that by 1 & 2 Geo. 4. c. 33, it is amongst other things enacted, that it should be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being to give such order for the safe custody and care of criminals found insane as in the said Act mentioned, during the pleasure of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, in such place and in such manner as should seem fit; and it is by the said Act further provided and enacted, that whenever and as soon as there should be a lunatic asylum built or maintained, whether wholly or in part, in any county, county of a city or county of a town, wherein such prisoner as therein mentioned should be tried or found insane as therein mentioned, then and from thenceforth such insane person should without delay be moved to such asylum as therein mentioned, and should be kept therein so long as such prisoner should be detained in custody:—

It is Enacted,

viii. That whenever and as soon as the said central asylum shall be erected, and fit for the reception of criminal lunatics, shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland to order and direct that all criminal lunatics then in custody in any lunatic asylum or gaol, or who shall thereafter be in custody, shall be removed without delay to such central asylum, and shall be kept therein so long as such criminal lunatics respectively shall be detained in custody.

ix. That it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being to nominate and appoint such persons as he or they shall think fit and proper to be governor, physician, surgeon, apothecary, matron, keepers, officers, and servants of said central asylum, and also that it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, by and with the advice of Her Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, from time to time to make, frame, and establish any rules and regulations which may be necessary or proper for the good conduct and management of the said central asylum, and from time to time to revoke, alter, or make new such rules and regulations.

And after reciting that by 1 Vict. c. 27, it is amongst other things enacted, that if any person should be discovered and apprehended in Ireland under circumstances denoting a derangement of mind, and a purpose of committing some crime for which, if committed, such person would be liable to be indicted, it should be lawful for any two Justices of the Peace of the county, county of a city, county of a town, city or town, and liberties, before whom such person might be brought, to call to their assistance any legally qualified physician, surgeon, or apothecary; and if upon view and examination of the said person so apprehended, or from other proof, the said Justices should be satisfied that such person was a dangerous lunatic or a dangerous idiot, it should be lawful for the said Justices, by warrant under their hands and seals, to commit such person to the gaol of such county, county of a town, city or town, and liberties, there to be kept in strict custody until or unless such person should be discharged in manner by the said Act provided:—

It is Enacted,

X. That it shall not be lawful for the said Justices to commit such person to gaol unless information on the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses shall have been made before the said Justices, stating facts from which it shall appear that such person was discovered and apprehended under circumstances denoting a derangement of mind, and a purpose of committing some crime for which, if committed, such person would be liable to be indicted, and that such person is a dangerous lunatic or a dangerous idiot; and such Justices shall, if they shall so think fit, bind the person or persons swearing such information to appear at the next commission or assizes, or General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, whichever may first occur, which information shall be returned to the clerk of the Crown or peace; and the Judges presiding at such commission, or the Judge of assize, or assistant barrister or recorder, as the case may be, shall, if they shall consider it necessary so to do, examine into the case, and report to the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being whether such person appears to him or them to be a dangerous lunatic or dangerous idiot.

And after reciting that by the said Act it is also amongst other things enacted, that it should be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, if he or they shall so think fit, to direct, by warrant under his or their hand or hands, that any person who might be detained in custody in any gaol by virtue of any such warrant as aforesaid should be removed to the lunatic asylum established either wholly or in part for the county, county of a city, or county of a town in which such person should be in custody; and every such person so removed should remain under confinement in every asylum to which such person might be removed until it should be duly certified to the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors, by two physicians or surgeons, or a surgeon and a physician, that such person had become of sound mind, whereupon the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors was thereby authorized to issue his or their warrant to the keeper or other person having the care of any such asylum, directing that such person should be discharged:—

It is Enacted,

XI. That whenever it shall be duly certified to the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors, in manner aforesaid, that any such person has become of sound mind, or has ceased to be or is not a dangerous lunatic or a dangerous idiot, it shall and may be lawful for the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and he and they is and are hereby authorized to issue his or their warrant to the keeper or other person having the care of any such asylum, directing that such person shall be discharged.

XII. That whenever and as soon as the said central asylum shall be erected and fit for the reception of lunatics it shall be lawful for the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors, if he or they shall so think fit, to direct, by warrant under his or their hand or hands, that any person who may be under any sentence of imprisonment or transportation in any gaol or place of confinement, or in any district asylum, and in respect of whom it shall be certified by two physicians or surgeons, or a surgeon and physician, that such person is or has become insane, shall be removed to the said central asylum; and every such person so removed shall remain under confinement in said asylum so long as such person shall remain subject to be continued in custody, or until it shall be duly certified to the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors, by two physicians or surgeons, or a surgeon and physician, that such person has become of sound mind, whereupon the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors is hereby authorized, if such person shall remain subject to be continued in custody, to issue his or their warrant to the keeper or other person having the care of any such asylum, directing that such person shall be remitted to the prison or other place of confinement from which he or she shall have been taken, or, if such person shall be entitled to his or her discharge, to direct the discharge accordingly.

And after reciting that by the said Act, 1 & 2 Geo. 4. c. 33, it is amongst other things enacted, that at any time after the passing of the said Act it should and might be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, by and with the advice and consent of His Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, to direct and order that any number of asylums for the lunatic poor in Ireland should be erected and established in and for such districts in Ireland as to the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Privy Council should seem expedient; and that every such district should and might consist either of the whole of two or more counties, or of one or more county or counties and one or more county or counties of cities or towns, or of one county or county of a city or county of a town only, and no more, but should not in any case include part only of any county, county of a city or town; and that all lunatic poor within every such district respectively should be maintained and taken care of in the asylum belonging to such district; and that every such asylum established or to be established for any district consisting of more than one county, or one county of a city or county of a town, should be sufficient to contain such number of lunatic poor, not being less than 100 nor more than 160 in any one asylum, as should seem expedient to such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Privy Council; and that where any such district should consist of only one county or county of a city or county of a town, and no more, every such asylum should be sufficient to contain such number of lunatic poor, not being less than fifty, as should seem expedient to such Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors and Privy Council: And that the said Act was amended by 7 Geo. 4. c. 14: and that several such asylums have been erected and established, and the said asylums are capable of affording accommodation for a larger number of lunatic poor than the number limited by the said two last-recited Acts as the number which it is lawful under the provisions of such Acts to maintain and take care of within any one lunatic asylum: And that by 1 Will. 4. c. 13, the Richmond Lunatic Asylum was empowered to receive, maintain, and take care of within the said asylum any number of lunatic poor for the reception and accommodation of whom the said asylum should or might afford space or capacity: and that it is expedient to remove the limitation as to the number of lunatic poor which other district lunatic asylums now erected and established, or hereafter to be erected and established, may respectively receive, maintain, and take care of, and to extend the provisions of the said last-recited Act to the said other district lunatic asylums:—

It is Enacted,

XIII. That from and after the passing of this Act any enactment or provision contained in the said recited Act 1 & 2 Geo. 4, or in any other Act or Acts, whereby the number of lunatic poor to be maintained and taken care of in a district lunatic asylum is in any manner limited or restricted, shall be and the same is accordingly hereby repealed; and that notwithstanding anything in the said last-mentioned Act, or in any other Act or Acts to the contrary, it shall and may be lawful to receive, maintain, and take care of, within every such district lunatic asylum, any number of lunatic poor whatsoever, for the reception and accommodation of whom such asylum shall or may afford space and capacity; and that the care, maintenance, superintendence, and expenditure which shall be or become requisite for or in respect of all such lunatic poor shall be defrayed, raised, and provided for in all respects as the care, maintenance, superintendence, and expenditure requisite for or in respect of such limited number of lunatic poor as before the passing of this Act it was or might have been lawful to maintain and take care of in such lunatic asylum might or ought to have been defrayed, raised, and provided for: Provided, nevertheless, that the maximum number of lunatics admissible into such asylums respectively shall first be fixed and determined from time to time by the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland.

And after reciting that by the said Act, 7 Geo. 4. c. 14, it was amongst other things enacted, that it should and might be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, by and with the advice and consent of His Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, from time to time and at all times, whenever and so often as should seem expedient to him or them so to do, to direct and order that any asylum or asylums for the lunatic poor in Ireland should be erected and established in any place or in and for any district in Ireland, in lieu of or in addition to any asylum or asylums erected under the authority of the therein and hereinbefore recited Act of the 1 & 2 Geo. 4, and from time to time to alter or change the district or places in or for which any such asylum or asylums shall have been or shall be erected under the authority of the said recited Act or the Act now in recital: And that the said Act does not provide for the enlargement or extension of said district asylums: And that the present accommodation in district asylums for pauper lunatics is insufficient, and it is expedient that further accommodation should be provided, so as to enable pauper lunatics to be received into said asylums as soon as may be after they are afflicted with insanity, without which it is frequently found impossible to cure the disorder:—

It is Enacted,

XIV. That if it shall be deemed necessary, at any time hereafter, to enlarge or extend the buildings of any district asylum for the lunatic poor in Ireland, or the out-offices thereof, or to procure more ground fit or necessary to be enjoyed therewith, and in every such case it shall and may be lawful to and for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, by and with the advice of Her Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, from time to time, and whenever it shall seem expedient to him or them so to do, to direct and order that such enlargement or extension shall be made, or such additional ground as may be required shall be obtained, or, where it shall be inconvenient or impracticable to erect or obtain additional buildings adjoining to any such district asylum or asylums, then that additional buildings, with the ground fit or necessary to be enjoyed therewith, shall be erected, established, rented, or purchased within the same district, and as near as conveniently may be to such asylums respectively; and such additional buildings and ground shall be held in connexion with and part of the asylum for the district in which said additional buildings or ground shall be situate; and every order in council made for any such purposes shall be published in the Dublin Gazette.

XV. That in order to provide for the more effectual treatment of pauper lunatics, by a better classification of the same, it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, by and with the advice and consent of Her Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, from time to time and at all times, whenever and so often as shall seem expedient to him or them so to do, to direct and order that any existing asylum or additional buildings which may be made existing asylums under the provisions of this Act shall and may be exclusively appropriated for the sole and exclusive reception, custody, and treatment of a particular class of the said pauper lunatics distinguishable by the nature and character of the disease, and whether recent in its origin or chronic, or whether considered curable or incurable, or to direct and order that a provincial asylum for the lunatic poor shall be erected, established, and maintained in and for any or each of the provinces of Ireland to be so appropriated to any particular class or classes of lunatic poor of such province as aforesaid, such provincial asylums to be in addition to any district asylum or asylums erected or to be erected under said recited Acts or any of them, from time to time to make rules and orders for the government and controul thereof, and for the admission of lunatics, and with the view to make room in any such district lunatic asylum appropriated for the treatment and reception of incurable and curable cases for patients deemed capable of cure, it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland from time to time to cause to be removed from such district lunatic asylum, to such other asylum connected with such district, and appropriated specially for chronic cases or cases apprehended to be incurable, any lunatics who shall be certified by the committee of management, the manager, and by the medical officer of such first-mentioned district asylum, as a proper patient to be removed to an asylum for chronic lunatics for such district, or connected therewith, xvi. That all enactments contained in the said Acts of the 1 & 2 Geo. 4, and of the 7 Will. 4, and of the 11 Will. 4, and in any Act or Acts amending the same or any of them, shall and may from time to time and as occasion may require, so far as the same are applicable, and not repugnant to the provisions hereof, be extended, applied, used, exercised, and enforced to and in respect of any asylums, buildings, or ground which may be erected, purchased, or rented under the provisions of this Act, save and except as to such central asylum first herein mentioned; and that the expense of erecting, establishing, and maintaining every district asylum for the lunatic poor in Ireland, and every asylum which under the provisions of this Act shall be so exclusively appropriated for the reception of a particular class or description of pauper lunatics, together with the ground so rented or purchased, or the buildings so to be erected or obtained, adjoining to or in connexion therewith respectively, shall be raised in such manner as is directed by said Acts or any of them; and that every such asylum shall be subject to all such rules and regulations as are contained in the said recited Acts; and that the said Acts and this Act shall be construed together as one Act; and in any case of a provincial asylum erected and established for any province as aforesaid, such province, and the several counties, counties of cities and counties of towns, situate therein, shall be deemed and taken as a district attached to such asylum: Provided always, that the erection and establishment of any such provincial asylum shall not be deemed in any respect to prejudice or interfere with any district lunatic asylum situate therein, or any district assigned or attached to the same, or any provisions relating thereto.

And after reciting that by the said recited Act, 7 Geo. 4. c. 14, it is amongst other things enacted, that if it shall at any time happen that any money shall have been raised off any county, county of a city, or county of a town, or any part thereof, towards defraying the expenses of erecting, establishing, maintaining, or supporting of any lunatic asylum, and that by reason of any change of the district or place in or for which such asylum shall have been established such county, county of a city or county of a town, or any part thereof, shall be taken out of the district liable to be assessed for such expenses, then and in such case any sum or sums of money which shall have been raised off such county, county of a city or county of a town, or such part thereof as aforesaid, shall be raised off any and every county, county of a city or county of a town, or any part or parts thereof, which shall remain within such district; and all and every sum and sums which shall be so raised shall be repaid to the treasurer of the county, county of a city or county of a town, which shall have been removed from such district; and that whenever any county, county of a city or county of a town, or any part or parts thereof, which shall have been comprised in any former district, shall by reason of any such change as aforesaid be comprised in or shall form part of any new district, such county, county of a city or county of a town, or such part thereof, shall be and is hereby declared to be subject and liable towards the defraying the expenses of any asylum in or for such new district, in like manner as is directed by the said recited Acts or either of them, and as if such county, county of a city or county of a town, or such part thereof, had been originally comprised in or formed part of such new district: And that it is expedient that in case of any change of any such district as aforesaid no sum of money should be repaid to the treasurer of any such county, county of a city or county of a town, which shall be removed from such district, save and except for defraying the expense of erecting & establishing such lunatic asylum, but not for the expense of maintaining or supporting the same:—

xvii. That when any change of the district of any district asylum shall be made as aforesaid no sum of money for defraying the expenses of maintaining or supporting any such district asylum (after the same shall have been erected and established) shall from and after the passing of this Act be raised off any county, county of a city or county of a town, or any part thereof, which shall remain (or be) within such district, or be repaid to the treasurer of the county, county of a city or county of a town, which shall have been removed from such district, or be raised off any county, county of a city or county of a town, or part thereof, which shall have been comprised in any former district, and shall by reason of any such change be comprised in or form part of any new district for any such asylum, anything in the said recited enactment to the contrary notwithstanding.

And after reciting that by 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 117, it is enacted, that when a lunatic asylum, or any ward or wards for the reception and support of idiots and insane persons, is connected with or under the direction of any house of industry in any county, it shall and may be lawful for the grand jury at any summer assizes to present such sum or sums, not exceeding the sum of 100*l.*, as shall appear to be necessary for the support of such asylum or ward connected with such house of industry, and such sum shall be raised off the county at large, and levied and applied accordingly: And that it is expedient that such places should not be used for the support, reception, or custody of insane persons, when sufficient accommodation for them shall be provided in district asylums;—

xviii. That whenever and as soon as such enlargement and extension of any such district lunatic asylum shall have been made as aforesaid, or any such additional asylum in connexion with any such district lunatic asylum for any such district shall have been erected, or whenever any existing district or provincial lunatic asylum shall be sufficient for the purpose, it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland from time to time in any such cases to order and direct that all such idiots or insane poor persons as shall be at the time of such order kept, supported, or detained in any such house of industry, or in any lunatic asylum, or ward or wards for the reception or support of idiots or insane persons connected with or under the direction of any house of industry, shall be forthwith removed to the district or provincial lunatic asylum established for the district or province within which such house of industry shall be situate; and from and after the making of such order, and the publication of the same in the Dublin Gazette, such last-mentioned idiots and insane persons shall be accordingly without delay removed to such district or provincial lunatic asylum; and after the making and publication of such order it shall not be lawful to receive into, or support, keep, or detain any idiot or insane poor person in any such house of industry or asylum, or ward connected therewith; and from thenceforth no presentment shall be made by any grand jury for the support of such asylum or ward in or connected with such house of industry.

xix. That from and after the 1st of September next the Cork Lunatic Asylum shall and may be and become a district lunatic asylum for the county of Cork and the county of the city of Cork, and for such other county or counties, if any, as from time to time may, under the provisions of the said Act of the 1 & 2 Geo. 4, or any Act amending same, be constituted, together with the said county of Cork and county of the city of Cork, a district for a lunatic asylum; and that all rules, orders, regulations, rights, powers, authorities, privileges, liabilities, provisoes, and enactments contained in the said Act of the 1 & 2 Geo. 4, and of any Act or Acts amending same, and of this Act, shall and may, from time to time as occasion may require, be extended, applied, used, exercised, and enforced to and in respect of the district so constituted, in like manner to all intents and purposes as in the case of any district lunatic asylum created or established by or subject to the provisions of the said recited Act, or any Act amending same, or this Act.

xx. That from and after the said day it shall and may be lawful for the grand juries of the county of the city of Cork and of the county of Cork, and of each other county, if any, which may or shall from time to time constitute part of or be included in the district belonging to the said asylum, and such grand juries are hereby respectively required, to present, to be raised of the said city and each such county respectively, any sum or sums of money requisite to pay the expenses of the said asylum, as well those of any building, alteration, or reparation thereof, or of the purchase of any ground or property for the purposes thereof, as those of the maintenance, clothing, and other charges of the patients therein, in like manner, with the same authorities, and under the same regulations and restrictions, as are provided in and by the said Act, 1 & 2 Geo. 4, with respect to any district lunatic asylum, or any Act or Acts amending same, or in and by an Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 116, intituled, 'An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to the Presentment of Public Money by Grand Juries in Ireland.'

xxi. That from and after the said 1st of September the said asylum, and the ground and soil where the same stands, and the several materials and appurtenances, shall be and become vested in such Commissioners as have been or shall, pursuant to the provisions of the said recited Act of the 1 & 2 Geo. 4. be nominated and appointed for the district to which the said asylum shall belong, or any three of them, and to their heirs and successors, in trust for and to the uses and purposes of the said asylum as such district lunatic asylum.

xxii. That it shall and may be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland for the time being, by and with the advice of Her Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, to make and found such rules and regulations for the holding of lectures by the medical attendant or attendants of the said central asylum, or said provincial or district asylums, or any of them, as to the said Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, with the advice of said Privy Council aforesaid, may seem fit.

And after reciting that it is expedient that more adequate provision be made for the inspection of all lunatic asylums under this and the hereinbefore recited Acts;—

xxiii. That the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland shall be and he or they are hereby empowered, if they shall so think fit, to appoint one or two duly qualified and experienced persons to act as inspectors of lunatics in Ireland; and on such appointments the functions of the Inspectors General of Prisons in Ireland, so far as they relate to the inspection of lunatic asylums or other establishments for lunatics, shall be transferred to such inspectors of lunatics so to be appointed under this Act, and such inspectors of lunatics shall thereon undertake and perform all the duties in respect to lunatic asylums which heretofore have been undertaken and performed by the Inspector General of Prisons, under the provisions of any previous Act, and under this Act.

xxiv. That one of the said inspectors shall once or oftener in each year, on such day or days and at such hours of the day and for such length of time as they shall think fit, visit every asylum for lunatics or house for the reception of the same, and every gaol, union, workhouse, or house of industry in which there shall be or alleged to be any lunatic, and shall inquire whether the provisions of the law have been carried out in the management of such establishments respectively, and also as to the regularity of the admissions and discharges of patients therein and therefrom, and whether Divine Service is performed therein, and whether any system of coercion is in practice therein, and the result thereof, and as to the classification or non-classification of patients therein, and the number of attendants on each class, and as to the occupations and amusement of the patients and the effects thereof, and as to the condition as well mental as bodily of the patients when first received, and as to the dietary of the patients, and shall also make such other inquiries as to every or any such asylum, and all such inquiries as to the lunatics as aforesaid, as to such inspectors shall seem meet.

xxv. That from and after the 1st of January next ensuing the passing of this Act there shall be kept in each district asylum for the lunatic poor which is or may be hereafter established in Ireland a registry of admissions, a registry of discharges and deaths, and a medical journal, in the forms set forth in the Schedule to this Act annexed, which forms shall be adopted and used hereafter in the place of the forms for similar purposes now in use in such asylums respectively.

xxvi. That the term "criminal lunatic" in this Act shall be construed to mean any person acquitted on the ground of insanity, or found to have been insane under the provisions of the said Act of 1 & 2 Geo. 4; and the term "lunatic" shall be construed to mean any insane person.

xxvii. That this Act shall extend only to Ireland.

xxviii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 106. and 7 & 8 Vict. c. 108. And that it is expedient, for the better regulation and improvement of the said fisheries, to give further power and additional means for the purpose of more effectually carrying out the provisions of the said Acts, and to amend the said recited Acts in the several particulars hereinafter mentioned:—

It is Enacted,

1. That it shall and may be lawful to and for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, by warrant under the hands of any three or more of them, if they shall so think fit, to appoint one person to be a Commissioner of Fisheries, to be associated with the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland for the time being, and with them be a Commissioner for the execution of the said recited Acts and this Act during pleasure, and to remove such Commissioner, and to appoint another in the stead of the person so removed or dying or resigning; and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to pay to such person to be so appointed such sum by way of annual salary as the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall think fit; and such Commissioner of Fisheries, when so appointed, shall and may, for the purposes of the said recited Acts and this Act, have, use, and exercise all and every the like powers and authorities and have like privileges as are by said recited Acts or any of them vested in or given to the said Commissioners of Public Works or any of them; and all and every the powers and authorities in and by the said recited Acts and this Act given to or vested in the said Commissioners of Public Works, or which under the provisions of this Act may be used by or be vested in such new Commissioner, may be exercised by the said Commissioners of Public Works or by such new Commissioner appointed under this Act, or by any one or more of them.

11. That if any person shall, after the 20th of August 1845, fish with or use any stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or by contrivance for placing or erecting any net or engines, which under the provisions of the said first-recited Act are prohibited to be placed or erected in any part of any estuary or the mouth or tidal part of any river where the breadth of the channel at low water or spring tides is less than three quarters of a mile statute measure, or which are prohibited to be placed or erected within the space of one statute mile, seaward, coastwards, or inwards from one or on either side of the mouth or entrance of any river into the sea, the inland portion of which river is frequented by salmon, and the breadth of which mouth as now or hereafter to be defined by the said Commissioners, is less than half a mile statute measure at low water of spring tides, any person so offending shall be subject and liable to such and the same penalty and penalties as by said first-mentioned Act the person or persons erecting or placing such weirs, nets, or contrivance for placing or erecting nets, are subject and liable to; and upon proof that any such weir, net, or contrivance has been so used or fished it shall be lawful for the Justices at petty sessions, or other the persons having jurisdiction to enforce the provisions of the said recited Acts or this Act, to direct the same to be forfeited and removed, and the materials thereof to be disposed of and dealt with in such and the same manner as by said first-recited Act is provided and directed in cases of the seizure of illegal nets, or legal nets when used contrary to law.

f And after reciting, that notwithstanding the provisions of the said first-recited Act with regard to the erection and use of stake weirs, stake nets, bag nets, fixed nets, and contrivances for fixing or placing nets, the same or some parts thereof are in many instances erected and used in places prohibited by the said recited Act by parties who have no title so to do; and it is expedient, for the protection of public rights, and to prevent disputes, that the said Commissioners should have power to suspend the use of such weirs, nets, and contrivances, and remove the same, in all cases where it shall appear to them that the same or any part thereof are illegally erected, placed, or used; and that the said Commissioners should for such purposes have and use the same powers and authorities with respect to such weirs, nets, and contrivances, or any part thereof, as they are now authorized under the said first-recited Act to use and exercise in cases of weirs or nets and contrivances erected in such manner as in their judgment to be injurious and detrimental to navigation;—

It is Enacted,

III. That it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, upon and after complaint being made to them in writing, signed by the party making the same, and setting forth the circumstances under which any such stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or contrivance, or any part of the same, is or shall be so erected or used contrary to the provisions of the said recited Acts or this Act, to summon before them the party or parties complained of to attend at some place near or convenient to that in which any such weir, net, or contrivance may be so erected and used; and the said Commissioners shall accordingly at the time and place mentioned in any such summons, upon proof of the personal service of such summons, or upon proof of such summons having been left at or on board the vessel, or at or posted on the known residence of the party or parties complained of, proceed to hear all such pertinent evidence as may be adduced before them by or on behalf of the party making such complaint, as well as the party or parties complained of; and if after hearing all such evidence the said Commissioners shall so think fit and right it shall and may be lawful to and for the said Commissioners to make an order or decision in writing under their hands and seals, declaring that such stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, is a nuisance, and shall be abated and removed; and the said Commissioners are hereby empowered, by warrant under their hands and seals, to authorize any person to abate and remove any such stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, at the expense of the party or parties appearing to the said Commissioners to have erected or used the same; and, subject to the appeal hereinafter provided for, it shall be lawful to and for the said Commissioners to order and direct that the materials of any such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, be forfeited and sold, and the produce arising from such sale applied in such manner as is by the said first-mentioned Act provided in cases of illegal nets used, or legal nets illegally used, for fishing; provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to any case where the party who erected or used such stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or contrivance acted under a fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to do the act complained of, and shall, if so required by the said Commissioners, give security, in such manner and in such amount not exceeding 100*l.* as the said Commissioners shall think fit, conditioned to appeal to the Judges of assize within such time and in such manner and subject to such regulations as are hereinafter provided in cases of appeals against any order or decision of the said Commissioners as last aforesaid, and upon such appeal to establish or prove before such Judges that he had a right or title to erect or use such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, at the time or in the place where the same may have been so erected or used; and it shall be lawful for such Judges or one of them to hear and decide such matter as aforesaid as if the same were an appeal from an order or decision made by the said Commissioners for the abatement as a nuisance of such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, and thereupon to certify under their or his hands or hand their or his decision whether such party had or had not established or proved before them or him such right or title as aforesaid.

IV. Provided and enacted, That if any person shall think himself aggrieved by any such order or decision of the said Commissioners such person may appeal to the next going Judges of assize at the assizes to be held for the county, county of the city or town, in which or on the shore or boundary of which any such weir, net, or contrivance shall have been so erected or used, provided such assizes shall be held at any time not less than thirty-one days after the time the said Commissioners shall have made any such order or decision; and in case such assizes shall be held within thirty-one days from the time of such order or decision, such appeal shall be made to the assizes to be held in and for such county, county of a city or town, next after such first assizes; and that no such appeal shall be allowed, received, heard, or determined, unless the party appealing shall, within twenty-one days from the date of such order or decision of the said Commissioners, give notice in writing to the said Commissioners of his intention to try such appeal; and it shall be lawful to and for the said Judges of assize or one of them to try the subject-matter of the said appeal, and decide whether the party appealing had a right to erect or use such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, at the time or in the place where the same may have been erected or used: Provided always, that in case of such appeal being made, and notice given as aforesaid, the materials of such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, as the case may be, shall be deposited in the custody of such officer or person of the coast guard or constabulary, or with such other party or person as the said Commissioners may direct or appoint for the purpose, there to remain and be kept until the matter of such appeal shall be decided as aforesaid, or until the time for prosecuting the same shall have expired, and if such decision shall be in favour of the appellant such materials shall thereupon be returned to such appellant.

And after reciting that under the provisions of the said first-recited Act the right to use stake weirs, stake nets, bag nets, and other fixed nets in the sea and tide-ways along the coast of Ireland is defined and declared, and certain persons therein mentioned and specified as the persons entitled to exercise such right as aforesaid:—

v. That if any person or persons, other than the persons entitled to exercise such right as aforesaid under the provisions of the said first-recited Act, shall erect, use, or fish with any stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or contrivance for placing or erecting nets on any part of the coast of Ireland, or in the sea or tideways adjoining the same, he or they shall for each offence forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 10*l.*, and such weir, net or contrivance shall also be forfeited, and ordered by the magistrate before whom such person or persons may be convicted to be removed, at the expense of the offender, and the materials thereof disposed of in like manner as by said first-recited Act is directed in cases of illegal nets used, or legal nets used illegally, for fishing.

vi. That if, after any such order or decision of the said Commissioners as is in this Act hereinbefore authorized to be made, unless and until the same shall be reversed on appeal, any person shall again erect or use any such stake weir, stake net, bag net, fixed net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, as aforesaid, in or adjoining or contiguous to any place where it may have been ordered and decided by the said Commissioners that any such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, should be abated and removed, or if, contrary to the provisions of the said first-recited Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 106. s. 22, any person shall erect, re-erect, or use any such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, after conviction under the said Act of any person for erecting, or under this Act for using or fishing with, any such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof, in the same place, or in, adjoining, or contiguous to the same, every such person shall, in addition to the penalties in and by the said Act or this Act prescribed, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 20*l.* for every day such weir, net, or contrivance, or any part thereof as aforesaid, shall remain so erected or used; and it shall be lawful to and for the said Commissioners, by warrant under their hands and seals, from time to time and as often as any such weir, net or contrivance, or any part thereof, as aforesaid, shall be so erected or used, to abate and remove the same.

vii. That in all cases of maliciously or wantonly injuring or destroying any weir, net, or other contrivance legally erected or used for taking fish, any person injured by any such offence, and intending to apply for compensation for any loss or damage sustained thereby, on serving the like notices, lodging the like application, and taking like proceedings (as nearly as the nature of the case will admit) as in and by an Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 116, intituled 'An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to the Presentment of Public Money by Grand Juries in Ireland,' are respectively required in cases of applications for compensation for malicious injuries under the said last-mentioned Act, shall be entitled to make application at presentment sessions as in and by the said Act provided as to cases of malicious injuries; and such application having been considered and dealt with at such presentment sessions in the manner in the said Act directed with regard to applications for compensation for malicious injuries, it shall and may be lawful for the grand jury of the county, county of a city, or county of a town in or on the shores or boundary of which or adjacent whereto such injury shall have been sustained, and such grand jury are hereby required, either to disallow such application altogether, or present such sum or sums of money as the person or persons so injured ought to receive for such injury or damage, to be levied off such county, or such barony, parish, district, townland, or sub-denomination thereof, as the grand jury shall direct: Provided always, that such application and presentment shall be subject and liable to the like traverse and all other proceedings, and be subject to the like regulations and provisions, as by the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 116, any application or presentment for compensation for malicious injuries is subject and liable to under the said Act, and as if such regulations and provisions were herein repeated.

viii. That in case such malicious injury as aforesaid shall be committed on the verge or within the distance of one mile of the boundary of any two or more counties, the person or persons who shall sustain such injury may apply for compensation in the manner hereinbefore directed in either or any one of such neighbouring counties, and all proceedings shall be taken thereupon as hereinbefore provided, and in and by the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 116, directed; and in case any sum or sums of money shall be presented by the grand jury of the county where such application shall be made, or shall be finally awarded by the verdict of any jury, as and for compensation to the person or persons applying as aforesaid, the Judge at the assizes of such county shall have power and authority to apportion the amount of such compensation amongst such neighbouring counties, and to direct the proportion of the same which shall be paid by such counties respectively, and shall certify the same accordingly, and such presentment shall thereupon be diminished or presentment made according to the proportion which the said Judge shall direct to be paid by such county; and the grand jury or grand juries of the said other neighbouring county or counties respectively shall and they are hereby required, on the production of the certificate of such Judge declaring the proportion to be paid by such county or counties, to present such proportion to be raised in the manner mentioned in the said Act 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 116, and paid to the person so applying: Provided always, that no such presentment as aforesaid shall be considered as conferring or confirming any title in or upon the party making such application as aforesaid.

ix. That in all cases where the said Commissioners, under the provisions of the said first-recited Act, have heretofore defined or may hereafter define the mouth or entrance into the sea of any river, it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, in addition to such definition and determination as aforesaid, to define and determine the points of termination of the respective distances prescribed by the said first-recited Act, and to illustrate and shew by a map or plan, or otherwise as they may consider best, the said points of termination, and the space or spaces within which it is by the provisions of the said first-recited Act prohibited to erect or use certain fishing weirs, nets, or engines, or to use or practise certain modes of fishing.

And after reciting that it is found expedient to give additional powers to enforce the strict observance of the weekly and other close times and seasons in and by the said first-recited Act required to be observed and kept:—

It is Enacted,

x. That it shall and may be lawful for all officers and men of the navy or coast guard service, and of the constabulary, and for any person appointed by or acting under the authority of the said Commissioners, when and as often as they or any of them shall, in any fishing weir, net, or contrivance, during the weekly or other close time or season (as fixed under the provisions of the said first-recited Act), find any passage shut, closed, or obstructed, or during such close time in any place find any net or other contrivance placed or used where the same are now by law or may hereafter be prohibited by the said Commissioners, in pursuance of the powers in them vested, or shall at any time find any obstruction in the Queen's share or free gap through or over any fishing or other weir, or in the sluice passages appurtenant to any mill or factory at any time when the sluice gate of same shall be open, then and so often to open such passages and remove all such obstructions, doing no unnecessary damage, and to seize and remove all nets or parts of nets which may be found so as aforesaid placed or used contrary to the provisions of the said first-recited Act or this Act: Provided always, that nothing herein contained or done in pursuance of the same shall exempt any person from the penalties and forfeitures in and by the said first-recited Act prescribed in respect of any of the matters aforesaid; and provided also, that none of the parties or persons hereby authorized to open such passages or remove such nets or obstructions shall be liable for any damage caused by the opening of such passages, or removal of such nets or obstructions, unless the same shall be unnecessarily, wantonly, or maliciously done.

And after reciting that it has been found that the size of the meshes of nets (not made of wood, iron, or other rigid materials,) for the taking of salmon and trout in the sea and tideways, and the size of the meshes of all nets to be used in the inland and fresh-water portions of rivers, as fixed and prescribed by said first-recited Act, is too large, and permits the escape of great quantities of valuable fish as well as diminishes the value of much of the fish that may be taken:—

It is Enacted,

x. That so much of the said first-recited Act as fixes or prescribes the size of the meshes of any such nets as aforesaid shall be and is hereby repealed, and that from and after the passing of this Act no net, save as hereinafter provided, for the taking of salmon or trout in the sea, estuaries, or tideways, or for the taking of any fish in the inland and fresh-water portions of rivers and lakes, shall be used with a mesh of less size than one and three-quarter inches from knot to knot, to be measured along the side of the square, or seven inches, to be measured all round each such mesh, such measurements being taken in the clear, when the net is wet; and that if any person shall use any net contrary to this provision, such person shall be liable and subject to the penalties and forfeitures by said first-recited Act mentioned and prescribed in cases of any person using nets with meshes of less size than the size in the said Act prescribed and limited.

xii. Provided and enacted, That it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, by any bye-law to be made in accordance with the provisions of said first-recited Act, and for such time as to them shall seem fit, to alter, in and for any particular district or locality, the size of the meshes of the nets as herein prescribed, and to permit the use of meshes of such other size in the said district or locality as the said Commissioners shall prescribe; and all parties using nets with meshes of a less size in such district or locality than such as shall be so permitted and prescribed by the said Commissioners shall be subject and liable to like penalties and forfeitures as by said first-recited Act mentioned and prescribed in cases of any person using nets with meshes of a less size than the size prescribed by said first-recited Act.

xiii. That the appointment of each water bailiff under the provisions of the said first-recited Act or this Act shall be subject to a stamp duty of 5s., and to no higher duty; anything in any other Act or Acts to the contrary notwithstanding.

xiv. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners, from time to time, by any bye-law made in pursuance of the provisions of said first-recited Act (subject to such penalties and forfeitures as by the said first-recited Act they are empowered to impose for the breach of any bye-law), to prohibit the use, at any time or season, of any engine or device for the capture of fish which, upon inquiry had, the said Commissioners shall deem to be injurious to the fisheries.

xv. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners (anything in the said first-recited Act to the contrary notwithstanding) to make and ordain, in the manner and under the regulations in the said first-recited Act mentioned, any bye-law authorizing the use between sunset and sunrise of any trammel or other net on any part of the coasts of Ireland, or the islands lying off the same, where such trammel or other nets may, in the opinion of the said Commissioners, be used during the daytime without injury to the fisheries.

xvi. That nothing in the said first-recited Act shall be construed to protect, as an exclusive right or private property, any oyster bed or oyster fishery lying below the level of the lowest water of spring tides, or to subject any person to be deemed guilty of or to be indicted for larceny for taking oysters from any such oyster bed or fishery, unless such oyster bed or fishery shall be legally possessed and enjoyed by some person by virtue of charter, grant, patent, or Act of Parliament, in and by which such oyster bed or fishery is specially granted, and the limits thereof accurately described, or unless the same has been held and enjoyed by prescription as an exclusive right and private property, within limits clearly defined.

And after reciting that the cultivation and improvement of the oyster fisheries may be greatly promoted by the formation and protection of artificial oyster beds or layings of oysters on the shore, above the level of the lowest water of spring tides, and on this purpose it is expedient to permit the formation and cultivation of such oyster beds, and to provide for the protection of the same in such and the same manner as by the said first-recited Act is provided for the making and protection of oyster beds:—

xvii. That it shall and may be lawful for the owner or occupier of any land bordering on the sea, or any estuary, with the permission in writing of the said Commissioners, or for any person or persons, with the consent of such owner or occupier, and with the permission in writing of the said Commissioners, to form or plant any oyster bed or laying on the shore adjacent to such lands, and between high and lowest water-mark of spring tides, and it shall be lawful for the several persons forming or planting any such oyster bed or laying to hold the same as private property, and to exercise an exclusive controul over the same, and such oyster beds shall be entitled to the like protection as by said Act is provided in case of any other oyster beds or layings being the exclusive property of any person: Provided always, that the forming and planting of such oyster beds as aforesaid shall not give any exclusive right or title to the occupancy of the said shore, except for the purpose aforesaid, or to the appropriation of any public banks or beds at present resorted to for oysters, but that the rights hereinbefore granted and conferred are to be considered as exclusively applying to places where no such public oyster beds at present exist; saving to the Queen's most excellent Majesty, and all the subjects of this realm, the free and full exercise and enjoyment of all other rights of fishing or other rights whatsoever in or along the said shore, subject to the provisions herein and in said recited Acts or any of them contained.

XVIII. Provided and enacted, That if after the formation and laying of such oyster beds as aforesaid any person shall interfere with or take away any of the oysters from such bed, without the consent of the owners or occupiers of such bed, every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of larceny, and being convicted thereof shall be punished accordingly.

XIX. That for the purpose of replenishing and supplying such artificial oyster beds or layings, or other beds and layings the exclusive property of any person or persons, but for no other purpose whatsoever, it shall and may be lawful for any person to dredge for and take oysters from any natural public bed lying below the level of the lowest water of spring tides, during such part only of the close season as now fixed or hereafter to be fixed under the provisions of said first-recited Act, as the said Commissioners shall upon inquiry think fit to appoint for such purpose, for or in any district or place: Provided always, that if any oysters dredged or taken during such part of the close season shall be brought to shore, or sold or offered for sale, or be found in the possession of any person on land, or be used for any other purpose than the replenishing or supplying any such artificial or other bed as aforesaid, every person so offending shall forfeit all such oysters, and be subject and liable to the same penalties and forfeitures as by said first-recited Act prescribed in cases of offences against the provisions of the said first-recited Act for the observance of the close season with respect to oysters.

XX. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Commissioners from time to time to make and ordain, in the manner and with and under the powers and regulations in the said first-recited Act mentioned, such bye-laws, rules, and regulations as to them the said Commissioners shall seem expedient, to prevent the destruction or removal from the natural beds of small unsizeable oysters, and to fix by any such bye laws, rules, or regulations the size or dimensions of the smallest oysters which may be removed from such beds, and to appoint such means to be adopted in the dredging and culling of the oysters on the fishing grounds as will secure the return to the sea of all oysters of less dimensions than those to be so fixed, and during any part of the close time, or in places where in pursuance of said second-recited Act dredging for oysters shall be prohibited for a certain period, to prohibit, if they shall so think fit, that any boat shall have on board a dredge or other implements for the taking of oysters, and to make such other rules and regulations as to them shall seem fit for the increase, improvement, and protection of the oyster fisheries.

XXI. That it shall and may be lawful for any proprietor or tenant of any oyster bed or laying, or for any associated body of persons interested in the protection or improvement of any oyster fishery, to appoint, in the same manner and subject to the same restrictions and provisions as in and by the said first-recited Act and this Act are provided for the appointment of water bailiffs, any person or persons to be a water bailiff or water bailiffs for the protection of any such oyster fishery, and for the due enforcement of the provisions of the said first recited Acts and this Act in respect of the same, and of the bye-laws, rules, and regulations now or hereafter to be made by said Commissioners in relation thereto; and the water bailiffs so to be appointed shall have and may exercise and use all and every the same powers and authorities, and have the same privileges as by the said recited Acts or this Act are vested in or given to the water bailiffs appointed or to be appointed thereunder, so far as the same may be necessary for the purposes aforesaid.

XXII. That all orders and decisions, judgments and definitions, which shall be made, pronounced, or given by the said Commissioners under the provisions of the said recited Acts or this Act, shall be recorded in the office of the said Commissioners, and a copy of each such order, decision, judgment, or definition (as the case may be) shall be deposited with the clerk or clerks of the peace for the county or counties to any part of which, or the sea bordering on which or any part of which, the same shall relate or apply; and in all cases where it shall hereafter become necessary to prove any such order, decision, judgment, or definition in any court of law or justice, or elsewhere, a copy obtained from the office of any clerk of the peace with whom the same may be lodged, and certified by him to be a true copy thereof, shall be received and taken as full and sufficient evidence of the existence of any such order, decision, judgment, or definition; and any such order or decision, judgment or definition, shall not be quashed, set aside, or adjudged void or insufficient for want of form only, and shall not be liable to be removed by certiorari or otherwise into Her Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench, or any other of Her Majesty's courts of record in Dublin.

XXIII. That the several penalties, forfeitures, and expenses directed or empowered to be imposed, levied, recovered, or enforced under the provisions of the said recited Act of 7 & 8 Vict. or this Act, or by any bye law, rule, or regulation made or to be made by the said Commissioners in pursuance of the said recited Acts or this Act, may be recovered, levied, enforced, and applied in like manner and by such ways and means as are provided by the said first-recited Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 106, as to the penalties, forfeitures, and expenses imposed or provided thereby.

XXIV. That the said Commissioners shall, as to all matters and things done or to be done under the provisions of the said Act of 7 & 8 Vict. or this Act, have, use, and exercise the like powers and authorities and have the like privileges as are by the said first-recited Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 106, vested in or given to the Commissioners of Public Works, or any of them, under the said first-recited Act.

XXV. That the said herein-recited Acts of the 5 & 6 Vict. and 7 & 8 Vict. shall continue and be in full force and effect, save and except so far as the same are or either of them is altered by or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Act, and that the said Acts and this Act shall be construed together as one Act; and that in the construction of this Act, except where the nature of the provisions or the context of this Act shall exclude such construction, the words "net," "salmon," "vessel," "river," "person," "proprietor," "county," and "estuary," shall be construed to have the meaning and extend and be applied as in the said first herein-recited Act is directed and provided; and the words "said Commissioners," in the said recited Acts or this Act, shall be construed and mean and extend and be applied to the Commissioners of Public Works for the time being and any Commissioner to be appointed under this Act, or any one or more of them; and the expression "Judge of assize" shall, as to cases arising in the county of Dublin or county of the city of Dublin, mean and include a Judge of any of Her Majesty's superior law courts of record in Dublin at Nisi Prius at the sittings next after the pronouncing of any order or decision appealed from, or if such sittings shall commence within twenty-one days after the pronouncing of any such order or decision, then at the sittings next but one from the pronouncing of such order or decision; and every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things as well as one person or thing; and every word importing the plural number shall extend and be applied to one person or thing as well as several persons or things; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to a female as well as a male; and the words "close time" or "close season" shall, when used in the said Acts or this Act, be construed to mean the time or season within which it is or may be prohibited to fish for, take, or destroy, by certain specified means, or by any means whatsoever, as the case may be, any of the particular kinds of fish prohibited to be fished for or taken by such specified means, or by any means, as the case may be, during such time or season.

XXVI. That the word "salmon" in the said recited Acts and this Act shall also mean and be construed to extend to and include the fish called pollen or fresh-water herring, and the fry and spawn thereof; and all the provisions of the said recited Acts and this Act for the protection and regulation of the salmon fisheries shall extend to and include such pollen, save and except that the close season for said pollen shall be the same as that fixed by said first-recited Act for trout, unless such close season for pollen shall be altered by the said Commissioners in pursuance of the powers vested in them for altering the close time of any district, lake, or river; and during the open fishing time for such pollen it shall be lawful that the same may be fished for or taken by such nets or other means as the said Commissioners shall authorize, sanction, or direct.

XXVII. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during this present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 76, authority was given to the councils of boroughs in certain cases to levy borough rates, and also watch rates, for the purposes of the said Act: And that the powers and directions given by the said Act, and certain other Acts relating thereto, for the levying, assessing, and collecting such borough rates and watch rates, are found to be insufficient for that purpose;—

It is Enacted,

1. That in every case in which any parish or place liable to support its own poor, or any extra-parochial place, shall lie partly within and partly without any such borough, and the council of such borough hath appointed or hereafter shall appoint one or more persons to act as overseer or overseers within that part of such parish or place, or those parts of such parishes or places, which is or are within the same borough, for making, levying, and collecting borough rates or watch rates made or hereafter to be made therein, the person or persons so appointed shall be empowered to levy and raise, by an equal rate or assessment upon all the property within each of the parts of parishes or places respectively for which he or they shall be so appointed, which, if such part were a parish maintaining its own poor, would be rateable to the relief of the poor, such sums of money as shall be required in order to raise the several sums assessed upon such parts of parishes or places respectively, or to reimburse such person or persons as aforesaid such sums of money as he or they shall have paid for any borough rate or watch rate made or hereafter to be made by the council of the borough wherein such part of a parish or place, or parts of parishes and places, respectively, shall be situated; such rate or assessment, or respective rates or assessments, to be paid by the occupier or occupiers for the time being of such rateable property as aforesaid; and that the person or persons so appointed or to be appointed to act as such overseer or overseers for the purposes aforesaid shall have and exercise, in and for the purpose of making, levying, and collecting every such rate or assessment as aforesaid, all the powers which by the laws now or hereafter to be in force overseers of the poor have or may have for making, assessing, collecting, and recovering rates for the relief of the poor within their several parishes; and every such rate or assessment made or to be made by any person or persons appointed or to be appointed to act as overseer or overseers of the part of any parish or place within any such borough shall, for the purposes of this Act, be called a district rate.

11. That no such district rate, nor any separate rate made by overseers of the poor for raising a watch rate as hereinafter is mentioned, shall be demanded, collected, or payable, until the same shall have been allowed by two or more Justices of the Peace usually acting in and for such borough, and shall also have been published in like manner as rates for relief of the poor are by law required to be allowed and published.

111. Provided and enacted, That any person who shall think himself aggrieved by any such district rate as aforesaid, or by any separate rate to be made by any overseers of the poor for raising a watch rate as hereinafter is mentioned, may appeal to the Recorder of the borough in which such rate has been made, at the next quarter session for the same borough, or, in case there shall be no Recorder in such borough, to the Justices at the next court of quarter sessions for the county within which such borough is situated, or whereunto it is adjacent; and such Recorder or Justices respectively shall hear and determine the same, and shall award relief in the premises as in the case of an appeal against any rate made for the relief of the poor.

1V. That every such district rate as aforesaid made for the purpose of raising money to pay or reimburse any borough rate or watch rate charged by the council of the borough upon such part of a parish or place, and every separate rate to be made by overseers of the poor for raising a watch rate as hereinafter mentioned, may be at such amount or rate in the pound as may be necessary for raising the sum or respective sums so charged by such council, so that no such district rate, or rate for raising a watch rate, exceed two-pence in the pound of the annual value of property rateable thereunto, beyond the rate in the pound at which the council of the same borough shall have computed the general borough rate or watch rate so laid or charged by them; and that the person or persons collecting such district rate shall be liable to account as an officer appointed by the council of the borough in or for any part of which he shall act, and shall be liable to the same penalties, remedies, and proceedings in all respects, for refusing or neglecting to account and pay over the monies from time to time remaining in his hands, to which other officers appointed by the council are liable; and in case of there being a surplus in the hands of such person or persons arising from any district rate, above the amount for raising which such district rate was made, then such surplus shall be paid to the treasurer of the borough fund, to the credit of the place within and for which such district rate was made, and go in part of the next rate of the like denomination to be made and laid on such place by the council of such borough; and in regard to separate rates made by overseers of the poor for raising watch rates as is hereinafter mentioned, such overseers shall account for the money collected under or by virtue of such separate rates in like manner as for money collected under rates made for the relief of the poor; and in case of there being a surplus in the hands of such overseer, arising from any such separate rate made for raising a watch rate, above the amount to raise which such separate rate was made, then such surplus shall be paid to the treasurer of the borough fund, to the credit of the place within and for which such separate rate was made, and go in part of the next watch rate to be made and laid on such place by the council of such borough.

v. That it shall be lawful for the council of the borough in which any district rate, or any separate rate to be made by overseers of the poor for raising a watch rate as hereinafter mentioned, shall be made, or for any committee of the council appointed for that purpose, on application by or on behalf of any person rated in any such district rate, or rate for raising a watch rate, to be discharged therefrom, and on proof of his or her inability, through poverty, to pay the amount charged upon him or her by such district rate, or rate for raising a watch rate, to order that such person shall be excused from the payment of such district rate, or rate for raising a watch rate, and to strike out his or her name therefrom; and the sum at which such person was so rated in such district rate, or rate for raising a watch rate, shall not thereafter be collected, nor shall any person be charged therewith, or in any manner called or liable to account for the same, or for omitting to collect or receive the same.

vi. That in every case in which a part only of any parish or place liable to maintain its own poor, and situated within any borough, shall be liable to watch rate, the overseers of the poor of such parish or place shall not pay the amount of any watch rate charged by the council of such borough upon such parish or place out of money collected from any rate or rates for the relief of the poor, but shall make a separate rate or assessment upon the part or parts only of such parish or place liable to watch rates for raising and paying the same watch rate, which rate shall be made in like manner, and under like regulations, and with like means and remedies for recovery thereof, as are herein contained in relation to district rates.

vii. That it shall be lawful for the person or persons appointed or to be appointed to act as overseer or overseers for making, levying, and collecting borough rates and watch rates in the parts of parishes or places situate within the limits and jurisdiction of any city or borough as aforesaid, or any of them, and for the overseers of the poor making any separate rate or assessment for the purpose of raising the amount of any watch rate, by warrant from any two Justices of the Peace usually acting in and for the borough wherein the parishes, parts of parishes or places, in or for which any district rate, or rate for raising a watch rate, may be made, shall be situated, to levy upon every person who shall refuse to pay the amount assessed or charged upon him or her by any such district rate, or rate for raising a watch rate, according as they shall be assessed, the amount so assessed or charged upon him, her, or them, together with the costs, and charges of recovering and enforcing payment of the same, to be ascertained by such Justices, by distress and sale of the offender's goods, rendering to the parties the overplus; and in default of such distress it shall be lawful for any two such Justices of the Peace to commit him or them to the common gaol or of used for the same borough, there to remain, without bail or mainprize, until payment of the said amount and arrearages.

VIII. That whenever there shall be within any borough two or more parishes or places, each separately maintaining its own poor, or two or more extra-parochial places, and each of them partly within and partly without the limits and jurisdiction of such borough, it shall be lawful for the council of such borough to appoint some one person or some two persons to act as overseer or overseers for making, levying, and assessing district rates and watch rates within any two or more of the parts of parishes or places, or within all the parts of parishes or places, lying within the limits and jurisdiction of such borough, without regard to the residence of the person or persons so to be appointed; and every person appointed to act as an overseer for the making, levying, and collecting district or watch rates under the provisions of this Act, and the Acts herein recited, shall be allowed and paid out of the borough fund such allowances or remuneration for his services as the council shall direct.

IX. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

15. Interpretation of "Lord Chancellor."
16. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient to appoint a new officer for the taxation of costs in the High Court of Chancery in Ireland:—

It is Enacted,

i. That from and after the 1st of November 1845 the taxing of costs in the High Court of Chancery in Ireland shall be conducted by an officer to be denominated "The Taxing Master," who shall hold his office during his good behaviour, and shall discharge his duties in person, except where otherwise provided by this Act, and may be removed from his office by the Lord Chancellor of Ireland for misconduct; and the business to be transacted by such Taxing Master shall be the taxing of costs as aforesaid, and also such other business (if any) connected with the Court of Chancery in Ireland as the Lord Chancellor, with the advice and consent of the Master of the Rolls in Ireland for the time being, shall from time to time by any order direct; and the places, times, and manner in which the same shall be conducted shall be such as the Lord Chancellor shall from time to time by any order direct; and from and after the commencement of this Act no such costs shall be taxed by any other officer or person whomsoever.

ii. That the Lord Chancellor shall have power to appoint some fit and competent person to be the first Taxing Master under this Act, being a barrister at law of not less than ten years standing at the bar, or being a solicitor who shall for not less than ten years have practised as a solicitor of the said court; and that as often as the said Taxing Master so to be appointed, or any of his successors, shall die or resign or be removed from his office, the Lord Chancellor shall have power to appoint a Taxing Master, qualified as aforesaid, in the room of the Taxing Master who shall so die, resign, or be removed.

iii. That in case of absence from illness or other reasonable cause it shall be lawful for any Taxing Master under this Act to appoint a deputy, such deputy, and also the occasion for such appointment, being first approved by the Lord Chancellor; and that in case any Taxing Master under this Act, being absent as aforesaid, shall neglect to appoint such deputy, or to renew the appointment of a deputy, the Lord Chancellor may appoint a deputy; and every deputy to be appointed as aforesaid shall have all the powers and authorities of his principal, and shall be paid such sum out of the salary of his principal as the Lord Chancellor shall direct.

iv. That it shall be lawful for every such Taxing Master under this Act to administer the oaths and take the affirmations and attestations of honour which he may from time to time be required to administer and take by any order made by the Lord Chancellor, with the advice and consent of the Master of the Rolls for the time being.

v. That all persons swearing, affirming, or attesting before any Taxing Master under this Act shall be liable to all such penalties, punishments, and consequences for any wilful and corrupt false swearing or perjury as if the matters sworn, affirmed, or attested had been sworn, affirmed, or attested before the High Court of Chancery, or any of the Masters in Ordinary thereof.

vi. That every Taxing Master under this Act shall be entitled to receive such annual salary, not exceeding 1,000*l.*, as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall direct; and such Taxing Master may appoint, to assist him in his business, two clerks, and as many more as the Lord Chancellor, with the consent of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time by any order direct; and every such Taxing Master may from time to time remove such clerk or clerks, and fill up all vacancies in the office of such clerks, whether occasioned by death, resignation, or removal; and the said clerks shall respectively receive such salaries as may be directed by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury: Provided always, that no clerk shall be appointed, by a Taxing Master to fill up a vacancy while he shall have a clerk or clerks, unless the Lord Chancellor shall by any order declare such appointment to be necessary.

vii. That if any such Taxing Master, or any clerk of any Taxing Master, shall, for anything done or pretended to be done relating to his office or employment under this Act, or under colour of doing anything relating to his said office or employment, wilfully demand or accept, or appoint or allow any person whatsoever to take for him or on his account, or for or on account of any person by him named, any fee, gift, gratuity, or emolument, or any thing of value, other than what is allowed or directed to be taken by him under this Act, or any order made under this Act, the person so offending may, upon complaint made to the Lord Chancellor, be removed by him from any office or employment he may hold under this Act.

viii. That from and after the 30th of November next after the passing of this Act no person while he holds any office or employment under this Act shall practise as a barrister or as a solicitor or as an attorney; and that from and after the said 30th of November every solicitor or attorney who shall accept any office or employment under this Act shall be struck off the roll of solicitors of the High Court of Chancery, and off the roll of attorneys of any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Dublin on which his name may be.

rx. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor, with such advice and consent as aforesaid, to make and issue such orders as he shall think fit for carrying the provisions of this Act into execution, and also to make and issue such other rules and orders, not being inconsistent with the enactments and provisions of this Act, as he shall think fit, for establishing and settling the practice of the office hereby created, and the hours of attendance and holidays.

x. That any order or orders for the time being made under this Act may from time to time be annulled, altered, or varied by the like authority by which any such order or orders shall have been made, and new orders may from time to time be made for any of the purposes of this Act by the respective authorities by which orders are hereby authorized to be made.

xi. Provided and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to affect the general powers vested in the Lord Chancellor, either solely or otherwise, under any former Act.

xii. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to procure and provide a suitable office or offices for the business of such Taxing Master in the buildings of the Four Courts, or King's Inns, Dublin, if the same can be conveniently procured therein; and if the same cannot be conveniently procured therein it shall be lawful for the Lord Chancellor to cause suitable offices to be rented or hired for carrying on the business of such Taxing Master.

xiii. And after reciting that by 4 Geo. 4. c. 78, certain stamp duties were, amongst others, imposed and are payable for and in respect of several proceedings in the offices of the Masters in ordinary of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, and, among others, for and in respect of certificates at the foot of bills of costs upon the taxation thereof, which said stamp duties are carried to and made part of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: And that it is expedient that the same stamp duties should be continued, and be payable and carried to the Consolidated Fund, in respect of the taxation of costs by the Taxing Master appointed under this Act, as were payable in respect of the taxation of costs in the said court before the passing of this Act, and that the salaries of such Taxing Master and his clerks, and the expenses of his office, should be paid out of the Consolidated Fund;—

It is Enacted,

That the several and respective duties of stamps payable by virtue of the said recited Act for and in respect of every certificate at the foot of any bill of costs shall continue to be paid and payable for and in respect of and shall be applicable to every certificate at the foot of any bill of costs upon, for, or in respect of any taxation of costs by any Taxing Master to be appointed by virtue of this Act, and shall be subject to the same rules, regulations, and provisions as the said Stamp Duties in the said recited Act mentioned, so far as the same shall be respectively applicable.

xiv. That all salaries under this Act shall grow due from day to day, but shall be payable on the 5th of January, 5th of April, 5th of July, and the 10th of October in every year, or on such other days as the Lord Chancellor shall from time to time by any order direct, and shall be paid to the parties entitled thereto, or their respective executors or administrators, by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the expense necessarily incurred for hiring suitable offices for the business of such Taxing Master shall likewise be paid out of the said Consolidated Fund.

xv. That in the construction of this Act the expression "the Lord Chancellor" shall mean and include the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Lord Keeper and Lords Commissioners for the custody of the Great Seal of Ireland, for the time being.

xvi. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act passed in this present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting that the seamen of this kingdom have been for several years past subjected to grievous impositions and great injustice by certain persons who undertake to procure seamen to enter on board merchant ships who have no interest in the said ships: And that it is required that further protection should be afforded to seamen against the arts of such person:—

It is Enacted,

I. That from and after the 1st of September next the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council appointed for Trade and Foreign Plantations shall be and they are hereby empowered to license such persons as they may deem to be requisite and fit, and who may be desirous to take out such licences, to hire, engage, supply, or provide seamen to be entered on board merchant ships; and every such licence shall be granted for such period, upon such terms, and upon such security being given, and shall be revocable upon such conditions, as the Lords of the said Committee may at any time or times appoint.

II. That every such licence shall be granted, and every revocation thereof shall be made, by minute or resolution of the Lords of the said Committee, and a copy of any such minute or resolution, certified and signed by one of the secretaries or assistant secretaries of the said committee, shall be received as evidence of such licence or revocation, without further proof thereof.

III. That no person not licensed as aforesaid, or not being the owner, part owner, master, or person in charge of a merchant ship, or the ship's husband, shall hire, engage, supply, or provide a seaman to be entered on board any merchant ship; and no person, whether licensed or not, other than the owner, part-owner, master, or person in charge of a merchant ship, or the ship's husband, shall demand or obtain the register ticket of any seaman for the purpose or under the pretence of engaging him on board of any merchant ship.

IV. That no owner, part owner, master, or person in charge of any merchant ship, or ship's husband, shall knowingly receive or accept to be entered on board the said ship any seaman who has been hired, engaged, supplied, or provided to be entered on board thereof contrary to the provisions of this Act.

V. That every person guilty of any of the offences above described shall forfeit and pay for each and every seaman hired, engaged, supplied, or provided to be entered on board, and for every register ticket demanded or obtained contrary to the provisions of this Act, or for every seaman knowingly received or accepted to be entered on board contrary to the provisions of this Act, any sum of money not exceeding 20*l.* upon conviction thereof for each offence, although several seamen may be included in the same contract, or several tickets may be obtained or several seamen may be received or permitted to remain at the same time.

VI. That it shall be unlawful for any person to employ any unlicensed person or persons for the purpose of engaging or providing seamen to be entered on board merchant ships; and that any licensed person knowingly employing any unlicensed person for the purposes aforesaid shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 20*l.*, and, in addition thereto, shall forfeit and lose his licence.

VII. That the owner, part owner, master, or person in charge of any merchant ship, or ship's husband, shall not pay or advance, nor give any notice in writing or otherwise in the nature of and purporting to be an advance note for any part of the wages of any seamen hired, engaged, supplied, or provided to be entered on board the said ship, until six hours after the ship's articles have been duly signed by the said seaman on board the said ship, and by the master or owner of the said ship, and then only to the said seaman himself, unless such wages or advance of wages be paid in money, in which case the payment thereof may be made to the said seaman himself at any period most convenient after the signing of the said ship's articles as aforesaid; and all payments of wages contrary to the provisions of this Act shall be and are hereby declared to be null and void, and the amount thereof shall be recoverable by the said seaman as if they had not been paid or advanced.

VIII. That if any person shall demand or receive from any seaman, or from any person other than the owner, part owner, master or person in charge of a merchant ship, or the ship's husband, requiring seamen, any remuneration whatever, either directly or indirectly, for and on account of the hiring, supplying, or providing any such seaman, he shall forfeit for every such offence a sum not exceeding 5*l.*

IX. That it shall not be lawful for any person (other than any officer or person in Her Majesty's service or employment to go and be on board any merchant vessel arriving or about to arrive at the place of her destination before or previous to her actual arrival in dock, or at the quay or place of her discharge, without the permission and consent of the master or person in charge of the said vessel; and if any person (other than as aforesaid) shall go and be on board any such vessel before or previous to her actual arrival in dock, or at the quay or place of her discharge, without the permission and consent of the said master or person in charge of the said vessel, he shall for every such offence forfeit and pay a sum of money not exceeding 20*l.*; and for the better securing the person of such offender the master or person in charge of the said vessel in hereby authorized and empowered to take any person so offending as aforesaid into custody, and to deliver him up forthwith to any constable or peace officer, to be by him taken before a Justice or Justices, to be dealt with according to the provisions of this Act.

x. That if any person shall, on board any merchant ship, within twenty-four hours of her arrival at any port as aforesaid, solicit any seaman to become a lodger at the house of any person not so licensed as aforesaid, and letting lodgings for hire, or shall take from and out of such ship any chest, bedding, or other effects of any seaman, except under the personal direction of such seaman, and without having the permission of the master or person in charge of such ship, he shall be liable to forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of 5*l*.

xi. That if any person shall demand and receive of and from any seaman payment in respect of his board or lodging in the house of such person for a longer period than such seaman shall have actually resided and boarded therein, or shall receive or take into his possession or under his controul any monies, documents, or effects of any seaman, and shall not return the same or pay the value thereof when required so to do by such seaman, after deducting therefrom what shall be justly due and owing in respect of the board and lodging of such seaman, he shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding 10*l*., over and above the amount or value of such monies, documents, or effects, after such deductions as aforesaid, which shall be adjudged to be forthwith paid to such seaman under the conviction by the Justices before whom such offence shall be heard and determined.

xii. That all penalties and forfeitures imposed by this Act shall and may be recovered, with costs, by summary proceedings before any two Justices of the Peace residing in or near to the place where the offence shall be committed or where the offender shall be; and if the sum imposed as a penalty or adjudged to be paid as aforesaid by any such Justices shall not be paid, either immediately after the conviction or within such reasonable time as such Justices shall at the time of the conviction appoint, it shall be lawful for the Justices to commit the offender or offenders to the common gaol or house of correction, there to be imprisoned only, or to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour, according to the discretion of such Justices, for any term not exceeding six calendar months, the commitment to be determinable upon payment of the amount and costs; and all such penalties and forfeitures shall be paid and applied in manner following; (that is to say,) one moiety of such penalty shall be paid to the informer or person upon whose discovery or information the same shall be recovered, and the residue thereof shall be paid to the Seamen's Hospital Society: Provided always, that in all cases of complaint made by or on the behalf of any seaman under this Act the evidence of such seaman shall be received and taken notwithstanding he may be interested in the matter: Provided also, that such seaman shall not in any such case where he shall have been so examined receive any part of any penalty to be imposed, but only such sum as the magistrates before whom the case shall be heard shall adjudge him to receive for any monies or effects which shall appear to have been deposited by him with any such person as aforesaid.

xiii. That the Justices before whom any person shall be summarily convicted of any offence against this Act may cause the conviction to be drawn up in the following form of words, or in any other form of words to the same effect, as the case shall require; (that is to say,)

'Be it remembered, That on the                      day of                      in the Year of our Lord                      at                      in the County of                      [or Riding, Division, Liberty, City, &c., as the Case may be], A. O. is convicted before us [naming the Justices], Two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said County, [or Riding, &c.,] for that he the said A. O. did [specify the Offence, and the Time and Place when and where the same was committed, as the Case may be]; and we the said Justices adjudge the said A. O. for his said Offence to forfeit and pay the sum of [here state the Amount of the Fine imposed, and, when necessary, add the Words "over and above the Sum of £                      which we the said Justices do hereby adjudge to be forthwith paid to the said E. F. [the Seaman], the same being the Value of Monies, Documents, or Effects of the said E. F. received by or taken into the Possession or under the Controul of the said A. O."]; and we the said Justices do also adjudge the said A. O. to pay the Sum of                      for Costs, and in default of immediate Payment of the said Sums of                      to be imprisoned in the                      for the Space of                      unless the said Sums shall be sooner paid [or, and we order that the said Sums of                      shall be paid by the said A. O. on or before the                      Day of                      ]; and we direct that the Sum of                      Part of the said Penalty, together with the said Sum of                      for Costs, shall be paid to C. D. [the Party informing], and the Residue of the said Penalty shall be paid to the Seamen's Hospital Society. Given under our hands, the Day and Year first above mentioned.'

xiv. That no such conviction shall be quashed for want of form, or be removed by certiorari or otherwise into any of Her Majesty's superior courts of record; and no warrant of commitment shall be held void by reason of any defect therein, provided be therein alleged that the party has been convicted, and there be a good and valid conviction to sustain the same.

xv. That the words "merchant ships" inserted in this Act shall be understood to include every description of sea-going, sailing, or passage vessel lying and being within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

xvi. That this Act shall come into operation at the following times; (that is to say,) on the 1st of September, so far as respects the power of licensing hereinbefore given to the Lords of the said Committee of Privy Council, and on the 1st of November, so far as respects all other enactments of this Act.

xvii. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed during the present session of Parliament.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient to facilitate the inclosure and improvement of commons and other lands now subject to rights of property which obstruct cultivation and the productive employment of labour, and to facilitate such exchanges of lands, and such divisions of lands intermixed or divided into inconvenient parcels, as may be beneficial to the respective owners; and it is also expedient to provide remedies for the defective or incomplete execution and for the non-execution of powers created by general and local Acts of inclosure, and to authorize the revival of such powers in certain cases:—

It is Enacted,

I. That it shall be lawful for one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State to appoint any two fit persons to be Commissioners under this Act, and at pleasure to remove the Commissioners so appointed, or either of them; and upon every vacancy in the office of such Commissioner some other fit person shall be appointed to such office in like manner; and the Commissioners so to be appointed shall, with the first Commissioner of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being, be the Commissioners for carrying this Act into execution; and during any vacancy in the office of Commissioner under this Act it shall be lawful for the continuing Commissioners or Commissioner to act as if no such vacancy had occurred.

II. That the said first Commissioner of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works, and Buildings for the time being shall be the chairman of the Commissioners acting in the execution of this Act; and such Commissioners shall be styled "The Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales," and shall have their office in London or Westminster, and they, or any two of them, may sit from time to time, as they deem expedient, as a board of Commissioners for carrying this Act into execution; and the Commissioners shall cause to be made a seal of the said board, and shall cause to be sealed therewith all awards and orders made or confirmed by the Commissioners in pursuance of this Act; and all such awards and orders and other instruments proceeding from the said board, or copies thereof, purporting to be sealed with the seal of the said board, shall be received in evidence, without any further proof thereof; and no award or order of the Commissioners under the authority of this Act shall be of any force unless the same shall be sealed as aforesaid.

III. That the Commissioners shall from time to time give to any one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State such information respecting their proceedings as such principal Secretary of State shall require, and shall in the month of January in every year send to one of the principal Secretaries of State a general report of their proceedings, specifying the applications which may have been made to them under the provisions of this Act, and the several cases in which they shall have authorized inclosures, and the grounds on which they may have withheld their consent to such application, and also the cases in which they shall be of opinion that proposed inclosures, which may not be made without the direction of Parliament, would be expedient; and such report shall separately distinguish all such proposed inclosures as relate to lands situate within fifteen miles of the city of London, and within such respective distances of other cities or towns as hereinafter mentioned, and shall state in each such case the special grounds on which they shall be of opinion that such inclosures shall be expedient; and as well in the cases in which they shall have authorized inclosures as in the other cases aforesaid such report shall state the extent of the land authorized and proposed to be inclosed, with such other particulars as hereinafter directed; and such report shall also specify the progress which shall have been made in inclosures which the Commissioners may have authorized, and in the inclosures which Parliament may have directed to be proceeded with; and every such report shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks after the receipt of the same by such principal Secretary of State, if Parliament be sitting, or if Parliament be not sitting then within six weeks after the next meeting of Parliament; and such Commissioners may from time to time send to one of the principal Secretaries of State such special reports in relation to all or any of the matters aforesaid as they may think fit.

IV. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners from time to time to appoint a sufficient number of persons to be Assistant Commissioners, and also a secretary, and such clerks, messengers, and officers as they shall deem necessary, and to remove such Assistant Commissioners, secretary, clerks, messengers, and officers, or any of them, and on any vacancy in any of the said offices to appoint some other person to the vacant office; and the persons so appointed shall assist in carrying this Act into execution at such places and in such manner as the Commissioners may direct: Provided always, that no such appointment shall be made by the Commissioners unless the Lord High Treasurer or any three or more of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall in the case of each such appointment consent thereto.

V. That no Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner, secretary, or other officer or person so to be appointed, shall hold his office for a longer period than five years next after the day of the passing of this Act, and thenceforth until the end of the next session of Parliament; and after the expiration of the said period of five years and of the then next session of Parliament so much of this Act as authorizes any such appointment shall cease.

VI. That it shall be lawful for the Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to direct a salary, not exceeding 1,500*l.* by the year, to be paid to one of the Commissioners for the time being appointed under this Act; and, except as aforesaid, no salaries shall be paid to the Commissioners in respect of their appointments under this Act; and the allowances to the Assistant Commissioners, and the salaries of the secretary, clerks, messengers, and other officers to be appointed under this Act, shall be from time to time regulated by the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three of them: Provided always, that the allowance to an Assistant Commissioner shall not exceed the sum of 3*l.* 3*s.* for every day he shall be actually employed or travelling in the performance of the duties of his office; provided also, that the said Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners may allow to any Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner, secretary, clerk, messenger, or other officer such reasonable travelling and other expenses as may be incurred by him in the performance of his duties under this Act, in addition to his salary or allowance (if any) respectively.

VII. That the allowances and salaries of such Commissioner, Assistant Commissioners, secretary, clerks, messengers, and officers as aforesaid, and all other incidental expenses of carrying this Act into execution not herein otherwise provided for, shall be paid by the Lord High Treasurer or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

VIII. That every Commissioner shall before he shall enter upon the execution of his office make the following declaration before one of the Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench or Common Pleas, or one of the Barons of the Court of Chexquer; (that is to say,)

STAT.—VOL. XXIII.

3 P

' I do solemnly declare, that I will faithfully, impartially, and honestly, according to the best of my Skill and Judgment, execute the Powers and Duties of a Commissioner under an Act passed in the Year of the ' Reign of Queen Victoria, intituled [here set forth the title of this Act].'

And every Assistant Commissioner shall, before he shall enter upon the execution of his office, make the like declaration (substituting the words "Assistant Commissioner" for the word "Commissioner") before such Judge or Baron, or before any two Justices of the Peace for the county, riding, division, liberty, or jurisdiction wherein such Assistant Commissioner shall be resident at the time of his appointment, or before a Master Extraordinary in Her Majesty's High Court of Chancery; and the appointment of every such Commissioner and Assistant Commissioner, with the time when and the name or names of the Judge, Baron, Justices, or Master Extraordinary before whom he shall have made the declaration aforesaid, shall be forthwith published in the London Gazette.

IX. That all awards, apportionments, agreements, writings, and maps in the custody of the Tithe Commissioners for England and Wales shall be open to the use and inspection of the Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales, or any person by them authorized; and such copies of or extracts from such awards, apportionments, agreements, writings and maps as the Commissioners shall require shall be furnished to them for the purposes of this Act; and that the Commissioners or any Assistant Commissioner may, by summons under the seal of the commission or under the hands of such Assistant Commissioner, require the attendance of all such persons as they or he may think fit to examine upon any matter relating to any inclosure or proposed inclosure, or other proceeding under the authority of this Act, and also make any inquiries and call for any answer or return as to any such matter, and also administer or receive declarations, and examine all such persons upon declaration, and cause to be produced before them or him, upon declaration, all court rolls, and all rate books, instruments of tithe apportionment, and other public writings, maps, plans, and surveys of or belonging to any parish, or copies thereof respectively, in anywise relating to any such matter; and the Commissioners may, when they shall think fit, by summons under the seal of the commission, require the attendance before any valuer acting in the matter of an inclosure under this Act of all such persons as the valuer may certify to the Commissioners as persons whose testimony may be necessary for the matter of such inclosure, and cause to be produced before such valuer, upon declaration, all such court rolls, rate books, public writings, maps, plans, and surveys, or copies thereof, as aforesaid; and every valuer acting in the matter of an inclosure under this Act may also administer or receive declarations, and examine upon declaration all such persons as shall attend before him under such summons of the Commissioners, and all such persons as may voluntarily attend before him as witnesses in such matter: Provided always, that no such person shall be required to attend in obedience to any such summons unless the reasonable charges of his attendance shall have been paid or tendered to him; and no such person shall be required in any case, in obedience to any such summons, to travel more than ten miles from the place of his abode.

X. That the Commissioners may delegate to the Assistant Commissioners, or to any one or more of them, such of the powers hereby given to the Commissioners as the Commissioners shall think fit (except the power to confirm awards, or to do any act herein required to be done under the seal of the Commissioners), and the power so delegated shall be exercised under such regulations as the Commissioners shall direct; and the Commissioners may at any time recall or alter all or any of the powers delegated as aforesaid, and, notwithstanding the delegation thereof, may act as if no such delegation had been made; and all acts done by any such Assistant Commissioner in pursuance of such delegated power shall be obeyed by all persons as if they had proceeded from the Commissioners, and the non-observance thereof shall be punishable in like manner.

XI. That all such lands as are hereinafter mentioned, (that is to say,) all lands subject to any rights of common whatsoever, and whether such rights may be exercised or enjoyed at all times, or may be exercised or enjoyed only during limited times, seasons, or periods, or be subject to any suspension or restriction whatsoever in respect of the time of the enjoyment thereof; all gated and stinted pastures in which the property of the soil or of some part thereof is in the owners of the cattle gates or other gates or stints, or any of them; and also all gated and stinted pastures in which no part of the property of the soil is in the owners of the cattle gates or other gates or stints, or any of them; all land held, occupied, or used in common, either at all times or during any time or season, or periodically, and either for all purposes or for any limited purpose, and whether the separate parcels of the several owners of the soil shall or shall not be known by metes or bounds or otherwise distinguishable; all land in which the property or right of or to the vesture or herbage, or any part thereof, during the whole or any part of the year, or the property or right of or to the wood or underwood growing and to grow thereon is separated from the property of the soil; and all lot meadows and other lands the occupation or enjoyment of the separate lots or parcels of which is subject to interchange among the respective owners in any known course of rotation or otherwise, shall be land subject to be inclosed under this Act.

XII. Provided and enacted, That no waste land of any manor on which the tenants of such manor have rights of common, nor any lands whatsoever subject to rights of common which may be exercised at all times of every year for cattle levant and couchant upon other land, or to any rights of common which may be exercised at all times of every year, and which shall not be limited by number or stints, shall be inclosed under this Act without the previous authority of Parliament in each particular case, as hereinafter provided; provided also, that neither this Act, nor anything which may be done under or by virtue thereof, shall authorize to be made any embankment, erection, or encroachment without the consent of the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and where the consent of any grantee of the office of admiral or vice-admiral might have been required by law if this Act had not been passed, the consent also of such grantee, in or upon the shore of any harbour, or the bank of any navigable river so far as the tide flows up the same, or shall give to or confer upon any person any right, title, estate, or interest to or in any such embankment, erection, or encroachment already made other than what he may legally have at the time of the passing of this Act, or confer upon any person whatsoever any right, title, estate, or interest whatsoever in any lands or soil whereon the tide of the sea flows and re-flows.

XIII. Provided and enacted, that no part of the New Forest in the county of Southampton, or of the Forest of Dean in the county of Gloucester, shall be land subject to be inclosed under this Act.

XIV. Provided and enacted, That no lands situate within fifteen miles of the city of London, or within two miles of any city of town of ten thousand inhabitants, or within two miles and a half of any city or town of twenty thousand inhabitants, or within three miles of any city or town of thirty thousand inhabitants, or within three miles and a half of any city or town of seventy thousand inhabitants, or within four miles of any city or town of one hundred thousand inhabitants, shall be subject to be inclosed under the provisions of this Act without the previous authority of Parliament in each particular case, as hereinafter provided; and in all such cases the number of inhabitants shall be ascertained by the then last Parliamentary census thereof, and that the distance shall be measured in a direct line from the town hall, if there shall be any town hall, or if there shall be no town hall then from the cathedral or church, if there shall be only one church, or if there shall be more churches than one then from the principal market place of any such city or town.

XV. That no town green or village green shall be subject to be inclosed under this Act; provided that in every case in which an inclosure of lands in the parish in which such town green or village green may be situate shall be made under the authority of this Act it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, if they shall think fit, to direct that such town green or village green, provided such green be of equal or greater extent, be allotted to the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of such parish, in trust to allow the same to be used for the purposes of exercise and recreation, and the same shall be allotted and awarded accordingly, in like manner, and with the like provisions for making or maintaining the fences thereof, and preserving the surface thereof, and draining and levelling the same where occasion shall require, as hereinafter directed concerning the allotments to be made for the purposes of exercise and recreation; and such green may be so allotted in addition to other land which may be allotted for the purposes of exercise and recreation, or, if the Commissioners shall think it sufficient, may be allotted in substitution for other land which might have been required to be allotted for such purposes; and in every case in which such town green or village green shall adjoin land subject to be inclosed under this Act, and shall not be separated from such land by fences or known bounds, the Commissioners shall, in the provisional order concerning such inclosure, set out a boundary line between such green and the adjoining land, and shall in their annual general report mention and describe such boundary.

XVI. That for the purposes of this Act the persons interested in land subject to be inclosed under this Act, or otherwise subject or to become subject to the provisions of this Act, shall be deemed to be the persons hereinafter mentioned, and no others; (that is to say,) the persons who shall be in the actual possession or enjoyment of any such land or any part thereof, or any common or common right thereon, or any manor of which such land or any part thereof shall be waste, or who shall be in the actual receipt of the rents and profits of such land or part thereof, common, or common right, or manor respectively, except any tenant for life or lives or for years holding under a lease or agreement for a lease on which a rent of not less than two-thirds of the clear yearly value of the premises comprised therein shall have been reserved, and except any tenant for years whatsoever holding under a lease or agreement for a lease for a term which shall not have exceeded fourteen years from the commencement thereof, and except any tenant from year to year at will or sufferance,) and that without regard to the real amount of interest of such persons; and in every case in which any such land, common, or common right, or manor, shall have been leased or agreed to be leased to any person or persons for life or lives or for years by any lease or agreement for a term on which a rent of not less than two-thirds of the clear yearly value of the premises comprised therein shall have been reserved, and in every case in which any such land, common, or common right, or manor, shall be in the possession of a tenant from year to year at will or sufferance, or shall have been leased or agreed to be leased for a term which shall not have exceeded fourteen years from the commencement thereof, the person who shall for the time being be entitled to the said land, common, or common right, or manor, in reversion immediately expectant on the term created or agreed to be created by such lease or agreement for a lease respectively, or subject to the tenancy from year to year at will or sufferance, shall be deemed to be the person interested as aforesaid in respect of such land, common, or common right, or manor; and in every case in which any such land, common, or common right, or manor, as aforesaid, shall have been leased or agreed to be leased to any person for life or lives or for years by any lease or agreement for a lease in which a rent less than two-thirds of the clear yearly value of the premises comprised therein shall have been reserved, and of which the term shall have exceeded fourteen years from the commencement thereof, the person who shall for the time being be in the actual receipt of the rent reserved upon such lease or agreement for a lease shall, jointly with the person who shall be liable to the payment of such rent of such land, common, or common right, or manor, be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the person interested in respect of such land, common, or common right, or manor respectively; and in every case in which any person shall be in possession or enjoyment or receipt of the rents or profits of any such land, common, or common right, or manor, under any sequestration, extent, elegit, or other writ of execution, or as a receiver under any order of a court of equity, the person who but for such writ or order would have been in possession, enjoyment, or receipt of the rents and profits, shall, jointly with the person in possession, enjoyment, or receipt by virtue of such writ or order, be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the person interested in respect of such land, common, or common right, or manor respectively.

XVII. That whenever Her Majesty shall be interested in land as aforesaid the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, Land Revenues, Works and Buildings for the time being, or in case Her Majesty shall be so interested in right of the Duchy of Lancaster the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, shall for the purposes of this Act, and to the extent of each respective interest, be substituted for the person interested as aforesaid.

XVIII. That whenever the Duke of Cornwall shall be interested in land as aforesaid the Lord Warden of the Stannaries shall for the purposes of this Act, and to the extent of such interest, be substituted instead of the person interested as aforesaid.

XIX. That whenever an interest in land according to the provisions of this Act shall be vested in several persons as trustees or in joint tenancy, such persons shall for the purposes of this Act be considered as jointly interested, and entitled to one vote only in respect of their joint interest; but any one or more of such persons may, unless the other or others of them shall dissent therefrom, act or vote under this Act; and the majority in number of any such persons may, notwithstanding standing any dissent of the minority, act or vote under this Act in the same manner as if all such persons had concurred; and whenever several persons as tenants in coparcenary or in common shall be so interested, each coparcener or tenant in common shall for the purposes of this Act, and to the extent of the value of his respective undivided share, be deemed separately interested and entitled to vote as if he were tenant in severalty.

xx. That whenever any person interested in land as aforesaid shall be an infant, lunatic, idiot, feme covert, or under any other legal disability, or beyond the seas, the guardian, trustee, committee of the estate, husband, or attorney respectively, or in default thereof such person as may be nominated for that purpose by the Commissioners, and whom they are hereby empowered to nominate under their hands and seal, shall for the purposes of this Act be substituted in the place of such person so interested.

xxi. That it shall be lawful for any person interested in any land subject to be inclosed under this Act, or otherwise subject or to become subject to the provisions of this Act, by a power of attorney, given in writing under his hand, to appoint an agent to act for him for the purposes of this Act; and all things which by this Act are directed to be done by or with relation to any such person may be lawfully done by or with relation to the agent so duly authorized of such person; and every such agent shall have full power, in the name and on behalf of his principal, to sign, concur in, and execute any application or Act, to signify consent or dissent, and to vote on any question arising out of the execution of this Act; and every person shall be bound by the Acts of any such agent, according to the authority committed to him, as fully as if the principal of such agent had so acted; and the power of attorney under which the agent shall have acted, or a copy thereof, authenticated by the signature of a witness or witnesses, shall be deposited in the office of the Commissioners; and any such power of attorney may be in the form following:

' I                      of                      do hereby appoint                      of                      to be my Attorney
' for all the Purposes of an Act passed in the                      years of Her present Majesty, intituled

XXII. Provided and enacted, That the proportional value of the respective interests of the several persons interested in any land subject to be inclosed under this Act, or otherwise subject or to become subject to the provisions of this Act, shall, so far as relates to the power to sign any application, or to give any notice or consent, or to vote at any meeting under this Act, be estimated as hereinafter mentioned; (that is to say), where their interests shall be in respect of land or other rateable property, then according to the proportional sums at which such land or rateable property shall be rated to the relief of the poor; and when their interests shall be in respect of rights of common enjoyed or claimed in respect of any land, and not defined by numbers or stints, then according to the proportional sum at which the land in respect of which they enjoy or claim such rights of common shall be rated to the relief of the poor; and in case such interests shall be in respect of rights in a gated or stinted pasture, or of other rights defined by numbers or stints, then according to the proportional amount of their respective numbers or stints; but in case such interests shall be in respect of rights of common in gross, not rated to the relief of the poor, and not defined by numbers or stints, or in case, from any other cause, it shall appear to the Commissioners, or to the Assistant Commissioner presiding at any meeting held for the purposes of this Act, impracticable to estimate such proportional value in manner aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners or such Assistant Commissioner to direct in what manner such proportional value shall be estimated, regard being had to the circumstances of each particular case: Provided always, that in every case in which such Assistant Commissioner shall have directed in what manner such proportional value shall be estimated under the power hereinbefore contained he shall specially report to the Commissioners the circumstances under which it shall have become necessary to exercise such power, and the directions he shall have given in the exercise thereof.

XXIII. That the proportional value of the interest of the lord of a manor interested as lord in any land subject to be inclosed under this Act, or, in case there shall be several lords of a manor or lords of several manors so interested in any land subject to be enclosed under this Act, the proportional value of the respective interests of such lords, shall for the purposes aforesaid be estimated in such manner as the Commissioners may direct.

xxiv. That the Commissioners shall frame and cause to be printed and circulated as they shall see occasion, forms indicating the particulars of the information to be furnished to the Commissioners by persons proposing to inclose land under the provisions of this Act, with reference to the extent and nature of the land to be inclosed, to the mines, minerals or valuable strata (if any) under the same, to the questions of boundary (if any) concerning such land, or such mines, minerals, or strata, to the numbers and occupations of the inhabitants of the parish or place, to its vicinity to or distance from any city or town or populous district, to the parties interested in the proposed inclosure, and the numbers who have assented to or dissented from the application, to the nature of the rights which require the intervention of the Commissioners or the interference of Parliament, to the supposed advantages of the proposed inclosure, to the allotments (if any) proposed to be made for exercise and recreation and for the labouring poor, and to the allotment (if any) agreed on or proposed to be made to the lord of the manor, in case the lord of the manor shall be entitled to the soil of the land proposed to be inclosed, in respect of his right and interest therein, and such other information as in the judgment of the Commissioners may assist them in forming an opinion on such application, and also such other forms as the Commissioners may deem requisite or expedient for facilitating proceedings under this Act.

xxv. That any persons interested in land subject to be inclosed, and proposing to inclose the same under this Act, may make application to the Commissioners according to the form which may have been circulated as aforesaid by the Commissioners to sanction such inclosure, or to certify in their annual general report the expediency of such inclosure, as the case may require; and in case the Commissioners shall, on the statements contained in such application, think that the inclosure of such land, or of some part thereof, may be found to be expedient, they shall refer such application to an Assistant Commissioner, who shall inspect the land proposed to be inclosed, and inquire into the correctness of the statements in such application, and otherwise into the expediency of the proposed inclosure; and such Assistant Commissioner shall hold a meeting or meetings, to hear any objections which may be made to the proposed inclosure, and any information or evidence which may be offered in relation thereto, and may adjourn such meetings respectively, and shall cause notice to be given on the church door of the parish in which the land proposed to be inclosed, or the greater part thereof, shall be situate, and also a like notice to be given by advertisement of the time and place of every such meeting, fourteen days at least before every such meeting (meetings by adjournment only excepted): Provided nevertheless, that it shall not be lawful for the Commissioners to refer such application to the Assistant Commissioner, nor for the Assistant Commissioner to take any further proceedings upon any such application, unless it shall be made to appear to them or him respectively that the persons making such application represent at least one-third in value of the interests in the lands therein proposed to be inclosed.

XXVI. That the Assistant Commissioner to whom such application shall be referred shall report in writing to the Commissioners the result of his inquiries as to the statements contained in the application, and his opinion as to the expediency or in expediency of the proposed inclosure, with the reasons for such opinion; and in case he shall think such inclosure expedient he may specify any terms or conditions which may appear to him to be proper for the protection of any public interests, and of any mineral property or peculiar rights in relation to the land proposed to be inclosed, and shall annex to his report a map or sketch of the land proposed to be inclosed, and in case he shall be of opinion that allotments for exercise and recreation or for the labouring poor should be made in the proposed inclosure, such sketch shall shew the place in which it shall appear to him that such allotments should be made.

XXVII. That if on the report of the Assistant Commissioner, or after any further inquiries they shall think necessary in relation thereto, the Commissioners shall be of opinion, having regard as well to the health, comfort and convenience of the inhabitants of any cities, towns, villages, or populous places in or near any parish in which the land proposed to be inclosed or any part thereof shall be situate, as to the advantage of the proprietors of the land to which such application shall relate, that the proposed inclosure would be expedient, the Commissioners, by provisional order under their seal, shall set forth the terms and conditions on which they shall be of opinion that the inclosure should be made, and especially the quantity and situation of the allotments (if any) which under the provisions of this Act should be appropriated for the purposes of exercise and recreation and for the labouring poor, and, in case the lord of the manor shall be entitled to the soil of the land proposed to be inclosed, shall specify the share or proportion of the residue of the land which, after provision made for the payment of expenses, in case the expenses shall, under the provisions hereinafter contained, be so directed to be paid by sale of land, and after deducting the allotments to be made for public purposes, should be allotted to the lord of the manor in respect of his right and interest in the soil, either exclusively or inclusively of his right or interest in all or any of the mines, minerals, stone, and other substrata under such land, or inclusively or exclusively of any right of pasturage which may have been usually enjoyed by such lord or his tenants, or any other right or interest of such lord in the land to be inclosed, as the case may appear to the Commissioners to require, or as the parties interested, with the approbation of the Commissioners, may have agreed, and in case there shall be any mineral property, or any rights in relation thereto, not vested in the lord of the manor, or other rights which shall appear to the Commissioners proper to be specially provided for upon such inclosure, or to be excepted from the operation thereof, shall specify the provisions or exceptions which should be made in that behalf; and the Commissioners shall thereupon cause notice to be given of their intention to authorize the proposed inclosure, or (as the case may be) to certify in their annual general report the expediency of the proposed inclosure, but upon the terms and conditions in such order expressed, and in case the consents required by this Act should be given within the time in such notice specified, or within any enlarged time which the Commissioners may allow for that purpose; and the Commissioners shall cause to be deposited for inspection a copy of such provisional order in the parish or place in which the land proposed to be inclosed, or some part thereof, shall be situate, and may, in case they shall think fit, cause meetings to be holden by an Assistant Commissioner for the purpose of taking consents or dissents, or of ascertaining the interests of consenting or dissenting parties, or give such directions as to the mode of taking and verifying consents as they shall think fit; and in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that persons the aggregate amount of whose interests in the land proposed to be inclosed shall not be less in value than two-thirds of the whole interest in such land, and the other persons, if any, whose consents may be necessary under the provisions hereinafter contained, shall have consented to such inclosure, upon the terms and conditions in such order expressed, then, if the land proposed to be inclosed cannot be inclosed under this Act without the previous direction of Parliament, the Commissioners shall in their next annual general report certify their opinion that the proposed inclosure would be expedient, with such particulars in relation thereto, or to the terms and conditions aforesaid, as they shall think necessary; and in case the land proposed to be inclosed shall be land to the closure of which under this Act the previous direction of Parliament is not hereby required, the Commissioners shall cause notice to be given on the church door and by advertisement of their intention to proceed with such inclosure under the provisions herein contained: Provided always, that where the freemen, burgesses, or inhabitant householders of any city, borough, or town shall be entitled to rights of common or other interests in the land proposed to be inclosed, the Commissioners shall not certify the expediency of the proposed inclosure, or proceed further under this Act, unless it shall appear to the Commissioners that two-thirds in number of such of the freemen and burgesses so entitled as may be resident in such city, borough, or town, or within seven miles thereof, or of such inhabitant householders, as the case may be, shall have consented to such inclosure, on the terms and conditions in their provisional order specified; and in case two-thirds in number of such resident freemen and burgesses, or of such inhabitant householders, shall have so consented, such consent shall be deemed the consent of the class of freemen, burgesses, or inhabitant householders, as the case may be, so entitled.

XXVIII. That when it shall appear to the Commissioners that land proposed to be inclosed under this Act shall be in part act of open and common arable, meadow, or pasture lands or fields, and in part a tract of common or waste lands subject to rights of common, or shall otherwise consist of separate and distinct tracts subject to separate and distinct rights or classes of rights, and the persons interested in one of such tracts shall not be all interested in the other of them, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to ascertain whether persons interested in each of such tracts whose interests shall not be less than two-thirds in value of the whole interest therein shall consent to the proposed inclosure, on the terms and conditions in their provisional order specified; and in case it shall thereupon appear that such proportion in value of the persons interested in such tract as aforesaid shall not have consented, the said Commissioners shall not proceed further under this Act in respect of such tract, or certify in their annual general report the expediency of the inclosure thereof, unless or until persons interested therein whose interest shall not be less than two-thirds shall have consented thereto.

XXIX. Provided and enacted, That when the land to which such application shall relate shall be the waste of any manor, or land within any manor to the soil of which the lord of such manor shall be entitled in right of his manor, then, unless there shall be more than one person interested in such manor, according to the definition of this Act, the Commissioners shall not proceed to an inclosure on such application, or certify in their annual general report the expediency thereof, unless the person interested in the land subject to be inclosed as aforesaid in right of such manor, or his substitute under this Act, shall consent to such inclosure; and where there shall be more than one person interested in such manor the Commissioners shall not proceed to an inclosure, or certify as aforesaid the expediency thereof, in case such persons, or the majority of such persons in respect of interest, shall signify their dissent within the time limited by the Commissioners.

XXX. That in the provisional order of the Commissioners concerning the inclosure under the provisions of this Act of any waste land of any manor on which the tenants of such manor have rights of common, or of any other land subject to rights of common which may be exercised at all times of the year for cattle levant and couchant, or to any rights of common which may be exercised at all times of the year, and which shall not be limited by number or stints, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to require, and in their provisional order to specify, as one of the terms and conditions of such inclosure, the appropriation of an allotment for the purposes of exercise and recreation for the inhabitants of the neighbourhood, not exceeding the quantity hereinafter mentioned applicable to each case; that is to say, where the land to be inclosed shall be situate in any parish the population of which according to the then last previous parliamentary census shall amount to or exceed ten thousand persons, ten acres; where the land to be inclosed shall be situate in any parish the population of which according to such census shall amount to or exceed five thousand persons and be less than ten thousand persons, eight acres; and where the land to be inclosed shall be situate in any parish the population of which according to such census shall amount to or exceed two thousand persons and be less than five thousand persons, five acres; and in every case, except as aforesaid, not exceeding four acres; and if in the provisional order for such inclosure the Commissioners shall not have required the appropriation of an allotment for the purposes of exercise and recreation, the Commissioners shall in their annual general report state the grounds on which they shall have abstained from requiring such appropriation.

XXXI. That in the provisional order of the Commissioners concerning the inclosure under the provisions of this Act of any waste land of any manor on which the tenants of such manor have rights of common, or of any land whatsoever subject to rights of common, which may be exercised at all times of the year for cattle levant and couchant as aforesaid, or to any rights of common which may be exercised at all times of the year, and which shall not be limited by number or stints, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to require and specify as one of the terms and conditions of such inclosure the appropriation of such an allotment for the labouring poor as the Commissioners shall think necessary, with reference to the circumstances of each particular case, such allotment, nevertheless, to be subject to a rent-charge, to be payable thereout to any person or persons who may be entitled to allotments under such inclosure as hereinafter provided; and if in the provisional order for such inclosure the Commissioners shall not have required the appropriation of an allotment for the labouring poor the Commissioners shall in their annual general report state the grounds on which they shall have abstained from requiring such appropriation.

XXXII. That in case by any Act of Parliament hereafter to be passed it shall be enacted that the inclosures the expediency of which shall have been certified by the Commissioners in their annual general report as aforesaid, or any of them, be proceeded with, the same shall in every case be proceeded with and completed according to the provisions of this Act, and on the terms and conditions in the provisional order of the Commissioners specified in that behalf; and every such Act of Parliament hereafter to be passed containing such enactment as aforesaid shall be deemed a public general Act.

XXXIII. That as soon as conveniently may be after the passing of any Act of Parliament by which any inclosure shall be directed to be proceeded with under the provisions of this Act, or (in the case of land subject to be inclosed under this Act without the previous direction of Parliament) as soon as conveniently may be after the expiration of thirty days from the publication by the Commissioners of the notice of their intention to proceed with an inclosure under this Act, the Commissioners shall call a meeting of the persons interested in the land to be inclosed, of which twenty-one days' notice shall be given by advertisement, to be held for appointing a valuer to divide, set out, and allot such land, or so much thereof as shall not be directed to be set out for public purposes, among the persons interested therein, and to set out, divide, and improve in such manner as hereinafter mentioned, so much thereof as shall be directed to be set out for public purposes; and the Commissioners, if they shall so think fit, may appoint an assistant Commissioner to be present and to preside at such meeting, and to take the votes of the persons present thereat; and the persons, or their agents, present at the meeting, or the majority in number, and the majority in respect of interest, may appoint a valuer; and in case the majority in number and the majority in respect of interest shall not agree upon the appointment, then the Commissioners shall appoint a valuer: Provided always, that no person shall in anywise act as an assistant Commissioner in an inclosure under this Act, or be appointed a valuer in such inclosure, who shall be interested in such inclosure, or shall be the agent ordinarily intrusted with the care, superintendence, or management of the estate of any person so interested.

XXXIV. That at the meeting for appointing a valuer, or at some other meeting called by the Commissioners for the purpose, the persons present, by themselves or their agents, at such meeting, or the majority in number and in respect of interest of such persons, may resolve upon instructions to the valuer not inconsistent with the terms and conditions of the provisional order of the Commissioners, and of any Act hereafter to be passed by which the inclosure may have been authorized, for the appropriation of parts of the land proposed to be inclosed for such public purposes as hereinafter mentioned, or any of them; that is to say, for the formation of public roads and ways; for widening or improving existing public roads and ways; for a supply of stone, gravel, or other materials for the repairs of the roads and ways within the parish in which such land shall be situate; for the formation of such public drains, watercourses, or embankments as may appear conducive to the health and advantage of such parish or the neighbourhood; for the formation or improvement of public ponds wells, and watering places; for a place of exercise and recreation for the inhabitants of the neighbourhood; for allotments or field gardens for the labouring poor; for a supply of fuel for the poor or other inhabitants of such parish; for land for any burying ground, or enlarging any burying ground; for the site of any church or chapel, parsonage house, school, workhouse, or garden to be attached thereto respectively; or for any other purpose of public utility or convenience, or for the general convenience or accommodation of the persons interested in the land to be inclosed; and also, upon instructions to such valuer, for the formation, alteration, or improvement on the land to be inclosed of private or occupation roads and ways, common ponds, ditches, watercourses, embankments, tunnels, bridges, and fences, or any of them, or any other works for the improvement of such land, or for the convenience of the occupiers of the respective allotments thereof; and also for the adoption and use, for the purposes of the inclosure, of a copy of any map or plan which shall have been confirmed under the hands and seal of the Tithe Commissioners of the land in question, or of any other map or plan of the accuracy of which the Inclosure Commissioners shall be satisfied, or for making any new survey, map, or plan; and as to all other matters and things which may be proper to be done in the matter of the inclosure; and also for the raising and payment of all expenses incident to such inclosure, either by sale of part of the land proposed to be inclosed, or by such rate as hereinafter provided, as to the persons present at such meeting, or such majority as aforesaid, shall seem fit; and the majority in number and value as aforesaid may make any agreement with the valuer for the payment of such valuer for the duties to be performed by him under this Act; and all such instructions, and such agreement (if any), shall be reduced into writing, and shall be sent by the Assistant Commissioner (if any) present at the meeting, or otherwise by the chairman of the meeting, to the office of the Commissioners; and it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, having regard to the protection of the rights of all persons interested in the inclosure, to allow or disallow such instructions, in whole or in part, or to make such alterations therein or additions thereto, not inconsistent with the terms and conditions of such provisional order and Act as aforesaid, and to allow or disallow such agreement, as they shall think proper; and in case no instructions shall have been so resolved upon, and sent to the Commissioners, or in case they shall disallow the instructions so resolved upon and sent, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to frame such instructions as they shall think proper, not inconsistent with the terms and conditions of such provisional order and Act as aforesaid; and in case no such agreement shall have been sent, or the agreement sent shall have been disallowed, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to make such order for the payment of the valuer as they shall think proper; and a copy, under the seal of the Commissioners, of all such instructions, as the same shall have been allowed, altered, or framed as aforesaid, shall be delivered to the valuer, with a copy of such provisional order and Act of Parliament (if any) as aforesaid; and the valuer shall in his proceedings in such inclosure observe and obey the directions and declarations of such provisional order, Act, and instructions respectively.

XXXV. That the said valuer, upon the hearing and determining of any contested claim or objection, or upon awarding any costs, as hereinafter mentioned, shall, if he think proper, or if the persons interested shall in their instructions to the valuer so direct, be assisted by an assistant commissioner, specially appointed as an assessor, who shall be a practising barrister-at-law of five years standing at the least; and the determinations of the said said valuer as to all such contested claims and objections, and costs, shall be made pursuant to and in conformity with the decisions of such assessor: Provided nevertheless, that such assessor shall not interfere further in the execution of this Act than in settling what contested claims shall be allowed or disallowed, and what costs, if any, shall be allowed to or paid by any parties making or objecting to such claims.

XXXVI. Provided and enacted, That if the Commissioners shall alter or add to the instructions to the valuer which shall have been resolved upon at a meeting of the persons interested as aforesaid, or shall disallow any such instructions and frame other instructions in lieu thereof, the Commissioners shall cause to be deposited for inspection, as hereinbefore directed with respect to the provisional order, a copy of the instructions so altered, or of the instructions so added to with the additions, or of the instructions so framed by the Commissioners, as the case may be, and shall call a meeting, with fourteen days' notice, of the persons interested as aforesaid, for the consideration thereof; and if such altered instructions, or such additions to the instructions, or the instructions so framed by the Commissioners, as the case may be, shall not be approved by the majority in number and the majority in respect of interests of the persons present at such meeting or at the adjournment thereof, or at some other meeting of the persons interested as aforesaid, called with such notice as aforesaid, such inclosure shall not be proceeded with unless and until some instructions to the valuer, resolved upon or approved by the majority in number and the majority in respect of interests at some meeting of the persons interested as aforesaid, called with such notice as aforesaid, or at some adjournment thereof, shall be finally allowed by the Commissioners.

XXXVII. That at the meeting for appointing a valuer, or at some other meeting called by the Commissioners for this purpose, it shall be lawful for the persons, or their agents, present at such meeting, or the majority in number, and the majority in respect of interest (if they shall so think fit), to appoint a surveyor for the purposes of such inclosure, to assist the valuer under the directions of the valuer in the admeasurement, mapping, and setting out of the lands to be inclosed.

XXXVIII. That no valuer shall be capable of acting until he shall have made and subscribed, before the said Commissioners or some Assistant Commissioner, Justice of the Peace, or Master Extraordinary in Chancery, the following declaration; (that is to say,)

do solemnly declare, that I will faithfully, impartially, and honestly, according to the best of my Skill and Judgment, perform all the Duties of a Valuer in the Inclosure of _____ according to the provisions of an Act passed in the _____ Year of the Reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, intituled _____

And in declaration it shall be lawful for the Commissioners or any Assistant Commissioner, Justice, or Master Extraordinary in Chancery, to administer; and every such declaration so made and subscribed shall be countersigned by the person before whom the same shall have been made and shall be sent by him to the office of the Commissioners; and a certificate, under the seal of the Commissioners, that the person named in such certificate has been appointed a valuer in the matter of an inclosure, and has made and subscribed the declaration required by this Act, shall be conclusive evidence of such appointment, and of his having made and subscribed such declaration.

XXXIX. That in case it shall be represented to the Commissioners by the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure, that the boundaries of any parish or manor in which the land proposed to be inclosed, or any part thereof, shall be situate, and of any parish or manor adjoining thereto, are not then sufficiently ascertained and distinguished, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, or any Assistant Commissioner by them appointed for that purpose, after giving such notices as they or he shall think necessary for the protection of the rights of all persons interested in this behalf, to ascertain and set out the same respectively in writing under the hand and seal of such Assistant Commissioner, or under the seal of such Commissioners; and after the said boundaries shall be so ascertained and set out and fixed the same shall and are hereby declared to be the boundaries of such parishes and manors respectively; and the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall, within one calendar month after ascertaining and setting out the boundaries, publish the same, by causing a description thereof in writing to be delivered to or left at the place of abode of one of the churchwardens or overseers of the poor of each of the parishes of which the boundary shall be so set out, and of the lords of the several manors of which the boundary shall be so set out, or of the stewards of the respective manors, and shall give notice that such boundary has been so set out, and that such description has been so left as aforesaid, by advertisement: Provided always, that any person interested in the determination of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner respecting the said boundaries, who shall be dissatisfied with such determination, may within one calendar month next after the publication of the said boundaries, by delivering or leaving such description as aforesaid, give notice in writing of his dissatisfaction to the Commissioners, specifying the particulars in respect whereof he may be dissatisfied, and request that the matter in dispute may be submitted to the determination of a jury; or any person dissatisfied may, within one calendar month after such publication of the said boundaries, give notice in writing to the Commissioners of such dissatisfaction, and of such particulars thereof, and of his intention to apply to the Queen's Bench to remove the determination of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, by certiorari, into the said court; and in every case in which any person shall have requested that the matter in dispute may be submitted to the determination of a jury as aforesaid, and no notice shall have been given to the Commissioners by any person, within the time hereinbefore limited, of his intention to apply to the Court of Queen's Bench to remove the determination of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioners, by certiorari, as aforesaid, or such determination shall not have been removed within the time hereinafter limited, the Commissioners shall and they are hereby required to issue a warrant under their hands and seal to the sheriff of the county in which the parishes and manors in question, or one of them, shall be situate, commanding such sheriff to impanel, summon, and return, and such sheriff is hereby accordingly empowered and required to impanel, summon, and return, a jury of at least eighteen sufficient and indifferent men, qualified according to the laws of the realm to be returned for trial of issues in Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster; and the persons so to be impanelled, summoned, and returned are hereby required to appear before any Assistant Commissioner specially appointed by the Commissioners for that purpose at such time and place as in such warrant shall be appointed, and to attend from day to day until duly discharged; and out of such persons so to be impanelled, summoned, and returned a jury of twelve men shall be drawn by the said Assistant Commissioner, or by some person to be by him appointed, in such manner as juries for trials of issues joined in Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster are by law directed to be drawn; and in case a sufficient number of jurymen shall not appear at the time and place so to be appointed as aforesaid such sheriff shall return other honest and indifferent men of the standers-by, or of others that can speedily be procured to attend that service (being so qualified as aforesaid), to make up the said jury to the number of twelve; and all parties concerned may have their lawful challenges against any of the said jurymen, but shall not challenge the array; and the said Assistant Commissioner is hereby empowered and required to summon before him all persons who shall be thought necessary to be examined as witnesses touching the matter in question, and may authorize or order the said jury, or any six or more of them, to view the boundaries, or the part thereof which is in controversy; and such jury shall upon their oaths, or being Quakers upon their affirmations (which oaths and affirmations, as well as the oaths and affirmations of all such persons as shall be called upon to give evidence, the said Assistant Commissioner is hereby empowered and required to administer), inquire into and ascertain the said boundaries, or such part thereof as shall have been in controversy, and shall declare whether the said boundaries, as described and set out and published as aforesaid, are or are not the true boundaries of the respective parishes and manors respectively, and in case they shall declare that the same are not the true boundaries, then shall declare in what manner the boundaries so described and set out and published as aforesaid ought to be amended, and shall give verdict accordingly; and the Assistant Commissioner shall reduce such verdict to writing, and certify the same to the Commissioners, under his hand and seal; and in case such jury shall have declared that the boundaries so described and set out and published as aforesaid ought to be amended, the Commissioners shall amend the same in accordance with such verdict, and such amended boundaries shall thenceforth be conclusive on all persons whomsoever.

XI. That if any person so summoned and returned upon any such jury as aforesaid shall not appear, or appearing shall refuse to be sworn, or being a Quaker to make affirmation, or shall refuse to give his verdict, or shall in any other manner wilfully neglect his duty, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this Act, or if any person so summoned to give evidence as aforesaid shall not appear, on being paid or tendered a reasonable sum for his costs and expenses, or appearing shall refuse to be sworn, or being a Quaker affirmed, or to give evidence, every person so offending, having no reasonable excuse, to be judged of and determined by the said Assistant Commissioner, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence any sum not exceeding 10*l*.; all which said penalties and forfeitures shall and may be recovered as penalties and forfeitures are recoverable under this Act.

XII. That every such jury and jurymen as aforesaid shall also be subject to the same regulations, pains, and penalties as if such jury and jurymen had been returned for the trial of any issue joined in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster.

XIII. That in every case in which the verdict of a jury shall be given in favour of the person who shall have requested that such jury be summoned, all the costs of summoning such jury and the expenses of witnesses shall be defrayed by the Commissioners, and shall be expenses in the inclosure in the matter of which the question shall have arisen, and such costs and expenses shall be settled and determined by the said Assistant Commissioner as aforesaid; but if the verdict of the jury shall be given against such person, the said costs and expenses shall be defrayed by such person; and in case such costs and expenses shall not be paid to the party entitled to receive the same within ten days after the same shall have been demanded, then the same shall and may, by warrant of the Commissioners, directed to any person or persons whomsoever, be levied by distress; but in case such person shall have requested such jury to be summoned in pursuance of a resolution of the rate-payers of any parish in vestry assembled, the costs and expenses so paid by him shall be repaid to him by the overseers of the poor of such parish, out of the poor's rate, and shall be allowed in account to such overseers.

XLIII. That every person who shall be dissatisfied, and shall require a jury to be summoned as aforesaid, shall at his own costs, before the Commissioners shall be obliged to issue their warrant for the summoning of such jury, enter into a bond, with two sufficient sureties, to the Commissioners, in a sufficient penalty, to prosecute the complaint, and to bear and pay their costs and expenses of summoning and returning such jury, and taking such verdict, and of the summoning and attendance of witnesses, in case the said costs and expenses shall fall upon them.

XLIV. That any person interested in the determination of the said Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner respecting the said boundaries, who shall be dissatisfied with such determination, and who shall, within the time hereinbefore limited, have given to the Commissioners notice in writing of his intention to apply to the Court of Queen's Bench, as hereinbefore mentioned, may, within six calendar months next after publication of the said boundaries, move the Court of Queen's Bench to remove the said determination of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner by certiorari into the said court, the party making such application giving (in addition to such notice of his intention as aforesaid) eight days' notice of such application to the said Commissioners; and in case of removal as aforesaid the decision of the said Court therein shall be final and conclusive as to the boundaries of such parish or manor; and after the expiration of the said term of six calendar months the determination of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall not be removed or removeable by certiorari, or any other writ or process whatsoever, into any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster or elsewhere; and no certiorari shall be allowed to remove such determination unless the party prosecuting the certiorari shall before allowance thereof enter into a recognizance before one of the Justices of the said court in the sum of 50*l.*, with condition to prosecute the same without wilful delay, and to pay to the said Commissioners their full costs and charges within one calendar month after the determination shall have been confirmed, to be taxed according to the custom of the Court; and no determination of a jury under the provision hereinbefore contained shall be removed or removeable by certiorari; and in every case in which any determination of the Commissioners or of any Assistant Commissioner, respecting the boundary of any parish or manor, shall be removed into the Court of Queen's Bench, it shall be lawful for the Court to direct the trial of one or more feigned issues upon such points as the Court shall think fit, and also to direct who shall be the plaintiff or plaintiffs, and who shall be the defendant or defendants, on such trial, or to determine the same in a summary manner, or otherwise dispose of the question or questions in dispute, and to make such other rules and orders therein, as to costs and all other matters, as may appear to be just and reasonable.

XLV. That for the purpose of shortening or rendering straight any boundary fences between the land to be inclosed and any adjoining lands it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure, with the consent in writing of the person interested in such adjoining lands, to set out and determine the boundaries between the land to be inclosed and such adjoining land, or to draw and define a new line of boundary, as he shall judge proper, for the purposes aforesaid; and after such boundaries shall have been so set out and determined as aforesaid, or such new line of boundary drawn and defined, the same shall be made, fenced, ditched, or mounded by such person, in such manner, and at such times as the valuer shall direct, and shall for ever thereafter be deemed the boundaries and limits of such respective lands.

XLVI. That the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall from time to time hold such meetings for the examination of claims, and otherwise in the matter of such inclosure, as occasion shall require, and shall cause notice to be given on the church door, and also like notice to be given by advertisement, of the time and place of the meeting in the matter of such inclosure, and of each subsequent meeting, in the like manner, fourteen days at least before such respective meeting (meetings by adjournment only excepted); and if from any cause the valuer shall think fit to adjourn or postpone any such meeting, it shall be lawful for him to adjourn or postpone such meeting to any future day.

XLVII. That all persons claiming any common or other right or interest in any land proposed to be inclosed as aforesaid shall deliver such claims in writing to the valuer acting in the matter of such inclosure, at such meeting as the valuer shall appoint for the purpose, stating the several particulars in respect whereof such claims are made, and distinguishing the claims in respect of freehold, copyhold, customary, and leasehold property from each other, and mentioning therein the places of abode of the respective claimants, or their agents, at which notices in respect of such claims may be delivered; and no such claim shall be received by such valuer after the last meeting to be held for that purpose (of which notice shall be given), except for some special cause, to be allowed by the Commissioners.

XLVIII. That a statement of all claims in the matter of any inclosure which shall have been delivered to the valuer acting in the matter of such inclosure, as hereinbefore provided, shall be made, and deposited by him at some public place within the parish in which the land to be inclosed, or the greater part thereof, shall be situate; and the valuer shall give notice on the church door of such parish and by advertisement of such statement having been deposited, and shall in such notice limit such time for the delivery of objections to claims as the Commissioners under the circumstances of each inclosure shall think reasonable, and by order under their seal direct, or in case no direction shall have been given by the Commissioners in this behalf, then such time as the valuer shall think reasonable, not being less in any case than twenty-one days after such notice shall have been given; and every person who shall object to a claim shall deliver his objection in writing to the valuer, and so deliver a copy of such objection at the place of abode of the claimant or his agent within the time limited for delivery of objections to claims as aforesaid; and no objection to any such claim shall be received by the valuer after the time so limited for the delivery of objections to claims, unless for some special cause to be allowed by the Commissioners; and after the time limited for the delivery of claims shall have expired the valuer shall cause fourteen days' notice to be given of the time and place of the meeting for the examination of such claims, and for the attendance of all parties concerned therein; and at such meeting the valuer shall proceed to examine into and determine such claims, and shall and may allow or disallow the same, in whole or in part, and make such order therein, as to him shall appear just; and in case any doubts or difficulties shall arise respecting such claims, or any differences shall happen between any of the claimants touching their respective claims, or the relative proportions of their rights and interests, the valuer shall determine the same, and shall make such order therein as to him shall appear just, which order shall be final, unless any party shall be dissatisfied with the determination of the valuer, and shall give notice, as hereinafter provided, of his desire to have the claim or matter heard and determined by the Commissioners or an Assistant Commissioner, or in case the Commissioners shall think fit to revise such determination, under the power hereinafter contained; and in case the valuer, on the determination of any claim which shall have been objected to as aforesaid, or if any objection which shall have been made to any claim, shall see cause to award any costs, it shall be lawful for the valuer, upon application to assess and award such costs as he shall think reasonable to be paid to the person in whose favour any determination shall have been made, and by the person whose claim or objection shall have been disallowed; and in case any person liable to pay such costs shall neglect or refuse to pay the same, upon demand, or within fourteen days thereafter, the valuer shall, by warrant under his hand and seal, directed to any person or persons whomsoever, cause such costs to be levied by distress; and if there shall be no goods or chattels whereon to levy such costs it shall be lawful for the person in whose favour such costs shall be awarded to recover the same by action of debt or on the case, in which action it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to declare that the defendant is indebted to him in the sum specified in the order of adjudication made by the valuer, and in consequence of such order, without setting forth any other proceedings under this Act: Provided always, that the valuer may pay the expenses of any witnesses, or of the production of any writings, maps, plans, and surveys, or copies thereof, where such witnesses shall attend, or such maps, plans, surveys, or copies thereof shall be produced before such valuer, only on the request and for the information or guidance of the valuer (and not on behalf of any party in difference), such last-mentioned expenses to be considered as part of the expenses of the inclosure.

XLIX. Provided and enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall extend to enable the valuer, or the Commissioners, or any Assistant Commissioner, to determine the title of any lands, or to determine any right between any parties contrary to the actual possession of any such party (except in cases of encroachment as hereinafter mentioned), but in case the valuer, or the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, shall be of opinion against the rights of the party in possession, they or he shall forbear to make any determination thereupon until the possession shall have been given up by such party, or recovered from him in due course of law, or, where the circumstances shall admit, such valuer, or the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, may declare what right is appendant or appurtenant to any land or hereditament, or otherwise declare by any sufficient description the rights of the owner for the time being of any land or hereditament, without declaring by name who may be the actual owner of such land or hereditament.

L. That all encroachments and inclosures, other than inclosures duly authorized by the custom of any manor of which such land shall be parcel, or otherwise according to law, which shall have been made by any person, from or upon any part of the land proposed to be inclosed, within twenty years next before the first meeting for the examination of claims in the matter of the inclosure thereof, whether any amercement, rent, or money payment or acknowledgment shall or shall not have been paid or made in respect of the same, to or for the use of the lord of the soil or any other person, shall be deemed parcel of the land subject to be inclosed, and shall be divided, allotted, and inclosed accordingly: Provided always, that in case, under the circumstances of any such encroachments or inclosures, it shall appear to the Commissioners just or reasonable that rights or interests in the lands to be inclosed should be allowed to the persons in possession of such encroachments or inclosures, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, either in the instructions to the valuer, or by any subsequent order under their seal, to direct what rights and interests, either absolute or for any limited terms or estates, should be allowed in respect of such encroachments, and the valuer shall allow and declare such rights accordingly: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the several persons who shall be in possession of any such encroachments or inclosures, or in the receipt of the rent thereof, at the time of the determination of claims under this Act, to take down or remove all such buildings, fences, and other erections as shall then be thereon, and to convert the materials thereof to their own use, within two calendar months after notice in writing signed by the valuer given to such respective persons, or posted on the church door; and in case any dispute or difference shall arise touching any such encroachments or inclosures, or as to the extent thereof, such dispute or difference shall be determined by the valuer.

LI. Provided and enacted, That in case any such land shall have been taken or used, at any time before such first meeting for the examination of claims, for the erection of a school-house or the appurtenances thereto, or for other such purposes as in the opinion of the Commissioners shall be charitable or parochial purposes, such land so taken or the erections made thereon, shall not be taken or deemed to be of the nature of an encroachment within the meaning of this Act; but where such land shall have been so taken for the purposes aforesaid within twenty years next before such first meeting for the examination of claims, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, where it shall appear just and desirable for the purposes of inclosure, to direct that such land be deemed parcel of the land subject to be inclosed, and be divided, allotted, and inclosed accordingly, and that compensation be made to the persons in possession thereof, or to trustees for the purposes for which such land shall have been so taken or used, by adequate allotments of the lands so to be inclosed.

LII. Provided and enacted, That all lands which shall have been inclosed from any land subject to be inclosed under this Act for more than twenty years next preceding the day of the first meeting for the examination of claims in the matter of such inclosure, shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed and taken to be ancient inclosures, but not so as to carry any right of common, or compensation or allotment for or in respect of right of common, which might be claimed in respect of ancient inclosures.

LIII. That all tofts, foundations, or sites of ancient commonable messuages or cottages, shall, upon proof being made to the satisfaction of the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure that commonable messuages or cottages formerly stood thereon, be deemed commonable messuages or cottages, and the respective proprietors thereof shall be entitled to the same compensation for the rights of common originally belonging thereto as if such messuages or cottages were still standing.

LIV. That where any claim shall be made to any right of common or other right which in the judgment of the valuer, or of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, could not be sustained in law, but proof shall be made to the satisfaction of the valuer, or of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, that there has been enjoyment under the right so claimed for the space of sixty years or upwards next before the first meeting for the examination of claims in the matter of such inclosure, it shall be lawful for the valuer, or the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, to allow such claims, in such and the same manner as if the right so claimed might have been legally sustained and established.

LV. That after the valuer shall have heard and determined all claims and objections which shall have been made in the matter of an inclosure he shall cause a schedule of such claims and objections, and of his determinations thereon, to be deposited, and to remain for thirty days at the least, for the inspection of all persons interested therein, at some public place within the parish in which the land to be inclosed, or the greater part thereof, shall be situate, and shall cause notice to be given on the church door of such parish, and by advertisement, of such deposit, and shall also send a copy of such Schedule to the Commissioners, and shall furnish any explanations or information in relation thereto to the Commissioners, as they shall require; and in case any party dissatisfied with any determination of the valuer as aforesaid shall, within thirty days next after notice by the valuer of such deposit of the said Schedule, cause to be delivered to the Commissioners notice in writing of such dissatisfaction, and of the desire of such party to have the claim or matter so determined by the valuer heard and determined by the Commissioners or by an Assistant Commissioner, or in case the Commissioners shall, on the representation of any persons interested in such inclosure, or on the information given by the valuer in relation to such Schedule, be of opinion that all or any of the determinations of such valuer shall have been made without due consideration of the legal rights of the parties interested, or shall be erroneous, then and in any such case the Commissioners shall forthwith give notice, in such manner as they shall think fit, appointing some convenient place and time for holding a meeting to hear and determine the claim or matter which shall be so desired to be reheard, or all or any of the claims or matters which shall be mentioned in the said Schedule, as the Commissioners shall think fit; and the Commissioners, or any Assistant Commissioner specially empowered for that purpose, shall rehear and determine such claim or matter; and the determination of the Commissioners or such Assistant Commissioner shall be final and conclusive, and shall be binding on the valuer acting in the matter of such inclosure, unless any party dissatisfied therewith shall try his right by an issue at law, as hereinafter provided.

LVI. Provided and enacted, That if any person claiming to be interested in any land proposed to be inclosed under this Act shall be dissatisfied with any determination of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner concerning any claim or interest in or to the land proposed to be inclosed under the powers hereinbefore contained, and shall cause notice in writing of such dissatisfaction to be delivered to the Commissioners within thirty days next after notice of such determination shall have been given to the several parties or persons specially interested, if any such there be, it shall be lawful for such person so dissatisfied, and giving such notice as aforesaid, to bring an action upon a feigned issue against the person in whose favour such determination shall have been made, or against the Commissioners, and to proceed to a trial at law at the then next Assizes, or at the Assizes immediately following such next Assizes, to be holden for the county wherein the land relating to which such dispute shall arise shall be situate; and the defendant in such action shall, upon being served with the usual process therein, appear thereto, and accept one or more issue or issues, whereby such claim, and the right and interest hereby insisted upon, may be tried and determined, such issue to be settled by the proper officer of the Court in which the said action shall be commenced, in case the parties shall differ about the same; and the verdict given upon the trial of such action shall be binding and conclusive upon all parties thereto, unless the Court wherein such action shall be brought shall set aside such verdict, and order a new trial to be had; and after such verdict shall be given, and final judgment obtained thereon, the Commissioners shall act in conformity thereto, and allow or disallow the claim thereby determined according to the event of such trial; and the costs attending any such action shall abide the event of the trial.

LVII. Provided and enacted, That if no such notice of dissatisfaction shall be given, or if no such action at law shall be commenced as aforesaid, or if any such action shall be commenced, and the plaintiff therein shall not proceed to trial within the time hereinbefore limited for that purpose, unless the Court for sufficient cause put off the trial, then the determination of the said Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall be final and conclusive.

LVIII. That if any person, plaintiff or defendant in any action to be brought as aforesaid, shall die pending the same, such action shall not abate by reason thereof, but may be proceeded in as if no such event had happened, the heir or devisee, or her person entitled to the interest of the deceased party in the matter in question, being served with process in the action; and if any person in whose favour such determination as aforesaid shall have been made, and against whom any such action might have been brought if living, shall die before any action brought, it shall be lawful for the person who might have brought such action to bring the same, within the time so limited as aforesaid, against such person as if actually living, and serve the Commissioners with process for commencing such action, in the same manner as the deceased person might have served therewith if living, and it shall thereupon be incumbent on the Commissioners to serve with such process the heir or devisee or personal representative of the deceased person, or other the person who shall claim the benefit of such determination as aforesaid; and on such process being served such heir or devisee or personal representative, or other person, shall appear and defend such action in the name of the person so dead, and proceedings shall be had therein in the same manner as if such person had been living, and the rights, interests, and claims of all parties shall be equally bound by the result of any action so brought or continued as aforesaid as if the death of any of the persons interested therein had not occurred.

IX. That in case the Commissioners, or any Assistant Commissioner appointed to hear and determine any claim or matter in pursuance of this Act, shall see cause to award any costs, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, upon application, to assess and award such costs as they or he shall think reasonable to be paid to the person in whose favour any determination of the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall have been made, and by the person whose claim or objection shall have been disallowed; and in case any person liable to pay such costs shall neglect or refuse to pay the same upon demand, or within fourteen days thereafter, the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall, by warrant directed to any person or persons whomsoever, cause such costs to be levied by distress; and if there shall be no goods and chattels whereon to levy such costs it shall be lawful for the person in whose favour such costs shall be awarded to recover the same by action of debt or on the case, in which action it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to declare that the defendant is indebted to him in the sum specified in the order of adjudication made by the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, and in consequence of such order, without setting forth any other proceedings under this Act.

LX. Provided and enacted, That in case any person hereinbefore authorized to bring an action upon a feigned issue, and the person against whom such action might be brought, shall be desirous of submitting the matter in dispute or difference to the arbitration of any arbitrator, or of any arbitrators and umpire, it shall be lawful for such persons to submit such matter in dispute accordingly, and such submission shall be irrevocable, and the decision thereupon shall be binding on both parties, and be obeyed accordingly, and the costs of such arbitration shall abide the event; and the Commissioners may require each of the persons in difference upon any such submission to arbitration to give such security for the payment of the costs of such arbitration as the Commissioners shall think fit.

LXI. That it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure to set out and make such common ponds, ditches, watercourses, embankments, tunnels, and bridges, of such extent and form and in such situations as he shall deem necessary, and as shall not be inconsistent with the terms and conditions and instructions hereinbefore mentioned, in the land to be inclosed, and also to enlarge, cleanse, or alter the course of and improve any of the existing ditches or watercourses, embankments, tunnels, or bridges, as well in and over the same land as also in any ancient inclosures or other lands in the parish or respective parishes in which the land to be inclosed may be situate, as the valuer shall deem necessary, making such satisfaction to the proprietors of such ancient inclosures or lands, for the damage done thereby, as the valuer shall think just; and the expense of making and enlarging, altering and cleansing such ponds, ditches, watercourses, embankments, tunnels, and bridges, when the same shall be first done in pursuance of this Act, if not otherwise provided for, shall be raised and paid in the same manner as the other expenses of the inclosure; but all such ponds, ditches, watercourses, embankments, tunnels, and bridges shall at all times afterwards be repaired, cleansed, and maintained by such persons and in such manner as the valuer shall direct; provided that no watercourse be diverted or turned without the consent in writing of the person interested in the land from which the same may be diverted, and of the person interested in the lands into which the same may be turned, or to the prejudice of any person interested in such watercourse, except with his consent in writing; and that no ditch or watercourse, embankment, tunnel, or bridge, be enlarged or altered on any land other than the land to be inclosed, without the consent in writing of the person interested in such land.

LXII. That in the first place the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall and may, before he shall proceed to make any of the divisions and allotments of the land to be inclosed in pursuance of or in any manner not inconsistent with the instructions given to such valuer as aforesaid, set out and make public roads and ways, and widen public roads and ways, in or over the land to be inclosed, and stop up, divert, or alter any of the roads or ways passing through the land to be inclosed, or through any old inclosures in the parish or respective parishes in which the land to be inclosed shall be situate; and the soil of such of the roads and ways so to be discontinued and stopped up as pass through the lands to be inclosed shall be deemed part of the lands to be inclosed: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall authorize the altering or diverting any turnpike road, unless the consent of the majority of the trustees of such turnpike road, assembled at a public meeting called for that purpose, be first obtained: Provided also, that before any public road or way shall be discontinued, diverted, stopped up, or altered by the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure, the valuer shall cause to be affixed at each end of such road or way a notice to the effect that the same is intended to be discontinued, stopped up, diverted, or altered, as the case may be, from and after a day to be mentioned in such notice; and the valuer shall also cause the same notice to be given by advertisement for four successive weeks, and also on the church door on the four Sundays of the said four successive weeks; and after the said several notices shall have been so given such road or way shall, from and after the day in such notices mentioned, be deemed to be discontinued, stopped up, diverted, or altered, as the case may be, subject, however, to such appeal as is hereinafter mentioned.

LXIII. That it shall be lawful for any person, within four months after the first Sunday on which such notice shall have been given on the church door of the intention that such road or way should be discontinued, stopped up, diverted, or altered, as the case may be, to make his complaint thereof by appeal to the Justices of the Peace at the Quarter Sessions for the county, riding, division, or other jurisdiction in which such road or way, or the greater part thereof, shall be situate, upon giving to the valuer fourteen days' notice in writing of such appeal, together with a statement in writing of the grounds thereof; but it shall not be lawful for the appellant to be heard in support of such appeal unless such notice and statement shall have been given as aforesaid, nor on any hearing of appeal to go into evidence of any other grounds of appeal than those set forth in such statement as aforesaid.

LXIV. That in case of such appeal the Justices at such Quarter Sessions shall, for the purpose of determining whether such public road or way shall be discontinued, stopped up, diverted, or altered, or whether the party appealing would be thereby injured or aggrieved, impanel a jury of twelve disinterested men out of the persons returned to serve as jurors at such Quarter Sessions; and if after hearing the evidence produced before them the said jury shall return a verdict that such road or way is unnecessary, or may beneficially to the public be discontinued, stopped up, diverted, or altered, and that the party appealing would not be injured or aggrieved thereby, then the said Court shall dismiss such appeal, and shall award the costs of resisting the said appeal to be paid by the appellant to the valuer, and the same shall be recoverable in the same manner as any penalties and forfeitures are recoverable under this Act; but if the said jury shall return a verdict that such road or way is not unnecessary, and that the same could not beneficially to the public be so discontinued, stopped up, diverted or altered, or that the party appealing would be injured or aggrieved thereby, the said Court shall allow such appeal, and such public road or way shall not be discontinued, stopped up, diverted, or altered, or in case the same shall have been discontinued, stopped up, diverted or altered, the said Court shall make an order restoring the same to its original state, and shall award to the appellant the costs of prosecuting such appeal, and such costs shall be paid by the said valuer out of the monies to be raised for the expenses of the inclosure: Provided always, that in every case in which any such appeal as aforesaid shall be made by the surveyor of the highways of any parish or place, under the direction of the inhabitants of such parish in vestry assembled, or where there shall be no vestry meeting in such place, under the direction of the inhabitants contributing to highway rates assembled at any meeting of which fourteen days' notice shall have been given by advertisement and on the church door, then, although such appeal shall be dismissed, the costs of prosecuting such appeal, and also such costs as shall be awarded to be paid by the appellant to the valuer, shall be paid out of the highway rate of such parish or place.

LXV. That such public carriage roads so to be set out as aforesaid shall be well and sufficiently fenced on both sides, by such of the persons interested in the land to be inclosed, and within such time, as the valuer acting in the matter of such inclosure shall direct; and the valuer shall form and complete such parts of the said public roads and ways as shall be newly made; and every such public road and way to be set out and made under this Act shall be of the width required by the Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 50, intituled, 'An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Highways on that part of Great Britain called England,' for a road or way of the like description, which may be dedicated to the use of the public.

LXVI. That the expenses attending the purchasing of the soil of all such public roads and ways as aforesaid, and the making, the stopping up, discontinuing, diverting, widening, and altering of such roads and ways, and the money compensation in respect thereof, upon any inclosure, shall be paid in such manner as the expenses of such inclosure shall be directed to be paid.

LXVII. That when and so soon as two or more of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county, riding, division, or jurisdiction in which the lands to be inclosed shall be situate shall certify any of the public roads and ways to be set out in pursuance of this Act on any inclosure to be sufficiently formed and completed, such roads shall thenceforth be kept in repair by such persons and in such manner as the public roads within the said parish are or ought by law to be kept in repair; and every such certificate shall, at the Quarter Sessions of the peace to be holden for the said county, riding, division, or jurisdiction next after the date thereof, be filed of record by the clerk of the peace.

LXVIII. That the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall and may set out such private or occupation roads and ways through the lands to be inclosed as he shall think requisite, for the use of the persons interested in such lands or any of them; and any expenses which the valuer may incur relative to the setting out or formation or completion of such private roads and ways, or any of them, shall, unless the valuer shall otherwise direct, be paid in the same manner as the other expenses of the inclosure; and such expenses of the formation and completion of such private roads and ways as the valuer shall direct shall be borne by, and after the formation and completion of such private roads and ways the same shall be maintained and kept in repair by and at the expense of the owners and proprietors for the time being of the land inclosed, or such of them, and in such shares and proportions and in such manner as the valuer shall direct; and after such private roads and ways shall have been set out and made the grass and herbage arising thereon shall for ever belong to and be for the use of such persons interested in the lands to be inclosed as the valuer shall direct, and in the absence of such direction shall belong to the proprietors of the land to be inclosed which shall next adjoin the said roads and ways on either side hereof as far as the crown of the road; and after such setting out as aforesaid all private or occupation roads or ways over, through, and upon the lands to be inclosed which shall not be set out as aforesaid shall be for ever stopped up and extinguished.

LXIX. That it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure, before the making of the award, when he or Commissioners shall think necessary for the purpose of the inclosure, and by order under their seal authorize or direct, by notice on the church door to order all or any part of the rights of sheepwalk, common or other rights, in or over the land to be inclosed or any part thereof, to be extinguished from such time or the exercise thereof to be suspended during such time as shall be expressed in such notice, and from the time mentioned in such notice such rights shall be extinguished, or suspended accordingly; and if during the suspension or after the extinguishment of any such rights of sheepwalk, common or other rights as aforesaid, any person shall permit his horses, cattle, sheep, or swine to go or depasture upon any the lands over which such rights shall be suspended or extinguished, it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in the matter of the inclosure, or any other person by his order (testified in writing under his hand), or any of the persons interested in the lands or in the inclosure thereof, to distrain such horses, cattle, sheep, or swine being upon such lands contrary to such order, and to impound the same until the person so offending shall pay to the person so distraining such sum of money the valuer shall by writing under his hand have previously ordered, not exceeding 10s. for each horse or head of cattle, and 5s. for each sheep or swine so distrained; and in case the same shall not be paid within seven days after the same shall have been impounded the valuer is hereby authorized to recover the same by way of penalty, as hereinafter mentioned.

LXX. That it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure, at such time as he shall think fit, by notice on the church door, to direct the course of husbandry and the stint or rule of stocking that shall be observed upon the land to be inclosed, until the time when the inclosure thereof shall be completed, as well with respect to the laying down, sowing, sowing, following, manuring, and tilling thereof, as to the stocking and feeding of the commonable lands and downs or stubbles upon the same, and to direct such recompense to be made as he shall think right to any person injured by such directions, all which directions shall be binding upon all parties interested, their farmers and tenants; and the valuer shall impose such pecuniary penalties on every person not conforming to such directions as he shall think necessary, not exceeding the sum of 5l. per acre in the case of cross-cropping, or withholding from the land its due proportion of manure, or 10l. in any other case, for any one offence, and shall also determine, in all cases where the tenant is entitled by agreement or custom to the manure arising from the lands in his occupation, by whom and in what sum of money such tenant shall be compensated for any such manure left or given up by him; and such penalties and other sums of money shall be recovered in the same manner as by this Act directed for the recovery of penalties.

LXXI. That the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall by writing under his hand order what recompense in money shall be made to the owner of any crops growing, according to his agreement or lease, or according to the customary mode of cultivation within the parish in which the land to be inclosed shall be situate, upon such land, at the time of the division, allotment, and inclosure, for the said crops, by the person to whom the land on which such crops are growing shall be allotted, and also what recompense in money shall be paid, and by whom, to any tenant or occupier of land, as well for the ploughing, tilling, cultivating, manuring, or folding any land to be inclosed, for the benefit accruing thereby to the person to whom such land shall be allotted, or for any loss or disadvantage which any tenant or occupier may sustain by the loss of his following or way-going crops upon the land to be inclosed; and if in any of the said cases the money to be paid for such recompense be not paid at the time and in the manner ordered by the valuer, then the same may be recovered by the person entitled thereto, from the person liable to pay the same, in the same manner as penalties and forfeitures are recoverable under this Act.

LXXII. That the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall allot to the surveyor of the highways for the time being of the parish in which the land proposed to be inclosed, or any part thereof, shall be situate, and to his successors for ever, such part of the land proposed to be inclosed as by the instructions given to such valuer shall have been directed to be appropriated for supplying stone, gravel, or other materials for the repairs of roads and ways, as aforesaid, or in case no such instructions shall have been given in this behalf, and the valuer shall think an allotment necessary for the purposes aforesaid, such part as the valuer shall think fit; and such allotments shall be inclosed and fenced as the valuer shall direct, and shall from the confirmation of the award be vested in the surveyor of the highways within the said parish for the time being, in trust for the purposes aforesaid; and the grass and herbage of such allotments shall belong to such persons as by the valuer shall be directed, and if he shall make no such direction then such surveyor shall from time to time let any such allotment, reserving the right to get and take away such stone, gravel, and other materials when and as he shall think fit, for the most money that can be obtained for the same, and shall apply the rents and profits towards the repairs of the public roads or highways within the said parish; and the said surveyor shall account for such rents and profits in the same manner as he is by law accountable for other monies that shall come to his hands in the capacity of surveyor of the highways, and shall be subject to the like penalties for the neglect thereof.

LXXIII. That the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall and may, in pursuance of the directions of or in any matter not inconsistent with the directions of the provisional order of the Commissioners, or any Act hereafter to be passed, or the instructions given to such valuer as aforesaid, set out and allot such part of the lands to be inclosed as by such provisional order or Act or instructions respectively shall have been directed to be appropriated as a place of exercise and recreation for the inhabitants of the said parish and neighbourhood; and such allotment shall, unless the same shall be otherwise awarded under the provision hereinafter contained, be made and awarded to the churchwardens and overseers for the time being of the parish in which the same shall be situated, and shall be held by the churchwardens and overseers for the time being of the said parish for the purposes aforesaid, and shall be in the first instance fenced, and, where occasion shall require, drained and levelled by the valuer, the expense in such case to be considered part of the expenses of the inclosure, or shall be fenced by any person to whom adjoining land shall be allotted, as the valuer may direct; and the fences of such allotment shall for ever afterwards be repaired and maintained, and the surface thereof kept drained and level, by such churchwardens and overseers, or by the churchwardens and overseers of the several parishes interested therein, in such proportions and manner as shall be directed by the valuer, out of the rents to be received for the herbage of the said allotment, or out of the poor rate of the said parish or respective parishes, or otherwise; and the grass and herbage growing upon such allotment may be from time to time let by the churchwardens and overseers in whom the same shall be vested, and the rents which shall be received by them for the same shall be by them from time to time applied, in the first place, in maintaining and repairing the fences of the said allotment, and keeping the surface thereof drained and level, as aforesaid, and, subject thereto, in aid of the rates for the repair of the public highways in the said parish or respective parishes; and the valuer shall in like manner set out and allot such part of the land to be inclosed as by such provisional order or Act or instructions as aforesaid shall have been directed to be appropriated as an allotment for the labouring poor unto the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the parish in which such allotment shall be situate, subject nevertheless to a rent-charge to be payable thereout to any person or persons who may be entitled to allotments under such inclosure, as hereinafter provided; and the said valuer shall in like manner, in pursuance of the directions of or in any manner not inconsistent with the directions of such provisional order or Act or instructions as aforesaid, set out and allot, for the other public purposes mentioned in such provisional order or Act or instructions as aforesaid, such parts of the land to be inclosed as shall have been thereby respectively directed to be set apart for such purposes, and such allotments shall be made to such persons respectively, with such regulations and provisions as to the fencing, maintenance, use, and enjoyment thereof respectively, as the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, shall direct; and in every case in which the valuer, with such approbation of the Commissioners, shall not think it necessary or proper to direct the same to be otherwise made, such allotments shall be made to the churchwardens and overseers of the poor for the time being of the parish in which such allotments shall be situate; and all allotments which shall be made to the churchwardens and overseers under this Act shall be held by the churchwardens and overseers of the poor for the time being in the same manner and with the same legal powers and incidents as if the same allotments were lands belonging to the parish, but in trust nevertheless for the purposes for which the same shall be allotted, and subject, as to the said allotment for the labouring poor, to the provisions in relation thereto hereinafter contained, and as to all other such allotments, subject to such directions for the maintenance, fencing, management, and use thereof as the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, may think fit.

LXXIV. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, to set out and allot such land as shall be appropriated as a place of exercise and recreation as aforesaid to any person entitled to an allotment under the inclosure, and who shall consent to receive the same in full or in part of his allotment; and the person to whom the land so to be appropriated shall be allotted, and all future owners thereof, shall, unless it shall be otherwise directed by the award, be subject to the obligation of maintaining the fences of such land, and of preserving the surface thereof in good condition, and of permitting such land to be at all times used for exercise and recreation by the inhabitants of the parish and neighbourhood, and, subject to such obligations, the herbage of such land shall belong to the person to whom such land shall be so allotted.

LXXV. That every allotment which shall be made and awarded for the labouring poor may be so awarded subject to and chargeable with a clear rent-charge or clear rent-charges, not exceeding in the whole the net annual value of the allotment in its actual condition at the time of making the same; and every such rent-charge shall be deemed at the time of the confirmation of the award to be of the value of such number of imperial bushels and decimal parts of an imperial bushel of wheat, barley, and oats as the same would have purchased at the average prices during the seven years ending on the Thursday next before Christmas-day, 1835, as the same were ascertained by the advertisement inserted in the London Gazette under the provisions of the Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 71, intituled 'An Act for the Commutation of Tithes in England and Wales,' in case one third part of such rent-charge had been invested in the purchase of wheat, one third part thereof in the purchase of barley, and the remaining third part thereof in the purchase of oats, and the respective quantities of wheat, barley, and oats so ascertained shall be stated in the award; and every such rent-charge shall be paid by equal half-yearly payments on the 1st of July and the 1st of January, the first of such half-yearly payments to be made on the first of such half-yearly days after the expiration of three years from the date of the confirmation of such award; and such sum of money shall be payable in respect of such yearly rent-charge as according to the prices ascertained by the then next preceding advertisement for the purposes of the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. would have been payable in respect of a rent-charge of like amount charged on lands under the provisions of such Act; and the sum of money thenceforth payable in respect of such rent-charge charged under the provisions of this Act shall vary so as always to consist of the price of such number of bushels and decimal parts of a bushel of wheat, barley, and oats respectively, according to the next preceding advertisement for the time being, in like manner as if the same had been a rent payable under the provisions of the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4; and the persons entitled to any rent-charge charged under the provisions of this Act shall have the same powers and remedies for enforcing payment thereof in all respects as are by the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4, or by any Act for amending the same, given to the persons entitled to rent-charges charged under the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. for recovering and enforcing payment of such last-mentioned rent-charges; and nothing herein or in such award contained shall render any person personally liable to the payment of any rent-charges to be charged under the provisions of this Act: Provided always, that when such allotment, or any part thereof, shall be let and occupied as gardens under the provisions hereinafter contained, the person for the time being entitled to the rent-charge charged thereon shall not distrain for such rent-charge on the occupiers of such gardens, but the person so entitled may, in case such rent-charge shall be in arrear, give notice to the occupiers of such gardens, and to the allotment wardens, or any of them, and shall thenceforth, until the arrears of such rent-charge, with all expenses occasioned by the non-payment thereof, shall be fully paid, be entitled to receive all the rent which after such notice shall accrue in respect of such gardens, and shall have the same remedies for recovering such rent, and the same powers of determining the tenancy of such occupiers, and of letting and dealing with such allotment, as such allotment wardens would have had in case such rent-charge had not been in arrear; and in case the said allotment wardens, or any of them, after such notice shall have been given to them as aforesaid, and before the arrears of such rent-charge, with all such expenses as aforesaid, shall have been fully paid, shall receive any rent from the occupiers of such gardens, such of the allotment wardens as shall have received such rent shall, on demand, pay to the person then entitled thereto the arrears of the said rent-charge then remaining unpaid, and the expenses occasioned by the non-payment thereof; and in default of such payment, on demand, such arrears of rent-charge and expenses may be recovered from the allotment wardens liable to pay the same as penalties are recoverable under this Act.

LXXVI. That after the several allotments hereinbefore directed shall have been set out and made, and after making provision for the payment of the expenses by sale of land, in case the expenses shall be so directed to be paid, the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall allot and award unto the lord of the manor so much and such part of the land proposed to be inclosed as shall in the judgment of the valuer be equal (quantity and value considered) to such a part of the residue of such land as shall be proportioned to his right or interest therein, according to the directions of the provisional order of the Commissioners, in lieu of his right and interest in the soil of the said land, exclusive of any other allotments which may be made to such lord in lieu of or in satisfaction for any other rights or interests in such land to which he may be entitled, and which shall not have been included in the estimate in such provisional order of his right and interest; and in case it shall have been declared by such provisional order that the right or interest of the lord has been estimated exclusively of his right or interest in all or any of the mines, minerals, stone, and other substrata under the land to be inclosed, then the valuer shall direct, on the request in writing of the lord, reserve or award to the lord such rights and easements for searching for, working, and carrying away such mines, minerals, stone, or other substrata which shall not have been included in such estimate of his right and interest, subject to such provisions for compensation for damage to be done to the surface in the exercise of such rights and easements, as by the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, shall be thought reasonable, and as shall not be inconsistent as to the terms of such provisional order.

LXXVII. That after the several allotments hereinbefore directed shall have been set out and made, and after making provision for all or any part of the expenses of the inclosure by sale of lands, in case all or any part of the expenses shall be so directed to be paid, the valuer acting in the matter of the inclosure shall divide, allot, and award all the remainder of the land to be inclosed unto and amongst the several persons who shall be interested therein, in such shares and proportions as shall adjudge and determine to be proportionate to the value of their respective rights and interests which shall have been imed and allowed under the provisions hereinbefore contained.

LXXVIII. That where any allotments shall be made for the labouring poor, under the provisions hereinbefore contained, subject to any rent-charge or rent-charges, such rent-charge or rent-charges may be allotted to any person or persons who elect to receive the same in full or in part of his or their allotment or allotments, and in case no person shall so elect to receive the same, then to such persons and in such shares as the valuer may think convenient, for the purpose of equalizing allotments or otherwise; and it shall be lawful for the valuer, for the purposes of allotment under this clause, to estimate the value in fee simple of every such rent-charge to be four-fifths only of the value of an allotment of land equal in net annual value to such rent-charge.

LXXIX. That when any person to whom any allotment shall be made or land assigned in exchange by virtue of this Act shall hold such land, or the land in respect of which such allotment or exchange is made, under different titles or for different estates, and as to copyhold or customary land, by separate quit rents, the valuer in the matter of the inclosure shall ascertain and distinguish the land held for each of such estates and under each of such titles respectively, and shall accordingly set out distinct and several allotments for such respective lands, and distinguish the several estates holden by several and distinct quit-rents.

LXXX. That in case any number of the persons interested in the land to be inclosed shall desire to have their allotments thrown together, and distinguished by metes and bounds, but not fenced from each other, and of such their desire shall give notice in writing to the valuer acting in the inclosure, such valuer shall set out the several allotments of such persons so giving notice as aforesaid by metes and bounds, but in one parcel of land, and without requiring them to make any subdivision fences or other fences, save such ring or outer fences as may be necessary, or as the valuer may direct to be made, for dividing the said parcel of land from the residue of the land so to be inclosed.

LXXXI. Provided and enacted, That it shall not be lawful for the said valuer to allot to any other person than the proprietor thereof any land (other than encroachments and inclosures not authorized by law, made within twenty years next before the first meeting for the examination of claims, as aforesaid,) which may be cultivated as orchard or garden, or on which any building may have been erected, or which may have been inclosed by virtue of any agreement between the proprietor thereof and the persons having right of common over the same, without the consent in writing of such proprietor.

LXXXII. That the valuer, in making the several allotments hereby directed, shall have due regard as well to the situation of the respective houses or homesteads of the persons interested in the land to be inclosed as to the quantity and quality of the land to be allotted to them respectively, so far as may be consistent with the general convenience of such persons, and that such valuer in making the said allotments shall have particular regard to the convenience of the persons interested in respect of the smallest estates in the land subject to be inclosed under this Act.

LXXXIII. That the several allotments to be made, except the allotments to the surveyor and churchwardens and overseers respectively, and the other allotments for public purposes, shall be inclosed, ditched, and fenced at the expense of the respective persons to whom the same shall be allotted, in such manner and within such times as the valuer shall direct; and the fences so to be made shall for ever afterwards be repaired and maintained by such persons as the valuer shall direct; and if from the situation or from any other circumstance it shall happen that any person to whom any allotment shall be made shall not have a fair proportion of the boundary ditches or fences assigned to him to make, it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure to ascertain and appoint what sum of money shall be contributed by such person towards making the boundary ditches and fences of the allotments of such other persons as shall have assigned to them to make too great a proportion thereof; and such money shall be paid to such persons and in such manner as by the valuer shall be directed, and the same may be recovered in the same manner as penalties or forfeitures are recoverable under this Act.

LXXXIV. That if at any time before an allotment shall have been made by the valuer any person shall sell his right or interest in the land to be inclosed, or any part thereof, to any person, the valuer shall, upon such sale being certified to him in writing by the vendor, make an allotment of land to the purchaser, or to his heirs or assigns, in respect of the right or interest so sold; and every such purchaser, or his heirs or assigns, shall from the confirmation of the award hold and enjoy the land so to be allotted to him in such manner as the vendor might or ought to have done in case such sale had not been made; and it shall be lawful for any person who shall be entitled to any allotment under this Act to devise, convey, surrender, or otherwise assure the same allotment, or all or any part of his interest therein, at any time before the confirmation of the award; and every such devise, conveyance, surrender, and assurance shall be of the same validity as if the same had been made after the confirmation of the said award; and it shall be lawful for any person entitled to any allotment to sell, dispose of, or convey the estate in right of which he may be entitled to such allotment separate from and retaining to himself such allotment, or the right thereto; and the valuer is hereby required to award such allotment accordingly.

LXXXV. That if any person interested in any inclosure under this Act shall die before the same shall have been completed, the powers and authorities hereby vested in the Commissioners, Assistant Commissioner, and valuer shall not be thereby determined or suspended, but they shall proceed in the execution of such powers and authorities in such manner as they might have done in case such person had not died; and the allotment which might have been made to the person so dying shall be made to such person as by the law shall become entitled to the same, and shall be accepted and fenced by such party according to the directions contained in the award, and he shall be liable to the charges and expenses and other conditions of the inclosure.

LXXXVI. That it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure, with the consent in writing of the person interested in any old inclosed lands, or lands holden in severalty, or otherwise not subject to be inclosed under the general provisions hereinbefore contained, but within the parish in which the land to be inclosed, or some part thereof, shall be situate, or within some parish adjoining thereto, to order and direct such old inclosed lands or other lands as last aforesaid to be considered as allottable, and parcel of the land to be inclosed; and such allowance shall be made to the person interested in such lands, on account of the situation or other beneficial circumstances thereof, as the valuer shall adjudge to be just and reasonable; and he shall allot and award unto the person so interested in such old inclosed lands or other lands as aforesaid so much and such part of the land to be inclosed as he shall think reasonable and just.

LXXVII. That where the freemen or burgesses of any city or borough, or the householders or inhabitant householders of any town or place, or any class or description of such freemen, burgesses, householders or inhabitant householders, or any other persons as a class, shall be entitled to rights of common or other rights over the lands to be inclosed, it shall be lawful for the valuer to award in respect of such rights one or more allotment or allotments, for the benefit of the class so entitled, to any two or more trustees, who shall be nominated by the majority at such meeting as hereinafter mentioned, or in case two or more trustees shall not be nominated at such meeting, then to such trustees as the Commissioners shall approve, with provisions for the appointment of new trustees from time to time, or to the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the parish in which each allotment shall be situate, in trust for the parties entitled to the right in respect of which the allotment shall be made; and it shall be also lawful for the valuer, having regard to such instructions, if any, as may have been resolved on at such meeting as hereafter mentioned, or to such instructions as shall be given by the Commissioners in this behalf, to direct in what manner and under what regulations such allotment shall be occupied or enjoyed by the persons from time to time entitled to the benefit thereof, and (in case the valuer, having regard to such instructions, shall think fit,) to give directions and powers for the letting of such allotment from year to year, or for any term of years, subject to such provisions and restrictions as the said valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, shall think fit, and for the receipt of the money to arise from such letting, and for the application of such money for the benefit of the persons entitled to the benefit of the allotment, and to give all such directions and provisions for the fencing, draining, and management of such allotment, as the valuer may think expedient.

LXXVIII. Provided and enacted, That it shall be lawful for the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners and of such meeting as hereinafter mentioned, to sell and dispose of the whole or any part of any allotment to which any such class of persons as aforesaid shall be entitled under this Act; and the allotment or any part thereof so sold shall be conveyed by the Commissioners as the purchaser shall direct, and the Commissioners shall sign a receipt for the purchase-money, which shall be a sufficient discharge for the same; and the purchase-money arising from the sale, or the surplus thereof after payment thereof of any expenses to which the same shall be liable, shall, with the approbation of the Commissioners, be paid to any trustee or trustees, upon trust for the investment thereof, with provisions for the appointment of new trustees from time to time, and for the application of the interest and annual produce of such investment to such purposes, for the benefit of the persons who would have been entitled to such allotment, or the part thereof so sold, in case the same had not been sold, as the Commissioners shall approve, and by the final award in the matter of such inclosure direct.

LXXIX. Provided and enacted, That when the claim of any class of persons entitled as aforesaid shall be allowed the valuer shall certify such allowance to the Commissioners, and the Commissioners shall call a meeting of such persons by advertisement, for the purpose of appointing trustees of the allotment to be made for their benefit, and for giving instructions to the valuer concerning the enjoyment, occupation, and management of such allotment, or for letting the same, and for the application of the money to arise from such letting, or in case such meeting shall think fit that such allotment or any part thereof shall be sold, for directing the sale thereof, and the investment of the money arising from such sale, and the application of the income thereof; and the Commissioners, having reference to the total number of such class (so far as the valuer or the Commissioners may have ascertained the same), shall by such notice declare the number of persons who should be present at such meeting to give validity to the proceedings; and the decision of the majority of such meeting shall bind the minority and all absent parties: Provided always, that no meeting shall be effectual for the purpose aforesaid unless such a number of the said persons shall attend the same as shall be mentioned in that behalf in the advertisement calling such meeting; and if no effectual meeting shall be held for the purpose aforesaid, or, being held, no instructions shall be resolved on by the majority present at such meeting, or in case the Commissioners shall deem such instructions unjust or unreasonable, the Commissioners may give such instructions to the valuer in respect of the matters aforesaid as they shall think fit; provided that no sale of any such allotment or any part thereof shall be made except in pursuance of a resolution of a meeting called as aforesaid; but a recital in the conveyance by the Commissioners upon any sale that such sale was duly authorized shall for all purposes of title be evidence that such sale was made in pursuance of the resolution of a meeting duly called as aforesaid.

XC. That where any persons interested in land to be inclosed under this Act shall be so interested in undivided shares, or as joint tenants, coparceners, or tenants in common, it shall be lawful for the valuer, upon the request in writing of any of the persons so interested in undivided shares, or as joint tenants, coparceners, or tenants in common, to make partition of the lands or allotments coming to such persons so interested, and to allot the same to such persons in severalty; and immediately after the said allotments shall be so made and declared the same shall be holden and enjoyed by the persons to whom the same shall be allotted in severalty, subject to the same uses as such undivided share would have been subject to in case such partition had not been made; and every such partition shall be specified in the award, and shall be valid and effectual to all purposes.

XCI. That all costs and expenses attending any partition to be made by virtue of this Act shall be borne and defrayed by the several proprietors of or persons interested in the estates which shall be so parted in such manner and proportions as the valuer shall order, and in case of non-payment thereof shall be recovered in the manner directed with respect to the recovery of penalties and forfeitures.

XCII. That it shall be lawful for the valuer to allot and award any land to be inclosed in exchange for any other land within the parish in which the land to be inclosed shall be situate, or any adjoining parish; and it shall be lawful for the valuer, in exercise of this present power, to allot all or any part of the land which would have been subject to be allotted under this Act for the purposes of exercise and recreation, or for the labouring poor, or for any other public purposes, to any person, in exchange for other land in the parish or in any adjoining parish which shall appear to the valuer more suitable or convenient for the purposes of exercise and recreation, or for the labouring poor, or for such other public purposes as aforesaid, and to allot such other land for such purposes accordingly; and all lands taken and allotted as aforesaid under this provision, although not situate in the parish in which the land given in exchange for the same shall be situate, shall for the purposes of the provisions herein contained be deemed to be within such parish, and be managed and dealt with accordingly; provided that all exchanges under which land shall be taken and allotted for public purposes as aforesaid shall be made with the consent of the person interested in the land so taken, and that all other exchanges be made with the consent in writing of the persons interested in the lands so exchanged; and every such exchange so to be made shall be valid and effectual to all purposes, and shall be specified and declared in the award: Provided also, that no exchange shall be made of any land held in right of any church or chapel or other ecclesiastical benefice, without the consent, testified in writing, of the bishop of the diocese and the patron of such benefice: Provided also, that all costs and expenses attending the making and completing of any such exchanges, except exchanges of land taken for public purposes, shall be borne by the several parties making such exchanges in such manner and in such proportions as the valuer shall direct, and in case of non-payment thereof shall be recovered in the manner directed with respect to the recovery of penalties and forfeitures; and the expenses of the exchanges of land taken for public purposes shall be considered part of the expenses of the inclosure.

xciii. That nothing in this Act contained shall extend to revoke, make void, or alter any will, settlement, uses, or trusts, or to prejudice any person having any right or claim of dower, jointure, annuity, portion, debt, charge, rent, or incumbrance upon or affecting any of the land to be inclosed, or which shall be exchanged or given in partition, in pursuance of this Act, but the land allotted, and the land given in exchange or partition, shall immediately after such allotment, exchange, or partition be and enure, and the several persons to whom the same shall be allotted or given in exchange or partition as aforesaid shall thenceforth stand and be seised and possessed thereof respectively to and for such and the same estates, uses, trusts, intents, and purposes, and subject to the same conditions, charges, and incumbrances, as the several lands, rights, or undivided shares thereof, in respect whereof such allotments, exchanges, and partitions shall have been made would have stood limited to and for or been subject to in case the same had not been allotted, exchanged, or given in partition as aforesaid, and as if this Act had not been made, save and except such leases and tenancies at rack rents as shall become void by virtue of this Act, and any joint tenancy which may have been severed by partition as aforesaid, and such rights of common and other rights as are intended to be extinguished by the inclosure, and subject nevertheless to all such mortgages and sales as shall be made by authority of this Act.

xciv. That all such land as shall be taken in exchange or on partition or be allotted by virtue of this Act shall be held by the person to whom it shall be given in exchange or on partition or allotted under the same tenures, rents, customs, and services as the land in respect of which such land shall have been given in exchange or on partition or allotted would have been held in case no such exchange, partition, or inclosure had been made; and the land taken in exchange or on partition or allotted in respect of freehold shall be deemed freehold; and the land taken in exchange or on partition or allotted in respect of copyhold or customary land shall be deemed copyhold or customary land, and shall be held of the lord of the same manor under the same rent and by the same customs and services as the copyhold or customary land in respect of which it may have been taken in exchange or on partition or allotted was or ought to have been held, and shall pass in like manner as the copyhold or customary land in respect whereof such exchanges, partitions, or allotments shall be made, and as to copyhold or customary allotments without any new admittance in respect of the lands taken or allotted respectively; and the land given in exchange or on partition or allotted in respect of leasehold land shall in like manner be deemed leasehold, and shall be held under the same rents and covenants as the land in respect of which it may have been allotted was held, and the remainder or reversion thereof shall be vested in the same lessor respectively as the remainder or reversion of such other land was vested before the exchange, partition, or allotment, except where otherwise particularly directed by this Act.

xcv. That immediately after the allotments herein directed to be made on any inclosure shall have been marked and staked out the valuer acting in the matter of such inclosure may direct the same to be entered upon by the persons respectively for whom the same shall be intended; and immediately after the valuer shall so direct them to be entered upon, all leases, agreements, and tenancies at rack rent subsisting of any part of the land to be inclosed, or which shall be exchanged in pursuance of this Act, or any common right thereon, shall, so far only as respects the land to be divided and allotted or exchanged, or common right, cease and be void at such time or times as the valuer shall by writing under his hand direct or appoint, so as the respective lessors or landlords of such land do, before or at the respective times at which such leases, agreements, or tenancies shall be directed to cease, make and pay such satisfaction to the respective lessees or tenants, for the loss which shall be sustained by the determination of such leases, agreements, and tenancies respectively, as far as regards the land or common right the leases, agreements, and tenancies whereof are hereby authorized to be determined, as shall be mutually settled and agreed between them, or as the valuer, being required by either of the parties, shall ascertain and direct; and the valuer, being so required, is hereby empowered and directed, by writing under his hand, to apportion a reasonable and proportionable part, having regard to the season of the year, of the rent reserved on any such lease, agreement, or tenancy, for or in respect of the time which shall have elapsed between the last day on which any payment of the rent shall have become due and the determination of any such lease, agreement, or tenancy, and such part of the rent shall be recoverable by such ways and means as may by law be used for the recovery of rent in arrear; and the valuer is hereby empowered and directed, in every case where such land or common right shall be held by virtue of any such lease, agreement, or tenancy, together with other lands or hereditaments, by one entire rent, by writing under his hand to apportion and determine what part of such rent shall be deducted in respect of the land or common right in such lease, agreement, or tenancy comprised as to which the same shall be determined as aforesaid, and from what time such deduction shall take place, and the rest of the rent reserved on any such lease, agreement, or tenancy shall during the remainder of the term thereof be the rent of and for the residue of such lands and hereditaments, and shall be payable and recoverable in like manner as the entire rent reserved by such lease, agreement, or tenancy shall immediately before such apportionment be payable and recoverable; and the lessor or reversioner shall in respect of such apportioned rent, and in respect of the residue of such lands and hereditaments, have the benefit and advantage of the provisions and conditions which would have been applicable to the entire rent, and to all the lands and hereditaments comprised in such lease, agreement, or tenancy, in case such lease, agreement, or tenancy had not been determined as to any part of such land: Provided always, that no lease, agreement, or tenancy shall be determined as aforesaid as to any house, cottage, or other building without three calendar months previous notice in writing of such determination, under the hand of the valuer, shall have been given to the lessee or tenant, or left at such house, cottage, or building.

xcvi. Provided and enacted, That in every case all seigniories, royalties, franchises, and manorial jurisdictions whatsoever in or upon the land to be inclosed under this Act shall not be deemed to be compensated or extinguished, but shall be saved and excepted out of the operation of this Act, unless in and by the award it shall be declared, with the consent of the lord or respective lords interested therein, that such seigniories, franchises, royalties, and jurisdictions shall be extinguished upon the proposed inclosure.

xcvii. Provided and enacted, That in every case in which, under the provisions hereinafter contained, part of the land subject to be inclosed under this Act shall be converted into and used as a regulated pasture, and the residue thereof shall be divided and allotted in severalty, it shall be lawful for the valuer, having regard to the right of the lord of the manor, as the same shall have been ascertained and declared by the provisional order of the Commissioners, and with the consent of the lord of the manor and a majority in value of the other persons interested in the lands proposed to be inclosed, to direct that the rights of the lord of the manor in and to all or any of the mines, minerals, stone, and other substrata under such part of the land as shall be converted into and used as a regulated pasture shall be reserved to the lord, and that all or any of the mines, minerals, stone, and other substrata under the residue to be divided and allotted in severalty shall become the property of the owners of the respective allotments, and that the allotments be adjusted accordingly.

xcviii. Provided and enacted, That in every case in which the right to all or any of the mines, minerals, stone, and other substrata under any land inclosed under this Act shall exist as property distinct and separate from the property in the surface, and shall not be compensated upon the inclosure, the right and property in such mines, minerals, stone, or other substrata, and all rights and easements auxiliary to or connected with the exercise or enjoyment of the right and property in such mines, minerals, stone, or other substrata, shall be in nowise affected by the inclosure; and in case any mines, minerals, stone, or other substrata under any land inclosed under this Act, or the right of searching for or getting the same, shall have been leased or agreed to be leased to any person as property distinct and separate from the property in the surface, with or without powers over the surface of the land auxiliary to the purposes of such lease, the rights of the lessee or tenant under such lease or agreement shall be in nowise affected by the inclosure.

xcix. That the timber trees and other trees and underwood standing and growing upon any land to be inclosed shall be allotted and go along with the land whereon they respectively stand, and shall be deemed the property of the several persons to whom the same land shall be respectively allotted, such person paying to the owner of such trees and underwood such sums of money for the same, and at such time or times and place or places, as the valuer shall by writing under his hand direct; but if the parties who are to make such respective payments shall neglect or refuse to make the same accordingly, then it shall be lawful to and for the respective parties who shall be entitled to have and receive such payments to enter on the said lands, and cut down, take, and carry away to their own use the said trees and underwood in respect of which the said payments were respectively to be made to them, at any seasonable time or times within one year next after such neglect or default, doing as little damage on the land as may be.

c. That no person shall graze or keep any horse, beast, cattle, sheep, or swine upon any of the roads or ways which the valuer shall order to be set out, and which shall be fenced on both sides, for the space of seven years next after the execution of the award; and every owner of land to be inclosed, his servants and labourers, and also every peace officer and parish officer of the parish in which the land shall be situate, for the time being, is hereby empowered to take and impound any such horse, beast, cattle, sheep, or swine which shall be found so grazing as aforesaid, as cattle damage feasant: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the proprietors of the land which shall next adjoin the private roads and ways from depasturing their cattle thereon so far as the frontage of their respective land extends.

ci. That it shall be lawful for the valuer acting in any inclosure, at any time before the confirmation of the award, with the approbation or by the direction of the Commissioners, to make any alterations which he may think right and expedient in the allotments or in the fences which he may have set out and ordered, or in the private roads he may have set out, or in any of the orders or directions relating thereto which he may have made in the matter of such inclosure; and in case any person shall be injured by any such alteration, on account of any expenses he may have incurred, or otherwise, the valuer shall ascertain and determine what recompense shall be made to him for such injury, and shall either pay the amount thereof out of the monies raised for the expense of the inclosure, or shall direct by whom and in what manner such recompense shall be made; and in case of non-payment thereof the same shall be recovered in the same manner as penalties and forfeitures are recoverable under this Act.

cii. That the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall, as soon as conveniently may be after the division and allotment of the land to be inclosed shall be completed, draw up a report in writing, with a map thereunto annexed, which shall specify all the claims allowed, and all the allotments, exchanges, and partitions made in the matter of such inclosure, and all roads, ways, and works set out or directed to be made by the said valuer; and such report shall contain all such particulars in relation to such allotments, roads, ways, and works as are by this Act directed, and all such other directions and determinations authorized by this Act as the said valuer shall think proper for the purposes of the inclosure; and the map to be annexed to such report shall comprise and shew the land to be inclosed and the lands exchanged, and also the lands in respect of which any allotments of the land inclosed shall have been made, and shall distinguish by proper references the allotments made in respect of the several lands respectively, and such other particulars as the Commissioners shall by any general or special instructions in relation to such report direct the valuer to set forth therein; and such report shall be signed by the valuer, and shall, together with the map thereunto annexed, be sent to the office of the Commissioners.

ciii. That as soon as the report of the valuer shall have been sent to the Commissioners they shall cause a copy of the same to be deposited at some convenient place within the parish in which the land to be inclosed, or some part thereof, shall be situate, for the inspection of all persons interested in such land, and shall forthwith cause notice to be given where the said copy may be inspected, and shall also in such notice appoint some convenient place, and such times as they shall think necessary (the first not earlier than twenty-one days from the first giving such notice), for holding a meeting to hear objections to any allotment, direction, determination, or matter in the report; and the Commissioners or some Assistant Commissioner at such meeting as aforesaid shall hear and determine any objections which may be then and there made to any such allotment, direction, determination, or matter by any person interested therein, or adjourn the further hearing thereof, if they or he shall think proper, to a future meeting, and may, if they or he shall see occasion, direct any further valuation or survey of the land or any part thereof, and take such other measures for ascertaining the justice and propriety of the determinations and directions of the valuer, as to the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall seem proper, and from time to time, if they or he shall see occasion, fix further meetings for the hearing and determining of objections, of which further meetings, when not holden by adjournment, notice shall be given in manner hereinbefore directed with regard to the original meeting; and when the said Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall have heard and determined all such objections, and made such inquiries as the Commissioners shall think fit in relation thereto, the Commissioners shall approve such report, or cause the allotments, directions, determinations, and matters therein mentioned, or any of them, to be amended, as they shall see occasion.

civ. That after such proceedings as aforesaid shall have been had, and all such objections to such report (if any) shall have been finally disposed of, and such amendments (if any) shall have been made in the allotments, directions, and matters therein contained as aforesaid, the valuer, under the direction of the Commissioners, shall cause to be drawn up and engrossed on parchment the award in the matter of such inclosure, which shall be signed by the valuer, and shall describe the boundaries, if any, which shall have been ascertained and set out under the provisions hereinbefore contained, and shall contain or set forth the report of the valuer, or the allotments, exchanges, partitions, directions, and matters contained in such report, if so approved as aforesaid, or such allotments, exchanges, directions, and matters therein contained as the same shall have been amended as aforesaid, and shall contain a declaration whether all or any and which of the mines, minerals, stone, and other substrata shall or shall not have been included in the estimate of the right and interest of the lord in the soil (in respect of which any allotment shall have been made to him), and the valuer shall annex to such engrossment the map referred to by such report; and the Commissioners shall confirm such award, with the date of such confirmation thereunto annexed, under their hands and seal.

cv. That such confirmation as aforesaid shall be conclusive evidence that all the directions of this Act in relation to such award, and to every allotment, exchange, partition, and matter therein set forth and contained, which ought to have been obeyed and performed previously to such confirmation, shall have been obeyed and performed; and no such award shall be impeached by reason of any mistake or informality therein, or in any proceeding relating thereunto, or on account of any want of any notices or consents required by this Act, or on account of defects or omissions in any previous proceeding whatever in the matter of the inclosure; and every allotment, exchange, partition, direction, matter, and thing specified and set forth in such award as aforesaid shall be binding and conclusive on all persons whomsoever.

cvi. That the several allotments which shall upon any inclosure under this Act be allotted to the several persons who shall be entitled to the same shall when so allotted be and be taken to be in full bar of and satisfaction and compensation for their several and respective lands, rights of common, and all other rights and properties whatsoever, not excepted or reserved by this Act or by the award in the matter of such inclosure, which they respectively had or were entitled to in and over the said lands, immediately before such inclosure; and that from and immediately after the confirmation of the award by the Commissioners, or at such earlier time as the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, shall by notice on the church door direct, all rights of common, and all rights whatever by the inclosure intended to be extinguished, belonging to or claimed by any person whomsoever, in or upon such lands, shall cease, determine, and be for ever extinguished.

cvii. Provided and enacted, That when any award, so confirmed as aforesaid, shall not have distinguished the several tenures of any of the lands therein mentioned, or the different estates or titles for or under which the same shall be held, or shall have set out and awarded an aggregate allotment in any case in which there should have been set out and awarded several and distinct allotments, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, at any time within two years after the confirmation of the award, upon request in writing to them made by any person interested in any such aggregate allotment, to do all such acts as may be necessary for supplying such omission, and for subdividing such aggregate allotment, and for that purpose to examine witnesses, and proceed as if the said award had not been confirmed, and by any order or instrument under their hands and seal to subdivide any aggregate allotment into separate allotments, and to distinguish and set out the allotments and lands held by different tenures, and also the allotments and lands held by, for, or under different estates or titles respectively, in the same manner as by this Act is authorized and required to be done in cases where such allotments and lands are directed to be ascertained, distinguished, and set out by the valuer; and every such separate instrument shall have the same power and effect as if it were contained in the said award; and such instrument shall be engrossed, and deposited with the award, and shall thenceforth be deemed to be part thereof to all intents and purposes; and all the expenses which shall be reasonably incurred in or about any such subsequent inquiry or separate instrument as aforesaid, and the engrossment thereof, shall be paid by the party who shall have requested the Commissioners to make and execute the same, or by his executors or administrators.

cvi. That the allotment which upon any inclosure under this Act shall be made for the labouring poor shall be under the management of the incumbent of the parish or ecclesiastical district in which such allotment shall be situate (or the officiating minister for the time being nominated by the incumbent for that purpose), the churchwarden, if there be but one, or (if there be more than one) one of the churchwardens for the time being of such parish, and two other persons who shall be rated to the relief of the poor in such parish; and such churchwarden, where there is more than one churchwarden, shall be yearly named, and such two other persons shall be yearly chosen and appointed, at the same time, and by the same persons, and in the same manner, as the overseers of the poor for such parish shall be chosen and appointed, and shall continue in office in like manner until the next appointment of overseers, or until others are named and chosen and appointed in their stead; and such incumbent (or officiating minister), churchwarden, and two other persons for the time being shall be styled

"the Allotment Wardens" of the parish, and shall manage and let the said allotment as hereinafter provided, and all things by this Act authorized to be done by such allotment wardens may be done by any two of them, and in the event of the death or retirement from office of any one or more of the said allotment wardens the surviving or continuing wardens may act as if no such vacancy had happened.

cix. That the allotment wardens shall from time to time let the allotment under their management in gardens not exceeding a quarter of an acre each to such poor inhabitants of the parish for one year, or from year to year, at such rents, payable at such times, and on such terms and conditions, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, as they shall think fit: Provided always, that the Commissioners may frame such regulations, not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act, for the letting of such allotments as aforesaid, as they may think advisable, and such regulations shall be obligatory on the allotment wardens during five years from the date thereof or during such shorter period as the Commissioners shall direct: Provided also, that the gardens so to be let shall be let free of all tithe or tithe rent-charge (if any), rates, taxes, and assessments whatsoever, and shall before the first letting thereof, and once at least in every ten years after such first letting, be valued by a competent person to be appointed by the allotment wardens for that purpose, who shall estimate the full rent which the same would be worth to be let by the year for farming purposes, all tithes or tithe rent-charge, rates, taxes, and assessments, being borne by the landlord, and shall verify such valuation by solemn declaration under the statute; and the rent at which the same gardens respectively shall be let shall be not below the full yearly value of the land according to the last of such valuations; and the allotment wardens shall, for the purposes of all rates and taxes, be deemed the occupiers of such allotment, and shall pay all rates and taxes, tithes and tithe rent-charge (if any), in respect thereof: Provided always, that no building whatsoever shall, under any such letting as aforesaid or otherwise, on any pretence, be erected for or used as a dwelling on any such garden or on any part of any such allotment; and in case any such building shall be erected or used as aforesaid contrary to this provision, the allotment wardens shall forthwith pull down the same, and sell and dispose of the materials thereof, and the produce of such sale shall be applicable in like manner as the rents of such gardens.

cx. That if the rent reserved upon the letting of any garden by the allotment wardens shall at any time be in arrear for forty days, or if at any time during the tenancy, being not less than three calendar months after the commencement thereof, it shall appear to the allotment wardens that the occupier of such garden shall not have duly observed the terms and conditions of his tenancy, or shall have gone to reside more than one mile out of the parish, then and in every such case the allotment wardens shall serve a notice upon such occupier, or in case he shall have gone to reside out of the parish shall affix the same to the door of the church of the parish, determining the tenancy at the expiration of one month after such notice shall have been so served or affixed, and thereupon such tenancy shall be determined accordingly: Provided always, that in every such case the allotment wardens or their incoming tenant shall pay to the occupier whose tenancy shall have been so determined a fair recompense in money for any crops (not being crops prohibited by the terms of such tenancy) which may be growing on such garden at the time of such determination, and for any manure left on such garden, or any benefit accruing from the manuring of such garden to the wardens or their incoming tenant; and the Justices to whom application may be made for a warrant to give possession of such garden shall settle the amount of such recompense, in case the parties differ about the same, and stay the execution of such warrant until the same shall have been paid or tendered, or (in case such occupier be absent) until the payment thereof shall have been secured to the satisfaction of such Justices.

cx. That in case upon the determination of any such tenancy as aforesaid the occupier of any such garden shall refuse to quit and deliver up possession thereof, or if any other person shall unlawfully enter upon, take, or hold possession of any such garden, or of any part of such allotment, the allotment wardens may recover possession according to the mode prescribed by an Act, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 74, intituled 'An Act to facilitate the Recovery of Possession of Tenements after due Determination of the Tenancy,' in such and the same manner as if the said wardens were landlords or a landlord, and as if such over-holding occupier or other person were a tenant neglecting or refusing to quit and deliver up possession, within the meaning of the last-mentioned Act.

cxii. That all rents payable in respect of the allotment under the management of the allotment wardens shall be payable to such wardens, who shall have the same remedies for recovery thereof by distress and otherwise as if the legal estate of and in such allotment were vested in them under this Act; and such rents shall be applicable, in the first place, to the payment of all rates, taxes, tithes, tithe rent-charge, and of the rent-charge charged on such allotment under the provisions of this Act, and of all expenses incurred by the allotment wardens in the execution of their trusts and powers under this Act; and the residue, if any, of such rents, shall be paid to the overseers of the poor, in aid of the poor rates of the parish, and be applicable in the same manner as and subject to all the provisions concerning the monies assessed for the relief of the poor.

cxiii. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, on the application in writing of persons interested in any land which shall be directed to be inclosed under this Act whose interest shall exceed in value one half of the whole interest in such land (such application to be made at any time before the instructions to the valuer shall have been delivered to him under the seal of the Commissioners, as hereinbefore provided), to direct such land or any part thereof to be converted into and used as a regulated pasture, to be stocked and depastured in common by the persons interested therein, in proportion to their respective rights and interests as the same shall be determined on the examination of claims; and in case part of such land only shall be so directed to be stocked and depastured in common, the valuer shall, subject to the instructions which shall be given to him under the provisions of this Act, ascertain and set out the part which shall be so used as a regulated pasture, and shall direct how and at whose expense the same shall be fenced and divided from the residue of such land; and the valuer acting in the matter of such inclosure shall, in every case where land shall be so directed to be used as a regulated pasture, ascertain and allot the respective stints or rights of pasturage (specifying the respective numbers of the respective kinds of stock or animals to be admitted to the pasture in respect of such respective stints or rights of pasturage, with such option as to equivalent numbers of the respective kinds of stock and animals as he shall think just, and, if he shall think fit, specifying the time during which such stock or animals may be kept on the pasture,) as he shall adjudge and determine to be proportionate to the value of the respective rights and interests of the persons interested as aforesaid; and the Commissioners may frame such directions as they shall think fit for guiding the valuer in the correct specification of such stints or rights: Provided always, that in every case in which part only of the land subject to be inclosed under this Act shall be so directed to be used as a regulated pasture, and the residue thereof to be divided and allotted in severalty, it shall be lawful for such valuer, having regard to the convenience of the persons interested in such land, to award to any such person either a stint or right of pasture or an allotment in severalty only, or both a stint or right of pasture and an allotment in severalty, so as such stint or right only, or such allotment only, or (as the case may be) such stint or right and allotment together, be in the judgment of the valuer proportionate to the right and interest in respect of which the same shall be awarded: Provided also, that in any case in which it shall appear to the valuer that the proportionate right or interest of any person is too small to be conveniently compensated by a stint or right of pasture, or that it is not practicable wholly to compensate such person by a stint or right of pasture, and the circumstances of the inclosure will not admit, in the judgment of the valuer, of an adjustment or compensation by an allotment in severalty, it shall be lawful for such valuer, for the purpose of compensation or adjustment, to direct a sum of money to be paid to such person in lieu of or (as the case may require) in addition to the award of a right of pasture or stint; and such sum of money shall be paid out of the monies applicable to the payment of the expenses of the inclosure.

cxiv. That all the provisions and powers hereinbefore contained in relation to public and private roads, ways and works, and all other the powers, provisions, and directions, penalties and forfeitures, applicable to the case of an inclosure under this Act, and the provisions and directions concerning examination of claims, and the rehearing thereof, and the report of the valuer, and the amendment of the matter thereof, and the award, and the confirmation and effect of the award, shall be applicable to the case where the land subject to be inclosed shall be directed to be used as a regulated pasture; and the word "inclosure" shall in every case in this Act where the context is not repugnant to such construction include the conversion of land subject to be inclosed into such regulated pasture, and the proceedings in relation thereto.

cxv. That in every case in which land shall be directed to be converted into and used as regulated pasture under this Act the valuer acting in the matter of the inclosure shall determine and direct the proportionate shares or aliquot parts which the respective owners for the time being of the several stints or rights of pasture shall be liable to pay of any sum of money which shall be raised by way of rate on such owners under the provisions of this Act; and such determination and direction, in case the same shall be approved, or as the same may be amended by the Commissioners, shall be for ever after observed in every rate to be made under the provisions of this Act, and shall be the rule also according to which the proportionate values of the stints shall be determined in taking the votes of the owners of stints under the provisions hereinafter contained.

cxvi. That the right of soil of and in all land which shall be converted into regulated pastures shall, subject to the right of the lord of the manor to all or any of the mines, minerals, stone, and other substrata, where the same shall be reserved to him under this Act, and to the other rights given or reserved by this Act and the award in the matter of such inclosure, be vested in the persons who under the directions and determinations of such award shall be the owners of the stints or rights of pasture therein, in proportion to the shares or aliquot parts which such stints shall be thereby declared liable to of any rate under this Act, as tenants in common.

cxvii. That where any land shall have been converted into a regulated pasture under the provisions of this Act a meeting shall be called by the Commissioners of the owners of the stints or rights of pasture, at such time after the confirmation of the award as the Commissioners shall by notice on the church door appoint; and the major part in value of such owners present by themselves, or their agent authorized in this behalf, at such meeting, shall elect a fit person or persons to be field reeve or reeves of such regulated pasture; and every field reeve so to be elected as aforesaid, or to be elected or re-elected at any subsequent meeting, shall continue in office until the expiration of fifteen days after the day of the annual meeting of such owners then next following, and no longer, unless he shall be re-elected at such annual meeting; and such owners shall ever after such first meeting meet for the election of a field reeve or field reeves on the first Monday in February in every year; and the owners assembled at such meetings shall from time to time fix, increase, or diminish the salary or payment to be made to every such field reeve, and may appoint or authorize any field reeve to appoint and employ herds and assistants, as such owners may think fit; and any such field reeve may be removed by four-fifths in value of the owners of stints present by themselves or their agents authorized in this behalf at any meeting called for the purpose by fourteen days' notice on the church door under the hands of any two such owners of stints; and in case any such field reeve shall die while he shall hold such office, or shall be removed as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the majority in value of owners of stints or pastures present as aforesaid at any meeting which upon such vacancy any two owners may call by fourteen days' notice on the church door, to appoint a field reeve in his place, who shall hold the office until the expiration of fifteen days after the then next annual meeting; and a certificate in writing under the hands and seals of two Justices of the Peace of the election of any field reeve (which certificate any two Justices of the Peace are authorized, if they think fit, to give, on the request and upon the declaration of any owner of such stints as the agent of any such owner present at the meeting at which the election shall have taken place,) shall in all matters and proceedings whatsoever in which any acts done by any field reeve in the execution of his office shall be in question be evidence that he was duly appointed field reeve.

cxviii. That the field reeve or reeves for the time of being of every such regulated pasture shall, subject to such orders and instructions in writing as may from time to time be agreed on by the majority in value of the owners of such stints as aforesaid, at their yearly meetings, regulate the times in each year during which stock or animals shall be admitted to and excluded from such regulated pasture, and shall maintain and keep in order the fences, gates, ditches, drains, watercourses, embankments, jetties, and weirs, or make any new fences, gates, ditches, drains, watercourses, embankments, jetties, or weirs, and do all works necessary for the maintenance and improvement and good order of such regulated pasture, and shall and may distrain all stock and animals found thereon contrary to the regulations of such pasture, and do all other acts for the maintenance and improvement of such regulated pasture, and the convenient use and occupation thereof, as the field reeve or reeves, subject to such instructions as aforesaid, may think fit; and where there shall be any buildings on such regulated pasture, or where the majority in value of the owners of stints at any yearly meeting shall direct that any buildings for the shelter or stall-feeding of stock or animals be erected thereon, such field reeve or reeves shall or may maintain and keep in repair such buildings, or cause such buildings to be erected, in pursuance of such direction, and let the same from year to year, or, under such instructions as aforesaid, for any term of years, and shall receive the rents thereof; and such rents shall be applicable, in the first place, to the same purposes as the rates hereinafter authorized to be raised on the owners of stints are made applicable, and the residue (if any) shall be paid to the owners of stints in proportion to the respective liability of their stints to such rates.

CXIX. That when it shall appear to the majority in value of the owners of stints present at any annual meeting that the condition of the pasture would admit of an increase of the respective rights of pasture thereon, or would require a diminution of such respective rights, it shall be lawful for such majority of the owners so present to direct that the respective number of stock or animals to be admitted to the pasture in respect of the several rights be increased, or, as the case may be, diminished, rateably, to such extent as they shall think fit: Provided always, that in case it shall happen that the right of any such owner shall not be sufficient to admit of a rateable increase or diminution, such annual money payment shall be made to such owner in lieu of increase of his right, or, as the case may be, charged on such owner in lieu of the diminution of his right, as such majority shall award, or in case the person to or on whom such money payment shall be awarded or charged shall think the sum awarded insufficient, or the sum charged excessive, then as any two Justices of the Peace shall, upon the complaint of such person, and after summons of the field reeve or one of the field Reeves of such pasture (which may be in the form in the schedule to this Act), and on hearing in a summary way the matter in difference, think reasonable and order to be paid; and such order may be in the form in the schedule to this Act; and every such money payment payable in lieu of increase of right shall be paid annually by the field reeve out of the monies raised by the rate made for the expenses of such regulated pasture; and the money charged on any such owner shall be recoverable as a rate on owners of stints is hereby made recoverable; and all annual payments payable as aforesaid shall be payable on the first Monday in February in every year.

CXX. That all salaries and allowances to field Reeves and other persons, and all expenses in and about the management of every such regulated pasture, and the repairs and erection of buildings thereon, under the directions of such meetings of owners as aforesaid, and all other expenses of such regulated pasture, shall be paid and defrayed by the owners of the respective stints therein: and for that purpose it shall be lawful for the field reeve or one of the field Reeves, under the directions of any such meeting of owners, from time to time to make a rate on the respective owners for such sum as the majority of owners present at such meeting shall think requisite; and every such rate shall be apportioned and paid by the owners according to the rule of rating established for such regulated pasture, and shall be paid to the field reeve, on demand thereof, and in case the same shall not be paid within fourteen days after demand thereof, shall be recoverable by distress; and it shall be lawful for any field reeve to exclude from such regulated pasture the stock or animals of any owner or his tenant whose proportion of the rate shall be in arrear and unpaid for fourteen days after demand thereof, until the proportion of such rate so in arrear shall be fully paid; and any such demand or distress may be made of or on the occupier of any such stint as if the occupier were the owner liable to the payment of such rate, and such rate may be paid by any such occupier on demand thereof, and the money so paid by any such occupier shall be deemed a payment on account of his rent, and shall be allowed by his landlord accordingly.

CXXI. That where any land shall be already occupied as a gated or stinted pasture, and any of the persons interested in such gated or stinted pasture whose interests shall not be less in value than two-thirds of the whole interest therein shall be desirous that such gated and stinted pasture should be subject to the provisions of this Act concerning regulated pastures, without being subject to the other provisions concerning lands subject to be inclosed under this Act, and shall make application in writing to the Commissioners to take proceedings for that purpose, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners after making such inquiries as may appear to them necessary, to cause to be ascertained by any valuer to be appointed or approved by the Commissioners for that purpose the proportionate rights and interests of the several persons interested in such pasture, and also the respective rights of pasture to which, having reference to the productiveness of such gated or stinted pasture, the several persons interested therein may, in the judgment of such valuer, be entitled; and such valuer shall determine and direct, as hereinbefore mentioned, the proportionate liability to rates under this Act of the occupiers of stints or rights of pasture, and in like manner as in case of the conversion into regulated pasture of land subject to be inclosed upon an inclosure under this Act; and the Commissioners shall hear or cause to be heard by an Assistant Commissioner, any objections to the determinations of claims by and to the report of the valuer respectively, and approve or amend such determinations and such report respectively as they shall think fit; and the valuer, under the direction or with the approval of the Commissioners, shall frame and cause to be ingrossed an award setting forth such draft award, and the matter of such report, and the Commissioners shall confirm the same, with the date of the confirmation, under their hands and seal; and from and after the confirmation of such award such gated and stinted pasture shall be subject to all the provisions herein contained concerning land subject to be inclosed, converted into and used as regulated pasture, and shall be rateable under such provisions, according to the rule of rating as set forth in such award; and such award shall be as binding and conclusive as the same had been made and confirmed on an inclosure under this Act.

CXXII. That all the expenses of or attending the proceedings for subjecting lands already used as gated or stinted pasture to the provisions of this Act, concerning lands subject to be inclosed, converted into or used as regulated pasture, shall be paid and borne by the persons interested therein, in proportion to their respective liabilities to rates under this Act, according to the rule of rating established in respects of such gated or stinted pasture under this Act, and shall be paid at such time and in such manner to such persons as the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, signified by writing under their hands and seal, shall direct, and shall be recoverable in such and the same manner as the expenses of an inclosure made in pursuance of this Act.

CXXIII. That for surveying and valuing any land to be inclosed or otherwise dealt with under this Act, and for the other purposes of this Act, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, or an Assistant Commissioner or valuer, or any person or persons to be appointed by such Commissioners, Assistant Commissioner, or valuer, at any time after application has been made to the Commissioners to sanction an inclosure, or to certify to the expediency of an inclosure, as the case may be, to make any survey, admeasurement, plan, or valuation, with assistants and servants, and at any time or times whatsoever, until the inclosure or other proceedings under this Act shall be completed, to enter into, view and examine, survey or admeasure, all and every part of the land to be inclosed or dealt with, and to do or cause to be done any act or thing necessary for putting this Act into execution.

CXXIV. That the allowances and payments to be made to and by the valuer, which shall have been audited and approved by or under the directions of the Commissioners, and all other the expenses of every inclosure, except the allowances and salaries to the Commissioner who is to have a salary, and to the Assistant Commissioners, secretary, clerks, messengers, and officers of the Commissioners, and the travelling and other expenses of the Commissioners and Assistant Commissioners, and except any expenses which the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner, or any court under the powers of this Act, shall order to be otherwise paid, shall be borne and defrayed by the several persons interested in the lands to be inclosed (except the surveyors of highways, churchwardens and overseers, and persons to whom lands shall be allotted for public purposes, in respect of the allotments hereinbefore authorized or directed to be made to them respectively) in such shares and proportions, and shall be paid at such time and place, or respective times and places, and to such persons, as the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, signified by writing under their hands and seal, shall direct; and such valuer shall give notice requiring payment of the respective shares and proportions of such expenses on the church door, and shall give to all persons so liable, who shall not reside in the parish in which the land inclosed or any part thereof shall be situate, and whose respective places of abode shall be known to the valuer, notice by letter sent by the post of the sums they respectively shall be liable to pay, at least fourteen days before the time appointed for such payment; and the valuer shall from time to time make estimates of all such expenses, and raise the amount of such estimates at such times as he shall, with such approbation of the Commissioners, deem proper, either before or after the confirmation of the award.

CXXV. Provided and enacted, That before the Commissioners shall approve the estimates of such expenses they shall submit the same to a meeting of persons interested, called after seven days' notice, and shall take into consideration any representation with respect to such estimates which may be made to them on the part of the majority of the persons present at such meeting.

CXXVI. That if any person shall refuse or neglect to pay his proportion of such expenses within such time and to such person as the valuer shall appoint, it shall be lawful for the valuer to recover the same, together with lawful interest, to be computed from the day on which the same ought to have been paid, by action at law in his own name in any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster, or it shall be lawful for him, by warrant directed to any person whomsoever, to cause the same, with such interest thereon as aforesaid, to be levied by distress, or it shall be lawful for the valuer, or any person authorized by him, immediately after such neglect or refusal, to enter into and upon the premises so to be allotted to such person, and demise the same, or to demise any stint or right of pasture allotted to such person, and receive the rents and profits thereof respectively, until thereby or otherwise such share or proportion, with lawful interest as aforesaid, and also all the costs and expenses attending such entry upon and demise, and receipt of the rents and profits of the said premises, shall be fully paid and satisfied: Provided always, that no such action at law as aforesaid shall be brought by the valuer against any person for his proportion of such expenses as aforesaid, nor shall any proceeding be taken to levy any such proportion of expenses by distress as aforesaid, before the expiration of thirty days after notice in writing that such proportion of expenses is in arrear, and requiring payment thereof, shall have been given to the person liable to pay the same, or left at the usual place of abode of such person.

CXXVII. Provided and enacted, That if at any time after the allotments shall have been stake dout it shall appear to the valuer, either before or after the confirmation of the award, that the money to arise by any previous rates will not be sufficient to defray the expenses aforesaid, the deficiency shall, with such approbation of the Commissioners as aforesaid, be made up and raised from time to time by a rate to be made and levied upon the several persons interested in the lands to be inclosed (except as aforesaid), in such shares and proportions, within such time, and to be paid to such persons as the valuer shall from time to time direct; and in case any persons hereinbefore made subject to the payment of any money towards such expenses shall neglect or refuse to pay his share or proportion of any such rate within the time appointed for that purpose, or at any time after such demand, the same shall be levied and recovered in the manner directed by this Act with respect to the previous rate.

CXXVIII. That if any valuer or surveyor chosen or appointed to act in the matter of any inclosure or other matter under this Act shall, before his duties shall be fully performed, refuse to attend to, or become by sickness or otherwise incapable to act in such matter, or by writing under his hand desire to be discharged from the office of valuer or surveyor respectively, or shall in the judgment of the Commissioners neglect his duties, or misconduct himself in his office, or become or be found incompetent or unfit to act as a valuer or surveyor under this Act, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, by order under their hands and seal, to remove him from the office of valuer or surveyor, as the case may be; and if any valuer or surveyor shall be so removed, or shall die, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, by order under their seal, to appoint a valuer or surveyor in his stead, and every valuer and surveyor so appointed shall have the same powers as if he had been chosen at a meeting of the persons interested in the land in manner hereinbefore directed.

CXXIX. That no valuer who shall have acted in the matter of any inclosure shall be capable of being a purchaser of any land within the parish in which the lands to be inclosed, or any part thereof, shall be situate, until the expiration of seven years after the confirmation of the award in such inclosure.

CXXX. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, having regard to the time and labour and expenses of the Assistant Commissioners and all other persons, if any, specially employed and paid by the Commissioners in or about any inclosure, exchange, division, partition, or other proceeding under this Act, by any order under their hands and seal, to order and declare that a sum, in such order to be mentioned, be paid to the Commissioners in respect to the salary, allowance, and expenses of the Assistant Commissioners and other persons, if any, so specially employed in or about such inclosure, exchange, division, partition, or other proceeding; and the Commissioners shall by such order declare such sum to be charged on the persons interested in the land to be inclosed, or to which such proceeding shall relate, in such shares as they shall think just, and shall appoint a time for payment thereof; and the same shall be raised in the same manner as the expenses of the inclosure, or of subjecting the land to the provisions concerning regulated pasture, are directed to be raised under this Act, and be deemed part of the expenses of the inclosure or matter aforesaid, or, in the case of an exchange, division, or partition, in the same manner as the expenses of such exchange, division, or partition, and when raised shall be paid to the Commissioners, who shall forthwith pay the same into Her Majesty's Exchequer, to be carried to the account of the Consolidated Fund.

CXXXI. Provided and enacted, That the several persons interested in the inclosure or other proceeding under this Act, and their respective agents, shall pay their own expenses whenever they shall attend any of the meetings to be held in the matter of any inclosure.

CXXXII. That the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner acting in the matter of any inclosure, or in any inquiry into the expediency or inexpediency of any proposed inclosure, where they or he may see fit, may order such expenses of witnesses, and of the production of any books, deeds, court rolls, and writings, maps, plans, and surveys, or copies thereof, and all other expenses (except the salary or allowance to any Assistant Commissioner) incurred in the settlement of any suit or difference, or in the hearing and determining any objection or matter whatever before the said Commissioners or any Assistant Commissioner, to be paid by such parties interested in the production thereof respectively, or in the event of such suit, difference, objection, or matter, or in any such inquiry, by or in such proportions as the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner shall think fit and reasonable; and the Commissioners may, when they shall see occasion, require such security to be given by persons making application for any inquiry under this Act, for the payment by such persons of the expenses of or occasioned by such inquiry, as the Commissioners may think fit.

CXXXIII. That it shall be lawful for the respective persons interested in allotments in severalty or allotments of stints or rights of pasture respectively to be made under this Act, being tenants for life or in tail, or for any other estate of freehold or inheritance, and also for the husbands, guardians, trustees, committees, or attorneys of any of the proprietors, being under coverture, infants, lunatics, idiots, or under any other disability or incapacity, or beyond the seas, or by the persons acting as such guardians, trustees, or committees, or attorneys respectively, and for the trustees or feoffees for charitable, parochial, or other uses, or the majority in number of them, in respect of any lands held by them in trust for any charitable, parochial, or other uses, (with the consent of the Commissioners, testified in writing under their hands and seal,) and for the incumbent of any ecclesiastical benefice, with the consent in writing of the bishop of the diocese and of the patron of such benefice, from time to time to charge their respective allotments with any money not exceeding, as to any allotments in severalty, 5l. per acre, towards their respective proportions of the inclosure expenses, and for securing the repayment of such money, with interest, to mortgage or demise the said allotments unto or in trust for any person who shall advance any money for any term of years, but so that every such mortgage or demise be made with a condition to cease or upon trust to be surrendered or assigned when the money thereby to be secured, with all interest thereon, shall have been fully paid, and so that in every such mortgage or demise which shall be made by or on behalf of any person entitled to any such allotment for the term of his natural life there be contained a covenant to pay and keep down the interest of the money to be secured during his life, in such manner that no person afterwards becoming possessed of such lands shall be subject or liable to pay any larger arrear of interest than for six months previous to the time when the title of such person shall accrue or commence; and every incumbent of a benefice by whom such mortgage or demise shall be made shall keep down the interest on the money to be secured, or on so much thereof as shall remain owing, and shall repay, in reduction of the principal, one thirtieth part of the money originally secured, at the expiration of the term of one year from the time of making such mortgage, and a like sum at the expiration of each succeeding term of one year, until the whole be repaid; and every such mortgage or demise shall be valid in the law for the purposes thereby intended; and every such mortgagee and his assigns shall have the like remedies in case of non-payment of the monies thereby secured as in the case of other mortgages of the like nature.

CXXXIV. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, on application made to them in writing by any of the proprietors of allotments to be made by virtue of this Act, or by any of the husbands, guardians, trustees, committees, or attorneys of or for any of such proprietors, being under coverture, infants, lunatics, idiots, or under any other disability or incapacity, or beyond the seas, or by the persons acting as such guardians, trustees, committees, or attorneys respectively, or by any of the said proprietors, being tenants in tail or for life, or by any trustees or feoffees for charitable, parochial, or other uses, or by the majority in number of them, or by any incumbent of an ecclesiastical benefice in right of which an allotment may have been made, and the bishop of the diocese and the patron of such benefice, to direct a sale of any part of any such allotment, for raising a sum of money sufficient to defray the proportionable part of the expenses which shall in such rates be charged upon such parties, and of the expenses of making and completing such sale: Provided always, that in all cases in which the monies so raised by any such sale shall not be equal to the money which might be borrowed or charged on such allotment as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the proprietor, or the person hereinbefore authorized to direct a sale on behalf of the proprietor, part of whose allotment shall be sold as aforesaid, to charge his allotment with any sum not exceeding the difference.

CXXXV. That such sales shall be made by the valuer, with the approbation of the Commissioners, in the same manner and subject to the same regulations as are hereinafter prescribed in respect of the sale of part of the land subject to be inclosed towards defraying the expenses of the inclosure; and every part of an allotment for which the full purchase-money shall be paid shall be conveyed by the Commissioners, at the expense of the purchaser, as he shall appoint, and shall be inclosed and sold by such purchaser in severalty: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall enable the Commissioners to convey any allotments set out by them as copyhold or customary as freehold, but such copyhold or customary allotments shall be held by the purchaser thereof by, under, and subject to the same rents, suits, and services as such allotment would have been held in case no such sale had been made.

CCXXXVI. That the receipt of the Commissioners shall be a sufficient discharge to the purchaser for the said purchase money; and such purchase money shall be applied by the Commissioners in or towards defraying the costs and expenses for raising which such sale shall have been made; and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the parties from whose allotments such sale shall have been so made respectively; and the shares of such of them as shall be tenants in fee simple shall be paid to them respectively, and the shares of the other proprietors of such surplus money shall be applied and disposed of in manner hereinafter directed.

CCXXXVII. That when any money is, under the provisions of this Act, directed to be paid for the purchase of any timber or wood growing on any land which shall belong to any tenant for life or in tail, or to any feeoffee in trust, executor, or administrator, husband, guardian, committee, or trustee, for or on behalf of any infant, idiot, lunatic, feme covert, or cestuique trust, or to any persons whose lands are limited in strict or other settlement, or to any person under any other disability or incapacity whatsoever, or to any corporation, not being legally and equitably entitled to sell and dispose of such timber and wood, it shall be lawful for the valuer out of such money to defray the proportion (if any) of the inclosure expenses which shall be charged upon the land, or any land held under the same title, on which such timber or wood actually grew, and also, with the approbation of the Commissioners, to defray the expense of any permanent improvement, such as building, subdividing, dividing, draining, or planting, and the like, which shall in the judgment of the valuer be proper to be made, and shall be made, under his direction, upon any land to be under the powers of this Act allotted to such parties.

CCXXXVIII. That if the surplus of any such monies, or the surplus of any monies to arise from the sale of part of an allotment for raising money for expenses, where the same shall not be paid to the proprietors under the directions hereinbefore contained, shall amount to or exceed the sum of 200*l*. the same shall, with all convenient speed, unless the Commissioners shall otherwise direct, under the provisions hereinafter contained, be paid into the Bank of England in the name and with the privity of the Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, to be placed to his account there ex parte the Commissioners, pursuant to the method prescribed by an Act, 12 Geo. 1. c. 32, intituled 'An Act for the better securing the Monies and Effects of the Suitors of the Court of Chancery, and to prevent the counterfeiting of East India Bonds and the Endorsements thereon, as likewise the Endorsements on South Sea Bonds,' and pursuant to the general rules and orders of the said Court, and without fee or reward, according to an Act, 12 Geo. 2. c. 24, intituled 'An Act to empower the High Court of Chancery to lay out upon proper Securities any Monies, not exceeding a sum therein limited, out of the common and general Cash in the Bank of England belonging to the Suitors of the said Court, for the Ease of the said Suitors, by applying the Interest arising therefrom for answering the Charges of the Office of the Accountant General of the said Court'; and shall, when so paid in, there remain until the same shall, by order of the said Court, made upon a petition in a summary way by the parties who would have been entitled to the rents and profits of the said land, be applied to the following purposes or any of them; (that is to say,)

The redemption or discharge of the land tax or of any debt or other incumbrance affecting the same land, or affecting other lands standing settled therewith to the same or the like uses or trusts:

The purchase of other land, to be conveyed or settled upon the like uses or trusts, or such of them as shall be then existing undetermined or capable of taking effect.

CCXXXIX. That in the meantime and until such application shall be made the said money may, by order of the said Court, to be made upon the like petition, be invested by the said Accountant General in his name in the purchase of 3*l*. per cent. consolidated or 3*l*. per cent. reduced Bank annuities, or of Government securities; and the dividends or interest of such annuities or securities shall from time to time be paid, by order of the said Court, to the parties who would for the time being have been entitled to the rents and profits of the lands so to be purchased, conveyed, and settled.

CXL. That in case the surplus of any such monies as aforesaid shall be less than the sum of 200*l*., and shall exceed or amount to the sum of 20*l*., the same shall, at the option of the parties who for the time being would have been entitled to the rents and profits of the said land, or their guardians or committees, in case of infancy, idiocy, lunacy, or other incapacity, with the approbation of the Commissioners, to be signified in writing under their seal, be paid into the Bank of England in the name and with the privity of the said Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, and be placed to his account as aforesaid, in order to be applied in manner hereinbefore directed; or otherwise the same may be paid, at the like option and with the like approbation, to two trustees, to be nominated by the said parties, who for the time being would have been entitled to the rents and profits of the said land as aforesaid, such nomination to be approved of by the Commissioners, and such nomination and approbation to be signified in writing under the hands (or common seal, as the case may be,) of the nominating parties, and under the seal of the Commissioners; and in any case in which such monies shall amount to or exceed the sum of 200*l*., the same, if the Commissioners shall so think fit and direct, shall in like manner be paid to trustees to be nominated and approved as aforesaid; and the money so paid to such trustees, and the dividends and produce arising therefrom, shall be by them applied in like manner as is hereinbefore directed with respect to money so to be paid into the Bank of England, but without obtaining or being required to obtain any order of the said Court touching the application thereof.

CXLI. That in case the surplus of any such monies as aforesaid shall be less than 20*l*. the same shall be paid to the parties for the time being entitled to the rents and profits of the said land, for their own use and benefit; or in case of infancy, idiocy, lunacy, or other incapacity, then such money shall be paid to their guardians, committees, or trustees, for the use and benefit of the parties respectively entitled thereto.

CXLII. Provided and enacted, That in case the valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure shall, under the instructions hereinbefore required in this behalf, proceed to raise all or any part of the expenses of the inclosure by sale of part of the land proposed to be inclosed, such valuer shall set out such parts of the land to be inclosed as he shall judge sufficient in value to defray the expenses aforesaid, and shall, from time to time as he shall find expedient, sell and dispose of the same by public auction or by private contract, with the approbation of the Commissioners; and the purchase monies to arise by such sale shall be paid into the hands of the Commissioners, or as they shall direct, and shall be by them applied in discharging the said expenses.

CXLIII. That upon every sale to be made by the valuer under the provisions of this Act the Commissioners shall sign and deliver to each purchaser a receipt for his purchase-money, which shall be a sufficient discharge for the same; and upon receipt of the whole purchase-money for any of the lands which shall be sold as aforesaid the Commissioners shall convey such lands, and the fee simple and inheritance thereof in possession, by conveyance under their hands and seal, to such uses and in such manner as such purchaser shall direct; and after such conveyance the premises conveyed shall be freehold of inheritance, and shall be held to the uses and in manner expressed by such conveyance; and any such conveyance may be to the effect set forth in the schedule to this Act, and shall be evidence of the regularity of the sale in pursuance of which such conveyance shall be made.

CXLIV. That all such purchase-moneys as shall be from time to time raised or received by the Commissioners by such respective sales as aforesaid shall, after payment of the charges and expenses attending such respective sales, be paid and applied by the Commissioners towards the expenses of the inclosure; and the respective purchasers or other persons paying the same shall not in any manner be liable to see to the application, or be answerable for any misapplication thereof.

CXLV. That the Commissioners, before authorizing or certifying the expediency of any inclosure, or determining any claim or matter, or approving any report or award, or in any other stage of the proceedings on any inclosure, or of the proceedings for subjecting any gated or stinted pasture to the provisions of this Act concerning regulated pastures, if they shall see occasion, may require notice to be given, in any such manner as they shall direct, to the person next in remainder, reversion, or expectancy of an estate of inheritance in any lands, or to any other person to whom they may think notice ought to be given, and may by themselves or by some Assistant Commissioner hear and determine any objection which may be made by the person so next in remainder, reversion, or expectancy.

CXLVI. That two copies of every confirmed award shall be made, and sealed with the seal of the said Commissioners, and one such copy shall be deposited with the clerk of the peace of the county in which the lands inclosed shall be situate, who is hereby required to deposit and keep the same among the records of the said county, so that recourse may be had thereto by any person interested in the premises, and the other copy shall be deposited with the church or chapel wardens for the time being of the parish in which the lands or the greater part thereof shall be situated, to be kept by them and their successors in office with the public books, writings, and papers of the parish, or shall be deposited with such other fit persons as the Commissioners shall approve; and all persons interested therein may have access to and be furnished with copies of or extracts from any such copy, on giving reasonable notice to the person having custody of the same, and on payment of 2s. 6d. for such inspection, and after the rate of 3d. for every 72 words contained in such copy or extract; and all such copies of and extracts from any such copy of any confirmed award as shall be furnished by the clerk of the peace shall be signed by the said clerk of the peace or his deputy, purporting the same to be a true copy; and every such copy and extract so signed, shall be received in evidence without further proof thereof; and every recital or statement in such confirmed award or any sealed copy thereof shall be deemed satisfactory evidence of the matters therein recited or stated.

CXLVII. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, upon the application in writing of the persons interested, according to the definition hereinbefore contained, in lands not subject to be inclosed under this Act, or in lands subject to be inclosed under this Act as to which no proceedings for an inclosure shall be pending, and who shall desire to effect an exchange of lands in which they respectively shall be so interested, to direct inquiries whether such proposed exchange would be beneficial to the owners of such respective lands; and in case the Commissioners shall be of opinion that such exchange would be beneficial, and that the terms of the proposed exchange are just and reasonable, they shall, unless notice of dissent to the proposed exchange shall be given, under the provision hereinafter contained, cause to be framed, and confirmed under the hands and seal of the Commissioners, an order of exchange, with a map or plan thereunto annexed, in which order shall be specified and shewn the lands given and taken in exchange by each person so interested respectively; and a copy of such order, under the seal of the Commissioners, shall be delivered to each of the parties on whose application the exchange shall have been made; and such order of exchange shall be good, valid, and effectual in the law to all intents and purposes whatsoever and shall be in nowise liable to be impeached by reason of any infirmity of estate or defect of title of the persons on whose application the same shall have been made; and the land taken upon every such exchange shall be and enure to, for and upon the same uses, trusts, intents, and purposes, and subject to the same conditions, charges, and incumbrances, as the lands given on such exchange would have stood limited or been subject to in case such order had not been made; and all expenses with reference to such order and exchange, or the inquiries in relation thereto, or to any proposed exchange, shall be borne by the persons on whose application such order shall have been made or such inquiries undertaken: Provided always, that no exchange shall be made of any land held in right of any church or chapel or other ecclesiastical benefice, without the consent, testified in writing, of the bishop of the diocese and the patron of such benefice.

CXLVIII. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, upon the application in writing of any number of persons who shall be separately interested in parcels of land not subject to be inclosed under this Act, or of land subject to be inclosed under this Act as to which no proceedings for an inclosure shall be pending, so intermixed or divided into parcels of inconvenient form or quantity that the same cannot be cultivated or occupied to the best advantage, but forming together a tract which may be divided into convenient parcels, and who shall desire to have the whole of such tract divided into convenient parcels, to be allotted in lieu of the old parcels, to direct an inquiry whether such proposed division and allotment would be beneficial to the owners of such lands; and in case the Commissioners shall be of opinion that the proposed division and allotment would be beneficial, they shall, unless notice of dissent from the proposed division and allotment shall be given, under the provisions hereinafter contained, cause to be framed an order for the division or allotment thereof accordingly, with a map or plan thereunto annexed, in which shall be specified, as well the parcels which the several persons on whose applications such order shall have been made were respectively interested in before such division and allotment, as the several parcels allotted them respectively by such order, and such order shall be confirmed under the hands and seal of the Commissioners; and a copy of such order, sealed with the seal of the Commissioners, shall be delivered to each of the parties on whose application division and allotment shall have been made; and such order of division shall be good in the law to all intents and purposes whatsoever, and shall in nowise be liable to be impeached by reason of any infirmity of estate or defect of title of the persons on whose application the same shall have been made; and the parcels of land taken by the persons interested under such division shall be and enure to, for, and upon the same uses, trusts, intents, and purposes, and subject to the same conditions, charges, and incumbrances, as the several lands which the persons taking the same shall have relinquished or lost on such division would have stood limited to, for, or upon, or been subject to, in case such order had not been made; and all expenses with reference to any such order, division, and allotment, or the inquiries in relation thereto, or to any proposed division or allotment, shall be borne by the persons on whose application such order shall have been made or such inquiries undertaken.

CXLIX. That where, under the powers of any inclosure Act, any allotment shall have been made in trust for the poor inhabitants of any parish, or of any class of such poor inhabitants, or in trust to be leased, used, or enjoyed to or by or upon any other trusts for the benefit of such poor inhabitants, or for the purposes of exercise and recreation, or for any other public or parochial purpose, and it shall appear to the Commissioners that such allotment, by reason of its distance from the dwellings of such poor inhabitants, or from the nature or quality of the soil, or otherwise, shall not be convenient or suitable for the purposes for which the same shall have been made, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, upon the application in writing of the churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the parish in which such allotment shall be situate, or of the trustees for the time being of such allotment, and of the person interested in land more convenient or suitable for the purposes for which such allotment shall have been made, and who may be willing to give such land in exchange for such allotment, in case the Commissioners shall be of opinion that such exchange would be beneficial to the poor inhabitants or other persons for whose benefit or more suitable to the purposes for which such allotment was made, to cause to be framed and to confirm an order of exchange of such allotment for such other land as aforesaid; and the provisions herein contained concerning exchanges shall apply to such allotment as if such churchwardens and overseers or trustees respectively were the persons interested in such allotment.

CL. Provided and enacted, That no such order of exchange or order of division and allotment as aforesaid shall be confirmed by the Commissioners until notice shall have been given by advertisement in three successive weeks of such proposed exchange or division and allotment, and three calendar months shall have elapsed from the publication of the last of such advertisements; and in case before the expiration of such three calendar months any person entitled to any estate in or to any charge upon any land included in such proposed exchange or division and allotment shall give notice in writing to the Commissioners of his dissent from such proposed exchange or division and allotment, as the case may be, the Commissioners shall not confirm an order for such exchange or such division or allotment, unless such dissent shall be withdrawn, or it shall be shewn to the Commissioners that the estate or charge of the party so dissenting shall have ceased.

CLI. That if any difference shall arise touching the said expenses in relation to any exchange, division, allotment, orders, or inquiries as aforesaid, or the share thereof to be paid by any person, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to certify under their hands and seal the amount to be paid by such person; and in case any person shall neglect or refuse to pay his share so certified to be payable by him, and upon the production of such certificate before any two Justices of the Peace for the county or other jurisdiction wherein the land shall be situate, such Justices, upon the nonpayment thereof are hereby required, by warrant under their hands and seals, to cause the same to be levied by distress.

CLII. That where any award already made and executed, or hereafter to be made and executed, in pursuance of any local Act of inclosure, or in pursuance of an Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 115, intituled 'An Act for facilitating the Inclosure of Open and Arable Fields in England and Wales,' shall not have duly distinguished the several tenures of all the lands thereby awarded or allotted, or of any other lands of which the tenure ought to have been distinguished in or by such award, or the different estates or titles for or under which any lands therein mentioned should be held, or shall not have duly distinguished the lands which after such award should remain subject to all or any tithes, and the lands which should be discharged from all or any tithes, or where by any such award an aggregate allotment shall have been set out and awarded in any case in which several and distinct allotments ought to have been set out and awarded, in every such case, and in every other case in which it shall appear to the Commissioners that inconvenience shall have arisen from inaccuracy, confusion, or omission in any such award, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, upon the application in writing of any person interested in the lands to which such award may relate, or of any person prejudiced by the inaccuracy, confusion, or omission in such award, to make such inquiries and take such evidence, by themselves or by an Assistant Commissioner, as they shall think fit, and by an order under their hands and seal to amend such award, and to distinguish the several tenures of the lands thereby allotted and awarded, and the different estates or titles for or under which the same should be held, and to distinguish the lands which should be discharged from all or any tithes, and the lands which should remain subject to all or any tithes, and to subdivide aggregate allotments into separate allotments, and to distinguish the tenures or titles thereof, or the lands or rights in respect of which they were respectively made, and generally to make or give such declarations or directions as may appear necessary to supply any omission and rectify any inaccuracy or confusion in such award; and such order of the Commissioners shall have the same force and effect as if the allotments, directions, and declarations therein contained had been duly made and contained in the original award, in addition, or, as the case may require, in substitution for the parts thereof to which such amendments may relate; and all expenses with reference to such order as last aforesaid, and of and consequent upon all inquiries in relation thereto, or to any proposed amendment of any such award, shall be borne by the persons on whose application such order shall be made or such inquiries undertaken.

CLIII. That where under any local Act of inclosure the powers and authorities originally vested in the Commissioner or Commissioners acting under any such local Act, or any such power or authority, shall not have been fully executed according to the intent of such local Act, and shall have been lost or become incapable of being executed by reason of the neglect or omission to execute the same, or to take some proceeding necessary to the due execution thereof within the time limited in that behalf by such local Act, or from any other cause whatsoever, it shall be lawful for the Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales, by any order under their hands and seal, to authorize the Commissioner or Commissioners appointed by or acting under the authority of such local Act to execute and to carry into effect the powers and authorities originally vested in such last-mentioned Commissioner or Commissioners, or in any previous Commissioner or Commissioners under such local Act, in the same manner as if such powers and authorities had not been lost or become incapable of being executed, or as near thereto as lapse of time and other circumstances may permit, and subject to such conditions and restrictions as the justice of the case may appear to require, and in and by such order to direct any act or proceeding to be done or taken in substitution for any act or proceeding which shall have been required or directed by such local Act, and which shall have become incapable of being done or taken by lapse of time or other circumstances; and all proceedings, adjudications, orders, directions, and acts taken, made, and done by the Commissioner or Commissioners under any local Act, in pursuance of any such order as aforesaid of the Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales, shall have the same force and effect as if the same had been duly authorized by such local Act; and the expenses of such order, and of the inquiries in relation thereto, shall be paid by the Commissioner or Commissioners acting under such local Act, and shall be deemed expenses under the inclosure by such local Act authorized.

CLIV. That where the powers and authorities of any local Act of inclosure shall not have been fully executed and performed, whether the same shall or shall not have been lost or have become incapable of being executed from lapse of time or otherwise, and there shall be no Commissioner acting under such local inclosure Act, or in case from any other cause any of the persons interested in the land to which such local Act shall relate shall be desirous that the powers and authorities of such Act should be executed, and the proceedings thereunder completed under the direction of the Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales, it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, by order under their hands and seal, upon the application in writing of the major part in value of the persons interested in the lands subject to be inclosed under such local Act, to appoint any person to execute the powers or authorities of such local Act, in the place of the Commissioner or Commissioners by such Act appointed or authorized to be appointed, and to complete the proceedings under the same; and it shall be lawful for the said Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales, by such order as aforesaid, or by any supplemental or other order, to authorize the person so appointed to execute and to carry into effect any powers or authorities originally vested in any Commissioner or Commissioners under such local Act, and which may have been lost or become incapable of being executed, and to give such other directions in relation thereto as under the provision hereinbefore contained might have been given to the Commissioner or Commissioners appointed by or acting under a local Act; and the person so appointed by the Commissioners shall and may complete the proceedings under such local Act, and make an award therein, and shall have such and the like powers and authorities in all respects as the Commissioner or Commissioners originally appointed by or acting under such local Act would have had if he or they had continued to act; and it shall be lawful for the Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales, by order under their hands and seal, to remove any person so appointed, and upon such removal, or in case any person so appointed shall die, or desire to be discharged from his office, before the proceedings in such inclosure shall be completed, from time to time to appoint any other person in his stead, with all such powers and authorities as aforesaid; and the expenses of such orders of the Commissioners, and of all proceedings in relation thereto, shall be expenses in the inclosure, and raised in the same manner as other expenses may by such local Act be authorized to be raised.

CLV. Provided and enacted, That the Commissioners shall not in any case proceed to amend any award under any local Act of inclosure, or under the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 115, or to authorize the execution of any power or authority under any such local Act which shall have been lost or become incapable of being executed as aforesaid, or to authorize any person to be by them appointed as aforesaid to execute the powers or authorities of any local Act in the place of the Commissioner or Commissioners appointed under such local Act, until notice of the application to the Commissioners to amend such award, or to authorize the execution of such powers or authorities, or to authorize any person to be by them appointed as aforesaid, shall have been given by advertisement in four successive weeks; and in case within two calendar months after the publication of the last of such advertisements one fourth part in number or value of the persons interested, according to the definitions hereinbefore contained, in the land to which the award so proposed to be amended, or the part thereof proposed to be amended, shall relate, or in the land to be affected by the exercise of such powers or authorities, shall give notice in writing to the Commissioners of their dissent from such application, the Commissioners shall not proceed further on such application.

CLVI. Provided, that in every case in which dealings shall have been had with such land, or some part thereof, on the faith of the inaccuracy, confusion, or omission which it shall be proposed to rectify or supply, or on the faith of such powers or authorities having been lost or become incapable of being executed, or on the faith of the powers or authorities of such local Act not being executed under the powers of such local Act, or the actual possession of the land, or the receipt of the rents and profits of the land, to which the award so proposed to be amended, or the part thereof proposed to be amended, shall relate, or, as the case may be, the possession of the land, or the receipt of the rents and profits of the land, to be affected by the exercise of such powers or authorities, would be altered by the proposed amendment of the award, or by the exercise of such powers or authorities as aforesaid, the Commissioners shall not proceed on such application, so far as respects the land with which such dealings may have been had, or of which the possession or the receipt of rents and profits would be altered as aforesaid, without the consent of the persons interested in such last-mentioned land, nor shall the Commissioners proceed in any case upon such application, so far as respects such last-mentioned land, in case within two calendar months after the publication of the last of such advertisements as aforesaid any person entitled to any estate in or to any charge upon such last-mentioned land shall give notice in writing to the Commissioners of his dissent from such application.

CLVII. That where by any award or agreement expressed to be made under the authority of the said Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 115, intituled 'An Act for facilitating the Inclosure of Open and Arable Fields in England and Wales,' any moors, commons, or waste lands, or other lands not subject to be inclosed under the provisions of such last-mentioned Act, shall have been inclosed or apportioned and allotted, and the lands so inclosed or apportioned and allotted shall be within the definition of lands subject to be inclosed under this Act, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, upon the application of any persons interested in any land so inclosed or apportioned and allotted, to make such inquiries in relation to such award or agreement as the Commissioners shall think fit; and if it shall appear to the Commissioners that the rights and interests of all parties interested in the lands expressed to be inclosed or apportioned and allotted by such award or agreement shall have been duly provided for and compensated thereby, or might be duly provided for and compensated thereby if such award or agreement were confirmed, or amended and confirmed, as hereinafter mentioned, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, by any order under their hands and seal, to confirm such award or agreement, or to amend the same, as the justice of the case and the rights and interests of the parties may appear to the Commissioners to require, and to confirm the same, with the amendments specified in such order, as the Commissioners shall think fit; and every award and agreement so confirmed shall, with the amendments, if any, which shall have been made by such order, have the same force and effect as a final award under the authority of this Act; and all expenses with reference to such order as last aforesaid, and of all inquiries in relation thereto, or to any proposed confirmation of any such award or agreement, shall be borne by the persons interested in the lands by such award or agreement inclosed or apportioned and allotted, in such proportions as the Commissioners shall direct: Provided always, that the Commissioners shall not confirm any such award or agreement, or proceed to make any inquiries in relation thereto, unless it shall be made to appear to the Commissioners that the persons making the application for a confirmation of such award or agreement represent at least one-third in value of the interests in such lands.

CLVIII. That where, under any local Act of inclosure, or under any award made under the authority of any local Act of inclosure, provision shall have been made for the election, from among persons having certain qualifications in respect of property or otherwise, of a number of trustees or other functionaries for making or maintaining works on the lands inclosed, or for any other local functions, and it shall appear to the Commissioners that by reason of alterations in the state of property or otherwise persons cannot be found according to the qualifications required by such local Act of inclosure to fill up the number of trustees or other functionaries required by such local Act, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, after such inquiries as they shall think fit, upon the request and at the expense of any persons interested in the works to be made or maintained, or in the functions to be performed by such trustees or functionaries, by order under the seal of the Commissioners to declare that any such lesser number, in such order to be mentioned, of trustees or other functionaries, may be from time to time elected for the purposes or be competent to exercise and perform the powers and functions in such local Act of inclosure required or authorized to be exercised by the number of trustees or other functionaries directed to be elected by such local Act, and such lesser number shall be from time to time elected, and shall be competent to exercise and perform such powers and functions accordingly.

CLIX. That penalties and forfeitures imposed by this Act, or which shall be imposed by the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner acting in the matter of any inclosure or other proceeding under or by virtue of the authority of this Act, shall be levied and recovered before any two Justices of the Peace for the county in which the land subject to be inclosed, or to which such other proceeding shall relate, shall be situate, and not interested in the matter in question, for which purpose it shall be lawful for any such Justices of the Peace, upon complaint made to them, to summon the party accused and the witnesses on both sides, and upon the appearance or contempt of the party accused to examine such witnesses upon oath (which oath such Justices are hereby empowered to administer), and upon such evidence to give judgment accordingly, and to condemn the party accused (proof of the accusation being made by one or more witness or witnesses as aforesaid) in such penalties and forfeitures as the offender shall have incurred, and to levy such penalties and forfeitures by distress, together with reasonable costs; all which penalties and forfeitures the application whereof is not particularly directed by this Act shall, and so soon as the same shall be levied, be paid and applied to and for such uses, intents, or purposes as the Commissioners in and by any writing under their hands and seal shall order, direct, or appoint.

CLX. That when in this Act any sum of money, whether in the nature of penalty or otherwise, shall be directed to be levied by distress, such sum of money shall be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the party liable to pay the same; and the surplus monies arising from such sale, after satisfying such sum of money, and the costs and expenses attending the distress and sale, shall on demand, be rendered to the party whose goods and chattels shall have been distrained.

CLXI. That no distress levied by virtue of this Act shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the warrant of distress or other proceeding relating thereto, nor shall such party be deemed a trespasser ab initio on account of any irregularity afterwards committed by him, but all persons aggrieved by such defect or irregularity may recover full satisfaction for the special damage in an action upon the case.

CLXII. That all notices by this Act directed to be given by advertisement shall be given by an advertisement to be inserted in some newspaper or newspapers printed or usually circulated in the county in which the land subject to be inclosed, or other land to which such notice shall relate, shall be situate; and all notices directed to be given on the church door shall be by writing under the hand of the party giving such notice, to be affixed on the principal outer door of the church of every parish and ecclesiastical district in which the land subject to be inclosed, or other land to which such notice shall relate, or any part thereof, shall be situate, on Sunday before divine service, or where in any such parish or ecclesiastical district there shall be no church, then to be affixed in some conspicuous place of such parish or ecclesiastical district on Sunday before ten of the clock in the forenoon; and all notices necessary to be given by the Commissioners or any Assistant Commissioner or valuer acting in the matter of any inclosure (the mode of giving which is not hereby particularly directed) shall be by either or both of the methods aforesaid, as the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner or valuer respectively shall think fit; and all notices so given shall be deemed sufficient notices to all persons concerning all matters and things to which such respective notices shall relate.

CLXIII. That no advertisement inserted by direction of the Commissioners or any Assistant Commissioner acting in the matter of any inclosure in the London Gazette or in any newspaper for the purpose of carrying into effect any provision of this Act, and no agreement, award, bond, or power of attorney made or confirmed or used under this Act, shall be chargeable with any stamp duty.

CLXIV. That if any person under the provisions of this Act shall wilfully give false evidence, or shall make or subscribe a false declaration for the purposes of this Act, or shall wilfully refuse to attend in obedience to any lawful summons of the Commissioners or an Assistant Commissioner or valuer, or to give evidence, or shall wilfully alter, withhold, destroy, or refuse to produce any book, court roll, or writing, map, plan, or survey, or any copy of the same, which may be lawfully required to be produced before the Commissioners or Assistant Commissioner or valuer, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

CLXV. That no action or suit shall be commenced against any Commissioners, Assistant Commissioner, Justice of the Peace, valuer, or other person, for any thing done under the authority of this Act, until two calendar months' notice thereof shall have been given in writing to the party against whom such action or suit is intended to be brought, or after sufficient satisfaction or tender of amends shall have been made to any party aggrieved, or after twelve calendar months shall have expired from the commission of the act for which such action or suit shall be so brought, or in case there shall be a continuance of damages then within twelve calendar months next after the doing or committing of such damage shall have ceased; and every such action shall be brought, laid, and tried in the county or place where the cause of action shall have arisen, and not in any other county or place; and if it shall appear that such notice of action or suit was brought before two calendar months notice thereof given as aforesaid, or that sufficient amends were made or tendered as aforesaid, or if any such action or suit shall not be commenced within the time before limited in that behalf, or such action shall be laid in any county or place other than as aforesaid, then the jury shall find a verdict for the defendant therein, or the Court, upon summary application by motion in any such suit, may dismiss the same against such defendant; and if a verdict shall be found for such defendant, or such suit shall be dismissed upon application as aforesaid, or if the plaintiff in such action or suit shall become nonsuit, or suffer a discontinuance of such action, or if upon any demurrer in such action or suit judgment shall be given for the defendant therein, then such defendant shall have costs, charges, and expenses as between attorney and client.

CLXVI. That no order, adjudication, or proceeding made or had by or before the Commissioners or any Assistant Commissioner under the authority of this Act, except as hereinbefore provided, or any proceeding to be had touching any offender against this Act, shall be quashed for want of form, or be removed or removable by certiorari or any other writ or process into any of Her Majesty's courts of record at Westminster or elsewhere.

CLXVII. That in the construction and for the purposes of this Act, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction, the word "person" shall mean and include the Queen's Majesty, and any body corporate, aggregate or sole, as well as an individual; any word importing the singular number only shall mean and include several persons or parties as well as one person or party, and several things as well as one thing respectively, and the converse; any word importing the masculine gender only shall mean and include a female as well as a male; the word "inclosure" shall extend to and include division or allotment; the word "inclose" and its conjugates shall include the meaning also of the words "divide" and "allot" and their respective conjugates; and the words "local Act of inclosure" shall extend to and include any local Act of which inclosure, division, or allotment of lands shall have been one of the objects or purposes; the word "manor" shall extend to and include any hundred, honour, or lordship; the word "land" shall mean and include all messuages, lands, and corporeal tenements and hereditaments; the word "county" shall include any riding or other like division of a county, and any liberty, city, or place having a separate commission of the peace; the word "parish" shall include any township or vill or hamlet having separate overseers of the poor, or extra-parochial district or place; the word "church" shall mean and include any chapel where there is no church; the word "schoolhouse" shall mean any parochial or charitable schoolhouse; the words "the Commissioners" shall mean the Inclosure Commissioners for England and Wales; and the words "Assistant Commissioner" shall mean the Assistant Commissioner appointed by the Inclosure Commissioners.

CLXVIII. That this Act shall extend only to England and Wales.

CLXIX. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present Session.

10. The acts of the Justices of the Peace for the county of Kilkenny heretofore done relating to the district herein mentioned shall be as valid as if the same had been part of the county of Kilkenny.
11. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 3 & 4 Vict. c. 103, and 3 & 4 Vict. c. 109, and that under the provisions of the said recited Acts certain parts or portions of the old county of the town of Drogheda and of the ancient liberties thereof, and certain parts of parishes or other denominations, are not included within the boundaries of the county of the town of Drogheda as defined under the said recited Acts, and have, for the purpose of grand jury presentments, and of criminal jurisdiction, and also of civil jurisdiction of the superior courts of common law in Dublin, become severally part of the county of Louth: And that of the said portion of the old county of the town of Drogheda not included in the boundaries of the present county of the town of Drogheda as defined under the said-recited Acts a certain part or district is situate on the south side of the River Boyne, and has under the said-recited Acts become part of the county of Louth, but lies wholly detached from the rest of the said county of Louth, from which it is separated by the River Boyne and by the present county of the town of Drogheda, and such part or district is immediately adjacent to the county of Meath; and it is therefore expedient that the said part or district should be disannexed from the county of Louth, and should be annexed to the county of Meath;—

It is Enacted,

1. That all such part or district of the old county of the town of Drogheda not included within the boundaries of the borough and the county of the town of Drogheda as defined under the said recited Acts as is situate on the south side of the river Boyne shall for all purposes of grand jury presentments, and of criminal jurisdiction, and also of civil jurisdiction of the superior courts of common law in Dublin, and to all intents and purposes, be part of the county of Meath, and shall be and be deemed and taken to be part of and annexed to the barony of Lower Duleek in the said county of Meath: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall alter or affect the said county of the town or borough of Drogheda, or the boundaries thereof, for any purposes of Parliamentary representation, or for any purpose relating thereto; and where it is or shall be necessary for any purpose of such representation to describe any residence or premises or place, in any oath, affidavit, or document, or otherwise, as within the county of the town of Drogheda, such residence, premises or place (if situate within such district hereby annexed to the county of Meath) may be described as within the parliamentary boundaries of the said county of the town of Drogheda.

11. Provided and enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to alter or affect, save as hereinafter mentioned, the liability, if any, of such place or district hereby annexed to the said county of Meath, to contribute to the payment of any debt or debts due by the county of the town of Drogheda to Her Majesty's Exchequer, or any instalments or annuity in respect of the same, or any instalments or sums under any presentment heretofore made by the grand jury of the county of the town of Drogheda to which respectively, or to a proportion of which, such place or district may have been liable to contribute before the passing of this Act, or to alter or affect any liability of such place or district under any award of any barrister acting under the provisions of an Act, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 32, intituled 'An Act to amend the Laws in force relating to Grand Jury Presentments in Counties of Cities and Counties of Towns in Ireland,' or under a certain other Act, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 71, intituled 'An Act to make further Provision in respect of Grand Jury Presentments in Counties of Cities and Counties of Towns in Ireland,' but that the liability of such place or district to contribute in respect of any of the foregoing matters shall remain in all respects the same as before the passing of this Act, save as hereinafter mentioned.

And after reciting that the portion or precinct of the old county of the town of Drogheda not included in the boundaries of the present county of the said town is now liable, under the provisions of the said two last-recited Acts, to pay a contribution to certain debts of the old county of the said town, as in the said Acts mentioned, and the same consists of two parts or districts, one whereof is and will continue to be situated in the county of Louth, and the other part or district is by virtue of this Act annexed to the county of Meath, and it will be necessary to ascertain the proportions in which the said two districts shall be liable to their joint contribution to the payment of any such debt or debts as aforesaid due by the old county of the town of Drogheda;—

It is Enacted,

111. That it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland to direct and order the Commissioner of valuation appointed under the Acts for the uniform valuation of lands and tenements in Ireland to ascertain and report, and such Commissioner of valuation shall thereupon ascertain and report, the respective proportion in which the said two districts so severed from the old county of the town of Drogheda shall pay their respective share of the contribution to be made by such two districts to the payments of such debts as aforesaid due by the old county of the town of Drogheda, and of such instalments, annuity, or sums payable in respect of the same by such two districts before the passing of this Act, and the said Commissioner shall transmit such his report to the respective treasurers of the counties of Louth and Meath, specifying such proportions, which thenceforth shall be deemed and taken to be the proportions in which the said district situate in the county of Louth and the said district hereby annexed to the county of Meath shall pay their respective shares of such contribution to such sums and payments as aforesaid; and such respective proportion of such contribution, and of such debts, instalments, annuity, sums, or interest as aforesaid, shall be presented from time to time by the respective grand jury of the county of Louth or Meath, as the case may be, to which such district shall be annexed, or, as the case may be, shall be apportioned, raised, and levied on and off such respective district as if the same had been duly presented by warrant of the respective treasurer of the county whereunto each such district is or shall be annexed, and paid over and disposed of in such and the like manner respectively, and subject to the like provisions, as in the said two last-recited Acts respectively contained and provided in relation to any such payments or contribution as aforesaid, as far as the same are applicable, and not inconsistent with this enactment.

And after reciting that certain arrears may be due and unpaid by some persons in the said district hereby annexed to the county of Meath in respect to such sums heretofore respectively payable under the provisions of the said two last-recited Acts or other Acts relating to grand jury rates or cesses: And that also certain persons in the said district are entitled, under the provisions of the last-recited Act, to certain credits in respect to sums heretofore paid by them;—

It is Enacted,

iv. That the treasurer of the county of Louth shall furnish to the treasurer of the county of Meath a written statement under his hand of all such arrears due as aforesaid by or credits as aforesaid which may be justly claimed by any person or persons, in respect of any lands or tenements situate in such district hereby annexed to the county of Meath; and it shall be lawful for the treasurer of the county of Meath from time to time to allow such credits to the parties entitled thereto, and also by his warrant to collect such arrears as aforesaid, and to pay over and dispose of the same in like manner as the same, if duly levied when due, should have been paid over and disposed of.

v. Provided and enacted, That the said place or district hereby annexed to the said barony of Lower Duleek shall not be liable to or bound to contribute to the payment of any debt due or instalment payable by the county of Meath or said barony of Lower Duleek under any presentment of the grand jury of the county of Meath made before the passing of this Act, or made for the repayment of any advances of public money made to such county or barony before the passing of this Act, but any such presentments heretofore made shall be levied as if this Act had not been passed.

vi. That it shall be lawful for the grand jury of the county of Meath, or for twenty or more cess payers of such place or district hereby annexed to the said county of Meath, to apply by memorial to the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland and council, that proceedings may be taken to ascertain in what proportion and according to what valuation the barony to which such addition shall be so made shall be assessed and apportioned to grand jury cess; and thereupon the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland and council shall from time to time make such order or orders as to them shall appear just touching the subject-matter of such petition, and in so doing shall settle and define the boundaries of the barony to which such addition shall be made; and the grand jury of such county of Meath, and also the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland and council, are thereby empowered, if they shall respectively deem fit, to employ a surveyor or surveyors to examine and report upon the circumstances and value of such barony or baronies, and such part or district as aforesaid, and to order the expenses of such examination and report to be paid; and the grand jury of such county which shall assemble next after such order shall and they are hereby required to present the amount of such expenses to be raised off such county, and paid out of the grand jury cess thereof, and the grand jury of such county are hereby empowered to present to be so raised and paid all such further expenses as shall be incurred by them, or by any former grand jury, and their officers, in or about the procuring of such annexation as aforesaid.

vii. That it shall be lawful for the grand juries of the counties of Meath and Louth respectively, for their respective counties, from time to time, with the approbation of the Judge or Judges of assize for the time being, to adjust or alter the proportions in which and the valuations according to which the place or district so added to such county of Meath, and every townland or other denomination or sub-denomination thereof, shall contribute to the grand jury cess of such county of Meath, and the proportions in which the barony or half barony or other district from which such place or district shall be so taken away shall so contribute to the grand jury cess of the county of Louth, or in which any barony, half barony, or district which shall not sustain any increase or diminution by such change ought to contribute by reason of such change: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the grand juries of such counties respectively, for their respective counties, to direct that such proportions and valuations as aforesaid shall be entered in the county books of such counties respectively, and thereupon the same shall be so entered accordingly, and shall, until further altered or adjusted by law, be the proportions and valuations according to which the warrant of the treasurers of such counties respectively shall be made with respect to those places to which such valuations or proportions shall relate: Provided always, that in every case in which any valuation made or to be made by virtue of an Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4. c. 84, intituled 'An Act to consolidate and amend the several Acts for the uniform Valuation of Lands and Tenements in Ireland, and to incorporate certain detached Portions of Counties and Baronies with those Counties and Baronies respectively whereto the same may adjoin, or wherein the same are locally situate,' or by virtue of any other Act or Acts, shall, under the provisions of such Act or Acts, be or have been in force and applicable to any such barony, place, or district, or, if this Act had not been passed, would be so in force and applicable, regard shall be had to such Act or Acts, and to any valuation made or to be made in pursuance thereof, in the warrant of the treasurers of such counties respectively, and in the levy of grand jury-cess of such counties respectively, or such barony and place or district as aforesaid.

And after reciting that under the provisions of the said recited Acts of 3 & 4 Vict. a certain place or district, being before the passing of the said Act part of the county of Louth, is locally situate and included within the boundaries of the borough of Drogheda as defined under the said recited Acts, and by reason thereof the said place or district became and is deemed and taken to be part of the county of the town of Drogheda, and of no other county, and by reason thereof became and is liable to contribute to the payment of a proportion of debts due and instalments or annuity payable by the said county of the town of Drogheda to Her Majesty's Exchequer, for advances of money theretofore made to the said county of the town of Drogheda, and to the payment of a proportion of sums to be assessed by the award of a barrister on the said county of the town of Drogheda, and on the precincts of the same, under the provisions of the said recited Acts of 6 & 7 Vict.: And that it is just that the said place or district so taken from the county of Louth, and annexed to the borough of Drogheda, should be exonerated from the payment of such debts and instalments, annuity, or sums of money so due and payable for sums advanced before such annexation as aforesaid;—

It is Enacted,

VIII. That the said place or district so taken from the county of Louth, and annexed to the said borough of Drogheda, shall be exempt and exonerated from the payment of any proportion of such last-mentioned debts, instalments, annuity, or sums of money, and that the amount of the assessments for the same from time to time to be made, from which the said place or district is hereby exempted and exonerated, shall be from time to time assessed upon and levied from the remaining portion of the borough of Drogheda.

And after reciting that the court of conscience held before the mayor of the town and county of the town of Drogheda, for determining causes in all small debts between party and party under the value of 10s., has been of great use, and will be of still greater advantage to the inhabitants if the jurisdiction of said court be extended to the determination of causes in all small debts between party and party under the value of 40s. ;—

It is Enacted,

IX. That the mayor of the said town and county of the town of Drogheda for the time being shall have full power and authority to hear and finally determine causes in all small debts between party and party under the value of 40s., and shall have and exercise in relation thereto all the powers, authorities, and jurisdictions which the mayor of said town and county of the town hath heretofore had and exercised in the said court of conscience.

And after reciting that under the provisions of the said recited Acts certain parts or portions of the old county of the city of Waterford and of the ancient liberties thereof, and certain parts of parishes or other denominations, are not included within the boundaries of the county of the city of Waterford as defined under the said recited Acts of 3 & 4 Vict., and have for the purpose of grand jury presentments, and of criminal jurisdiction, and also of civil jurisdiction of the superior courts of common law in Dublin, become severally part of the adjoining county of Waterford: And that a certain district of such old county of the city of Waterford not included within the boundaries of the present county of the city of Waterford as defined under the said last-mentioned Acts is situate on the north side of the river Suir, and has, as aforesaid, become part of the county of Waterford; but doubts having existed as to the true construction of the said last-mentioned Acts in respect thereto, the said last-mentioned portion or district situate on the north side of the said river has been, since the passing of the said recited Acts of 3 & 4 Vict., erroneously deemed to be treated as part of the county of Kilkenny, and the Justices of the Peace of the county of Kilkenny have under such erroneous impression exercised jurisdiction therein as if the same were part of the said county: And that it is just and expedient that the acts of such Justices done under such erroneous impression should be validated, and such Justices, and those acting under their authority in that behalf, should be indemnified;—

It is Enacted,

X. That all and every act or acts of any Justice or Justices of the Peace or of the assistant barrister of the county of Kilkenny, heretofore done in any matter or thing concerning or in anywise relating to or within the said district, from the time when the same was by law severed from the county of the city of Waterford, and the act or acts of any constable or other officer in obedience thereto, shall be and shall be deemed to have been as valid, good, and effectual in the law, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, as if said place or district had been at the time of such act or acts lawfully a part of the county of Kilkenny.

XI. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

[CAP. CXXII.]

AN ACT to amend an Act, intituled An Act to carry into execution a Convention between His Majesty and the Emperor of Brazil, for the Regulation and final Abolition of the African Slave Trade.

(8th August 1845.)

---

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Mixed commissions to proceed up to the 13th Sept. 1845 in adjudication of vessels taken before the 13th of March 1845.
2. Certain decrees and sentences of mixed commissions to be valid.

3. Part of 7 & 8 Geo. 4. c. 74. repealed.
4. Vessels engaged in the slave trade contrary to the said convention to be tried by Courts of Admiralty.
5. Indemnity to persons acting in execution of this Act.
6. Vessels condemned to be sold for Her Majesty's service, or broken up.
7. Reports of vessels condemned to be laid before Parliament.
8. Extending provisions of 5 Geo. 4. c. 113, 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 55, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 47, and 5 & 6 Vict. c. 91. to vessels seized under this Act.
9. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that a convention was concluded between His late Majesty King George the Fourth and the Emperor of Brazil, for the regulation and final abolition of the African slave trade, and signed at Rio de Janeiro on the 23rd of November 1826: And that by the said convention it was agreed between the high contracting parties to adopt, for the purpose and period therein referred to, the several articles and provisions of the treaties concluded between His said late Majesty and the King of Portugal on this subject on the 22nd of January 1815 and on the 28th of July 1817, and the several explanatory articles which had been added thereto, with the instructions, regulations, and forms of instruments annexed to the treaty of the said 28th of July 1817, and to appoint forthwith mixed commissions for adjudicating the cases of vessels detained under the provisions of the aforesaid convention of the 23rd of November 1826: And that such mixed commissions were accordingly appointed: And the passing of an Act 7 & 8 Geo. 4. c. 74: And that on the 12th of March 1845 it was notified by the Imperial Government of Brazil to Her Majesty's Government, that the British and Brazilian mixed commissions established at Rio de Janeiro and Sierra Leone would cease on the 13th of March; but that the Imperial Government would agree that the said mixed commissions should continue for six months longer, for the sole purpose of adjudicating the cases pending, and those which might have occurred before the said 13th of March: And that it has become necessary to provide for the adjudication of the cases of such vessels detained under the provisions of the said convention of the 23rd of November 1826 as were pending before the said commissions or either of them and remained undecided on the said 13th of March, and of the cases of such other vessels as may have been detained under the said convention previously to the 13th of March, but had not then been brought in for adjudication;—

It is Enacted,

1. That it shall be lawful for the said mixed commissions established at Rio de Janeiro and Sierra Leone to proceed up to the 13th of September in the current year in the adjudication of the cases of such vessels detained under the provisions of the said convention of the 23rd of November 1826 as were pending before them or either of them and remained undecided on the said 13th of March, and of the cases of such other vessels as may have been detained under the said convention previously to the said 13th of March, but had not then been brought in for adjudication, in the same manner and with the like powers and authorities in all respects as they possessed and exercised under the said convention and under the said Act of Parliament.

11. Declared and enacted, That any decree or sentence which may have been or shall be made or passed by either of the said mixed British and Brazilian commissions established at Rio de Janeiro and Sierra Leone, on any vessel or vessels captured and brought in before either of the said commissions from the said 13th of March last to the said 13th of September ensuing inclusive by any person or persons in Her Majesty's service acting under any such order or authority as aforesaid, is and shall be good and valid to all intents and purposes.

And after reciting that by the said convention of the 23rd of November 1826 it was agreed and concluded by and between the high contracting parties, that at the expiration of three years, to be reckoned from the exchange of the ratifications of the said convention, it should not be lawful for the subjects of the Emperor of Brazil to be concerned in the carrying on of the African slave trade under any pretext or in any manner whatever, and that the carrying on such trade after that period by any person, subject of His Imperial Majesty, should be deemed and treated as piracy: And that it has become necessary, for the purpose of carrying into effect the said convention, that so much of the said Act of 7 & 8 Geo. 4. as prohibits the High Court of Admiralty and the Courts of Vice Admiralty from exercising jurisdiction over vessels captured in virtue of the said convention shall be repealed, and that further provisions be made for the due execution of the same;—

It is Enacted,

111. That so much of the said Act as prohibits the High Court of Admiralty or any Court of Vice Admiralty in any part of Her Majesty's dominions from adjudicating on any claim, action, or suit arising out of the said convention, or as makes any provision for barring any such claim, action, suit, or proceeding in the High Court of Admiralty or any of the said Courts of Vice Admiralty, shall be repealed.

112. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's High Court of Admiralty and any Court of Vice Admiralty within Her Majesty's dominions to take cognizance of and adjudicate any vessel carrying on the African slave trade in contravention of the said convention of the 23rd of November 1826, and detained and seized on that account subsequently to the said 13th of March, by any person or persons in the service of Her Majesty, under any order or authority of the Lord High Admiral or the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral, or of one of Her Majesty's Secretaries of State, and the crew and cargo found therein, in like manner and under the like rules and regulations as are contained in any Act of Parliament now in force in relation to the suppression of the slave trade by British-owned ships, as fully to all intents and purposes as if such Acts were re-enacted in this Act as to such vessels and to such High Court of Admiralty or Courts of Vice Admiralty.

v. That all persons acting under any such order or authority of the Lord High Admiral or of the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral, or of one of Her Majesty's Secretaries of State, shall be freed and indemnified from and against all writs, actions, suits, and proceedings whatever, and all prosecutions and penalties, for being concerned in any search, detention, capture, or condemnation of any vessel which shall have been found carrying on the African slave trade in contravention of the said convention of the 23rd of November 1826, or in the arrest or detention of any person found on board such vessel, or on account of the cargo thereof, or anything done in relation thereto, and that no action, suit, writ, or proceeding whatever shall be maintained or maintainable in any court in any part of Her Majesty's dominions against any person for any act done under any such order or authority as aforesaid.

vi. That any ship or vessel which shall be detained under any such order or authority as aforesaid, and shall have been condemned by Her Majesty's High Court of Admiralty or by any Court of Vice Admiralty, may be taken into Her Majesty's service, upon payment of such sum as the Lord High Admiral or the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral shall deem a proper price for the same, or, if not so taken, shall be broken up and entirely demolished, and the materials thereof shall be publicly sold in separate parts.

vii. That every Court of Vice Admiralty shall from time to time as shall be required by the Lord High Admiral, or Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral, certify to the said Lord High Admiral or Commissioners the name of every ship or vessel condemned in such Court of Vice Admiralty under this Act, and the date of the condemnation thereof; and the said Lord High Admiral or Commissioners shall once in every year report to Her Majesty which of the ships or vessels condemned in the said High Court of Admiralty or in any Court of Vice Admiralty under this Act have been taken into Her Majesty's service, and which have been broken up, and in each case the amount of the price paid for the same or sum for which the materials were sold; and a copy of every such report shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks after the same shall be received, if Parliament be then sitting, or if not then within six weeks next after the next meeting of Parliament.

viii. That so much of the several enactments set forth in an Act, 5 Geo. 4. c. 113, intituled 'An Act to amend and consolidate the Laws relating to the Abolition of the Slave Trade,' and in an Act, 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 55, intituled 'An Act to reduce the Rate of Bounties payable upon the Seizure of Slaves,' and in an Act, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 47, intituled 'An Act for the better and more effectually carrying into effect the Treaties and Conventions made with Foreign Powers for suppressing the Slave Trade,' as relates to persons giving false evidence being guilty of perjury; to maintaining and providing for captured slaves pending adjudication; to condemning slaves as forfeitures to the Crown; to rewarding the captors with a bounty on the vessel as well as on the slaves; to authorizing the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, if in their discretion it shall seem meet, to order payment of one moiety of the bounty where slaves may not have been condemned or delivered over in consequence of death, sickness, or other inevitable circumstance; to the mode of obtaining such bounties; to authorizing the High Court of Admiralty to determine as to doubtful claims of bounty, and also on any question of joint capture; and to enforcing any decree or sentence of any Vice Admiralty Court; and also the whole of an Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 91, intituled 'An Act to amend an Act of the Second and Third Years of Her Majesty, for the Suppression of the Slave Trade,' shall be applied, mutatis mutandis, to all cases of vessels detained and seized for carrying on the African slave trade in contravention of the said convention.

ix. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. CXXIII.

AN ACT to authorize until the End of the next Session of Parliament an Alteration of the Annuities and Premiums of the Naval Medical Supplemental Fund Society.

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Amount of annuities payable by the society to widows or other claimants may be varied.
2. Duration of Act.
3. Act to be deemed a public Act.
4. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that under an Order in Council, bearing date the 13th of August 1817, the Naval Medical Supplemental Fund Society was established for the relief of widows of medical officers in the Royal Navy, and certain rules and regulations were thereby made and prescribed for the government, regulation, and management of the said society and the funds thereof. And that certain pensions and annuities have been and are paid and payable by, and premiums have been and are paid and payable to, the said society; and it is expedient to reduce or vary the amount and rate thereof, in order to prevent any encroachment on the funds of the said society:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall and may be lawful for the Lord High Admiral or the First Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty Board for the time being, as patron of the said society, and for the Secretary of the Admiralty for the time being as president of the said Society, to vary and reduce at any time, and from time to time, by writing under their respective hands, as the exigencies of the case may seem to them requisite; the amount of the annuity now or hereafter payable by the said society to widows or other claimants, provided that the amount of the annuities be not thereby rendered less than two-thirds of the amount which is now paid, and also to vary and increase the rate of premium which now is or shall be paid to the said society for or in respect of any annuity, so that the amount of the premium shall not exceed the rate established by the said Order in Council: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall render it obligatory on any person to commence or continue the payment of the full or reduced amount of any such premiums of insurance as afore-said.

II. That this Act shall commence and take effect from the passing thereof, and shall continue in force to the end of the next Session of Parliament.

III. That this Act shall be a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such.

IV. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present session of Parliament.

CAP. CXXIV.

AN ACT to facilitate the granting of certain Leases.

[See Appendix, p. xx.]

CAP. CXXV.—IRELAND.

AN ACT to continue until the Thirty-first day of July One thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and to the End of the then Session of Parliament, certain Acts for regulating Turnpike Roads in Ireland.

By this ACT, certain expiring Acts for making or repairing Turnpike Roads in Ireland are further continued.

83. Committee appointed by council to have same powers as committee of visitors.
84. Interpretation of Act.
85. Act not to extend to Bethlehem Hospital.
86. Act shall extend only to England and Wales.

By this ACT, it is Enacted,

I. That 9 Geo. 4. c. 40. shall be repealed, except so far as the said Act repealed any previous Act or Acts, and except as to any matters committed or done, or contracted to be committed or done, before the passing of this Act, which shall be as if this Act had not passed: Provided always, nevertheless, that all asylums which have been commenced under the said repealed Act shall be completed under the said repealed Act or this Act, and that all asylums which have been or shall be erected, completed, or established under the said repealed Act, or any Act thereby repealed, shall, after the passing of this Act, be regulated under and be subject to the provisions and directions of this Act.

II. That the Justices of every county and borough which has no asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof shall, after the passing of this Act, either erect or provide an asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or borough alone, or shall unite with some county or borough (whether such last-named county or borough shall or shall not have a lunatic asylum), or with be subscribers to some lunatic asylum theretofore established by voluntary subscription, in erecting or providing an asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or borough; and that if the Justices of any county or borough having no asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof shall not, within the period of three years from the passing of this Act, have erected or provided, or nited in or commenced erecting or providing, an asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State to require the Justices of such county or borough to erect or provide, or site in erecting or providing, such an asylum for the purpose aforesaid as Her Majesty's said principal Secretary of State shall think fit, and such Justices shall thereupon erect or provide, or unite in erecting or providing, such asylum accordingly.

III. That the Justices of every county and the Recorder of every borough which has no asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof shall, on or before the General or Quarter Sessions for each county or borough next after the 20th of December 45, direct public notice to be given by the clerk of the peace of such county or borough, and such clerk of the peace of such county shall, within ten days thereafter, give notice in some newspaper or newspapers commonly circulated in such county, of the intention of the Justices of the county to appoint at the then next succeeding General or Quarter Sessions, and the clerk of the peace of the borough shall in like manner give notice of the intention of the Justices of the borough to appoint, at a special meeting to be fixed in such notice, within three months from the date thereof, a committee of Justices to superintend the erecting or providing of an asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or borough alone, or to at and enter into an agreement with the Justices of some other county or counties, borough or boroughs, or with the subscribers to some lunatic asylum theretofore established by voluntary subscription, for the erecting or providing an asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or borough.

iv. That the Justices of every county which has no asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof shall, at the then next General or Quarter Sessions for such county, after such notice shall have been given as aforesaid, and the Justices of every borough which has no asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof, at the special meeting to be named as aforesaid, shall elect some Justices to be a committee either to superintend the erecting or providing of an asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or borough alone, or to treat and enter into an agreement with the committee or committees of Justices of any other county or counties, borough or boroughs, or with the subscribers to any lunatic asylum theretofore established by voluntary subscription, for the erecting or providing of an asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or borough: Provided always, that the committee of Justices to be so appointed for erecting or providing an asylum for the sole use of any one county or borough shall not consist of less than seven Justices, and that the committee of Justices to be so appointed to treat with any other committee or committees or subscribers as aforesaid for erecting or providing an asylum as aforesaid shall not consist of more than fifteen nor of less than three Justices: Provided also, that every borough in which, at the passing of this Act, there shall not be six Justices, besides a Recorder, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be annexed to and be part of the county in which it is wholly situated, or in case it be not wholly situated in any one county shall be annexed to and be part of such one of the counties in which it is situate as Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department shall, by writing under his hand and seal, direct; and the Recorder of every such last-mentioned borough shall, at the General or Quarter Sessions next after the 20th day of December in every year, nominate and appoint two of the Justices of such borough to be members of the committee of Justices of the county to which such borough is hereby or shall be annexed, in addition to the members of the committee for such county; and the committee of Justices of every county to which any borough is hereby or shall be annexed as aforesaid shall from time to time fix the sum to be contributed by such borough towards the expenses of and incident to the erecting, providing, and maintaining the asylum of such county according to the comparative population of such borough and county as stated in the then last returns made of the same under the authority of Parliament, and give notice thereof in writing to the treasurer of such borough; and such sum shall be raised by a borough rate to be made by the council of the borough, in like manner as is directed by an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 76, intituled 'An Act to provide for the Regulation of Municipal Corporations in England and Wales,' or out of the borough fund if the council shall think fit, and shall be paid by the treasurer of the borough to the treasurer of the asylum: Provided also, that where the subscribers to any asylum established by voluntary subscriptions enter into any agreement with the Justices of any county or borough under this Act, nothing in this Act contained shall prevent the reception into the asylum provided by such subscribers and such Justices under such agreement, or the discharge therefrom, of so many of any lunatics, other than pauper lunatics, as might have been received into the asylum so established by voluntary subscription if this Act had not been passed.

v. That it shall be lawful for the major part of the subscribers to any lunatic asylum supported by voluntary subscriptions already established, present at any meeting of subscribers to the same, which shall be called together by advertisement in a newspaper commonly circulated in the place where such asylum is situate, for the express purpose of making such election and appointment, to elect and appoint any number of subscribers, not exceeding five, to form a committee to treat and enter into an agreement with the committee or committees of Justices of any county or counties, borough or boroughs, elected or appointed as aforesaid, to unite such asylum supported by voluntary subscriptions with an asylum for such county or borough, counties or boroughs, under the provisions and for the purposes of this Act.

vi. That when two or more committees of Justices, so elected or appointed as aforesaid, shall agree to unite, either together or together and with any committee of such subscribers as aforesaid for the purposes of this Act, and where any one committee of Justices, so elected or appointed as aforesaid, shall agree to unite with any committee of such subscribers as aforesaid for the purposes of this Act, an agreement shall be entered into and signed by the said several committees, or the major part of such committees respectively, in the form or to the effect set forth in Schedule (A.) hereunto annexed; and such agreement, when signed by the major part of each or every such committee (and not before), shall be binding upon the county or counties, borough or boroughs, and subscribers, for or on behalf of which or whom the committees so signing such agreement shall have been respectively elected or appointed; and every such agreement shall specify the proportion in which the expenses necessary for carrying into execution the powers and purposes of this Act shall be charged and assessed upon the several counties and boroughs and subscribers so uniting, such proportions, as regards the several counties and boroughs, to be calculated by the said committees of Justices in proportion to the population of the said several counties and boroughs as stated in the then last returns made of the same under the authority of Parliament, and, as regards the subscribers, to be calculated by the committee of subscribers; and every such agreement shall also specify the numbers of every committee of the county or counties, borough or boroughs, or subscribers so uniting.

vii. That whensoever any agreement shall have been so entered into and signed as aforesaid, the committee for each county and borough so uniting shall report the same to the Justices of such county or the Recorder of such borough at the then next General or Quarter Sessions, and shall then and there deliver into court a duplicate of the said agreement, to be by the clerk of the peace of the same county or borough entered among the records thereof.

viii. That the Justices of every county and borough which has or shall have an asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof, but which has or shall have more pauper lunatics than such asylum will properly accommodate, and the Justices of every county or borough which has or shall have an asylum which any one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State shall, by writing under his hand and seal, declare to be inadequate or unfit for the proper accommodation of the pauper lunatics of such county or borough, shall erect or provide additional buildings or an additional asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or borough as the said Secretary of State shall direct: Provided always, that in case the asylum so declared inadequate or unfit as aforesaid shall be a workhouse, it shall be lawful for the said Secretary of State, if he shall think fit, upon the application in writing of the guardians or overseers of the union or parish to whom such workhouse shall belong, or of the major part of them, to direct such additional buildings or such additional asylum as aforesaid to be erected or provided by the said guardians or overseers; and every such workhouse which shall be so added to, and every such additional asylum which shall be erected or provided as last aforesaid, shall be and be deemed to be a lunatic asylum for such county or borough, and shall be included in and shall be subject to the provisions of this Act; and it shall be lawful for the guardians or overseers to whom such direction shall be given, and they are hereby authorized, to apply, or to assess, raise, and levy such sum or sums of money as may be necessary for the purposes aforesaid from such funds, or by such powers, ways, and means, as are now by law belonging or given to or vested in such guardians or overseers specially, or in churchwardens or overseers of the poor generally, in relation to the purchase or hiring of lands, or the purchase, building, hiring, enlarging, or maintaining of workhouses: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the Justices of any such county, in General or Quarter Sessions, or of any borough, with the consent of the Poor Law Commissioners for England and Wales, and of the guardians and overseers of the union or parish, to take and use a workhouse for the reception of all or any of the pauper lunatics of such county or borough who may be chronic lunatics; and every workhouse so taken and used shall thereafter cease to be a workhouse for other purposes whilst so used, and shall be and be deemed for all the purposes of this Act to be a lunatic asylum of such county or borough, and to be included in the provisions of this Act.

ix. That it shall be lawful for the committee of visitors for the time being of any asylum already erected for any county or borough or united counties or boroughs, and also for the committee of visitors for the time being of any asylum already erected for any county or borough or united counties or boroughs, jointly with any voluntary subscribers, to unite, under the powers of this Act, and in manner hereinafter directed, and either by way of purchase or by payment of any sum in the nature of rent, or otherwise, with any other county or borough, counties or boroughs, or any voluntary subscribers, for the joint use of any asylum already erected, or for the erecting or providing of additional buildings or an additional asylum for the pauper lunatics of such county or counties, borough or boroughs; and in every such case if the said existing asylum shall not afterwards be used by the united county or borough, counties or boroughs jointly, the expenses of and incident to the erecting, providing, and maintaining the said additional buildings or additional asylum shall be charged and assessed upon the several counties, boroughs, and subscribers so uniting as hereinbefore provided in the case of counties and boroughs none of which have an asylum; but if the said existing asylum shall afterwards be used by the united county or borough, counties or boroughs jointly, the committees of visitors of the several counties, boroughs, or subscribers, as the case may be, which shall be so united shall fix the sum to be paid by the county or borough, or each of the counties and boroughs, not then having any asylum, towards the expenses then already incurred in erecting or providing such asylum as aforesaid, and the same shall be paid by every such county or borough to the treasurer of such asylum, and shall be raised by such county or borough in the same manner as other monies are hereby directed to be raised by counties and boroughs respectively for the purposes of this Act, and shall be applied by the committee of visitors of the asylum in such manner as such committee shall think fit, according to the provisions and for carrying into effect the purposes of this Act; and in every case of any such union as last aforesaid an agreement shall be entered into according to the form or to the effect set forth in the said Schedule (A), and shall contain the same specifications as hereinbefore required in the case of an agreement for an union by counties and boroughs none of which has an asylum.

x. That every borough which is situate within a county having an asylum for pauper lunatics, and which under any previous Act now contributes to such asylum, shall, for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned, be considered as having an asylum for the pauper lunatics of the said borough: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for any such borough at any time hereafter, upon giving six calendar months' notice in writing, under the hand of the town clerk, in pursuance of a resolution of the council of such borough, to the clerk of the peace of the county, to separate itself, so far as it relates to the establishment of a lunatic asylum for such county and the maintenance of lunatics therein, from the county in which such borough may be situated, and from and after the expiration of such notice such borough shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed a borough not having an asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof: Provided also, that from and after the expiration of such notice, and until the withdrawal from such county asylum of all the lunatics from or belonging to any such borough, such borough shall be liable to contribute towards the expenses of such asylum, in the same manner and to the same extent as such borough would have been liable to contribute if notice of separation had not been given; and from and after the expiration of such notice, and the withdrawal from such county asylum of all lunatics from or belonging to such borough, then and in such case such borough shall not be liable to pay or contribute towards the expense of the establishment of such asylum, or the maintenance of lunatics therein, save only such proportion of the expenses of maintaining lunatics chargeable to the county in which such borough is situate which would have been chargeable upon such borough in case it had not so separated from the county.

xi. That in every county and borough for which an asylum has been already provided the present committee of visiting Justices, or of visiting Justices and subscribers, or of visitors thereof, shall continue to be the committee of visiting Justices or visitors thereof until the General or Quarter Sessions which shall be held next after the 20th of December 1845.

xii. That at the General or Quarter Sessions to be held next after the 20th of December in every year the Justices of every county, and at a special meeting to be held within twenty days after the 20th of December in every year the Justices of every borough, having for the time being an asylum (whether already erected or provided, or in course of erection, or ereafter to be erected or provided or, in course of being erected or provided) either for the sole use of such county or borough, or otherwise as aforesaid, shall elect some Justices of such county or borough to be a committee on behalf of such county or borough for the purposes of the said asylum, during the year then next ensuing the election; and in case of the incapacity, resignation, or death of any member of the said committee, the said Justices of every county at any General or Quarter Sessions for such county, or the Justices of every borough at a special meeting, may elect a Justice to be a member of such committee for the then remainder of the current year in the place of the member who shall have so become incapable, resigned, or died; and in the month of January in every year the subscribers to every lunatic asylum already erected by voluntary subscription, and which shall have been then united or be intended to be united with any county or counties, borough or boroughs, as aforesaid, under the provisions of any former or of this present Act, or the majority of such subscribers present at a meeting of which such notice shall have been given by public advertisement in some newspaper circulated within the place in which such lunatic asylum shall be situated, shall elect some of such subscribers to be a committee on behalf of such subscribers, for the purposes of such asylum, during the year then next ensuing; and in case of the incapacity, resignation, or death of any member of the said committee, a majority of the said subscribers present at any meeting called as aforesaid may elect a subscriber to be a member of such committee for the then remainder of the current year in the place of the member who shall have so become incapable, resigned, or died; and in every case in which there shall be or be intended to be an asylum for the sole use of any one county or borough, the committee of Justices elected for such one county or borough as aforesaid shall be the committee of Justices for the visitation, management, providing, and erecting of such asylum, house, or place, and shall be called "the committee of visitors;" and in every case in which any one or more county or counties, borough or boroughs, shall be united together, or with any subscribers as aforesaid, or together, and also with any subscribers as aforesaid, the said committees of such county or counties, borough or boroughs, and subscribers, as the case may be, shall form and be one committee for the visitation, management, providing, and erecting of the asylum for such county or counties, borough or boroughs, as the case may be, and shall be called the "committee of visitors." Provided always, that the number of Justices to be elected to be the committee of visitors of any county or borough having an asylum, house, or place for its sole use shall not be less than seven, and that the number of the Justices of every county and borough, and of every body of subscribers, heretofore united as aforesaid, to be elected to be the committee of visitors, shall be the number specified in the agreement entered into for effecting or regulating such union as aforesaid; and that the number of the Justices of every county and borough, and of every body of subscribers, which shall be hereafter united as aforesaid, to be elected to be the committee of visitors, shall be the number specified in the agreement entered into for effecting such union, but so that the number of Justices for any county to be hereafter united shall not be more than fifteen nor less than seven, or for any borough more than seven nor less than three.

XIII. That if any such Justices or subscribers as aforesaid shall in any year neglect or omit to make such election, or to fill up any vacancy which may have occurred as aforesaid, or there shall be any delay in making or filling up the same, then the committee of visiting Justices, or visitors lastly before appointed, or such of them as shall continue to act, shall be deemed and taken to be the committee of visiting Justices or visitors for the purposes aforesaid until such election as aforesaid shall have been made or such vacancy shall have been filled up.

XIV. That the several persons who shall at first the and at each general annual election be elected members of any committee of visitors shall, within one calendar month after their election, assemble at some convenient place, to be named in a notice previously given by two or more of such visitors or their clerk to the several members of such committee, and that the said visitors may adjourn the said meeting from time to time or from place to place, and meet where and as often as they shall think necessary; and the said visitors shall at their first meeting after their election elect one of their members to be chairman for the year, who shall preside at all meetings at which he shall be present; and in case of the absence of the chairman from any meeting the members of the committee then present shall elect one of such members to be chairman for the meeting, who shall preside at the meeting; and to constitute a meeting of the committee there shall be present not less than three members thereof, except for adjournment, which may be made by less than three; and every question shall be decided by a majority of votes (the chairman, whether permanent or temporary, having a vote), and in the event of an equality of votes on any question the chairman for the time being shall have an additional or casting vote; and every such committee of visitors shall appoint a clerk to such visitors for the purposes of this Act, at such salary or remuneration as such visitors shall think fit, and from time to time, if and when they shall think fit, remove such clerk or any future clerk, and in any such case, and in case of the death or resignation of any such clerk, and as often as the same shall occur, appoint a new clerk.

XV. That if any committee of visitors shall neglect to adjourn any meeting of such visitors, and whenever any circumstance shall render the meeting of such committee necessary or convenient before the time to which their meeting may have been last adjourned, and in any other case in which a meeting of such committee shall be desirable, it shall be lawful for the chairman of the committee, or any two of the visitors, or the clerk of such visitors, to convene a new meeting by a circular letter to each visitor, informing him of the time and place of such meeting, ten days at least before the same shall be held.

XVI. That every committee of visitors may sue and be sued in the name of their clerk; and that no action which may be brought or commenced by or against any such committee of visitors in the name of their clerk shall abate or be discontinued by the death or removal of such clerk, but the clerk for the time being to the visitors shall always be deemed plaintiff or defendant in such action, as the case shall be.

XVII. That the committee of visitors for any county or borough, counties or boroughs, for which an asylum or an additional asylum, or additional accommodation for pauper lunatics shall for the time being be required, shall, subject as hereinafter mentioned, procure, examine, and determine on plans and estimates of and contract for the purchase of lands and buildings (and in the case of buildings either with or without any fittings-up and furniture belonging thereto), and for building, erecting, altering, improving, restoring, furnishing and completing an asylum or additional asylum or additional accommodation for the pauper lunatics of the county or borough, counties or boroughs, for which such visitors, or such of them as shall not be elected by subscribers as aforesaid, shall be appointed, or for those of the same pauper lunatics for whom there shall not be proper accommodation in any existing asylum, or, with the consent of the said Poor Law Commissioners, and of the guardians or overseers of the parish or union, for adapting any workhouse for all or any of the same lunatics who may be chronic lunatics; and, subject as aforesaid, shall also contract for making, laying out, and completing the yards, courts, outlets, grounds, lands, and appurtenances to such asylum or additional asylum or workhouse, and also from time to time to purchase any lands or buildings for the purpose of enlarging or improving any such asylum, workhouse, or the yards, courts, outlets, grounds, land, and appurtenances thereto; and every contractor shall give to the clerk to such visitors, sufficient security for the due performance of the contract; and every such contract, and all orders relating thereto, shall be entered in a book to be kept by the clerk to such visitors; and when such asylum or workhouse and appurtenances, or (as the case may be) the additions to or alterations thereof, shall be declared to be completed, then such book shall be deposited and kept among the records of the county or borough, or, in the case of two or more counties or boroughs having united for the purposes of such contract, among the records of such one of the united counties or boroughs as shall have paid the largest proportion of the expenses of such contract; and every such book may be inspected at all reasonable times by any person contributing to the rates of such county or counties, borough or boroughs respectively, and also if any part of such expenses has been paid by voluntary subscriptions, by any of such voluntary subscribers; and a copy of every such book shall be kept at the asylum or additional asylum which shall have been erected or provided; and all lands and buildings so to be purchased as aforesaid shall be conveyed to such person or persons as the visitors by whom the same shall be purchased shall think fit, in trust for the purposes of this Act: Provided always, that the said visitors shall from time to time make their report to the General or Quarter Sessions of the county or borough, counties or boroughs, for which they, or such of them as shall not have been elected by subscribers as aforesaid, shall be elected, of the several plans, estimates, contracts, and purchases which shall have been agreed upon, and of the sum or sums of money necessary to be raised and levied for defraying the purchase monies and expenses thereof on the county or borough, or in the case of two or more counties or boroughs having united for such purposes, on each or every of such counties or boroughs, which plans, estimates, contracts, and purchases shall be subject to the approbation of the Court or Courts of General or Quarter Sessions of such county or counties, and of the Justices of such borough or boroughs, before the same shall be completed or carried into execution.

XVIII. That it shall be lawful for any committee of visitors to purchase and take a conveyance for the purposes of this Act from any person having absolute power to sell and convey, independently of this Act, any buildings, lands, or hereditaments, in consideration of a yearly rent-charge or annual sum to be limited to such person, his heirs and assigns, or as he or they shall direct, out of the buildings, lands, or hereditaments to be purchased, and which shall be conveyed to such committee of visitors, subject thereto, and to the usual powers of distress and entry for securing the same.

XIX. That it shall be lawful for any committee of visitors, instead of purchasing any buildings, lands, or hereditaments which they are hereby authorized to purchase, to take a lease thereof for any absolute term of not less than sixty years at such annual rent and under such covenants as the said committee of visitors shall think fit.

XX. That it shall be lawful for the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues, by and with the consent in writing of the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, and for Her Majesty, by grant signed by the Chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, and for the council of the duchy of Cornwall, by the lord warden of the Stannaries, in manner required by law, and for the guardians and overseers of the poor of any parish or union of parishes under the direction and with the approbation of the Poor Law Commissioners for England and Wales, and for the visitors or trustees of any building now used or hereafter to be used as an asylum for pauper lunatics, or of any land held therewith, and for any lay or ecclesiastical corporation, aggregate or sole, and for any feoffees or trustees to charitable or other uses, and for any person beneficially seised or entitled in possession as tenant in fee simple, or in fee tail general, or special, or for his own life, or for years determinable on his own life (such estate for life or years not being subject to any rent), or for any term of years in gross, whereof not less than four hundred shall be unexpired, and subject to no equity of redemption or rent, except a nominal rent, and for any married woman entitled or interested as aforesaid to her separate use, whether with or without any restriction as to anticipation, and for the guardian, trustee, husband, or committee of any person so seised or entitled, who shall be an infant, married woman not separately entitled, lunatic, or under any other disability, to dispose of, by way of absolute sale, or in exchange for any buildings, lands, or other hereditaments, any lands, buildings, or other hereditaments for the purpose of the same being used or converted into an asylum for the pauper lunatics or any of the pauper lunatics of any county or borough, counties or boroughs, either alone or together with any other lunatics, or being used as the site of any such asylum, or of being occupied therewith, or for any other purpose relating to the custody, accommodation, or employment of pauper lunatics to be received into such asylum, which the visitors thereof may approve of, with the rights, easements, and appurtenances, and to convey the same and the fee simple and inheritance thereof unto such person or persons as shall be named by the said committee of visitors, and in such manner as the said committee of visitors may direct, and to accept or give any monies by way of equality of exchange.

XXI. That all money which shall be agreed to be paid to any corporation, or to any trustee, guardian, or committee for or on behalf of any infant, ward, lunatic, married woman, or other person under disability, or to any person not having power to sell except under the provisions hereinbefore contained, for the purchase or equality of exchange of hereditaments as aforesaid, shall, in case the same shall exceed the sum of 50*l*., and there shall be no person capable of giving a sufficient discharge for the same, be paid by the said committee of visitors into the Bank of England in the name and with the privy of the Accountant General of the Court of Chancery, to be placed to his account to the credit of the parties who shall be so interested in the said hereditaments, describing them, subject to the order of the said Court of Chancery, which said Court, on the petition of or motion on behalf of any corporation or person making claim to any such money, is hereby empowered summarily to order the investment of such money in the purchase of real estates to be settled to the same uses and upon the same trusts as the lands so sold were previously subject to, or in the public funds, and the distribution of the rents and dividends thereof respectively, according to the respective interests of the claimants thereof, and to make such other order in the premises as to the Court shall seem reasonable; and the cashier of the Bank of England who shall receive such money shall give a receipt to the party paying the same, specifying for what the same is received, which receipt shall be to all intents and purposes a sufficient discharge; but such money, in case the same shall not exceed the sum of 50*l*., shall be paid to the party or parties by whom the sale or exchange shall be made, for his or their own absolute benefit.

XXII. That in case of any doubt or question of title to any money paid into the Bank of England by virtue of this Act or the securities on which the same may be invested, or the dividends or interest thereof, the corporation or person who shall have been in the possession of such hereditaments, interests, or incumbrances at the time of such purchase or exchange, and persons claiming under them, shall be deemed and taken to be lawfully entitled to such hereditaments, interests, or incumbrances until the contrary shall be shewn to the satisfaction of the said Court of Chancery, and the securities and principal and interest monies shall be applied and disposed of accordingly.

XXIII. That in case of such purchase or exchange, payment into the Bank of England, and application to the Court of Chancery as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Court to order the expenses attending such purchase or exchange payment, and application, or any part thereof, to be paid by the said visitors, who shall accordingly pay the same when and as the said Court shall direct, and the money so paid shall be deemed part of the expenses of such purchase or exchange, and be paid accordingly as hereinbefore is provided.

xxiv. That the provisions hereinbefore contained shall apply to lands, buildings, and other hereditaments of copyhold or customary tenure, and that whenever any contract shall be entered into by any visitors respecting any lands, buildings, or other hereditaments of copyhold or customary tenure, it shall be lawful for such visitors to direct that the actual value of such lands, buildings, or other hereditaments (allowing in such valuation for any fine, heriot, or customary due, payment, or rent, or any service capable of being valued in respect of such lands or buildings or other hereditaments), and also the value of such lands, buildings, or other hereditaments, considered as lands, buildings, or hereditaments held in fee simple, free from incumbrances, shall be ascertained by such means as they shall think fit, and that the difference in such values, when so ascertained, shall be paid to or invested for the use and benefit of the lord of the manor of which such lands or buildings or other hereditaments shall be parcel, or such other person as would be entitled to the fines payable upon death or alienation of the same, or to such heriot, dues, payments, rent, or service respectively; and upon and from the making of such payment or investment such lands or buildings or other hereditaments shall thenceforth be deemed enfranchised, and for ever discharged from every fine, heriot, due, payment, rent, suit, or service, and shall thenceforth be and remain of the tenure of free and common socage: Provided always, that if any such lord of the manor or other person be under any legal disability, the powers and provisions hereinbefore contained enabling persons under disability to convey or otherwise dispose of and deal with property, and for the payment and application of the purchase-money, shall apply to such lord of the manor or other person, and the said difference in value hereinbefore directed to be paid to him or invested for his use and benefit: Provided also, that if such lord of the manor or other person be dissatisfied with the result of such valuations, and shall, within seven days after tender made to him of the amount of the said difference in value, or after notice left at his place or last known place of residence, or with his known agent, of such amount being ready to be paid to him or invested as aforesaid, send notice by the post to the said visitors of such dissatisfaction, it shall be lawful for the visitors to direct further valuations to be made, at or within such period as they may see fit, by two valuers, one to be named by the visitors and the other by such lord of the manor or other person, which two persons so named shall, previously to their entering on their valuations, name a third valuer or umpire to be referred to in case they disagree, and the award of such two first-named valuers, or, if they disagree, of their umpire, shall be binding on all parties; and on payment or investment, under the provisions of this Act, of the difference of such last-mentioned valuations, such lands, buildings, and other hereditaments shall thenceforth be deemed enfranchised and discharged in manner aforesaid, and be and remain of the tenure of free and common socage: and when and so soon as any such enfranchisement as aforesaid shall have been made it shall be lawful for the steward of the manor whereof such lands, buildings, or hereditaments were parcel, and he is hereby required, on the receipt of a certificate under the hand and seal of the clerk of the said visitors of such enfranchisement having been effected, to enter such certificate on the rolls or books of the said manor, and to furnish a copy of such entry, written on parchment, to the said visitors or their clerk, or to such person or persons as they or he may direct, and to certify the same to be a true copy under his hand; and such certificate, or a copy thereof, under the hand and seal of the clerk of the visitors, shall thenceforth be evidence of such enfranchisement.

xxv. That in all future rates, taxes, and levies to be made for any parish or place in which any lands, buildings, or hereditaments already purchased or to be purchased, under the provisions of this or any former Act, for the purposes of any asylum, shall be situate, such land, buildings, or hereditaments, with or without any buildings or additional building to be erected thereon, shall not be assessed to any such rates, taxes, or levies at a higher value and more improved rent than the value or rent at which the same were assessed at the time of such purchase, nor shall any building which under this or any former Act has been or shall be erected or purchased for the purposes of an asylum be assessed to any window tax.

xxvi. That the committee of visitors of every asylum may, of their own authority, from time to time order all such ordinary repairs as may be necessary for such asylum, and if such asylum shall belong to one county or borough only they shall cause the expense of such repairs to be paid by making an order upon the treasurer of such county or borough for the payment thereof, but if such asylum shall belong to one county or borough or to two or more counties or boroughs united together with or separate from any voluntary subscribers, they shall apportion the expense of such repairs, or so much thereof as shall not be raised by voluntary subscription, between or among such counties or boroughs respectively, in respect to any asylum already erected in the proportion in which each county and borough has contributed to the erection thereof, and in respect to any asylum to be hereafter erected in the same proportions as hereinbefore directed with regard to erecting or providing such asylum, and shall cause the proportion of each county or borough to be paid by making an order upon the treasurer thereof for the payment of the proportion to be paid by such county or borough, and every such treasurer shall immediately discharge the same out of any money of such county or borough then in his hands, or which may thereafter come to his hands, not specifically appropriated to any other purpose, and the same may be recovered from him for the benefit of such asylum by the treasurer or clerk thereof, together with all costs and expenses, by an action in any of Her Majesty's courts at Westminster: Provided always, nevertheless, that no order for any repairs, or for the payment of any money which shall exceed the sum of 400*l.*, shall be made, unless due notice of the meeting at which the same shall be ordered shall have been previously given according to the rules and regulations made by the visitors for the time being, nor unless three visitors shall concur in and sign such order.

xxvii. That in the erecting and providing of every asylum hereafter to be erected or provided for the reception of pauper lunatics, and also in enlarging the same or any asylum already erected, regard shall be had to the number of lunatics to be provided for therein who shall be or be deemed curable or dangerous; and in order to prevent such lunatics being excluded from admission into such asylum by reason of the admission or accumulation therein of chronic or incurable lunatics, some separate or additional building shall be provided for chronic or incurable lunatics whenever by reason of the increase in numbers of lunatics the asylum shall be insufficient for the accommodation of all lunatics entitled to be received therein; and in order to secure the immediate admission into every such asylum of all lunatics deemed curable or dangerous a sufficient number of such chronic or incurable lunatics shall from time to time be transferred from such asylum to such separate or additional building to be provided as aforesaid.

XXVIII. That every committee of visitors shall submit all proposals and agreements for uniting counties and boroughs and other asylums for the purposes of this Act, and all proposals for building or providing asylums, or the buildings, yards, outlets, or appurtenances thereto, or additional accommodation for pauper lunatics, and all contracts and all plans which may be intended to be adopted for such asylums, accommodation, and premises, to the Commissioners in Lunacy, who shall make such inquiries in reference thereto, and to the lunatics to be provided for, as they shall deem proper, and shall report thereon in writing to one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State; and the estimates of the costs and expenses of carrying into execution such contracts for any of the purposes of this Act, in reference to the purchase of land, or the building or providing any asylum or additional asylum or accommodation for pauper lunatics, shall be submitted to Her Majesty's said Secretary of State; and no such proposals, agreements, contracts, estimates, or plans shall be accepted, executed, or carried into effect until the same shall be approved of by the said Secretary of State by writing under his hand and seal.

XXIX. That it shall be lawful for every committee of visitors to contract with the proprietor of any house for the time being licensed for the reception of lunatics for the care and maintenance of the whole or of a portion of the pauper lunatics of the county or counties, borough or boroughs, or any of them respectively, for which such committee shall be acting, or for the use and occupation of all or any part of the licensed house and premises of such proprietor, at such sum, either in gross or by way of annual or other periodical payment or rent, and under and subject to such terms, stipulations, and conditions, as such visitors shall think fit; and every such sum shall be paid out of the same monies or funds, and in the same manner, as the monies which would be paid for the maintenance of such lunatics if they were maintained in an asylum provided by such county or counties, borough or boroughs, under the provisions of this or some former Act of Parliament: Provided always, that every such last-mentioned contract shall be submitted to the Commissioners in Lunacy, and shall be approved by one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State by writing under his hand and seal, and that no such contract shall be made for any longer period than for the term of five years, and that every such contract shall be made to determine on such house ceasing to be duly licensed for the reception of lunatics: Provided also, that no such contract shall, during the term for which it shall be made, exempt any county or borough from the duty and obligation of erecting or providing, or uniting in erecting or providing, an asylum or additional asylum as required by this Act: Provided also, that every licensed house with the proprietor of which any committee shall so contract as last aforesaid shall be subject to the visitation required by this Act, and to all rules and regulations which shall from time to time be made for the management thereof by the committee of visitors with whom any such contract shall be made, and also subject to such visitations, rules and regulations as the same licensed house would have been subject to if no such contract had been made.

XXX. That it shall be lawful for every committee of visitors, with the consent of the majority of the visitors of each county and borough which is united, and with the previous consent of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State under his hand and seal, to determine and dissolve any union of any counties or boroughs, either together, or together and with any subscribers, whether such union shall have been formed under this Act, or under the Act hereby repealed, or under any former Act, and upon such dissolution, to divide and allot the lands, buildings, hereditaments, chattels, monies, and effects of or belonging to such union between or among the county or counties, borough or boroughs, and subscribers, if any, between which or whom such union shall have existed, in the proportions in which they shall respectively have contributed thereto or shall be interested therein, or in such other proportions and manner as the said visitors, with the approbation of the said Secretary of State, shall think fit; and if on any such division or allotment there cannot be conveniently allotted to any county or borough or subscribers the proper proportion of such county, borough, or subscribers in the lands, buildings, hereditaments, chattels, monies, and effects of such union, there shall be paid to such county, borough, or subscribers such sum of money as the said visitors, with the approbation of the said Secretary of State, may direct, in full or in part satisfaction, as the case may require, of the aforesaid proportion of such county, borough, or subscribers; and every such sum of money shall be raised by the county or counties, borough or boroughs, to or between or among which the lands, buildings, hereditaments, monies, chattels, and effects of the said union shall be allotted (if more than one in such shares as the said visitors, with the approbation of the said Secretary of State, shall think fit), in the same manner and by the same means as other monies are appointed to be raised by counties or boroughs for the purposes of this Act.

XXXI. That it shall be lawful for every committee of visitors, with the previous consent of one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State under his hand and seal, to sell, either by public auction or private contract, and subject to any conditions, by houses, buildings, and lands, or parts of houses, buildings, or lands, which shall have belonged to and been used as or together with an asylum by the county or counties, borough or boroughs, and subscribers (if any), by whom respectively such committee shall have been elected as aforesaid, or any of the same counties, boroughs, or subscribers respectively; and every conveyance of such houses, buildings, and lands which shall be executed by the persons in whom the same shall then be vested as trustees, or by any three of the members of the committee of visitors who shall sell the same, shall be effectual to convey the same, for all the estate or interest then vested in such trustees, to the purchasers thereof respectively; and the receipt of any three of the committee of visitors who shall sell the same for the purchase-mones shall be a sufficient charge for the same; and the monies which shall be received from any such sale, in case the same shall be made by a committee of visitors of any one county or borough alone, shall be paid to the said committee of visitors, and be applied in carrying into execution the powers and purposes of this Act, or to the treasurer of such county or borough, and be applied for the general purposes thereof, or otherwise as the Justices of such county or borough shall, at some General or Quarter Sessions after the payment thereof, direct; but in case the said sale shall be made by a committee of visitors of any county or borough united with any other county or borough or counties or boroughs, or with any subscribers, the monies which shall be so received shall be paid to the treasurer of the county, borough, or subscribers to which or to whom the property sold shall have belonged, in case it shall have belonged to any one of them, or if the same shall have been the joint property of more than one county or borough, or of any county or counties, borough or boroughs, together with any subscribers, then to the respective treasurers of such county or counties, borough or boroughs, and subscribers, in the proportions in which they shall have been respectively interested in the property sold; and such monies shall be held and applied by every such treasurer, in the case of a county or borough, as part of the general rates or funds of such county or borough, and in the case of any subscribers, as the majority of such subscribers present at any meeting convened for that purpose shall direct.

xxxii. That no visitor shall have or take or be capable of having or taking any interest or concern whatsoever, either in his own name or in the name of any other person, in any contract or agreement to be made under the authority of this Act, or in relation to the premises, or shall, for any design or plan he may deliver or produce, receive any benefit or emolument whatever.

xxxiii. That in order to pay and defray the monies, costs, and expenses which shall be or shall become payable by any county or borough for any of the purposes of this Act, or the said Act hereby repealed, the Justices of every such county, at any General or Quarter Sessions for the same, may and shall assess and tax a general county rate or rates upon such county, and may and shall fix a sum or rate to be contributed by all places whatsoever within such county, (other than any borough being within such county, or by this Act for the purposes thereof annexed thereto,) and whether such places shall or shall not be liable to contribute to an ordinary county rate; and the council of every borough may and shall assess a general borough rate in the nature of a county rate upon such borough; and the said rates shall be collected, levied, and recovered in the same manner, and by the same powers, authorities, ways, and means, and under the same penalties, as any ordinary rate for such county or borough respectively may by law be collected, levied, and recovered; and the monies, costs, and expenses to be paid or contributed by any county or borough for the purposes of this Act shall be paid by the treasurer of such county or borough, out of the rates aforesaid, to the treasurer of the asylum to which such county or borough shall, either alone or jointly, pay or contribute: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the town council of any borough, if they shall think fit, to direct that any monies which shall become payable for the purposes of this Act, or any part thereof, shall be paid out of the borough fund of such borough, and such monies shall be paid by the treasurer of such borough out of such fund accordingly.

xxxiv. That when it shall appear by the report in writing under the hands of any two members of the committee of visitors, elected and appointed under this Act or the said Act hereby repealed, that the monies, costs, or expenses incurred or to be incurred or paid by any county or borough for carrying into effect any of the purposes of this Act or the said Act hereby repealed, and whether the same shall be wholly or only in part incurred, will exceed the sum of 5,000*l.*, and in the case of any city, town, parish, place, or district by this Act annexed to a county for the purposes hereof will exceed the sum of 2,000*l.*, then and in such case it shall be lawful for the Justices of every such county in General or Quarter Sessions assembled, or the major part of them, such major part not being less than five, and for the council of every such borough, as the case may be, from time to time to borrow and take up on mortgage of all or any of the rates to be made under the authority of this Act for such county or borough, or on mortgage of all or any such rates, together with all other rates or funds, or any of them, of the same county or borough, all or any of the money required for paying and defraying the monies, costs, and expenses which it shall appear by the said report have been or are to be incurred or paid by such county or borough as aforesaid; and such money may be so raised in any sum or sums, of not less than 500*l.* each, at any rate of interest not exceeding 5*l.* per cent. per annum; and every such mortgage may be made by an instrument in the form contained in the Schedule (B.) hereunto annexed, or to that or the like effect, and shall be executed in the case of a county by the chairman and two or more other Justices present at the time of making such mortgage, and in the case of a borough by affixing the common seal of the borough thereto; and every such mortgage is hereby declared to be evidence that such report has been made as is hereinbefore required, and shall be effectual for securing to the person advancing the sum of money in such mortgage expressed to be advanced, his executors, administrators, and assigns, the repayment of such sum of money, with interest for the same after such rate, and at such time, and in such manner as in such mortgage shall be provided; and the said mortgages shall be numbered in the order of succession in which they shall be granted; and copies or extracts of all such mortgages shall be kept by the clerk of the peace or other proper officer having the custody of the records of the Quarter Sessions of such county, or of the records of such borough, as the case may be; and every person to whom any such mortgage shall be made, his executors or administrators, is hereby empowered, by indorsing his or their name or names on such mortgage, to transfer the same, and his and their right to the principal money and interest thereby secured, unto any person; and every such assignee, his executors or administrators, may in like manner transfer the same again, and so toties quoties; and the person to whom such mortgage or any such transfer thereof shall be made, his executors and administrators, shall be a creditor or creditors upon the rates and funds thereby expressed to be mortgaged in an equal degree one with another, and shall not have any preference or priority other than is provided under the powers of this Act.

xxxv. That it shall be lawful for the Justices and council of any county and borough respectively to make application for an advance of any sum necessary for the purposes of this Act, or the said Act hereby repealed, to the Commissioners acting in the execution of an Act, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 9, intituled, 'An Act to authorize the advance of Money out of the Consolidated Fund to a limited Amount for carrying on Public Works and Fisheries, and Employment of the Poor; and to amend the Acts authorizing the Issue of Exchequer Bills for the like Purposes,' and of any of the Acts in the above-mentioned Act recited or referred to, and of any Act or Acts passed for amending or continuing the same Acts; and the said Commissioners, and also the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, are hereby empowered, if they shall think fit, to make such advances, upon any such application as aforesaid, upon the security of the county or borough rates or fund by this Act directed to be assessed and raised, or any of them, and without requiring any further or other security than a mortgage of such rates.

xxxvi. That the said Justices or council, as the case may be, shall in every year charge the rates and funds of such county or borough with the sum for the time being required to pay the interest of the money so borrowed on such mortgages, or such of them as shall for the time being remain unpaid, and also with the payment of a further sum not less than one-thirtieth part of the whole of such mortgages at the time of the same being first made; and such sums shall be applied, under the direction of the said Justices or council, in discharge of the interest on the said mortgages, or such of them as shall for the time being remain unpaid, and of so many of the principal sums owing on the said mortgages for the time being remaining unpaid as such sums, after payment of the interest as aforesaid, will extend to discharge until the whole of the principal monies for which such mortgages shall have been made, and the interest thereof, shall be fully paid and discharged; and the said Justices and council, as the case may be, are and is hereby required to fix one or more days in each year on which such payments shall be made, and shall make orders for assessments in due time, so as to provide for such payments being regularly made; and the said Justices or council, as the case may be, shall, by agreement with the parties or others advancing any money for the purposes of this Act, determine the order or priority in which the several sums advanced shall be respectively discharged; and the Justices of every county and the council of every borough so borrowing money on mortgage as aforesaid are and is hereby required to appoint a proper person to keep an exact and regular account of all receipts and payments in respect of principal monies borrowed or taken up as aforesaid, and the interest thereof, in a book or books, separate and apart from all other accounts, and the said book or books, duly adjusted and settled up to the time being, to deliver annually, in the case of a county, into court at some General or Quarter Sessions for such county, and in the case of a borough, to the council of the borough at such time as such council shall appoint; and the Justices for every such county at such sessions, and the council for every such borough, are and is hereby required carefully to inspect all such accounts, and to make such orders for carrying the several purposes aforesaid into execution as to them shall seem meet.

XXXVII. Provided and enacted, That the Justices of every county, and the council of every borough, borrowing money as aforesaid, shall make provision by means of the rates which they are hereby respectively authorized to make, and by the orders and directions which they are hereby authorized to give, that the whole principal money to be borrowed under the authority of this Act by such county or borough, and all interest for the same, shall be fully paid and discharged within a time to be limited by such Justices or council, not exceeding thirty years from the time of borrowing the same.

XXXVIII. Provided and enacted, That in every case in which any monies shall have been borrowed under the powers of the said Act hereby repealed, it shall be lawful for the Justices of the county or borough for which such monies shall have been borrowed, with the consent of the parties from whom the same shall have been borrowed, to pay off the monies so borrowed, and to raise and borrow the monies necessary for that purpose, and also to repay the said last-mentioned monies, and the interest thereof, under the powers of this Act, as if the same were raised for the purposes of this Act: Provided also, that all monies which have been already borrowed shall be discharged within the time originally fixed for payment thereof, and that all monies to be borrowed under this Act shall be discharged within thirty years from the time of first borrowing the same.

XXXIX. That the asylum to be provided for any county or borough, either solely or jointly, may be without the limits of such county or borough; and that when any asylum provided or to be provided solely or in part for any county or borough, or any part of such asylum, is or shall be situate within the limits of any other county or borough, then and in every such case the Justices of the county or borough to which such asylum shall wholly or partly belong shall have full power and authority to act in such other county or borough, so far as concerns the regulation of such asylum and the powers conferred by this Act, in the like manner as if such asylum and every part thereof were situate within such county or borough.

XL. That every committee of visitors shall, within twelve months after the passing of this Act in the case of every asylum already established, and within twelve months after the completion thereof in the case of every asylum hereafter established, submit the existing general rules, or prepare and submit some proposed general rules, for the government of the asylum under their superintendence, to one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, for his approval; and such rules, when approved by him, shall be printed, abided by, and observed; and every such committee shall have power, with the like approbation, to alter and vary such rules from time to time as they shall think necessary; and every such committee shall make from time to time such regulations and orders as they shall think fit, not inconsistent with the general rules for the time being in force for the management and conduct of the asylum; and in such regulations there shall be set forth the number and description of officers and servants to be kept, the duties to be required, and the salaries to be paid to them respectively: and every such committee shall from time to time, as occasion may require, appoint a treasurer, who shall keep accounts of all monies received and paid by him on account of the asylum, and such other officers and servants as they shall from time to time find necessary, in proportion to the number of persons confined in such asylum, and at such salaries or wages as they shall think fit, and may at any time dismiss any such treasurer, officer, or servant, and shall from time to time determine the diet of the patients, and fix a certain weekly sum to be paid for each person of the county or borough, and another weekly sum for each person not of the county or borough, erecting the asylum, confined in such asylum, of such amount that the same may be sufficient to defray the whole expense of the lodging, maintenance and care, medicine and clothing, and other expenses requisite for each person, and that the total amount of such weekly sums, after defraying such expenses, may also be sufficient to pay the salaries of the officers and attendants: Provided always, that such rate for a pauper shall in no case exceed 14s. per week, and that the said visitors shall annually audit the accounts of the treasurer and clerk of every asylum, and report the same to the next General or Quarter Sessions for the county or borough, counties or boroughs, and to the council of every borough, at the expense of which such asylum shall have been wholly or partly erected or provided.

XLI. That if the aforesaid rate of 14s. should be found insufficient for the purposes aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the major part of the Justices of the county or borough, or of each of the counties or boroughs, at whose expense such asylum shall have been established, present at any General or Quarter Sessions or any Special Sessions for such county or borough or such counties or boroughs respectively, to make such addition to such rate as to them respectively shall seem fit and necessary, and to make an order or orders accordingly, which order or orders shall be signed by the clerk or clerks of the peace for the county or borough or respective counties or boroughs, and forthwith published in some newspaper commonly circulated within such county or borough, counties or boroughs.

XLII. That in every asylum already erected or provided, or hereafter to be erected or provided, the committee of visitors shall appoint a chaplain for the same, who shall be in priest's orders, and shall be licensed by the bishop of the diocese; and the said licence shall be revocable by the bishop whenever he shall think fit; and such chaplain, or his substitute, approved by the visitors, shall perform and celebrate, in some convenient place within such asylum, Divine Service according to the rites of the church of England as established by law, on every Sunday, Christmas-day, and Good Friday, and shall also perform and celebrate such service within the said asylum at such other times, and also such other services according to the rites of the church of England as established by law, at such times as the visitors shall direct; and such Committee shall also appoint a medical officer, who shall be resident in such asylum, and a clerk, who shall not be such medical officer, and who may reside in such asylum or not, as the committee shall think fit; and the committee shall have power to remove such chaplain, medical officer, and clerk, and from time to time to appoint another in his stead; and the Committee shall, if they think fit, have power to appoint a visiting physician or surgeon to every such asylum, and shall appoint one of the officers to be the superintendent thereof: Provided always, that if any patient shall be of a religious persuasion differing from that of the established church, a minister of such persuasion, at the special request of such patient or his friends, shall, with the consent of the medical officer of such asylum, be allowed to visit him or her at proper and reasonable times, under such restrictions imposed by the visiting Justices as shall prevent injury to such patient and the other lunatics confined in such asylum; and provided also, that the medical officer of any asylum for chronic lunatics in which there shall for the time being be less than 100 lunatics, need not be resident therein, but the medical officer of every such asylum, if he be not resident therein, shall visit the same three times at the least in every week, and with no longer intervals than one day between any two visits, and on every visit shall personally examine every patient in such asylum, except any patients whom there may be special and sufficient reasons for not so examining, and shall make an entry in a book to be kept therein for that purpose that he has so examined every patient therein, except any patients whom there may be special and sufficient reasons for not so examining, and, in case of there being any patients whom he has not examined, shall enter their names in the said book, and the reasons for not examining them.

XLIII. That in case any superintendent, chaplain, matron, or other officer or servant of any county or borough lunatic asylum shall, from confirmed sickness, age, or infirmity, become incapable of executing the office in person, it shall be lawful for the Justices of the county assembled at the General or Quarter Sessions, and the Justices of any borough at any meeting of such Justices, not being less than five, and they are hereby empowered, to grant to such superintendent, chaplain, matron, or other officer or servant such annuity as they in their discretion shall think proportionate to the merits and time of services of such superintendent, chaplain, matron, or other officer or servant, and may order the payment out of the rates lawfully applicable to the building or repairing such county or borough lunatic asylum: Provided always, that the annual amount paid by way of superannuation or allowance to any retired superintendent, matron, or other officer or servant of any asylum shall not exceed the amount of two-thirds of the salary payable at the time of his or her retirement.

XLIV. That the clerk of every asylum shall keep all books, documents, and instruments which the visitors of the asylum shall be required to keep or direct to be kept, and shall also keep an account of all monies which shall be received or paid on account of the asylum either to or by the treasurer of the asylum, or otherwise, and shall, in the month of March in every year, send a copy of the account of all such monies for the year previous, ending on the 31st of December, to Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, and to the clerk or clerks of the peace of the county or counties, borough or boroughs to which the asylum shall belong, and also to the Commissioners in Lunacy; and such Commissioners shall, within one month from the receipt of such account, make out an abstract thereof, and lay the same before both Houses of Parliament.

XLV. That not less than three members of every committee of visitors shall, once at the least in every three months, inspect every part of every asylum in which there shall be any lunatics of the county or borough, counties or boroughs for which they shall be visitors, and shall see and examine, as far as circumstances will permit, every lunatic therein, and the order and certificate for the admission of every lunatic admitted since the last visitation of the visitors, and shall enter in a book to be kept for that purpose any remarks which they may deem proper in regard to the condition and management of such asylum and the lunatics therein, and shall sign such book upon every such visit, and such three visitors shall in their visits to every asylum for chronic lunatics be accompanied by the visiting physician or surgeon of the county or borough lunatic asylum, in all cases in which there shall be a visiting physician or surgeon.

XLVI. That the medical officer of every asylum shall on the 1st of January and the 1st of July in every year after the passing of this Act prepare a list of all pauper lunatics then in such asylum, according to the form in the Schedule (C.) No. 1. hereto annexed, and in the case of every asylum not devoted exclusively to chronic lunatics specifying such as in the opinion of the medical officer, and of the visiting physician or surgeon, in case there shall be a visiting physician or surgeon, may be properly placed in an asylum for chronic lunatics; and one copy of every such list shall by such medical officer, within fifteen days after the same shall have been prepared, be laid before the visitors of the asylum, and another shall be transmitted by such medical officers to the clerk of the peace of every or any county and every or any borough to which such asylum solely or jointly belongs, to be by him laid before the Justices of such county or borough; and another copy of such list shall within the same time be transmitted by such medical officer to the Commissioners in Lunacy; and the medical officer of every asylum subject to the provisions of this Act, receiving private patients, shall also on the 1st of January and the 1st of July in every year prepare a list containing the christian and surnames of all the private patients in such asylum in the Form No. 2. in the said Schedule (C.), and shall transmit such list within the same time as aforesaid to the Commissioners in Lunacy.

XLVII. That the clerk of the board of guardians of every parish and union under a board of guardians, and the overseers of every parish not under a board of guardians, shall on the 1st of January in every year, or as soon after as may be, make out and sign a true and faithful list of all lunatics chargeable to the parish or union, in the Form in Schedule (D.) hereto annexed, and shall on or before the 1st of February next succeeding lay one copy of such list before the visitors of the asylum of the county in which such union or parish is situate, and shall transmit one copy of such list to the clerk of the peace of the county or the clerk of the Justices of the borough within which the parish to which each such lunatic is chargeable is situate, to be by him laid before the Justices acting for such county at their next General or Quarter Sessions, or before the Justices of the borough, another copy of such list to the Commissioners in Lunacy, and another copy thereof to the Poor Law Commissioners; and so much of the Act of 6 Vict., continuing the Poor Law Commission, as requires the clerk to every board of guardians to make out a return of such lunatics as aforesaid on the 15th of August in every year shall, from the passing of this Act, be repealed.

XLVIII. That the medical officer of every parish and union who shall have knowledge that any person chargeable to such parish, or to any parish within such union, is or is deemed to be lunatic, shall within three days after obtaining such knowledge give notice thereof in writing to the overseers of the poor of the parish, if the parish be not within an union, and to the relieving officer of the union if the parish be within an union; and every such overseer and relieving officer who shall have knowledge, either by such notice or otherwise, that any person chargeable to the parish of such overseer, or to any parish within the union of such relieving officer, is deemed to be lunatic, shall within three days after obtaining such knowledge give notice thereof to some Justice of the county or borough within which such parish is situate, and thereupon the said Justice shall by an order under his hand and seal require the overseer or relieving officer of the parish or union to bring such person before him or some other Justice of the said county or borough, at such time and place within three days from the time of such notice being given to such Justice as shall be appointed by the said order; and the said Justice before whom such person deemed to be a lunatic shall be brought shall call to his assistance a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, and examine such person; and if upon view or personal examination of such person, or from other proof, such Justice shall be satisfied that such person is lunatic, and such physician, surgeon, or apothecary, not being the medical officer of such union or parish, shall sign a certificate according to the form in Schedule (E.) No. 1. to this Act annexed, that such person is a lunatic, idiot, or insane person, or a person of unsound mind, such Justice shall, by an order under his hand according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1. to this Act annexed, direct such person to be received into the asylum of the county or borough in which such parish is situate, or if there be no such asylum, or such asylum be full, then into some house duly licensed, or some hospital registered for the reception of lunatics; and such overseer or relieving officer shall immediately convey or cause the said lunatic to be conveyed to such asylum, house, or hospital, and such lunatic shall be received and confined therein: Provided always, that if any person deemed to be lunatic cannot, on account of his health or other cause, be safely taken before any Justice, such person may be examined at his own abode or elsewhere by one Justice, or by an officiating clergyman of the parish in which he shall be resident, together with an overseer of such parish, or the relieving officer of the union to which the same shall belong; and such Justice or such clergyman, together with an overseer or relieving officer, shall call to their assistance a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, and visit such person deemed to be lunatic; and if upon view or personal examination such Justice or clergyman shall be satisfied that such person is lunatic, and such physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall sign a certificate, according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1, that such person is a lunatic, idiot, insane person, or person of unsound mind, such Justice or such clergyman, together with an overseer or relieving officer, shall, by an order under his or their hand or hands according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1, direct such person to be received into the asylum for the county or borough in which such parish is situate, or if there be no such asylum, or such asylum be full, then into some house licensed or hospital registered for the reception of lunatics, and such overseer or relieving officer shall immediately convey or cause the said lunatic to be conveyed to such asylum, house, or hospital, and such lunatic shall be received and confined therein: Provided also, that if the physician, surgeon, or apothecary by whom any such person shall be examined shall certify in writing that he is not in a fit state to be removed, the removal of such person shall be suspended until the same or some other physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall certify in writing that such person is fit to be removed; and every such physician, surgeon, and apothecary is required to give such last-mentioned certificate so soon as in his judgment ought to be given.

XLIX. That every overseer or relieving officer of a parish or union, who shall have knowledge that any person wandering within his district, parish, or union is deemed to be a lunatic, such overseer or relieving officer shall immediately apprehend or take or cause such person to be apprehended and taken before a Justice; and every overseer or relieving officer who shall have knowledge that any person within his district, parish, or union, not being chargeable to any parish, is deemed to be a lunatic, and is under the care of a relative or other person who neglects or cruelly treats him, so that he is not properly taken care of, such overseer or relieving officer shall, within three days after obtaining such knowledge as last aforesaid, give notice thereof to some Justice of the county or borough within which such district, parish, or union is situate; and thereupon the said Justice shall, if he shall think fit, in case such notice shall be given in writing, and upon the oath of the person giving the same, by an order under his hand and seal require the overseer or relieving officer of such district, parish, or union to bring such person before him and some other Justice of the same county or borough, at such time and place, within three days from the time of such notice being given to such Justice, as shall be appointed by the said order; and such Justice before whom such wandering lunatic, or such two Justices before whom such lunatic not being chargeable, shall be taken, shall call to his or their assistance a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, and one of the overseers or the relieving officer of the parish or union in which such person has been apprehended or taken, and shall examine such person; and if upon view or personal examination of such person, or from other proof, the said Justice or Justices shall be satisfied that such person is lunatic, and if not so chargeable as aforesaid, has been neglected or cruelly treated by the relatives or other person under whose care he is, and if such physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall sign a certificate, according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1. to this Act annexed, that such person is a lunatic, idiot, insane person, or person of unsound mind, such Justice or Justices shall, if he or they think fit, by an order under his or their hand or hands according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1. to this Act annexed, direct such person to be received into the asylum of the county or borough within which such person shall have been apprehended or taken, or if there be no such asylum, or such asylum be full, then into some licensed house or registered hospital; and such overseer or relieving officer shall immediately convey or cause such lunatic to be conveyed to such asylum, house, or hospital, and such lunatic shall be received and confined therein: Provided always, that if any such person as last aforesaid deemed to be lunatic cannot, on account of his health or other cause, be safely brought before any Justice or Justices aforesaid, such person may be examined at his own abode or elsewhere by one Justice in the case of a wandering lunatic, and by two Justices in the case of a lunatic not being chargeable; and such Justice or two Justices shall call to his or their assistance a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, and visit such person deemed to be lunatic; and if upon view or personal examination such Justice or Justices shall be satisfied that such person is lunatic, and if not so chargeable as aforesaid has been neglected or cruelly treated by the relatives or other person under whose care he is, and if such physician, surgeon, or apothecary shall sign a certificate, according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1, that such person is a lunatic, idiot, insane person, or person of unsound mind, such Justice or Justices shall, by an order under his or their hand or hands according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1, direct such person to be received into the asylum for the county or borough in which such parish is situate, or if there be no such asylum, or such asylum be full, then into some licensed house or hospital registered for the reception of lunatics; and such overseer or relieving officer shall immediately convey or cause the said lunatic to be conveyed to such asylum, house, or hospital, and such lunatic shall be received and confined therein; and the Justice or Justices by whose order such lunatic shall be sent to an asylum, or any two visiting Justices of the asylum to which he shall be sent, shall make an order upon the treasurer of the guardians of the union in which the parish shall be situate from which he shall have been taken, or upon the overseer or overseers of the parish from which he shall have been taken, for the charges of the examination, removal, lodging, maintenance, clothing, medicine, and care of such lunatic, and in case it shall afterwards appear that such lunatic is chargeable to any other parish, then upon the treasurer of the guardians of the union in which such other parish is situate, or upon the overseers of such other parish: Provided also, that if the physician, surgeon, or apothecary by whom any such person shall be examined shall certify in writing that he is not in a fit state to be removed, the removal of such person shall be suspended until the same or some other physician, surgeon, or apothecary, shall certify in writing that such person is fit to be removed; and every such physician, surgeon, and apothecary is hereby required to give such last-mentioned certificate as soon as in his judgment it ought to be given: Provided always, that if it shall appear to the said Justice or Justices, or any two visiting Justices of the asylum in which any such lunatic is confined, that such lunatic hath an estate applicable to his maintenance, and more than sufficient to maintain his family, if any, it shall be lawful for such Justice or Justices, if they or he shall think fit, to make an application in writing under his or their hand and seal or hands and seals to the nearest relative or friend of such lunatic, for the payment of the costs of the removal, examination, and maintenance of such lunatic; and in case such costs shall not be paid within six months after such application, it shall be lawful for such Justice or Justices, if he or they shall think fit, by an order under his or their hand and seal or hands and seals, to direct the overseers of any parish where any goods, chattels, lands, or tenements of such lunatic shall be, to seize and sell so much of the goods and chattels, or take and receive so much of the rents or profits of the lands and tenements of such lunatic as may be necessary to pay the charges of the removal, lodging, maintenance, clothing, medicine, and care of such lunatic, accounting for the same to such Justice or Justices, such charges having been first proved to the satisfaction of such Justice or Justices, and the amount set forth in such order; and if any trustee or other person having the possession, custody, or charge of any property of such lunatic, or if the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, or any other person or persons having in his or their hands any stock, interest, dividend, or annuity belonging or due to such lunatic, shall, upon the production of the order of such Justice or Justices, pay the whole or any part thereof to any overseer or relieving officer, to defray the charges set forth in such order, the receipt of such overseer or relieving officer shall be a good discharge to such trustee, governor, and company, or other person as aforesaid: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to restrain or prevent any relation or friend from retaining or taking such lunatic under his own care, if such relation or friend shall satisfy the Justice or Justices before whom such lunatic shall be brought, or the visitors of the asylum in which such lunatic is or is intended to be confined, that such lunatic will be properly taken care of.

L. That if any medical officer of any union or parish as aforesaid shall omit, for more than three days after obtaining knowledge of any chargeable pauper being deemed to be lunatic as aforesaid, to give such notice thereof as is hereinbefore required, or if any overseer or relieving officer as aforesaid shall omit, for more than three days after obtaining knowledge of any chargeable pauper or other person not chargeable being deemed to be lunatic as aforesaid, to give notice thereof to a Justice as aforesaid, or if any constable, overseer, or relieving officer shall omit to apprehend and take such wandering person deemed to be lunatic as aforesaid, such medical officer, overseer, relieving officer, or constable, as the case may be, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 10*l*.

LI. That no pauper or other such person as is hereinbefore mentioned shall be received into any asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, without an order and statement, according to the form and stating the particulars required in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1, under the hands of one Justice, or an officiating clergyman, with one of the overseers or the relieving officer of the parish or union for which such pauper or other person shall be sent as aforesaid, nor without a medical certificate according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 1, signed by one physician, surgeon, or apothecary, and dated not more than seven clear days previous to the reception of such patient; and every person who shall receive any pauper or other such person as is hereinbefore mentioned into any asylum without such order and medical certificate shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

LII. That no person other than a pauper, or such other person as is hereinbefore mentioned, shall be received into any asylum without an order under the hand of some person, according to the form and containing the particulars required in Schedule (E.) No. 2. to this Act annexed, nor without the medical certificate, according to the form and containing the particulars required in Schedule (E.) No. 2. annexed to this Act, of two persons, each of whom shall be a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, and who shall not be in partnership, and each of whom shall separately from the other have personally examined the person to whom it relates, not more than seven clear days previously to the reception of such person into such asylum, and shall have signed and dated the same on the day on which such person shall have been so examined; and every person who shall receive or detain any person not a pauper in any asylum without such order and medical certificate as aforesaid shall be guilty of a misdemeanour: Provided always, nevertheless, that any person (not a pauper or such other person as hereinbefore is mentioned) may under special circumstances be received into any asylum, upon the certificate of one physician, surgeon, or apothecary alone, provided that such order state the special circumstances which have prevented the person from being examined by two medical practitioners; but in every such case such certificate shall be further signed by some other physician, surgeon, or apothecary, within three days after the reception of such patient into such asylum; and every person who, having received any person into any asylum as aforesaid, upon the certificate of one medical practitioner alone, as aforesaid, shall keep or permit such person to remain in such asylum beyond the said period of three days, without such certificate having been further signed as aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LIII. That any physician, surgeon, or apothecary who shall knowingly sign any such medical certificate as aforesaid which shall untruly state any of the particulars required by this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanour; and that no certificate signed by any medical officer of the asylum into which the lunatic is received shall be of any avail, or be deemed to be in compliance with the aforesaid provisions regarding such certificate.

LIV. That every such order by a Justice, or clergyman, and overseer or relieving officer, as aforesaid, for the reception of a lunatic into an asylum, shall extend to his admission not only into the principal lunatic asylum of the county or borough, counties or boroughs, but also into any other asylum for the reception of pauper lunatics of such county or borough, and also to any asylum for any other county or borough, or any house licensed or hospital registered for the reception of lunatics: Provided always, that every lunatic shall under every such order as last aforesaid be taken, in the first place, to the principal asylum of the county or borough in which the parish or place from which he is sent shall be situate, and shall there be kept, unless there be no such asylum, or there is a deficiency of room in such principal asylum, or unless there shall be some special circumstances whereby such pauper cannot conveniently be taken in the first place to such principal asylum, which deficiency of room or special circumstance shall be stated in writing upon the order for the reception of such lunatic into any asylum, registered hospital, or house other than the principal asylum aforesaid; and that no such lunatic shall be sent to or detained in any registered hospital or house licensed for the reception of lunatics, except there shall be no asylum, or no asylum in which he can be received, or there shall be some special circumstances whereby he cannot be taken thereto, which shall be stated in like manner as aforesaid; and it shall be lawful for any two visiting Justices of any asylum, by an order in writing under their hands and seals, to direct any overseer or relieving or other officer of any parish, union, county, or borough contributing to any asylum to remove any pauper lunatic chargeable to such parish, union, county, or borough now or at any time hereafter being in any registered hospital, or house licensed for the reception of lunatics, therefrom, to an asylum subject to the regulations of this Act; and such lunatic shall be removed at the expense of such parish, union, county, or borough accordingly; and every such overseer or relieving or other officer as aforesaid who shall for the space of fourteen days after the date of any such order neglect or refuse to remove any lunatic according to such order, and every officer or proprietor of any registered hospital or licensed house who shall refuse to permit any such removal, shall forfeit for every such offence any sum not more than 20*l.* nor less than 2*l.*

LV. That every pauper lunatic chargeable to any parish who shall not be in an asylum or a registered hospital, or a house duly licensed for the reception of pauper lunatics, shall be visited once in every three months by the medical officer of the parish or union to which such lunatic shall belong; and a list of all such lunatics shall be sent once in every three months by such medical officer to the clerk of the peace of the county or borough to which such lunatic shall belong, or in which he shall be resident, to be by him laid before the Justices acting for such county at their next General or Quarter Sessions, or before the Justices of such borough, and to the visitors of the asylum for the county in which such parish or union shall be situate, and to the Commissioners in Lunacy, according to the form in Schedule (F.) to this Act annexed; and the said list shall state whether any such lunatic is or is not, in the opinion of such medical officer, fit to be at large and is properly taken care of; and such list of such lunatics shall be prepared and signed by the medical officer required to make the same: Provided nevertheless, that after an asylum shall be established for any county or borough under the provisions of this Act no pauper who shall have lately become lunatic (whether such pauper shall or shall not have been previously confined in an asylum) shall be received, lodged, or detained in any house or place other than a county or borough lunatic asylum, or a public hospital, or a house duly licensed for the reception of pauper lunatics, for a longer period than shall be requisite for obtaining an order for the removal of such lunatic to such asylum; and if any medical officer shall return any such pauper in any such list as fit to be at large, or shall knowingly sign any such list, untruly setting forth any of the particulars required by this Act, he shall for every such offence forfeit any sum not less than 10*l.* and not exceeding 50*l.*

LVI. That with a view to make room in the principal lunatic asylum for any county or borough, counties or boroughs, for patients deemed capable of cure, it shall be lawful for any three of the visitors thereof, by writing under their hands and seals, from time to time to cause to be removed from such principal asylum to some other asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house any pauper lunatic who shall have been returned in the lists hereinbefore required to be made by the medical officer of such principal asylum as a proper patient to be removed to an asylum for chronic lunatics, and also at any time in like manner to send to the principal asylum any pauper lunatic who shall be confined in the asylum for chronic lunatics, or in some hospital or licensed house; and in case at any time there shall not be in the principal asylum of any county or borough, counties or boroughs, any pauper lunatic who shall have been returned in such lists, the medical officer of such asylum shall, by writing under his hand, report such fact to the Justices of the county or borough, counties or boroughs to which such asylum shall solely or jointly belong, and to the Commissioners in Lunacy, who shall thereupon report the same to one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State; and it shall also be lawful for the Commissioners in Lunacy, or any two of them, by writing under their hands and seals, to direct that any lunatic, and whether returned in such lists as last aforesaid or not, shall be removed from the principal asylum to an asylum for chronic lunatics, or hospital or licensed house, or from an asylum for chronic lunatics, or hospital or licensed house, to the principal asylum, and every such lunatic shall be removed accordingly by the visiting Justices of every such asylum, and no further certificate shall be necessary for any such removal.

LVII. That when any pauper lunatic shall be confined under the provisions of this Act, he shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to belong to and continue chargeable to the parish from which, or at the instance of some officer or officiating clergyman of which, he shall have been sent, until such parish shall in due course of law, as in the case of any other pauper, have established that such lunatic is settled in some other parish, or that it cannot be ascertained in what parish such lunatic is settled, and that every pauper lunatic who is chargeable to any parish shall, whilst he shall reside in an asylum, be deemed, for the purposes of his settlement, to be residing in the parish to which he is chargeable.

LVIII. That it shall be lawful for any two Justices for the county or borough in which any asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house is situate, or to which such asylum shall wholly or in part belong, or from any part of which any pauper lunatic shall have been sent, at any time to inquire into the last legal settlement of any pauper lunatic confined or ordered to be confined therein; and if satisfactory evidence can be obtained as to such settlement in any parish, township, or place, such Justices shall, by order under their hands and seals, adjudge such settlement accordingly.

LIX. That if any pauper lunatic shall not be settled in the parish by which, or at the instance of some officiating clergyman or officer of which, he shall be sent to any asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, and it cannot be ascertained in what parish such pauper lunatic is settled, the relieving officer of the union in which such first-mentioned parish is situate, or the overseers of such first-mentioned parish shall give notice to the clerk of the peace of the county in which such lunatic was found to appear for such county before two Justices thereof, at a time and place to be appointed in such notice; and such two Justices, or any two or more Justices of such county, may then and there, upon the appearance of such clerk of the peace, or any one on his behalf, or in case of his non-appearance, upon proof of his having been served with such notice, inquire into the circumstances of the case, and unless the contrary be shewn shall adjudge such pauper lunatic to be chargeable to such county: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for such two Justices to direct such inquiry to be made to ascertain the parish in which any pauper is settled, as they shall think fit, and to delay adjudging a pauper to be chargeable to any county until such further inquiry shall have been made; and provided also, that every county to which any pauper lunatic shall be adjudged to be chargeable as aforesaid may at any time thereafter inquire as to the parish in which such lunatic is settled, and may procure such lunatic to be adjudged to be settled in any parish.

LX. That in every case of an inquiry, investigation, dispute, or appeal as to the parish in which a pauper lunatic is settled, the guardians, clerks of the guardians, relieving officers, and overseers of every union including any parish, or of any parish which parish respectively is interested in such inquiry, investigation, dispute, or appeal, and every person duly authorized by them respectively, and the clerk of the peace for any county interested in such inquiry, investigation, dispute, or appeal, and every person duly authorized by such clerk of the peace, shall at all reasonable times be allowed free access in the presence of the medical attendant to the lunatic to examine him as to the premises.

LXI. That it shall be lawful for the Justice or Justices by whom any lunatic shall be sent to an asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, under the powers of this Act, or for any two Justices being visitors of any asylum to which a lunatic shall be sent or removed, to make an order upon the treasurer of the guardians or other officer of the union or parish, or the overseers of the parish from which, or at the instance of any officer or clergyman of which, such lunatic shall have been sent or removed, for payment to the treasurer, officer, or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house of the reasonable charges of the lodging, maintenance, medicine, clothing, and care of such lunatic in such asylum, hospital, or house; and every treasurer of the guardians or overseers on whom such order shall be made shall, out of any monies which may come into his hands by virtue of his office, from time to time pay to the said treasurer, officer, or proprietor the charges aforesaid.

LXII. That if, after any lunatic shall have been sent to an asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, it shall be adjudged that such lunatic is settled in a parish different from the parish from which, or at the instance of some clergyman or officer of which, he was sent to such asylum, hospital, or house, then and in such case it shall be lawful for any two Justices of the county from any part of which any lunatic shall have been sent, or for any two Justices, members of the committee of visitors of such asylum, to make an order or orders upon the treasurer of the guardians of the union, including any parish, or of any parish or the overseers of the parish in which such lunatic shall be so adjudged to be settled, for payment to the treasurer of the guardians or overseers of the first-mentioned union or parish of all expenses incurred by or on behalf of such union or parish in or about the examination of such lunatic, and his conveyance to the asylum, hospital, or house, and of all monies paid by the treasurer of the guardians, or the overseers of such first-mentioned union or parish, to the treasurer, officer, or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house for the lodging, maintenance, medicine, clothing, and care of such lunatic, and incurred within twelve calendar months previous to the date of such order, and also for payment to the treasurer, officer, or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, of the reasonable charges of the future lodging, maintenance, medicine, clothing, and care of such lunatic; and every treasurer of the guardians or overseer on whom any such last-mentioned order shall be made shall, out of any money which may come into his hands by virtue of his office, immediately pay to the treasurer of the guardians or overseers of such first-mentioned union or parish the amount of the expenses and monies by such order directed to be paid to him or them, and from time to time pay to the said treasurer, officer, or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house the future charges aforesaid: Provided always, that the guardians of any union or parish, or the overseers of any parish, township, or place, affected by such order, may appeal against the same in like manner as if the same were a warrant of removal; and in case of such appeal the guardians of the union or parish, or the overseers of the parish, township, or place, or the clerk of the peace of the county to which such lunatic was chargeable before such order was made, may defend such appeal, and the persons appealing or intending to appeal, and the persons defending such appeal, shall have all the same powers, rights, and privileges, and be subject to the same obligations, in all respects as in the case of an appeal against a warrant of removal.

LXIII. That if, either before or after any lunatic shall have been sent to an asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, it shall be ascertained or adjudged in due course of law that such lunatic is chargeable to a county, it shall be lawful for any two Justices, members of the committee of visitors of such asylum, or any two Justices of the county in which such asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house is situate to make an order or orders upon the treasurer of such county to be chargeable as aforesaid for payment to the treasurer of the guardians or overseers of any union or parish of all expenses incurred by or on behalf of such union or parish in or about the examination of such lunatic, and his conveyance to the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, and of all monies paid by the treasurer of the guardians or overseers of such union or parish to the treasurer or an officer or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house, for the lodging, maintenance, medicine, clothing, and care of such lunatic, and incurred within twelve calendar months previous to the date of such order, and also for payment to the treasurer, officer, or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house of the reasonable charges of the future lodging, maintenance, medicine, clothing, and care of such lunatic; and every such treasurer of a county on whom any such order shall be made shall, out of any monies which may come into his hands by virtue of his office, immediately pay to the treasurer of the guardians or the overseers of such union or parish the amount of the expenses and monies by such order directed to be paid to him or them, and from time to time pay to the said treasurer, officer, or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house the future charges aforesaid.

XLIV. That if after any lunatic shall have been sent to an asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house as aforesaid, and shall have been adjudged in due course of law to be chargeable to a county, such county shall afterwards procure in due course of law such lunatic to be adjudged to be settled in any parish, it shall be lawful for any two Justices, members of the committee of visitors of such asylum, or any two Justices of the county in which such asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house is situate, to make an order upon the treasurer of the guardians of the union, including any parish, or of any parish, or the overseers of any parish, for payment to the treasurer of the said county of all expenses and monies paid by such last-mentioned treasurer as hereinbefore is provided, and incurred within twelve calendar months previous to such order, and also for payment to the treasurer or officer or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house of the reasonable charges of the future lodging, maintenance, medicine, clothing, and care of such lunatic; and every such treasurer of the guardians or overseers on whom any such order shall be made shall, out of any monies which may come into his hands by virtue of his office, immediately pay to the treasurer of such county the amount of the expenses and monies by such order directed to be paid to him, and from time to time pay to the said treasurer, officer, or proprietor of the asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house the future charges aforesaid.

XLV. That in any case where application shall be made to the committee of visitors of any asylum by any relative or friend of a pauper lunatic confined therein, requiring that he may be delivered over to the custody and care of such relative or friend, it shall be lawful for any three members of the committee of visitors aforesaid, if they shall think fit, and upon the undertaking in writing of such relative or friend to the satisfaction of such visitors that such lunatic shall be no longer chargeable to any union, parish, county, or borough, and shall be properly taken care of, and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or others, to discharge such lunatic.

XLVI. That it shall be lawful for any Justices, being members of the committee of visitors of any asylum, to make any such order as aforesaid upon the treasurer of the guardians or overseers of any union or parish, although such union or parish may not be within the jurisdiction of such Justices, and that any such Justices may make any such order as aforesaid upon the treasurer of any county or borough, although such Justices shall not have jurisdiction therein.

XLVII. That if any person shall feel aggrieved by any refusal of an order of any Justice or Justices as aforesaid, such person may appeal to the Justices at the next General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the county or borough where the matter of appeal shall have arisen, the person so appealing having given to the Justice or Justices against whom such appeal shall be made fourteen days' notice of the intention to make such appeal, and the said Justices at such sessions are hereby authorized and required to hear and determine the matter of such appeal in a summary way, and such determination as they shall make shall be final and conclusive to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

XLVIII. That if any treasurer of a board of guardians, or any relieving officer or overseer, or any treasurer of any county upon whom any order of Justices for the payment of money under the provisions of this Act shall have been made, shall, for the space of twenty days next after due notice of such order, refuse or neglect to pay the money so ordered to be paid, the said money, together with the expenses of recovering the same, shall be recovered by distress and sale of the goods of the treasurer, overseer, or relieving officer so refusing or neglecting, or any of them, by warrant under the hands and seals of any two Justices hereby authorized to make the order for payment of the money aforesaid, or by an action at law against such treasurer, overseer, or relieving officer; and in case of any action no objection shall be taken to any default or want of form in any order of admission or maintenance, or in any certificate or adjudication under this Act, if such order or adjudication shall not have been appealed against, or if appealed against shall have been affirmed.

XLIX. That any physician, surgeon, or apothecary to be appointed by the guardians of any union or parish, or the overseers of any parish, and also the guardians or any appointed member of the guardians of any union or parish, and also the overseers of any parish, shall be permitted, whenever they shall see fit, between the hours of eight in the morning and six in the evening, to visit and examine any or every pauper lunatic belonging to such union or parish confined in any asylum, registered hospital, or licensed house: Provided always, that if the medical officer of any asylum shall be of opinion that it will be injurious to any lunatic to permit such visit and examination, and such medical officer shall state in writing the reasons why such lunatic should not be visited and examined, and shall sign such statement, and deliver the same to the person or persons so requiring to visit and examine such lunatic, then and in such case it shall be lawful for such medical officer to refuse such visit and examination.

LXX. That whenever it shall appear to the committee of visitors of any asylum that such asylum is more than sufficient for the accommodation of all the pauper lunatics of the county or borough, counties or boroughs for which the same shall have been provided, the committee of visitors shall give notice thereof by advertisement in some newspaper commonly circulated in such county or borough, counties or boroughs, and it shall be lawful for such visitors, and also for the Justices of a county or counties in General or Quarter Sessions for such county or counties, and the Justices of a borough or boroughs at a special meeting or meetings, (subject nevertheless and without prejudice to any agreement in that behalf with any voluntary subscribers,) to make an order for the admission of so many pauper lunatics of any other county or borough as to them shall seem expedient, under the conditions and regulations following; (that is to say,) that no such lunatic shall be admitted into such asylum without an order and one certificate according to the form in Schedule (E.) No. 1, and indorsed by a visitor of the said asylum, or a Justice of some county or borough to which such asylum solely or jointly belongs, nor without undertaking by the minute of the guardians or signed by two of the overseers of the union or parish to which such lunatic shall belong for the due payment of the weekly allowance and other expenses attendant upon the lodging, maintenance, medicine, clothing, and care of such lunatic during his continuance in such asylum, as well as for the removal of such lunatic from such asylum within three days after due notice given in writing by the superintendent of such asylum: Provided always, that the provision for the maintenance of such lunatics to be so admitted shall be fixed by the visitors at such rate as shall in their judgment be sufficient to cover every expense liable to be incurred on account of each such lunatic, or at any higher rate; but that so much of such rate as shall exceed the sum usually charged at such asylum for the maintenance of any pauper lunatic belonging to the county or borough for which such asylum shall be erected, or any parish situate therein, shall be deemed to be and shall be leviable as any monies hereby directed to be raised for erecting and providing an asylum for any county or borough.

LXXI. That it shall be lawful for any three members of the committee of visitors of any asylum, by writing under their hands and seals, to order the removal or discharge of any person confined in any such asylum, whether such person shall be recovered or not, and also for any three members of the committee of visitors, by writing under their hands and seals, by and with the advice and consent in writing of the medical officer of such asylum, to permit any person who shall be confined in such asylum, and shall be deemed convalescent, to be absent either wholly or partly from the asylum, upon trial, for such period not exceeding one month as such visitors shall think fit, and to make such allowance to such person, not exceeding the sum which he would cost if in the asylum, which shall be and be deemed his cost in the asylum, and also, with the like consent, to discharge therefrom any person confined therein, whose recovery may be certified by such medical officer; and every person who shall have been sent to any asylum as a pauper lunatic shall be safely kept therein until such order for his removal, trial, or discharge shall have been given as aforesaid; and if any superintendent, officer, or servant in any asylum shall, through wilful neglect or connivance, permit such person in any case to quit or escape from such asylum, or be at large without such order as aforesaid, he shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not more than 20*l.* nor less than 2*l.*

LXXII. That on the regular discharge or removal of any pauper from any asylum the necessary expenses attending the said discharge or removal of such pauper shall be borne by the union or parish (if any) to which such pauper shall then be deemed to belong, as hereinbefore is provided, or if such pauper shall then be chargeable to a county as hereinbefore is provided, then by such county; and such expenses, being proved to the satisfaction of and allowed by two Justices for the county in which such union, parish, or asylum shall be situate, or for the county to which such pauper shall be chargeable, shall be paid by the guardians or overseers of such union or parish out of the money raised therein for the relief of the poor, or by the treasurer of such county out of the rates of such county.

LXXIII. That the clerk of every asylum shall, immediately on the admission of any person as a lunatic into such asylum, make an entry with respect to such lunatic in a book to be kept for that purpose, to be called "The Register of Patients," according to the form and containing the particulars specified in the Schedule (G.) No. 1. to this Act, except as to the form of disorder, the entry as to which is to be supplied by the medical officer of the asylum within one month after the admission of the patient, and after the second and before the end of the seventh clear day from the day of the admission of any person as a lunatic into any asylum shall transmit to the Commissioners in Lunacy a copy of the order and certificate or certificates on which such lunatic has been so received, together with a statement to be made and signed by the medical officer of the asylum, according to the form in the said Schedule (E.) No. 3. to this Act annexed; and any clerk omitting so to make such entry, or to transmit such copy and statement, within the time aforesaid, and every medical officer omitting to make or sign such statement, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 20*l.*

LXXIV. That in every asylum the medical officer thereof shall once in every week enter into a book to be kept for that purpose, to be called "The Medical Journal," a statement according to the form in the said Schedule (G.) No. 3, shewing the number, sex, and state of health of all the patients then in such asylum, the christian and surname of every patient then under restraint, seclusion, or under medical treatment, the condition of the asylum, and every death, injury, and violence which shall have happened to or affected any patient since the then last preceding entry, and shall also enter into a book, to be called "The Case Book," as soon as may be after the admission of any patient, the mental state and bodily condition of every patient at the time of his admission, and also the history from time to time of his case whilst he shall continue in the asylum; and such books shall from time to time be regularly laid before the visitors, for their inspection and signature; and every medical officer, omitting to make such entries or any of them shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of 20*l.*

LXXV. That in case of the death of any patient in any asylum, a notice and statement, according to the form in Schedule (E.) No. 4, of the cause of the death of such patient, and the name of any person or persons who were present at the death, shall be drawn up and signed by the clerk and medical officer of such asylum, and a copy thereof shall be by the clerk transmitted to the registrar of deaths for the district, and to the clerk of the peace of the county or borough, counties or boroughs, by which the asylum is provided, and to the Commissioners in Lunacy, within forty-eight hours of the death of such patient, and also the relieving officer or the overseer of the union or parish or other person who shall sign the statement accompanying the order for the admission or confinement of any lunatic; and every medical officer or superintendent who shall neglect or omit to draw up, sign, or transmit such statement as aforesaid shall respectively forfeit and pay any sum not more than 20*l.* nor less than 2*l.*

LXXVI. That the clerk of every asylum shall, within three clear days after the death, discharge, or removal of any patient, make an entry thereof in the said register of patients, according to the form and containing the particulars in the said Schedule (G.) No. 2. to this Act; and every such clerk who shall not, within such three clear days after the death, discharge, or removal of every lunatic as aforesaid, make such entry as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay any sum not less than 2*l.* nor exceeding 10*l.*; and every such clerk who shall knowingly and wilfully in such entry untruly set forth any of the particulars required shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

LXXVII. That if any superintendent, officer, nurse, attendant, servant, or other person employed in any asylum, under the regulations of this Act, shall in any way abuse, ill-treat, or wilfully neglect any lunatic confined therein, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

LXXVIII. That every complaint and information of and for offences against this Act, where any pecuniary penalty is hereby imposed, may be made before one Justice; and such Justice may summon the person complained of to appear at a time and place to be named in such summons; and if he shall not appear accordingly, and upon proof of the due service of the summons (either personally or by leaving the same at his last or usual place of abode), any two Justices may issue their warrant for apprehending such person, and bringing him before any two Justices; and any two Justices shall and may, upon the appearing of such person pursuant to such summons, or upon such person being apprehended with such warrant, hear the matter of every such complaint and information, by examination of any witnesses upon oath, and make such determination thereon as such Justices shall think proper; and upon conviction of any person such Justices may, if they shall think fit, reduce the amount of the penalty by this Act imposed for such offence to any sum not less than one fourth of the amount thereof, except where otherwise provided, and shall and may issue a warrant under their hands and seals for levying such penalty or reduced penalty, and all costs and charges of such summons, warrant, hearing, and all incidental costs and charges, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person so convicted; and it shall be lawful for any such two Justices to order any person so convicted to be detained and kept in the custody of any constable or other peace officer until return can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, unless the said offender shall give security to the satisfaction of such Justices, by way of recognizance or otherwise, for his appearance before such Justices on such day as shall be appointed for the return of such warrant of distress, such day not being more than seven days from the time of taking any such security; but if upon the return of such warrant of distress it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had whereupon to levy the said penalty, and such costs and charges as aforesaid, and the same shall not be forthwith paid, or if it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Justices, either by the confession of the offender or otherwise, that the offender hath not sufficient goods and chattels whereupon such penalty, costs, and charges may be levied, such Justices shall and may, by warrant under their hands and seals, commit such offender to the common gaol or house of correction for any term not exceeding three calendar months, unless such penalty, and all such costs and charges as aforesaid, shall be sooner paid; and all such penalties, when recovered, shall be paid into the hands of the treasurer of the asylum for the county or borough, or the united counties or boroughs, where the offence shall be committed, or to the secretary of the Commissioners in Lunacy, whichever shall prosecute for such offence, and the overplus (if any) arising from such distress and sale, after payment of the penalty, and all costs and charges as aforesaid, shall be paid to the owner of the goods and chattels so distrained.

LXXIX. That the Justices before whom any person shall be convicted of any offence against this Act for which a pecuniary penalty is imposed may cause the conviction to be drawn up in the following form, or in any other form to the same effect, as be case may require, and that no conviction under this Act shall be void through want of form:

Be it remembered, That on the	Day of	in the Year of our Lord	at	in the County [or Borough] of	A.B. was convicted before us	did	of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said County [or Borough], for that he the said	for that he the said	did	; and we the said	adjudge the said	for his Offence to pay the Sum of	Pounds.'

LXXX. Provided and enacted, That any person who shall think himself aggrieved by any order or determination of any Justices under this Act, other than orders adjudicating as to the settlement of any lunatic pauper, and providing for his maintenance, may, within four calendar months after such order or determination made or given, appeal to the Justices at General or Quarter Sessions, the person appealing having first given at least fourteen clear days' notice in writing of such appeal, and the nature and matter thereof, to the person appealed against, and forthwith after such notice entering into a recognizance before some Justice of the Peace, with two sufficient sureties conditioned to try such appeal, and to abide the order and award of the said Court thereupon; and the said Justices at General or Quarter Sessions, upon proof of such notice and recognizance having been given and entered into, shall in a summary way hear and determine such appeal, or, if they think proper, adjourn the hearing thereof until the next General or Quarter Sessions, and, if they see cause, may reduce any penalty or forfeiture to not less than one-fourth of the amount imposed by this Act, and may order any money to be returned which shall have been levied in pursuance of such order or determination, and may also award such further satisfaction to be made to the party injured, or such costs to either of the parties, as they shall judge reasonable and proper; and all such determinations of the said Justices at General or Quarter Sessions shall be final, binding, and conclusive upon all parties to intents and purposes whatsoever.

LXXXI. That every city, town, liberty, parish, place, or district, not being a borough or part of a borough within the meaning of this Act, shall for all the purposes of this Act be annexed to and be treated and rated as part of the county within which the same is situate, or if such city, town, liberty, parish, place, or district be situate partly in one county and partly in another, then to and as such one of the same counties as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State shall, by writing under his hand and seal, direct, and shall contribute rateably to the expenses of the asylum of the county to which it is or shall be so annexed, whether such asylum has been provided before or shall be provided after the passing of this Act, and shall for the purposes of this Act be within the jurisdiction of the Justices of such county; and in every case in which any such city, town, liberty, parish, place, or district as aforesaid shall be annexed to a county in which an asylum has been already erected or provided, the present or any future committee of visitors of such asylum shall, as soon as conveniently may be after the passing of this Act, or after such annexation shall be made, fix a sum to be paid by the city, town, liberty, parish, place or district which is or shall be so annexed towards the expenses then already incurred in erecting or providing such asylum in due proportion to the population of such city, town, liberty, parish, place, or district, and of the county to which it all be annexed, according to the last returns under the authority of Parliament, and the same shall be paid by every such city, town, liberty, parish, place or district, to the treasurer of such asylum, and shall be levied and raised by such city, town, liberty, parish, place, or district by a rate to be made therein, in the same manner as any rate to be made therein for the purpose of levying or raising any other monies hereby directed to be levied and raised for the purposes of this Act; and the Justices for the county to which such city, town, liberty, parish, place, or district is or shall be annexed as aforesaid in General or Quarter Sessions, are hereby authorized and required to make such rate as aforesaid; and the sum so paid by such city, town, liberty, parish, place or district shall be applied by the treasurer of the asylum to whom the same shall have been paid in such manner as the committee of visitors shall direct, according to the provisions and for carrying into execution the purposes of this Act.

LXXXII. That the council of every borough which shall, by writing under their common seal, give notice to Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Home Department of the intention of such council to take upon itself the duties, powers, and authorities hereinbefore imposed or conferred upon or given to the Justices of the borough, shall from thenceforth be subject to, and have and exercise all the duties, powers, and authorities of and for erecting and providing asylums, and carrying into execution the purposes of this Act, which by this Act are imposed or conferred upon or given to the Justices of such borough, or upon any committee of visitors to be appointed as directed by this Act, and all matters and things which in this Act are required to be done at any General or Quarter Sessions may and shall thenceforth be done at any meeting of the council of such borough; and all notices which by this Act are required to be given to or by the clerk of the peace shall and may thenceforth be given to or by the town clerk of such borough.

LXXXIII. That it shall and may be lawful for the council of any such borough to confer upon any committee to be appointed by such council such of the powers and authorities which by this Act are conferred upon any committee of visitors to be appointed thereunder as to such council shall seem fit.

CAP. CXXVII.

AN ACT for the better securing the Payment of Small Debts.

(9th August 1845.)

[See Appendix for the clauses at length, p. xxiii.]

CAP. CXXVIII.

AN ACT to make further Regulations respecting the Tickets of Work to be delivered to Silk Weavers in certain Cases.

(9th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Manufacturer to deliver with warp a ticket of work.
2. Ticket to be evidence in cases of dispute ;
3. And work to be produced in order to adjudication.
4. Power of summoning witnesses.
5. Service of summons.
6. Levy and application of penalty.
7. Recovery of wages and sums due for work.
8. No certiorari to be allowed.
9. Act may be amended, &c.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 5 Geo. 4. c. 96, it was enacted, amongst other things, that "with every piece of work given out by the manufacturer to a workman to be done there shall (if both parties are agreed) be delivered a note or ticket in such form as the said parties shall mutually agree upon:" And that it is expedient that, so far as relates to silk weavers, such further provision should be made for delivery to them of a note or ticket of work as hereinafter is expressed:—

It is Enacted,

1. That from and after the 1st of January 1845 when any manufacturer of silk goods or of goods made of silk mixed with other materials, or the agent of any such manufacturer, gives out to a weaver of such goods a piece of warp to be woven, such manufacturer or agent shall at the same time deliver to such weaver (unless both parties shall by writing under their respective hands agree to dispense therewith) a printed or written ticket, signed by such manufacturer or agent, containing the following particulars of the agreement between such manufacturer or agent and such weaver; (that is to say),

The count or richness of the warp or cane :

The number of shoots or picks required in each inch :

The number of threads of weft to be used in each shoot :

The name of the manufacturer, or the style of the firm under which he carries on business :

The weaver's name, with the date of the engagement :

And the price in sterling money agreed on for executing each yard imperial standard measure of thirty-six inches of such work in a workmanlike manner :

And such manufacturer or agent delivering such ticket shall make or cause to be made, and shall preserve until the work contracted to be done shall have been completed or paid for, a duplicate of such note or ticket.

11. That in the event of a dispute between the manufacturer or his agent and the workmen, such ticket and the said duplicate thereof shall be required to be produced, and shall, together or either of them, be evidence of all things mentioned herein, or respecting the same.

111. Provided and enacted, That where the subject of dispute relates to the alleged improper or imperfect execution of any work delivered to any manufacturer or his agent, such piece of work shall be produced, in order to adjudication, or if not produced shall be deemed and taken to have been sufficiently and properly executed.

1V. That if any of the parties to the said complaint shall make oath before any Justice having cognizance of such complaint that he or she believes that the attendance of any person as a witness will be material to the hearing of such complaint, such Justice may summon such person, having been paid or tendered a reasonable sum for his expenses, to appear and give evidence on oath before him at a time and place set forth in the said summons; and if any person so summoned shall not appear at the time and place set forth in the said summons, and shall not make excuse for the default the satisfaction of such Justice, and if the due service of the summons be proved, or if such person appearing according to the summons shall not submit to be examined as a witness, then such Justice may adjudge such person so making default appearing or refusing to give evidence to pay such penalty not exceeding 5*l.* as such Justice shall think fit, and the party adjudged to pay such penalty shall pay the same accordingly.

v. That every summons required by this Act shall be served by delivering the same to the person summoned, or by leaving the same at his or her usual place of abode, twenty-four hours at least before the time appointed by the summons for such person to appear.

vi. That if any such penalty or costs so adjudged by any Justice to be paid is not paid immediately upon adjudication such Justice may issue his warrant to distrain and sell the goods and chattels of the person so adjudged to pay the same for the amount thereof, with costs; and the proceeds of such distress, after paying the penalty and costs, and the costs of such distress and sale, shall be paid over to the person convicted; and the said penalty shall be paid over to the sheriff or other proper officer of the county, city, borough, or place in which such conviction shall take place, for Her Majesty's use, and shall be returned to the Court of Quarter Sessions, under the provisions of an Act, 3 Geo. 4. c. 46, intituled, 'An Act for the more speedy Return and levying of Fines, Penalties, and Forfeitures, and Recognizances estreated.'

vii. That if any silk manufacturer or other party employing, contracting or engaging with any person for any work in any branch of the said manufacture, or connected therewith or incidental thereto, or for specific work or otherwise, and whether such person is to be paid according to the nature or amount of the work done, the time employed, or any other manner, shall not from time to time pay and discharge all such sums of money and wages as shall be justly due and payable to any such person, it shall be lawful for a Justice of the Peace, on complaint made for that purpose, to summon such manufacturer or other party to appear at a time and place to be named in such summons, and for any two or more Justices of the Peace to hear and determine such complaint, and order payment of such sum as shall appear to such Justices to be justly due and payable, together with costs for loss of time and recovering the same, and in default of payment immediately, or within such period as the said Justices shall direct, the said Justices shall issue their warrant to levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the said manufacturer or other party; and the said Justices, if they shall think fit, may also, by order in writing, authorize such person to return his work unfinished; and such Justices shall also fine such manufacturer or other party for such neglect of payment, if the first offence 5*l.*, and for the second 10*l.* and 5*l.* extra for every succeeding offence, unless the said manufacturer or other party shall deliver to the said person employed a notice in writing, within four-and-twenty hours after such refusal to pay to the said person employed the amount of wages due, stating the reasons for such refusal in full, and that the said manufacturer or other party intends to have such work arbitrated.

viii. That no order or conviction or proceeding touching the same respectively shall be quashed for want of form, or be removed by certiorari or otherwise into any of Her Majesty's superior courts of record; and that when any distress shall have been made for levying any money by virtue of this Act the distress itself shall not be deemed unlawful, nor the party making the same a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the summons, warrant, conviction, warrant of distress, or other proceedings in relation thereto, nor shall the party distraining be deemed a trespasser from the beginning on account of any irregularity afterwards committed by him, but the person aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for special damage (if any) by action on the case.

ix. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in the present session of Parliament.

CAP. XCVII.

AN ACT to amend the Law respecting Testamentary Dispositions of Property in the Public Funds, and to authorize the Payment of Dividends on Letters of Attorney in certain Cases.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. All shares of public stocks standing in the books of the Bank of England in the name of any deceased person may be transferred by the executors notwithstanding any specific bequests.—Bank may require all the executors to join in the transfer of stock.
2. Bank not to register specific bequests.
3. Powers of attorney to be given for receipt of dividends in certain cases.
4. Interpretation of Act.
5. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that by 1 Geo. 1. c. 19, and by divers Acts since passed for creating stocks, funds, and annuities payable out of the public revenue, and for the consolidation, regulation and management of such stocks, funds, and annuities respectively, it is enacted, that any person or persons possessed of any estate or interest in the public stocks or funds, and annuities by the same Acts respectively created, may devise the same by will in writing, attested by two or more credible witnesses, but that no such devisee shall receive any payment thereupon until so much of any such will as shall relate to such stock or annuity respectively shall be entered or registered in the office of the chief accountant for the time being of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, and that in default of any such devise such stocks or funds respectively, and the respective annuities attending the same, shall go to the executors or administrators of the person or persons dying entitled thereto: and that doubts have arisen as to the true construction and effect of the provisions aforesaid; and the registration of specific devises or bequests of property in such stocks, funds, and annuities as aforesaid has been found in practice to be unnecessary and inconvenient; and it is expedient that such doubts should be removed, and that the provisions made by the said Acts respectively for such registration should be repealed: And that it hath been the practice of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England to require that all the executors of any person entitled to any share or interest in any stocks, funds, or annuities transferable at the Bank of England should join in the transfer thereof, and it is desirable that the same should be confirmed by law:—

It is Enacted,

1. That all the share or interest in any public stocks now standing in the books of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England in the name of any deceased person, and all the share and interest of any person who shall hereafter die possessed of any such stocks standing in his name as aforesaid, shall and may be assigned and transferred by the executors or administrators of such person, notwithstanding any specific bequest or disposition thereof in the will of such person contained: Provided always, that the said Governor and Company of the Bank of England shall not be required to permit or allow the executors or administrators of any such person to transfer any such stocks, or to receive any dividend thereon, until the probate of the will or the letters of administration of the goods, chattels, and credits of such person shall have been first left at the Bank of England for registration thereof; and that it shall be lawful for the said Governor and Company to require all the executors who shall have proved the will of any deceased person in whose name any such stocks are now or at any time hereafter may be standing to join and concur in every transfer thereof or of any part thereof.

2. That so much and such respective parts of any and every Act now in force as require all or any part of any will or deed devising or bequeathing or purporting to devise or bequeath any estate, property, or interest in any public stocks, or any dividends arising therefrom, to be entered or registered in the office of the chief accountant of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, or in any other office, or in any book of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, shall be and the same are hereby respectively repealed, and that from and after the passing of this Act it shall be sufficient for the said Governor and Company, before permitting the transfer of any stocks, or the receipt of any dividends upon any stocks standing in the name of any deceased person, to register the names of the deceased party, and of his executors or administrators respectively, as the case may be.

And after reciting that it frequently happens that stock is standing in the names of infants or persons of unsound mind, or of persons not under any legal disability to act, and such last-mentioned persons are not able to attend personally to receive the dividends thereon, and no power of attorney can be granted for the receipt of such dividends:—

It is Enacted,

III. That whenever it shall happen that any stock shall be standing in the name of any infant or person of unsound mind, jointly with any person not under any legal disability to act, it shall be lawful to and for such last-mentioned person, by letter of attorney under his hand and seal, attested by two or more credible witnesses, to authorize some other person to receive the dividends due and to accrue due on such stock; and the payment of any such dividend to any person so appointed shall discharge the said Governor and Company of the Bank of England in respect thereof: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Governor and Company, before acting on any such letter of attorney, to require proof to the satisfaction of the said Governor and Company of the age of such infant, or of the unsoundness of mind of such person, by the declaration of competent persons, to be made in pursuance of the Act, 6 Will. 4, authorizing the substitution of a declaration in lieu of an oath in certain cases.

IV. That the word "stocks" in this Act shall extend to any stocks, funds, or annuities which now are or at any time hereafter shall be transferable at the Bank of England; and that the plural number in this Act shall be construed to include the singular; and that the masculine gender in this Act shall be construed to include the feminine.

V. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this present Session of Parliament.

CAP. CVI.

AN ACT to amend the Law of Real Property.

(4th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Repeal of so much of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 76. as abolishes contingent remainders as from the commencement; and the residue as from 1st October 1845.
2. The immediate freehold of corporeal tenements to lie in grant as well as in livery.—Stamp duty on grants thereof.
3. Feoffments, partitions, exchanges, leases, assignments, and surrenders required (subject to certain exceptions) to be by deed.
4. Feoffments not to operate by wrong, nor exchanges or partitions to imply any condition, or give and grant any covenant.
5. Strangers may take immediately under an indenture, and a deed purporting to be an indenture shall take effect as such.
6. Contingent and other like interests, also rights of entry, made alienable by deed, saving estates in tail; and as regards married women enjoining conformity to 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 74.
7. Capacity of married women to disclaim estates or interests by deed extended to England.
8. Contingent remainders protected as from 31st December 1844, against the premature failure of a preceding estate.
9. When the reversion on a lease is gone the next estate to be deemed the reversion.
10. Act not to extend to Scotland.

By this Act, it is enacted as follows; (that is to say,)

I. That so much of an Act passed in the last session of Parliament, intituled 'An Act to simplify the Transfer of Property,' as enacted that, after the time at which that Act should come into operation, no estate in land should be created by way of contingent remainder; but that every estate which, before that time, would have taken effect as a contingent remainder should take effect (if in a will or codicil) as an executory devise, and (if in a deed) as an executory estate of the same nature, and having the same properties, as an executory devise; and that contingent remainders existing under deeds, wills, or instruments, executed or made before the time when that Act should come into operation, should not fail, or be destroyed or barred merely by reason of the destruction or merger of any preceding estate, or its determination by any other means than the natural effluxion of the time of such preceding estate, or some event on which it was in its creation limited to determine, shall be and is hereby repealed, as from the time of the commencement and taking effect thereof; and that the residue of the said Act shall be and is hereby repealed, as from the 1st of October 1845.

II. That, after the said 1st of October 1845, all corporeal tenements and hereditaments shall, as regards the conveyance of the immediate freehold thereof, be deemed to lie in grant as well as in livery; and that every deed which, by force only of this enactment, shall be effectual as a grant, shall be chargeable with the stamp duty with which the same deed would have been chargeable in case the same had been a release, founded on a lease or bargain and sale for a year, and also with the new stamp duty (exclusive of progressive duty) with which such lease or bargain or sale for a year would have been chargeable.

III. That a feoffment, made after the said 1st of October 1845, other than a feoffment made under a custom by an infant, shall be void at law, unless evidenced by deed; and that a partition, and an exchange, of any tenements or hereditaments, as being copyhold, and a lease, required by law to be in writing, of any tenements or hereditaments, and an assignment of a chattel interest, not being copyhold, in any tenements or hereditaments, and a surrender in writing of an interest in any tenements or hereditaments, not being a copyhold interest, and not being an interest which might by law have been created without writing, made after the said 1st of October 1845, shall also be void at law, unless made by deed: Provided always, that the said enactment so far as the same relates to a release or a surrender shall not extend to Ireland.

IV. That a feoffment, made after the said 1st of October 1845, shall not have any tortious operation; and that an exchange, or a partition, of any tenements or hereditaments, made by deed, executed after the said 1st of October 1845, shall not imply any condition in law; and that the word "give" or the word "grant," in a deed, executed after the same date, shall not imply any covenant in law, in respect of any tenements or hereditaments, except so far as the word "give" or the word "grant" may, by force of any Act of Parliament, imply a covenant.

v. That, under an indenture, executed after the 1st of October 1845, an immediate estate or interest, in any tenements or hereditaments, and the benefit of a condition or covenant, respecting any tenements or hereditaments, may be taken, although the taker thereof be not named a party to the same indenture; also, that a deed, executed after the said 1st of October 1845, purporting to be an indenture, shall have the effect of an indenture although not actually indented.

vi. That, after the 1st of October 1845, a contingent, an executory, and a future interest, and a possibility coupled with an interest, in any tenements or hereditaments of any tenure, whether the object of the gift or limitation of such interest or possibility be or be not ascertained, also a right of entry, whether immediate or future, and whether vested or contingent, into or upon any tenements or hereditaments in England, of any tenure, may be disposed of by deed; but that no such disposition shall, by force only of this Act, defeat or enlarge an estate tail; and that every such disposition by a married woman shall be made conformably to the provisions, relative to dispositions by married women, of an Act 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 74, intituled 'An Act for the Abolition of Fines and Recoveries, and for the Substitution of more simple Modes of Assurance,' or in Ireland, of an Act, 4 & 5 Will. 4. c. 92, intituled, 'An Act for the Abolition of Fines and Recoveries, and for the Substitution of more simple modes of Assurance, in Ireland.'

vii. That, after the 1st of October 1845, an estate or interest in any tenements or hereditaments in England, of any tenure, may be disclaimed by a married woman by deed; and that every such disclaimer shall be made conformably to the said provisions of the said Act for the abolition of fines and recoveries and for the substitution of more simple modes of assurance.

viii. That a contingent remainder, existing at any time after the 31st of December 1844, shall be, and, if created before the passing of this Act, shall be deemed to have been, capable of taking effect, notwithstanding the determination, by forfeiture, surrender, or merger, of any preceding estate of freehold in the same manner, in all respects, as if such determination had not happened.

ix. That when the reversion expectant on a lease, made either before or after the passing of this Act, of any tenements or hereditaments, of any tenure, shall, after the said 1st of October 1845, be surrendered or merged, the estate which shall for the time being confer as against the tenant under the same lease the next vested right to the same tenements or hereditaments, shall, to the extent and for the purpose of preserving such incidents to, and obligations on, the same reversion, as, but for the surrender or merger thereof, would have subsisted, be deemed the reversion expectant on the same lease.

x. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland.

  26. Act may be repealed, &c.

By this Act,

After reciting that the laws heretofore made in restraint of unlawful gaming have been found of no avail to prevent the mischiefs which may happen therefrom, and also apply to sundry games of skill from which the like mischiefs cannot arise:—

It is Enacted,

I. That so much of an Act, 33 Hen. 8. c. 9, intituled, 'The Bill for maintaining Artillery, and the debarring of unlawful Games,' whereby any game of mere skill, such as bowling, coyting, cloyshcayls, half bowl tennis, or the like, is declared an unlawful game, or which enacts any penalty for playing at any such game of skill as aforesaid, or which enacts any penalty for lacking bows or arrows, or for not making and continuing butts, or which regulates the making, selling, or using of bows and arrows, and also so much of the said Act as requires the mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs, constables, and other head officers within every city, borough, and town within this realm, to make search weekly, or at the farthest once a month, in all places where houses, alleys, plays, or places of dicing, carding, or gaming shall be suspected to be had, kept, and maintained, shall be repealed, and also so much of the said Act as makes it lawful for every master to license his or their servants, and for every nobleman and other having manors, lands, tenements, or other yearly profits for term of life, in his own right or in his wife's right, to the yearly value of 100*l.* or above, to command, appoint, or license, by his or their discretion, his or their servants or family of his or their house or houses to play at cards, dice, or tables, or any unlawful game, as therein more fully set forth, shall be repealed; and that no such commandment, appointment, or licence shall avail any person to exempt him from the danger or penalty of playing at any unlawful game or in any common gaming house.

And after reciting that doubts have arisen whether certain houses, alleged or reputed to be opened for the use of the subscribers only, or not open to all persons desirous of using the same, are to be deemed common gaming houses:—

It is Declared and Enacted,

II. That, in default of other evidence proving any house or place to be a common gaming house, it shall be sufficient in support of the allegation in any indictment or information that any house or place is a common gaming house, to prove that such house or place is kept or used for playing therein at any unlawful game, and that a bank is kept there by one or more of the players exclusively of the others, or that the chances of any game played therein are not alike favourable to all the players, including among the players the banker or other person by whom the game is managed, or against whom the other players stake, play, or bet; and every such house or place shall be deemed a common gaming house such as is contrary to law and forbidden to be kept by the said Act of King Henry the Eighth, and by all other Acts containing any provision against unlawful games or gaming houses.

III. That in every case (except within the Metropolitan Police district) in which the Justices of Peace in every shire, and mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs, and other head officers within every city, town, and borough, within this realm, now have by law authority to enter into any house, room, or place where unlawful games shall be suspected to be holden, it shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, upon complaint made before him on oath that there is reason to suspect any house, room, or place to be kept or used as a common gaming house, to give authority, by special warrant under his hand, when in his discretion he shall think fit, to any constable, to enter, with such assistance as may be found necessary, into such house, room, or place, in like manner as might have been done by such Justices, mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs, or other head officers, and, if necessary, to use force for making such entry, whether by breaking open doors or otherwise, and to arrest, search, and bring before a Justice of Peace all such persons found therein as might have been arrested therein by such Justice of Peace had he been personally present; and all such persons shall be dealt with according to law, as if they had been arrested in such house, room, or place by the Justice before whom they shall be so brought; and any such warrant may be in the form given in the first Schedule annexed to this Act.

IV. That the owner or keeper of any common gaming house, and every person having the care or management thereof, and also every banker, croupier, and other person who shall act in any manner in conducting the business of any common gaming house, shall, on conviction thereof, by his own confession, or by the oath of one or more credible witnesses, before any two Justices of the Peace, besides any penalty or punishment to which he may be liable under the provision of the said Act of King Henry the Eighth, be liable to forfeit and pay such penalty not more than 100*l.*, as shall be adjudged by the Justices before whom he shall be convicted, or, in the discretion of the Justices before whom he shall be convicted, may be committed to the house of correction with or without hard labour, for any time not more than six calendar months; and on non-payment of any penalty so adjudged, and of the reasonable costs and charges attending the conviction, the same shall be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, by warrant under the hand and seal of one of the convicting Justices: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any proceeding by indictment against the owner or keeper or other person having the care or management of a common gaming house; but no person who shall have been summarily convicted of any such offence shall be liable to be proceeded against by indictment for the same offence.

V. That it shall not be necessary, in support of any information for gaming in, or suffering any games or gaming, in, or for keeping or using, or being concerned in the management or conduct of a common gaming house, to prove that any person found playing at any game was playing for any money, wager, or stake.

VI. That if any superintendent belonging to the Metropolitan Police Force shall report in writing to the Commissioners of Police of the metropolis that there are good grounds for believing, and that he does believe, that any house, room, or place within the Metropolitan Police district is kept or used as a common gaming house, it shall be lawful for either of the said Commissioners, by order in writing, to authorize the superintendent to enter any such house, room, or place, with such constables as shall be directed by the Commissioner to accompany him, and, if necessary, to use force for the purpose of effecting such entry, whether by breaking open doors or otherwise, and to take into custody all persons who shall be found therein, and to seize all tables and instruments of gaming found in such house or premises, and also to seize all monies and securities for money found therein.

VII. That it shall be lawful for the police superintendent making such entry as aforesaid in obedience to any such order of one of the Commissioners of Police of the metropolis, with the assistance of any constable or constables accompanying him, to search all parts of the house, room, or place which he shall have so entered where he shall suspect that tables or instruments of gaming are concealed, and all persons whom he shall find therein, and to seize all tables and instruments of gaming which he shall so find.

VIII. That where any cards, dice, balls, counters, tables, or other instruments of gaming used in playing any unlawful game shall be found in any house, room, or place suspected to be used as a common gaming house, and entered under a warrant or order issued under the provisions of this Act, or about the person of any of those who shall be found therein, it shall be evidence, until the contrary be made to appear, that such house, room, or place is used as a common gaming house, and that the persons found in the room or place where such tables or instruments of gaming shall have been found were playing therein, although no play was actually going on in the presence of the superintendent or constable entering the same, under a warrant or order issued under the provisions of this Act, or in the presence of those persons by whom he shall be accompanied as aforesaid; and it shall be lawful for the Police Magistrate or Justices before whom any person shall be taken by virtue of the warrant or order to direct all such tables and instruments of gaming to be forthwith destroyed.

And for the more effectual prosecution of the keepers of common gaming houses,—

It is Enacted,

IX. That every person who shall have been concerned in any unlawful gaming, and who shall be examined as a witness by or before any Police Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, or on the trial of any indictment or information against the owner or keeper or other person having the care or management of any common gaming house, touching such unlawful gaming, and who upon such examination shall make true and faithful discovery to the best of his or her knowledge of all things as to which he or she shall be so examined, and shall thereupon receive from the Magistrate or Justice of the Peace or Judge of the Court by or before whom he or she shall be so examined a certificate in writing to that effect, shall be freed from all criminal prosecutions, and from all forfeitures, punishments, and disabilities, to which he or she may have become liable for anything done before that time in respect of such unlawful gaming.

X. That the Justices in every division, district, and place in England for which a special session of the Justices of the Peace (called the General Annual Licensing Meeting) is holden annually for granting licences to persons keeping or being about to keep inns, alehouses, and victualling houses to sell exciseable liquors by retail, to be drunk or consumed on the premises therein specified, shall have authority at such general annual licensing meeting, or at any adjournment thereof, to grant billiard licences to such persons as the said Justices shall in their discretion deem fit and proper to keep public billiard tables and bagatelle boards, or instruments used in any game of the like kind, and at the special sessions holden for transferring licences to keep inns shall have authority to transfer such billiard licences to such other persons as they in their discretion shall deem fit and proper to continue to hold the same, and who in each case shall be required to give the like notice of their intention to apply for such billiard licence, and entitled to receive the like notice of the licensing days as is required in the case of persons intending to apply for a licence or the transfer of a licence to sell exciseable liquors by retail to be drunk or consumed on the premises, or as near thereto as the case will allow; and every such billiard licence shall be in the form given in the third schedule annexed to this Act, and shall continue in force in the counties of Middlesex and Surrey from the 5th of April, and elsewhere from the 10th of October, after the granting thereof, for one whole year thence respectively next ensuing, and no longer; and the clerk of the Justices shall be entitled to demand and receive from every person licensed under this Act, for the petty constable or other peace officer, for serving notices and other services required of him, the sum of 1s., and for the clerk of the Justices, for the licence, the sum of 5s.; and every clerk who shall demand or receive from any person for such fees more than the said sums, being together 6s., shall for every such offence, on conviction before one Justice, forfeit and pay the sum of 5l.

XI. That after the 5th of April 1846, in the counties of Middlesex and Surrey, and elsewhere after the 10th of October next after the passing of this Act, every house, room, or place kept for public billiard playing, or where a public billiard table or bagatelle board, or instrument used in any game of the like kind, is kept, at which persons are admitted to play, except in houses or premises specified in any licence granted under an Act, 9 Geo. 4. c. 61, intituled 'An Act to regulate the granting of Licences to Keepers of Inns, Alehouses, and Victualling Houses in England,' hereinafter called a 'Victualler's Licence,' shall be licensed under this Act; and after the said 5th of April in Middlesex and Surrey, and elsewhere after the said 10th of October, every person keeping any such public billiard table or bagatelle board, or instrument used in any game of the like kind for public use, without being duly licensed so to do, and not holding a victualler's licence or the house or premises where such billiard table, bagatelle board, or other instrument as aforesaid is kept or used, and also every person licensed under this Act who shall not during the continuance of such billiard licence put and keep up the words 'Licensed for Billiards,' legibly printed in some conspicuous place near the door and on the outside of the house specified in the licence, shall be liable to be proceeded against as the keeper of a common gaming house, and, beside any penalty or punishment to which he may be liable if convicted of keeping a common gaming house, shall, on conviction of keeping such licensed billiard table, bagatelle board, or other instrument as aforesaid, by his own confession, or by the oath of one or more credible witnesses before any Police Magistrate or any two Justices of the Peace, be liable to pay such penalty, not more than 10l. for every day on which such billiard table, bagatelle board, or instrument as aforesaid shall be used, as shall be adjudged by the Magistrate or Justices before whom he shall be convicted, or, in the discretion of the Magistrate or Justices, may be committed to the house of correction with or without hard labour, for any time not more than one calendar month; and on non-payment of any penalty so adjudged, and of the reasonable costs and charges of the conviction, the same shall be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, by warrant under the hand and seal of the Magistrate or one of the convicting Justices; but no person who shall have been summarily convicted of any such offence shall be liable to be further proceeded against by indictment for the same offence.

xii. That every person licensed under this Act who shall be convicted before a Police Magistrate or two Justices acting in and for the division or place in which shall be situated the house kept or theretofore kept by such person of any offence against the tenour of the licence to him granted, shall be liable to the same penalties and punishments in the case of a first, second, or third offence respectively to which persons licensed under an Act of 9 Geo. 4, intituled, 'An Act to regulate the granting of Licences to Keepers of Inns, Alehouses, and Victualling Houses in England,' are respectively liable on conviction of a first, second or third offence against the tenour of the licence granted to them under the last-recited Act, or as near thereunto as the nature of the case will allow; and all the provisions of the last-recited Act with respect to convictions and penalties for offences against the last-recited Act, and the proceedings for enforcing the same, and to the expenses of prosecution and penalties on witnesses for not attending, and the recovery and application of penalties, and the proceedings on appeals against convictions, and the award of costs on appeals, and in actions against Justices, constables, or other persons for anything done in execution of the last-recited Act, shall be deemed to apply, so far as they are applicable, to convictions for offences against the tenour of the licences granted under this Act, and to the proceedings consequent thereupon or connected therewith, as if they were herein re-enacted.

xiii. That every person keeping any public billiard table or bagatelle board, or instrument used in any game of the like kind, whether he be the holder of a victualler's licence or licensed under this Act, who shall allow any person to play at such table, board, or instrument after one and before eight of the clock in the morning of any day, or at any time on Sunday, Christmas-day, or Good Friday, or any day appointed to be kept as a public fast or thanksgiving; and every person holding a victualler's licence who shall allow any person to play at such table, board, or instrument kept on the premises specified in such victualler's licence, at any time when such premises are not by law allowed to be open for the sale of wine, spirits, or beer, or other fermented or distilled liquors, shall be liable to the penalties herein provided in the case of persons keeping such public billiard table, bagatelle board, or instrument as aforesaid, for public use without licence; and during those times when play at such table, board, or instrument is not allowed by this Act every house licensed under this Act, and every billiard room in every house specified in any victualler's licence, shall be closed, and the keeping of the same open, or allowing any person to play therein or thereat, at any of the times or on any of the days during which such play is not allowed by this Act, shall be deemed in each case an offence against the tenour of the licence of the person so offending.

xiv. That it shall be lawful for all constables and officers of police to enter into any house, room, or place where any public table or board is kept for playing at billiards, bagatelle, or any game of the like kind, when and so often as such constables and officers shall think proper; and every person licensed under the said Act of 9 Geo. 4, or under this Act, who shall refuse to admit, or who shall not admit any such constable or officer of police into such house, room, or place shall, on conviction thereof before a police magistrate, or any two Justices of the Peace, be deemed guilty of an offence against the tenour of his licence, whether the same be a billiard licence or a victualler's licence, and in the case of a first, second, third, or subsequent offence shall be punished accordingly.

xv. That an Act, 16 Car. 2. c. 7, and an Act, 10 Will. 3. (I.), each of such Acts being intituled, 'An Act against deceitful, disorderly, and excessive Gaming,' and so much of an Act, 9 Anne, c. 14, and of an Act, 11 Anne (I.), each of such Acts being intituled, 'An Act for the better preventing of excessive and deceitful Gaming,' as was not altered by an Act, 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 41, intituled, 'An Act to amend the Law relating to Securities given for Considerations arising out of gaming, usurious, and certain other illegal Transactions,' and so much of an Act, 18 Geo. 2. c. 34, intituled, 'An Act to explain, amend, and make more effectual the Laws in being to prevent excessive and deceitful Gaming, and to restrain and prevent the excessive Increase of Horse Races,' as related to the first-recited Act of Queen Anne, or as renders any person liable to be indicted and punished for winning or losing, at play or by betting, at any one time, the sum or value of 10*l*., or within the space of twenty-four hours, the sum or value of 20*l*., shall be repealed, except as to any penalties incurred on or before the 5th of March in the year 1844, for recovering which any suit shall have been commenced before the said 5th of March, and the proceedings for recovery and application of the same.

xvi. That after the passing of this Act it shall be lawful for any person or persons against whom any action, bill, plaint, or information shall have been sued out, commenced, or prosecuted, for the recovery of any pecuniary penalty or penalties incurred on or before the day of the passing of this Act, under the provisions of any Act hereinbefore amended or repealed, to apply to the Court in which such action, bill, plaint, or information shall have been sued out, commenced, or prosecuted, or to any Judge of any of the superior courts at Westminster, for an order that such action, bill, plaint, or information shall be discontinued, upon payment of the costs thereof which were incurred on or before the 5th of March 1844, such costs to be taxed according to the form of such court; and every such Court or Judge, upon such application, shall make such order as aforesaid; and upon the making such order, and payment or tender of such costs as aforesaid, such action, bill, plaint, or information shall be forthwith discontinued.

xvii. That every person who shall, by any fraud or unlawful device or ill practice in playing at or with cards, dice, tables, or other game, or in bearing a part in the stakes, wagers, or adventures, or in betting on the sides or hands of those that do play, or in wagering on the event of any game, sport, pastime, or exercise, win from any other person to himself, or any other or others, any sum of money or valuable thing, shall be deemed guilty of obtaining such money or valuable thing from such other person by a false pretence, with intent to cheat or defraud such person of the same, and, being convicted thereof, shall be punished accordingly.

xviii. That all contracts or agreements, whether by parole or in writing, by way of gaming or wagering, shall be null and void; and that no suit shall be brought or maintained in any court of law or equity for recovering any sum of money or valuable thing alleged to be won upon any wager, or which shall have been deposited in the hands of any person to abide the event on which any wager shall have been made: Provided always, that this enactment shall not be deemed to apply to any subscription or contribution, or agreement to subscribe or contribute, for or toward any plate, prize, or sum of money to be awarded to the winner or winners of any lawful game, sport, pastime, or exercise.

And after reciting that many important questions are now tried in the form of feigned issues, by stating that a wager was laid between two parties interested in respectively maintaining the affirmative and the negative of certain propositions; but such questions may be as satisfactorily tried without such form:—

It is Enacted,

XIX. That in every case where any court of law or equity may desire to have any question of fact decided by a jury it shall be lawful for such Court to direct a writ of summons to be sued out, by such person or persons as such Court shall think ought to be plaintiff or plaintiffs, against such person or persons as such Court shall think ought to be defendant or defendants therein, in the form set forth in the second schedule to this Act annexed, with such alterations or additions as such court may think proper; and thereupon all the proceedings shall go on and be brought to a close in the same manner as is now practised in proceedings under a feigned issue.

XX. That any person who shall be summarily convicted under this Act may appeal to the next General or Quarter Session of the Peace to be holden for the county or place wherein the cause of complaint shall have arisen, provided that such person at the time of the conviction, or within forty-eight hours thereafter, shall enter into a recognizance, with two sufficient securities, conditioned personally to appear at the said session to try such appeal, and to abide the further judgment of the Court at such session, and to pay such costs as shall be by the last-mentioned Court awarded; and it shall be lawful for the Magistrate or Justices by whom such conviction shall have been made to bind over the witnesses who shall have been examined in sufficient recognizances to attend and be examined at the hearing of such appeal; and that every such witness, on producing a certificate of being so bound, under the hand of the said Magistrate or Justices, shall be allowed compensation for his or her time, trouble, and expenses in attending the appeal, which compensation shall be paid in the first instance by the treasurer of the county or place, in like manner as in cases of misdemeanour, under the provisions of an Act, 7 Geo. 4. c. 64, intituled 'An Act for improving the Administration of Criminal Justice in England,' and in case the appeal shall be dismissed, and the order or conviction affirmed, the reasonable expenses of all such witnesses attending as aforesaid, to be ascertained by the Court, shall be repaid to the said treasurer by the appellant.

XXI. That when any distress shall be made for any money to be levied by virtue of the warrant of any Justice under this Act, the distress shall not be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the information, summons, warrant of apprehension, conviction, warrant of distress, or other proceedings relating thereto, nor shall such party be deemed a trespasser from the beginning on account of any irregularity which shall be afterwards committed by him, but all persons aggrieved by such defect or irregularity may recover full satisfaction for the special damage by an action on the case in any of Her Majesty's courts of record.

XXII. That no plaintiff shall recover in any action for any irregularity, trespass, or other wrongful proceeding made or committed in the execution of this Act, or in, under, or by virtue of any authority hereby given, if tender of sufficient amends shall have been made, by or on behalf of the party who shall have committed such irregularity, trespass, or other wrongful proceeding, before such action brought; and in case no tender shall have been made it shall be lawful for the defendant in any such action, by leave of the Court where such action shall depend, at any time before issue joined, to pay into Court such sum of money as he shall think fit; whereupon such proceeding, order, and adjudication shall be had and made in and by such Court as in other actions where defendants are allowed to pay money into court.

XXIII. That no action, suit, or information, or any other proceeding, of what nature soever, shall be brought against any person for anything done or omitted to be done in pursuance of this Act, or in the execution of the authorities under this Act, unless notice in writing shall be given by the party intending to prosecute such suit, information, or other proceeding, to the intended defendant, one calendar month at least before prosecuting the same, nor unless such action, suit, information, or other proceeding shall be brought or commenced within three calendar months next after the act or omission complained of, or in case there shall be continuation of damage, then within three calendar months next after the doing such damage shall have ceased.

XXIV. That in Ireland the term "Metropolitan Police Force," and the terms "Commissioners of the Police of the Metropolis," and the terms "Metropolitan Police District," shall mean and include respectively the Dublin Metropolitan Police Force, the Commissioners of Police of Dublin Metropolis, and the Police District of Dublin Metropolis.

XXV. That no information, conviction, or other proceeding before or by any Justice or Justices under this Act shall be quashed or set aside, or adjudged void or insufficient, for want of form, or be removed by certiorari into Her Majesty's Court of Queen's Bench.

XXVI. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

SCHEDULES to which the foregoing Act refers.

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Justices at sessions to appoint committees for assessing county rates.
2. Meetings of committee.
3. Committee may appoint a clerk.
4. Committees may require returns of the annual value of the property in any parish liable to be assessed, with the date of the valuation.—Such returns to be laid before a vestry meeting previous to their being presented to the committee.
5. Declaration of the property liable to the county rate.
6. Meaning of "full and fair annual value."
7. Committees empowered to inspect rates, assessments, valuations, &c.
8. Penalty on overseers or others refusing to attend or produce documents.
9. Committees may cause new valuations to be made.
10. Allowances and compensation to persons employed in the execution of this Act.
11. If parish officers neglect or make false returns, expenses of valuations to be paid by parishes.
12. When committee have prepared a county rate differing in value from the preceding, they shall cause it to be printed, and distributed to the acting Justices and overseers of the poor.—Overseers to submit the rate to a vestry meeting.

13. Notice of the time within which objections may be made to the proposed rate to be sent to the overseers.
14. Notice to be given when rate will be taken into consideration by Court of General or Quarter Sessions.
15. Rate to be deemed valid after confirmation by Court of General or Quarter Sessions.
16. Appeal.—Notice of appeal.
17. Hearing and determining appeals.
18. Penalty on persons obstructing overseers, &c.
19. Penalties and forfeitures, costs and charges, may be levied by distress and sale of offenders' goods.—Committal.—Application of penalties.
20. Sessions to determine costs of appeal and of valuation ordered by Sessions.
21. Costs of valuations directed by committee.
22. Applying provisions of former Acts to this Act.
23. County rate not to be assessed otherwise than as directed by 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 76.
24. The Act extended to all places having separate commission of the peace, and to all rates of the nature of county rates.
25. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that is expedient to amend the laws in being relating to the assessing of county rates:—

It is Enacted,

- I. That from and after the passing of this Act it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace of every county in England, assembled at their General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, or at any adjournment thereof, from time to time, as often as they may deem it necessary, to appoint any number of Justices not exceeding eleven in number nor less than five, to be a committee for the purpose of preparing fair and equal county rates, or of altering and amending such rates from time to time as circumstances may require.
- II. That the committee so appointed shall hold their first meeting after their appointment at such time and place as shall be fixed by the said Court of Quarter Sessions, and their subsequent meetings at such times and places as they shall themselves appoint for carrying this Act into execution; and at every meeting of the said committee, if three or more members thereof are present, they shall be competent to act as fully and effectually as if all the members of the said committee were present.
- III. That such committee may from time to time, as they may see fit, appoint a clerk to assist them in the execution of their duties under the provisions of this Act, and may at any time remove such clerk, and appoint another in his stead.
- IV. That for the purpose of preparing such fair and equal county rates the said committee, by their order in writing, to be signed by their clerk, may from time to time as often as they may deem it necessary, direct the overseers of the poor, constables, assessors, and collectors of public rates of or for any parish, township, or place within the county, and all other persons having the custody or management of any public or parochial rates or valuations of any such parish, township, or place, to make returns in writing to the said committee, at such times and places as they may appoint, of the amount of the full and fair annual value of the whole or of any part of the property within the parish, township, or place liable to be assessed toward the county rate, together with the date of the last valuation for the assessment of such parish, and the name of the surveyor by whom the valuation was made; and the overseers of the poor required to make any such return in respect of any parish, township, or place maintaining its own poor, and the constable or other person required to make any such return in respect of any place not maintaining its own poor, shall, before they present the same to the said committee, lay the same before a vestry meeting of the parish, township, or place for which they act, or where no vestry meeting is held before some other meeting of the inhabitants of such place, if any such there be, at which the public business of such place is commonly transacted.
- V. Declared and enacted, That the property liable to be assessed towards the county rate shall be taken to be the property which in any parish or place maintaining its own poor is liable to be rated to the relief of the poor, or which in any place not maintaining its poor would be liable to be rated for the relief of the poor if such place were a parish.
- VI. Declared and enacted, That for the purposes of assessing any county rate the words "full and fair annual value" shall be taken to mean the net annual value of any property as the same is or may be required by law to be estimated for the purpose of assessing the rates for the relief of the poor.
- VII. That the said committee may from time to time, as often as they may deem it necessary, by their order in writing, signed as aforesaid, require the said overseers of the poor, constables, assessors, collectors, and any other persons whomsoever, to appear before them when and where and as often as the said committee may deem expedient, and to produce all parochial and other rates, assessments, valuations, apportionments, and other documents in their custody or power relating to the value of or assessment on all or any of the property within the several parishes and places aforesaid which may be liable to be assessed toward the county rate, and to be examined on oath, and answer such questions as the said committee may put to them respectively touching the said rates, assessments, valuations, or apportionments, or the value of the property aforesaid; and the said committee shall be authorized and empowered to administer such oath, and to examine the parties upon oath as aforesaid.
- VIII. That every overseer of the poor, constable, assessor, collector, or other person so required to make returns, or to appear as aforesaid, who shall, without any reasonable excuse, neglect to make such returns in writing as aforesaid, or wilfully make any false return, and every person who shall neglect or refuse to appear when required so to do as aforesaid, or to be sworn or examined, or to produce such documents as hereinbefore provided, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding 20*l.*, to be prosecuted and recovered by order of the said committee before any two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace.
- IX. That the said committee may from time to time, and so often as they may think fit, by their order in writing, to be signed as aforesaid, direct that the whole or any part of any parish, township, or place within the county shall be valued, and may appoint one or more person or persons to make such valuation; and the person or persons so appointed may at all reasonable times, and with or without assistants, enter upon, view, examine, survey, and measure all and any lands, houses, or other property within such parish, township, or place liable to be assessed toward the county rate, in order to ascertain the value at which the same ought respectively to be charged.

x. That the said committee from time to time may make such allowances and compensations to their clerk, and to the overseers, constables, collectors, surveyors, or other persons employed in the execution of this Act, as to them shall appear reasonable and proper, which, together with the costs of printing and other expenses necessarily incurred by the said committee in or about the preparing or amending any rate, shall be paid, by an order of the Court of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, out of the county stock.

xi. That if any overseers neglect to make any such return in writing as aforesaid, or wilfully make any false return or statement of the amount of the full and fair annual value of the property within the parish, township, or place liable to be assessed towards the county rate, any Court of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, upon the report of the said committee, may order that the whole of the expenses incurred by the said committee in ascertaining the amount of the full and fair annual value of the same shall be charged upon the parish, township, or place of which the overseers have been guilty of such neglect or misconduct as aforesaid, in addition to the proportion of the county rate to be paid by such parish, township, or place; and such expenses shall be raised, levied, and collected by such and the like ways and means as county rate can or may be raised, levied, and collected, and shall be paid therewith, due distinction being made, in the case of every such additional assessment, between the sum or sums charged for any such expenses and the sum or sums assessed for the county rate.

xii. That when and so soon as the committee appointed as aforesaid have prepared any county rate in which the total amount of the annual value of the property in any parish or place within the county is estimated at a greater or less amount than in the last preceding county rate, they shall cause such rate to be printed in such form as they may think proper, and shall forthwith cause to be sent by the general post or otherwise one copy of the same to every acting Justice of the Peace for the county, and to the overseers of the poor, constables, or other persons charged with the collection or levy of the county rate in every parish and place within such county; and such overseers of the poor, constables, or other persons shall, within twenty-one days after the receipt of such rate, call a vestry meeting of such parish or place, and shall submit the said copy of the said rate to such vestry meeting; and any person rated to the relief of the poor or liable to contribute to the county rate in such parish or place may at all reasonable times inspect and examine the said copy of the said rate, whilst the same remains in the custody of any such overseer, constable, or other person, and take extracts or copies therefrom, without the payment of any fee for the same.

xiii. That, together with the copy of such proposed rate, there shall also be sent by the said committee to the overseers of the poor or constable of every such parish or place, or other person as aforesaid, a notification of a reasonable time, not less than one calendar month, within which any objections to the proposed rate may be forwarded to the said committee by such overseers or constable or other person as aforesaid, or by any person affected by such rate; and the said committee shall fix a time and place when and where such objections will be taken into consideration by the said committee, and for hearing the parties making such objections.

xiv. That when any proposed rate has been finally corrected and approved of by the said committee, they shall lay the same before the Court of General or Quarter Sessions holden next thereafter, and such Court shall thereupon order public notice to be given in one or more of the newspapers usually circulated within the county, that such rate will be taken into consideration at the then next General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace to be held for the said county; and at such General or Quarter Session of the Peace the Court shall proceed to take the same into consideration, and to alter and amend the same as to them may seem proper, and, if they think fit, to allow and confirm the said rate, or, instead of making any alteration in the said rate, or allowing and confirming the same, to refer back the said rate for amendment to the said committee, and to adjourn the consideration thereof to some future General or Quarter Session of the Peace; and in such last-mentioned case the said committee shall have the same powers and authorities for requiring returns and ascertaining the value of property liable to be assessed toward the county rate, in order to the revising or amending of the said rate, as are hereinbefore given to them for preparing the same; and all the clauses and provisions hereinbefore contained for preparing any rate shall be applicable in every respect to the revision or amendment of the same; and any amendment or alteration of such rate by the said committee shall be reported and taken into consideration at the General or Quarter Session of the Peace to which the consideration thereof was adjourned; but before any alteration or amendment of the said rate made by the said committee be allowed or confirmed by the Court of General or Quarter Session of the Peace the said committee shall send at least fourteen days' previous notice thereof, by post or otherwise, to every parish and place with respect to which such alteration or amendment is made.

xv. That when the Court of General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace have so allowed and confirmed any rate, the same shall be taken to be made, and shall be valid, legal, and effectual, to all intents and purposes, notwithstanding any irregularity may have arisen in the making thereof, and notwithstanding the officers of any parish or place may have omitted to make the returns hereinbefore mentioned, subject nevertheless at all times to appeals against the same as hereinafter provided; and the said Court shall cause copies of the said rate to be printed, and shall direct one of such copies to be sent to every acting Justice of the Peace for the county, and one copy to the overseers of the poor, constable, or other person charged with the collection and levy of the county rate in every parish and place within the said county.

xvi. That if at any time after the said rate has been made as aforesaid any overseer or overseers of the poor, constable, or other person charged with the collection and levy of county rate in any parish or place, or other inhabitant or inhabitants thereof, have reason to think that such parish, township, or place is aggrieved by any such rate, whether it be on account of some one or more of them being without sufficient cause omitted altogether from the rate, or on account of such parish, township, or place being rated on a sum beyond the full and fair annual value of the property therein liable to be assessed toward the county rate, or on account of some other parish or parishes, township or townships, place or places, being rated on a sum less than the full and fair annual value of the property therein liable to be assessed toward the county rate, such overseer or overseers of the poor, constable, or other person, or inhabitant or inhabitants, may appeal to the Justices of the Peace for the county, at the General or Quarter Session to be holden next after the Session at which such rate was allowed and confirmed, against such part of the rate only as may affect the parish or parishes, township or townships, place or places which appear to be over-rated or under-rated, or omitted altogether from the rate as aforesaid (subject to the provisions hereinafter contained); and if in any case where any overseer or overseers, constable, or other person as aforesaid, of one parish or place, appeals against the rate on any other parish or place, on account of the same being altogether omitted from such rate, or on account of the same being rated at less than the full and fair annual value thereof as aforesaid, such overseer or overseers, constable, or other person shall give twenty-one days' previous notice in writing of the intention to appeal, and of the cause and matter thereof, to the overseers of the poor, or where there are no such overseers to the constable or other person charged with the collection and levy of county rate in such other parish or place, and if in any case where any such overseer or overseers, constable, or other person appeal against the rate on the ground that any parish, township, or place is rated on a sum beyond the full and fair annual value of the rateable property therein, such overseer or overseers, constable, or other person shall give twenty-one days' notice thereof in writing, with the cause and matter thereof, to the clerk of the peace of the county, the said Justices shall be empowered to hear and determine such appeal in manner by this Act directed, and either to confirm such parts of the rate as have been appealed against, or to correct such inequalities or omissions as shall be proved to exist therein, in such manner as to them the said Justices may appear fair, just, and equitable; but no such rate shall upon any appeal be quashed or destroyed, in regard to any other parish, township, or place, unless in cases where the Justices of the Peace in General or Quarter Sessions assembled, or the major part of them, deem it necessary to proceed to the making of an entire new rate, and where they proceed therein according to the provisions of this Act.

XVII. That it shall be lawful for the Court of General or Quarter Session of the Peace, upon any such appeal, instead of hearing the said appeal, to order, upon the application of the appellant or respondent in such appeal, a survey and valuation of their respective parishes, townships, or places, and shall fix the next or some subsequent session for receiving such survey and valuation, and for hearing and determining the said appeal, and such Court shall also thereupon appoint a proper person or persons to make such survey and valuation; and the person or persons so appointed shall for that purpose have full power, with or without assistants, to enter upon, view, and examine, survey, measure, and value, all and any lands, houses, and property liable to be assessed toward the county rate within the parishes, townships, and places mentioned in such order; and such survey and valuations shall be reported to the General or Quarter Session fixed as aforesaid for receiving the same; and the Court then and there assembled shall hear and determine the said appeal in the manner hereinbefore set forth.

XVIII. That every person who in any manner wilfully resists or obstructs any overseer, collector, surveyor, or other person in the execution of his or their duty under this Act shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 5l., to be prosecuted and recovered before any two or more of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county wherein the offence is committed.

XIX. That all penalties and forfeitures by this Act authorized to be imposed for any offence against the same shall, upon proof and conviction of the offences respectively before any two Justices, as hereinbefore directed, either by the confession of the party offending, or by the oath of any credible witness or witnesses (which oath such Justices are hereby authorized to administer), be levied, together with the costs attending the information, summons, and conviction, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, by warrant under the hands of the Justices before whom the party may have been convicted, or, on proof of such conviction, by a warrant under the hands of any two Justices (which warrant such Justices are hereby empowered and required to grant,) and the overplus (if any), after such penalties and forfeitures, and the charges of such distress and sale, are deducted, shall be returned, upon demand, unto the owner of such goods and chattels; and if upon the return of such warrant it appear that no sufficient distress can be had thereupon, then it shall be lawful for any such Justices as aforesaid, by warrant under their hands, to cause such offender to be committed to the common gaol or house of correction of the county where the offender may be or reside, there to remain without bail or mainprize for any term not exceeding three calendar months, unless such penalties and forfeitures, and all reasonable charges attending the same, be sooner paid and satisfied; and the said penalties and forfeitures, when recovered, shall be paid to the treasurer of the county in which such offence may have been committed or forfeiture incurred, to be applied in aid of the rates of the said county.

XX. That the charges and expenses of and attending any survey and valuation ordered to be made by any Court of Quarter Sessions in such appeal as aforesaid shall be deemed costs in such appeal, and abide the event thereof; and the Court before which any such appeal is heard and determined may order the costs in and about such appeal to be paid by the party, appellant or respondent, as they in their discretion may think fit; but where any appeal is made on the ground that any parish, township, or place is rated on a sum beyond the full and fair annual value of the property therein, if the Court before which such appeal is heard determine in favour of the appellants such Court shall ascertain the costs and charges incurred by such appellants in and about such appeal, and shall order the treasurer of the county rates to pay the same to such appellants out of the public stock of the county in his hands.

XXI. That in any case where any committee appointed as aforesaid have directed the whole or any part of any parish, township, or place to be valued, and where in the rate afterwards allowed and confirmed by any Court of Quarter Session on the report of such committee, such parish, township, or place is rated on a sum greater than the sum set forth in the returns made to such committee by the overseers of the poor, constable, or other person required to make such return in any case not maintaining its own poor, if there be no appeal against the rate on such parish, township, or place at the General Quarter Session holden next after such confirmation or allowance thereof, the Justices of the Peace at such Session shall order the overseers, constable, or other person as aforesaid of such parish, township, or place to pay the amount of the expenses incurred in making such valuation; and in any such case as aforesaid, if there be an appeal to the Justices of the Peace at any General or Quarter Session against the rate, on the ground that such parish, township, or place is rated on a sum beyond the fair annual value of the property therein, and if on such appeal such rate is confirmed as to such parish, township, or place, or if it be not reduced to or below the sums set forth in the returns made to such committee as aforesaid, the Justices of the Peace at such Session shall order the overseers, constable, or other person as aforesaid of such parish, township, or place to pay the amount of the expenses incurred in making the valuation under the direction of the committee; and such expenses shall be raised, levied, and collected by such and the like ways and means as county rate can or may be raised, levied, and collected, and shall be paid therewith, due distinction being made, in the case of every such additional assessment, between the sums charged for or on account of any such expenses and the sum or sums assessed as and for the county rate.

xxii. That all the powers, authorities, provisions, clauses, and regulations contained in any former Act or Acts relating to the assessment, collection and levying of county rates (save and except such parts thereof respectively as are hereby varied, altered, or repealed), shall be good, valid, and effectual for the purposes of assessing, levying, collecting, and enforcing the payment of the rate or rates hereafter to be made in pursuance of this Act, and for carrying this Act into execution.

And after reciting that by 5 & 6 Will. 4. c. 76. it is enacted, that after the grant of a separate Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace to any borough it shall not be lawful to assess any messuages, lands, tenements, or hereditaments within such borough to any county rate thereafter to be made, but every part of every such borough shall thenceforward be wholly free and discharged from contributing otherwise than as thereafter provided to any rate or assessment of any kind of and for the county in which any part of such borough is situated;—

xxiii. That nothing in this Act contained shall extend to render any such borough, or any property situated therein, liable to be assessed or to contribute to county rate, save as in the said recited Act is mentioned and contained.

xxiv. That in the construction of this Act the word "county" shall mean and include any riding or division having a separate commission of the peace, with any liberty, franchise, or other place in which rates in the nature of county rates may be levied, having a separate commission of the peace, and not subject to the jurisdiction of the county or counties at large in which such liberty, franchise, or place may lie, nor contributing or paying to the county rates made for such county or counties at large; and that the words "county rate" shall mean and include every rate or tax assessed in any county for all or any of the purposes to which county rate or stock is or may hereafter be made liable.

xxv. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. CXII.

AN ACT to render the Assignment of satisfied Terms unnecessary.

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. On 31st of December 1845 satisfied terms of years attendant on inheritance, &c. of land, to cease, except, &c.
2. Satisfied terms now subsisting, &c., to cease on becoming attendant upon inheritance, &c. of lands.
3. Construction of Act.
4. Not to extend to Scotland.

By this Act,

After reciting that the assignment of satisfied terms has been found to be attended with great difficulty, delay, and expense, and to operate in many cases to the prejudice of the persons justly entitled to the lands to which they relate;—

It is Enacted,

I. That every satisfied term of years which, either by express declaration or by construction of law, shall upon the 31st of December 1845 be attendant upon the inheritance or reversion of any lands, shall on that day absolutely cease and determine as to the land upon the inheritance or reversion whereof such term shall be attendant as aforesaid, except that every such term of years which shall be so attendant as aforesaid by express declaration, although hereby made to cease and determine, shall afford to every person the same protection against every incumbrance, charge, estate, right, action, suit, claim, and demand as it would have afforded to him if it had continued to subsist, but had not been assigned or dealt with, after the said 31st of December 1845, and shall for the purpose of such protection be considered in every court of law and of equity to be a subsisting term.

II. That every term of years now subsisting or hereafter to be created, becoming satisfied after the said 31st of December 1845, and which, either by express declaration or by construction of law, shall after that day become attendant upon the inheritance or reversion of any lands, shall immediately upon the same becoming so attendant absolutely cease and determine as to the land upon the inheritance or reversion whereof such term shall become attendant as aforesaid.

III. That in the construction and for the purposes of this Act, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction, the word "lands" shall extend to all freehold tenements and hereditaments, whether corporeal or incorporeal, and to all such customary land as will pass by deed, or deed and admittance, and not by surrender, or any other part or share thereof respectively; and every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things as well as one person or thing; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to a female as well as a male.

IV. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland.

CAP. CXIII.

AN ACT to facilitate the Admission in Evidence of certain official and other Documents.

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Certain documents to be received in evidence without proof of seal or signature, &c. of person signing the same.
2. Courts, &c. to take judicial notice of signature or equity of common law Judges, &c.
3. Copies of private Acts printed by Queen's printer, Journals of Parliament, and proclamations, admissible as evidence.
4. Persons forging seal, stamp or signature of certain documents, or print any private Act with false purport, guilty of felony.
5. Not to extend to Scotland.
6. Alteration of Act.
7. Commencement of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is provided by many statutes that various certificates, official and public documents, documents and proceedings of corporations and of joint stock and other companies, and certified copies of documents, bye-laws, entries in registers and other books, shall be receivable in evidence of certain particulars in courts of justice, provided they be respectively authenticated in the manner prescribed by such statutes: And that the beneficial effect of these provisions has been found by experience to be greatly diminished by the difficulty of proving that the said documents are genuine; and it is expedient to facilitate the admission in evidence of such and the like documents;—

It is Enacted,

I. That whenever by any Act now in force or hereafter to be in force any certificate, official or public document, or document or proceeding of any corporation or joint stock or other company, or any certified copy of any document, bye-law, entry in any register or other book, or of any other proceeding, shall be receivable in evidence of any particular in any court of justice or before any legal tribunal, or either House of Parliament, or any committee of either House, or in any judicial proceeding, the same shall respectively be admitted in evidence, provided they respectively purport to be sealed or impressed with a stamp, or sealed and signed, or signed alone, as required, or impressed with a stamp and signed, as directed by the respective Acts made or to be hereafter made, without any proof of the seal or stamp, where a seal or stamp is necessary, or of the signature or of the official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, and without any further proof thereof in every case in which the original record could have been received in evidence.

II. That all Courts, Judges, Justices, Masters in Chancery, Masters of courts, Commissioners judicially acting, and other judicial officers shall henceforth take judicial notice of the signature of any of the equity or common law Judges of the superior courts at Westminster, provided such signature be attached or appended to any decree, order, certificate, or other judicial or official document.

III. That all copies of private and local and personal Acts of Parliament not public Acts, if purporting to be printed by the Queen's printers, and all copies of the journals of either House of Parliament, and of Royal proclamations, purporting to be printed by the printers to the Crown or by the printers to either House of Parliament, or by any or either of them, shall be admitted as evidence thereof by all Courts, Judges, Justices, and others, without any proof being given that such copies were so printed.

IV. Provided and enacted, That if any person shall forge the seal, stamp, or signature of any such certificate, official or public document, or document or proceeding of any corporation or joint stock or other company, or of any certified copy of any document, bye-law, entry in any register or other book, or of any other proceeding as aforesaid, or shall tender in evidence any such certificate, official or public document, or document or proceeding of any corporation or joint stock or other company, or any certified copy of any document, bye-law, entry in any register or other book, or of any other proceeding, with a false or counterfeit seal, stamp, or signature thereto, knowing the same to be false or counterfeit, whether such seal, stamp, or signature be those of or relating to any corporation or company already established, or to any corporation or company to be hereafter established, or if any person shall forge the signature of any such Judge as aforesaid to any order, decree, certificate, or other judicial or official document, or shall tender in evidence any order, decree, certificate, or other judicial or official document with false or counterfeit signature of any such Judge as aforesaid thereto, knowing the same to be false or counterfeit, or if any person shall print any copy of any private Act or of the Journals of either House of Parliament, which copy shall falsely purport to have been printed by the printers to the Crown, or by the printers to either House of Parliament, or by any or either of them, or if any person shall tender in evidence any such copy, knowing that the same was not printed by the person or persons by whom it so purports to have been printed, every such person shall be guilty of felony, and shall upon conviction be liable to transportation for seven years, or to imprisonment for any term not more than three nor less than one year, with hard labour: Provided also, that whenever any such document as before mentioned shall have been received in evidence by virtue of this Act, the Court, Judge, Commissioner, or other person officiating judicially who shall have admitted the same, all, on the request of any party against whom the same is so received, be authorized, at its or at his own discretion, to direct that the same shall be impounded, and be kept in the custody of some officer of the court or other proper person, until further order touching the same shall be given, either by such Court, or the Court to which such Master or other officer belonged, or by the persons or person who constituted such Court, or by some one of the equity or common law Judges of the superior courts at Westminster on application being made for that purpose.

v. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland.

vi. That this Act may be repealed, altered, or amended during this present session of Parliament.

vii. That this Act shall take effect from the 1st of November next after the passing thereof.

CAP. CXIV.

AN ACT for the Abolition of certain Fees in Criminal Proceedings.

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Extending the provisions of the recited Act respecting the discharge of certain prisoners without payment of fees.
2. Certain fees heretofore payable to clerks of assize, &c. out of the county rates to cease.

By this Act,

After reciting the passing of 55 Geo. 3. c. 50, and that doubts have been entertained as to the extent and meaning of the said Act, and it is expedient that the same be explained and amended:—

It is Declared and Enacted,

1. That the provisions of the said Act respecting the discharge of certain prisoners without payment of any fee do and shall extend to all persons who now are or hereafter shall be charged with or indicted for any felony, or as an accessory thereto, or with or for any misdemeanour, before any Court of criminal jurisdiction in England, against whom no bill of indictment shall be found by the grand jury, or who on his, her, or their trial shall be acquitted, or who shall be discharged by proclamation for want of prosecution; and that it is not and shall not be lawful to demand or take from any such persons any fee for their appearance to the indictment or information, or for allowing them to plead thereto, or for recording their appearance or plea, or for discharging any recognizance taken from any such persons, or any surety or sureties for them.

And after reciting that by the said Act it was provided that the clerks of assize, clerks of the peace, or clerks of the court, and their deputies, should receive the amount of the fees theretofore payable to them respectively, which were abolished by the said Act, out of the rates of the county, district, hundred, riding, or division, or out of the public stock of the city, town, corporate, cinque port, liberty, franchise, or place of which they were severally the officers:—

It is Enacted,

11. That no such payment shall be made out of any such rate or stock, in satisfaction of any of the fees abolished by the said Act, to any clerk of assize, clerk of the peace, or clerk of the court appointed after the passing of this Act, or to their or any of their deputies.

CAP. CXVII.

AN ACT to amend the Laws relating to the Removal of poor Persons born in Scotland, Ireland, the Islands of Man, Scilly, Jersey, or Guernsey, and chargeable in England.

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Repeal of 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 5. ss. 1, 2; 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 40; 7 Will. 4. & 1 Vict. c. 10, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 27, and 7 & 8 Vict. c. 11.
2. Provision for removal of natives of Scotland, Ireland, and the isles of Man, Scilly, Jersey, and Guernsey.
3. Persons executing warrants of removal to have the authority of constables.
4. Justices of the Peace to make new regulations for removal of Scottish and Irish poor, &c. to their respective places of birth or residence.
5. Expenses of certain parishes to be repaid out of county rates.
6. Appeals against such removals may be lodged at the instance of boards of guardians in Ireland, and of kirk session, heritors, & borough magistrates in Scotland.
7. The Poor Law Amendment Act and this Act to be construed as one Act.
8. Forms in the Schedule may be used in proceedings under this Act.
9. Alteration of Act.

By this Act,

After reciting that it is expedient that the laws relating to the removal of poor persons born in Scotland or Ireland, or in the islands of Man, Scilly, Jersey, or Guernsey, and not settled in England, but chargeable to parishes in England, should be amended,—

It is Enacted,

- I. That from and after the passing of this Act so much of the following Acts of Parliament, and of all Acts to amend or continue the same, as relates to the removal of such poor persons from the parishes to which they are chargeable, except so far as any of the said Acts may repeal the provisions of any former Act, and except as to all orders made under the same or any of them, and not fully executed at the passing of this Act, shall be and the same is hereby repealed; (namely) 11 Geo. 4. & 1 Will. 4. c. 5, "to repeal the provisions of certain Acts relating to the removal of vagrants and poor persons born in the islands of Jersey and Guernsey, and chargeable to parishes in England, and to make other provisions in lieu thereof;" 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 40, "to repeal certain Acts relating to the removal of poor persons born in Scotland and Ireland, and chargeable to parishes in England, and to make other provisions in lieu thereof until the 1st of May 1836, and to the end of the then next session of Parliament."
- II. That if any person born in Scotland or Ireland, or in the Isle of Man, or Scilly, or Jersey, or Guernsey, not settled in England, become chargeable to any parish in England by reason of relief given to himself or herself, or to his wife, or to any legitimate or bastard child, such person, his wife, and any child so chargeable, shall be liable to be removed respectively to Scotland, Ireland, the Isle of Man, Scilly, Jersey, or Guernsey; and if the guardians of such parish, or of any union in which the same may be comprised, or, where there are no such guardians, if the overseers of such parish, complain thereof to any one Justice of the Peace, such Justice may, if such person do not attend voluntarily, summon him to come before any two Justices of the Peace, at any time and place to be named in the summons; and at such time and place, or on the attendance of such person, any two Justices may hear and examine into the matter of such complaint, and if it be made to appear to their satisfaction that such person is liable to be so removed as aforesaid, and if they see fit, they may make and issue a warrant under their hands and seals to remove such person forthwith at the expense of such union or parish.
- III. That every person to whom any warrant made in pursuance of this Act shall be delivered for the purpose of being carried into execution shall detain and hold in safe custody every poor person mentioned therein, until such poor person have arrived at the place to which he is ordered to be removed, and shall for that purpose, in every county or place through which he may pass in the due execution of such warrant, have and exercise the powers with which a constable is by law invested, notwithstanding such person may not otherwise be empowered to act as a constable for such county or place.
- IV. That the Justice of the Peace of every county shall at some General or Quarter Session of the Peace or some adjournment thereof, and the Justices of the Peace in petty sessions of every borough shall within eight months after the passing of this Act, make regulations for the more effectually carrying into effect the provisions of this Act for the removal of such poor persons, their wives and children, whether by land or sea, or part of the way by land and part by sea; and such Justices may from time to time thereafter, as they may see occasion, make other regulations for the same purpose; and such Justices shall in such regulations provide, so far as may be, for the removing of persons born in Ireland, and their families, to the ports named in the Schedule marked (A.) to this Act annexed which are nearest to the respective places where such persons were born or have resided, unless where any such persons consent to be removed to any other port or place in Ireland, and as regards persons born in Scotland, and their families, to the ports named in the Schedule marked (B.) to this Act annexed which are nearest the respective places where such persons were born or have resided, or to places not being ports, but being as near as such ports to the respective places where such persons were born or have resided, unless where any such persons consent to be removed to any other port or place in Scotland; and such regulations, when approved by one of Her Majesty's principal secretaries of State, shall be observed and carried into effect by all Justices of the Peace, guardians, overseers, constables and other persons charged with or concerned in such removal in such respective county or borough; and until such regulations in any county or borough have been so approved, all rules, orders, regulations, and directions heretofore made for the removal therefrom of persons born in Scotland, Ireland, or the Isles of Man, Scilly, Jersey, or Guernsey, shall continue in force, but no longer.
- V. That in the case of any parish not in union, and not containing a population exceeding 30,000 persons according to the last census published by the authority of Parliament, if the guardians or overseers on whose complaint such warrant of removal was made bring or send to the clerk of the peace of the county or to the town clerk of the borough in which such parish is situate such warrant of removal, accompanied with an affidavit, sworn before some Justice of the Peace of such county or borough, (who shall be authorized to administer the same,) of the amount of the expenses bond fide incurred and paid by such guardians or overseers on account of such removal under such warrant as aforesaid, and also a statement of the several persons comprised in such amount, such clerk of the peace shall lay the same before the Justices of the Peace assembled at the Quarter Session or adjournment thereof holden for such county next after he has received the same, and such town clerk shall lay the same before the council of such borough at their quarterly meeting held next after he has received the same; and the said Justices and Council of such borough respectively shall, if the regulations in force in regard to such removal have been duly complied with, order the amount of such expenses to be paid out of the county rate raised in such county, or out of the borough fund of such borough, as the case may be.
- VI. That if any board of guardians of any union in Ireland, or the heritors and kirk session or borough magistrates in Scotland, think themselves aggrieved by any removal of any poor person under the provisions of this Act, and if they forward the Poor Law Commissioners a statement of the case, and of any grounds for concluding that such poor person is settled in any parish in England, or was not in law liable to be removed to Ireland or Scotland, as the case may be, and if they or such persons on their behalf give good security in England to the said Commissioners for the payment of all costs which may be incurred in any appeal against the warrant for the removal of such poor person, such Commissioners, if satisfied that it will be expedient so to do, may appeal, on behalf of the persons so aggrieved, to the Court of Quarter Sessions holden for the county or borough from which such removal was made, held at any time within six months after such removal was completed; and such commissioners shall, at least twenty-one days before the holding of such session, send by post or otherwise, to the guardians or overseers on whose application such warrant was obtained, notice in writing, purporting to be signed by their secretary or one of their assistant secretaries, of their intention to appeal against such warrant, containing a statement in writing of the ground of such appeal; and such Court of Quarter Sessions shall hear and determine such appeal; and if the warrant of removal is reversed by such Court, the guardians or overseers on whose application the same was obtained shall pay the costs and the necessary expenses and charges incurred by or on account of such board of guardians, or heritors and kirk session or borough magistrates respectively, in conveying the poor person removed under the same back to such parish; and if they refuse or neglect to pay the same within seven days after demand thereof, the persons on whose behalf such appeal was brought, or any person authorized by them, may recover the same as penalties and forfeitures: Provided always, that the said guardians or overseers may at any time after such notice of appeal give or send by post notice in writing under the hands of any two or more of them to the said Commissioners, that they abandon such warrant, and thereupon such warrant shall be of no effect; and such guardians and overseers shall pay to the persons on whose behalf such notice of appeal was given, or to some person authorized by them, the expenses incurred by or on account of such persons by reason of such warrant, and in any proceedings consequent thereon, and the necessary expenses and charges of conveying the person removed under the same back to such parish; and if they do not pay the same within seven days after demand the same may be recovered as penalties and forfeitures.

VII. That the said Act of 5 Will. 4, "for the amendment and better administration of the laws relating to the poor in England and Wales," and all Acts to amend and extend the same, and the present Act, except so far as the provisions of any former Act are altered, amended, or repealed by any subsequent Act, shall be construed as one Act; and that in this Act, or any of the said Acts, the word "county" shall mean and include any county, division of a county, riding, or liberty, having a separate commission of the peace; and that in this Act the word "borough" shall mean any borough having a separate Court of Quarter Sessions.

VIII. That in all proceedings under this Act it shall be sufficient in the law to use, with such changes only as the facts of each case may require, the forms contained in the Schedule marked (C.) to this Act annexed, for the purposes in the titles to such forms respectively specified.

IX. That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

CAP. CXIX.

AN ACT to facilitate the Conveyance of Real Property.

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Where the words of column 1. of the second Schedule are employed, the deed to have the same effect as if the words in column 2. were inserted.
2. Deed to include all houses, &c., and the reversion and all the estate.
3. Stamp duty on deed to be same as on lease, &c. for a year.
4. Remuneration for deed under the Act not to be by length only.
5. Deed failing to take effect by this Act to be as valid as if Act not made.
6. Construction of Act.
7. Schedules, &c. to form part of Act.
8. Commencement of Act.
9. Not to extend to Scotland.

By this ACT,

After reciting that it is expedient to facilitate the sale and conveyance of real property,—

It is Enacted,

i. That whenever any party to any deed, made according to the forms set forth in the first Schedule to this Act, or to any other deed which shall be expressed to be made in pursuance of this Act, or referring thereto, shall employ in any such deed respectively any of the forms of words contained in Column I. of the second Schedule hereto annexed, and distinguished by any number therein, such deed shall be taken to have the same effect and be construed as if such party had inserted in such deed the form of words contained in Column II. of the same schedule, and distinguished by the same number as is annexed to the form of words employed by such party; but it shall not be necessary in any such deed to insert any such number.

ii. That every such deed, unless any exception be specially made therein, shall be held and construed to include all houses, outhouses, edifices, barns, stables, yards, gardens, orchards, commons, trees, woods, underwoods, mounds, fences, hedges, ditches, ways, waters, watercourses, lights, liberties, privileges, easements, profits, commodities, emoluments, hereditaments, and appurtenances whatsoever to the lands therein comprised belonging or in anywise appertaining, or with the same demised, held, used, occupied, and enjoyed, or taken or known as part or parcel thereof, and also the reversion or reversions, remainder and remainders, yearly and other rents, issues, and profits of the same lands, and of every part and parcel thereof, and all the estate, right, title, interest, inheritance, use, trust, property, profit, possession, claim, and demand whatsoever, both at law and in equity, of the grantor, in, to, out of, or upon the same lands and every part and parcel thereof, with their and every of their appurtenances.

iii. That every such deed under this Act shall be chargeable with the stamp duty with which the same would have been chargeable in case it had been a release founded on a lease or bargain and sale for a year, and also with the same stamp duty (exclusive of progressive duty) with which such lease or bargain and sale for a year would have been chargeable.

iv. That in taxing any bill for preparing and executing any deed under this Act it shall be lawful for the taxing officer, and he is hereby required, in estimating the proper sum to be charged for such transaction, to consider not the length of such deed, but only the skill and labour employed and responsibility incurred in the preparation thereof.

v. That any deed or part of a deed which shall fail to take effect by virtue of this Act shall nevertheless be as valid and effectual, and shall bind the parties thereto, so far as the rules of law and equity will permit, as if this Act had not been made.

vi. That in the construction and for the purposes of this Act and the schedules hereto annexed, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction, the word "lands" shall extend to all freehold tenements and hereditaments, whether corporeal or incorporeal, and to such customary land as will pass by deed, or deed and admittance, and not by surrender, or any undivided part or share therein respectively; and every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things as well as one person or thing, and the converse; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to a female as well as a male; and the word "party" shall mean and include any body politic or corporate or collegiate as well as an individual.

VII. That the schedules, and the directions and forms therein contained, shall be deemed and taken to be parts of this Act.

VIII. That the Act shall commence and take effect from and after the 1st of October next.

IX. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland.

SCHEDULES to which this Act refers.

AN ACT to facilitate the granting of certain Leases.

(8th August 1845.)

ABSTRACT OF THE ENACTMENTS.

1. Where the words of Column I. of the second Schedule employed, the deed to have the same effect as if words of Column 2 were inserted.
2. Deed to include all houses, &c.
3. Remuneration for deed under the Act not to be by length only.
4. Deed failing to take effect by this Act to be as valid as if Act not made.
5. Construction clause.
6. Schedules, &c. part of Act.
7. Commencement of Act.
8. Act not to extend to Scotland.

By this ACT,

After reciting that it is expedient to facilitate the leasing of lands and tenements,—

It is Enacted,

I. That whenever any party to any deed made according to the forms set forth in the first Schedule to this Act or to any other deed which shall be expressed to be made in pursuance of this Act, shall employ in such deed respectively any of the forms of words contained in Column I. of the second Schedule hereto annexed, and distinguished by any number therein, such deed shall be taken to have the same effect and be construed as if such party had inserted in such deed the form of words contained in Column II. of the same Schedule, and distinguished by the same number as is annexed to the form of words employed by such party; but it shall not be necessary in any such deed to insert any such number.

II. That every such deed, unless any exception be specially made therein, shall be held and construed to include all out-houses, buildings, barns, stables, yards, gardens, cellars, ancient and other lights, paths, passages, ways, waters, watercourses, liberties, privileges, easements, profits, commodities, emoluments, hereditaments, and appurtenances whatsoever, to the lands and tenements therein comprised belonging or in anywise appertaining.

III. That in taxing any bill for preparing and executing any deed under this Act it shall be lawful for the taxing officer and he is hereby required, in estimating the proper sum to be charged for such transaction, to consider, not the length of such deed, but only the skill and labour employed, and responsibility incurred, in the preparation thereof.

IV. That any deed or part of a deed which shall fail to take effect by virtue of this Act shall nevertheless be as valid and effectual, and shall bind the parties thereto, so far as the rules of law and equity will permit, as if this Act had not been made.

V. That in the construction and for the purposes of this Act, and the Schedules hereto annexed, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction, the word "Lands" shall extend to all tenements and hereditaments of freehold tenure, and to such customary lands as will pass by deed, or deed and surrender, and not by surrender alone, or any undivided part or share therein respectively; and every word importing the singular number only shall extend and be applied to several persons or things as well as one person or thing, and the converse; and every word importing the masculine gender only shall extend and be applied to a female as well as a male; and the word "party" shall mean and include any body politic or corporate or collegiate, as well as an individual.

VI. That the Schedules, and the directions and forms therein contained, shall be deemed and taken to be parts of this Act.

VII. That this Act shall commence and take effect from and after the 1st of October.

VIII. That this Act shall not extend to Scotland.

4. Such Parties may introduce into or annex to any of the Forms in the First Column any express Exceptions from or express Qualifications thereof respectively, and the like Exceptions or Qualifications shall be taken to be made from or in the corresponding Forms in the Second Column.

5. Where the Premises demised shall be of Freehold Tenure the Covenants 1. to 10. shall be taken to be made with and the Proviso 11. to apply to the Heirs and Assigns of the Lessor, and where the Premises demised shall be of Leasehold Tenure the Covenants and Proviso shall be taken to be made with and apply to the Lessor, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns.

COLUMN I.

1. That the said [Lessee] covenants with the said [Lessor] to pay Rent;

2. and to pay Taxes;

3. and to repair;

4. and to paint outside every Year;

5. and to paint and paper inside every Year;

COLUMN II.

1. And the said Lessee doth hereby, for himself, his Heirs, Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, covenant with the said Lessor, that he the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, will during the said Term pay unto the said Lessor the Rent hereby reserved, in manner hereinbefore mentioned, without any Deduction whatsoever.

2. And also will pay all Taxes, Rates, Duties, and Assessments whatsoever, whether parochial, parliamentary, or otherwise, now charged or hereafter to be charged upon the said demised Premises, or upon the said Lessor, on account thereof (excepting Land Tax, and excepting, in Ireland, Tithe Rent-charge and such Portion of the Poor Rate as the Lessor is or may be liable to pay, and excepting also all Taxes, Rates, Duties, and Assessments whatsoever, or any Portion thereof, which the Lessee is or may be by Law exempted from).

3. And also will during the said Term well and sufficiently repair, maintain, pave, empty, cleanse, amend, and keep the said demised Premises, with the Appurtenances, in good and substantial Repair, together with all Chimney Pieces, Windows, Doors, Fastenings, Water Closets, Cisterns, fixed Presses, Shelves, Pipes, Pumps, Pales, Rails, Locks, and Keys, and all other Fixtures and Things which at any Time during the said Term shall be erected and made, when, where, and so often as Need shall be.

4. And also that the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, will in every Year in the said Term paint all the outside Wood-work and Iron-work belonging to the said Premises, with Two Coats of proper Oil Colours, in a workmanlike Manner.

5. And also that the said [Lessee], his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, will in every Year paint the inside Wood, Iron, and other Works now or usually painted with Two Coats of proper Oil Colours in a workmanlike Manner; and also re-paper with Paper of a Quality as at present, such Parts of the Premises as are now papered; and also wash, stop, whiten, or colour such Parts of the said Premises as are now plastered.

COLUMN I.

6. and to insure from Fire in the joint Names of the said [Lessor] and the said [Lessee];

to shew Receipts;

and to rebuild in case of Fire.

7. And that the said [Lessor] may enter and view State of Repair, and that the said [Lessee] will repair according to Notice.

8. That the said [Lessee] will not use Premises as a Shop.

9. And will not assign without Leave.

10. And that he will leave Premises in good Repair.

11. Proviso for Re-entry by the said Lessor on Non-payment of Rent or Non-performance of Covenants.

12. The said [Lessor] covenants with the said [Lessee] for quiet Enjoyment.

COLUMN II.

6. And also that the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, will forthwith insure the said Premises hereby demised to the full Value thereof, in some respectable Insurance Office, in the joint Names of the said Lessor, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, and the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, or Assigns, and keep the same so insured during the said Term; and will, upon the Request of the said Lessor, or his Agent, shew the Receipt for the last Premium paid for such Insurance for every current Year; and as often as the said Premises hereby demised shall be burnt down or damaged by Fire, all and every the Sums or Sum of Money which shall be recovered or received by the said [Lessee], his Executors, Administrators, or Assigns, for or in respect of such Insurance, shall be laid out and expended by him in building or repairing the said demised Premises, or such Parts thereof as shall be burnt down or damaged by Fire as aforesaid.

7. And it is hereby agreed, that it shall be lawful for the said Lessor, and his Agents, at all seasonable Times during the said Term, to enter the said demised Premises to take a Schedule of the Fixtures and Things made and erected thereupon, and to examine the Condition of the said Premises; and further, that all Wants of Reparation which upon such Views shall be found, and for the Amendment of which Notice in Writing shall be left at the Premises, the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, will, within Three Calendar Months next after every such Notice, well and sufficiently repair and make good accordingly.

8. And also that the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, will not convert, use, or occupy the said Premises or any Part thereof into or as a Shop, Warehouse, or other Place for carrying on any Trade or Business whatsoever, or suffer the said Premises to be used for any such Purpose, or otherwise than as a private dwelling-house, without the Consent in Writing of the said Lessor.

9. And also that the said [Lessee] shall not nor will during the said Term assign, transfer, or set over, or otherwise by any Act or Deed procure the said Premises or any of them to be assigned, transferred, or set over, unto any Person or Persons whomsoever, without the Consent in Writing of the said [Lessor], his Executors, Administrators, or Assigns, first had and obtained.

10. And further, that the said [Lessee] will, at the Expiration or other sooner Determination of the said Term, peaceably surrender and yield up unto the said Lessor the said Premises hereby demised, with the Appurtenances, together with all Buildings, Erections and Fixtures now or hereafter to be built or erected thereon, in good and substantial Repair and Condition in all respects, reasonable Wear and Tear, and Damage by Fire, only excepted.

11. Provided always, and it is expressly agreed, that if the Rent hereby reserved, or any Part thereof, shall be unpaid for Fifteen Days after any of the Days on which the same ought to have been paid (although no formal Demand shall have been made thereof), or in case of the Breach or Non-performance of any of the Covenants and Agreements herein contained on the Part of the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, then and in either of such Cases it shall be lawful for the said Lessor, at any Time thereafter, into and upon the said demised Premises, or any Part thereof in the Name of the whole, to re-enter, and the same to have again, re-possess, and enjoy as of his or their former Estate, anything hereinafter contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

12. And the Lessor doth hereby, for himself, his Heirs, Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, covenant with the said Lessee, his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, that he and they, paying the Rent hereby reserved, and performing the Covenants hereinbefore on his and their Part contained, shall and may peaceably possess and enjoy the said demised Premises for the Term hereby granted, without any Interruption or Disturbance from the said Lessor, his Executors, Administrators, or Assigns, or any other Person or Persons lawfully claiming by, from, or under him, them, or any of them.

By this ACT,

After reciting that it is expedient and just to give creditors a further remedy for the recovery of debts due to them:—

It is Enacted,

1. That if any person is or shall be indebted to any other in a sum not exceeding 20l. besides costs of suit, by force of any judgment obtained, or of any order for the payment thereof or of any costs in any court, which judgment or order shall have been obtained from any Court of competent jurisdiction in England, it shall be lawful for the creditor so having obtained a judgment or order to obtain a summons from any Commissioner of the Court of Bankruptcy for the district in which such debtor shall reside or be, or from any court of requests or conscience, or inferior court of record for the recovery of debts, or other court for the recovery of small debts, within the jurisdiction of which such debtor shall reside or be, having Judge who shall be either a barrister at law, special pleader, or an attorney who shall have practised as an attorney for not less than ten years in one of Her Majesty's superior courts of common law at Westminster, which summons such Commissioner of the Court of Bankruptcy or such Court shall be authorized and required to grant, according to the form in Schedule (A.) hereunto annexed, upon the application of such creditor by any petition or note in writing, according to the form in Schedule (B.) hereunto annexed; and the debtor, appearing before such Commissioner or Court at the time to be appointed in such summons, shall be examined by the said Commissioner or Court, and shall, if the creditor think fit, be interrogated before the Commissioner or Court by the creditor summoning him, touching the manner and time of his contracting his debt, the means or prospect of payment he then had, the property or means of payment he still hath or may have, the disposal he may have made of any property since contracting such debt; and such creditor shall also, if such Commissioner or Court shall think fit, be examined by the said Commissioner or Court touching his claim against the said debtor, and shall, if the debtor think fit, be interrogated before such Commissioner or Court by the said debtor touching the said claim against him; and it shall be lawful for such Commissioner or Court to make an order on the said debtor for the payment of his debt by instalments otherwise; and in case such debtor shall not attend as required by the said summons, and shall not allege a sufficient cause for not attending, or shall if attending refuse to disclose his property, or his transactions respecting the same, or respecting the contracting of the debt, or shall not make answer thereof to the satisfaction of the Commissioner or Court, or shall appear to such Commissioner or Court to have been guilty of fraud in contracting the debt, or of having wilfully concealed it without reasonable prospect of being able to pay it, or of having concealed or made away with his property in order to defraud his creditors, or if he appears to have the means of paying the same by instalments or otherwise, and shall not pay the same at such times as the Commissioner or Court shall order, or as the Court shall have ordered in which the original judgment shall have been obtained or order made, then in any of the said cases it shall be lawful for such Commissioner or the Judge of such court to order such debtor to be committed, for any time not exceeding forty days, to the common gaol wherein the debtors under judgment and in execution of the superior courts of justice may be confined within the county, city, borough, or place in which such debtor shall be resident, or to any other gaol or debtors prison within the same county, city, borough, or place which shall by any declaration of one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State be allowed as a place of imprisonment under this Act, so long as such declaration shall remain in force and unrevoked.

II. That every bailiff and messenger to whom any such order shall be issued, or who shall be acting as an officer of the high bailiff of Westminster or Southwark in the execution of any such order issued to such high bailiff, shall be thereby empowered to take the body of the person against whom such order shall be made, and all constables and other peace officers within their several jurisdictions shall aid in the execution of every such order; and no protection, or interim or other order issuing out of any Court of Bankruptcy or for the relief of insolvent debtors, nor any certificate obtained after such order for imprisonment under this Act, shall be available to any debtor imprisoned under such order as aforesaid.

III. And it is declared and enacted, That no imprisonment under this Act shall in anywise operate as satisfaction or extinguishment of any debt or demand; but any person imprisoned under this Act, who shall have paid or satisfied the debt or demand, or the instalments thereof payable, and costs remaining due at the time of the order of imprisonment being made, and all subsequent costs, shall, upon entry of such payment indorsed on the order of imprisonment, signed by the plaintiff or his attorney, be discharged out of custody by leave of a Commissioner or Judge of the court in which the order of imprisonment was made.

IV. That the Judge of every court of requests or conscience, and of every inferior court of record for the recovery of debts, and of every other court for the recovery of small debts, of which the Judge is a barrister at law or special pleader, or an attorney of ten years' standing of one of Her Majesty's superior courts of common law at Westminster, in which court proceedings shall be had for the recovery of any debt or demand within the jurisdiction of the said court, shall have the like powers, in the suit instituted for recovery of such debt or demand, of examining the parties to the suit, and, upon occasion of pronouncing judgment therein, if judgment be given for the plaintiff, shall have the like powers of further examining the parties, and, in the several cases hereinbefore specified, of committing the defendant to prison, which he might exercise under the provision hereinbefore contained, if judgment for such debt or demand had been obtained in his court, and the judgment creditor had obtained a summons for such defendant from the same court under this Act; and all the provisions of this Act shall be deemed to apply to such case as if such summons had been obtained.

V. Provided and enacted, That in any city, town, or district wherein there are several courts for the recovery of small debts, neither of the said Courts shall have any power under this Act in respect of any debt which shall have been sued for in the other of the said courts in the same city, town, or district, unless such other of the said Courts shall not have a Judge qualified as hereinbefore specified.

VI. And it is declared and enacted, That in making application to any Commissioner or Court as aforesaid, or taking any proceedings under this Act, or under the Act of the last session of Parliament, intituled 'An Act to amend the Law of Insolvency, Bankruptcy, and Execution,' or under 5 & 6 Vict. c. 116, intituled 'An Act for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors,' it shall not be requisite for any party, whether creditor or debtor, to employ either counsel or attorney or solicitor.

VII. That any affidavit of any prisoner in any of Her Majesty's prisons or gaols in England to be used in matters of bankruptcy or insolvency, or under or by virtue of any statute relating to bankrupts or insolvent debtors, or of this Act, may be sworn before the visiting or other Justice, or if within twelve hours none such shall attend, then by the principal keeper or gaoler of such prisons or gaols respectively, and they and he shall be respectively authorized and required to administer the oath upon any such affidavit or affidavits.

And after reciting that it is expedient to protect the actual necessities of or belonging to judgment debtors from being seized in execution:—

It is Enacted,

VIII. That from and after the passing of this Act the wearing apparel and bedding of any judgment debtor or his family, and the tools and implements of his trade, the value of such apparel, bedding, tools, and implements not exceeding in the whole the value of 5*l.*, shall not be liable to seizure under any execution or order of any Court against his goods and chattels.

IX. That it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, with the advice of Her Privy Council, to enlarge the jurisdiction of any such court of requests or conscience, or inferior court of record for the recovery of debts, or other court for the recovery of small debts, to all debts and demands, whether on balance of account or otherwise, or damage arising out of any express or implied agreement, not exceeding 20*l.*, and in such cases as Her Majesty, with the advice aforesaid, may think fit, to enlarge the district of any such court, or, where any part of the district of such court is comprised within the jurisdiction of any other like court, to contract the same, and also to make any alteration or regulation for the holding or sitting of any such Court both as to time and place, anything in any Act constituting any such court to the contrary notwithstanding; and all powers and authorities now vested in any such court, the jurisdiction or district whereof shall be so enlarged, or the district whereof shall be so contracted, shall apply and extend to the jurisdiction or district given or limited under the powers of this Act, and that as fully as if such jurisdiction or district had been given by the Act or Acts establishing or regulating such court and its proceedings; provided always, that no such order shall take effect in respect of any court which shall not have a Judge who is either a barrister at law, or special pleader, or an attorney of one of Her Majesty's superior courts of common law at Westminster who shall have practised as an attorney for at least ten years; and in any court in which there shall be no Judge qualified as aforesaid the person or persons to whom the appointment of Judge, or, if there be no Judge, to whom the appointment of any clerk of the court, belongs, or the majority of such persons, who shall be present at a meeting called for the purpose, shall within three calendar months next after the making of any such order, and also within three calendar months next after any vacancy of the said office of Judge, appoint a Judge, qualified as aforesaid, subject to the approval of Her Majesty, to be signified under the royal sign manual; and in default of any such appointment as aforesaid it shall be lawful for Her Majesty to appoint a Judge, qualified as hereinbefore provided, for the court in which such default shall have been made; provided always, that no Judge, clerk, or officer of any court whose emoluments shall be increased under this Act, nor any person or persons whose franchise or right of appointment to any office in any court shall become more valuable under this Act, shall be entitled to any compensation for any such increase of emoluments, or increased value of any such franchise or right of appointment, if the same, or the value of the same, shall be diminished or taken away by any alteration in the constitution of the said Court, or otherwise, by Act of Parliament: Provided also, that notice of the intention of Her Majesty, with the advice of Her Privy Council, to take into consideration the expediency of making any such order, and of the time when the same will be considered, shall be given in the London Gazette one calendar month at least before the same shall be so considered.

x. That every Judge of any such court of requests or conscience, or inferior court of record for the recovery of debts, or other Court for the recovery of small debts, shall be removable by the Lord Chancellor for misbehaviour or incapacity.

xI. That in all cases of debts and demands which were not within the jurisdiction of the Court before the passing of this Act, and also whenever the number of Commissioners present at any court shall not be sufficient for the trial of causes according to the constitution of the court before the passing of this Act, the Judge shall act alone, with all the powers of the Court, and shall determine all questions, as well of fact as of law, in the causes which shall be brought before him.

xII. That in all cases of illness or unavoidable absence, the cause whereof shall be entered in the minutes of the Court, it shall be lawful for the Judge, or, in case of the inability of the Judge, for the Commissioners, or the person or persons to whom the appointment of the Judge belongs, to appoint a deputy, qualified as is hereinbefore provided in the case of the Judge, to act for him during such illness or unavoidable absence; and it shall also be lawful for the Judge, with the approval of the person or persons to whom the appointment of Judge belongs, and of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, to appoint a deputy, qualified as aforesaid, to act for him for any time or times not exceeding in the whole one calendar month in any consecutive period of twelve calendar months; and any deputy so appointed, while acting under such appointment, shall have all the powers and perform all the duties of such Judge: Provided always, that, independently of the power herein contained, every Judge shall have the same power of appointing a deputy or deputies to hold his court for all cases of debts and demands within the jurisdiction of the Court as it was constituted before the passing of this Act which he has under the Act or Acts according to which the court is now constituted, and that such deputy or deputies, if qualified as is hereinbefore provided in the case of the Judge or in the case of any deputy appointed before the passing of this Act, if approved by one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, shall have in all cases within the extended jurisdiction of the Court the powers and privileges, and be subject to the same liabilities, and perform all the duties of such Judge while acting under such appointment.

xIII. That, until Parliament shall otherwise direct, the execution of all process issuing out of any of the last-mentioned courts, the jurisdiction of which shall include the city and liberty of Westminster or any part thereof, shall belong to the high bailiff of Westminster, and out of any court the jurisdiction of which shall include the borough of Southwark, or any part thereof, shall belong to the high bailiff of Southwark.

xIV. That the Judge of any such court, the jurisdiction or district whereof shall be extended under the powers of this Act, shall, subject to the approval of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, frame a table of fees to be payable by the suitors of such court or courts in respect of every proceeding therein; and a table of such fees shall be put in some conspicuous place in the court house and in the clerk's office; and the fees on every proceeding shall be paid, in the first instance, by the plaintiff or party on whose behalf such proceeding is to be had, on or before such proceeding; and all such fees shall be received by the clerk or clerks of such court, who shall account to the other officers of such court for the amount or proportion thereof which shall be payable to them respectively, and shall also in the month of March in every year render to one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State an account of all such fees which shall have been received in the year ending on the last day of December then next preceding: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Secretary of State to lessen the amount of the fees to be taken in any one or more of the courts the jurisdiction or district whereof shall be extended as aforesaid, in such manner as to him shall seem fit, and again to increase such fees, so that the scale of fees given in the Schedule to this Act marked (C.) be not in any case surpassed: Provided also, that in all cases where any Judge, clerk, or other officer of any such court shall have been paid by salary instead of fees, such Judge, clerk, or other officer shall continue to receive such salary in respect of the business now within the jurisdiction of such court, and, in respect of the business under the powers of this Act, such fees applicable thereto as are set out in the said Schedule (C.), or such additional salary instead of such fees as the Secretary of State shall direct; and all sums payable in the name of fees to any such Judge, clerk, or other officer, over and above the amount of such salary, shall be applicable for such purposes and in the manner prescribed by the Act or Acts of Parliament under which such Court is constituted; and that in awarding compensation to any Judge, clerk, or officer of any such court under the provisions of the said Act of the last session of Parliament, account shall be taken of the fees and emoluments to which he shall become entitled under this Act, and any increase of his fees and emoluments under this Act shall go in diminution of the amount to be awarded to him for such compensation.

xV. That the registrars of the Court of Bankruptcy shall be entitled to take the fees on every proceeding had under this Act before or under the authority of any Commissioner of the Court of Bankruptcy in his district which are specified in the Schedule marked (D.) hereunto annexed, and the messengers and ushers of the Court of Bankruptcy shall be severally entitled to have the same fees which are provided as the bailiffs and serjeants fees in the Schedule (C.) hereunto annexed, subject to such alterations as may be made in the said several fees by the Court of Bankruptcy, so as not to exceed the scales fees herein provided.

xvi. Provided and enacted, That nothing hereinbefore contained shall extend to or affect any fees or salary payable by virtue of any existing Act or Acts for business or proceedings in any Court for the recovery of small debts, except such business or proceedings as shall be had under or by virtue of this Act; but it shall be lawful for the Judge of any court, with the approval of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, to alter the fees receivable under the Act or Acts under which his court is now constituted, but not so as to exceed the scale of fees given by such Act or Acts respectively.

xvii. That for raising a fund for providing a court house and offices for any court of requests, or other court for the recovery of small debts, and for other purposes hereinafter mentioned, the clerk or clerks of any such court in which and while it shall be necessary to raise such fund shall demand and receive from the plaintiff in every suit brought in that court, before he shall issue any summons in that suit, the sum of 6*d.* when the debt or damage claimed shall not exceed 20*s.*, and for every claim exceeding 20*s.* one fortieth part thereof (neglecting any sum less than 3*d.* in estimating such fortieth part), or other such sum, in either case not exceeding the rates hereinbefore mentioned, as the Secretary of State from time to time shall order, which sum shall be paid in all cases in the first instance by the plaintiff upon suit brought in such court, and shall be considered as costs in the cause; and the clerk or clerks of the court shall keep an account of all monies so paid to him or them, and shall account for the same to the Judge of such court for the time being, and the amount thereof shall accumulate, to form a general fund for such court, and shall be applied in providing a court house and offices, or in defraying the rent and taxes, stationery, and other necessary expenses of holding and carrying on the business of such court, in such manner as the Court for the time being, with the approval of the Secretary of State, shall direct.

xviii. That either of the parties to the suit or any other proceeding before any such Commissioner or in any such court may obtain summonses to witnesses, to be served by a messenger or bailiff, with or without a clause requiring the production of books and writings in their possession or controul, and in any such summons any number of names may be inserted; and every person on whom any such summons shall be personally served within the jurisdiction of the Court, and to whom at the same time payment or tender of his expenses shall have been made, on such scale of allowance as shall be from time to time settled by the Court of Bankruptcy or Judge of any such Court as aforesaid, as the case may be, with the approval of one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and who shall refuse or neglect, without sufficient cause, to appear, or to produce any books or writings required by such summons to be produced, and also every person present in court who shall be required to give evidence, and who shall refuse to be sworn and give evidence, shall forfeit and pay such fine not exceeding 5*l.* as the Commissioner or Judge shall set on him, and payment of such fine shall be enforced in like manner as payment of any debt recovered by judgment of any Court of competent jurisdiction; and the whole or any part of such fine, in the discretion of the Judge, after deducting the costs, shall be applicable toward indemnifying the party injured by such refusal or neglect, and the remainder thereof shall be applicable to the expenses of the court in which the fine was imposed.

xix. That the clerk or clerks of every such Court shall in the month of March in each year make out a correct list of all sums of money belonging to suitors in the court which shall have been paid into court, and which shall have remained unclaimed for the space of twelve calendar months before the first day of the month of January, specifying the names of the parties for whom or on whose account the same were so paid into court; and a copy of such list shall be put up and remain during court hours in some conspicuous part of the court house, and at all times in the clerk's office.

xx. That all sums of money which shall have been paid into any such court to the use of any suitor or suitors thereof, and which shall have remained unclaimed for the period of six years before the passing of this Act, and which are now in the hands of any commissioner, trustee, Judge, or officer of such court, or otherwise held in trust for such suitors, and all further sums of money which shall hereafter be paid into any such court to the use of any suitor or suitors thereof, shall, if unclaimed, for the period of six years after the same shall have been so paid into court, vest in and belong to the Judge or Judge and Commissioners of such court for the time being, in trust for the general purposes of such court, and shall form a general fund, for the payment of all debts due on behalf of the court, and the necessary expenses of holding or carrying on the business of such court.

xxi. That any suit to be instituted in any such court, wherein the claim or demand shall exceed the sum of 10*l.*, shall be removable by certiorari or otherwise into any of Her Majesty's superior courts of common law at Westminster, or into the Court of Common Pleas at Lancaster, by leave of a Judge of any one of the said Courts, and upon such terms as he shall order.

xxii. That in all cases where final judgment shall have been obtained in any such court, and a warrant or execution shall have issued against the goods and chattels of the defendant, or an order for his commitment shall have been made, under this Act, and the defendant, or his goods and chattels, shall be out of the jurisdiction of such court, it shall be lawful for the officer charged with such warrant, execution, or order of commitment to apply to any Justice of the Peace acting for any county, division, or place in which the defendant, or his goods and chattels, shall then be, upon proof being made upon oath (which oath such Justice shall be empowered to administer) that the person or goods and chattels of such defendant is or are believed to be within the county, division, or place where such Justice of the Peace shall act, such Justice of the Peace shall sign or indorse his name upon the said warrant, execution or order of commitment, and thereupon the said officer charged therewith shall take and seize the person or the goods and chattels of the defendant, wheresoever the same shall be found within the county, division, or place for which such Justice of the Peace shall act, and all constables and other peace officers shall be aiding and assisting within their respective districts in the execution of the said warrants, executions, or orders.

xxiii. And it is declared and enacted, That all the enactments of the said Act of the last session of Parliament, and of the several Acts under which the said several courts are now held or constituted, shall within their several districts be deemed to apply to every proceeding under this Act, so far as the same are applicable, and not repugnant to the provisions of this Act.

xxiv. That in the construction of this Act the word "Judge" shall be construed to include every person, being either a barrister at law or a special pleader, or an attorney of one of Her Majesty's superior courts of common law at Westminster who shall have practised as an attorney for at least ten years in one of Her Majesty's superior courts of common law at West-minister, who, according to the constitution of the court, presides in any such court as aforesaid, or acts as Judge or assessor therein, whether by the title of Judge, or barrister, or county clerk, assessor, or steward or deputy steward, or by any other style or title whatsoever; and the word "person" shall include a body corporate; and every word importing the singular number or masculine gender shall include also several persons or things, and females as well as males, unless the context shall require another construction.

xxv. That this Act shall apply only to England.

THE LAW JOURNAL REPORTS.

---

For the information of those who are desirous of taking in THE LAW JOURNAL REPORTS, the following statement of the contents of the work, mode of publication, and price, is given.

The LAW JOURNAL REPORTS for the year 1846, will contain—

The Reports of Four Terms in the COURTS OF CHANCERY, QUEEN'S BENCH, COMMON PLEAS (including decisions on appeal from the Revising Barristers' Courts,) EXCHEQUER OF PLEAS, EXCHEQUER CHAMBER, and the BAIL COURT, and the COURT OF REVIEW IN BANKRUPTCY; with a separate arrangement of CASES connected with the Office and Duties of MAGISTRATES decided in the three Common Law Courts; NOTES of the DECISIONS on Writs of Error to the HOUSE OF LORDS; an ABRIDGMENT OF THE STATUTES passed during the ensuing Session of Parliament; and a Monthly BANKRUPT List, and Index for the year.

The Reports of each Court are printed so as to form separate sections for binding consecutively; and the CHANCERY AND BANKRUPTCY and COMMON LAW Cases may be bound in distinct volumes, separate Title-Pages and Indexes being supplied for that purpose.

A Number or Part is published on the first day of every month, commencing on the 1st of January, and ending on the 1st of December. Three Double Numbers are published in the course of the year. The price of each Single Number is 5s., and of each Double Number 10s. The work is published at the Law Journal Office, No. 5, Quality Court, Chancery Lane, and may be had from the commencement in 1823, or any subsequent year. The New Series began in 1832.
